I was to dine with the Maunerings that night and had barely time to get her home to dress. On the road to Elysium hill I overheard two men talking together in the dusk. "It's a curious thing," said one, "how completely all trace of it disappeared. You know my wife was intensely fond of the woman—never could see anything in her myself—and wanted me to pick up her old rickshaw and cushion if they were to be got for love or money. Morbid sort of fancy I call it, but I've got to do what the memsahib tells me. Would you believe that the man she hired it from tells me that all four of the men—they were brothers—died of cholera on the way to Hardwar, poor devils, and the rickshaw has been broken up by the man himself? Told me he never need a dead memsahib's rickshaw. Spoiled his luck. Queer notion, wasn't it? Fancy poor little Mrs. Wessington spoiling any one's luck except her own?" I laughed aloud at this point, and my laugh jarred on me as I uttered it. So there were ghosts of rickshaws, after all, and ghostly employments in the other world! How much did Mrs. Wessington give her men? What were their hours? Where did they go?

And for visible answer to my last question I saw the infernal thing blocking my path in the twilight. The dead travel fast and by short cuts unknown to ordinary coolies. I laughed aloud a second time and checked my laughter suddenly, for I was afraid I was going mad. Mad to a certain extent I must have been, for I recollect that I reined in my horse at the head of the rickshaw and politely wished Mrs. Wessington "Good evening." Her answer was the merest only too well. I listened to the end and replied that I had heard it all before, but should be delighted if she had anything further to say. Some malignant devil stronger than I must have entered into me that evening, for I have a dim recollection of talking the top commonplaces of the day for five minutes to the thing in front of me.

"Mad as a hatter, poor devil, or drunk! Max, try and get him to come home."

Surely that was not Mrs. Wessington's voice! The two men had overheard me speaking to the empty air and had returned to look after me. They were very kind and considerate, and from their words evidently gathered that I was extremely drunk. I thanked them confusedly and cantered away to my hotel, there changed and arrived at the Manerings' ten minutes late. I pleaded the dizziness of the night as an excuse, was rebuked by Kitty for my unlovelike tardiness and sat down.

The conversation had already become general, and under cover of it I was addressing some tender small talk to my sweetheart when I was aware that at the farther end of the table a short, red whiskered man was describing, with much lividity, his encounter with a mad unknown that evening.

A few sentences convinced me that he was repeating the incident of half an hour ago. In the middle of the story he looked round for applause, as professional story tellers do, caught my eye and straightway collapsed. There was a moment's awkward silence, and the red whiskered man muttered something to the effect that he had "forgotten the rest," thereby sacrificing a reputation as a good story teller which he had built up for six seasons past. I blessed him from the bottom of my heart and—went on with my fish.

In the fullness of time that dinner came to an end, and with genuine regret I tore myself away from Kitty, as certain as I was of my own existence that it would be awaiting for me outside the door. The red whiskered man, who had been introduced to me as Dr Heatherleigh of Simla, volunteered to bear me company as far as our roads lay together. I accepted his offer with gratitude.

My instinct had not deceived me. It lay in readiness in the mall and in what seemed devilish mockery of our ways, with a lighted head lamp. The red whiskered man went to the point at once in a manner that showed he had been thinking over it all dinner time.

"I say, Pansey, what the deuce was the matter with you this evening on the Boileauguge road?" The suddenness of the question wrenched an answer from me before I was aware.

"That!" said I, pointing to it.

"That may be either D. T. or eyes for aught I know. Now you don't liquor. I saw as much at dinner. So it can't be D. T. There's nothing whatever where you're pointing, though you're sweating and trembling with fright like a scared pony. Therefore I conclude that it's eyes. And I ought to understand all about them. Come along home with me. I'm on sae Blessington lower road."

To my intense delight the rickshaw, instead of waiting for me, kept about 20 yards ahead—and this, too, whether we walked, trotted or cantered. In the course of that long night ride I had told my companion almost as much as I have told you here.

"Well, you've spoiled one of the best tales I've ever led tongue-to," said he, "but I'll forgive you for the sake of what you've gone through. Now, come home and do what I tell you, and you I've cured you, young man, let this be a lesson to you to steer clear of women and indigestible food till the day of your death."

The rickshaw kept steady in front, and my red whiskered friend seemed to derive great pleasure from my account of its exact whereabouts.

"Eyes, Pansey—all eyes, brain and stomach. And the greatest of these three is stomach. You've too much excited brain, too little stomach and thoroughly unsmithy eyes. Get your stomach straight and the rest follows. And all that's French for a liver pill. I'll take sole medical charge of you from this hour, for you're too interesting a phenomenon to be passed over."

By this time we were deep in the shadow of the Blessington lower road, and the rickshaw came to a dead stop under a pine clad, overhanging shale cliff. Instinctively I halted, too, giving my reason. Heatherleigh rapped out an oath.

"Now, if you think I'm going to spend a cold night on the hillside for the sake of a stomach-cum-brain-cum-eye illusion— Lord, ha' mercy! What's that?"

[CONTINUED.]

COMPLETE LISTS OF
FREE Homestead Lands

In the Agricultural districts of
WESTERN CANADA
and Reads for sale by the Canadian Government and Railway companies, near to railway stations and in many cases convenient to markets. Schools and churches in the midst of settlements. Unequalled climate, soil and water. Excursions from Winnipeg every alternate Tuesday. Reduced railway rates to intending settlers. "Hints to Emigrants" and "Settler's Effects" sent free on application to the Secretary of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to any Canadian Government Agent.
CANADA'S FIELDS OF GOLDEN GRAIN
Pamphlet, "Last Best West," describing Manitoba, sent free.
N. Campbell, Crookston, Minn.
P. Johnson, Fosston, Minn.
W. V. Nugent, Villona, Plain., local agents.

Are Made by reading
FARM, STOCK & HOME,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
Every Number Filled with Practical, Helpful Suggestions for the FARMER,
STOCKMAN,
DAIRYMAN,
GARDENER,
POULTRYMAN,
APIARIST,
FRUITIST,
AND HOUSEWIFE
Issued Semi-monthly 24 Papers a Year
ONLY 50 CENTS A YEAR.
Six months, 30 cents.
13 Months, on trial, 10 cts.
With the JOURNAL

Tonight

If your liver is out of order, causing Biliousness, Sick Headache, Heartburn, or Constipation, take a dog of

Hood's Pills

On retiring, and tomorrow your digestive organs will be regulated and you will be bright, active and ready for any kind of work. This has been the experience of others; it will be yours. HOOD'S PILLS are sold by all medicine dealers. 25 cts.

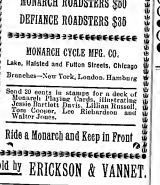
BINDER TWINE
Our famous H.T.T.T. B.B.B. B.B.A.B. B.B. Brands. The Best Standard Grades. Prices Lowest. Quality Guaranteed. Write for prices and samples.
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO

United States Map, 15c.
A copy of our handsome map, 28x32 inches, printed in four colors and mounted on a roller, will be sent to any address on receipt of 15 cents in coin, postal notes or stamps. Write for our well illustrated folder. "Via Famous Personally Conducted Excursions" and our Passenger Agent C. B. & N. R. R. Pamphlet.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain, free, whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have no branch office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the
SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,
beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies sent free. Book on Patents sent free. Address,
MUNN & CO.,
361 Broadway, New York.

Burlington Route
Finest Train on Earth from
St. Paul and Minneapolis to St. Louis.
And all Southern Cities.
Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

ALL ROADS ARE ALIKE TO A MONARCH



$25 King and Queen $25
The best pair of bicycles on earth for the money . . .
MONARCH CHAINLESS $75
MONARCH ROADSTERS $60
DEFIANCE ROADSTERS $36
MONARCH CYCLE MFG. CO.
Lake, Halsted and Fulton Streets, Chicago
Branches—New York, London, Hamburg
Send 20 cents in stamps for a deck of Monarch Playing Cards, illustrating Jessie Bartlett Davis, Lillian Russell, Corinne, Lee Richardson and Walter Jones.
Ride a Monarch and Keep in Front
Sold by ERICKSON & VANNET.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office and we can secure patents in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.,
Opp. Patent Office, Wash. D. C.

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING
is thoroughly interwoven but has four horizontal wires, which cannot slip.

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.
Like a fence, from the ground, properly stretched and strained with few posts and without top and bottom rails. Has extra selvage and a cable running through it every few feet. Each roll contains the famous M. M. S. trade mark. None other genuine.
We are manufacturers also of the following famous fences:
GABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE
With or without lower cable barbed. All horizontal lines alike strong.
STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE Ideal fence for lawns, parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel pickets, steel web, etc. Everything best of its kind.
DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.
Pat. July 14, 1891. Pat. July 6, 1891.
FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

FOR ALL THE NEWS....
Read THE POLK COUNTY JOURNAL.
....JOB PRINTING A SPECIALTY.

THE Everlasting
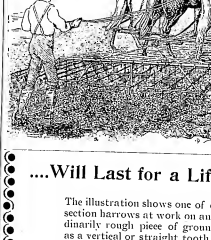
Steel Harrow

The bands or double-bars and teeth are made of Bessemer Steel, and are made in two, three, four, five or six sections. Three sections, 82 teeth, 12 feet, usual size for ordinary farm team.

FULLY WARRANTED



....Will Last for a Life Time....

The illustration shows one of our four-section harrows at work on an extraordinarily rough piece of ground, drawn as a straight or straight tooth harrow. You will notice that the harrow runs a little angling against the ground and the pressure of the ground against the teeth give the double bars a constant shake which gives the harrow a most terrific tearing power. It may be made into a slanting tooth by simply changing evener to the other end. For circulars and testimonials, address

JOHNSON & SMITH,
AUSTIN, MINN.

SUCCESSFUL SHOOTERS SHOOT
WINCHESTER
Rifles, Repeating Shotguns, Ammunition and Loaded Shotgun Shells. Winchester guns and ammunition are the standard of the world, but they do not cost any more than poorer makes. All reliable dealers sell Winchester goods.
FREE: Send name on a postal for 156 page Illustrated Catalogue describing all the guns and ammunition made by the
WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO.,
NEW HAVEN, CONN.

THE JOURNAL IS "IT"

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF

THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY

JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNERS TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER VI.

THE SKELETON IN THE CAMP.

That night we kept the horses well in hand, but they were not interfered with. Next day we continued the journey, keeping a sharp lookout for tracks, so that we might discover the whereabouts of the cattle the squatter had sent on ahead. Toward the afternoon Snowball sang out:

"Master, track sit down—one fellow cow and calf, 'nother fellow track yarraman belonging to white fellow. That one been fetch 'im up."

Snowball looked keenly at the ground, and where we could see nothing to mark nor a mark he seemed to read his mother earth as if it were on open book.

"Which way you think it cross sit down, Snowball?" Norah Mackenzie asked.

It aroused one's wonder to note how cringingly the pigeon English came from her lips.

A breath of wind ever so faint just then happened to be straying down the valley, and Yarry threw back his head and turned his broad nostrils toward it

"I think it that way. All-e-same way that one bullocky go, me smell um fire. I t'ink some fellow bin roast um bullocky always fire."

"Long way away, Yarry, you think it?" she asked soberly, but I could see her eyes sparkle. She knew that this was a riddle, for one thing the Australian blacks can never do is to estimate distance. They are utterly devoid of that faculty called "sense of number," and their replies—for they do not like to confess their ignorance—are often very amusing.

"Well, Yarry," repeated Norah Mackenzie, feigning impatience. "How many miles you think it to where bullocky sit down?"

As I have said before, it was a riddle, and Yarry scratched his head. Savages snatch their heads when puzzled all the world over, whether they are white or black. But Yarry answered with an air of easy frank and supreme conviction:

"T'ree miles, maybe; might be two, you know. Oh, well, seben miles I t'ink it."

And with this ambiguous piece of information Yarry was smiled with a sense of superior intelligence and went on ahead to follow up the tracks. Yarry resembled a Scotsman or some gentleman of the legal permission in that he declined to commit himself to any specific statement.

"Do you think the fellow smells fire and meat roasting on it?" Jack asked Norah Mackenzie. "There's a lot of miraculous smift talked about these chaps; but I can't smell fire, let alone the roast."

"That doesn't prevent them smelling," laughingly replied the girl. "Had we been born a few thousand years ago, when people hunted for a living, I've no idea that our noses would have been just as handsomely broad as Yarry's. It's sad to think what we've lost through civilization, isn't it?"

"Now that I think of it, you're right," commented Jack thoughtfully. "Of course the law of 'disuse' can be counted for the unedification of our noses. You know your Darwin better than I do."

"Never read him in my life," was the candid rejoinder.

"But you don't mean to say you discovered that tenth for yourself!" Jack persisted.

"I did, 'honest Injun!'" she protested, with mock gravity. "But then it's perhaps not altogether a matter of intellect." Jack looked somewhat foolish.

"There are plenty of proofs everywhere. Now, I dare say I'm what some of your bluestockings would call a very ignorant young person, because I don't know much about books and haven't got a hundred different theories on the tip of my tongue, but I do know enough to prevent my becoming a miserable agnostic like some of them. Evolution may be as broad as it's long, but it doesn't quite fill the bill—that's to say, it isn't everything. It's only when one goes direct to nature and finds out how beautifully it all fits into our lives that one can see it's only a little bit of a great big design. Of course book learning's a great thing; it's only those who won't look beyond them, who won't take time to study the proofs for themselves, that I'm sorry for. I don't suppose, however, it matters where I'm learning."

Here she abruptly made a laughing remark about one of the black boys and changed the subject.

The particular cattle tracks we were following were now lost in many others, and a number of fresh horse tracks became visible. We were evidently getting near the place where the cattle were running. We skirted the base of a high, wave worn bluff, down the sides of which a spring of water trickled, shaded by a group of magnificent feather palms; then we heard the crack of a stock whip and the distant bellowing of a mob of cattle. We could distinctly smell a fire, and Snowball corroborated Yarry's assertion that he smelled "roasting." At length we came to a beautiful open piece of country bordering on the Saltbush creek, and about a mile off could see a large mob of cattle being rounded up for the night and three or four mounted men riding slowly round them. We could see the bell tent of the drover, with a bough shed in front of it, and a little farther off two or three other tents. At a large fire were two or three black boys roasting various parts of a bullock, or, as Gordon more correctly put it, "tossing bane," which more out Yarry's assertion that he had smelled this process at a distance of four miles. A tall, black bearded rider, with a white pagaree twisted into cabbage tree hat, came galloping up.

"Gibson, by Jove!" said the squatter as he pressed forward and shook hands warmly with the drover. "How's everything, Tom?"

"All O. K." A glorious country, as Pavene said. But come right over to the camp and have some tea. Miss Mackenzie, to see you so soon is a sight for sore eyes." He paused and looked shyly around. "And there's another of them," he added in an awed and undertone aside as he caught sight of Elsie Gordon on the wagon, for Tom Gibson was a bachelor and susceptible. He straightway made up his mind to adjourn to his tent at the first opportunity and get on a boiled shirt, a collar and one of those white silk neckties with which he purposed some day to take civilization by storm.

It was only now I became conscious of the fact that I had not suffered from a recurrence of the usual attack of fever on the previous day. Indeed my enemy had been completely forgotten. But it is always the way with us. When we are ill, health seems to us the one thing worth living for, and when we are in its full enjoyment we take it as a matter of course, quite forgetting the fact that we have anything for which to be thankful. Now, with the exception of having just a little "off," I was nearly my old self again. When I told Norah Mackenzie, with a sense of awakened gratitude which I could hit ill express, that I believed her fever draft had made me a new man, she looked pleased and laughingly expressed the hope that the new man would prove an improvement on the old.

Gibson and his men had built in a group of acacias a neat two roomed hut, which was immediately handed over to the women. Gordon and I pitched his team in the neighborhood of a great, shady fig tree, and Savile straightway got out his pans and paraphernalia to make an extra effort in honor of our arrival. Savile was really a culinary genius and under different circumstances might have made a name for himself.

Jack and I were told by the squatter to keep to our own camp, as Gibson's was a squatter affair, for, simply having contracted as a drover to take the cattle on to his run at so much per head, his men had no connection with ours. However, Gibson insisted on our being his guests for that night, so we men folk went over to his camp. His people, as they relieved each other from slowly riding round the cattle, would drop in, and it was pleasant to exchange civilities and news—such as it was—with them. Only those who have been for months and perhaps years in the lonely bush can know how even to see a strange face and exchange a few friendly sociable words with some one in a welcome break in the monotony of such a life.

Strange to say, now that we had arrived at the end of our journey I did not feel any particular sense of gratification in the fact, for the squatter had gradually developed a very friendly attitude toward Jack and me, and had rather encouraged us to ride alongside of himself and his daughter, with the result that we had spent a pleasant time together. It seemed to give Mackenzie pleasure to talk with those who knew something of the rather uncommon subjects that interested him. I think he found Jack the more congenial companion, and I observed with satisfaction that Norah Mackenzie was pleased to see her father in such a cheerful and communicative spirit. Indeed she told me that she had not seen him looking so well and cheerful since he had started out from Tarragong and was good enough to thank me for having found those with whom he could converse freely on subjects that interested him. She seemed grateful to Jack, though why I could not exactly understand, seeing the obligation was as much on his side.

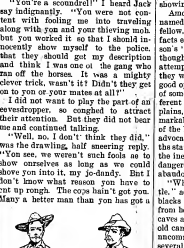
Having finished supper, I was just wondering whether I was well enough to smoke—for it seemed grateful to my strangely enough, takes away the desire from even an habitual smoker—when my attention was aroused by a stock rider evidently just relieved from watch, tired and dusty. His small, grayish blue eyes had a cold bloodless shifty expression; the mouth, which is supposed to be the most expressive feature in the face, was large and loose, yet not weak; there was a hint of vindictiveness and latent cruelty lurking in the down drawn corners and lines on either side of it by no means reassuring. What was intended to be a frank and straightforward way of looking at one impressed the observer as belonging to a man who had no small concern for himself, one who was studying life victim and watching his chance to gratify a mean nature. His voice was hard, but drawling, affecting a heartiness that his general presence belied. Still his features were regular, and he was what some people would certainly call good looking despite these drawbacks. When he saw me, I tried to greet him in a friendly spirit, but felt on the instant that I was one of those who would have the honor of sharing his good graces. It occurred to me, however, that the bearing many at times might temper this deprivation.

He stared hard at me as one with what seemed to be fear in his eyes. Turning, I saw Jack. I had never before seen such a look on my comrade's face. First an angry flush mounted into it; then, as if some politic motive had arrested him, he remained seated, while an apprehensive, sickening, every look took its place. It was evident that this man, whom his comrades called Dolly, was a very unwelcome sight to Jack, and that he suggested some recollections which belonged to the "skeleton in the cupboard" series. Could he be cognizant of the secret which had led Jack to sink his identity? When I saw the peculiarly concentrated stare that passed between them, it was evident to me that from some motives of prudence they had tacitly decided to avoid recognition. Nor was I mistaken, for, when about an hour later, having gone down to the creek to have a swim—which I always indulged in when the opportunity offered—and afterward, while drying myself behind a clump of thick undergrowth, I heard a couple of men talking excitedly together and knew that it was Jack and Daly, who had sought this quiet corner so as not to be disturbed.

"You're a scoundrel!" I heard Jack say indignantly. "You were not content with foiling me into traveling along with you and your thieving mob but you worked it so that I should innocently show myself to the police. Now they should get my description and think I was one of the gang who ran off the horses. It was a mighty clever trick, wasn't it? Didn't they get on to you or your mates at all?"

I did not want to play the part of an eavesdropper, so coughed to attract their attention. But they did not hear me and continued talking.

"Well, no. I don't think they did," was the drawling, half sneering reply. "You see, you've never set foot on so show ourselves as long as we could shove you into it, my jo-dandy. But I don't know what reason you have to cut up rough. The coin hain't got you. Many a better man than you has got a



"I'll shoot you like a dog!" he said, wrestling hanging over his hand in this country. Dash it, you would be putting men give yourselves such confounded airs you'd better are you than me, I'd like to know?"

I did not care to make my presence known now. They might think it strange and probably discredit the fact that I had tried to acquaint them of it sooner. Besides, I might learn something that would enable me to be of assistance to Jack. Had I entertained a doubt of his honor I would not have listened to another word, but revealed myself there and then and risked misrepresentation. From my vantage ground I could see the cruel, crafty face of Daly as he stood with his hands in his pockets affecting a free and easy demeanor.

"I've a mind to break your neck, you scurvy villain!" Jack exclaimed hotly. "Your ugly face acts as an irritant. Don't you know you're liable to get put into serious troubles through you scoundrelism?"

"Easy, easy!" answered Daly, smiling in an ugly fashion, but not looking quite at his ease. "There you go again with your names; perhaps you'll address me more civilly one of these days."

"By the way," Jack asked suddenly and ignoring Daly's speech, "after I clear of your mob and get to Normanton, I heard something about Secton having come to grief on the Flinders. Did you hear anything about it? I'm sorry if it's the case, for I thought Secton was the only decent fellow among you. He treated me well before leaving your mob; to wait a day or two longer so that we might travel together, but as he had money and I was stone broke and didn't know him well enough to quarter myself upon him I started off by myself. Do you know if there was any truth in the rumor?"

And now at the mention of Sexton's name a sudden change came over Daly's face. It grew a sickly, greenish yellow, and until he cleared his throat his voice was husky. But he recovered himself.

"Oh, that's your game, is it? Pretending to know nothing about it?" he drawled, with a sneer, ugly look. But in another instant, as if struck by a sudden thought, he continued: "You think I'm a walking information bureau, do you, for your special benefit? If you do, you're mistaken. I'm not the fool you take me for. But look here, Farquharson, Tyndall or whatever your name is, it's no use crying over spilled milk or making trouble. If you can only be decently civil to me, there's no reason why we shouldn't both be able to live in the same camp together. If you go in for blowing the gaff, why, the facts are against you, and they won't believe it. Perhaps you are not aware that you might possibly get into worse trouble than you dream about now, then, can't be a fool. What name says I to call you by?"

"Jack Tyndall is my name. But look here, Daly, don't suppose I care a fig for you or imagine that you have me in your power, for the moment you try any crooked games on with me I'll shoot you like a dog! They say you have to fight the devil with his own weapons, and I'm going to do it!"

"Right you are, Mr. Jack Tyndall; but try and keep a civil tongue in your head, and there need be no trouble. 'Live and let live' is my motto."

And with an easy insolence Daly strutted off, not, however, looking quite at his ease.

Jack looked after him with an expression on his face that I hope no one will ever see there again.

I waited till Jack left and then strolled back to the camp. What I had overheard was decidedly unpalatable. News not intended for the ears of a third party is generally so. If ever there was an unprincipled, mischief making fellow, that Daly was one, and I felt that if he staid in Mackenzie's camp any crooked games on with me I'll come to the conclusion that by concealing my dislike to Daly and even trying to appear friendly with him I might serve Jack much better than in showing my distrust.

Among the men Mackenzie there was one named Chilcot, a quiet, gentlemanly fellow, who gave me some interesting facts about the country. He was Gibson's "first in charge." He told me that though the blacks had as yet made no attempts to molest the men or the cattle they were just lying back to seize a good opportunity of making an attack of some kind. The hill tribes were different from those that lived on the plains, the former turning out a remarkably capable and warlike specimen of the black fellow. At first Gibson had been inclined to bring the blacks down into the station, but he—Chilcot—foreseeing the inevitable consequences of such a dangerous measure, had induced him to abandon the idea.

"When I have been out with the cattle," added Chilcot, "I have seen the blacks follow and watch me all day from behind the cover of the rocks and the caves and gullies. Judging from their old camps, I should say they were an uncommonly strong race—probably several hundreds strong. Anyhow it's natural to suppose that, having spoiled their hunting grounds, they are bound to bear us a grudge."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

TWO THOUSAND ENLISTED.

Projected Movement Said to Have Been Well Organized.

PRETORIA, May 17.—Eight former British officers have been arrested at Johannesburg on the charge of high treason and brought here on a special train. It is charged that the suspects were engaged in enlisting men for the purpose of rebelling when they were ready to give the signal. It is said that the enlistments number 2,000 British men and that a number of incriminating documents were found at the time the arrests were made.

The officers arrested are Captain Patterson, formerly of the Lancers; Colonel Grant Dalton, Lieutenant E. J. Trembett, Lieutenant C. A. Ellis, a detective at Johannesburg; Lieutenant John Allen, formerly of the horse artillery; Lieutenant Carter and Lieutenant Sergeant J. Fries and Former Sergeant R. P. Rooper.

The executive council of the Transvaal is sitting in secret session considering the arrests.

Also Organizing in Natal.

It is said the officers arrested were also preparing for similar risings in Natal, the British colony between the Orange Free State and the Indian ocean, to assist the projected movement at Johannesburg.

The British agent and charge d'affaires, Mr. Conyngham Green, had an interview with President Krueger and expressed regret that men who had been in the queen's uniform should be concerned in such a movement. President Krueger replied that he would not believe the accounts were British officers until it had been proved, adding that he hoped the affair would not interfere with the friendly relations between himself and Sir Alfred Milner, governor of Cape Colony and British high commissioner for South Africa.

GRAIN STRIKE STILL ON.

Complications Delay Settlement of Difference at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 17.—There is no change in the strike situation on the docks. The elevators, crippled by the sympathetic strike of the monthly men, still refuse to settle with the strikers in the City, Erie and Northern were operated. Contractor Connors, however, says that the men in the elevators can be secured.

Complications in the strike situation render it impossible to foresee a settlement at an early date. The grain shovelers refuse their agreement to remain out until the demands of the bucket handlers, coal heavers and ore handlers are met, the unable to accept the latest concessions made by Contractor Connors. Mr. Connors agreed that who are not members of the grain shovelers' union must affiliate with the new union; that the new union men would be permitted to retain their offices, and he would give work to such men only as are sent him by Mr. Donovan, the new inspector appointed by Bishop Quigley. Bishop Quigley has received the last obstacle in the way of a satisfactory settlement and as soon as the other strikes are adjusted the grain shovelers will go to work.

All Men Now Working for Him

The demands of the freight handlers, coal heavers and ore handlers are similar to those of the grain shovelers. They complain of the saloon system

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

The Pine City brewery has been destroyed by fire.

Minneapolis bigs chool graduates this year number 282.

Waterville has granted a 25-year electric light franchise.

St. Paul high schools will this year graduate about 200 pupils.

The St. Cloud normal graduating class will this year number 74.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Knapp of Winona have celebrated the 50th anniversary.

The General assembly of the Presbyterian church meets in Minneapolis this week.

Steps have been taken for better enforcement of child labor laws in the smaller cities.

The prison board has increased the salary of Warden Wolfer from $3,000 to $3,600 per year.

A class of from 100 to 104 will graduate from the Winona normal school on Friday, June 23.

July 1 is the latest date set for the annual gathering of the Thirteenth Minnesota regiment.

The State Society of Homeopathic Physicians is holding its annual meeting at St. Paul this week.

A special election was held at Minneola Township to vote on bonds for waterworks and sewerage.

George H. Coulter of St. Paul has been acquitted on the indictment charging election returns irregularities.

It is stated that Duluth grain receivers will refuse to obey the Grindeland commission house license law.

The hospital in course of construction at Zumbrota is about completed, and will be opened some time this month.

Starbuck has voted bonds for waterworks and electric lights and will now go out after the county seat of Pope county.

Trafford N. Jayne, a prominent young man of Minneapolis, confessed embezzlement and left the city, threatening suicide.

The land commissioner has approved a selection of 19,091 acres of land in the Duluth land district on account of the swamp land grant.

James Welsh, the Minneapolis who jumped from the top tier of cells to the floor below in the state prison on Sunday, with suicidal intent, is dead.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor Yale of Winona, has made an assignment. Liabilities $40,000; assets $30,000. Unproductive real estate is given as the cause.

William F. Ross, in the Fergus Falls jail in connection with the Great Northern train robbery, will be surrendered to a sheriff of Missouri, being an escaped convict from that state.

The Minnesota high court of Forestry elected a woman, Mrs. Harriet W. Schoenmaker of St. Paul, for high vice chief ranger. It is the first time a woman has ever held that office.

The twine report made to the board of prison managers shows a net profit for the season at the prison farm of $63,672.77. The cost of manufacture was $301,078.78, and sales $424,751.06.

The board of prison commissioners has adopted a resolution providing for a bond issue to take up the floating indebtedness of Kandiyohi county, amounting to $12,5000. The bonds will run from 5 to 10 years.

State bank officials are anxious to have a state bankers' association organized. It is proposed to confine its membership solely to state bank officials, it will bear close relation to the Minnesota Bankers' association.

Frederick W. Parsons of Litchfield, has brought suit against a patent medicine company for $20,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by him through the explosion of a medicinal inhaler manufactured by the company.

Thomas B. Scott has been arraigned before Judge Kelly at St. Paul charged with perjury in connection with the affairs of the Insurance Clearance company. He pleaded not guilty and gave bail in the sum of $2,500, with Theodore Borup and E. H. Bailey as sureties.

The Minnesota Territorial Pioneers held their annual meeting at the state house Thursday. The 50th anniversary of the organization of the territory will be observed by the Old Settlers' association June 1, and the Territorial Pioneers will hold appropriate exercises.

Judge Orr of St. Paul sustained the constitutionality of the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor in the case of the state against William Bordeleau. Attorney General Douglas prosecuted, in the instance of Daisy Crown-Bissmer Bowler. As the case was in the nature of a test, it will likely be carried to the supreme court.

The 31st annual council fire and feast of good cheer, commemorative of the settlement of the Ojibways on the White Earth reservation will be celebrated at White Earth agency on June 15. An elaborate programme is arranged. A number of Scotch residents of Winona have come to the realization that they have been hoaxly bunced out of various sums of money by two Scotch families that were in Winona here, representing that they had just come over from Scotland to engage in weaving, were short of money and wanted an advance on silverware which they would subsequently redeem. The silverware now turns out to be cheap plated stuff, not worth half the sums advanced thereon. It is said they have worked the same game in the Twin Cities and Omaha.

REVOLT AT SANTIAGO.

Cuban Newspapers Handle American Authorities Roughly.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, May 16.—Considerable dissatisfaction is reported here over the demand by the United States government that the Cuban soldiers relinquish their arms before receiving shares in the distribution of the $3,000,000. La Independencia and other papers publish excited articles protesting against the acceptance of any such proposal. La Independencia suggests that a stump tax be instituted, by means of which loyal Cubans would be enabled to "save the soldiers from the dishonor and humiliation of giving up the arms which won their liberty."

ALL MAY GO OUT.

General Strike Is Threatened by the Trades Unions at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 16.—The mayor has taken a hand in the carpenters' strike and is endeavoring to effect a settlement. It is said that unless the difficulty between the employers and the men is settled by the end of this week all trade unionists in the city will go out in sympathy with the strikers. If it comes to this the situation will be serious, as every branch of labor right down to men working on streets is organized here.

Peace Conference Meets Thursday.

THE HAGUE, May 16.—M. de Staal, the Russian ambassador to the court of St. James, representative of the Russian government at the peace conference and president of that body, has arrived. The peace conference will hold its first sitting at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon next.

Have You Heard Of It?

You may have heard about SCOTT'S EMULSION and have a vague notion that it is cod-liver oil with its bad taste and nauseating oil all its other repulsive features. It is cod-liver oil, the purest and the best in the world, but made so palatable that almost everybody can take it. Nearly all children like it and ask for more.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

looks like cream; it nourishes the wasted body of the baby, child or adult better than cream or any other food in existence. It bears about it the creative action to other emulsions that cream does to milk. If you have had any experience with other so-called "just as good" preparations, you will find that this is a fact.

The hypophosphites that are combined with the emulsion give additional value to it because they tone up the nervous system and impart strength to the whole body.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

The ATLANTIC MONTHLY

NO American agency of public information, literature and intellectual guidance has done higher service in this most momentous period of national transition and opening of a new world epoch than THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY. In its point of view and treatment of events of the first national importance, it has stepped into the vacant place of a political review of clear insight, high moral tone, wide knowledge, and wise conviction. It is doing for America some part of the work the serious political reviews always have done for Britain, and which it is the often baffled aim of the "Deux Mondes" to do for France. The time has now come for wide public extension of the illuminating discussion of which it is the medium.—From the New York Commercial Advertiser, June 1, 1898.

The announcements for 1899 are of a variety, interest, and value greater than ever before. Upon receipt of ten cents a sample copy of THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY will be sent, together with an illustrated prospectus for the coming year.

Subscriptions received direct or through any established subscription agency.

35 Cents a Copy $4.00 a Year

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.

4 Park Street, Boston

IS READY TO CONFER

PHILIPPINE COMMISSION FAVORABLE TO A MEETING

With Insurgent Delegates—Believe the Request a Result of the Recent Session of the Filipino Congress Two More Cities Taken—Small Force of Americans Captures Iloilofrom After Little Resistance—At San Miguel Lawton's Band of Scouts Compels the Enemy to Retreat.—Aguinaldo takes to the Mountains.

MANILA, May 15.—The civilian members of the United States Philippine commission are favorable to the meeting with a Filipino commission which was suggested on behalf of Aguinaldo by Lieutenant Reyes of the staff of General Gregerio del Pilar, who came to General Lawton under a flag of truce, bearing the proposal. It is thought by the American commissioners that the idea may have resulted from a recent meeting of the so-called Filipino congress at San Isidor. Definite information on this point, however, cannot be obtained, though the local Filipino committee, which is in close communication with the leaders of the rebellion, is doing its utmost to secure peace.

TAKES TO THE MOUNTAINS

Aguinaldo Getting Out of the Reach of Americans.

NEW YORK, May 17.—A special from Manila says: Aguinaldo has fled to the mountains to escape capture by the Americans. It is believed that he realizes the futility of the contest now being waged against the Americans and will endeavor to make his escape from the country. He is said to now be in the province of Nueva Ecija. The seat of the war seems nearer than at any time since the first shot was fired before Manila.

The 3,000 Spanish prisoners who are reported to be held by the insurgents have been carried into a northern province and scattered among small garrisons. They are beyond American succor this season unless the Filipino surrender takes place within three weeks. Five American prisoners were carried through this province last week. Their names are unknown.

AS REPORTED BY OTIS.

Status of the Military Situation Cabled to Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The following dispatch from Major General Otis giving the status of the military situation as it now stands in the operations against the insurgents has been received at the war department:

"Situation is as follows: Lawton from Bailing has taken Ildefonso and San Miguel to the north with slight loss and driving considerable force of enemy; MacArthur remains at San Fernando covering country. Message from Aguinaldo expressing wish to send commission to Manila for conference with United States commission to arrange terms of peace; directions given to pass body representative insurgents to Manila should it present itself."

CAPTURE OF SAN ISIDRO.

General Lawton's Advance Guard Occupies the Insurgent Capital.

MANILA, May 17.—11:40 a. m.—General Lawton's advance guard, under Colonel Summers of the Oregon troops, took San Isidro, the insurgent capital at 8:30 a. m.

The expedition under Major Kobbe of the Third artillery, consisting of the Seventeenth infantry, a battalion of the Ninth and one battery of the First artillery, left Celumpit at daybreak, marching up the Rio Grande to General Lawton's division at Arayal. A flotilla of canoes loaded with supplies also proceeded up the river. Both armies were conveyed by the "tinclad" army gunboats under Captain Grant.

ILDEFONSO CAPTURED.

Small Force of Americans Takes Another Filipino Town.

MANILA, May 18.—Twenty American scouts under the command of Captains Case and Berkheimer, supported by two companies of the Minnesota and Oregon regiments, flanked the insurgents at San Ildefonso and captured the town. The Filipinos were so terrorized that although they fired 20,000 rounds of ammunition all they did was to slightly wound one scout. The Americans killed one insurgent officer and wounded six men. The insurgents retreated to San Miguel, six miles north of San Ildefonso.

Captured records show that 20 per cent of the opposing insurgent force has been killed and wounded since Lawton's advance began on May 1.

ENTERED SAN MIGUEL.

Ten American Scouts Put to Flight Several Hundred Filipinos.

MANILA, May 15.—Ten members of Major General Lawton's band of scouts under W. M. Young, the old Indian fighter, entered the town of San Miguel, about 15 miles north of Arayat, entirely unaware of what place it was. They found 200 Filipinos there, but the rebels, taking the scouts for the advance of General Lawton's army, fled after firing a few shots. Young and another scout were wounded and have been brought to Manila.

GARRISON BESIEGED.

General Otis Tells of the Attack or Spaniards at Zambonga.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The war department has received the following dispatch from General Otis:

"It is reported that at Zamboanga insurgents attacked Spanish troops, 11th inst., using quick firing guns and arms captured from Spanish gunboats. Spanish general and two officers wounded. Few casualties among troops. Spanish garrison now besieged. Water supply cut off and troops calling for relief."

CAUSE FOR ANXIETY

CUBAN SITUATION IS REGARDED AS VERY GRAVE

By the Officials at Washington—Dissatisfaction Attributed to the "Soldiers of Fortune" in the Cuban Army Gomez Notifies Brooke He Will Not Assist in Distributing the $3,000,000—Is Disgusted With the Action of Cuban Officers and Decides to Quit.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—High officials in the war department are reluctant to discuss the Cuban situation. The dispatch announcing the retirement of Gomez was read with interest, but did not cause much surprise among army officers who are well informed about the Cubans, especially those who are known as "soldiers of fortune" and who have been bitterly disappointed because the island was not turned over to them immediately after the Spanish surrendered. There is an impression also that the intention of General Brooke to see that the $3,000,000 is distributed among all the Cuban troops has caused disappointment among the many "generals" and other high officials who were evidently expecting to secure a large share of the money.

The belief was expressed that the situation in Cuba is serious and that careful and diplomatic management will be needed.

It was stated that no orders would be issued to General Brooke, as he had ample authority to deal with any situation which might arise. There seems to be a belief that General Gomez has contributed to the delay in the payment of the money.

GENERAL GOMEZ IS OUT.

Refuses to Act as Representative of the Cuban Army.

HAVANA, May 16.—General Maximo Gomez has informed Governor General Brooke that he could no longer act as representative of the Cuban army in the distribution of the $3,000,000 appropriated for the payment of the Cuban troops.

General Gomez added that he had arrived at this decision with great reluctance and with the most friendly feeling towards General Brooke personally and officially, but he felt he could no longer represent the Cuban army because a cabal, composed of many of the subordinate commanders, existed to oppose and if possible defeat the plans for partitioning the money. He explained that former members of the Cuban military assembly led by Mayor Rodriguez, Manuel Sanguilly, Juan Gualberto Gomez, and malcontents who had organized a majority of the officers against him, apparently, and though he (Gomez) might persist and possibly carry the payment to a successful conclusion, he was disgusted and wished to wash his hands of the whole business.

Brooke Will Proceed Alone.

General Brooke expressed sympathy with General Gomez in the position he had taken; but, the American commander added, as his decision was unchangeable, he would proceed to deal with the question alone.

It was then mutually agreed that General Gomez will issue a manifesto to the Cuban army. This document will be prepared at once and will be submitted to General Brooke. After it has been issued, General Brooke may make a declaration concerning the manner in which he will proceed. He is determined not to be trifled with. He has the rolls of the privates and non-commissioned officers, who are willing to accept $75 each, and the amount will be offered on the conditions previously laid down. A forcible disarmament of the Cuban troops will be the ultimate proposition, provided the events of the next two or three weeks show that such action is necessary.

WILL TAKE HIS TIME.

Voyage of Admiral Dewey Expected to Take Four Months.

MANILA, May 16. — Admiral Dewey will sail for New York by way of the Suez canal in about ten days. It is expected that the voyage will occupy about four months.

The United States cruiser Olympia, on which Admiral Dewey will take his voyage home, will sail a leisurely trip, stopping at Mediterranean ports for some time to give the admiral, the officers of the ship and the crew an opportunity for rest. Like all Olympia's company, Admiral Dewey is much run down in a tropical port without change and under the rigorous conditions incident to a war footing.

The Olympia will proceed from Manila to Hong Kong, where a fortnight will be spent in transforming the mud color which she was painted to white, having up to this time been unable to comply with the departments order to take on white paint. At Hong Kong the cruiser will be coaled and provisioned for her further journey.

END WAS SUDDEN.

Ex-Governor Flower of New York Dies Unexpectedly at Eastport, L. I.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Former Governor Roswell P. Flower died at 10:30 o'clock at the Eastport County club at Eastport, L. I. Mr. Flower was taken ill early in the day with an acute attack of indigestion. During the afternoon symptoms of heart failure supervened and he grew steadily worse until the time of his death. The attack of heart failure was accompanied by a fainting spell and Mr. Flower's family in New York city were quickly notified.

Banquet to Davis and Stevens.

ST. PAUL, May 17.—Senator Davis and Representative F. C. Stevens of St. Paul were the guests of honor at a notable banquet at the Hotel Aberdeen. Covers were laid for 100 guests, among whom were leading men of St. Paul and numerous men of note from Minneapolis and the state at large.

GREETING.

Many years have sped
Since first I saw your orange covers,
And with their pearls and strength have fled,
Old friends are gone and youthful lovers

But, even as in days gone by
You came to bless my vanity leisure,
Still in your pages I descry
A welling feast of quiet pleasure.

Go on, old friend, and as of yore
You bid us conquer with your sages,
Walk with them still as heretofore,
And may we ever mar your pages.

And when death's deep forgetfulness
Has closed for me all earthly pleasure
May Chambers still remain to bless—
Those who come after—in full measure.
—M. L. S. in Chambers' Journal.

A STORE ROMANCE.

William French prided himself on the fact that he was not an ambitious man.

He was wont to say that envy and discontent are the twin roots of all evil and that to be satisfied with one's lot in life is the sum total of all earthly philosophy.

William did not put it that way exactly, for he hadn't much more education than he had ambition. But that was what he meant when he would occasionally announce to his fellow clerks over the bowl of mash and milk that formed his noonday meal at the "quick lunch" counter, "What I've got is good enough for me, and don't you forget it."

And his fellow clerks, mostly ambitions men like himself, would generally reply, with laconic vagueness of assent, "That's what."

William's lot in life was sufficiently humble.

He sold tin bells and in the poorly lighted basement of a big department store six days in the week. His Sundays he spent in riding a second-hand bicycle, if it was fine, and reading the pictorial papers or sewing carefully buttons and reluctant patches on his clothing when the weather precluded any idea of outdoor amusements.

For William was a bachelor and looked askance at the fair sex as the lovely promoters of much folly and discontent he solemnly deprecated and the gentle inciters of the reckless and wicked extravagance in dress common in the world he so greatly deplored.

So when he caught the flutter of a skirt on any street bicycle he turned to pass on a loosely rood he would scorch sternly ahead and never once glance around to see if the fair creature was riding for fun or to rednce her waist measure.

From which it may be seen that Mr. French was very much of a philosopher.

But, alas, even philosophers are not exempt from the visitings of the tender passion, and it chanced one day that Cupid, for want of something better to do, chose to visit the basement of that particular store and plant his dart deep in the heart of the young man who sold tin bells.

It happened this way.

A young woman came to fill a vacancy in the gentleware department, next to William's counter, and he, so long indifferent and even callous to the charms of woman, no sooner saw the new clerk than he was smitten with a passion that possess her for his own.

Miss Thompson was not beautiful, to be sure, nor was she at all imposing of appearance, that she should thus capitivate the heart of a susceptible young man at first sight. And she trotted about with a brisk alertness of movement quite incompatible with grace and elegance of movement.

But she smiled William right down to the ground.

To begin with, she had soft eyes, of no particular color perhaps, but somehow when their gaze rested on William he felt that here, at last, was one who could appreciate his true value almost as keenly as he did himself. Her brown hair, of a very ordinary shade, was parted very neatly over her smooth brow in a fashion extremely plain and unambitious compared with the imposing pompadours worn by the magnificent young ladies who sold ribbons and neckties at the counters upstairs and whose airs and graces made William not a little comfortable that he frequently went to a rival establishment to purchase the modest "made up" cravat which completed his humble toilet.

Moreover, Miss Thompson's simple black alpaca gown, with its round belted waist and spotless cuffs and collar, betrayed none of the wickedly extravagant ideas William had long considered the prevalent weakness of the sex.

It wasn't very long before the two young people became very friendly.

Stewpans and teakettles being more in demand than bathtubs, William was frequently called upon to assist Miss Thompson in her department, and this association with her afforded the young man moments of exquisite joy.

At other times he would watch her busy over her cooking utensils, and imagine how she would look in a little kitchen of her own manipulating similar implements in the preparation of his own supper.

The thought was intoxicating. Here at last he had found a girl who would be willing to share his humble lot, he told himself. A plain little thing like her would probably regard a tiny three room flat such as he had in mind as a very palace of luxury. He himself would seem to her a sort of special Providence through whose benevolent intervention she would realize all those dreams of home and husband most girls indulge in.

This thought he found even more agreeable than the other, and he found himself assuming a protecting and even patronizing air with her at times.

The enamored young man went so far as to hint to the object of his affection his hopes of having a modest home of his own one day, and while he could not recall afterward that she had betrayed any great interest in his plans he took comfort in thinking that girls are shy about showing their feelings and that probably it had not occurred to her that he would notice a little clerk in the glove department.

So William dreamed his dreams, and even began to inquire around about the rent of flats such as he would be apt to require.

But he did not tell his love. There was no hurry about that. He would wait till spring—when rents were cheaper.

And, besides, she was probably not prepared to hear of the honor he proposed to pay her. She might faint or something. Girls were apt to do those things when you took them unawares, he had heard.

So the winter wore on, and William spent more and more of his time talking to his fair neighbor, and fell more deeply in love at every interview.

As he sure, he did most of the talking.

He often confided to her his views on extravagance and high living and took occasion to ridicule those who squ their money on good clothes and theater parties instead of laying it up for a rainy day.

And while Miss Thompson never said anything he could construe into an admission that she thought he was right she always listened with grave attention, and with her soft eyes fixed on him he remained blissfully certain that here was a woman who would thankfully devote her life to helping him save his income and provide for his old age.

At last the spring drew near. The flower counter in the main aisle began to glow with golden sunshine of daffodils and jonquils and odors of hyacinth and Easter lilies were wafted down the basement stairway to dim basement, where the bathtubs and the teakettles had their house.

And then one day William had a shock. The crosseyed girl at the crockery department told him that Miss Thompson was going to leave.

He could not believe it. But inquiry at the glove department revealed the fact that the rumor had spread the day before and had been confirmed by the young lady herself. William was astounded. She had made up her mind to leave without telling him! What did it mean? he wondered.

Then he had an idea. Perhaps she had grown to care so much for him that seeing him every day was painful. He had read of such things in novels. He resolved to tell her that very day of the plans he had made for her and ask her to become Mrs. William French.

But how long, however, before his opportunity came.

It seemed to him that every fat woman in the city had decided to lay in a supply of graniteware that particular day.

At last he encountered Miss Thompson behind a huge pile of coffeepots.

"I—I—hear you're going away," he began, surprised to find himself feeling decidedly nervous.

"Yes," she said pleasantly, as she made an entry in her little cashbook "I'm going tomorrow."

"What I didn't know—that is, I thought—I hoped—I hope I haven't said anything to do with your going," he went on, beginning to be appalled at the miserable figure he was cutting.

"Yon, Mr. French—how could you—I don't understand—I'm afraid," she replied, in evident bewilderment.

"Oh, you see—I thought maybe you'd been expecting, you know—that is, you might have known that I was going to ask you to marry me, you know, if I'd have asked you before—only"—

"Pray, don't apologize," she exclaimed quickly. "It's much better that you didn't. A man with your ideas would be making a great mistake to marry me. And, besides, I'm going to be married next week to Mr. Morgan, up at the silk counter. He commenced as a cashboy, and now he's head of the department. But, then, he was ambitious."

William has seen her but once since then.

They were having a big bargain sale of remnants up stairs, and at the noon hour he was struggling to make his way through the vast crowd of ladies which surged hont the counter, when a little woman in a trailing silk gown turned suddenly and faced him.

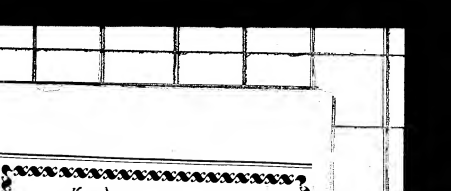
It was she!

He passed her with only a formal and hurried bow, but he had time to observe, with pain, that she wore her hair in a pompadour.—Edgar Temple Field in Chicago Times-Herald.

A Plunge in the Dark.

A remarkable accident befell an English cyclist. He had been a few miles in the country to see some friends, and was riding home along a lane about 10 o'clock p. m., when he suddenly received a sharp blow on the chest and was lifted completely out of the saddle and thrown with considerable violence to the ground, where he lay for some minutes partly stunned. On recovering his senses the cyclist looked around to try to find the cause of his extraordinary spill.

It did not want a lot of finding, for it was very apparent in the shape of a stout rope which was stretched across the road. The rope, it appeared, was fastened at one end to a gray wagon standing by the side of the hedge, and to a horse at the other. In search of fresh herbage the animal had strayed across the road, and, startled, no doubt, by the sudden appearance of the bicycle light, had thrown up its head, drawing the cord taut at a height of five feet or so from the ground. In the darkness it was impercejved, and, catching the cyclist breast high, it flung him from his machine with scant courtesy.



Deere Vehicles are All Right!

We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to ordered.

They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen.

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., LARSEN & CARPENTER, Fosston or Mclntosn. Crookston.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes lies right past your door, delivering twice each day. Call on our driver, or through telephone No. 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riverside at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. ERSKINE, President. J. W. WHEELER, Cashier. WM. ANGUS, Vice-President. H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier.

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits. Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
George B. Erskine, A. A. Miller, Wm. Angus, J. R. Robinson, E. M. Walsh, L. Fontaine P. F. Sweeney, W. H. Cronk, A. W. Dunn.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers.

SCANDIA-AMERICAN BANK,
OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.
Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON, President. H. STENERSON, Vice-President.
N. S. GERVAIS, 2d Vice-President. L. ELLINGSON, Cashier.
A. P. HANSON, Asst. Cashier.

Read This The Best Yet

No Other Mutual Company Can Duplicate this Offer.

The Old Reliable

HAIL AND CYCLONE MUTUAL INSURANCE CO.,

OF AUSTIN, MINN.

Pays Cash for all Losses at Time of Adjustment. Rates Low. Adjustments Prompt and Liberal

TENTH ANNUAL STATEMENT

ASSETS
Certificates of Deposit	$18,000.00
Loans	26,131.60
Cash in National Banks	31,179.27
Accounts Receivable	727.92
Assessments on 1898 notes not yet received	7,228.08
Gross Assets	$83,466.87 $83,466.87
LIABILITIES
Unpaid Losses	None
Accounts Payable	$ 678.64
Total Liabilities	$ 678.64 678.64
Net Assets	$82,788.23

REFERENCES:—Farm, Stock and Home, Minneapolis; Walnut's Farmer, Des Moines, Iowa; Scandia American Bank, Crookston, Minn.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, CALL ON

GEO. C. WILD,
ODD FELLOWS' BLOCK. CROOKSTON, MINN.

OR A. P. TOUPIN, RED LAKE FALLS.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY MAY 25, 1899 NO 7

Minnesota Historical Society

IN MEMORY OF HEROES

Crookston Will Observe, With Appropriate Exercises, Memorial Day, May 30.

ORATION BY SENATOR RYDER.

The Organizations of City and School Children Will March to the Cemetery.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land!
Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned,
As home his footsteps he hath turned,
From wandering on a foreign strand!
If such there breathe, go, mark him well,
For him no Minstrel raptures swell:
High though his titles, proud his name,
Boundless his wealth as wish can claim:
Despite those titles, power and pelf,
The wretch, concentered all in self,
Living shall forfeit fair renown,
And, doubly dying, shall go down
To the vile dust, from whence he sprung,
Unwept, unhonored, and unsung.

SIR WALTER SCOTT.

Memorial Day has been set apart as a time when the surviving soldiers of the war of the sixties decorate the graves of their dead comrades, and the citizens of the United States join with the veterans in the ceremonials, thus publicly expressing their gratitude to the "scarred and veteran legions" who through their heroic acts preserved the Union and made it possible to build up the nation to its present greatness. No honor is too great to be paid the men who offered their lives that their country might live. Time is fast thinning the ranks of the boys in blue who followed Grant and Sherman and Sheridan and other noble leaders to victory, and it will not be long until the nation is called upon to lay in his final resting place the last surviving soldier of the civil war. Then, while it is eminently fitting that we bedeck the graves of our dead heroes with costly floral wreaths, let us not forget to reverence and revere the old soldiers who are still with us.

JUDGE JOHN M'LEAN,
Commander Col. Cobham Post, No. 90 G. A. R.

This year too there is mourning o'er the death of America's younger sons who have died on foreign soil, fighting for humanity. Had the sacrifice of the veterans not been made almost forty years ago, the splendid spectacle of our gallant lads facing death that human woes might be less and human freedom more universal, would never have been possible.

On Tuesday next the veteran will strew with flowers the graves of the dead of the Spanish war, while the young volunteer and regular will decorate the mounds beneath which lies the dust of those who fought to free the slave.

A patriot is one of the noblest of mankind. The spirit of patriotism is fostered by the Memorial Day services, and such a lesson in love of country may be taught, if one is only in a receptive mood, as will make each citizen in future more self-sacrificing.

Final arrangements have been made for observance of Memorial Day. The citizens have responded liberally to the call for funds so that the various committees have been enabled to get every thing they could wish in the way of floral decorations, music, etc.

The members of Col. Cobham Post and of the Women's Relief corps have accepted the invitation of Rev. H. M. Green to attend services in the Episcopal church on the morning of Memorial Sunday and a similar invitation from Rev. G. R. C. Poole for Sunday evening. On Memorial Day, Tuesday, May 30, the exercises will be in the afternoon at the cemetery, unless it rains, in which case the opera house will be used. The oration of the day will be delivered by Senator J. J. Ryder, of East Grand Forks.

The officers of the day are: Chas. H. Jefferson, marshal, assistant marshals, Frank Creamer and Chas. Hitchcock.

Committee on Reception: Mayor A. D. Stephens and C. H. Mix.

Committee on Music: Mrs. Van Arnum and Fred Mix.

Committee on Invitation: E. M. Walsh, Judge Montague and L. E. Gossman.

The Women's Relief Corps will have charge of the decorations.

All departments, societies and school children will be on street ready to start at 1:30 p. m. Where one or more orders occupy the same lodge rooms they will form on street in parallel lines. The City Hall bell will ring promptly at 1:30 p. m., when all societies, departments, school children, except those on Broadway, will move to intersection of Broadway as soon as possible without further orders. The school children will move to Broadway at the First National bank. Col. Cobham post No. 90 and Women's Relief Corps will move to Broadway at the Methodist church. Other orders will move to Broadway at the nearest points. The marshals and assistant marshals will enter the different organizations and form the line with the school children in the rear. When formed the line of march will be as follows:

LINE OF MARCH.

Form on Broadway at City Hall, facing south. Thence to Loring street, from Loring street to Main street, down Main to Robert, across Robert to Broadway, down Broadway to Second, back on Second to Main, thence on Main to Sixth, and on Sixth to cemetery.

ORDER OF PROCESSION

Police Department.
Drum Corps.
Mayor Stephens, Orator of Day, J. J. Ryder and clergymen in carriages.
Col. Cobham Post No. 90.
Women's Relief Corps.
Minnesota Volunteers in Spanish War.
Fire Department.
Band.
Societies.
School Children.
Citizens in Carriages.

PROGRAM AT CEMETERY.

Reading Memorial orders and exercises .... Col. Cobham Post No. 90
Music .... Quartet
Prayer ....
Music .... Band
Oration .... J. J. Ryder
Music .... Quartet
Decoration of Graves ....
Music .... Band
Benediction ....

Flowers to be Left at G. A. R. Hall.

Friends and relatives of deceased soldiers will kindly leave any floral offerings which they may have at the G. A. R. hall not later than 10 o'clock Tuesday morning May 30. To the wreath attach a card with the deceased's name, his regiment, company, the date of his death, whether killed in battle or not, and when buried. By order of

ADELAIDE HARRIS,
Pres. W. R. C.

VETERANS OF THE SIXTIES.

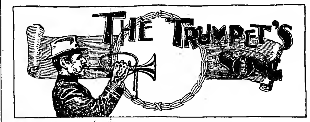
List of present membership of Col. Cobham Post No. 90, G. A. R.

Chas H. Mix	O. Osmundson
B. J. Zarracher	J. P. Bullan
John McLean	Carl Schmidt
W. S. Davies	James E. Kelly
T. A. Harris	Levi LeDuc
I. U. Jennings	Ben Dalhec
G. H. Holt	E. St. Pierre
Chas. Homan	Martin Lally
Chas. H. Jefferson	John Gleason
M. B. Hayes	W. W. Wilson
E. C. Davis	Jos. O. Sargent
J. E. Greenhalgh	Z. S. Sargent
Jos. Netzer	Frank Gallager
Fred Ramshardt	Wm. H. Bell
W. D. Bailey	A. M. Childs
Louis Fontaine	J. Andrist
Nels K. Olson	O. Simmons
A. Burnham	Louis Cottet
J. J. Ide	E. Davis
A. J. Kelly	W. L. Palmer
R. Brunner	A. A. Tofftie
Patrick Martin	Tim Loughridge
Louis Gonyea	John Dunn
A. C. Rhinehart

Attention Post!

All members of Col. Cobham Post G. A. R. are requested to meet at Post hall Sunday, May 28, at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., for the purpose of attending Memorial services at the Episcopal church in the morning at 11 o'clock and at the Baptist church at 8 o'clock in the evening.

JOHN MCLEAN,
Commander.



Sweet, long and clear o'er grassy mound
The trumpet wakes its song today,
Each veteran's heart leaps at the sound,
Thrilled by the memory of its sway.

At dawn it gives a cheery call,
"Awake, awake, ye heroes true!"
A tented field responds, and all
In hope their patriot pledge renew.

It swells again on morning breeze,
Now shrill and strong, now tender, low,
To drill and mess it brings with ease
The men o'er whom its accents flow.

And then the brazen shriek, "To arms!"
The deadly fire, the smoke and heat,
Yet through the clash of war's alarms
That far flung music clear and sweet.

"Form!" and "Charge!" and "Halt!" it trills.
Then back to camp the sad lines sweep,
And silence all the bivouac fills
When "taps" has lulled the boys to sleep.

And when one falleth here and there,
Stilled in the conflict or the rout,
Above the soldier's grave a prayer
And then the trumpet's voice, "Lights out!"

So went the day, so came the night,
So spoke the trumpet's silver throat.
The army felt its wondrous might
And fashioned fortune by its note.

Through quiet days, through clanging strife,
"Clock of the camp" from sun to sun,
It sounds again with drum and fife
Where veterans sleep, their life march done.

CHARLES MOREAU HARGER.

ROLL OF HONOR.

List Deceased Comrades Buried in Oakdale Cemetery.

A. J. Streeter	F. Valley
C. Wright	E. Knutson
C. Bruse	F. Hutchinson
A. Walter	A. Pierce
D. McSeanan	P. Snyder
S. Nelson	C. Clutte
S. R. McKee	E. Thorsen
L. Zange	G. Mead
C. E. Spendley	Wm. Kistenmacher
H. E. Cooke

General Orders No. 8

HEADQUARTERS GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC. INDEPENDENCE HALL.

PHILADELPHIA, April 20, 1899.

COMRADES: In accordance with the requirements and customs of our Order the Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief calls attention to the approaching Memorial Day, May 30, 1899, confident that every comrade of the Grand Army of the Republic will unite in paying our annual tribute of flag and flowers to the memory of men who, in days gone by, fought for the unity of the nation, the purity and truth of the flag, and who stood ready to yield up their lives to secure to us as a people the inestimable blessings of liberty.

The year closing with the next Memorial Day has added new strength and power to the nation and new glory to the flag. The worth and the fame of the American Soldier and Sailor has been gloriously advanced. The achievements of the "day of the sixties" still remain, and have rendered possible the glorious victories won in the interest of liberty and humanity. Let us, then, on Memorial Day, strew Spring's choicest flowers in tenderness and love upon the grave of every defender of the Republic, and in song, story and fitting ceremony recall the services and unmatched sacrifice of those who, sleeping in the gardens of the sea or in the bosom of the nation, their place of sepulchre unmarked and unknown, gave not only their lives but their very name for their country.

The men whose memory is perpetuated by the loving service of Memorial Day were part of the greatest comradeship the world has ever known. Let us, who still survive, be so earnest in our tribute, so pure in our affection, and so loving in our remembrance of them, that the lessons of patriotism which we teach shall find a lodgment in the hearts of all the people, binding all together in devotion to flag and country.

II. It is enjoined upon every Post that, in accordance with a custom now firmly established, they attend Divine Service on the Sunday preceding Memorial Day.

III. The Thirtieth National Encampment provided that the reading of President Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg be made a special feature in all Memorial Day Exercises conducted under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic. The address is published herewith. Commanders of Posts will direct that it be read in connection with the exercises of the day.

By command of W. C. JOHNSON, Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief, Commanding.

THOS. J. STEWART,
Adjutant General.

President Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg, November 19, 1863.

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent, a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war; testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived, and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow—this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The Flag In The Schools.

The Grand Army would have failed in its efforts to carry the stars and stripes to the public schools, where it is so safely lodged, but for the enthusiastic help given by the school children. They wanted to see their flag in the school room, on the building or floating from a pole on the grounds, and they talked, pleaded, sang, petitioned and prayed for it.

OBEY DEATH'S ORDERS

Three Comrades Since May 30, 1898 Join the Ranks of Those Beyond the River.

Elling Knutson, was born in 1826, in Barigan, Sidgar district, Norway. He emigrated to the United States in 1859. He enlisted in Sept 18, 1863, as a private in Company D., Second Regiment, Minnesota Cavalry. He fought for the land of his adoption till the war was over when he was discharged Dec. 2, 1865. He joined Cobham Post Ho. 90 in 1891. He died Dec. 29, 1898, in his seventy second year, death being caused by paralysis. He was buried with military honors in Oakdale cemetery.

Harvey E. Cooke was a native of Massachusetts, being born in Northampton of that state, April 27, 1849. When Lincoln issued his call for volunteers, Harvey Cooke, though only a lad thirteen years old enlisted in Company A, 161 First New York Infantry. He was mustered into the service, but before doing any active duty he caught the typhoid fever and for almost a year he was on the sick list. As soon as he recovered he enlisted in Co. F, First New York Veteran Cavalry, which was attached to the Sixth Corps, then under command of General John M. Sedgwick. The first battle he was in was at HARVEY E. COOK.

Snicker's Gap, Loudoun County, Virginia. Later he took part in the campaigns of the armies of the Potomac and the Shenandoah. Three horses were shot under him. After a gallant and brave career he was mustered out on July 22, 1865, at Camp Piatt, West Virginia.

Mr. Cooke learned the printer's trade and in 1877 established the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL which has never missed an issue since.

He was married Oct. 1, 1877 to Miss Mary E. Hopkins, of Vermontville, Eaton County, Michigan, who died Nov. 28, 1894. He was married a second time, on Feb. 20, 1896 to Miss Carrie Belle Hammond, of La Porte, Indiana, who survives him.

Mr. Cooke died on the evening of Nov. 23, 1898, at Hot Springs, Arkansas, whither he had gone for his health. He was buried in Crookston. He was a Mason, and a member of Cobham Post No. 90, of which latter order he was one of the past commanders.

Editor Cooke was an able advocate of republican principles and his forcible and ready pen was ever on the side of justice and right. Polk county will always remember the efficient service that he rendered in helping to build up the business and farming interests and to promote the general welfare of the community.

The Press, too, lost a valuable and worthy member by the passing of Mr. Cooke. He spent the best years of his life in endeavoring to educate the people through the medium of his paper. The JOURNAL was always a bright, newsy, clean, able sheet and the banner of the fraternity was never lowered while his hand was on the staff.

Frank Valley was born in Canada. By trade he was a lumberman. He enlisted August 18, 1864 in Company L, 1st Wisconsin heavy artillery and after faithfully serving his country was discharged at the end of the war. He was fifty-five years of age when he joined Cobham Post. He died Dec. 4, 1898 and was buried at Oakdale cemetery by his comrades of the G. A. R.

AROUND THE COUNTY

Weekly Reports From The Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

MENTOR.

J. L. Fox was in town last Tuesday.

J. K. Messelt was out fishing Sunday.

J. L. Sletten received a large safe and desk Monday for his office.

Bishop Morrison held services in the Episcopal church here Sunday.

A. L. Nelson went out east on his claim in the reservation last Thursday.

Geo. Anne, of Woodside, is going to build a nice mill boat on Maple Lake.

J. L. Sletten has finished his barn, and is going to have it painted next week.

T. J. Farden was in town Tuesday and figured on a bill of lumber for a new barn 38x56 ft.

Burt Compton has bought a bill of lumber and is going to build an addition to his house.

T. J. Farden, of Tilden, is moving his houses and barn into the grove west of his present place.

K. Markinson, of Woodside, was in town Tuesday and bought a large bill of lumber. He is building a granary with sheds on the sides for machinery.

Joseph Tagley had his horse cut in a barb wire fence last week. The cut is a bad one and it may take several weeks before he can use the horse again.

Mr. Sater, of Hallock, stopped in town a few days last week. He is intending to move down here, and will probably engage in the mercantile business with Joseph Tagley.

Three more settlers came to town Monday from Dongina county. They had a carload of horses, cattle and machinery with them, but they have not bought land yet as they intend to.

The St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator Company is going to put in a gasoline engine in their elevator here, and a carload of brick has already arrived for the engine house. The masons will arrive next week, and work will commence at once.

FERTILE.

Knut Knutson is very ill with peritonitis.

C. E. Sawyer, of Crookston, was in town this week.

Mrs. Andrew Larson, of Bear Park, is seriously ill.

H. L. Conklin sold his house last week to Jacob Milsten.

E. L. Johnson and Adolf Johnson went to Crookston Tuesday.

G. Frick, W. F. Peterson and Chas. Tschida drove to Bemidji Monday to attend the firemen's tournament there.

H. L. Gaylord returned from St. Paul Monday morning, where he had been to take the law examination for admission to the bar.

About fifteen people from here went over to Beltrami last Sunday to be present at the dedication of the new Congregational church there.

Geo. Krouschmidt has placed a new and much larger brick moulding machine in the brickyard thus greatly increasing the capacity of the yard.

The ten-year-old boy of Emer Erickson, of Bear Park was painfully hurt last Thursday evening by the trigger of a double barreled muzzle loading shot gun. Both barrels went offat once causing the gun to kick to such an extent that the trigger fractured the nose and tore the flesh around the right eye and down the nose for about three inches making it necessary to put in three stitches.

EUCLID.

Mr. A. H. Pihlin went to Fargo, N. D., Monday.

Mrs. Scovill gave a temperance lecture Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie, drove to Crookston on Wednesday.

Mrs. E. Fisk was one of the Crookstonites, who visited here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Stuhr left for Fond Du Lac, Wis., Thursday. Mrs. Stuhr being called there by the death of her brother-in-law.

NIELSVILLE.

Frank Hanson is building an addition to his house.

K. S. Aker has purchased a new carriage and a set of harness to match.

Andrew Grosjeans returned home from Benson, where he went to attend the funeral of his sister Genn.

A. Monson has cut out about 600 trees around his house. He has also put up a wire netting fence about the premises.

With the seeding done and good prices prevailing many of the farmers have resumed hauling wheat to market. The growing crop outlook is favorable.

Our hardware dealer. E. C. Oustad, is building a new store 28x60, which will be ready to move into soon. It is situated north of the hotel.

Mrs. Mons left last Wednesday to join her husband, who was called to Kenyon a couple of weeks ago by the serious illness of his father. The last letter from Mr. Mons reported the aged man quite low.

Mesdames J. C. and Mrs. S. C. Hayes started on a trip to Minneapolis last week Thursday to attend the general assembly of the Presbyterian church which convened in that city the 18th inst. They returned home today (Wednesday).

HALSTAD.

The Ryan House closed last Tuesday.

Seeding is all done around Halstad.

A heavy shower, lasting several hours, fell last Tuesday evening.

The five-cent Olson building is being fitted up for a temperance saloon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Kjeldberg attended a wedding party at Ada last Sunday.

A. Ackern has traded a farm to Gunder Howard for the Ryan House property.

Seven persons have newly completed his new dwelling house. It is a good sized residence.

Ole Chilberg is remodeling the Tom Herberg house, and will use it for his own dwelling place.

There will be a district session of the I. O. G. T. lodge here June 11 and 12. Visitors are cordially invited.

C. H. Anderson has commenced the moving of his dwelling house on to the lot next to A. Ackern's dwelling.

The Modern Woodmen lodge here have eight candidates for initiation Thursday night, May 25. A good time is anticipated.

All our school teachers, together with a large number of other citizens, went to Hendrum last Saturday to attend a teachers' meeting.

The Halsted K. P. lodge will visit Ada on the 26th inst., for the purpose of instituting a Knights of Pythias lodge at that place.

The new floor mill is completed and now ready for work. It has a 75 barrel capacity. Mr. Berg from Crookston will be miller here.

The Brock saloon building will be moved this week on the lots just east of J. C. H. Johnson's candy store, where it will be used for a postoffice.

J. H. Hunter, who has been away from home on an inventory trip for the G. N. R. R., returned last Saturday via Crookston. He covered the northern divisions.

SHELLY.

Considerable wheat is coming to town.

Mr. Moen, our postmaster, has just treated his house to a coat of paint.

George Altritt, the lumberman, has received a car of lumber from St. Hilaire.

Thos. Myers, who has been on the sick list for the past ten days, is improving.

The Farmers' Lumber Co. received three car loads of lumber in the past few days.

A. O. Anderson will ship a car load of potatoes tomorrow (Thursday) to St. Paul.

M. C. Johnson and son Ine justy returned from Perbie, where they visited friends.

Dr. Schroeder is with us no more and our mail today took the Duluth train to Bemidji to attend the big nurse ment. The railway platform was filled with citizens who wished the boys bon voyage and great success in the contests.

The band, decked out in their white duck trousers and regulation band coats and caps, made a fine appearance as they marched from the City Hall to the station. Here while waiting for the train Prof. Riggs and his players gave a concert to the great delight of the crowd. There were eighteen of the band members, Lucius Miller, Homer Billington, Arthur Kirsch and Albert Johnson being unable to go on account of school work. A special car was put on at Crookston for the accommodation of Prof. Riggs' musicians and Tom Morris' fire buddies.

The firemen's running team was made up of Archie McKinnon, captain, Walter Stone, Charley Hitchcock, George Young, Morris Brosseau, A. P. Kirsch, Albert Halvorson, Albert Harris, James Montague, Fred Harris, B. Couvrette, Arthur Harris, Albert Barrette, Spooks Dickman, George Logenfeld and Will Winney.

WANTED:—Teachers to attend Crookston College Summer School. It is cheap, thoroughly practical. Term opens June 12, and continues eight weeks. Address, Crookston College, Crookson Minn. 4-30

Miss Amy Clark and Miss Edie Edmonds, of Caledonia College, stopped off on their way home Monday and Tuesday for a visit.

A. G. Aanenson has moved his house to the east side, to make room for T. S. Anderson's new house, he having sold the lot to Mr. Anderson.

T. S. Anderson is building a very nice house in the western part of town. The dimensions are, main part, 16x28, and additions 10x16 and 12x16, 16 feet posts.

Ole Bekkedahl has recently opened up a dry good store in the building recently built by Austin & Lovold. He keeps a good supply of boots and shoes, dry goood and clothing. We wish him success.

DEATH ON A SHAFT.

John E. Van Tuyl Caught in the Machinery at the Saw Mill.

About 11 o'clock last Monday night John E. Van Tuyl was battered to death by machinery in the lumber mill in South Crookston.

He was on the night force at the mill and was employed on the first floor to keep straight the edgings which fell onto a transfer table and were hence carried out of the mill. From where he was working it was possible for him to see part of the machinery on the second floor and he noticed that one of the belts was off. He, therefore, left his post and went below, crawling through one of the belt holes, it is said, rather than going round by the regular stairway. Just what happened it is impossible to state for no one was there to see, but the millwright, who makes the rounds to see that everything is right noticed that something was wrong with the machinery in that part of the mill and on approaching found Mr. Van Tuyl literally wrapt around one of the shafts which was revolving at a rapid rate. His head was badly cut and his arms and legs broken and battered. The shaft was quickly stopped and the entire machinery of the mill was shutted while the man was carried outside, but in a moment or two he breathed his last. Dr. Dampier was called but life was gone ere he arrived. Coroner Miller and C. S. Chesterman were also summoned and the remains were brought over to Chesterman's undertaking rooms. There is no doubt as to the cause of the man's death hence no jury inquest will be necessary.

Mr. Van Tuyl has been around machinery a good deal and it is an old saying that familiarity breeds contempt. He had considerable skill in adjusting a belt to a pulley while the machinery was in motion, but under any circumstances this is a very dangerous thing to do.

He was 55 years of age at the time of his death. During the fifteen years previous to his coming to Crookston two years ago, he lived in the vicinity of Maple Lake.

Every acquaintance of his speaks of him in terms of the highest praise. He leaves a wife, a boy and girl 15 and 16 years old respectively and one married son.

Brief services were held at the rooms of Undertaker Chesterman this morning, and the friends went with the casket to Mentor, on the nine o'clock train, where the funeral services were held in the Congregational church, Rev. Herman P. Fisher officiating. The interment was made in the cemetery near Mentor, where a daughter, Mrs. C. C. Lawton was buried two years ago.

CROOKSTON BAND AND FIREMEN.

Left Tuesday Morning for Bemidji—Crookston Well Represented.

The band boys and firemen were given a good send off Tuesday morning when they took the Duluth train for Bemidji to attend the big tournament. The railway platform was filled with citizens who wished the boys bon voyage and great success in the contests.

The band, decked out in their white duck trousers and regulation band coats and caps, made a fine appearance as they marched from the City Hall to the station. Here while waiting for the train Prof. Riggs and his players gave a concert to the great delight of the crowd. There were eighteen of the band members, Lucius Miller, Homer Billington, Arthur Kirsch and Albert Johnson being unable to go on account of school work. A special car was put on at Crookston for the accommodation of Prof. Riggs' musicians and Tom Morris' fire buddies.

The firemen's running team was made up of Archie McKinnon, captain, Walter Stone, Charley Hitchcock, George Young, Morris Brosseau, A. P. Kirsch, Albert Halvorson, Albert Harris, James Montague, Fred Harris, B. Couvrette, Arthur Harris, Albert Barrette, Spooks Dickman, George Logenfeld and Will Winney.

WANTED:—Teachers to attend Crookston College Summer School. It is cheap, thoroughly practical. Term opens June 12, and continues eight weeks. Address, Crookston College, Crookson Minn. 4-30

NEW CHURCH AT BELTRAMI.

Elaborate Dedicatory Services Were Held Last Sunday.

Last Sunday was a day which will be long remembered at Beltrami. For more than a year the people there have been making an effort to build a church. Largely by the courage and faithfulness of a few interested individuals, a tasty and commodious edifice has been erected. Rev. Benjamin F. Ireson of Fertile was instrumental in securing subscriptions; Mrs. J. J. Carey made the collections, and L. B. Welter together with his son made the plans and personnel a large part of the labor of construction. Others there were who assisted in substantial and self denying ways. Last Sunday occurred the first formal service in the new house of worship. Rev. B. F. Ireson had general charge; Rev. Edwin H. Stickney, of Fargo, offered the dedicatory prayer, and Rev. Benjamin P. Fisher of this city preached the sermon. J. W. Wheeler and wife; Geo. F. Carpenter and Miss Grace Hawes, were present from Crookston to assist in the music. The day was fine, and the people filled the house. In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Stickney preached on "The Worth of the Church to a Community", and assisted in the organization of a Sunday School.

The edifice is yet to be painted and finished on the inside but as far as has been done is a credit to the builders. The work stands as a testimony of the enterprise and public spirit of the Beltrami people.

NORTAL SCHOOL COURSES.

Five Years for Complete Course, two Years for High School Graduates.

In no way can a nation, a state or a town look after its interests better than by keeping the standard of its schools high. In this respect Minnesota ranks high and will rank higher in view of the changes that are about to be made in the course in the normal schools. A special committee appointed to examine into this matter is ready to report to the normal school board.

As agreed upon by the committee, a pupil may enter the normal school and complete the course in five years, or may enter after finishing a high school course and complete the course in two years. It abandons the scheme by which one could graduate in three years or with one year after the high school. It takes for granted a graded school course and something over. The common branches are no longer to be taught in the normal schools for the facts in them, but studied for further knowledge and for methods of teaching. There will be first, second and third years, each by way of designation, and the junior and senior classes in advanced work. High school graduates will enter the junior class with those that have taken three years in academic work in the preparatory.

There will be two courses—Latin and English—instead of three courses, as before. Both will cover the same length of time. The junior class will take up psychology, pedagogy and the history of education, and will have reviews of the common branches. The senior year will be devoted to practice teaching; more psychology and pedagogy and literature and methods.

On the academic side the work is to be more thorough by lessening the number of subjects. Algebra and geometry will be required to have three terms instead of two and history a year instead of a term. The course is to be compressed by dropping some subjects or making them elective. Special attention is to be given to history, science and English composition and literature.

More stress is also to be laid on the technical, theoretical, pedagogical and practical instruction, more of the philosophy of education, and general and special methods of teaching.

USED THE SCISSORS.

Ole Hildahl, Living Seven Miles East of Beltrami, Committed Suicide Last Thursday.

Ole Hildahl, who lived on a farm about seven miles east of Beltrami, put an end to his life last Thursday evening by plunging a pair of scissors into his heart.

He has been living with two of his brothers, Evan and Hans. His mind has been at times somewhat weak and he has been subject to fits, which usually left him very despondent. He had more than once been heard to say that he really had nothing for which to live, but no one ever suspected that he had any intention of laying violent hands on himself.

On Thursday he had one of his bad turns, still he helped his brothers with the work after supper. Returning to the house he was seen to be handling the scissors, still no particular attention was paid to him till he was heard to be breathing heavily, when his brothers went to him and soon discovered that he had stabbed himself. The help of the neighbors was sought, but he lived but a few minutes after the fatal act.

He was 33 years old and a great reader, being particularly fond of studying works on physiology. His funeral occurred on Saturday.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following are the real estate transfers for Polkcounty as furnished by Christianson & Strander, abstractors, for the week ending May 20, 1899:

John Milton Oliver to S P M & M Ry right of way over sec 8 sec 2-148-48 ..... 500 00

S P M & M Ry to John J. Herbert sec 8 sec 2-148-48 ..... 500 00

Marcus Johnson and A. D. Stephens to S N Sorenson and M. E. Sandifer lots 18 and 19 block 1 West Crookston 145 00

Frank Kinsler to John Stegner part of sec 4-147-46 ..... 750 00

Gimbrel Mee to Fielding Goodison lot 16 block 3 cookston of Maple Ins 1 00

G G Combs to Stephen Ford et al lots 5 and 6 block 4 Fertile 40 00

John D Erwin to D. J. Hanton lots 14 and 15 block 13 Fisher 100 00

Peder A Olsen to Soren P Jorgenson lot 2 block 4 original Euclid 550 00

Lisa Sawyer to Anna Lofgren lot 4 block 7 Clements 3 addition to Crookston 65 75

Mike Gordes to John Waterswadt lot 8 block 7 original townsite of Crookston 175 00

Ole Hansen to Ole Edward Hansen sec 6 sec 6-147-46 ..... 1000 00

Ole Edward Hansen to Gimahil Hansen sec 6 sec 6-147-46 ..... 1000 00

Ann M Tice to Hans O Folvig swl sec 36-149-47 ..... 1200 00

Calef W Palmer to Ole H Bjoln wh of lot 1 block 11 Fletcher and Houston addition to Crookston 1 00

Rosalie Berg to Peter Grinnell sec 5 sec 14-148-51 ..... 2360 00

Marcus Johnson and A. D Stephens to Nellie Masters 33x100 ft in sec 33-147-46 ..... 75 00

T A Sullivan to F J Duffy nwq sec 34 sec 34-151-45 ..... 320 00

John Milton Oliver to Franklin A Lane et al right of way over sec 8 sec 2-148-48 ..... 2000 00

F J Duffy to Richard Gerhardt nwq sec 34 sec 34-151-45 ..... 320 00

Iver I Hillestad to Mary E Street lots 2 and 3 block 1 Lundeen addition to townsite of West Crookston 500 00

Willis F Street to John Stephenson lot 2 block 2 Lundeen addition to townsite of West Crookston 400 00

Hans O Hoff to Andrew J Hilden ne sec 8 north of Buys re-subd of sec 8 sec 4 of less 1, 3 and 4 of sec 8-150-48 ..... 320 00

Evan P Ulland to James O Sooland nwq sec 32-147-43 ..... 2320 00

Anton Johnson Solhjem to H E Lesenger nwq sec 30-147-46 ..... 320 00

John Brandt to Katherina Brandt swq sec 32-152-48 ..... 3000 00

Katherina Brandt to Mary Brandt swq sec 32-152-48 ..... 3000 00

Notice of Application for Liquor License.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk, City of Crookston.

Notice is hereby given, That applications have been made in writing to the Common Council of said City of Crookston and to any other proper authority for license to sell liquor for the term commencing on July 1st, 1899, and terminating on June 30th, 1900, by the following persons, and at the following places, respectively stated in said applications, respectively, to-wit:

LOUIS MORIN

The fourth store room, ground floor, fronting on Second street, in block No. 12, of frame building owned by Grand Central Hotel Company, in City of Crookston.

HENRIETTA WATERWRIGHT

Ground floor of brick building, now in course of construction, situate on lot 5, block 16, original townsite of City of Crookston, fronting on Main street at No. 256.

HEZARD MERCIL

The south store room, ground floor, fronting on Second street No. 122, of brick building known as and numbered 120 and 122 Second street, on lots 3 and 4, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston.

P. J. MOSTAD

Ground floor of frame building situate in lot 6, block A, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, known as Robert street at No. 124.

ALFRED BROSSEAU

North store room, fronting on Broadway, of brick building known as and numbered 116 Broadway, situate on lots 10, 11 and 12, block 2, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston at street Nos. 114, 116 and 118.

PETER J. BARTLEY

The south store room, ground floor, fronting on Second street, in block No. 12, of brick building known as "Hotel Crookston" situate on lots 1 and 2, block 2, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston.

ERNEST BOSCH

West store room, ground floor, fronting on Second street, of brick building known as and numbered 109 Second street, situate on lots 22, 23 and 24, block 16, original townsite of City of Crookston, at street No. 114.

CHRIST C. BOCH

Store room fronting on Second street, ground floor, of brick building known as the "Brecklit block" at street No. 116, situate on lots 1 and 2, block 16, original townsite of City of Crookston.

ALEXANDER S. GATES & CHARLES E. SARGENT,

Under the firm name of Gates & Sargent, Ground floor of frame building, situate on east 30 feet of lots 21 and 24, block 16, original townsite of City of Crookston, corner of Broadway and Second street, at No. 102.

ALBERT D. GAIS

Wash end room of the one story frame building at corner of Main and Second streets, situate on lot 1, block 16, original townsite of City of Crookston, at street No. 322.

OTTO BURKHAUSER

Ground floor of frame building known as the "Cleveland House" situate on lot 12, block 18, original townsite of City of Crookston, corner of Main and Fourth street at street No. 324.

S. KAPPA

Ground floor of frame building, situate on lots 5 and 6, block 4, original townsite of Crookston, fronting on Main street at No. 125.

DAVID A. CLEARY & CATHERINE C. BERRELL

Under the firm name of Cleary & Berrell, brick building, situate on lots 7 and 8, block 4, Fletcher & Houston addition to Crookston, known as the "Mickinnon block" in store room, street No. 106, fronting on Main street, ground floor.

JOHN ASHTEN

Ground floor of frame building, situate on lot 9, block 3, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, fronting on Main street at No. 112.

TOM O. SUNDBY

Ground floor of frame building, situate on lot 5, block 7, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, fronting on Main street at No. 107.

Per the terms commencing on June 18th, 1899, and terminating on June 30th, 1900, the following persons, and at the following places, as stated in said applications, respectively, to-wit:

ELIZ ASCHLEN

The south store room at brick building, known as the "Fortier block," corner of Second street and Broadway, situate on lot 1, block 2, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, at street No. 102½.

JOHN B. PRATT

East room on ground floor of brick building known as the "Germania Hotel" fronting on Main street and situate on lot 1, block 3, original townsite of City of Crookston at street No. 320.

WILLIAM F. PETERSON.

Front room on ground floor, facing Broadway, of the two story frame building known as the "Bonnemilcher corner," situate on lot 13, block 16, original townsite of City of Crookston, at street No. 324.

Said applications will be heard and determined by said Common Council of the City of Crookston at the Regular meeting in the City hall in said City of Crookston in said County and State of Minnesota on the 19th day of June A. D. 1899 at 7:30 o'clock of that said day.

Witness my hand and seal of said city this 20th day of May A. D. 1899.

[SEAL] WM. A. LANCTOT, City Clerk.

For Sale.

Tamarack house posts, 6 and 8 cents.

VANCE & STONE.

JISSNER'S Rheumatism and Kidney Cure. A sure cure for rheumatism and kidney troubles. Take a vile drink for them from surface wells, which is nearly always impure. Get the pure spring all made or less affected with rheumatism and kidney trouble. Ask your druggist about the pure cure of this remedy. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail by C. E. Jissner, Crookston, Minn.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & CO., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

A. W. GLEASON,
Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO. Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Final Proof.

Land office at Crookston, Minn. May 16th, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn on June 30th, 1899, viz.

SVEN CARLSON

of Fisher, Minn., for the s½ township 150, north of range 47 w.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Ludwig Carlson, Fred Wagner, Adolph Klinger, Medardo Lapplante, all of Fisher, Minn.

SYLVESTER PETERSON,
5-11 Register.

Mortgage Sale.

First publication May 4th, 1899
Last publication June 15th, 1899

Notice of mortgage foreclosure by advertisement.

Notice has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage, hereinafter described, bearing date the fifth day of July, 1892, filed in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk county, Minnesota, on the 7th day of July, 1892, at 10:40 o'clock a. m., and recorded in book "N" of mortgages on page 526, executed by Leo, a widower, mortgagor, to Minneapolis Mortgage Investment Company, a corporation of London (Limited,) of London, England, mortgagee, for the consideration or payment of one thousand dollars, situated in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:

The east half of the northeast quarter (e½ ne¼) and the west half of the northeast quarter (w½ ne¼) of section twenty-four (24), township one hundred forty-three (143), range forty-three (43), containing one hundred sixty (160) acres, more or less, according to the United States government survey thereof, together with the appurtenances and all the estate, title and interest therein derived by said mortgagee or appurtenances.

And no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured thereby, or any part of the same, and there is now due and owing upon said mortgage and said debt the sum of four hundred seventy-two dollars and seventy-five cents (472.75). Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained, said mortgage will be foreclosed and said premises sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash by the sheriff of said Polk county, or his deputy, on the 15th day of June, 1899, at the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, in said Polk county, Minnesota, to pay said debt with interest, taxes (if any) on said premises and the disbursements allowed by law.

Dated, St. Cloud, Minn., April 4th, 1899.

THE AMERICAN FREEHOLD LAND MORTGAGE COMPANY OF LONDON (Limited) of London, England,

Mortgagee.

GEO. H. REYNOLDS,
Attorney for Mortgagee,
St. Cloud, Minn.

Order for Hearing Proof of Will.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk, ss.
In District court, Special term May 2nd, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of George Kasbey, deceased.

Whereas, An instrument in writing, purporting to be his last will and testament of George Kasbey, deceased, late of said County, having been delivered to the Court.

And whereas, R. C. Musser has filed therein his petition, representing that the said instrument contains the last will and testament of said deceased, late of Bexar County, Texas, on the 27th day of April, 1899, and therein praying that the same may be proved, allowed and admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary be issued thereon to the said petitioner.

It is ordered, That the proofs of said instrument, and the petition and hearing thereof, before this court, at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the 27th day of May A. D. 1899, at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, be and the same is hereby appointed for the proof of said instrument.

And it is further Ordered, That notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publishing a copy of this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said County.

Dated at Crookston, Minn. the 2nd day of May, A. D. 1899.

A. A. MILLER, OLE E. HAGEN,
Attorney for Petitioner. Judge of Probate.

Notice of Expiration of Time of Redemption.

To W. H. Miller,

You are hereby notified that on the 5th day of March, A. D. 1896 in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes for the year 1894 on certain real estate, a judgment was duly entered in the District Court in and for Polk County, Minnesota, in the Judicial District of the State of Minnesota, on the 5th day of March A. D. 1896 for the forfeiture of the piece and parcel of land which is described as follows, to-wit:

Lot numbered thirteen (13) in block numbered eight (8) in Steen and Combs' subdivision of lots in Huntsville addition to the Crookston town site, according to the plat and subdivision thereof on file and of record in the office of the County Auditor, in and for said County and State, for the amounts for which it was subject to said taxes for the years aforesaid, together with interest and four dollars and ten cents, the cost of said proceedings, and that the right of redemption of said land from said sale was assigned for the sum of eleven dollars and nine cents, the amount required to redeem the same, that the time allowed by law for redemption of said land from said sale will expire and the right of redemption of said land from said sale will cease and determine three years from the date of said judgment, to-wit: on the 5th day of March A. D. 1899.

Dated, May, A. D., 1899.

[SEAL] JOHN GLEASON,
By N. A. HOFFARD, Deputy.
Clerk of Polk county, Minnesota.

6-8

A SPECIAL MEETING

Official Proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners

Pursuant to call the board of commissioners of Polk county met in special session May 10, 1899, with members Fortier, Thompson and Eastman present.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Thompson, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the auditor is hereby instructed to issue his warrant to T. J. Willson for $800.00, for repairs on Mallory bridge.

Mrs. Rosser, lessee of the Riverside Hospital, appeared before the board relative to the advisability of keeping the hospital open under the existing contract with the county. After a full consideration of the matter Mrs Rosser expressed a willingness to conform to the requirements of her lease and continue the hospital, asking from the board such support and encouragement as that body could consistently give.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Thompson was on motion adopted.

Resolved, That the claims of E. J. Grover, A. R. Holston and N. S. Gordon, in the sum of $25.00 each, for expenses to St. Paul in the interest of Polk county against the Lake county, allowed at a special meeting of this board held commencing on the 19th day of April, 1899, be and the same are hereby reconsidered, and the county auditor is hereby instructed to withold payment of same.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Fortier, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the bills of A. R. Holston, N. S. Gordon and E. J. Grover, for services rendered in the Red Lake county bill against Polk county, be and the same are hereby laid over.

The committee on jail and court house was instructed to examine the courthouse and recommend such needed repairs or alterations as may be deemed advisable at the next meeting of the county board.

The following bills were audited and allowed:

Riverside Hospital care of Carl Johnson, $75.

W. A. Marts, insurance policy $22.

Pence & Stone insurance policy $22

Alex McKinnon, insurance policy $22

H. R. Nelson, repairs on Fisher bridge, $22.

On motion board adjourned sine die.

JOHN GLEASON,
Clerk of the Board.

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Excursion Chicago to Buffalo via the Nickel Plate Road, on occasion of the annual meeting of above order, June 14 and 15. Tickets on sale June 11, 12, and 13, at one first-class fare for the round trip. Tickets will be available from Buffalo to and including July 2, 1899, providing they are deposited with joint agent in Buffalo, on or before June 17, 1899. Passengers may, if desired, have the privilege of either rail or water trip between Cleveland and Buffalo. The Nickel Plate Road has three first class trains daily from Chicago to Buffalo, New York and Boston. For sleeping car reservation address General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

LAWN TENNIS MEETING.

Will be Held Next Saturday at the United States Land Office.

A meeting of those interested in forming a lawn tennis club will be held at 8 o'clock next Saturday evening at the United States land office. Notice of the meeting has been sent to all those who are known to be enthusiasts in this outdoor sport but if any racket wielder has been omitted he may consider himself welcome any way.

It is the intention to fix up from three to five courts right along side one another and enclose the whole ground with wire netting. Just where these courts will be it is not yet decided, but there is some talk of getting the ground just east of the skating rink.

Crookston already has some skilled tennis players and with the additional impetus that the present movement will give to the game, there is no question but there will be some exciting tournaments here this summer.

A UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT.

Timothy's Quest Will be Read and Refreshments Served Afterwards.

Tomorrow evening the Rebekahs will give a unique entertainment in the Odd Fellows' lodge room in the McKinnon block.

"Timothy's Quest," one of Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggins charming stories for children, will be read, those taking part in the rendition being Misses Edith Lusian, Evelyn Hall, Arnum Field, Marie Montague, Florence Lytle, Nora Fuller, Christine Johnson, and Bruce Harris, George Kyle, Eddie Schmidt and Walter Stone. In addition to the readings, Mrs. Riggs will give a piano solo, Miss Martha Munch a vocal solo, and Misses Martha Munch and Anna Field a duet. Refreshments will be served at the close of the intellectual feast. You can't afford to miss it.

BASE BALL ENTHUSIASM.

Three Crookston Teams Played last Saturday—Ada will be Here Tomorrow.

Though the first nine of Crookston has not materialized there are numerous other nines in the city and these players are playing fast ball though not quite fast enough to defeat all outside teams. On Saturday two games were played within the city limits and the high school boys went to Red Lake Falls. Handy's nine men, gay with their scarlet suits, faced a boys' team from Grand Forks and had them beaten up to within a few minutes of when the game ended but at this point the kids from the west took a spurt and the score stood 25 to 24 in favor of Grand Forks when the ninth inning closed. At the old base ball grounds northeast of town the Queen City team crossed bats with the boys from the Woods and they went down before them to the tune 12 to 13.

At Red Lake Falls the Crookston high school nine played a picked team and the score was 30 to 24 in favor of the other fellows. Our boys claim that the umpire was dead against them and when he thought the Crookston boys had enough runs in any inning he would then retire them in short order. A game between these two aggregations will come off in Crookston some time in the near future.

Tomorrow the Ada ball tielers will be here and on Saturday the high school boys will go to McIntosh.

R.R. SERVICES ON HALSTAD LINE

Vice President Considers Daily Train Will not pay.

Scarcity of labor and the inability of the branch line to pay were two of the excuses Vice President Miller of the Great Northern gave before the state railroad and warehouse commission last Monday afternoon in showing cause why the service on the Moorehead—Crookston branch should not be improved. A daily service Mr. Miller held would entail a considerable loss. Nor could men be found to do the ballasting it had planned for this season. There were needed on the east 7,000 and but 900 had been secured. Next year it was promised that the service would be all that could be asked for.

But this did not satisfy the commission. They all but insisted that a daily mixed train be put on. It was stated that it would be advisable to build stations at Perley, Nelsville and Shelly.

CROOKSTON FIREMEN WIN

Almost all the First Prizes at the Bemidji Tournament—Got a Ducking.

The opening day of the tournament was very auspicious. Crowds were there from all the towns along the line and not the least prominent aggregations were the Crookston City Band and firemen, the former heading the parade. The exercises of Tuesday closed with an address by Attorney Nat Campbell of Crookston.

The potato race Tuesday afternoon was won by Will Winney. In the hose and ladder service yet test the coupling contest and the association hose race Crookston came out ahead with Preston second.

The Bemidji News is publishing a special morning tournament edition.

In the tub race the men were too heavy for the tubs, so they went under each time. The boat race, a half mile out in the lake and back, was hotly contested, J. Simp winning by half a length.

Just before the log-rolling contest came off, a party of Crookston people took Joseph A. Scarrott's steam launch, "Shadow," and steamed out about 150 yards from shore so as to get a good view of the contest. Bert Anderson, dressed as Ole Olson, and Rudy Bassmusson, as his wife, went down to the beach and catchingsight of the Crookstonites in the yacht, got into a row boat and started out to join their fellow townsmen. Their voyage, however, was a short one. They were just well under way when the boat upset and they found themselves struggling to keep their heads above water. The crowds on sea and land cheered the couple as they waded ashore. It is needless to add that "Ole Olson and his wife" know of the log-rolling contests only by hearsay.

Advertised Letters.

List of letters remaining unclaimed at the Crookston, Minn., postoffice for the week ending May 20, 1899:

Alexdecker A Mr
Carlson John
Fischer Mrs Ida
Flaten Ole Tom
Furman Ed
Hanson W
Kehan T Anton
Lee Mrs
Hill Olive Mrs
Putnam Christine
Sonsti Thos Mrs
Andrew Lewis
Bjorke W
Cook Harry
Miller Dave C H
Price W Chas.
Stevenson C P
Robinson John
Carlson Curtis Mrs
Masoge R R Miss
Robinson H Mrs
Western Carlie.

There's a calling for the above any advertised. ANDREW EIKEN,
Postmaster.

—Officer Jacob Andrist reports the arrival at his place, yesterday, of twin kids. Twin goats, he says, are rather unusual and he might to know for he was raised amid the Alpine heights of Switzerland, where goats abound. As the kids appear at present they are very like unto rabbits.

Births.

LANCTOT.

To Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lanctot on Sunday, May 21, a boy.

OLSON

To Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Olson on Wednesday, May 24, a boy.

Deaths.

GEORGE.

On Thursday, May 18, at Fon du Lac, Wis., Adolph George, brother-in-law of Mrs. P. Stuhr, of Euclid. Deceased was formerly a resident of Crookston.

JUHL.

On Friday, May 19, at his home in this city near the county hospital, Henry Juhl, of typhoid fever. Deceased was 37 years old and has lived in Crookston for the last three years. He leaves a widow, all of whose relatives are in Germany. The funeral occurred Sunday afternoon and was in charge of the German Lutheran minister. Mr. Juhl was very industrious and had won the respect of all who had met him.

ROSS.

On Tuesday evening, May 18, at her home in Nesbit Mrs. John Ross. She had been suffering from appendicitis and had an operation performed but after the operation other complications set in from which, owing to her weak condition, she could not rally. Mr. and Mrs. Ross came to Nesbit twelve years ago and have since lived on their farm. Their family consisted of seven boys and three girls the youngest of whom was about eight years old. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon from her late home, services being held in the German Lutheran church at Nesbit.

MOEN.

On Saturday May 20, at the home of her father, Ole A. Moen, near Marsh station, Mary Moen, aged 7 years. The funeral occurred on Tuesday afternoon, the interment being at Maria.

REGLAND

On Sunday, May 21, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. P. J. Russell, in this city, Ole Regland, aged 72 years. The remains were shipped by Undertaker Cheetham on Tuesday morning to Thief River Falls, where the deceased's wife was buried. He had been visiting with his daughter here for about three weeks. Besides Mrs. Russell he leaves three other daughters who live at Warren, Grand Forks and Drayton. He had a brother living at Euclid.

BERGLAND

On Sunday, May 21, Anna Pettreun, aged one year and nine months, daughter of T. O. Bergland, who lives about nine miles west of town. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the Synod church, the burial being at Oakdale cemetery.

LATE MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, May 24.

WHEAT—Cash, No. 1 hard 72c; No. 1 Northern, 74½c. No. 2 Northern 69½c; No. 3, 67¼. To Arrive—No. 1 hard, 76½c; No. 1 Northern, 74½c; May, 74½c; July, 75c.

Minneapolis Wheat.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 24.

WHEAT—In Store—No. 1 Northern, 71½c; July, 72¾c; September, 71½@71¾c. On Track No. 1 hard, 74½c; No. 1 Northern, 73¾. No. 2 Northern, 71¾c.

Sioux City Live Stock.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., May 24.

HOGS—Market 5c higher. Range of price, $3.00@3.75

CATTLE—Market about steady.

Sales ranged at $4.00 @5.00 for cows; bnoves, $3.00@4.50 for cows, bulls and mixed; $3.75@4.90 for stockers and feeders, $4.75@5.30 for calves and yearlings

Receipts: Hogs, 3,000; cattle, 1,200.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, May 24.

HOGS—Market active and 5c higher. Range of price, $3.75@3.75¾

CATTLE—Market strong and active. Not enough to supply the demand.

Sales ranged at $3.40@4.75¾ for steers, $2.00@4.80 for cows; $3.65@4.00 for bulls; $3.00@5.10 for calves; $4.00@5.10 for stockers; $3.75 @5.75 for bulls

SHEEP—Market strong and active. Good sheep and lambs are in demand. Very few on the market.

Sales ranged at $4.50@5.00 for sheep; $6.00 for spring lambs.

Receipts: Cattle, 600; calves, 700; hogs 1,000; sheep, 25.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, May 24.

HOGS—Market fully 5c higher.

Sales ranged at $3.70@3.97½ for mixed and butchers; $3.83@4.00 for good to choice heavy; $3.60@3.75 for rough heavy; light, $3.70@3.92½ for light

CATTLE—Market strong.

Sales ranged at $4.40@5.60 for beeves; $2.00@5.00 for cows and heifers; $4.25@4.90 for Texas steers; $4.75@5.15 for stockers and feeders

SHEEP—Market slow but steady.

Sales ranged at $4.75@5.00 for sheep; $5.00@5.65 for short lambs; $5.00@6.90 for wooled lambs.

Receipts: Hogs, 17,000; cattle, 2,000; sheep, 14,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, May 24.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—May, 74c; July 75c.

CORN—May, 33c; July, 32¼@33½c; tember, 34¼c.

OATS—May, 26¾c; July, 23¾@24c; September, 23½@24.

PORK—May, $6.15; July, $6.25; September, $6.40

POULTRY—Dressed, turkeys 11c; chickens, 9½c; ducks, 7@7½c

BUTTER—Creameries, 13@17½c; dairies, 10@16c.

EGGS—Fresh, 12c.

Crookston Market.

The following is the price of wheat quoted in the local market this morning:

No. 1 hard.....65c
No. 1 northern.....63c
No. 2 northern.....59c

WHOOP!

BIG CELEBRATION at FARGO

JUNE 7, 8, 9, '99

A Lot of ...BANDS...
A Lot of ...PEOPLE...
Going to be There

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC R. R.

IS RIGHT IN IT WITH

ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP

Call on the Northern Pacific Agent QUICK and find out all about it.

CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

HIGH-GRADE HAWTHORNE $22.50 NET.

SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne. Cranks—26 inch ribbonod shapes. Chain—3/4 inch best electric welded. Sprockets—Steel, 22 teeth. Bearings—Inner and outer cone and ball bearings. Hubs—Drop forged. Rims—Wood, 28 inch. Tires—Hartford, 28 inch, option Diur Stinger. Finish—Dark spring green, neatly and striped. Handle-bars—Drop pattern, 22 inches wide. Grips—Rubber. Saddles—Are used on 3 year, Gendron, No. 1. Handle Bars and attachments—Drop pattern, nickeled. Hubs—Drop forged, nickeled. Spokes—Tangent, Excelsior, 14 gauge. Pedals—Rubber, 4 inch. Weight—About 35 pounds. Sizes—Ladies' and Gents' frame, 20, 22, 24 and 26 inches. Equipment—Complete, consisting of wrench, oiler, repair outfit and tool-bag. Guarantee—One year. Shipping weight—About 40 pounds. Terms—Cash in full or one dollar per month. Weight—About 35 pounds.

15000 Sold in 1898

It's as good as any wheel made. All modern improvements. Guaranteed for one year. If not found as represented, return at our expense both ways, and you can have your money back without question.

ASK US TO SEND YOU OUR FREE BICYCLE CATALOGUE. It tells nearly two hundred other bargains. It tells everything used by nobility.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

Notice of Dissolution.

CROOKSTON, April 8, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between Rudolph T. Dahl and A. M. Dahl, under the firm name of Northwestern Auto Co., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. All bills owing to said firm and all bills payable by said firm will be collected and paid by A M Dahl, who will continue her business at the old stand, Robert street, Crookston, under the firm name of Dahl & Co.

In presence of
H. RASMUSSON RUDOLPH T. RASMUSSON.
O. D. DAHL ANNIE M. DAHL.
8-21

Final Proof.

Land office at Crookston, Minn., May, 1st, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the persons named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver, U. S. land office at Crookston, Minnesota, on June 16th, 1899, viz:

JOHN P. BAIKKEN,

H. E. No. 12,987 for the lot 3 and sw¼ nw¼, sw¼, section 3, township 149 n, range 44 w.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Otto H. Camp, Herman Camp, Charles Aschler, John T. Fardon, all of Dupluth, Minnesota.

SYLVESTER PETERSON,
Register
4-9

Notice for Bids.

Bids for building a wooden bridge across the Hummelstech creek, in the town of Fairfax, will be received up to one o'clock p. m. Friday, June 2, at which time the bids will be opened by the town board. Plans on the bridge may be seen on file for the purpose of examination. Plans and specifications can be seen by calling at the residence of the undersigned in the town of Fairfax. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A. G. DANIELS,
Chairman of Board.
5 30

BIGGLE BOOKS

A Farm Library of unequalled value—Practical, Up-to-Date, Concise and Comprehensive—Handsomely Printed and Beautifully Illustrated.
By JACOB BIGGLE

No. 1—BIGGLE HORSE BOOK
All about Horses—3 Common Sense Treatise, with over 70 illustrations; a standard work. Price, 50 Cents.

No. 2—BIGGLE BERRY BOOK
All about growing Small Fruits—read and learn how; contains 24 colored life like reproductions of all leading varieties and 100 other illustrations. Price, 50 Cents.

No. 3—BIGGLE POULTRY BOOK
All about Poultry; the best Poultry Book in existence; tells everything; with 24 colored life like reproductions of all the principal breeds; with 100 other illustrations. Price, 50 Cents.

No. 4—BIGGLE COW BOOK
All about Cows and the Dairy Business; having a great sale; contains 8 colored life like reproductions of each breed, with 12 other illustrations. Price, 50 Cents.

No. 5—BIGGLE SWINE BOOK
Just out. All about Hogs—Breeding, Feeding, Butchery, Diseases, etc. Contains over 60 beautiful halftones and other engravings. Price, 50 Cents.

The BIGGLE BOOKS are unique, original, useful—you never saw anything like them—so practical, so sensible. They are having an enormous sale—East West, North and South. Every one who reads a Biggle Book, Cow, Hog or Chicken, or a copy of Biggle's Poultry, ought to send right away for the BIGGLE BOOKS. The

FARM JOURNAL

Is your paper, made for you and not a misfit. It is 32 years old, it is the great bolted-down hit-the-nail-on-the-head,—quit-after-you-have-said-it, Farm and Household paper in the world—the biggest paper of its size in the United States of America—having over a million and a half regular readers.

Any ONE of the BIGGLE BOOKS, and the FARM JOURNAL a YEARS (remainder of '99, 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903) will be sent to any address for a DOLLAR BILL.

Sample of FARM JOURNAL and circular describing BIGGLE BOOKS free.

WILMER ATKINSON, Address, FARM JOURNAL,
CHAS. P. JENKINS. PHILADELPHIA.

YOU CAN USE IT 20 DAYS FREE

Tip-to-date in every detail.

Are we to ship you one of our High Arm Sewing Machines with that high reputation behind it, direct from our factory to you for examination and trial in your home for 20 days without asking you to pay a penny, without requiring you to put up a dollar as security, without asking you to even pay the freight. It don't cost you one cent, unless you take the machine. We have sold over 100,000 and they are all giving perfect satisfaction. Our 1899 model is the finest we ever produced. Quite ornamental. Has all the latest improvements. Positive Drop Feed, Self Threading Shuttle, Self-Setting Needle, Automatic Bobbin Winder, Automatic Stop Motion, Noiseless Running, Handsome Oak Woodwork, Full Set of Attachments, Instruction Book, Handy Pocket Set of Screwdrivers, Oil can filled, Guaranteed for 10 years and Warranted for 5 years. Send us your name and address and we will explain our offer in detail. Write us a postal today. Don't buy a sewing machine of anybody else until you have received our catalogue and our offer. It will save you money. Don't forget this. Send us your name and address today.

Send it costs for our 200-page catalogue, it tells everything used by mankind.

Celebration of The Catalogue Business. MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., Michigan Ave. & Madison St., Chicago.

Polk County Journal,
BY N. S. GORDON.

Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second class matter.

Official Paper of the City of Crookston.

IN the last issue of the Crookston People's Press there was printed "Vol 2 No. 1." Thus it is made evident that Brother Knappen has passed the mile post and in future it will be clearer sailing for him.

THE custom of having the school children take part in the Memorial Day exercises is to be commended. They are at the age when impressions made upon their minds are lasting, and the lesson that they may learn as they see the graves covered with flowers and the citizens assembled to do honor to the soldiers, will be worth more to them than many days within the school room.

THE trouble in Cuba seems to be partly over. At any rate preparations are being made for the distribution to the Cuban soldiers of the $3,000,000, their arms to be surrended to the Mayors of several of the towns and placed in the arsenals. Most of the disagreement has been caused not by the soldiers themselves but by the officers who do not like to lose their present positions.

MEMORIAL Day is sacred to the memory of the brave men who left home and friends when the immortal Lincoln said their country needed their services at the front. Brought out, therefore, to be made a gala day, a time for festivities and sports or at least the hours from ten in the morning until three in the afternoon should be set apart and be filled with thoughts of country and of the old soldiers.

YESTERDAY Queen Victoria of Great Britain celebrated her eightieth birthday, surrounded by children even unto the fourth generation. Congratulations poured in upon her from all parts of the world. The aged Queen can look back on a reign the longest of any in English history and one memorable in literature, in territorial expansion and in advance toward a democratic form of government.

ALGER must have been in a great hurry the other day to know whether or not Senator McMillan intended to be a candidate for re-election to the United States senate for he telegraphed the senator asking him to state his position. McMillan replied that he would stand. So now the fight is on. The secretary of war evidently feels that his tenure of his present office is insecure so he is on the lookout for something else.

THE custom of bringing to the cemetery on Memorial Day wreaths of flowers for the unknown dead is a most beautiful one. Many are the heroes who have died for their country whose names are not on our record books, and it is most fitting that these men should be remembered. The best service for one's fatherland is often done unseen and such deeds ought not to be forgotten for they are of the essence of true manhood.

WE doubt if in the history of the United States any man's home coming was ever greeted with such a demonstration as that of Dewey's will be. It will be an event of a life time to witness New York on the day when Dewey arrives. The Admiral left Manila last Saturday amid booming of cannon and cheering of sailors. He is reported to have said that though he deeply appreciated the friendship of his countrymen he hoped they would not be too demonstrative.

SUPT. HOULTON of the state reformatory at St. Cloud is booked for removal by Governor Lind. The Alexandria Post-News suggests that the second officer in the institution, Mr. Dee Norton, be made superintendent. This would be the business way of doing it inasmuch as Mr. Norton is a competent man, but as Mr. Houlton is not being removed for incompetency it is more than likely that Mr. Lind has some friend whom he will appoint.

THOUGH there are six months until congress meets, still the contest as to who will be speaker of the national house of representatives has even now waxed quite warm and is growing apace. The men who holds this position wields a power next to that of the president, and great care should be taken in his selection. The pitting of the east against the west will only breed sectional bitterness and surely of that spirit we have had enough. Choose the ablest man no matter from what state he comes.

A PLAN is on foot to present Admiral Dewey when he returns from the Philippines, with a handsome residence in Washington, the money to pay for the gift to be raised by public subscription. We think the scheme is laudable and we are heartily in favor of it. As a nation we owe much to Dewey and though it is true that he has received the heartfelt thanks of all Americans—greater reward no man can have—still it cannot but be pleasing to him to receive something substantial like this from his country men.

THE JOURNAL is heartily in favor of the idea of a bicycle club being formed in Crookston, as such an organization would benefit both the city and the bicyclists. With union the bike riders could obtain what they think is their due in the way of city ordinances and at the time of any celebration in town the cyclists would be in a position to assist as cyclists in making the celebration a success. A bicycle parade at our street fair would be an attractive feature but so far only a few wheelmen have joined in the procession.

THE war in the Philippines is fast drawing to a close. Admiral Dewey expressed this as his opinion when he was on the eve of leaving Manila and surely he ought to know if any one does. Aguinaldo is evidently about through fighting for he keeps sending emissaries of peace to General Otis, who is in command of our forces in the Philippines. No armistice has been granted, as the Filipino leader wished, but pending negotiations the fighting will not be as aggressive on the part of the Americans as it has been.

ELSEWHERE in this issue will be found the official proceedings of the board of county commissioners at the special meeting held in Crookston, May 15, which report was kindly furnished us by County Auditor Glenson. We wish, however, to take exception to the wording of the resolutions which deal with the disposition of the money appropriated, at the previous meeting, to certain men who spent some time at St. Paul recently working against a measure that was unjust to Polk county. The resolutions read "that the claims of E. J. Grover, A. R. Holston and N. S. Gordon, for expenses to St. Paul, etc." and "that the bills of A. R. Holston, N. S. Gordon and E. J. Grover, for services rendered, etc." We know nothing about what the other two men mentioned did, but we wish it distinctly understood that we made no claim upon the county for expenses, that we presented no bill for services rendered.

THE pence conference called by the Czar of all the Russians is in session at the Hague. Baron De Staal, Russian ambassador to Great Britain, was chosen president. It seems to be the general impression that the question of mediation and arbitration will have the first place in the proceedings, that the question of rendering war as humane as possible will come next and that the reduction of armaments will come last. It is hardly possible that any steps can be taken at the present time to decrease the war equipments, but if private property at sea in time of war be exempted from capture, an important step toward universal peace will have been made, and if an arbitration board for the nations of the world be established, so that before two states go to war the questions in dispute will first be referred to this board, still greater progress will have been made toward the desired end. The peace of the world cannot be brought about in a day, but the conference at the Hague gives great promise that we will ultimately enjoy that state of affairs.

COUNTY TREASURY SHORT.

W. P. Snow, an Expert Accountant, Will Examine Records.

At the time when it was discovered that Ex-County Treasurer Beaudry was short in his accounts an examination was made of some of the records, but all the amounts were not located.

The county commissioners have now secured the services of an expert accountant, W. P. Snow, who was formerly in the state public examiner's office and with assistance from the local office Mr. Snow will go over all the records that were made during Mr. Beaudry's term of office, with a view to finding out just when the different amounts were out. It will probably be several weeks before the work is completed, but when it is the county will be in a position to call upon Mr. Beaudry's bondsmen to make good the deficit.

First of the Season.

Excursions to points via the Nickel Plate Road, at one fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale June 11, 12 and 13, good returning to and including July 2, 1899, providing they are deposited with joint agent in Buffalo on or before June 17, 1899. Do not miss this opportunity of visiting Buffalo and Niagara Falls at a very reasonable expense. City Ticket Office, 111 Adams St., Chicago. Depot, Van Buren Street Passenger Station, Chicago, on the Elevated Loop.

Notes From Exchanges.

Hendrum News: The trustees of the Presbyterian church wrote to the Farmer's lumber yard at Halsted for a bid on a bill of lumber, and got a reply back stating that the yard did not want to sell any lumber in the village of Hendrum, and also had a number of other gruesome reasons for not wishing to sell lumber here. It is a queer way of doing business, and it would appear to an outsider that the Farmers' lumber yard had followed the fashion and gone into a trust.

Princeton Union: There has been a good deal of the usual manufacturer rot in the legislature about the "poor" farmer. The farmer is not poor. Taken as a class, he is the richest man in the world. Taking the total population of the cities, not more than one man out of twenty has a clean title for more than he owes on his back. Take the average farmer community, and nine farmers out of ten are solvent, and have something laid up for a rainy day, and still they talk about the "poor" farmer.

Little Falls Transcript: While the people of Cuba as a rule are busy with their work, and are trying to revive the great agricultural interests of the island, some of the military leaders and aspiring politicians are trying to raise personal advantages for themselves. Gen. Brooke is unable to reach any agreement with these men as to the distribution of the money apportioned for the Cuban soldiers. As soon as a prominent Cuban co-operates with Brooke, the rest of the would-be leaders declare the other fellow has sold out his country.

Moorhead News: The Editor of the News has read with much interest the great speech of Senator C. K. Davis, at the banquet tendered to him by the commercial bodies and citizens of St. Paul Tuesday evening last. There is no question of the Senator's great oratorical ability or of his transcendent information on the subjects treated of. He recited the events of the Spanish-American war with faithful historical accuracy. His conclusions on most points are irresistible, and we are free to confess that his speech arouses admiration in any thoughtful mind, and it is especially a matter for pride that the state of Minnesota is represented in national affairs by a man of such remarkable powers.

Ada Index: Had Gov. Lind imagined how the people of Minnesota would call him to account for voting the bill giving the railroad and warehouse commission judicial powers, it is safe to say that he would not have put his name to the measure. Since it became generally known that the governor vetoed the bill after the adjournment of the legislature, a cry of disapproval has been heard all over the state, while nobody has had the temerity to attempt any proof that the governor was right. Whatever may have been his purpose he was playing directly into the hands of the railroads, and act of injustice to the farmers and other shippers of Minnesota.

Thief River Falls Press: Last Saturday morning while working on the new mill, the workmen were attracted by what proved to be a real tragedy. Two blackbirds were seen hovering over some logs in the river a few rods from the shore engaged in mortal combat. The fight was "short, sharp and decisive." The mastery was gained, however, and the victor actually caught and held his unfortunate adversary head down in the water until life was apparently extinct, when he flew to a boom stick near by, but seeing his victim again rally and endeavor to gain the end of a log sticking up out of the water he flitted to the spot and mercilessly drove the poor wretch from the last life buoy above the falls. Too weak to make further effort he was drawn by the current into the seething cataract and was seen no more.

Thief River Falls News:—Captain W. A. Mercer, who now has charge of the Indians on the Red Lake reservation with headquarters at Walker, Minn., paid a visit to the woods of the government in this section last week. The government will spend considerable money in an endeavor to make better citizens out of the Indians and Mr. Mercer was here with a view of ascertaining their wants. A saw mill will be built on the shores of the Red Lake near the agency and lumber manufactured for the Indians with which they can build houses. A flour mill will be erected also at the agency which will be used to grind up the flour used by the Indians. The most money, however, will be expended in a large boarding school, which will cost when completed about $35,000, and will be large enough to accommodate all of the young Indians on the reservation.

How She Felt.

"I was feeling quite ill. I had no appetite and felt tired from day to day. Seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised a great deal I thought I would try a bottle. Before taking it all I felt quite well. My husband has also taken Hoods Sarsaparilla with benefit." Mrs. K. J. Rowell, Menominee Falls, Wisconsin.

DON'T OBJECT NOW.

Fertilites Withdraw Their Petition Urging Appeal.

It was mentioned in last week's JOURNAL that certain citizens of Polk county, living near the village of Fertile, had petitioned the county attorney to serve notice of appeal from the action of the county board in appropriating money to certain men for expenses they had incurred while at St. Paul this spring working against what may be called a Red Lake county bill.

Last Saturday these men withdrew their petition, presumably because they know more about the case now than they did when they made the petition. It rests with the county attorney whether or not the appeal will come up before Judge Watts.

Elsewhere.

The bank at Deer River has discontinued business.

Fosston had both a firemen's running team and a base ball nine at the Bemidji tournament.

Grand Forks will hold a summer carnival in July. This is to take the place of the fall street fair.

A Merchants' match is going to be one of the features at the State Shooting tournament to be held in Grand Forks in June.

A Retail Clerks' Protective Association has been formed at Grand Forks with a membership of about 200 young men and young women.

The east bound passenger on the Duluth line last week struck a horse on the track out near Deer River, cutting off both forward legs of the animal.

Gophers are getting so thick over in North Dakota that there is talk of offering a county for their tails, in order that if possible the pests may be exterminated.

County Commissioner Bratvold is building a commodious new residence on his farm. When completed it will be the equal of any farm residence in the northwest.

Farmers along the Lost river feel that the opening of the channel of that river would be a great benefit to them. The swamp is so soft and deep that no team can get into it.

The Methodist Episcopal church proposes to raise a $20,000,000 twentieth century thank offering, to be used in paying old church debts, and establishing and endowing hospitals and colleges.

J. O. Duffy, who for 11 years has been station agent for the Northern Pacific at Red Lake Falls, has resigned from that position and will hereafter act as cashier of the new Merchants State bank in that town.

The Better-Train-Service-Standing-Kickline Committee is the corporate name of the gentlemen at Halstad, who laid evidence before the railway commission in regard to the poor train service the people at that place are getting.

Miss Mae Darling, who for the past eighteen months has been postmaster of the Congregational church at Mcintosh has resigned. After a short visit with her brother at Petersburg, Ind. She will return to her old home at Toronto.

Feeding tramps, vagrants and loafers is prohibited under penalty of a fine in the village of Ada. Meal tickets will be furnished householders which will be good for a meal when presented to the village marshal after one hour's work is performed.

A gentleman last week entered the Union National bank in Grand Forks and purchased a draft on a Jerusalem firm, in payment for which he tendered a South African 1 pound note, of the Rhodesia issue. The work on the note does not compare in fineness with our bank notes, the paper being thicker and coarser.

Cement beds have been discovered along the Tongue river Cavalier county, about 15 miles from Canton, N. D., President Merrifield and Prof. Babcock of the North Dakota University have experimented with the clay and upon their recommendation a plant will be put in and the work of making cement begun in a short time.

Homer D. Minot, alias "Big Lewis," Chas. Hoffman and J. C. Hall were convicted last Friday of assisting Link Thayer in holding up the Great Northern train near Fergus Falls last fall and sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary—six months of this sentence have already been served.

The Great Northern has awarded the contract for building fifteen small steel bridges on the western portion of its line to the Carnegie Steel company. The contract calls for the use of 800 tons of steel and amounts to $50,000. The contracts calls for the two big bridges at the Rocky mountains are yet to be let. The contract with the Carnegie company, however, includes nearly all of the smaller bridges which are to be built this season by the road.

That distress after eating is prevented by one or two of Hood's Pills. They don't gripe.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Change in Business Location.

The two store rooms in the Chase block which have been vacant ever since the building was completed last fall will be occupied about the first week in June. The store next to Tom Morris' jewelry has been rented by the Stewbridge Mercantile Company, of St. Hilaire, Dry goods, men's furnishings and boots and shoes will be their specialities. Into the other store W. E. Sloeum will move his stock of groceries. An arch-way will be cut between the two stores, so that, though the two firms will not be in partnership, there will be in effect a department store.

The Chase block is one of the best business locations in town and much trade will undoubtedly centre in this place.

Wonderland '99.

Is the name of a book just published by the Northern Pacific railway. It aims to give two pictures of the scenery and life along the line of this popular railroad—the one from the pen of Olin D. Wheeler is graphic in the extreme, redolent of green valleys, picturesque landscapes, beautiful expanses of water, in fact everything imaginable in the way of beauty in Nature, the other picture is produced by a series of illustrations that are truly remarkable in their clearness and vividness.

Here is evidently the place where tired workers will find rest and recreation to their hearts' content. Educators, who leave the school room in a few days will do well to read "Wonderland '99" before deciding where they will spend the summer vacation.

Tis Said....

And truly stated that talk is cheap. This rule has its exceptions. This little talk you are getting here costs money, hence we shall state facts only.

Don't send to Minneapolis or St. Paul for your spring supplies. A cluance to figure on your bill is all we ask. We are much better prepared than ever to fill orders promptly, having a wholesale house at our command enables us to quote very close prices

Bring us your Butter and Eggs and get highest market price

We are headquarters for all kinds of Field and Garden Seeds.

Slocum's Grocery,
ROBERT STREET.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings

When la ing out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.

Call us up before letting your Contract.

We shall be pleased to give ou the benefit of our experience in la ing out wiring plans.

It Will Cost You Nothing

to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.

Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring

We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.

Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.

Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Items of Local Interest—Personal Mention—Society Doings, Etc.

—C. O. Espe is at Erskine drilling a well.

—Dr. McKinnon, of Fosston, was in the city Sunday.

—Representative Marin was in Crookston last Friday.

—H. Sarasin, of Red Lake Falls, Sundayed in Crookston.

—Dr. Watson was down from Red Lake Falls last Saturday.

—The firemen have bought Prof. LaSore's gymnasium outfit.

—A. Rolling is in Fergus Falls preparing a directory of that city.

—Will Walsh has bought the meat of sec. 18, in the town of Crookston.

—H. C. Misner of Euclid was transacting business in the city last Friday.

—Attorney Chas. E. Boughton, of Red Lake Fall was in the city last Saturday.

—George Parels is making improvements in the line of buildings on his farm at Euclid.

—The Cass Lake Times is beginning to run outs of the beautiful scenery in that section.

—F. H. Bey has opened a barber shop at 217 Main street north, just above the James Hotel.

—Bishop J. D. Morrison held confirmation services in the Episcopal church last Friday night.

—J. J. Sole was down from St. Hilaire last Thursday evening to take in the Knights of Pythias.

—Rev. R. H. Buttey, gave three addresses in Crookston last Sunday on the Crusade against the saloon.

—R. B. Laughlin was over from Fisher Thursday night and attended the meeting of the Knights of Pythias.

—The grading on the south end of Broadway does not seem to be completed, and yet no work is being done on the same.

—L. E. Larsen, the hardware man, has been raising his building on Broadway. It is now about a foot and a half higher than it was.

—They are almost through seeding on George Q. Erskine farm at Rolette. About 1,500 acres have been planted in wheat, flax and oats.

—Work on the foundation of Watterstedt new brick block on Main street between Second and Third streets was begun last Saturday.

—Peter Newman, of Red Lake county was up before the pension examiners last Saturday. He thinks he is entitled to an increase in his pension.

—Conductor E. C. Elliott, of the Great Northern, who has heretofore run out of Crookston, will make Grand Forks his headquarters in the future.

—Rev. Herman P. Fisher delivered a lecture at the Congregational church in Ada last Monday night on the subject, "The Growth of our Country."

—J. G. Ballard of the Crookston Lumber company was in Twin Valley last week, looking over the situation with a view to starting a lumber yard at that place.

—I. D. Converse, who has been connected with T. R. Brownlee in the management of the Melrtosh Tribune will take up farm work on his claim out near Red Lake.

—A. J. De Lance has just added a De Laval separator to the equipments on his model dairy farm south of the city. He has at present milking 13 cows, all high grade Jerseys.

—Judge G. W. Holland, of Benidji, was in the city Monday closing up a deal for the sale of some land in this section. The arrangements for the sale were made by David Huggard.

—Tomorrow will be the last day of class work in the high school. Next week comes the state examinations and on Tuesday is a holiday school will be kept in the high school Saturday.

—F. L. Finch, former manager of the Crookston Tribune, has bought out a restaurant business at Hawley, which is on the Northern Pacific line between Winnipeg Junction and Glyndon.

—Chas J. Winton, one of the proprietors of the lumber concern at Thief River Falls was in the city Friday. Mr. Winton will be remembered as one of the crack shots at the last Crookston tournament.

—A. R. Fuller and Mrs. Durand, Mrs. Fuller and Mrs. Ericsson drove out to Maple Lake last Saturday morning returning Monday evening. Mr. Durand and Bruce Harris spent Sunday with the party, and had a magnificent sail in the former's large sail boat.

—Charley Lohn, the court stenographer, and Charley Stetten, Chalnot's head bookkeeper, drove to Red Lake Falls and back last Sunday. They say that the road between Gentilly and the Falls was in the best possible condition for bicycling.

—J. P. Foote went to McIntosh Tuesday.

—Robert Nesbit was down from Mallory Tuesday.

—John Stenemoen, of Climax, was in the city Tuesday.

—Frank Brunner was up from Climax last Tuesday.

—Mrs. G. O. Riggs went to Benidji with Prof. Biggs.

—D. B. Ferguson, of Mallory, was at the county seat on Monday.

—Mrs. Benley entertained at progressive whist Tuesday evening.

—Gabe Dunlavy has gone to Fergus Falls to assist in getting out a city directory there.

—Miss Emma Jerrard of Warren has been visiting during the past week with Mrs. T. E. Clysdale.

—Tom Kelley has been at Thief River Falls setting some of the boilers up there to rights.

—J. R. McKinnon returned from St. Paul last Sunday after spending several days in that city on business.

—Representative James Cummings, of Mallory, was here Saturday. The spring work on his large acreage is finished.

—Mrs. Bessie L. Sewell, state president of the W. C. T. U., lectured at the Methodist church last Thursday evening.

—H. R. Brown returned Saturday from out east where he is superintending the getting out of his ties from the woods.

—Louis Olson was up from Fertile Tuesday buying some "Victorys" from the bicycle emporium of Hawkins & Olds.

—Munson & Eck, proprietors of the City Meat Market, have dissolved partnership, Mr. Eck withdrawing. The new firm will be Munson & Knutson.

—John W. Eastman, editor of the Thief River News, called at the JOURNAL office last Thursday. He is in the city several days attending to some business matters.

—Ole J. Wolden, of Nelw, made application in the probate court Tuesday last for license to sell real estate belonging to the Wolden minors of whom he is guardian.

—The Maccabees of the state held their annual convention in Duluth June 6 and 7. Mrs. Findyson will represent the Lady Maccabees of this city and M. Mossetu the Knights.

—The Y. M. C. A. has issued cards announcing that a men's meeting will be held every afternoon at the rooms in the McKinnon block. The reading room will be open week-day evenings.

—Landlord and Mrs. Westerberg have issued invitations for the marriage of Miss Rosie Horvick to Mr. Ole M. Vang, which is to take place at the Scandia Hotel at 8 o'clock p. m., June 1st.

—Last Sunday there was a change made in the time table on the Northern Pacific railway. The train now leaves for the south at 7:38 p. m. instead of 8:37 as before, and for the north at 6:50 a. m. instead 6:20.

—The Red River Valley Brick company of Grand Forks have shipped 180,000 brick to the Erskine Brick company in this city, as the latter were entirely out. Orders from the other side of the Red river was ever sent to Crookston before.

—Chief Congos had a musical prodigy, by the name of Hanson in the lock-up last Monday night. This young man would take a piece block bark about three inches long, and one inch wide, turn it up at one end and draw therefrom sweet musical strains.

—Miss Packard, who during the present month, has been stenographer for Finch and Smith, leaves next week for her home at Wadena, where she will spend the summer. Miss Carlson from the Cities will take her place.

—Three wills were filed in the probate court last Friday, namely those of J. M. Christianson, of Erskine, M. A. Campion, of Angus, and James McKenzie, of Crookston. O. H. Dale was named executor for the estate of Mr. Christianson, and Mrs. McKenzie and Mrs. Campion have the same offices in the other estates.

—The prolonged whistling of the engine at the mill about 9 o'clock Monday evening alarmed not a few. It was simply another being given to the men that work would begin in a short time. The piston that was attached to the carriage had broken and the mill was shut down for part of the day.

—Dr. A. A. Just, Crookston's homeopathic physician, returned Tuesday morning from Chicago having made the run in exactly twenty-four hour and ten minutes. Dr. Just, and Dr. Rutledge, of Grand Forks, have been, for the past two months, studying in two different colleges in Chicago, the post-graduate and the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat college. Dr. Just has enjoyed his work immensely and expects at some time in the future again to take up special work at Chicago.

—A. E. Storem, of McIntosh, was here last Monday.

—John Holten from Fertile was in the city Monday.

—If you want old papers call at the JOURNAL office.

—A Full line of Stationery at Anderson's Drug Store.

—A. H. Pitkin, of Euclid, was in the city Monday night.

—S. Louise Peck, of Argyle, was in Crookston last Monday.

—Old papers for sale at the JOURNAL office at very low rates.

—Dr. Lee is in Minneapolis where he will spend several weeks.

—Sam Torrison of Fisher spent Friday night at the county seat.

—Bear in mind that A. G. Andersen deals only in pure and reliable goods.

—C. L. Dolmer, of Thief River Falls, spent last Sunday in Crookston.

—Attorney F. A Grady, of Red Lake Falls spent Monday in Crookston.

—Nat Campbell and wife went to Benidji Saturday and took in the tournament.

—Mrs. Ira Bradshaw was baptized at the Baptist church last Sunday night.

—J. D. Ball, who wields the birch rod at Beltrami, was a Crookston visitor Saturday.

—D. D. Horton and daughter of Dugdale were in the city Friday consulting Dr. Morley.

—A full line of Furniture Hard Oil Coach and Varnishes at A. G Andersen and press to suit.

—K. D. Chase has a force of men at work laying a cement sidewalk in front of his block on Broadway.

—Sheriff Lawrence has been out in Eastern Polk and he says that the crops out there are most promising.

—The Creolti Floor Paint sold by Andersen the Druggist is a genuine palm and dries in eight to ten hours.

—A final account was made Monday by Judge Hagen in the estate of V. Asselin and the estate was closed.

—Joseph Hoch came in from Oregon last Sunday night and is visiting with his brother, C. C. Hoch.

—F. M. Brown was a passenger on the Duluth train yesterday morning. He will see the doings at Benidji.

—J. D. McPhee was up from his Lockhart farm last Monday and reports the spring work about completed.

—Hugh Robertson finds that his residence is not large enough so he has decided to build an addition thereto.

—A new soda fountain is the latest addition to the Wahouan Cafe, of which Hoch & Vanstrum are the proprietors.

—Tom Morris left Sunday night for Minneapolis and St. Louis, where he will attend to Masonic business for a week.

—A. G. Andersen sells the Heath & Milligan best Paint, the purest and best House Paint on the market. Call and get a color card.

—Mike Williams is attempting last Saturday to stop a runaway team got under the horses and wagon and came very near being seriously hurt.

—Wm. C. D. Murch, after an extended visit in the city with relatives and friends, left Saturday for Akeley, where Mr. Murch is managing a new lumber mill.

—Among those who went out to Benidji last Tuesday morning were George Lully, Will Bloom, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Westerberg, Prof. LaSore, Ed. Murch and C. C. Hoch.

—The Strawbridge Mercantile Company of St. Hilaire have rented one of the store rooms in the Chase block and W. E. Sloeum has rented the other room.

—Revs. F. W. Fraser and H. P. Fisher did not occupy their pulpits as usual last Sunday, the former being in Minneapolis attending the General Assembly, the latter assisting in dedicating a church at Beltrami.

—The remains of Helvor Storhakken, a farmer who lived in Mr. Sibsall county near the Red River and who mysteriously disappeared about four weeks ago, was found last week in the woods not far from his home. He had hung himself to the branch of a tree.

—Judge Watts and Court Stenographer, Chas. Lohn, left yesterday morning for Hallock, where court begins today, the trial of John Smith of St. Vincent who is charged with killing George Bates, of Pembina, N. D. March 3. Halvor Steenerson is the attorney for the defendant.

—Herman Hauff, who for the past seven months was head clerk in the New York Store has resigned his position. He left Monday for his home in St. Cloud. He will go from there either to Dubuque, Iowa, or to Michigan. During his short stay in Crookston Mr. Hauff has made many friends who regret very much his departure.

"The Mill Cannot Grind with Water That's Past."

This is what a fagged out, tearful little woman said in telling her cares and weaknesses. Her friend encouraged by telling of a relative who had just such troubles and was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The little woman now has tears of joy, for she took Hood's, which put her blood in prime order, and she lives on the strength of the present instead of worrying about that of the past.

Neuralgia—"I had dreadful neuralgia, miserable for months. Neighbors told me to use Hood's Sarsaparilla; it cured me perfectly." Mrs. FRED TRASK, Barre, Vt.

Erysipelas—"My little girl is now fat and healthy on account of Hood's Sarsaparilla curing her of erysipelas and eczema." Mrs. H. O. WARATAH, Fort Chester, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Never Disappoints

Hood's Pills cure liver ills; the non irritating and only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

—Pro. Hall, the orchestral leader from Grand Forks, was a Crookston visitor Tuesday last.

—J. O. Hilliard was down from Argyle Tuesday night.

—D. A. Whitney, of Warren, spent Tuesday night in the city.

—Editor George, of Fertile, was at the county seat last Tuesday.

—W. F. Street, one of Benidji's attorneys, came in on the afternoon train Tuesday.

—J. M. Shideler was at Beltrami last Sunday and attended the dedication of the Congregational church.

—Archie McKinnon, captain of Crookston's firemen's running team, went out to Benidji yesterday morning.

—Mrs. D. Vannet, of Fertile, was called last Sunday to Barnesville to the dying bed of her sister Mrs. Thomson.

—J. M. Reed, one of Jim Hill's old-time conductors, was over from Grand Forks yesterday looking after his property in this city.

—Mrs. Ed. Thompson, of Grand Forks, formerly a resident of Crookston, leaves in the near future for Colorado where he expects to make his home.

—C. E. Putnam, a traveling man, has been laid up at Hotel Crookston for several days owing to his having accidentally shot himself in the side.

—Larson & Carpenter are excavating in the rear of their smelchery emporium with a view to putting up a new building that will be used for a repair shop.

—Miss Grace Lustan, who is teaching school in the Spencer district, near Mallory spent last Sunday at Grand Forks with her friend Miss Orpha Andyke.

—G. S. Chesterman has curtained off and fixed up in an artistic manner the front part of his place of business on Broadway. The carpet partitioned off in front will be the flower department.

—Geo. Carpenter left on the Duluth train yesterday morning. He will be joined at Fosston by Dave Gorton and together they will go to Benidji where they take in the tournament on the side.

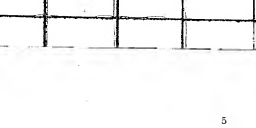
—Commencement exercises at the Moorhead Normal school begin on Sunday May, 28, with the class sermon by Rev. John J. Lawler, of St. Paul, and close on Thursday with the annual commencement address by President L. C. Lord.

—The time for paying real estate taxes is at hand and unless paid on or before May 31 a penalty of ten per cent will be added. Under the new law if half the tax is paid before June 1, the other half can be paid before November 1, without penalty.

—"Farmers can make it to their advantage to buy their grain to Wm. Dalrymple 501 Board Trade, Duluth. Mr. Dalrymple is an experienced and reliable commission merchant doing a large business and his creditors are authorized to draw on him against their consignments with bill of lading attached to their drafts."

—Dr. Just says that while he was in Chicago he met, one day on the street, the Rev. Mr. Disley, formerly pastor of the Baptist church in Crookston. Mr. Disley is preaching in one of the suburban churches and at the same time pursuing studies in the Chicago University. He is as happy as ever and has no less a dimple than when he was here.

—Opposite the JOURNAL office on Main street and directly in front of Mr. Bahn's machine shop is a pump and water plug hydrant. The pump is the private property of about half a dozen residents near by, but as the public in general wished to use it a padlock was secured and now only those who have keys can get water there. Occasionally, however, like on last Monday, some one comes along who cannot tell the difference between the pump and the hydrant, and then the fun begins for the JOURNAL force.



The Perfect Wheel....

At the Right Price. Its reputation has been won by its merits. You will be pround to compare it with any other wheel made, and you will know that your neighbor paid the same price for his Victory as you did for yours. Price and Quality guranteed. Adults Chain Model $28, $35 and $50.

Hawkins & Olds.

Repairing a Specialty. Prices Reasonable.

—Sam Torrison, of Fisher, went out to Benidji yesterday morning.

—John Sullivan Theatrical Company at the Grand tonight.

—Geo. M. Swift, one of Mentor's prominent farmers, was in the city transacting business yesterday.

—Several Knights of Pythius will go to Ada tomorrow to assist in reorganizing a lodge in that town.

—The editor attended a meeting of the managers of the State Agricultural Society at St. Paul last Tuesday.

—Ommler Kroutse was a Great Northern passenger from Fisher yesterday morning bound for the tournament town out east.

—Dr. Robertson left last night for Minneapolis where he will attend a session of State dentists at the State University. Some graduate work in dentistry will be done.

—At the Congregational church next Sunday, Rev. Mr. Fisher will give a Memorial Sermon in the morning, and will take for his evening subject, "What a Mighty Saviour!"

—At the shoot last night W. E. Rowe scored 22 out of 25, W. L. Vannet 22, and C. C. Hoch 21. Unfortunately for Mr. Rowehe was not shooting for the budge when he made this fine record.

—Attorney George Findyson has been for the past week in the Twin cities taking the examination for entrance to the bar. It is possible that Mr. Findyson may locate in Minneapolis.

—That new delivery wagon that Slocum, the grocer, put on the street yesterday for the first time is a beauty. If groceries carried in that rig are not all right nothing can be. This fancy turn-out is the handiwork of McKinnon Bros., carriage makers, and speaks volumes for their skill.

—A recent visit to the house of A. J. De Lance southeast of town shows us that the dairy interests of this section are improving. Mr. De Lance is the owner of a fine herd of high grade Jerseys and has lately added a thoroughbred animal of the St. Lambert strain purchased in Austin of Maer & Holmes to head his herd. To further his butter making he has a new Baby Separator which proves a great success.

—Joe week from next Sunday night C. E. Misner, wife and three children leave for a visit in Wisconsin. They will divide the time between Fond du Lac, Sheboygan and Waupaca counties. In the first named county Mr. Misner's father is now living, his old home is in Sheboygan, and in Waupaca Mrs. Misner's parents live. Mr. Misner will return in a month but the family will remain there till school opens in the fall.

—Our genial townsman, W. A. Lunsted, is more genial than ever these days. His countenance is lighted up with a continuous smile and he is generously distributing cigars, oranges, etc., among his friends. All this good nature and liberality is occasioned by the arrival at his home of a cherub boy, the handsomest, brightest and most promising piece of humanity that has ever honored this world with his presence—at least that is what his father thinks.

A Resolution of Sympathy.

The Crookston Ministerial Association passed the following resolution:

Since it has pleased our Heavenly Father to take to the higher life and happier services of the Heavenly home, the infant child of the Rev. C. R. G. Poole. We, the members of the Crookston Ministerial association, do hereby assure our co-worker in the ministry of our profound and heartfelt sympathy with him and his family, in this their hour of sorrow.

A. E. HOWSON, Sec.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.
HOMEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Office in McKinnon Block. Crookston, Minn

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office in Opera Block Crookston, Minn

Miller & Foote,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
Offices, corner Broadway and Robert streets Crookston, Minn.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.
CROOKSTON, MINN
Services every Sunday, Morning 10:30, even ing, 8:00. Holy Communion the First Sunday of every Month. Readers you are welcome
REV. H. M GILES, B. D.
Rector.

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.
Crookston

NORTHERN PACIFIC

SOUTH BOUND.	Arr.	Dep's
No. 104 to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and East.	7.38 p m	7.38 p m
NORTH BOUND.
No. 103 to Grand Forks, Grafton and Winnipeg.	6.50 a m	6.50 a m

C. A. SHARKEY, Act. Crookston, Minn. CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A. St. Paul, Minn

THE GREAT NORTHERN

ARRIVE	*Daily †Except Sunday.	LEAVE
6.55 am	Grand Forks, North and West	7.00 am
2.00 pm	Night, St. Paul and points east	9.30 pm
8.18 pm	Warren, Stephen & St. Vincent	9.15 am
6.00 pm	St. Hilaire Thief River Falls
	and Red Lake Falls	8.30 am
4.08 pm	Fisher, Benidji, Duluth and Superior	9.00 am
5.45 pm	*Climax, Halstad, Moorhead and Fargo	7.30 am

*Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and departs Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

S. L. Collins,
LIVERY AND FEED STABLES
Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side
CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen

And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

Jackson has voted bonds for an electric light plant.

The Merchants hotel at Wheaton has been destroyed by fire.

At a special election Hastings voted $30,000 bonds for a new schoolhouse.

The Bank of Minnesota now receivers have announced a fourth dividend of 5 per cent.

The state Catholic temperance convention will be held at Buffalo June 28 and 29.

Private Herbert L. Keeler, Thirteenth Minnesota, died at Manila May 10 of diphtheria.

The Thirteenth Minnesota regiment has been withdrawn from the front for needed rest.

A syndicate is being formed for the purpose of building a new opera house in Glenwood.

A. N. Dare has been recommended for census supervisor in the Sixth congressional district.

Hayfield is to have a 30-barrel mill, business men having raised $1,000 bonus and donated a site.

A court case involving thousands of acres of land in Southern Minnesota is being tried at Winona.

Companies have incorporated in New Jersey to operate automobiles in Minnesota and others states.

The three men tried at Fergus Falls for complicity in the Great Northern train robbery have been convicted.

Adjutant General Lambert has prepared a reorganization of the national guard, nine companies to the regiment.

St. Paul letter carriers who demanded the removal of Acting Superintendent Hadlich will be let off with a reprimand.

Commission men of the Twin Cities have agreed to ignore the law requiring them to give bonds and take out licenses.

A requisition has been granted to the Missouri authorities for William Lowry, alias Enos, accused of the Great Northern express robbery.

A trolley franchise has been granted to the Twin City Rapid Transit company in White Bear village. It will connect with the Stillwater line.

Arrangements are being made by the Duluth Shakespeare to initiate a class of 400 new members on the occasion of the state convention of the order to be held June 5-7.

Bids for the new schoolhouse at Excelsior were opened Thursday night. There were eight in number, and all were rejected on the grounds of being excessive.

The 45th annual meeting of the Winona conference of the Congregational churches at Stewartville, has been concluded. The next meeting will be held at St. Charles.

An order has been issued establishing a postoffice at Cotwell, Martin county, Reinhart H. Mueller postmaster; also at Carmody, Isanti county, with Paul A. Swanson postmaster.

The Glencoe district Christian Endeavor union opened its sixth annual convention Saturday. This union includes all the counties of Carver, Scott, Renville, Sibley and McLeod.

An agent of the state dairy commission arrested four farmers at Belle Plaine for adulterating milk. Two pleaded guilty and two will stand trial. Thirteen more will be arrested.

The Mankato Electric Street Railway Lighting and Power company has asked the county commissioners for a franchise to build an electric street railway from Mankato to St. Clair and Madison Lake.

General Wade, comuander of the department of the Dakotas, inspected Fort Walker, Minn., and expressed satisfaction with the condition in which he found everything. He will not remove the troops at present.

Land Commissioner Hermann has directed an examination of various tracts of land in Minnesota surveyed last year prior to opening the same for settlement. Large tracts are to be examined in Minnesota and the Dakotas before they are opened to entry.

The caterpillars, which did unlimited damage to the forestry and fruit trees in the locality around Sauk Rapips last year, are again putting in an appearance and from present indications the pestilence will be of more barm the coming season than heretofore.

Thirty sticks of dynamite exploded in the Fayal mine. Four men were seriously injured. One man's lungs were punctured in two places by splinters, but he surprises his physicians by rapid progress toward recovery. The men are deaf as a result of the explosion.

The deeds of the property for the Hastings asylum site have been delivered and the warrant for $15,000 from the state auditor received by W. B. Gergen, city treasurer. The bonds voted by the city to pay the additional amount on the asylum site have been purchased by the First National bank, and the former owners of the land have received their money.

General orders have been issued by Adjutant General Lambert for the reorganization of the national guard regiments on the nine-company basis. To the seven companies in the Third regiment are added the Morris company, known as I, in the Fourth, and the Northfield company, known as K, in the Fourth. The second regiment having eight companies, is filled out by the addition of the Rochester company, organized as H of the Fourth.

New President of Iowa University.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., May 20.—Professor Guy Fenton, assistant state superintendent under Governor Morrill and lately of the Baker university faculty, has accepted the presidency of the Iowa university of Fayette, Ia.

DR. FORBES' LECTURE.

"The Mistakes of the Devil and Other People"—At the M. E. Church Tomorrow Night.

That which the people of the city have been wishing all winter would take place, is going to happen at the Methodist church tomorrow night. Dr. Robert Forbes, of Duluth, will at that time deliver his popular and eloquent lecture on "The Mistakes of the Devil and some other People." Those who have heard the Doctor speak will be there, every one of them, and those who have not had the pleasure of listening to him ought aot to miss this opportunity. Dr. Forbes passed through Crookston last Friday on his way to Hallock, where he lectured the same evening. This week he has been spending in the towns along the St. Vincent line. Next Sunday he delivers the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the high school at Drayton, N. D., and on Memorial Day he will give the address at Pembina.

South Crookston.

Contractor Olson is completing the work on the South Main street sewer.

Mr. Sullivan has moved into the house which he purchased some time ago from Mr. Anderson.

Alderman Childs was in Fargo Saturday getting pointers on street paving, studying methods, prices, etc.

Mr. Fontaine has taken to his farm the fine two-year-old filly which he purchased from the R. D. Childs Company.

A steam pipe burst in the saw mill Monday forenoon and work could not be resumed until late Monday evening.

Adlor Superant is still confined to his room in consequence of the injuries received at the brick yard some time ago.

If the dog-catcher was to come to this part of the city he would make a big catch and the natives would sleep better afterwards.

Buffalo and Return at one Fare For The Round Trip

Via the Nickel Plate Road, June 11, 12 and 13. Tickets good to return to and including July 2, 1899, provided they are deposited with joint agent in Buffalo on or before June 17, 1899. City Ticket Office, 111 Adams St., Chicago. Depot (on the Loop) Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave., near Clark.

Steamer on Lake Bemidji Christened.

Mrs. N. Campbell of Crookston, says the Bemidji News, and Mrs. L. H. Bailey of this city gave a complimentary outing yesterday to a number of our leading society ladies, the occasion being the christening of Mr. Jessie Scarrott's steamer "Favorite" in Lake Bemidjiwaters. Dr. Blakeslee, Wm. Custer and Attorney Campbell were captains and guides, and acquitted themselves creditably, while Jessie Scarrott did himself proud as engineer.

Nez Perces Lands

Only 100 miles southeast of the fertile grain fields of Eastern Washington, between the Clearwater and Salmon rivers, lies what was long known as the Nez Perces Indian country, only recently thrown open to settlement and mining. Since the early sixties when $80,000 was washed out of the rich placers of the Clearwater and Salmon rivers it has been a tradition among miners that some day great gold discoveries would be made in the Nez Perces country. The enormous cost of transportation, remoteness from civilization and consequent impossibility of carrying on large mining operations left the rich quartz ledges—the motherlode of the placers—untouched. Almost simultaneously with the completion of the Northern Pacific's Lewiston extension from Spokane, came the announcement of the discovery in the Buffalo Hump range of immense ledges of gold bearing quartz which, cropping out above the surface, and twenty feet or more in width, extend in different directions for many miles. The rapid extension of the Clearwater Line of the Northern Pacific, now building along that river from Lewiston, will soon throw this heretofore almost inaccessible country open to capital, and modern machinery with American grit will do the rest. For fuller information and a new map of this region send a two cent stamp to Chas. S. Fee, St. Paul, Minn., or address any General or District Passenger Agent of the Northern Pacific Railway.

Stewart Lumber Company

Our old friends and patrons will find us moved from the N. P. track to the W. E. Walker mill and yard. Don't forget this and to the new trade we wish to say that we can fill your order promptly, from a 2 by 4 to several thousand feet of lumber. We always keep the best of every thing and at right prices.

Remember we are the sole agent for Flint Plaster and we have everything in the building line.

5-3t STEWART LUMBER COMPANY

RETURN TO WORK.

General Breaking Up of All the Dock Strikes But Those at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 24.—A general breaking up of the dock strikes has taken place. The settlement of the grain shovelers' trouble was quickly followed by the disintegration of all the other strikes along the water front. The strikes of the freight handlers, marine firemen, coal heavers and ore handlers were merely incident to the scoopers' movement and brought about largely because of sympathy for them. The announcement that the grain shovelers had decided to return to work had an irresistible effect upon the other labor movements. The freight handlers' committee held a conference with Contractor Connors and representatives of the Associated Lake lines. The men agreed to waive the question of wages for other substantial concessions. The marine firemen, who went out in voted to declare the strike off and return to work. The ore and coal men held a conference at the Iroquois hotel. An advance in wages and other minor concessions were granted to the men and both strikes were declared off.

Sympathy for the Grain Shovelers,

The day's developments mean that the labor difficulties in this city have come to an end and that all the obstacles in the path of commerce, which has suffered to an extent beyond calculation during the past month, have been finally removed. From 3,000 to 12,000 workingmen have taken part in the struggle, but the record of the strike does not contain the stain of a single riot or a single authenticated attempt to destroy property or interfere with the rights of others.

CONDEMN THE OFFICIALS.

Sensational Resolutions Regarding the Wardner Strike.

BUTTE, Mon., May 24.—The Silver Bow trades and labor assembly has adopted sensational resolutions regarding the Wardner strike. They declare that "a reign of terror prevails in the town and vicinity of Wardner, brought about by the un-Americna, tyrannical and outrageous mandates promulgated by General Merriam," and that four men died as a result of imprisonment under unsanitary conditions. They call upon labor organizations to hold mass meetings "to denounce General Merriam and the war department behind him, the subservient governor of Idaho and the sympathetic governor of Montana for the tyrannical treatment of the workingmen of Idaho and Montana; that we fin-dermance call on all workingmen here to use their ballots to secure a government that will slip the wings of the military autocrats and truculent officials."

They say organized labor must prepare to defend its constitutional rights at any cost.

Headache

Is often a warning that the liver is torpid or inactive. More serious troubles may follow. For a prompt, efficient cure of Headache and all liver troubles, take

Hood's Pills

While they rouse the liver, restore full, regular action of the bowels, they do not gripe or pain, do not irritate or inflame the internal organs, but have a positive tonic effect. 25c. at all druggists or by mail of C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

BINDER TWINE

Our famous BLUE LABEL BRAND. 11c. 8c. 6c. 4c. the pound. Prices of other grades and of sisal and manila rope. Write for prices and samples.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO

United States Map.

15c. A copy of our handsome map, 20x26 inches, printed in four colors and mounted on a roller, will be sent to any address on receipt of 15 cents in coin, postal or express money order. We cannot use postage stamps. GEO. P. LYMAN, General Passenger Agent C., B. & N. R. R. St. Paul Minn.

80 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies sent free. Address, Scientific American, 361 Broadway, New York.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

MUNN & CO.,

361 Broadway, New York.

Burlington Route

Finest Train on Earth from

St. Paul and Minneapolis to St. Louis.

And all Southern Cities.

Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

ARE YOU A RENTER

A farmer's son on able to procure a farm near home, or bordering with lakes, hay, pasturage, unsurpassed soil, and fuhire wood.

He relative to your troubles is offered by the Canadian Government every homestead entry.

FREE HOMESTEAD

of 160 acres of the best land on the continent for grain raising and stock farming. No. 1 Hard Wheat, yields 30 bushels to the acre. Fuel is found within 10 miles; coal is found within 10 miles; timber is found within 10 miles; water is found within 10 miles. Railways, schools, churches, &c., convenient. Climate is the healthiest, and the best. For information apply to Supt. Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to

BENJAMIN DAVIES,

Canadian Government agent, 24 E. 3rd St., St. Paul, Minn.

IF SO

FARMS FOR SALE WESTERN CANADA FREE

N. Campbell, Crookston Minn. P. Johnson, Fosston, Minn. W. V. Nugent, Villano, Minn., local agents.

FARM PROFITS

Are Made by reading

FARM, STOCK & HOME,

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Every Number Filled with Practical, Helpful Suggestions for the

FARMER, STOCKMAN, DAIRYMAN, GARDENER, POULTRYMAN, APIARIST, FRUITIST, AND HOUSEWIFE.

Issued Semi-monthly 24 Papers a Year

ONLY 50 CENTS A YEAR. Six months, 30 cents. 3 Months, on trial, 10 cts.

With the JOURNAL one year for $1.75.

ALL ROADS ARE ALIKE TO A MONARCH

$25 King and Queen $25

The best pair of bicycles on earth for the money . . .

MONARCH CHAINLESS $75

MONARCH ROADSTERS $60

DEFIANCE ROADSTERS $35

MONARCH CYCLE MFG. CO.

Lake, Halsted and Fulton Streets, Chicago

Branches—New York, London, Hamburg

Send 25 cents in stamps for a deck of Monarch Playing Cards, illustrating Miss Helen Gould, Miss Julian Hoseell, Tom Cooper, Leo Richardson and Walter Jones.

Ride a Monarch and Keep in Front

Sold by ERICKSON & VANNET.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can obtain patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with descriptions. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

O. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASH., D. C.

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven, but has knot horizontal wires, which closes it up. Cannot sag.

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

Like a fence, it can be properly stretched and erected with few posts and without trouble. Lasts a generation. Has cable age, and a cable running through the top wire every foot. Each roll contains 114 rods. Stands 58 inches high.

Five styles, 20c. to 50c. per rod. Free circular.

None other genuine.

We are manufacturers also of the following famous fences:

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE

with or without barb wire cables barbed. All horizontal wires crimped.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE Ideal fence for lawns, parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel posts, gates, etc. Everything for best of looks.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.

Feb. 23-3, 1899. Fri. July 8, 1899.

FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

FOR ALL THE NEWS....

Read THE POLK COUNTY JOURNAL.

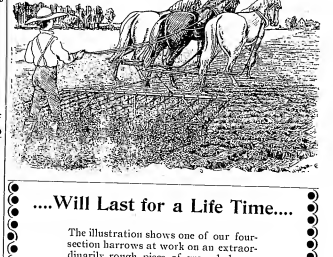
....JOB PRINTING A SPECIALTY.

THE

Everlasting Steel Harrow

The bands or double-bars and teeth are made of Bessemer Steel, and are made in two, three, four, five or six sections. Three sections, 82 teeth, 12 feet, usual size for ordinary farm team.

FULLY WARRANTED

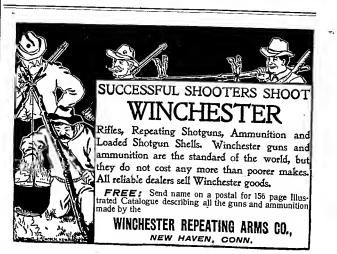


....Will Last for a Life Time....

The illustration shows one of our four-section harrows at work on an extraordinarily rough piece of ground, drawn as a vertical or straight tooth harrow. You will notice that the harrow runs a little angling against the ground and the pressure of the ground against the teeth give the double bars a constant shake which gives the harrow a most terrific tearing power. It may be made into a slanting tooth by simply changing evener to the other end. For circulars and testimonials, address

JOHNSON & SMITH,

AUSTIN, MINN.



SUCCESSFUL SHOOTERS SHOOT

WINCHESTER

Rifles, Repeating Shotguns, Ammunition and Loaded Shotgun Shells. Winchester guns and ammunition are the standard of the world, but they do not cost any more than poorer makes. All reliable dealers sell Winchester goods.

FREE: Send name on a postal for 156 page illustrated Catalogue describing all the guns and ammunition made by the

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

THE JOURNAL IS "IT"

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF

THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY

JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNERS TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1895, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER VII

THE FORESHADOWING OF MOMENTOUS EVENTS.

The first thing the squatter did on arriving at the station was to write some letters and send them to Boriatown, some 32½ miles distant, with a trustworthy messenger, who was to return again with my mail that had been sent after our party. It was too muscatain work to wait until the boat came round to the Macarthur river with supplies and general stores from Normanton. And now Gibson, the drover, had handed over the cattle and taken his departure, three of his men going with him. They, like all the rest of nomadic Australians at the time, intended to have a look at the new goldfields in Western Australia. Chilcot with two or three others remained to look after the cattle. Contrary to our hopes, how ever, Daly did not go. He had seen the fresh, fair face of Elsie Gordon and not made up his mind to stay. Elsie, who was rather a simple minded, good natured girl, received the overtures of this scamp at first with a coolness which only served to heighten his regard for her, and made him go more warily to work. His manner when he came in contact with her was respectful and propriety itself. Altogether his behavior and general bearing seemed altered for the better. At last she began to tolerate his worthless presence, and, it was plainly evident, to see in him what no others could see—attributes which he did not possess, even betraying a certain amount of gratification when in his company.

"That's a cold blooded villain, take my word for it," said Jack to me one day. "and some harm will come of his being here yet. He's a schemer, and how any girl can like that crocodile's smile of his gets over me. I wonder how poor Savile takes it. I thought he would cut up rough seeing we all supposed him to be rather sweet upon Elsie. But either he doesn't care or he's a much deeper man than we take him for, despite his faith in Samson and weakness for paper snakes."

"I never did think Saville was a fool," I replied. "However, I believe with you that Saville's worth a dozen such chaps as Daly. It's a pity Elsie doesn't seem to see it, though. At first it appeared to me she humored Saville and his foibles, but now she laughs at him openly. I suppose time will show which is to prove the better man of the two."

Perhaps the few weeks that followed were among some of the happiest ones we spent, for we were busy from morning till sundown. We got up a large stockyard with a "V," a branding, a killing yard, and also some outhouses. Jack staid with the cattle; Chilcot and I assisted the squatter and some of the others to put up a rough but comfortable house, somewhat apart from the other buildings and overlooking the lagoon. Chilcot was a native born Australian and as I have said before, a quiet, gentlemanly, smart fellow and, like all Australians, a born horseman. When evening came and the cattle and we been yarded—for we still kept them well in hand—we generally found our way over to the squatter's house, for Mackenzie was fond of a quiet rubber at whist, and, as he had a favorite Chilcot's people down south, he was glad to have it in his power to show him some attention. As for Jack and myself, he insisted, with that genuine whole heartedness of his, that we should always join the party; a privilege of which in our uneventful existence I was only too glad to avail myself.

And it had come to this after all, that I, who had been in my old country palmy days a man about town and versed in the ways of the world, had gone carelessly on with a false sense of security and allowed my interest to be awakened for this beautiful and uncommon type of womanhood, until it had deepened into infatuation. Then that which made me her veriest slave. That I, a penniless rolling stone, with only my birth and education to recommend me, should think of aspiring to the hand of Mackenzie of Tarragow's daughter, who would yet be a great heiress, was too presumptuous a contingency to be entertained.

And now, beginning to get my eyes opened to the true state of affairs, I was not a little alarmed at the probable ending of my day dreams. Foreseeing considerable trouble for myself in the future unless I could command myself in to a more sensible state of mind, I would endeavor to see her in another light, would note her imperfections of manner and, if possible, detect in her want of conventionalism and impetuosity only the fickleness of a shallow nature. To run away would be to confess my weakness: surely it were possible to cure myself of this folly. But like many more I reckoned without my host. As for the author of all this mischief, her manner toward me had never changed. Perhaps she was now a little less impulsive and a little more womanly, but she was still the strange and unconventional creature I had seen kill a snake with a stone, and flick poor Yarry with it when he had interfered with her chances of so doing.

Still many were the pleasant evenings we spent together. As for Daly, with his handsome, cold blooded and superstitious face, all this probably existed his purpose, for he became positively civil to Jack and me, seeing it was the maid and not the mistress that had were to gain her love by means of his own individuality. Norah Mackenzie was not one who could be swayed entirely by worldly considerations. I did not know as yet how I stood with her. She had never by word or sign given me the slightest clew to this secret. If I accomplished the end on which my heart was set, how pleasant it would be to tell her that I was no pauper, but a man of their means. How bright thoughts must have ehewed upon my face, for Jack, as he passed just then, looked keenly at me and remarked:

"Well, Dick, I need hardly ask if you've had good news!"

"Well, Dick, I need hardly ask if you've had good news!"

"Yes, good news, Jack."

"Parker," said the squatter, coming up just then, "you're just the man I'm looking for. Have you had a kettleful of news? Good news, I hope? That's right. Well, what I wanted to tell you is this: There's a 60 ton ketch coming up the Macarthur river with iron, wire and general stores for the station, so I want you to keep tally of the cargo. You'll go with a couple of wagons, eight horses in each. I'm afraid, Saville, you'll have to go, too, for you're the only one who has ever been through this country before. Besides, as Jack will have it, I've got to make a little excursion southward myself to meet a party of surveyors traveling overland from South Australia so's to find out exactly where my country is. I'm going to take Chilcot and another man with me. We can keep the cattle above the gap now that we've run the fence across. You hear the police magistrate and his wife have arrived at the Macarthur river, so I think I'll just send in my daughter and Elsie to wait with her till I get back. When the steamer comes round it can take us all away. It was a very foolish thing of me to take her into this country at all. It is impossible to keep her with me now. It goes against my grain to leave her, but I can't help it."

He seemed so genuinely vexed that I felt sorry for him, but I ventured to make a remark to the effect that if her safety depended on the vigilance and care of those who would go with her to the Macarthur he might rest assured as to her safety.

"Thanks, I'm certain of that," he said. "However, it can't be more than 80 miles off—three days' journey. Gordon, Tyndall, Saville and Daly will go with you. Gordon will be in charge. I would go myself, but must make an early start tomorrow morning. Saville, you've been 10 years with me, and I never once found you wanting when duty was to be done. I'll see you before you leave."

CHAPTER VIII.

AN UGLY INCIDENT.

It did not take Jack and me long to complete our personal preparations for the Macarthur river trip. We helped the teamsters to look over the harness, grease the wagons, weigh out some rations, and on the following morning shortly after daybreak we were steering north again down the creek. Saville was in the lead; Norah Mackenzie, with Elsie and Gordon, rode behind him, while Snowball and another black fellow brought up the rear of the cavalcade, which included a few spare horses. The squatter had started out that morning to a certain point where he expected to meet the surveyors. I felt sorry for him as I caught sight of his anxious face when he bade his daughter adieu. Jack and I rode our own horses, and Daly rode with one of the teamsters in the front wagon.

It was a glorious morning, and as a faint breeze was blowing it was unusually warm. It was toward the end of August now. The cool weather—such as it was—would be over before another month had passed.

I rode on until my horse was abreast of Norah Mackenzie's.

"By the way, Miss Mackenzie," I asked, "shall you do it? Are police magistrate's wife and not come round with her husband to the Macarthur river?" It was a question that was causing me some anxiety just then.

"Why, I'll take the place of the poor man's wife," she answered, looking as I took as if she really meant it when she gave the look of horror come into Elsie Gordon's face.

"But soberly speaking," she continued after a pause, "I do not think the lady has staid behind at Port Darwin. I don't know why I couldn't have remained at the station until my husband came back, but he wished me to leave, and of course he always does know best. However, I don't see but not strictly I shall keep again with you to the station and wait until he comes. I was sorry to leave; it is a beautiful country and I so wished that we might have been able to explore those great cliffs which farther said were like Sydney heads. I'll tell you what—if we have to go back to the station, we'll make up a party and go there. It's such a pity that my father had to go away on that trip."

Then, it is to be feared, I betrayed myself just a little, for I said something about hoping that the worthy police magistrate's wife had changed her mind about coming to the gulf. Whether or not the quick witted girl interpreted aright the uncalled for earnestness that marked the expression of the wish, I was impossible to tell. At all events she changed the subject by remarking that she was glad I had received good news on the previous day. She was sorry Mr. Tyndall had not got any, for that was hard to bear, despite what they said about "no news being good news."

We talked about many things, and I discovered that despite what she had said about books her knowledge regarding them was by no means inconsiderable; only, her practical knowledge of the life around us made her infinitely more interesting than any book. I realized with a miserable fund of useless knowledge a university man possessed concerning natural history compared to a bush bred girl who had not only read, but was naturally observant. She showed me sensitive plants that curled up and writhed as if in agony at the slightest touch, like living things, and flowers that at noonday folded their petals close, so as to protect themselves from the vertical rays of the sun. Not only that, but she named and classified them, showing how they were the survivals of a still more wonderful type of Australian flora.

Despite a false alarm of blacks on the second night out, caused by the horses stampeding into the camp, we reached the Macarthur river in three days without incident. We camped at the crossing, about two miles above the township. Gordon forded the river and rode into it. He had asked Jack to accompany him, but the latter made some excuse, and one of the men went instead. They came back by moonlight. I did not turn in for the night until they came back.

"The de'il's in that Macarthur, I believe," said Gordon to me as I fetched him a pair of hobbles. "The government cutter has come round from Port Darwin, but no police magistrate's wife, and I don't wonder that any decent woman should refuse to live in a place like that. But the boat's in the river; we can load up in the morning, and then take the horses folk back again."

It was news for which it was worth having waited up. In my satisfaction I felt inclined to go somewhat down my horse, but to throw some fresh tea into the billy that had just started to boil.

The new township of Boroboodoo, as Gordon told me, had earned a most unenviable notoriety.

Sleep was somewhat fickle in her ministrations that night. Jack and I pitched our mosquito curtains within a few yards of one another, where we could see Daly's gleaming white in the moonlight some 60 yards or so off, alongside a little patch of golden wattle. It might have been fancy that once during the night I saw the figure of a man whose bella were ringing. Getting up I cried to Daly and went over in his direction. He was always wise to make your presence known if you stirred about after nightfall, for more than one man had been shot in mistake for a prowling blackfellow through neglecting this precaution. As Daly did not answer, I concluded he must be asleep. The bells stopped ringing, and I turned in again.

The next morning we had the greatest difficulty in awakening Daly. When he did get up, he looked as if he had never been to bed at all, his clothes and had a tired appearance.

As the ketch lay some miles farther down the river, we decided to get to it at once, but remain on the same side—the eastern—as we were at present, because then would save the additional trouble of "double hunking" at the crossing. We were soon traveling again, and passed on the opposite side of the river the little township of the Macarthur river, a collection of half a dozen iron huts, nestling amid a wealth of great, spreading, shady trees and open patches of lovely little eyed fruit to have such an unenviable reputation. Then the river widened and we had still and deep in many places. We saw alligators, like huge logs, lying motionless, basking on the sloping bank, but on our approach they would slide off into the water and swim away. I had heard their peculiar bellow the night before and wondered as to its origin. We crashed through a strip of scrub and through a meadow of cane grass that rose high above our heads as we sat in the saddle. Then we came to a lovely high bank, on which grew some giant gum trees, and underneath in the stream lay the ketch.

After a few mutual congratulations exchanged with the crew the boat was moored alongside the bank; then, placing a substantial gangway to the shore, we began to unload. Our intention was to get such goods on good high ground, cover them with a few sheets of galvanized iron, leave some one in charge, then tramp the cargo to the station at our leisure. We started to work in good earnest, every one assisting, so that by midday we had landed several tons of general stores. I noticed that Daly worked hard and was positively deferential in his manner to Jack and me.

We had dinner at 1 o'clock, and after it were enjoying a smoke, when I heard a shout behind me. Looking round I saw also sat up, and pricking his ears growled. This led Savile to remark:

"Jack has heard the horses coming."

"Sir," he said, "as one of those who have had the honor of representing the British ilion allow me to"—

"Don't mention it, sir," interrupted the other hastily. "Glad to see you. Welcome—but pray, keep on your hat—the sun's strong and brains are few."

Jack thanked him and resumed his seat.

"Hello!" exclaimed Savile again. "Do you see that dog? He says there's something coming."

As at that moment three mounted troopers and a couple of black police rode right up and halted the group, the significant statement of Saville's would have been difficult to refute.

There was a sickly, ugly, sneering grin upon his face. As for Jack, though outwardly cool I could see a look of apprehension in his eyes. The sergeant of the police, a tall, black bearded man, jumped off his horse and walked up to me. I was the only one of the trackers; then another trooper dismounted.

"Good day, mates," said the police sergeant cheerily. "Aye, aye, thanks. That's what I want." He seized a punkin which I had handed him and took a drink of tea. Then he sat down on his heels—as it is the fashion of Australian troopers to do—and pulling out his pipe began to smoke deliberately I noticed, however, that the other troopers did not sit down when asked, but waited patiently around, and that their horses were ridden up to the camp. And then the sergeant of police began to talk about the discovery of copper by Mr. Tyndall and the Gordons. They had just got word old Henry had struck it rich, and would probably sell his find to an English syndicate for a matter of £100,000. I was chafing and curious over this seeming waste of words. The torture of uncertainty were bad enough without being needlessly prolonged, for intuitively I knew there was trouble brewing—for Jack, I divined. That villain Daly had hatched some cunning plot, and all this was part of its outcome. As it was, the sergeant always talked about the Cloncurry region and made remarks regarding it as if inviting some of me to put him right, if he were wrong, in regard to what he was saying. To one of us at least it must have been a transparent ruse. At last the officer rose and, knocking the ashes out of his pipe against the berk of a tree, deliberately placed it in the bend of his shouth hat. Then a sober expression came into his face, as if he had some unpleasant duty to perform.

"Who's in charge?" he asked.

I indicated Gordon, as the modest or canny Scot seemed somewhat slow at claiming that honor.

"Then, Mr. Gordon," said the sergeant, "I'm very sorry to trouble you, but which is Mr. Tyndell?"

Jack took the pipe from his mout and quietly said that he was.

I could see a troubled, wearied look in his eyes—that sort of look which you see on the face of a man who, after a continuous run of bad luck, sees at last the final shipwreck of his hopes.

"That day strange pats we to mind of the Ancient Mariner."

At a glance from the sergeant a trooper stepped up behind my master, in fact, he had stood suspiciously near him all the time. With a quick, light hand he drew the latter's revolver from its pouch and hauded it to another trooper. Then, pulling some gleaming pieces of steelwork from his shirt front, he bended them to the sergeant. We all knew what they were.

"I'm very sorry," said the officer in a quiet, cool voice, "and I hope you'll be able to clear yourself, but I've got a warrant here for you. John Farquharson, alias John Tyndall, it's my duty to arrest you for having murdered a man named James Sexton near the Cloncurry on or about the 9th of March last. Just raise your hands so and keep your head, and there need be no trouble. That's right. Thank you."

The click, click, click! and the arrest was completed. How quietly, methodically and coolly those troopers performed their work!

"Murder!" repeated the prisoner with, as I thought, a return of that strange whimsical cynicism which characterized him.

"Remember that anything you say now may be used against you."

"Thanks, sergeant. I'm ready to go with you."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

THE FORTUNE OF WAR.

Events of 1864 and Their Fruit In May, 1865.

It was November 1864. The Fortyfourth United States infantry, under the command of Colonel Louis Johnson, had only a few weeks before been ordered to Dalton, Ga., from Rome, Ga., in the same state.

When Sherman began his march to the sea, the white troops were all withdrawn from Dalton, leaving the Forty-fourth U. S. C. I. as the sole garrison. The rebellion of Hood's army from Atlanta came into Dalton loaded with troops whose term of service had expired and whose wounded men who were unable to go forward with their regiments. They brought news of the destruction of Atlanta and of Sherman's movement on an unknown destination. They told of the rumored movement of Hood's army toward the north, with designs upon Nashville and possibly upon Louisville and Cincinnati.

Scarcely had this train departed toward Cleveland, Tenn., than word was brought from one of our pickets on the southwest of Dalton that a flag of truce had come in with a request to see the commanding officer. Colonel Johnson directed the adjutant and me to accompany him.

The officer in charge of the flag of truce was Governor Ishaan G. Harris of Tennessee, then volunteer aid upon the staff of General Hood.

Governor Harris—I have forgotten what his military rank was or if he had any—said that the flag of truce had been sent for the purpose of demanding the surrender of the post and garrison of Dalton, in order to save the needless destruction of human life. He gave his word of honor that the entire army of General Hood was present and that the total annihilation of our small force would be the work of little more than an hour. He added that in the event of surrender the officers would be allowed to retain their personal property and would be paroled within a few days.

Under the circumstances Colonel Johnson decided that it was his duty to accept the terms of surrender.

During the days of our captivity we were under a guard commanded by Colonel John F. House of Tennessee, who treated the prisoners with the greatest kindness and consideration. We were not supplied with any rations on the first day, it is true, but neither were our guards, who told us not to mind a little thing like that, which they were used to. On the evening of the second day we each received a small portion of raw cornmeal and a chunk of raw beef from a steer just killed. We made the meal into little cakes with our hands and baked them on hot stones. The meat we toasted over the fire. No salt was given us, for that was a scarce article in the Confederate army. The next day we were paroled and after various adventures found our way to Chattanooga.

After the surrender of the Confederate armies we were comfortably encamped at Chattenooga, doing guard and picket duty. One day word was brought to camp that Colonel House had been seen among a lot of paroled Confederates just arrived at the railroad station, or "car shed." Our colonel at once sent the adjutant to arrest our former guard and bring him into camp. Permission to do so was readily granted by the provost marshal. The latter's big tent was soon arranged for the reception, and all the officers of the regiment who were not on duty were present to welcome Colonel House to the first square meal that he had enjoyed for many months and to congratulate him upon the end of the war, as well as upon the fact that we then met as friends and fellow citizens of a common country, wherein our first acquaintance had been made as enemies under hostile flags.

The moon was shining brightly from a clear sky when we reluctantly bid goodby to our guest, who had to report at 10 o'clock at the "car shed." The ground glistened in the moonlight, and the grains of ice sparkled like diamonds.

Had the gallant Confederate colonel lost all note of time and seasons and failed to remember that the winter of his discontent was over? We forgot or refrained from asking. We only knew that when he came forth from the tent and saw the white light of the ground, he said, "Why, it's snowing," and bent down to gather up a handful.

All this at, or near, Chattenooga, Tenn., and on or about the 30th day of May, 1865. THOMAS B. KIRBY.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR!

Ask your physician this question, "What is the one great remedy for consumption?" He will answer, "Cod-liver oil." Nine out of ten will answer the same way.

Yet when persons have consumption they loathe all fatty foods, yet fat is necessary for their recovery and they cannot take plain cod-liver oil. The plain oil disturbs the stomach and takes away the appetite. The disagreeable fishy odor and taste make it almost undurable. What is to be done?

This question was answered when we first made of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Although that was nearly twenty-five years ago, yet it stands alone today the one great remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

The bad taste and odor have been taken away, the oil itself has been partly digested, and the most sensitive stomach objects to it rarely. Not one in ten can take and digest the plain oil. Nine out of ten can take SCOTT'S EMULSION and digest it. That's why it cures so many cases of early consumption. Even in advanced cases it relieves and greatly prolongs life.

50c. and $1. all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

The ATLANTIC MONTHLY

NO American agency of public information and intellectual guidance has done higher service in this most momentous period of national transition and opening of a new world epoch than THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY. In its point of view and treatment of events of the first national importance, it has stepped into the vacant place of a political review of clear insight, high purpose, wide knowledge, and bold conviction. It is doing for America some part of the work the serious political reviews always have done for Britain, and which it is the often declared aim of the "Deux Mondes" to do for France. The time has now come for wide public attention to the continuing discussion of which it is the medium.—From the New York Commercial Advertiser, Nov. 29, 1898.

The announcements for 1899 are of a variety, interest, and value greater than ever before. Upon receipt of ten cents a sample copy of THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY will be sent, together with an illustrated prospectus for the coming year.

Subscriptions received direct or through any established subscription agency.

35 Cents a Copy $4.00 a Year

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.

4 Park Street, Boston

NO RESULTS AS YET

CONFERENCES BETWEEN THE FILIPINOS AND AMERICANS

Contains a Manila—Difference of Opinion Among Latter on the Wisdom of Such a Course—Proposition to the Natives United States Commission Submits the Form of Government Intended. Document Prepared at Manila and the President Cables His Approval.

MANILA, May 23.—The conference between the civilian members of the United States Philippine commission and the representatives of the Filipinos continues.

The military and civil elements of the American commission differ regarding the advisability of continuing the conferences, the former adhering to their original demand for the unconditional surrender of the insurgents.

FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

Plan Submitted by the United States Philippine Commission.

MANILA, May 23.—3:18 p. m.—Professor Schurman, head of the United States Philippine commission, has submitted the following written propositions to the Filipinos:

"While the final decision as to the form of government is in the hands of congress, the president under his military powers, pending the action of congress, stands ready to offer the following form of government:

PROFESSOR SCHURMAN.

"A governor general to be appointed by the president; a cabinet to be appointed by the governor general; all the judges to be appointed by the president; the heads of departments and judges to be either Americans or Filipinos, or both, and also a general advisory council, its members to be chosen by the people by a form of suffrage to be hereafter carefully determined upon.

"The president earnestly desires that bloodshed cease and that the people of the Philippines at once enjoy the largest measure of self-government compatible with peace and order."

Approved by the President.

The United States commission prepared the scheme and the president cabled his approval of the form of the document.

The Filipinos have made no definite proposition, except for a cessation of hostilities until they can present the question of peace to the people. Professor Schurman told the Filipinos they had no means of gathering the people together, as the Americans control most of the ports. He also reminded them that a liberal form of government was offered them and pointed out that it was better than the conditions existing under Spanish rule.

AS REPORTED BY OTIS.

Conditions From the American Standpoint Briefly Reported.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The war department has received the following cablegram from General Otis:

Condition as follows: In Bulucan province, troops maintained at Quingua, Baliuag, San Miguel; Lawton proceeding down Rio Grande river from San Isidro; has driven enemy westward from San Antonio, Cainao and Arayat, where he was joined yesterday by Kobbe's column; will reach Santa Ana and Candaba today.

MacArthur still at San Fernando, and will occupy cities south and westward; insurgent forces disintegrating daily. Luna's force at Taltac much diminished; has destroyed several miles railway in his front; number of officers of rank have deserted Luna and few have entered Manila for protection; in Pampanga and Bulucan inhabitants returning to homes and very few insurgent troops south of Manila insurgent disintegration progressing, though large force still maintained; conditions improving daily; send battalion troops and gunboat to Negros tomorrow to allay excitement in southern portion of island and west coast Cebu. Have denied request of Aguinaldo's commissioners for armistice.

HOPE FOR RESULTS.

Cablegrams From the Philippine Commission Are Gratifying.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Secretary Hay has received from President Schurman of the Philippine commission a long message giving the results of the meetings thus far held with the native Filipino commissioners sent by Aguinaldo to treat with the Americans. The message was laid before the president later. He was very much gratified at its contents, which were said to be very encouraging for the outlook that something may be accomplished. President Schurman reports that the native commissioners will take back to their people the proposition for a form of government, etc., suggested by the American commission. The text of the dispatch was not made public and will not be. It was stated on the authority of a gentleman who spent some time with the president that, contrary to reports from Manila, there are no differences of any consequence between the military and civilian members of the commission as to the course to be adopted in dealing with the natives.

SABBATH IN PERIL.

Presbyterian Assembly Considers the Question of Its Observance.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 20.—Sunday observance was the question which took the major part of the Presbyterian assembly's time. Most of the long afternoon session was devoted to an earnest and often excited discussion of the report of the special committee on Sabbath observance. In the end the committee's eight resolutions were adopted with slight amendments and two more were added. In the discussion the Sunday street car, the Sunday train and railroad excursion, the Sunday newspaper, the Sunday working Presbyterian and every form of activity which is not in harmony with the strict meaning of the fourth commandment was condemned. In the debate which followed nearly every speaker gave evidence of being imbued with the feeling expressed in the words of the committee:

Christian Sabbath in Peril.

"The American Christian Sabbath is in imminent peril; in fact, in many of our large cities and in other parts of our land it is already nearly lost. This means that American liberty and American institutions are in peril, for of these the American Sabbath has been both the foundation and the protection."

As adopted the resolutions deplore the secularizing of the Sabbath, urge members and young men of the church to realize the importance of Sabbath observance, legislatures and congress are urged to protect the American Sabbath, the American Sabbath union and the Women's National Sabbath alliance are commended, every pastor is recommended to preach on Sabbath observance on some Sabbath of next October and take a collection for the Sabbath union; the board of publication is requested to prepare and urge school superintendents to issue a special Sabbath observance leaflet.

M'GIFFERT HERESY CASE.

The Author-Professor Courteously Refuses to Retract.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 22.—Dr. A. T. McGiffert of the Union Theological seminary, by letter presented his compliments to the Presbyterian General Assembly, and refused to comply with its request of last year. The request was that he should modify his attitude on documentary matters expressed in his "Christian Church in the Apostolic Age," or else withdraw from the church. Instead of modifying his views he declare that he is in accord with Presbyterian doctrine on all vital points and, far from withdrawing, he declares that he cannot withdraw. The language of the letter is so courteous that many of the conservatives in the assembly joined the liberals in applauding it when the stated clerk had read it, not understanding that Dr. McGiffert had refused the most courteous bidding of the church. The letter was a surprise because it was believed that it would be satisfactory.

In the afternoon the commissioners and others went to St. Paul in special electric cars to see the city. Macalester College, Summit college and Lake Como.

Greetings were sent to the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church in session in Richmond, Va., and to the Cumberland assembly at Denver.

THE CURRENCY PLAN.

Measure Agreed Upon by the Republican House Caucus.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—It is understood the house Republican caucus appointed to frame a scheme of currency legislation has agreed upon a measure along the following lines:

The redemption of all obligations of the government in gold on demand.

Greenbacks when once redeemed for gold to be retired only for gold.

Permitting national banks to issue notes to the par value of their government bonds deposited in the treasury, instead of 90 per cent as now.

Permitting the minimum capital of national banks to be $25,000, instead of $50,000 as at present.

This plan is much less comprehensive than ardent advocates of general currency revision have urged, but was adopted because harmonious agreement on it was possible, which was not the case when more radical measures were suggested.

MILNOR-KRUGER MEETING.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain Makes an Announcement to the House.

LONDON, May 20.—The secretary of state for the colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, announced in the house of commons that a meeting between Sir Alfred Milnor, the governor of Cape Colony and high commissioner of South Africa, and President Kruger, had been arranged to take place on May 30, at Bloemfontein, capital of the Orange Free State, at the invitation of the president of the Orange Free State, M. T. Steyn. He added:

"Sir Alfred Milnor, with my approval, accepted the invitation, with the earnest hope of arriving at a satisfactory settlement of the situation which the British government could accept and recommend to the outlanders as a reasonable concession of their just demands."

PRACTICALLY UNCHANGED.

Affairs in Samoa Await Definite Arrangements.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 22.—The latest news from Samoa brought by the steamer Miowera indicates that the situation is practically unchanged and that affairs are running in statu quo pending definite arrangements between Great Britain, Germany and the United States. The natives were still greatly excited but no further outbreak was anticipated.

The German warship Cormoran arrived in Sydney harbor late in April looking like a wreck. The previous month she struck Whirlwind reef, off the coast of German New Guinea. The keel was torn away, and the vessel is being docked at Sydney for repairs, which, it is estimated, will take three months.

A CHANGE IN PLANS

ARBITRATION TO BE GIVEN FIRST PLACE IN DISCUSSION

By the Peace Congress Now in Session at The Hague—Humane Methods of Warfare Will Do Second and Consideration Third on the Programme—Powers of the Continent Likely to Oppose International Arbitration.

THE HAGUE, May 22.—The second sitting of the peace conference lasted 36 minutes.

The president of the conference, Baron de Staal, read the replies of the czar and Queen Wilhelmina to the telegrams sent them by the conference on Thursday. The president then addressed the delegates on the subject of the labors before them, and it was decided not to publish the speech.

The president proposed the adoption of arrangements for the committees, which was agreed to without discussion. Baron de Staal further proposed that, although the principle of secrecy should be maintained, communications might be made through the press bureau, subject to the approval of the president. This was also adopted.

Arbitration the Keynote.

It was learned during the day that M. De Staal placed the question of meditation and arbitration in the first place in the proceedings. The question of laws regulating war as humane as possible by the extension of the regulations already existing, was then touched upon by the president, who relegated the question of the reduction of armaments to the third place.

This modifies the order in which the three points were placed in the circular of the Russian minister of foreign affairs, Count Muravieff, but it has the merit of corresponding more closely to the views of the delegates, and it is now considered certain that meditation and arbitration will have the chief place in the work of the conference. Further the opinion is unanimous that the American and British delegates will take the most important part in the study of this question.

The conference decided that all delegates, including the technical representatives, are to participate in the sittings and join in the discussions.

The date of the next session has not yet been fixed. It depends upon the progress which will be made by the committees.

M. de Staal announced that the government of the Netherlands would give an artistic fete on June 16, in honor of the conference.

AGAINST ARBITRATION.

Powers of the Continent Will Oppose it at the Peace Conference.

LONDON, May 22.—The Daily News publishes a dispatch from The Hague, supposed to be inspired by William T. Stead, editor of The Review of Reviews which in part is as follows:

"Regarding arbitration, the present position of the delegates seems to be this: Germany and the other two powers of the triple alliance are entirely against it, and Turkey is following in their wake. Great Britain and the United States are entirely in favor of it. Professor von Stengel of the German delegation, said: 'Arbitration is impracticable when two nations are divided by a vital issue.'"

LIVELY HALF HOUR.

Dewey Receives an Ovation as He Leaves Manila Bay For Home.

MANILA, May 22.—The steamer Olympia, with Admiral Dewey on board, left here on her homeward journey to the United States at 4 p.m. As she steamed away the Oregon, Baltimore and Concord fired an admiral's salute. At the first shot the band on the flagship afterdeck played a lively air and the liveried sailors covered the decks and gave a tremendous cheer.

As the Olympia passed the Oregon the crew of the battleship gave nine cheers for the Olympia's, who responded by throwing their caps so high that dozens of them were left bobbing in the wake of the cruiser.

Then followed the noisiest half hour known in the harbor since the battle which linked its name with that of Dewey.

The din of guns and brass bands echoed through the smoke of a fleet of steam launches shrieking their whistles, the musicians of the Baltimore played "Home Sweet Home," her flags signalled "Good bye" and those of the Oregon said "Pleasant voyage."

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

Commissioners Said to Have Settled Some Serious Differences.

NEW YORK, May 22.—A dispatch to The Tribune from Washington says the Nicaragua canal commissioners, Admiral Walker, Colonel Haines and Mr. Haupt, are understood at last to have settled the serious disagreements which have so long delayed the report of the commission, and which for a time threatened to make necessary the appointment by the president of another commission under the authority conferred by the last session of congress.

The compromise affected among the commissioners results in their fixing the cost of the proposed waterway, which is pronounced entirely feasible, at $125,000,000. It is believed the report will be signed and delivered to the president within a day or two.

Michigan Senate and House Far Apart

LANSING, Mich., May 24.—The senate has refused to concur in the railroad taxation bill passed by the senate nearly two weeks ago increasing railroad taxation under the present law about $92,000 annually. The house passed a bill which increases the taxes on railroads $500,000 in round figures over last year's assessment. Governor Pingree expresses himself fairly well pleased with the action of the house and believes the senate will be forced now to take some action tending toward a decided increase in railroad taxation.

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, May 18.

The Connecticut senate voted, 12 to 9, to reject the measure providing for woman suffrage.

According to advices from China, Sir Claude MacDonald, British ambassador at Shanghai, is a very sick man.

The operators and miners at Pana, Ills., have submitted their differences to the state board of arbitration.

General Joseph Wheeler will deliver a memorial address before Edward W. Kinsley post 124, G. A. R., on Memorial day in Boston.

Mary Timberman, a well known actress, fell dead in the Sturtevant House, New York, while ascending the stairs. She was a native of Keokuk, Ia.

Ex-President Harrison has sailed on the St. Paul for England, where he goes as chief counsel for Venezuela in the boundary arbitration proceedings.

Friday, May 19.

Aguinaldo has sent a peace commission to Manila.

The czar's peace congress opened Thursday at The Hague.

Ex-Governor Merriam denies that he will be a candidate for governor or senator.

The Order of Railway Conductors has voted to hold its next convention in St. Paul.

Seventeen electric vehicle transportation companies were incorporated at Trenton, N. J., Friday.

Dr. Sample was chosen moderator of the Presbyterian assembly, which opened at Minneapolis Thursday.

Three thousand Paris letter carriers went on strike for higher wages Thursday. The strike was of short duration.

Diamond Match stock is quoted at 135. The advance is due to the announcement that the Diamond Match company is soon to absorb all its competitors in this country.

Saturday, May 20.

General Kirkland has been stricken with paralysis.

A company is being formed to control all the tugs on the great lakes.

The London Daily Mail will suspend its Sunday edition but will issue an illustrated edition on Saturday.

Ex-Senator Peffer of Kansas, of late years a prominent Populist, has returned to the Republican party.

Complying with the earnest request of members, Senator Kyle has withdrawn the resignation as chairman of the industrial commission.

Counsel before the Mazet committee in New York intimates that a policeman was murdered because he knew too much about certain things.

At the diocesan convention of the Episcopal diocese of Nebraska Rev. Arthur J. Williams of Chicago was elected as coadjutor to Bishop Worthington.

Monday, May 22.

The Spanish steamer Reina Mercedes has arrived safely at Hampton Roads.

General Otis, while refusing an armistice, has ordered a temporary pause in aggressive military action.

Representatives of the leading table manufacturers of the United States met in Milwaukee and decided on an advance in prices.

All the passengers on the steamer Paris, which went on the rocks off the English coast were removed without accident.

The business part of Dawson City, Alaska, has been burned. The loss is very heavy, one report giving $4,000,000 as the figure.

The members of the court of cassation have been summoned to meet on May 26, for the final stages of the revision of the Dreyfus trial.

Tuesday, May 23.

Rhea, the actress, is dead.

Milwaukee is to have a belt line.

The Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight is to take place on the night of June 9.

A new gold strike in the Black Hills yields nuggets as large as hickory nuts.

A call has been issued for a conference of the Democratic national committee.

The New York legislature is in extra session to reconsider the taxation of franchises.

The incorporation of the new Carnegie company prevents the proposed iron and steel trust.

The United States supreme court has adjourned for the term. During the session the court disposed of 319 cases.

General Brooke's plans for the payment and disarmament of the Cuban troops have been approved by General Gomez.

In a speech in Boston ex-Governor Northen of Georgia says the South will, if necessary, settle the race problem if the North will leave her alone.

Wednesday,

Letter carriers . . . y are organizing to secu . . . y.

A very short winter wheat crop is indicated, due to bad weather and the Hessian fly.

Kansas papers have a controversy over the probability of war between the Americans and Cubans.

The anti-trust conference to be called by the governor of Texas will be held in St. Louis in November.

Fourteen persons were drowned by the capsizing of a ferryboat on the Danube, near Straubing, Bavaria.

Three men, the last of those sentenced in Ireland to life imprisonment for the murder of Cavendish and Burke, have been released.

President Kruger of the Transvaal says he will never agree to the general extension of franchises demanded by the Uitlanders.

Colonel Ames has given up the command of the Thirteenth Minnesota regiment, being succeeded, it is understood, by Major E. S. Bean of St. Paul.

Deere Vehicles are All Right!

We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to unload.

They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen.

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., LARSEN & CARPENTER,
Fosston or Mcintosh. Crookston.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes lie right past your door, delivering twice each day. Call on our driver, or through telephone No. 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riverside at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. EBELING, President. W.M. ARNEAU, Vice-President
J. W. WHEELER, Cashier. H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier.

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits.
Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

George B. Erskine, A. A. Miller, Wm. Arneau, J. R. McKinnon, E. M. Walsh, L. Fontaine
J. P. Foote, W. H. Crook, J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers.

SCANDIA-AMRERICAN BANK,
OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON,.....PRESIDENT. H. STEENERSON,.....VICE-PRESIDENT.
N. S. GERVAIS,.....2d VICE-PRESIDENT. L. ELLINGTON,.....CASHIER
A. P. HANSON, ASST. CASHIER.

Read This The Best Yet

No Other Mutual Company can Duplicate this Offer.

The Old Reliable

HAIL AND CYCLONE MUTUAL INSURANCE CO.,
OF AUSTIN, MINN.

Pays Cash for all Losses at Time of Adjustment. Rates Low. Adjustments Prompt and Liberal

TENTH ANNUAL STATEMENT

ASSETS

Certificates of Deposit	$18,000.00
Loans	26,131.00
Cash in National Banks	31,359.27
Accounts Receivable	727.92
Assessments on 1898 notes not yet received	7,228.08
Gross Assets	$83,466.87 $83,466.87

LIABILITIES

Unpaid Losses	None
Accounts Payable	$ 678.64
Total Liabilities	$ 678.64 678.64
Net Assets	$82,788.23

REFERENCES:—Farm, Stock and Home, Minneapolis; Wallace's Farmer, Des Moines, Iowa; Scandia American Bank, Crookston, Minn.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, CALL ON

GEO. C. WILD,
ODD FELLOWS' BLOCK. CROOKSTON, MINN.

OR A. P. TOUPIN, RED LAKE FALLS

Polk County Journal.

Historical Society

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY JUNE 1, 1899 NO 8

WREATHSOF FLOWERS

Hung up in Memory of the Nation's Heroes—Senator Ryder's Address.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES AT OPERA

Despite the Inclement Weather Many Assemble to do Honor to the Mighty Dead.

Leaden skies arched o'er the sorrow which the nation felt last Tuesday for her mighty dead and Nature, too, as if feeling that the tears of humanity would not sufficiently hallow the ground where our heroes lie buried, wept o'er the memory of the gallant boys in blue of the sixties and nineties, who freely laid their young lives on the altars of their country.

The members of the G. A. R. Post, of Crookston, had with the kindly assistance of the citizens of the city, made unusually elaborate preparations for the observance of Memorial Day—a procession of a mile long or more would have been formed, made up of the Grand Army men, the Women's Relief Corps, the fraternal societies of the city, the police force, the firemen, the school children and citizens on foot and in carriage, and the exercises would have been held at the cemetery where great palms had been taken in fixing the graves of the comrades—but all this had to be omitted and the ceremonials were held at the opera house from two o'clock to four in the afternoon.

A few minutes before two o'clock the city band, stationed then at the corner of Main and Robert streets, began to play and as once the people began to congregate at the opera house. Soon the roll of the drums played by the drummer boys was heard, and the only procession of the day started from the G. A. R. Hall at the corner of Main and Loring streets. The drum corps, leading, was followed by four little girls, dressed in white, carrying the garlands of flowers which kind friends had wreathed for the dead. Next came the Women's Relief Corps and the rear was brought up by the veterans themselves. Coming to the entrance to the opera house the members of the Relief Corps formed in two rows and the boys in blue, no longer as young as when they faced the deadly hail of bullets, passed down the centre with uncovered heads.

The stage in the opera house, where the exercises took place, was decorated with the national colors, and the peanut, that now crowns o'er many more distant lands than ever before, hung in graceful folds in different parts of the house. In the centre of the stage was a large picture of U. S. Grant, the general who did little talking but much acting and to the left, in the facing the stage, was a flag draped by the Modern Woodmen. On the platform were seated the chorus, consisting of Misses Bunnell, Brown and Field, Mrs. VanArnum, Mrs. Baldwin and Messrs. Carpenter, Lanctot, Mix, Gordon and Captain Decker, Commander McLean, Adjutant Harris, Mayor Stephens, Judge Watts, the orator of the day, Senator J. J. Ryder, Revs Rowson and Fraser, and other citizens.

The exercises were opened by a medley of national airs played by the band. This was followed by the reading by Adjutant Harris of the general orders from the headquarters of the Grand Army of the republic, and of Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Commander McLean at this point spoke a few well chosen and fitting words to the members of Col. Cobham Post No. 90, calling their attention to the fact that this day was observed by them not so much in obedience to the orders of the Commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the republic, as in obedience to the dictates of their own hearts, which taught them ever to reverence and hold sacred the memory of their dead comrades. After a song, "A Tear for the Comrades that are gone," by the chorus, an invocation by the Rev. F. W. Fraser and a selection by the band, Senator Ryder delivered the Memorial address. He called attention to the many lessons that the day should teach us. It ought not, he thought, to be a day of mourning only, but a day of triumph and joy, for though we mourn o'er the memory of the departed, we should and do rejoice over the heritage which their valor has left us. Lessons of patriotism ought to be taught in the school room, the church and particularly in the home. Memorial exercises would this year be held not merely in America but on many islands of the sea in different parts of the world, and much good would accrue therefrom to many benighted peoples. "They rest in Peace" was rendered by the choir and then came a beautiful tribute to the dead. Wreaths of lovely white lilies, of crimson, pink and white roses, of carnations of various colors and of many other kinds of flowers, were hung on what appeared to be a marble monument that stood near the picture of General Grant, and as Adjutant Harris handed the garlands to Commander McLean the latter read the names of the ones in whose honor the flowers were hung upon the pedestal. It was noticed that there were several there to the unknown dead, and one to Archie Patterson, the gallant young volunteer from Crookston who gave up his life at Manila, August 13, 1898. The band played a dirge and the audience left the hall almost silently, feeling one and all that the duties of citizenship could be the better performed for their having attended the Memorial Day exercises.

After the exercises Frank Gallagher and N. K. Olson of the Post and Mrs. Adelaide Harris and Mrs. Streeter went to the cemetery and decorated the graves.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGTER

John Smith Convicted.--Motion for New Trial.

The last four days of last week Judge Watts held court at Hallock. It was a special session for the purpose of trying John Smith, a saloon keeper of St. Vincent, who was accused of killing George Bates of Pembina last March. The jury after short deliberation brought in a verdict of manslaughter in the second degree. Sentence was not pronounced as a motion was made for a new trial, which motion will be argued on July 1. Smith is out on bail.

CO. DITCH NUMBER THIRTEEN.

Will in all Likelihood be Dug in Fairfax and Andover Towns.

The county board of viewers, composed of J. C. Kundson of King township Chris Hanson, of Lowell, and J. Loframbroise met in the city last week. In company with County Surveyor Hamery they have been viewing the proposed route for a new ditch in Fairfax and Andover towns and have decided where the ditch will be. Levelers are now at work under the direction of Mr. Hamery making estimates of the size of the ditch and of its probable cost. The viewers meet again one week from next Monday when Mr. Hamery will present his report. So sure are the viewers and other county officials that the county commissioners will order the ditch to be built that the former have named the new canal No. 13.

GRAND JUBILEE.

Mortgage to be Burned—Farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer.

The $4000 debt upon the Baptist church has at last been provided for and this society will tonight, at the church, celebrate this important event. Congratulatory addresses will be given by the pastors of several of the other churches, Robt. Stanton, of Grand Forks, will give the history of the church up to the time when he went away, Mr. Sawyer will take up the history where Mr. Stanton leaves off and carry it up to the present time and Mrs. Robt. Stanton will give what she thinks will be the future history. Several musical selections will be rendered and then to the great joy of the members of the Baptist church, Mrs. Mills of Grand Forks, formerly of Crookston, will apply a match to the mortgage and the load which the society has been carrying for many years will go up in smoke.

At the same time a farewell will be tendered to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sawyer, prominent members of the church, who are on the eve of leaving for their new home in West Superior.

The ladies expect to serve refreshments and the citizens of the city are invited to be present and join in the Grand Jubilee.

The church is to be congratulated upon getting rid of its debt and in future the members will be able to work with a great deal more freedom.

More Money for Co. L.

Captain Decker has received additional pay rolls for the members of Co. L, who a year ago spent several days at Camp Ramsey before they were mustered into the service. For these days they received regular army pay, but the last state legislature appropriated funds so that our boys and other volunteers would get $1.50 a day for this time, which is the regular pay for the State militia. When these rolls are signed each member will get $8.42.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY

Extracts From Rev. Herman P. Fisher's Memorial Sermon at Congregational Church.

LIBERTY IS RESPONSIBILITY.

Republics Rest Upon Triple Basis Intelligence, Virtue and Equality.

There are seventy-five national cemeteries in twenty-eight states of the Union, and in them were laid all that was mortal of 350,000 soldiers. The smallest number of interments (41) were made in the Battle Ground Cemetery, D. C., and the largest number (17,000) in Arlington Heights, Va. More than 4,000 are "unknown," and in one grave lie all that could be collected of 2,111 men from the battle field of Bull Run and the route of the Rappahannock, after the war.

There are hours which we love to devote to great memories. It is but right to commemmorate the victories of war. Yea, for there have been times when liberty was trembling in the balance, and when every sword but the bullet had failed to redress grievances and secure justice. Both north and south fought bravely. It was not a war for the north and against the south. It was for the north and for the south—it was for humanity. The hand of the north was that of the stronger brother restraining the weaker from destroying the things which should be dear to both.

"Under the oaks and the elms,
Waiting the judgment Day,
Love and nature for the living,
Tears and love for the Gray."

Let Memorial Sunday never be a funeral march, but rather let it be a trumpet call. Liberty is responsibility, not a release. It is far easier to live under a reasonable despotism than in a republic. Within the memory of some of you here today the blood of two presidents has been shed. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." Political equality is no panacea. We often hear the words, "Vox populi vox Dei" (the voice of the people is the voice of God). But what kind of people? Republics must rest upon a triple basis—Intelligence, virtue and equality. Open your histories. Look at France. Since the rise of constitutional rule in that country the French government has been three times overthrown by mobs (in 1792, 1830 and 1848). Three times by the nations' own armies (in 1797, 1799 and 1851). Three times by foreign invasion provoked by the people themselves (in 1814, 1815 and 1870).

Take Spain. Since 1834 she has had six imposter rulers, five presidents, three kings and two queens. Between 1812 and 1874 she suffered thirty-eight military revolutions. Germany and Italy tell nearly the same story. Nearly every one of the German states has repeatedly changed its constitution since the date of Waterloo. In 1848 every week brought a new constitution. How is it with South American republics? Take a typical one, the Bolivian republic. Of her fourteen presidents, twelve have been murdered or banished.

But enough. I cite these facts as reminders that popular government, or political equality, of itself brings no stability or character to a nation. Here must be intelligence to know what is right, and virtue to do it, or political equality is a mere sounding brass and tinkling cymbal.

In no nation is the relation of the citizen to the state, and the state to the Republic, so vital as in ours. What is the relation of the citizen to the state? The first duty that the citizen owes to the state is that of good citizenship. No theory of government avails without this. In order to be a good citizen a man must know the laws of his country and obey them. The bad citizens of the country today make the government insecure. To be a good citizen a man must be a worker—a producer of something, whether by brain or brawn. A man who spends or parcutes a life of ease—he it under the name of a "hall" "parlor" or "saloon"—or panders to the lower passions of his fellow men, is not a good citizen. He is a leech, a parasite.

Again the functions of government and the maintenance of a good citizen stands for education also. A poisive pulpit, an unsold printing press, and a non-political teacher's desk. Stand by them, ye who are true citizens of the American republic!

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

Twelve in Graduating Class---"Holy Grail" by Pres. Frank Weld.

Commencement Day for the Crookston high school will be next Saturday and the graduating exercises will be held in the opera house on the evening of that day. The class that will be graduated at that time is the ninth that has gone out from this school and numbers twelve—seven girls and five boys. Following the custom established last year by Supt. Moore, instead of having orations and essays by the members of the class, there will be merely the salutatory and valedictory by the two students ranking highest in the class and President-elect Frank Weld, of Moorhead Normal school, will deliver an address up the "Holy Grail". The musical artists from Crookston who will assist need no introduction but it may be well to say Miss Morrisey, teacher of vocal culture at the Moorhead Normal school, who will sing two solos, comes highly recommended. The graduates are, Literary Course, Margaret Arnold, William G. Asgilm, William J. R. Finlayson, Charles J. Lucian, Bertha E. McIntyre, Edward P. Netzer, Alpha M. Tredtea; Classical Course, Ella C. Hanson, Bertha Samson: General Course, Martha M. Munch; Latin-Scientific Course, Constance A. Norblad, Frank M. Waldron.

The following is the program in full.

PROGRAM.

Invocation.....By Rev. Herman P. Fisher.
Music.....Selected.
By the Mandolin Club.
Salutatory Address.....
By Miss Bertha Samson.
Aria—"My Heart at Thy Dear Voice".....
.....Saint Saens.
By Mrs. Morrisey, Instructor Vocal Music, Normal School, Moorhead.
Address—"The Holy Grail".....
By Mr. Frank P. Weld, Pres.-Elect, Moorhead Normal School.
Violin Solo.....Selected.
Mr. G. Oliver Rigg.
Valedictory Address.....
By Miss Ella C. Hanson
Music.....Selected.
By the Mandolin Club.
Presentation of Diplomas.....
By Mr. F. A. Weld, Pres. State Normal School, Moorhead.
Solo—"Though You Forget.....Chadwick
By Miss Morrisey.
Finale—Mrs. G. Oliver Rigg.

LAWN TENNIS CLUB.

Grounds Have Been Selected and Phy Will Begin in a Few Days.

The plan of organizing a lawn tenais club which has been much discussed in Crookston has at last assumed definite shape. A meeting was held last Saturday evening and was well attended. The expense of fixing up the grounds and securing the necessary fixtures was carefully gone over. A committee consisting of Messrs. Barclay, Dewart and Malone, was appointed to look up suitable grounds. Their report was made last night. The vacant lots on Main street just back of Tom Young's house have been selected. The work of leveling these lots, putting down the tape and erecting the wire fence will begin at once. The boys expect to have a lawn tenais outfit here second to none in the state and tournaments will be one of the chief attractions in the city this summer.

The players are Messrs. Barclay, Malone, Swenson, Spence, Will Anglim, John Cromb, Charley Clements, Will Smith, Dewart, Al. Montague, A. F. Hirsch, J. Montague, Jessie Childs, Will Marin, Shute, Bruce Harris, Jay Durand, Erick Hagen, August Ahlstrom, Fred Lasian, Will Vasaet.

MARIN & WEBSTER.

New Law, Collection, Insurance and Loan Firm.

W. A. Marin and E. A. Webster, two of Crookston's most promising and capable young business men have formed a partnership, the new firm to begin business today. For the present they will be located in Mr. Marin's law office in the Wallace Block, but later they will make their quarters in the room now occupied by the city editor of the Crookston Times. The room, however, will be fortified so that the following kinds of Lands will be bought and sold, real estate handled, taxes paid and rents collected for non-residents.

Mr. Webster has been for five years in the employ of Ames & Foote and has received just the training that would fit him for the business upon which he has now entered. Mr. Marin is a graduate of the law department of the State University and has been practicing for more than a year. He has also, in addition to his law work, been doing insurance, real estate, collection and real estate business. The JOURNAL extends its best wishes for the success of the new firm.

WOMAN'S CLUB BANQUET.

At Hotel Crookston—Toasts on Literary and Historical Themes.

The Woman's Club, a literary organization the membership of which is made up almost entirely of married ladies held a grand banquet at Hotel Crookston last Tuesday evening. The club has, during the past year, been making a special study of literary and historical subjects and the meeting at the conclusion closed the work for a time. The ladies invited their husbands to this gathering and some of the latter responded to toasts. The following was the program of the evening.

PROGRAM.

"The garland of dead faces round the board."
Toast Mistress, ... MRS. HELEN A. STEWART
Roll Call ..... "Let each brine her own."
"A facet proof to fair experience is Better than a thousand theories
Yet untested."..... MRS. ELY PIERCE
"In days of old when knighthood was in flower"
..... Mrs. J. W. WHEELER
"Gone are the glorious Greeks of old"...
..... Miss F. W. FRASER
"They have done with the deeds of valor strong, that neither history nor song can count them all."..... Mr. A. A. MILLER
"But words are things, and a small drop of ink
Falling like dew upon a thought, produces
That which makes thousands, perhaps millions, think."..... Miss GEO. J. EMMONS
"I will return when I've raised the siege
Of Orleans."..... MRS. J. W. WHEELER
"New occasions teach new duties."
..... HON. WILLIAM WATTS
"Said my muse to me look in my heart and write."..... MRS. FRANK IVES
"Tell me if she were not designed
The eclipse and glory of her kind."
..... Mr. Jay E. Stone
"Not what we give but what we share."
..... Miss. ESSIE H. SPENCELEY
"All's well that ends well." Rev. F. W. FRASER
"Everything that has a beginning comes to an end.

Some of these toasts may need explanation: Mrs. Pierce gave a history of the club. J. W. Wheeler's theme was 'Chivalry'. Mrs. Fraser spoke of Ancient Hellas, Mrs. Miller of Heroes, Mrs. Erskine read a letter written at Chicago, Mrs. Wheeler gave a sketch of Joan of Arc. Judge Watts toasted "Expansion", Mrs. Ives read a letter penned at Minneapolis. Mrs. Stone responded to the toast "The Woman Question." Mrs. Speadley to "Our Hosts" and the Rev. Mr. Fraser spoke on "All's well that ends well."

CROOKSTON HIGH SCHOOL AHEAD

Our Boys Win From Ada "Deweys" Saturday by a Score of 11 to 10

Quite a large crowd gathered at the base ball grounds to the acrobeast of the city last Saturday afternoon to see the opening base ball game of the season between the Ada "Deweys" and the Crookston high school nine. It was an interesting and exciting game from start to finish and when time was called at the end of the tenth inning Ada lacked one run of being even with Crookston.

Our high school boys had played two games before Saturday but in neither of them did they have their regular team. Saturday they had their full nine and the consequence was that no one was ahead.

Though the score was close enough in the early part of the game to make things interesting, it was in the ninth inning that the crowd went wild. In the first half of this innings Crookston raised the score to 8 to 5 in their favor and in the second half the Ada Deweys made it 8 to 8. The tenth innings then had to be played, and as Crookston scored 3 and Ada only two the former won the game. These were the teams: Crookston, Ed. Maloney, c; Roy Loy, p; Louis Barrett, 1 b; W. Wisney 2 b; F. Smith, 3 b; Ed. Walsh, s s; W. Waldron, l f; A. Arnold, c f and F. Dahl, r f: Ada, E. Kloely, c; W. Lee, p; G. Lee, 1 b; P. Woodbary, 2 b; B. Myran, 3 b; L. Richards; L. Bowman, l f; T. Kloely, c f; and F. Herringer, r f.

CROOKSTON GUN CLUB.

Incessant Practice Going on—Sure Winners at the Tournaments.

The members of the Crookston Gun Club are constantly practicing these days and as many of them were crack shots to begin with it will be readily seen that Crookston is likely to come out at the head of the heap when her shooters meet the sportsmen from other places.

There are four tournaments in sight now at which Crookston is sure to have representatives, one at Wadena, June 7 and 8, the state shoot at Grand Forks, June 14, 15 and 16, the Crookston tournament, which will be held on June 29 and 30, and the Winnipeg gathering on July 4 and 5.

The boys here are making big preparations for the Crookston shoot. Large prizes will be offered and already the officers of the club are informed that delegations from most of the neighboring towns will be present.

DEWEY'S FLEET

In Miniature Will be at the State Fair Also the 13th Reg. of Minnesota.

THE BOMBARMENT OF MANILA

Exhibits Buildings to be Lighted at Night—Polk County Ought to Have Exhibit.

The directors of the state fair have practically completed their plans for the evening programs, which are to be an innovation this year. The main spectacular feature will be a mighty production, "The Burning of Manila," put on by the Minneapolis fireworks company. It will be on the same order and fully as elaborate as the Paine pyrotechnic spectacles several of which have been given in connection with the Minneapolis exposition and those who saw those know how wonderfully attractive they proved. There will be the usual theatrical setting, with soldiers, civilians, Filipinos in reckless profusion. An artificial lake several hundred feet long will be built and shells from Dewey's fleet will be thrown as thick and fast as in Manila harbor May 1, 1898. The climax will be a conflagration extremely realistic and thrilling in effect. The 13th Regiment of Minnesota Volunteers now in the Philippines will undoubtedly be home before the state fair opens and the managers confidently expect to have our boys take part in this sham bombardment of Manila.

Other evening events will be pulled off on the small ball-field track which will be specially constructed for them. The course will be illuminated by 250 arc lights, so it will be as bright as by daylight. There will be diving horses which will make daring leaps from a forty-foot elevation into a tank and another equine attraction will be the "Cuticura Wonder." The latter are horses so well trained that they come out and do their turn like skilled vaudeville performers and without a word of command. Chariot racers have also been engaged, and there may be some fast and fancy cyclists.

All the buildings will be brilliantly lighted in the evenings so that those people who cannot attend during the day will have an opportunity to see all the exhibits. The expense will not be great for the lighting will be in itself an exhibit and a big advertisement for the light used. It will be done by acetylene and gasoline gas companies, and they are going in to show how effective the dispersed gas plant may be. Heretofore the state fair grounds have been closed at night and for entertainment the people had to go to the main part of St. Paul or Minneapolis, but this year the special attractions will be right at Hamline inside the fair grounds.

There is another matter which the people of this part of the state and particularly of Polk county ought to bear in mind, and that is the special inducements which the managers of the state fair are offering for county exhibits. A premium of $1200.00 is to be divided among the counties making the best exhibits, but in order to secure any part of this premium a county must score 70 points. In the past there have been county exhibits but the scores have been only from about 30 to 50 points. The managers of this year, however, have decided that before a county gets any premium that county must score up to a good high standard, the same as in the case of cattle, horses, etc. In addition to the $1200 premium offered by the fair management the Minnesota Commercial club offers a $300 cash premium, $200 for first prize and $100 for second, for county exhibits. The formation of a county fair in Polk county ought to be worked up. The material for a prize-winning exhibit is here and it only needs looking after,—someone who will make the matter in hand. It will also be a good advertisement for the county to have a fine exhibit at the state fair.

Culverts on Mill Road

Some of the councilmen spent part of yesterday morning examining the road on the hill just north of the saw mill. Water flowing from the railroad cight of way spreads out over the road at this point making the road at times almost impassible for teams. The City Engineer was over there yesterday afternoon doing some figuring so as to learn whether it would be cheaper to put in one or two culverts. The road will undoubtedly be graded.

AROUND THE COUNTY

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

SHELLY.

Seeding is now nearly completed.

Ole Bye, of Nellsville, was in town last week.

J. J. Flikkie is treating his house to a coat of paint.

Theo. Meyers drove to Halstad Monday evening.

Hon. O. P. Ojeu, M. C., boarded Friday's train for Ada.

Where are we going to celebrate the Fourth of July this year.

Sam Little and Adolph Rogulld of Caledonia were in town Monday.

Our depot agent has improved his looks by wearing a uniform cap.

What is the matter with the Shelly "Scenger Forening". It must be dead.

Nellsville has organized a band of 21 pieces. What's the matter with Shelly?

Maris Johnstad, of Duane, N. D., was in town last week visiting friends.

Rev. Geo. Michael, of Halstad, held services in the Good Templar Hall Sunday.

N. J. N. Olson, the Halstad photographer transacted business in town last Thursday.

The Shelly woodmen will attend the Woodmen Log Rolling picnic at Halstad June 22nd.

Crosbie Anderson and O. M. Johnson took in the Chicago Ladies' Quartette at Hillsboro.

C. A. Hawkins and P. O. Trosseth took in the strawberry sociable at Caledonia Friday evening.

Miss Annie Paulsrud and Mrs. J. Schelstad, of Nellsville, visited their brother Edwin last Thursday.

But Edwin Paulsrud and Ludwig Olson hiked to Nellsville last Sunday. They report wheeling good on the G. N.

The bridge across the Red river is now completed and the Dakota farmers haul a good deal of their wheat to Shelly.

Thos. Myers has been on the sick list, but is now gradually improving. Those evening drives must have been hard on him.

WANTED—Teachers to attend Crookston Normal Summer School. It is cheap, thoroughly practical. Term opens June 12, and continues eight weeks. Address, Crookston College, Crookston Minn. 4-30

South Crookston.

The work of building the new school house was begun on Monday but on account of the rain operations had to be suspended.

Percy Bancroft has moved into his new cottage opposite the site of the new school house.

James Phillipps is engaged in painting the signs for the Carmun Big Store which it is expected will be opened shortly.

Last Thursday a spark from the burner at the saw mill set fire to the shaving pile and by the time it was discovered the fire had gained considerable headway, but before much damage was done it was extinguished.

Mr. Rivard's new house is nearing completion.

The heavy rain on Tuesday forced the planing mill to shut down during the afternoon.

D. A. Darby and Wm. Keppel have accepted positions in the Big Store.

EUCLID.

Mrs. C. Nelson and daughter, Amber, drove to Crookston on Tuesday.

Miss Anna Burns, who has been sewing for Mrs. C. Nelson went to Crookston Monday.

Mrs. Dr. Chaplin attended the Christian Endeavor convention held at Warren last week.

Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. P. Stohr returned from Fond Du Lac, Wis., where they have spent the past week.

Miss Miss Florence Nelson and Master Willie Murney are attending the district examinations given in Crookston this week.

Miss Little Keenan, who has been visiting at Mrs. Dr. Chaplin, went to Warren Saturday, returning Tuesday to resume her work.

The Assembly Woodmen will give a ball on Friday evening, June 9th. Everything will be furnished by Riggs' restaurant in Crookston.

Buffalo and Return Excursion Rates Fare For the Round Trip.

Account the Epworth League Convention at Buffalo, N. Y., June 27th to July 3rd, inclusive, the Chicago Great Western Railway will sell tickets from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Buffalo and return at rate of $20.00, good to return until July 31st, 1899. Stop-over privileges will be granted at Chicago on going trip and at Niagara Falls on return trip. Ticket office, 400 Nicollet Ave., near Clark.

NEILSVILLE.

E. C. Onstad received a carload of machinery last week.

Peder Wiggen, our butcher, has purchased a new delivery wagon.

Alfred Wigen's new large livery barn will be ready for occupancy soon.

Andrew Thompson intends to build a large dwelling house this summer.

W. Warner, the St. Anthony butcher, intends to make a trip to the coast this summer.

Rev. Brodland struck bad roads for his trip to Rindal whence he returned Monday by team.

Nils Mauns has written that he and his family expect to be back home in a few days, as his father's condition is improving rapidly.

A. A. Bucklanham representing Amos Brooks Co., grain commission and Scanlon Gipson Lumber Co., was in town looking up business last Thursday.

At a meeting held last Saturday by the stockholders of the Nellsville Lumber Co., it was decided to build a shed as soon as a site could be determined upon.

A song festival will be held in this vicinity sometime in July under the auspices of the Nellsville choir, in which it is expected several choirs will take part. More definite information will be given later.

The instruments for the new band arrived last Friday, and they met the first time for practice Sunday afternoon. Hereafter it will meet on Saturday evening. The band will be known as "The Nellsville Concert Band". Prof. Howe has been secured as instructor.

The band instructor remarked that if we continued to practice as diligently as we have up to the present we might play yet at some celebration the next Fourth of July, but then it is better to be quiet, for it was known that the Nellsville band was to play at a certain celebration it would not tend to draw a very large crowd if people judged by the noise we are making at present.

Excursion to Cleveland, O.

One fare for the round trip via Nickel Plate Road, on June 25th and 26th. Tickets good returning to and including June 29th, 1899. Chicago depot, Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave. Address General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

MENTOR.

J. L. Stetten received a carload of lumber from the coast Tuesday.

Fred Pollard has built a house in town and moved into it Saturday.

Ira Amundson is going to build an addition to his house this summer.

E. G. Gustafson, of Maple Bay, was in town Friday and bought a bill of lumber.

Mrs. M. Murphy is very sick and the Big Stone switch it is very doubtful if she will recover.

Miss Senica Nelson went up to Fosston Sunday to take in the wedding of Miss Lee.

Andrew Aplenay, of town of Tilden, is going to build a large house on his farm this summer.

Andrew Thompson has just finished a fine carriage drawn by the lake for Banker Melgnrud.

J. L. Stetten went to Crookston Sunday so as to be there in time to do business Monday morning.

F. E. LePage received a nice three seated canopy top spring wagon for the lake trade this summer.

J. H. Fulton went to Bemidji to take in the fire tournament, and he reports a good time to everybody.

J. K. Messelt went down to the lake early Sunday morning to fish, and he brought back a whole wagon load of pickerel.

N. L. Nelson and wife, of Maple Bay came over here Saturday and took the train to Fosston to celebrate a wedding.

J. O. Buhn has all his boats painted up in good order, so if you want to go fishing be can fit you out with a boat and tackle.

Joseph Tugley has received samples of McCormick's binders and mowers. He is going to handle that kind of machinery this summer.

A whole wagon load of Mentorites went down to the lake Sunday to fish. They all reported a good time and plenty of fish although it rained hard all the time.

Is my Blood Pure.

This is a question of vast importance to all who wish to be well. If your blood is impure you cannot expect good health. Unless you begin taking Hood's Sarsaparilla at once. This great medicine makes the blood pure and puts the system in good health, cures spring humors and that tired feeling.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sick headache, biliousness and all liver ills. Price 25 cents.

DUODALE.

Camp & Oehler have bought a new safe for their store.

Henry Ricke, the blacksmith, from Mentor, was here last Sunday.

Andrew Asplump, of Tilden, was at Mentor Monday purchasing from J. Stetten lumber for a new house.

The Great Northern has opened a gravel pit here and several carloads of gravel are taken away every day.

Chas. Oehler is going to start a lumber yard at this place. This is what Duodale needs and it will undoubtedly prove a boon to the village.

Mr. Gustifan, of Maple Bay, was in on Monday to get some machinery, which he expected in on the local freight for their blower factory at the Bay, which is owned by a stock company.

F. Sletten, of Mentor, recently bought a safe at Crookston, but the other day he was unable to work on the mansion so he had to drive to Crookston in the rain to get further instructions.

Some one set off about sixty pounds of dynamite at this place last Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The explosion was heard at a distance of five miles. A good deal of the canned goods in Camp & Oehler's store were knocked off the shelves.

The house of Joseph Miller Sr., of Tilden, caught on fire one day last week from the stove pipe that runs through the kitchen roof. Mrs. Knute Farden, who was at the Northern Pacific section house at the time, was the first one to see the flames. After a hard fight the fire was finally put out though the kitchen was considerably damaged.

W. M. Matteson was in the village Tuesday and he was telling of the narrow escape he had had from drowning his team. It seems he was doing some plowing for W. C. Horton, the landlord of the Dugdale Hotel, in a field in one part of which there had been a log barn, owned at one time by Andrew Bakken and three years ago sold to O. H. Camp. The barn was removed some time ago, but in it there had been a well five foot square and 15 feet deep. Over the opening had been placed boards and on these manure. The horses in attempting to work over the heap broke through with their hind feet, but fortunately by a quick spring extricated themselves.

$38,000,000 in Gold.

The Salmon and Clearwater placer mines in Idaho, according to Wells Fargo Express Company's receipts, yielded in gold dust and nuggets from thirty-eight to forty millions dollars between 1893 and '94. Notwithstanding the difficulties of transportatio n in those days, remoteness from civilization, and hostile Indians, the home of the rich gold placers around Elk City, Florence, Oro Fino and Millersburg reached the outside world, and a stampede followed the opening of the sixties. Bancroft, the historian, long ago expressed the belief that these placer mines were but the outcrotsiers or washings of a richer central deposit, and almost simultaneously with the recent completion of the Northern Pacific's Lewiston, Idaho, extension from Spokane, comes the announcement that prospectors have discovered immense ledges of gold-bearing quartz in the Buffalo Hump range lying between the Salmon and the South Fork of the Clearwater, along which has now grown the Northern Pacific is now building its Clearwater Line. For a map folder giving fuller information regarding this new mining region send two cent stamp to Chas. S. Fee St. Paul, Minn., or any General or District Passenger Agent of the Northern Pacific railway.

Where Teachers Spend Holidays.

The public schools will close tomorrow afternoon. Appropriate closing exercises will be held, in most of the grades. Almost all the teachers whose homes are away from here will leave the city Friday night, the high school teachers remaining until after Commencement day. Miss Crawford will spend the summer vacation at her home in Anoka, Misses Farge man and Field at Fergus Falls, Miss Fitzgerald at Alexandria, Misses Griffin at St. Paul and White Bear Lake, Miss Dewart at Wadena, Miss Corum at St. Cloud, Miss Still at Moorhead and Detroit Lake, Miss Woodall part of the time on her claim out east, Miss Johnson at Wrenna, Miss Friedlander at Minneapolis, Miss Roney will spend part of June in looking over examination papers at Minneapolis and later will go to her home at Independence, Iowa.

New Eighth Grade Teacher.

Miss Olive Hallock, of Faribault, who was recently elected as eighth grade teacher in the Crookston schools declined the appointment, and the school board met last Friday and elected to fill this vacancy Miss E. Blanche Smith a graduate of the Minnesota State University.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS AT ADA.

The K. P. Lodge There Re-organized —Large Crookston Delegation.

The chapter of the Knights of Pythias at Ada which has not been active for some years was re-organized last Friday evening. Grand Chancellor Wooley, vice-Chancellor Stobbart, and Grand Keeper of the Records and Seals, F. E. Wheaton, were present, as well as a large delegation from Crookston. The majority of the latter went down to Ada Friday morning and worked most of the time from then till the G. N. morning train north bound reached Ada on Saturday.

Work was suspended during the evening and the Knights of Pythias became the guests of Landlord Patterson at the New Ada Hotel where a sumptuous repast was spread in a grand style for which Mr. Patterson is noted. Ada hospitality is unbounded according to all reports brought back.

That Euphonium.

Will O'Neil, one of the baritone players in the band, is about the proudest individual to be met with in town and it is all on account of the fine instrument he received last Saturday a brass new bessa baritone and trombone combination hundred dollar instrument. It has five keys, the fourth valve combining one to strike pedal C below the staff. The fifth key is played with the left hand and is used when the trombone part of the instrument is being played upon.

Strawbridge Clercantile Co.

J. H. Strawbridge and G. o. Strawbridge, of the Strawbridge Mercantile firm which is to occupy one of the stores in the Chase block received the first team from St. Hilaire Tuesday morning. They brought with them a little of the stock that they had not been able to get all of the goods they will have in the new store will be entirely new. The JOURNAL wishes these young business men success.

For Sale.

Tamarack fence posts, 6 and 8 cents. VANCE & STONE.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following are the real estate transfers in Polk county as furnished by Christianson & Stender, abstractors, for the week ending May 20, 1899:

Gimmi T Propsens to O T Wold sel¼ sw¼, sec 8-149-47 ..... $ 375 00
Mary Mcleod to Mary P O Strahand sel¼ sw¼, sec 19-148-45 ..... 1 00
Hannah Watts to A C Cowing lots 1 and 2 block 1 original townsite of Crookston 1000 00
Samuel D. Fellsing to Fleming Gustafson lots 1 and 2 block 1 Hillside addition of Maple Bay 1200 00
Mrs. Barbara McDonald to Robert Coulter lot 24 block 1 Robert Coulter's addition to Mallory 200 00
First National bank of Crookston to Ole Nerland lot 33 block 2 South Crookston 150 00
Henry Simon to G S Holden lots 6 and 7 block 1 townsite of Nelsville 50 00
Ole Nerland to Ole S Nelson sel¼ sw¼, sec 27-147-47 ..... 250 00
M W Hellesson to Helleson Hellesson sw¼, sec 10-148-44 ..... 1 00
John O Johnson to A C Solberg ne¼ ne¼, and ely sel¼ sec 27 and ne¼ nw¼, sec 34-148-46 ..... 300 00
Henry Simon to Ole S Holden 18 acres in sw¼ sw¼, sec 15-147-48 ..... 150 00
Ole S Paulson to Louis S Holden 1 acre in sw¼ sw¼, sec 15-147-48 ..... 100 00
Henry Simon to school Dist. No. 21 18¼ acres in sw¼ sw¼, sec 15-147-48 ..... 100 00
John E Johnson to Lena Dreicks lot 17 block 1 original townsite of Crookston 100 00
Lena Dreicks to John Steenberg lot 17 block 1 original townsite of Crookston 100 00
Mary Grimmon to the church of the Sacred Heart lots 2 and 4 block 18 townsite of Grand Grand Forks 500 00
T G Doddseader to Constance Arness sw¼, sec 21-149-46 ..... 1200 00
Albert C Cowing to Napoleon Rapin part of lots 5 block 4 Fletcher's addition to Crookston 150 00
Hannah Watts to Napoleon Rapin lot 3 block 1 original townsite of Crookston 700 00
Napoleon Rapin to Louis Pontaine lot 3 block original townsite of Crookston and part of lot 5 block 4 Fletcher & Rosecon's addition to Crookston 1650 00
Dour Nilsen to Alexander O Rindal sel¼ sec 9-150-45 ..... 1200 00
Ephrina Boree to Charles H Boree East ½ of lot 8 block 42 original townsite of Crookston 1 00
Joseph Lafrancois to Louis Rivard lots 18 and 17 block 22 Tomson 400 00
John L Varlets to Charles L Conger sel¼ sec 24-150-46 ..... 2000 00
Almond A White to Thomas Sedley lots 5 and 7 block 3 Tralls addition to East Grand Forks 150 00
C G Seals, executor to James Eldington lots 5 and 6 block 2 Eldington 100 00
Lillian Logue to James Eldington lots 27 and 28 block 3 Dudgeon's 81 addition to East Grand Forks 300 00
Joseph Lafrancois to James Eldington lots 3 to 14 including block 13 Lake Park addition to East Grand Forks. 350 00

Farm For Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—northwest quarter of section 29, town 150, range 45, in the village of Gentilly, about 100 yards from cheese factory. No. 1 buildings, including good house, well finished, large barn for stock, granary building 6,000 bushels, good well; creek that never goes dry, close to barn; about four miles of fence on the farm. For further particulars, inquire of N. Brasseur, at Ottawa House, Crookston, Minn. 8-20 to Cleveland, O. via. Nickel Plate Road, on June 25th and 26th, with return limit of June 29th, 1899. Three through trains daily. Chicago depot, Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave, on Elevated Loop. For further information, write General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

One Fare for the Round Trip

Advertised Letters.

List of letters remaining unclaimed at the Crookston, Minn., postoffice for the week ending May 27, 1899:

Hive A John
Hone Jos.
Davison Sam
Ekern John
Riley Anthony
Smogin John
Reed Alfred
Jones Ed
Jones Edward
Thorshejms John
White James
Word Thos

Geo F L'ns.
Hansen Hans
Hansen Hellan
Irons T
Miller Arthur Mss
Mccloughlin Jos Mr.
McKurlek John Mrs
Nash Annie Mrs.
Olsson Caroline Mrs
Simmer Annie Miss (2)
Simmer Jones Miss
Smith D J Mr

Persons calling for the above say advertised.

ANDREW EKERN,
Postmaster.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Halls Family Pills are the best.

Notice of Application for Liquor License.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk, City of Crookston, ss.

To whom it may concern. That applications have been made by William Simeson to the Council of said City of Crookston and there by office, praying for license to sell intoxicating liquors for the term commencing on July 1st, 1899, and terminating on June 30th, 1900, at the following premises, and at the following places, as stated in said applications, respectively, to-wit:

LOUIS MORIN

The north store room, ground floor, fronting on Broadway, at street No. 122, of brick building known as "Grand Central Hotel" situate on lots 16, 17 and 18 block 1 Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston.

HENRIETTA WATERTRADE

Ground floor of brick building, now in course of construction, situate on lot 3 block 1, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, fronting on Main street at No. 26.

MERARD MERCIL

The south store room, ground floor, fronting on Broadway, at street No. 112, of brick building known as the "Merchants Hotel" situate on lots 17 and 18, block 2, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston.

J. J. MORTAD

Ground floor of frame building situate in lot 6, block 8, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, fronting on Robert street at No. 116.

ALFRED BROSSEAU

North store room, fronting on Broadway, ground floor of brick building known as the "Bon Ton" situate on lots 16, 17 and 18, block 4, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston at street No. 111.

PETER J. BARTLETT

The south store room, ground floor, fronting on Broadway, at street No. 110, of brick building known as "Hotel Crookston" situate on lots 19, 20 and 21, block 4, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston.

ERNEST BOLDT

West store room, ground floor, fronting on Second street in brick building known as the "Boldt block," situate on lots 22, 23 and 24, block 4, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, at street No. 104.

CHRIS C. HOCH

Store room fronting on Second street, ground floor of brick building known as the "Hoelzlet block" at street No. 113, situate on lots 2 and 3, block 11, original townsite of the City of Crookston.

ALEXANDER S. BATES & CHARLES E. SARGENT

Under the firm name of Bates & Sargent, ground floor of frame building, situate on east 30 feet of lots 21 and 24, block 16, original townsite of Crookston, corner of Broadway and Second street, at No. 102.

WILLIAM H. GAAR

West end room of the one story frame building on corner of Main and Second street, situate on lot 1, block 16, original townsite of City of Crookston, at street No. 24.

OTTO HUMBRAUHF

Ground floor of frame building known as the "Cleveland House" situate on lot 12, block 18, original townsite of City of Crookston, at corner of Main and Fourth streets at street No. 321.

J. HAUCK.

Ground floor of frame building, situate on lots 3 and 4, block 1, original townsite of Crookston, fronting on Main street at No. 115.

DAVIS & COLLINS & WATERS C. BUZZELL

Under the firm name of Collins & Buzzell the east 24 acres, upon lots 1 and 2, block 6, Fletcher & Rosecon addition to Crookston, fronting on Broadway, situate on lot 1, block in store room, street No. 105, fronting on Main street, second floor.

JOHN ARZEIN

Ground floor of frame building, situate on lot 1, block 3, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, fronting on Main street at No. 112.

TOM O. SUNDET

Ground floor of frame building, situate on lots 5 block 6, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, fronting on Main street at No. 121.

For the term commencing on June 15th, 1899, and terminating on June 14th, 1900, the above-named persons and at the following places, as stated in said applications, respectively, to-wit:

ELIE ASSELIN

The south store room of brick building, known as the "Portal Saloon" at street No. 104, fronting on Broadway, situate on lot 18, block 3, Fletcher & Houston addition to City of Crookston, at street No. 104.

JOHN H. PRATT

East room on ground floor of brick building known as the "Germania Hotel" fronting on Main street and situate on lots 1 and 2, block original townsite of City of Crookston at street No. 30.

WILLIAM F. PETERSON.

Front room, on ground floor of frame building, west of the two story frame building known as the "Russenbeldter corner," situate on lot 9, block 16, original townsite of City of Crookston, at street No. 22.

Said applications will be heard and determined by said Council of the City of Crookston at the Regular meeting of the City hall in said City of Crookston at 7:30 o'clock p. m. on the 19th day of June A. D. 1899 at 7:30 o'clock p. m. of that day.

Dated this 30th day of May A. D. 1899.

[SEAL] By order of the Council.
WM. A. LANGE Brad,
City Clerk.

It's easy to haul a big load if a big hill's in you grease the wagon wheels with

MICA Axle Grease

Get labor and learn what it is. Don't experiment or use acids. Sold everywhere. Insist on it.

STANDARD OIL CO.

PISNER'S Rheumatism and Kidney Cure. A sure cure for Rheumatism and kidney trouble. Those who drink wine from surface wells, and those who drink water from deep wells are nearly all more or less afflicted with rheumatism and kidney trouble. Ask your neighbor about the good quality of this remedy. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail by C. E. MISNER, Crookston, Minn.

Final Proof.

Land office at Crookston, Minn., May 25th, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on August 17th, 1899, viz:

H. E. 10320 for the S½ NW¼ and NE¼ SW¼ section 27, T. 152 N., R. 47 W.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Ole Olsen Opperaas, Fred Wagner, Adolph Skinner, Merdete Laplante, all of Crookston, Minn.

SYLVESTER PETERSON,
5-11 Register.

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk—ss.
In Probate Court, Special Term, May 23, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of George Eastman, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of George Eastman, deceased, late of the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, having granted to E. C Meseer.

It is ordered, That six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date hereof for creditors of said deceased to present their claims against the said deceased for examination, adjustment and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is further ordered, That the first day of December, 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m. at a special Term of said Court, to be held at the Probate office in the City of Crookston in said County, be and the same is hereby appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, That notice of said hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by forthwith publishing this order once a week for three successive weeks in the Polk County JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published in Crookston, in said County.

Dated Crookston, this 23rd day of May, 1899.

By the Court,
OLE E. HAGEN,
Judge of Probate.

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk—ss.
In Probate Court, Special Term, May 21, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of Joseph O. Mathews, deceased.

Letters of administration on the estate of Joseph O. Mathews, deceased, late of the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, having been granted to Emma N. Mathews.

It is ordered, That six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all creditors and persons interested in said estate are required to present their claims against the said deceased for examination, adjustment and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is further ordered, that the 2nd day of December 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. at a Special Term of said Court, to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston, in said County, be and the same is hereby appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, that notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by forthwith publishing this order once a week for three successive weeks in the Polk County JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published in Crookston, in said County.

Dated Crookston, this 21st day of May, 1899.

By the Court,
OLE E. HAGEN,
Judge of Probate.

Notice of Expiration of Time of Redemption.

To W. H. Miller:

You are hereby notified that on the 8th day of May A. D. 1896 in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes assessed for certain real estate tax judgment which was duly entered and docketed in the office of the County Auditor of Polk County and in the office of the District Court of said County on the 14th day of October 1895 for the sum of $ 21.22 and costs against the following described piece and parcel of land which was duly sold for the taxes, penalties, interest and costs thereon, to-wit:

Lot numbered thirteen (13) in block numbered one (1) in Sutton and Crombs' subdivision of lots in Section 31 in Township 150 North of Range 47 West.

And the state to satisfy the amount for which it was sold, to-wit: the sum of said judgment, being for taxes, penalties, interest and costs of four dollars and ten cents, that on the 10th day of May, 1896, the right of redemption acquired by said sale was assigned for the purpose of foreclosure by the County Auditor of said County to redeem said piece and parcel of land from said sale, and that a certificate of such assignment was duly made, and that the redemption of such piece and parcel of land from said sale was made by the payment of the amount at that time of 12 per cent interest from said 8th day of May A. D. 1896, and such redemption is now made, and that the time for redemption of such piece and parcel of land from said sale will expire and the right of redemption therein will be forever barred and foreclosed unless you or some person interested in said land shall redeem the same within one year from said 8th day of May A. D. 1899.

Witness my hand and official seal this 11th day of May, A. D., 1899.

[SEAL] JOHN GLEASON,
County Auditor of Polk County, Minnesota.
By N. A. HOFF,
Deputy.

5-8

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk—ss.
In Probate Court, Special Term, May 21, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of Joseph O. Mathews, deceased.

It is ordered, That six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all creditors and persons interested in said estate are required to present their claims against the said deceased for examination, adjustment and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is further ordered, that the 2nd day of December 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. at a Special Term of said Court, to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston, in said County, be and the same is hereby appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, that notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by forthwith publishing this order once a week for three successive weeks in the Polk County JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published in Crookston, in said County.

Dated Crookston, this 21st day of May, 1899.

By the Court,
OLE E. HAGEN,
Judge of Probate.

Mortgage Sale.

First publication May 18, 1899.
Last publication, June 15th, 1899.

Notice of mortgage foreclosure by advertisement.

Default has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage, dated the 1st day of May, 1892, made and executed by Ole Nerland, a single man, of the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, mortgagor, to Thomas Sedley, mortgagee, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, Minnesota, on the 13th day of May, 1892, at 10 o'clock a. m. and recorded in Book 37 of Mortgages on page 436, whereby Edward Lee, as assignee of said mortgage, assigned to The American Investment Mortgage Company of London (Limited), of London, England, mortgagee, the certain tracts or parcels of real estate, situated in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:

The east half of the northeast quarter (e½ of the ne¼) and the east half of the southeast quarter (e½ of the se¼), of section thirteen (13), township one hundred forty-nine (149), range forty-three (43), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, more or less, according to the United States Government Survey thereof, together with the appurtenances and improvements belonging, by which said power of sale has become operative;

And no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, there is now due and claimed to be due on said mortgage and note secured thereby the sum of Seven Hundred and Seventy-six Dollars;

Now, Therefore, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and in pursuance, said mortgage will be foreclosed and said premises sold at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, by the sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston, in said County, Minnesota, on the 15th day of June, 1899, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston, said place of sale in said County, Minnesota, to pay said debt, with interest thereon since 1892, 14 cents per day (7%) and the costs and disbursements allowed by law.

Dated, St. Cloud, Minn., April 26th, 1899.

THE AMERICAN INVESTMENT MORTGAGE COMPANY OF LONDON (Limited) of London, England, Mortgagee.

GEO. H REYNOLDS,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
5-11 St. Cloud, Minn.

Notice of Expiration of Time of Redemption.

To W. H. Miller:

You are hereby notified that on the 8th day of May A. D. 1896 in proceedings to enforce the payment of delinquent taxes assessed for certain real estate tax judgment which was duly entered and docketed in the office of the County Auditor of Polk County and in the office of the District Court of said County on the 14th day of October 1895 for the sum of $ 21.22 and costs against the following described piece and parcel of land which was duly sold for the taxes, penalties, interest and costs thereon, to-wit:

Lot numbered thirteen (13) in block numbered one (1) in Sutton and Crombs' subdivision of lots in Section 31 in Township 150 North of Range 47 West.

And the state to satisfy the amount for which it was sold, to-wit: the sum of said judgment, being for taxes, penalties, interest and costs of four dollars and ten cents, that on the 10th day of May, 1896, the right of redemption acquired by said sale was assigned for the purpose of foreclosure by the County Auditor of said County to redeem said piece and parcel of land from said sale, and that a certificate of such assignment was duly made, and that the redemption of such piece and parcel of land from said sale was made by the payment of the amount at that time of 12 per cent interest from said 8th day of May A. D. 1896, and such redemption is now made, and that the time for redemption of such piece and parcel of land from said sale will expire and the right of redemption therein will be forever barred and foreclosed unless you or some person interested in said land shall redeem the same within one year from said 8th day of May A. D. 1899.

Witness my hand and official seal this 11th day of May, A. D., 1899.

[SEAL] JOHN GLEASON,
County Auditor of Polk county, Minnesota.
By N. A. HOFF,
Deputy.

5-8

FIVE FORKS AND EL CANEY.

A ROMANCE COVERING TWO WARS, BY ROSA C. RICHORS.

[Copyright, 1899, by the Author.]

MEMORIAL DAY, 1898, found the Grand Army men, the high school pupils and the citizen soldier companies gathered in large numbers in the Forrest Hill cemetery to make the event of the centennial year noteworthy as a patriotic festival. After the formal ceremonies by the order at the soldiers' plot were over and the military ranks broken veterans in blue wandered away in all directions among the graves and placed little flags as markers, that the school-boys and schoolgirls might know where to place the pots and baskets of flowers generously donated to honor the fallen heroes. Among the latter went Harold Bement, a freshman at Harvard, and for the first time clad in the uniform of the military company he had recently joined. Many of the younger flower bearers knew Harold and were delighted to have him of their party in his bright and suggestive soldier's clothes. and a group of them half led him along until the great crowd had been left behind. Reaching a vale shut off by itself in the quiet inclosure, they saw no flags, and paused to consider what route to take.

At some distance away on the farther slope a strange scene attracted the youthful eyes, and wonder was upon every face. Kneeling beside a plot containing two headstones was a man of bent figure and long gray locks, apparently near his threescore. In one hand he grasped a bundle of wild flowers, and upon the grave over which he bent were strewn clusters of buttercups and field violets and the brave yellow daffodil. Harold changed his manner at once and disentangled his hands from those of the children, while they curiously but cautiously crept forward to the kneeling figure. The voices of the crowd disturbed the old man's reveries, and he turned, pleased rather than annoyed, when he saw who the intruders were. Harold made a detour to keep the back of the figure to him, but drew near enough to hear anything that might be said for the benefit of his companions.

Taking the hand of a bright and kindly faced boy of about 12, the old man trembled for some moments to arrange the wild flowers that he held in the other, then said, pointing to the name on the headstone nearest him: "We were comrades, schoolmates at Harvard, many years ago, my boy, and I come here every year alone to strew his grave with wild flowers and that other one with blossoms from the garden. I come alone because, while this is a soldier's grave, it is not one to be honored like those you have decorated. This soldier fought against the flag that those over there died to save. But he was not my enemy—not my own enemy, although he fought on one side and I on the other, and I shot him."

From scores of the lips the words were echoed, "He shot him!" But the youthful ears were eager for more. The old man had said too much for youthful curiosity not to be gratified with more of the war romance suggested by those lonely graves and the faithful old friend beside them.

One inscription read:

GERARD ISELIN,
Pegram's Virginia Battery.
Killed at Five Forks April 1, 1865.

The other:

KATHARINE MASON ISELIN,
Wife of Gerard Iselin.
Died June 1, 1866.

"And were you in the war?" asked a girl companion of the lad whose hand the old man still retained.

"Yes, I am sorry to say I was," said the prematurely aged veteran, "for, though it had to be, it has left me only sad memories, a record of bitter strife, of friendship broken and these two graves for a friend into my soul. But I must not say more, my children. You would not understand. Go on with your loving duties to the heroes of the war. They deserve your honor, but for one my duty is here, to bring both rich flowers and fragrant garlands, bitter to the bitter and sweet to the sweet." With this he waved his ministers adieu, and they went away marveling that war, which meant to them such pageantry and holiday making, could be desolate a life so completely. Harold did not rejoin the clustering juniors, but made his way back to the company alone, still avoiding the gaze of the old man at the grave.

The incident was quickly forgotten by many of the children, while others asked their elders what it meant, and all that could be learned was that the grave of the Virginia soldier represented the gray and was to be thought of only as something distinct from the blue, held in such loving remembrance by the people of New England. Every Memorial day some of the bolder ones sought out the lonely twin graves, but did not venture near to question their faithful warden more. Those who wandered in that direction saw Harold Bement keeping vigil at some distance behind the gray haired mourner until the intruders left the scene, when he, too, returned to the company of young soldiers, where his elder brother, Gerard Bement, also a Harvard man, was an officer.

But when Memorial day came in 1898, and the children of centennial year were full grown youths and maidens and even men and women following the stalwart young volunteers for the Spanish war as they marched before the veterans of 1861 to do honor to the ranks where Harold and Gerard Bement marched. Some who had been inquisitive had learned that the gray haired sire was John Bement, father of Captain Gerard and Lieutenant Harold Bement of the Second Massachusetts volunteers and that the day was to see the parting of father and sons, the latter setting out to join their regiment for service in Cuba.

Again the solemn and impressive ceremonies at the "soldiers' plot," the planting of the sprig of evergreen, a white rose and the laurel branch as symbols of remembrance, of virtue and of victory, and the firing salute to the dead. There was less chatter among the children, for many were learning now the meaning of war, with their brothers and even fathers about to march away to battle. John Bement, no longer bent and weighed down by age, led the way to the lonely graves in the out of the way vale, moving with sprightly step between his soldier sons. A crowd followed, some out of idle curiosity and others—older ones—to learn more of the story of the Virginian's grave and its mate. The latter were not disappointed, but they saw no wild flowers on the grave of Gerard Iselin of Pegram's Virginia battery—instead a beautifully wrought cast of arms of the nation in mere flowers of red, white and blue. On the other grave, deftly wrought with white blossoms, were a pair of hands folded over the breast and a dove.

John Bement had placed these tokens of friendship at the dawning of the day, so bright for him. In simple words he told his story for the ears of Harold and Gerard, but there were many listeners besides.

"Father," said Harold, "I have a confession to make. I was an eavesdropper many years ago, when you told the children how you shot this man in gray."

"'Tis nothing, my boy, to what you shall hear today. Gerard Iselin, your father, lies buried here, and I killed him; also your"—

His voice was stilled by the emotion of Gerard, who grasped his hand vigorously, but could not speak. "Go on," he said, after a struggle, and the story was told without further interruption.

"Gerard Iselin was my classmate and friend at Harvard, as you boys have been, and as like brothers. He was a southerner, wild, as we used to say, and as even I boasted at times of being. He loved the sister of another friend and classmate, Katharine Mason, and it was said that his love for her alone kept him from running the lines in 1861 to fight for the south, boy that he was, for he was only 17 then. Well, the war went on, and, although we disputed often, there was no rupture. At last I volunteered in Harvard's own regiment, the Second Massachusetts, and Gerard bid me godspeed in his wild, hearty way, saying 'he'd meet me and whip me some day on the battlefield.'"

"And you never told us that you were a Second Massachusetts man, too," said Harold, his thoughts on the regiment its proud name.

"No, I sought to forget, to bury the war, since it forced me to kill a friend, a brother. In time I learned that Gerard had disappeared and with him Katharine Mason. It was a blow to Oliver, her brother and our friend. And he vowed that he would shoot him down like a dog, if he ever found him alive."

He paused, overcome with emotion.

"But those were stirring days," he continued after a while. "We fought almost every day of that year, 1864, and at last came to the field of Five Forks. Our regiment charged there upon the flank of the Confederate trenches. All went well until we reached Pegram's Virginia battery. There we lost many, but my company pushed forward and shot down many to clear the way for our advance. Suddenly I saw a Confederate rise up from the field and handle the lanyard of a piece aimed straight at our advance line. A second, and a hundred of my brave men would be blown to pieces, and, although I saw and recognized my friend and brother, Gerard Iselin, I raised my revolver and shot him down."

"WE WERE COMRADES."

Harold stood motionless, gazing at the inscription on the Virginia grave, while Gerard remained overcome with emotion.

Growing lonely now, John Bement proceeded: "Well, we charged and carried the day, and I went back to find my fallen friend. He was alive and knew me. It was a sad meeting, but he said: 'I cannot long be alive, John, so forgive me. I have wronged you and Oliver and Katharine!'

"'Katharine!' said I. 'What of her?'

"'She is dead! My child wife, dead!'

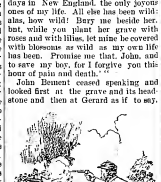
"'You married her, then?' I cried.

"'I did, indeed, and meant to do well by her,' he said. 'We settled in New York. One day I met an old friend from home. He induced me to run the lines and fight for the south.' Not daring to face Katharine, I sent her a draft for all my bank account and ran off here. Ah, John! This war! This war!'

"'And then?' I questioned hoarsely.

"'She died, and, I hear, left a baby boy, and now I am going, too, old man. Won't you care for my boy as your own?' The effort was almost too much for him, but after a few seconds he continued: 'Katharine lies in Forrest Hill. Find her grave and place me beside her, for the sake of those school days in New England, the only joyous ones of my life. All else has been wild; alas, how wild! Bury me beside her, but, while you plant her grave with roses and with lilies, let mine be covered with blossoms as wild as my own life has been. Promise me that, John, and to save my boy, for I forgive you this hour of pain and death.'"

John Bement ceased speaking and looked first at the grave and its headstone and then at Gerard as if to say,



"I SHOT HIS DOWN."

"I have been true to my trust." Then he waited for Gerard's verdict. It came, with a hearty embrace and choking sob: "Father! Yes," he added, "you shall be taken at, that to me!"

A bugle sounded the call to assemble, and the veteran seized the hands of Harold and Gerard. "My care has been rewarded and my grief is over," said he. "This is the happiest hour of my life when I send you two, a son of Massachusetts and a son of Virginia side by side to battle for the nation. Sumter, Five Forks and Appomattox will be forgotten while you carry the flag on new fields of glory to avenge the martyrs of the Maine."

* * *

The day was nearly over at El Caney. In front and on the right and on the left the Americans found their march opposed by barbed wire barricades just where the Manser fire from distant trenches swept the ground. Only one knoll, crowned with cactus copse, offered shelter for advance from the hail that can side. It lay in front of the Second Massachusetts, and Gerard Iselin volunteered to crawl through the grass covering the interval and cut the wire so that the regiment might rush forward. He reached the fence, as he believed unseen by the Spaniards beyond the copse, but at the first click of his wire cutter two Mausers looked out from the cactus blades, and their muzzles slowly dropped to the level of his head. Then two successive pistol shots rang out from close behind him. The Mausers endorsed drooped from sight, and the cavalry from the copse passed over him, aimed at some object in the rear. In the confusion he secured the wire of three spans of fence, then tossed his hat in the air as a signal agreed upon for his comrades to advance. He led the charging line and was the first to cross the Spanish trenches, but when the victory was won Harold did not appear. His story was soon told. He lay dead a few feet back from the cactus copse, killed by the volley which had answered his deadly pistol shots. The boy had followed Gerard, for he feared that his rashness would be fatal, and he wished to be at hand in his hour of need.

Together John Bement and Gerard Iselin made the long journey in winter and brought Harold's remains from Cuba. They were met at the steamer's wharf by a committee of Grand Army men, who had prepared to do public honor to the dead hero of El Caney. But John Bement said: "No; it is now as it was in 1865, when you wished to honor me as the hero of Five Forks. I felt then that I had only performed my duty, a dreadful duty, and now it leaves me take the life of a friend. My boy simply did his duty when he gave his life for a friend."

When alone again, he said to Gerard: "The account of Iselin against Bement has been honored. The ashes of friend dead shall mingle and the blood of their living flow in one stream forever."

Memorial day, 1899, finds two graves at the little plot in the vale to decorate with flowers of red, white and blue, while above them the father of a dead soldier and a son of a dead soldier pledge with clasped hands undying love for their country's standard, echoing in their hearts the sentiment of the Great Commander, "Let us have peace!"

THE TRIUMPH OF PEACE.

In a southern vale where the cypress grows
And sunshine smile on the Magnolia's bloom,
Where a stream meanders slow to the sea
Had two friend hills and a vestigial tree.

There have and fury once were rife
And earth met earth in deadly strife.

But now they repose 'neath the summer's glow,
Both the victor and vanquished long had low.
And the perfume hints south winds sigh
A plaintive lament as their lullaby.

And peace embraced reigns now where they
Met in the pride of war's array.

No sign now remains of the bloody strife,
Of that combat of heroes, that waste of life,
Save the grassy mounds that silently tell
Of the harvest of death in this sweet dell.
Unless perchance some mourners stray
There to deplore that fatal day.

Oh, never again may a brother's hand
Be raised 'gainst a brother within our land,
But ever may harmony, love and peace
Be closer unite as the years increase,
For peace hath triumphs greater far
Than all the pomp and pride of war!

NEIL MACDONALD.

WHOOP!

BIG CELEBRATION at FARGO

JUNE 7, 8, 9, '99

A Lot of ...BANDS...
A Lot of ...PEOPLE...
Going to be There

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC R. R.

IS RIGHT IN IT WITH

ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP

Call on the Northern Pacific Agent QUICK and find out all about it.

CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

HIGH-GRADE HAWTHORNE $22.50 NET.

SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne. Grade—Standard. Frame—Diamond; 20, 22 and 24 inches. Material—Seamless tubing. Finish—Enamel. Wheels—Quick detachable; 28 inches; 1¾ inch rims; 28 spokes; Dayton. Tires—Single tube; 1¾ inch. Bearings—Ball; 3/16 inch. Pedals—Rubber; 4½ inches. Chain—Hawthorne; 3/16 inch pitch. Sprockets—Hawthorne; 22 teeth. Handle Bars—Hawthorne; 22 inches. Saddle—Hawthorne; leather. Seat Pillar—Hawthorne; 2 inches. Weight—About 30 pounds.

15000 Sold in 1898

Is the best answer that could be given. All modern improvements. Guaranteed for one year. If not found as represented, return it at our expense both ways, and you can have your money back on demand.

ASK US TO SEND YOU OUR FREE BICYCLE CATALOG

Send 15 cents for our 1,000 page catalogue. It lists everything used by enlisted.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

Notice of Dissolution.

CROOKSTON, April 9, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between Rudolph T. Rasmussen & A. H. Dahl, under the firm name of Rasmussen & Dahl is this day by mutual consent, dissolved. All bills due said firm and all bills payable by said firm will be collected and paid by A. H. Dahl, who will continue the business at the same stand. Rudolph T. Rasmussen, A. H. Dahl.

In presence of
H. E. Rasmussen, RUDOLPH T. RASMUSSEN.
O. D. Dahl. ANNIE M. DAHL.
4-2t.

Final Proof.

Land office at Crookston, Minn.
May, 1st, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver, U. S. land office at Crookston, Minnesota, on June 10th, 1899, viz:

JOHN P. DAHLIE,

H. E. No. 11,587 for the lot 2 and nw¼, ne¼, w½ nw¼, section 7, township 149 n, range 49 w.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Ole T. Camp, Herman Camp, Charles Ashler, John T. Farden, all of Rudolph, Minnesota.

SYLVESTER PETERSON,
4-9 Register

Notice For Bids.

Bids for building a wooden bridge across the Rimmelsbach creek, in the town of Fairfax, will be received up to one o'clock p. m. Friday, June 2, at which time the town board will be at the town clerk's office for the purpose of opening. Applicants are to state the price per cubic foot. Plans and specifications can be seen by calling at the residence of the undersigned in the town of Fairfax. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A. G. DANIELS,
4-10 Chairman of Board.

BIGGLE BOOKS

A Farm Library of unequalled value—Practical, Up-to-date, Concise and Comprehensive—Handsomely Printed and Beautifully Illustrated.

By JACOB BIGGLE

No. 1—BIGGLE HORSE BOOK
Describes Common Sense Treatise, with over 74 illustrations; a standard work. Price, 50 Cents.

No. 2—BIGGLE BERRY BOOK
All about growing Small Fruits—and learn how; contains 45 colored life-like reproductions of all leading varieties and no other illustrations. Price, 50 Cents.

No. 3—BIGGLE POULTRY BOOK
All about; tells everything; 12 colored life-like reproductions of leading varieties; 100 other illustrations. Price, 50 Cents.

No. 4—BIGGLE COW BOOK
All about cows and the Dairy Business; being a great work. Discusses all breeds; 12 life-like reproductions of breed, with 120 other illustrations. Price, 50 Cents.

No. 5—BIGGLE SWINE BOOK
Just out. All about Feeding, Breeding, Feeding, Butchering, Diseases, Etc. Illustrated every breed, with 12 colored and other engravings. Price, 50 Cents.

The BIGGLE BOOKS are unique, original, useful—you never saw anything like them—no practical, scientific treatises; they are having an enormous sale—East, West, North and South. Every one who keeps a Horse, Cow, Hog or Chicken, or grows Small Fruits, ought to send right away for the BIGGLE BOOKS. Try them.

FARM JOURNAL

Is your paper, made for you and not a misfit. It is 22 years old, it is the great bulletproof. It is the only one in the land—quit-after-you-have-said-it. Farm and Household paper in the world—the largest paper of its size in the United States of America—having over a million and a half regular readers.

Any ONE of the BIGGLE BOOKS, and the FARM JOURNAL

A YEARS reminder of 1899, 1900, 1901 and 1902 will be sent by mail to any address for A DOLLAR BILL.

Sample of FARM JOURNAL and booklet describing BIGGLE BOOKS free.

WILMER ATKINSON, Address, FARM JOURNAL,
CHAS. F. JENKINS. PHILADELPHIA

YOU CAN USE IT 20 DAYS FREE

Write us to-day for one of our Free Sewing Machines with Full Description and all Points in Our Proposition. This is not to be compared with any other offer ever made. We will send your machine at once. Use it 20 days in your own home, with the utmost test of your skill, and if you do not find it in every way a first-class machine, as represented, return it at our expense and you will not be out a penny. If you prefer to buy, we will allow you Special Factory Prices, and you can pay us a little each month. Remember, you have the machine 20 days before you decide to keep it. If you don't like it, it is to be returned, and we will refund. We guarantee the machine for ten years. Remember, you take no risk. If you know you need a machine, you cannot afford to miss this opportunity. IT'S SPECIAL FEATURES are Ball Bearing, Light Running, Durable, Simply Constructed, Noiseless, Rapid, Handsome, Easy Running, Self-Threading, Self-Setting Needle, Reversible, Automatic Bobbin Winder, Automatic Stop, Stitch Regulating, Short Shuttle, Steel Bearings, Improved Seed Attachments, Superior Finish, Highly Polished Best Woodwork, Oak or Walnut, Drop Head or Upright. Every machine is fully warranted. Send 15 cents for our 100 page catalogue. It lists everything used by enlisted.

Originators of The Catalogue System. MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., Michigan Ave. & Madison St., Chicago.

Polk County Journal,

BY N. S. GORDON.

☞Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

Official Paper of the City of Crookston.

PEEPER has given it out that he has returned to the Republican fold. We suggest that he bequeath to the populists his whiskers.

GENERAL HENDERSON, one of the congressmen from the State of Iowa is looming up as one of the prominent candidates for Speaker. He has been endorsed by six of the seven congressmen from Minnesota.

We have received a copy of the Minneapolis Journal Almanac and Year Book for 1899. It is replete with statistical, official, agricultural, historical, state, national, and general information. It is a valuable publication to have in one's library.

IN Cuba, in the district of Santiago, over which General Wood is governor, many schools have already been established and there is still need and demand for more. This is a significant fact. Wherever the Anglo-Saxon race goes there an educational system is soon established. England is building a college in the Soudan and the United States is erecting schools in Cuba and Porto Rico.

ATTENTION has been called elsewhere in this issue to the premiums being offered by the State Agricultural Society for county exhibits. We wish here to emphasize the importance and desirability of Polk county making a creditable showing in these exhibits. From what we know of this part of the State by reputation, and from what we have already seen of the country ourselves, we feel sure that there is no need of this section coming out second best in the county exhibits. The farmers of Polk county ought to make a magnificent showing this fall of the farm produce of the Red River Valley.

THE exercises of commencement week at the State University at Minneapolis closed today with a commencement address by President Northrup. For the first time in the history of the institution oration will not be delivered by the seniors, but instead the president speaks. For years the students at the "U" have been trying to get the regents to do away with the old time exercises, but heretofore they have not been successful. Minnesota University is rapidly forging ahead and save in age few institutions can rank her. This year three hundred and thirty-seven students will be graduated, the largest class yet.

IT is made more clear every day that the Great Northern railway ought to build a new station in this city. To say nothing of the inadequate accommodations for travelers in the waiting rooms, the platforms are crowded to such an extent at train times that it is very difficult for one to elbow his way through the mass of humanity. Such an amount of baggage is piled up on the platform that in order to get from one part of the platform to another one very frequently has to step on and walk on the railway ties. This condition of affairs shows that much business is being done here in Crookston, but it is also evidence that this city is entitled to a new railway station.

THE Democratic National Committee met at St. Louis last Thursday. Methods of campaigning and matters of organization were discussed to the exclusion of the political issues, at least so the committee themselves report. Bryan in an interview after the meeting, however, gave it out that he was firmly convinced that the silver issue would not be shelved. Anti-trusts, anti-imperialism and other antis are variously suggested as possible issues for the next presidential campaign. The weakness of the democratic position is here shown for it is evident that they are simply opposing something. No positive policy is being proclaimed, only that which is negative. They are ready to tear down but not prepared to build up.

REPORTS from Manila indicate that there is some disagreement between the military and civilian members of the Philippine Commission. Admiral Dewey and General Otis, the two military members, have been outvoted by the three civilians, and now that Dewey has left Otis is alone. President Schurman is adopting too conciliatory an attitude toward the Filipino emissaries to suit the military authorities. The latter think that men who have declared war and are carrying on war against the United States ought to see for peace, which they have not as yet, before any concessions whatever are granted them. The golden mean is usually the best course to take but if one side must be leaned toward we say let General Otis' opinion prevail.

IN a letter from James B. Angell, president of the State University of Michigan, which was recently published in the JOURNAL, it was intimated that R. W. Hitchcock might possibly have a standing in some other department of that institution than in the literary department. That full justice might be done this gentleman we again wrote to President Angell and received from him this reply:

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN,
President's Office.
Ann Arbor, May 26, 1899.

MR. N. S. GORDON,
Crookston, Minn.

Dear Sir: In answer to your second inquiry about Mr. R. W. Hitchcock I have to say that Mr. Hitchcock has received no degree from this University. He remained here only one year. He would probably need three more years for graduation. He cannot obtain a degree except by coming here. He has no credit here for any work done since leaving here.

Yours truly,
JAMES B. ANGELL.

This is no idle gossip, but evidence that proves beyond the question of a doubt that Mr. Hitchcock is neither a graduate of Ann Arbor, nor has he any credit for work done in that institution other that in the Freshman, the first, year.

The board then have elected as superintendent of the public schools perhaps the most important position in the city within the gift of the people, a man who has been graduated neither from a university, where he might have received scholastic and pedagogical training, nor from a normal school, where he might at least have received instruction in the art of teaching. Upon careful inquiry we have learned that this same board has for several years insisted upon the high school teachers being college graduates and the grade teachers being normal school graduates. Mr. Hitchcock's one qualification for the office, therefore, is that he holds a life state certificate. In order to secure such a certificate one must have taught school for several years, but the scholarship necessary is little, if any higher, than that which may be gained in a high school course. These are the further facts in the case. If the board of education had been looking after the well being of the city schools they would have learned these facts before finally settling the question of the superintendency. They cannot plead as an excuse for their action that Mr. Hitchcock misled them as to his standing, for it was their business to know his qualifications fully before they elected him to such a responsible position, and they could have found them out had they wished to. Some reason they must have had for selecting this man and as the wishes of the people were ignored and the educational interests of the city set aside we are forced to the belief that considerations that were not public influenced them. But what shall we say of the man who has been selected to watch over the growth of the youth of our city and inspire them with noble ambition? In his letter of application to the board, he states that he has received the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy from the University of Michigan, when such is not the case. By this act of misrepresentation he has, before entering upon his duties as superintendent, lost the confidence both of the pupils and teachers in the schools. The people now have these further facts with reference to the situation in school affairs. They have the supreme authority, and it remains with them to provide a remedy.

SUDDEN DISAPPEARANCE.

T. A. Crittenden Skips With Considerable Clothing.

T. A. Crittenden, who has been in charge of the Crookston Dye Works for some time suddenly left the city last Sunday night, taking with him a large quantity of clothing. It is supposed that he has skipped for Manitoba.

About midnight of last Sunday Crittenden and a companion got a team from one of the livery barns of the city, informing the livery man that they were going to Gentilly. The night policeman saw them when they had the wagon loaded with some boxes and being told that they were going to Gentilly let them pass on. Four hours later the man with Crittenden returned to the barn riding one of the horses and said the wagon was stuck in the mud on the northeast of town. Shortly afterward Crittenden himself appeared with the other horse and told the same story. The empty wagon was found later about two miles from town in the direction in which they said.

It is evident that the interval between the times at which the two men returned was employed by Crittenden in transferring the goods to another rig. It is thought that goods and man have gone to Manitoba where he has four young children living.

Some valuable clothing left at the Dye Works for cleaning is wanting. Crittenden was in the habit of buying second hand goods and the authorities think that he also received stolen goods, though in respect to the latter charge they have not positive information. Three trunks were left behind and these were attached Tuesday by Otto Burkhardt in whose debt Crittenden was.

Notes From Exchanges.

Ada Herald: Rev. Herman Fisher, of Crookston, delivered a very interesting lecture at the Congregational church last night on the subject "The Growth of our Country." Mr. Fisher is a finished speaker and he gave many and startling facts to illustrate the phenomenal development of our country.

McIntosh Times: At the request of a number of old settlers, notice is hereby given that a meeting for the purpose of organizing a Thirteen Towns Old Settlers' Association will be held at the opera house, McIntosh, on Saturday, June 10, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Each township is entitled to the three delegates and it is hoped that every township will be represented.

Elk River Star-News: The fact that President J. J. Hill is being sued as the owner of the St. Paul Globe, which was the most rabid supporter of Gov. Lind in the last campaign, taken in conjunction with the additional fact that Gov. Lind retired the only bill inimical to the railroads, is about as clear a case of circumstantial evidence as one usually runs across.

Minneapolis Tribune: The queer thing about this situation is that a member of President McKinley's cabinet should become a candidate for the senate against a man who poses as the administration candidate. Whether the stories of Alger's political alliance with Pingree are true or not, the secretary, by pitting himself against McMillan, virtually antagonizes the administration of which he forms a part. This is an anomalous situation. Alger can hardly remain in the cabinet and carry on a campaign of that kind.

Aitkin Age: The campaign cry of the democratic party next year will, according to the leaders of the party, be free silver, free trade and anti-expansion. Of these three issues the last will undoubtedly be the one on which the greatest stress will be laid. McKinley and his administration is to be maligned and abused for his policy in dealing with the Philippine problem and the Republican party is to be paraded before the people as manufacturers of the race. The Republicans can do nothing wiser than to encourage the democrats and populists to carry out this program.

Hallock Weekly: Hallock will soon have a great improvement in the way of telephone service. Instead of the present manual system where one must call up the central in order to get switched on to the line desired, this will be done from each instrument through an automatic device that has lately been invented. This will give constant and absolutely reliable service. The village council at a meeting held Thursday evening purchased forty-five automatic switches that will be put in the city hall for the public to wire up to under the supervision of the village council.

Duluth News-Tribune: It is predicted in St. Paul that a great many changes from chief inspector down the line are due to take place in the grain department before Aug. 1 next. It is said that Governor Lind has had an "interview" with General Becker, the gold democrat on the state commission, who had previously opposed wholesale changes in the department, and that now the governor's recommendations will be carried out. This leaves Judge Mills as the only member of the commission opposing the governor's proposition to make a political machine out of a commercial institution.

Grand Forks Herald: His long sojourn in the Philippines, his familiarity with the conditions and peoples and characters there, coupled with his keen, conservative, sound judgment unquestionably constitute him the very best living authority in Philippine matters. And Admiral Dewey has maintained from the first that from all points of view the United States should retain control of the Philippines. In that direction he is the original expansionist. Who in this country will proclaim himself a manlier man, a truer American patriot, or a better judge of the Philippine situation than Admiral Dewey?

ALUMNI BANQUET.

At Hotel Crookston Tomorrow Night, Eloquent and Witty Toasts.

The third annual banquet of the Alumni of the Crookscon high school will be held at the Hotel Crookston tomorrow night. Elaborate preparations are being made for a big spread both of food for the body and food for the mind. Covers will be laid for forty of the alumni and in addition former and present teachers in the high school have been invited.

The list of toasts and those who will respond will be completed this morning.

Excursion to Cleveland, O.

One fare for the round trip via Nickel Plate Road, on June 25th and 26th. Tickets good returning to and including June 29th, 1899. Chicago depot, Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave. Address General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

Literary Notes.

THE JUNE ATLANTIC.

The first chapters of Miss Johnston's brilliant historical romance, To Have and to Hold, form a most attractive opening for the June Atlantic. Like her previous novel, Prisoners of Hope, which has commanded such immediate and universal popularity, the scene of the story is laid in early colonial Virginia. The foundation of the plot rests upon the well-known instance of the sending a ship-load of young women from England to the colony soon after its founding for the purpose of furnishing wives to the colonists; and the masterly manner in which the situation is handled and the plot developed will enchain the attention and interest of all readers from the start.

In Japan and the Philippines, author May Kinsley analyses the salient features of Japanese character and policy, and the reasons which make that nation averse to taking the Philippines themselves, but which induce them to welcome our presence there, and to look upon England and the United States as their most natural and best allies and friends.

LIPPINCOTT'S

"Green Withes," by Jeannette H. Walworth, the powerful complete novel in the June issue of Lippincott's Magazine, is a tale of strong human interest, touching, as it does, on one of the vital questions of the present time. Mrs. Walworth gives to environment its full value in leading the reader from the old world to the new. How pathetic is the situation of the ill-fated millionaire's daughter whom we meet in Rome! Then the vigorous, independent heroine of the later pages. Both are harmoniously and artistically set forth. The snapping of the green withes of convention and the inevitable awakening are told in a forceful and interesting way calculated to arouse the deepest sympathy.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

The fiction of the June Journal includes the second installment of Anthony Hope's "Captain Dieppe," Octave Sweet's story, "The Revolt of Sar' Abby Quint," the first of "Ol' Peckham's Opinions," and four chapters of "A College Courtship." There are no less than three articles—"Five-Minute Talks on Good Health," by expert physical educators, and a paper by Mrs. Lucy Hall Dan Beard contributes an illustrated article on "A Boys' Underground Club House." Two pages of photographs show "Where Our Presidents are Buried"—others picture "Children's Day in the Church," "Picturesque Bits of Garment," etc. Mrs. E. T. Rorer teaches "The A B C of Ice Cream Making," and gives menus for outdoor gatherings. "The Journal's Prize Model House" is here with others built from plans previously published. There are numerous practical articles on woman's work and woman's wear. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar per year; ten cents per copy.

AMERICAN MONTHLY.

The signs of the times on the industrial and business horizon are outlined in the June number of the American Monthly Review of Reviews. In the department of "The Progress of the world" the editor discusses the new era of prosperity, the restored wages of labor, the tendency toward consolidation of industry, railroad amalgamation, the relation of modern monopolies to the heaping up of great fortunes, the value of franchises and proposed tax reforms, and other conditions and problems of the day in the business world. Mr. Byron W. Holt contributes an article on "Trusts—The Rush to Industrial Monopoly," in which he sets forth the facts in connection with the recent startling development of the trust-forming mania, as it is beginning to be called. A feature of Mr. Holt's article is a carefully prepared list of more than one hundred and twenty-five industrial combinations now operating in this country, each of which is capitalized at no less than $10,000,000. This list was revised to May 20, and includes the concerns formed during the past few months.

Elsewhere.

Alexandria will probably erect a $10,000 library building.

The business portion of Staples, Minn., was destroyed by fire last Thursday night.

During the four fiscal years 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, the exportations of American bicycles amount in round numbers to $20,000,000.

An enthusiastic teachers' meeting was held at Hendrum recently under the supervision of County Superintendent Bradley of Norman county.

The plank of the north bridge over the Red river at Hendrum which recently floated down to Halstad, has been carried back to the former village.

The annual state tournament given under the auspices of the North Dakota State Sportsmen's Association will be held in Grand Forks on June 13, 14 and 15.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Makes the food more delicious and wholesome

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

The Red Lake Falls Lumber Company recently closed a deal with the Robertson Lumber Company of Graf-ton, N. D., for the sale of 6,000,000 feet of lumber.

No profanity is allowed within the boundaries of Millstart, a small town in Indiana. All offenders in this particular are at once arrested by the village marshal.

Fargo's grand Catholic cathedral was dedicated May 30. This edifice cost $75,000. The auditorium will hold 800 people and there are 200 extra seats for special occasions.

It is accepted as a settled fact over at Grand Forks that a new N. P. station is to be built on the site of the Arlington hotel, and that the track is to be moved nearer to Third street.

Farmer's day, which the St. Peter people are making a special feature of once a month is proving a great success. Prizes are offered by the merchants for different kinds of produce.

The Norwegian or Grand Forks College, situated at Grand Forks, whose doors have not been opened since 1892 is likely to resume work this coming fall with an enrollment of 300 students.

A twelve-inch shell, fired from one of the American battleships during the blockade of Santiago, exploded recently while being handled at that city, demolishing a building and killing three persons.

Mail Clerk Seasoak, who was last fall deposed of opening registered letters and whose trial came off in Fergus Falls a few weeks ago, has been sentenced to one year and six months in the penitentiary at Stillwater.

A W. C. T. U. convention was held during the last days of last week at Warren, Mrs. Scovil, the state president, who has lately been lecturing in this part of the state, was present and presided at the sessions.

Chief Red Blanket of Bear Island in Leech Lake claims to have just found Major Williston's sword. The sword seemed some time ago by a St. Paul Globe reporter the chief says belongs to Lieutenant Rose.

W. A. Case, of Warren, deputy head consul of the Modern Woodmen of America, has been transferred to the Minneapolis district, where he will continue his work of organizing new camps. He will not return north again till fall.

Rosa Bonheur died at Fontainebleau, near Paris, last Saturday, May 27, at the age of 77. By universal consent she ranked as the greatest painter of our time, and, with the single exception of Sir Edwin Landseer, as the greatest animal painter of all times.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in session at Minneapolis, referred the case of Prof. McGiffert, who, it is claimed is somewhat heretical, to the Presbytery of New York, and thus a repetition of the famous heresy trial of Prof. Briggs was avoided.

The Brainerd & Northern is buying up the right-of-way along its newly surveyed line from Bemidji to Turtle River lake, northeast of Bemidji ten miles, where it is said the road intends to build this summer for the purpose of bringing in from that direction about 3,000,000 of pine timber now standing in that country.

The students, the faculty, S. G. Comstock, father of the school, and Resident Director Nye have joined in presenting an expensive watch to President Lord of the Moorhead normal school. At the close of the present school year Mr. Lord will leave to become president of the normal school at Charleston, Ill.

W. A. Evertsen, the Deer River embezzling assistant postmaster, was fined $500 by the federal court in Duluth. Young Evertsen pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzling over $2,600 of the government's funds while he was assistant postmaster under his father at Deer River last winter. The fine was promptly paid. The money taken was made good when discovery of shortage was made by the inspectors.

Admiral Dewey: "I have the greatest enthusiasm in the future of the Philippines. I hope to see America's possessions the key to oriental commerce and civilization. The brains of our great country will develop the untold agricultural and mineral richness of the islands. We must never sell them. Such an action would bring on another great war. We will never part with the Philippines, I am sure, and in future years the idea that the islands should have seriously suggested it will be one the curiosities of of history.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings

When la ing out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.

Call us up before letting your Contract.

We shall be pleased to give ou the benefit of our experience in laing out wiring plans.

It Will Cost You Nothing

to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.

Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring

We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.

Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.

Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Items of Local Interest—Persons Mention—Society Doings, Etc.

—Last Thursday was pay day at the saw mill.

—A full line of Stationery at Andrese's Drug Store.

—If you want old papers call at the JOURNAL office.

—S. S. Stadsvold, of Fosston, was in the city Sunday.

—W. E. Wood of Warrenspent Decoration in Crookston.

—John Lawson and wife of Fisher, were here on Monday.

—F. M. Brown went out to Cass Lake yesterday morning.

—Adolph Rauch is expected home from California next week.

—A. Bergh of Fosston spent Memorial Day at the county seat.

—The grand opening of the Ada Hotel will take place tonight.

—Fosston is making arrangements for a Fourth of July celebration.

—Rev. Herman P. Fisher lectured at Mentor last Thursday evening.

—N. J. Anderson of Fosston spent Monday night within the city walls.

—John P. Tuff of Fertile was registered at the Palace Tuesday morning.

—Crookston may have a circus soon. Ringling Brothers are coming this way.

—J. W. Wheeler was a passenger on the St. Hilaire train Tuesday morning.

—H. C. Misner, of Euclid, was transacting business in Crookston last Friday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Felix Fournet spent the last three days of last week at Bemidji.

—John McKinnon and wife and John O'Brien and wife Sundayed at Red Lake Falls.

—J. F. Montgomery and A. T. Campbell, of Angus, were in the city Monday night.

—In the Minneapolis Journal voting contest Miss Klug, of Grand Forks, came out ahead.

—Tom Young has bought a farm near the city and is preparing to put up some buildings on it.

—J. L. Sletten, the lumberman from Mentor, was transacting business in Crookston Monday.

—Attorney A. C. Wilkinson and wife returned Sunday morning from a short visit in Wisconsin.

—The Cresilli Floor Paint sold by Anderson the Druggist is a genuine paint and dries in eight to ten hours.

—Carl Siebel, of Ashland, Wis., formerly a resident of Crookston is here visiting with his uncle, Peter Heyd.

—N. P. Stone expects to build a stone wall in front of his property on Broadway opposite the court house.

—Stephen Snedecker, of Mentor, was among the G. A. R. men from abroad to join in the Memorial exercises.

—A special meeting of the building and loan association was held last Thursday at which some new loans were made.

—Andrew Eikem, our accommodating postmaster, has sold out his boot and shoe store on Main street to John Kliewer.

—Editor C. T. Lamman, of McIntosh, was in Crookston last Monday night, but he did not stay over for the Memorial exercises.

—D. Morrow, James Siobet and James Gilmour were down from Mallory Monday night to attend the meeting of the Masonic Lodge.

—Rev. C. F. Kite returned last Thursday from his missionary tour in the Roseau country and proceeded at once to his parish at Brainerd.

—Miss Ethel D. Chandler has issued invitations for a reception to be given this evening at 130 Ash street, in honor of her sister, Miss Edna N. Chandler, of Minneapolis, who is visiting in Crookston.

—Proof of the will of Matthias Christenson, who died out in the Bella Coola Colony, British Columbia, was heard in the probate court in Crookston last Friday. Jens Aune was appointed administrator.

—K. K. Knudson, one of the prominent farmers of Bygland came to town last Friday to pay some money into the county treasury. Before returning home he gave the JOURNAL a pleasant call.

—S. C. Johnson's team of white horses took a whirl down Fletcher street last Friday with no guiding hand holding the reins. They soon ran into a building, however, for the slow horse jerked the last horse right up onto the sidewalk.

—O. T. Rask, of Owatonna, who has been collection agent for the Deering Harvester Company in and around Crookston, has bought an interest in the bank at Blooming Prairie, and his home. He will be cashier of this financial institution assuming his new position on July 15.

—Old papers for sale at the JOURNAL office at very low rates.

—Bear in mind that A. G. Andersen deals only in pure and reliable goods.

—Mrs. J. T. Krost, of Hammond, went out to Red Lake Falls yesterday morning.

—J. C. Congdon, of Brainerd, was in the city last Tuesday looking after his real estate here.

—A full line of Furniture Hard Oil Coach and Varnishes at A. G Andersen and prices to suit.

—Tom Morris is back from a week spent at Minneapolis, Chicago and other cities to the south.

—I. S. Nichols, one of the prominent farmers in the neighborhood of Fertile, was at the county seat Monday.

—Thos. Erwin, one of Fisher's prominent citizens, was transacting business at the county seat last Monday.

—Dave Gorton, of the firm of Larsen, Carpenter and Company, of Fosston spent Sunday and Monday at the county seat.

—A. G. Andersen sells the Heath & Milligan best Paint, the purest and best House Paint on the market. Call and get a color card.

—M. C. Malone has returned from Wahnsha, where he has been for some time with his mother who was quite ill, but is better.

—J. Adam Bede gives the commencement address at the graduating exercises of the high school at Warren tomorrow night.

—Mrs. E. C. Carrath and Miss Ethel Dewar, of Grand Forks, have been visiting with Mrs. W. E. McKenzie during the past few days.

—Ole Thompson, who has for some time past, been manager of Elken's shoe store, left Tuesday morning for McIntosh where he will in future live on his farm.

—Will Smith, who has been working for some months past in the county auditor's office, will, beginning with today, assist in managing the business of Erickson & Vannet.

—The Gun Club had planned for a sweep stakes shoot and the base ball crowd for a game of ball on Memorial Day but both of these sports had to be given up on account of the rain.

—W. A. Scott, of Fargo, in company with E. M. Todd and A. T. Batchelder from the state of New Hampshire, were in Crookston last Tuesday. They were land prospecting in this section.

—O. O. Christianson and family were at Fertile yesterday attending the golden wedding of Mr. Christianson's parents. There was a large gathering of sons, daughters, grand children, and other relatives.

—Mrs. Gus Sundberg was very pleasantly surprised last Friday evening by about thirty-six of her friends who came to her home, bringing with them refreshments of a delicious kind. A very enjoyable time was spent by all.

—Attorney George Finlayson has returned from the Twin Cities, where he has been for about two weeks taking law examinations for entrance to the bar. Mr. Finlayson informs the JOURNAL that he intends practicing law in Crookston.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sawyer, who have long been residents of Crookston, leave in a few days for West Superior, where they will make their future home. Their many many friends here will regret very much their departure.

—At the sixth annual meeting of the organizations of the United Commercial Travelers of America in Dakota and Minnesota, which was held at Sioux Falls, S. D., last week, Frank Gravel, of Crookston, was elected Grand Conductor.

—A pile of shavings near the planing mill in South Crookston caught fire last Thursday but the fire protection over there is such that two streams of water were soon playing on the flames and hence the incipient conflagration was extinguished.

—Shauna's big department store in South Crookston will be open for business about the first of July. The brick block where he will be located is being thoroughly renovated inside and out and a complete new stock of dry goods, groceries, crockery, boots and shoes, notions, wall paper, etc., etc., will be put in.

—Chief Gonyea got word last Monday that the "Huron" bicycle that was recently stolen from a farm a few miles east of Crookston had been located at Warren. The man who stole it took it to Warren and sold it for $10—a wheel, the owner said, that cost him $70.

—Tuel J. Farden and wife, of Mentor were in Crookston Tuesday, transacted business. They met here their daughter from Fisher, Mrs. Balter. Mr. Farden has just moved his residence and farm buildings from the town of Grove Park to Tilden. A quarter section of land in Tilden which he recently bought he will give to his youngest son. Mr. Farden did not forget to give the Journal office a pleasant call.

—Mrs. Nelson and family of Euclid were at the county seat last Tuesday.

—Hugh Thompson, of East Grand Forks, was a Crookston visitor yesterday.

—T. E. Moulton and S. Cook, of Warren, spent Tuesday night in Crookston.

—Before Judge Hagen yesterday there was a hearing of claims on the estate of James Pleton.

—Attorney D. H. Fisk, of Fosston, was in the city last Tuesday returning home yesterday morning.

—Rev. F. W. Fraser went out to Fosston yesterday to perform a marriage ceremony, the bride to be, being a Miss Cameron.

—T. J. Mc Elligott, an attorney from Madison, Minn., was in the city yesterday consulting with George Parvis about buying some land in this section.

—At the Masonic lodge last Monday night five members were raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons. After the work a banquet was served in the lodge rooms. Quite a large delegation was over from East Grand Forks.

—The Rigzs Orchestra will play at Euclid June 9 at a dance to be given by the Modern Woodmen of that village. Several students from outlying towns have been taking the state examinations at the Crookston high school this week.

—W. E. Slocum is preparing to move his large stock of groceries into his new quarters in the Chase block on Broadway, where his old customers will find him as obliging as ever and new customers will get great bargains.

—Large indeed are the fish stories being told by those Crookstonites who had the good fortune to attend the Bemidji tournament last week. And the stories are not all manufactured either, by any means, for many are the tables in town on which fish from Bemidji lake have been served during the past week.

—W. J. Shaughnessy's little two-year old boy met with a painful accident last Tuesday. The little fellow's older brother was sawing wood and in some way the boy slipped up and got one of his fingers under the saw and in an instant about half an inch of the finger was cut off.

—At the Congregational church next Sunday morning the Communion will be administered by the pastor and the sermon will be from the words of Pharaoh to Jacob "How old are thou?" It will be an "Elderly People's" Service. The evening song will be devoted to a young people's Memorial service.

—The band concert which was given by the Crookston city band last Saturday evening at the Arcade corner was exceptionally entertaining and the fact that large crowds are gathering to hear these weekly concerts shows that the efforts of Prof. Riggs and his musicians are being appreciated by the public.

—One of the busiest business places in the city is the Northwestern Marble Works. Monuments are being shipped every day, not merely to Minnesota points, but to cities, towns and villages throughout North Dakota. Improvements are being made in the show room and office. The front of the building is getting a fresh coat of paint and a large handsome sign crowns the edifice.

—Timothy's Quest, which was given last Friday evening at the f. O. O. F. hall under the auspices of the Rebekahs, was a decided success. Owing to the fact that there were several other entertainments in the city that same evening the audience was not as large as it would otherwise have been, so the program was repeated at the Congregational church on Tuesday evening.

Excursion to Buffalo via the Nickel Plate Road, at one-fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale June 11, 12 and 13, good returning to and including July 2, 1899, providing they are deposited with joint agent in Buffalo on or before June 17, 1899. Do not miss this opportunity of visiting Buffalo and Niagara Falls at a very reasonable expense. City Ticket Office, 111 Adams St., Chicago Depot, Van Buren Street Passenger Station, Chicago, on the Elevated Loop.

—William Flemming, one of the prominent farmers near Mallory, was a pleasant caller at the JOURNAL office last Monday. Mr. Flemming finished seeding about 250 acres of wheat a week ago last Saturday. He has put in a few acres of oats and barley and has twenty acres still to sow in flax. When the latter is in, his spring seeding will be done. Mr. Flemming is one of the old settlers here, coming to the Valley from Olmstead county in 1871, with two yoke of oxen. His wife left about six weeks ago for Stockton, California, in search of health. While there she will visit with her son William Flemming.

"The Mill Cannot Grind with Water That's Past."

This is what a fagged out, tearful little woman said in telling her cares and weaknesses. Her friend encouraged by telling of a relative who had just such troubles and was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The little woman now has tears of joy, for she took Hood's, which put her blood in prime order, and she lives on the strength of the present instead of worrying about that of the past.

Neuralgia—"I had dreadful neuralgia, miserable for months. Neighbors told me to use Hood's Sarsaparilla; it cured me perfectly." MRS. FRED TRENER, Barre, Vt.

Eruptions—"My little girl is now fat and healthy on account of Hood's Sarsaparilla curing her of erysipelas and eczema." MRS. H. O. WHEATLEY, Fort Chester, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Never Disappoints

Hood's Pills cure liver ills; the non-irritating and only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

—James Bain, of Fisher, was in the city yesterday.

—Paul Carpenter was in from McIntosh last Monday.

—A fresh coat of paint is being put on the front of the Wallace block.

—Mrs. J. S. Chaplin and Miss Nellie Chaplin of Euclid spent Tuesday night in the city.

—Chas. Latta has gone into the real estate business. His office is in the McKinnon block.

—Dr. Durrand, Angus McKinnon and Erick Hagen are now home from their year's work at the State University.

—Rev. P. B. Peabody, of Hallock, and Rev. Wm. Watson, of St. Vincent were in the city last Monday night.

—At the G. A. R. hall on Memorial Day the Women's Relief Corps served dinner and supper to the members of the Post.

—Mr. Conlter, one of the enterprising farmers from Mallory, was transacting business in Crookston yesterday.

—Miss Maud Sargent returned last Monday from Colorado where she visited the winter. She is much improved in health.

—The W. t'. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Whitney Friday afternoon at three o'clock. All the members are urgently requested to be present.

—A. O. Banke, who came to Mentor about a month ago and will make his future home there, was in the city yesterday and gave the JOURNAL a call.

—Alex. McKinnon has purchased from Col. A. A. Wilkinson a North Star, full blood short horn bull calf. This animal, bred in the purple, is as fine a one as we have seen many a day.

—The county treasurer and his force of clerks have been kept especially busy this last week taking in taxes. The time during which taxes could be paid without any penalty being attached expired last night.

—Miss Dina Johnson, an employee in the Crookston Steam Laundry, had one of her hands badly pinched in the mangle machine yesterday forenoon. Fortunately no bones were had to be amputated, but Miss Johnson will not be able to work for a week or more.

—I. P. Dutlip one of well known pioneer residents of Onstead, was at the county seat yesterday and did not forget to call around at the JOURNAL office. He is one of the veterans of the sixties, and was telling the editor all about the army record of J. A. Pierce of Austin.

—Mrs. Ingn Skjastad, of the town of Columbia, was up before the probate court last Saturday and was committed to the Fergus Falls hospital. She got an idea that people were trying to kill her and she took to the woods, where she spent four days and nights. She was finally found on the reservation.

—Over at the saw mill they are making a slid plank, covered, 11x37 feet, named "Wanagan" which will be used by the men who will be in charge of the logs that will soon be started down the river on their way to Winnipeg. It is possible that some of these logs may be housed from the boom next Saturday, though most of them will not be till some time later.

Births.

BARLEY.

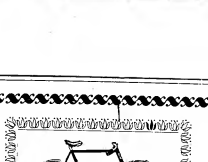
To Mr. and Mrs. Barley on May 28, a girl.

The Merry Easter Sun.

The sun was believed to "dance on Easter." In 1708 this bit of doggerel appeared in the British Apollo:

Question: Old wives, Phœbus, say
Then on Easter day
To the music of the spheres you do caper.
If the fact, sir, be true,
Pray let's the cause shew
When you've any room in your paper.

Answer: The old wives get merry
With spiced ale and sherry
On Easter, which makes them romance,
And whilst in a revel,
Their brains whirl about,
They fancy I caper and dance.



The Perfect Wheel....

At the Right Price. Its reputation has been won by its merits. You will be proud to compare it with any other wheel made, and you will know that your neighbor paid the same price for his Victory as you did for yours. Price and Quality guaranteed. Adults Chain Model $28, $35 and $50.

Hawkins & Olds.

Repairing a Specialty. Prices Reasonable.

Deaths.

DAVIS

The baby boy of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis of Roome township died Tuesday night, and the funeral service was held today, Rev. Herman P. Fisher officiating.

Dr. Forbes' Lecture.

The audience which gathered last Friday night at the Methodist church to hear Dr. Forbes lecture, though of a fair size, was not as large as it should have been. The lecturer pointed out some of the mistakes that are commonly made by mankind and suggested ways by which these errors may be avoided. Many humorous stories were told to illustrate great principles of life, shams were exposed and righteousness insisted upon as the supreme aim.

Y. P. S. C. E. Entertainment.

Last Tuesday evening, at the Congregational church, and under the auspices of the Young People Society, "Timothy's Quest" was given. As the evening was very rainy the audience was small, but the entertainment was well worth hearing, and was highly appreciated. Although the different parts were lengthy and somewhat intricate, no one required prompting during the entire evening. The closing piece, "Good Night," was very severely rendered by Misses Munch and Field.

Farewell Teachers' Meeting.

The last meeting of the school year of the teachers in the public schools was held last Friday evening at the high school building. It was a double farewell meeting as Supt. Moore then met for the last time the teachers with whom he has worked for many years. In their behalf Miss Margaret Brown replied to Mr. Moore's farewell words, expressing their regret at his leaving the schools, their best wishes for his future welfare and their thanks for his past kindness and help.

Stewart Lumber Company

Our old friends and patrons will find us moved from the N. P. track to the W. E. Walker mill and yard. Don't forget this and to the new trade we wish to say that we can fill your order promptly, from a 2 by 4 to several thousand feet of lumber. We will always keep the best of every thing and at right prices.

Remember we are the sole agent for Flint Plaster and we have everything in the building line.

6-3t STEWART LUMBER COMPANY

The Date of Easter.

Why Easter should ever change, should be a movable feast has often been asked, but it is not so readily answered. To have the date of Easter Sunday fixed definitely so that its place in this calendar a year or 50 years ahead could be stated as exactly and readily by people in general as that of Christmas would be a convenience. The majority of even Catholics and Episcopalians have at present but indistinct and probably inaccurate ideas as to why Easter is celebrated on such or such a date and are content to leave the time of its celebration to be announced by the calendar makers.

Aside from saving the abstruse calculations employed in determining the Easter date there would certainly be advantages in having the states of Christian world celebrate the Easter festival upon the same date, and Pope Leo XIII is said to be about to take the initiative in the matter by fixing the time of Easter, after the present century, on the third Sunday before the spring equinox, provided the Greek church will adopt this reckoning along with the Gregorian calendar, thus bringing the two great divisions of the Catholic church into uniformity as to the feasts and festivals of the Christian year.—Chicago Chronicle.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.
HOMŒOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Office in McKinnon Block. Crookston, Minn

Jules Gendron.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Rooms 2 3, 4 and 5, over Postoffice & Ancilla's.
Office hours—9 to 12 a. m.; 1 to 5 p. m.; 7 to 8 p. m

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Office in Opera Block Crookston, Minn

Miller & Foote,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
Offices, corner Broadway and Robert streets
Crookston, Minn.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Services every Sunday, Morning, 11:00, evening, 8:00. Holy Communion the First Sunday of every Month. Strangers are welcome.
Rev. H. W. GREEN, D. D., Rector.

TIME CARD —OF— TRAINS. Crookston

NORTHERN PACIFIC

SOUTH BOUND.	Arr.	Dep's
No. 104 to St. Paul, Minneapolis and East	7:20 p.m	7:30 p.m
NORTH BOUND
No. 103 to Grand Forks, Grafton and Winnipeg.	6:50 a.m	6:50 a.m

C. A. SHURREY, Agt. Crookston, Minn. CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A. St. Paul, Minn

THE GREAT NORTHERN

LEAVE	*Daily	†Except Sunday.	‡ LEAVE
6.50 am	•Grand Forks, North and West	9.40 am
9.00 am	Minn. St. Paul and points east	9.30 pm
8.30 pm	•Warren, Bemidji and points	5.10 pm
6.00 pm	St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls	8.40 am
4.00 pm	and Red Lake Falls	8.30 am
	•Fosston, Bemidji, Duluth and Superior	9.00 am
4.45 pm	•Climax, Halstad, Moorhead, and Fargo	7.30 am

•Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and departs Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

S. L. Collins,

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

WANTED:—Teachers to attend Crookston College Summer School. It is cheap, thoroughly practical. Term opens June 12, and continues eight weeks. Address, Crookston College, Crookston Minn. 4-36

Farm For Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—northwest quarter of section 29, town 150, range 45, in the village of Gentilly, about 100 yards from cheese factory. No. 1 buildings, including good house, well finished, large barn for stock, granary holding 6,000 bushels, good well; creek that never goes dry, close to barn; about four miles of fence on the farm. For further particulars, inquire of N. Brossean, at Ottawa House, Crookston, Minn. 8-20

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

Monticello now has a curfew ordinance.

Ground has been broken for the new $10,000 hotel to be built by the Belgrade Hotel company.

Public Examiner Pope has authorized the Citizens bank of Lakefield to commence business.

Judge Otis of St. Paul has has authorized a 5 per cent dividend to Bank of Minnesota creditors.

The Junior circle, King's Daughters, is about to establish a home for working girls at St. Paul.

The state prison board held a special meeting and decided to increase the capacity of the binder twine plant 50 per cent.

Judge Otis of the Ramsey county district court holds that Bank of Minnesota stockholders are not subject to double liability.

The elevator belonging to Andrews & Gage at Henning has been destroyed by fire, together with about 20,000 bushels of wheat.

Plans for the mammoth hospital to be built this summer at St. Cloud by the sisters of the Order of St. Benedict, are practically completed.

Mankato is to have a 6-pounder cannon that was captured from the Cristobal Colon during the late war. Congressman Cleary has received the promise from Secretary Long.

While the manager in the office of the J. A. Smith lumber yard at Spring Valley stepped out for a few minutes the safe was relieved of the iron cash box containing about $700 in notes. No clue.

Editor Irving Todd of the Hastings Gazette, and his daughter, Miss Louise Todd, have left for New York to join the excursion of the National Editorial association to Europe. They sail on the Kensington.

James J. Hill and Frederick Weyerhauser have each acquired an interest in the First National bank of Duluth. James N. Hill, vice president of the Eastern Minnesota, will represent his father on the board.

The state board of investment has authorized a loan of $7,000 to assist the city of Ely in building a city hall. Pine county has received recently $30,000 and Kanabec $12,000 to float their indebtedness. Blue Earth is to build a fine new school at a cost of $8,000.

President Stickney of the Great Western, who recently purchased the Cannon Valley branch of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railway, leading to Mankato, has accepted an invitation to attend a banquet in Mankato July 3. He will bring with him several leading St. Paul business men.

Mrs. H. H. Allen of Winona, a "real daughter" of the Daughters of the American Revolution, has been presented from the national headquarters with a solid gold spoon of the variety given only to "real daughters." The spoon is neatly engraved and is a most valuable souvenir.

The law firms of Warner, Richardson & Lawrence, and Flandrau, Cutcheon & Squires of St. Paul; F. W. Gail and J. C. Nethaway of Stillwater have filed claims for attorneys' fees, $10,000 each, against the estate of the late Isaac Staples of Stillwater for services rendered during the will contest.

The executive committee of the Winona Old Settlers' association is planning to erect an emblematic statue of Winona, the Indian maiden, on the levee park, provided some $4,000 can be raised by popular subscription. Photographs of the daughters of Red Bird and Little William, two well known Winnebago Indians, have been taken and one of them may be used as a model.

Company A, Minnesota national guard, has been reorganized at New Ulm and the following officers elected: Captain, John Boehers; first lieutenant, J. F. Graf. The Great Western band has been selected as the regimental band and has been mustered in. Company A is the oldest organization of its kind in the state, having served twenty-eight years ago as governor's guard under Captain Joseph Bobleter.

MAJOR DIGGLES DEAD.

Wound Received on May 8 Terminates Fatally.

MANILA, May 30.—Major A. M. Diggles of the Thirteenth Minnesota regiment, who was wounded in the head while reconnoitering May 8 at a point near San Miguel, and who was brought to a hospital here, is dead.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 30.—Major Arthur M. Diggles of the Thirteenth Minnesota, served as captain of Company B of Minneapolis, from its organization eight years ago, and was appointed junior major at the time the regiment was mustered into the federal service. He was a Yale graduate and a resident of Minneapolis for thirteen years, being actively engaged in the real estate and life insurance business. His wife and a seven-year-old daughter reside in Minneapolis.

BAD FIRE AT STAPLES.

Third of the Business Portion of the Town is Ashes.

STAPLES, Minn., May 29.—Over one-third of the business portion of Staples is in ashes. The fire started from an overturned lamp in Henry Schuls' tailor shop on First avenue at 11:30 p. m. The flames rapidly spread to adjoining buildings and in a very short time they were entirely beyond control.

The total loss is estimated at about $30,000, covered by about $20,000 insurance.

Indian School Plans Finished.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The plans for the new Indian school building and boys' dormitory to be erected at Morris, Minn., for which congress appropriated $28,000, have been completed and will be submitted to Secretary Hitchcock for approval this week.

CHANGE OF FRONT.

Cuban Soldiers Now Anxious for a Share in America's $3,000,000.

HAVANA, May 30.—The day's events in connection with the payment of the Cuban troops entitled to apply here for a share in the Americans gratuity have effectually killed off the opposition to the receipt of the bounty by privates. The American military circles it is considered that a fine start has been made and that the opposition is defeated. Three hundred privates arrived during the day to apply for payment, but though Colonel Randall, the commissioner superintending the distribution here, kept his office open from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. only 119 could be paid during that interval as each man took up several minutes. Many who brought arms were sent on the rolls at all. Ninety-nine most of the applicants declining to take any chances in turning the weapons over to the mayor of Havana, evidently believing it would be better to give them direct to the Americans. All day it was virtually impossible to get through the front door of the office unless the sentry cleared the way. The Cuban officers, who on the the first day tried to discourage any who were disposed to apply, finding now that the tide of feeling had turned, are offering all the assistance possible to Colonel Randall. At the conclusion of the day's work there were more than 200 who had not been heard. These will have to wait until after the return of the payroll on June 15, when there will probably be extra days assigned to Havana.

Rifles Were Surrendered,

Rioules Wheat Crop Suffers.

ODESSA, May 31.—The winter wheat crop of Southern Russia has been completely destroyed by a protracted drought. The spring wheat crop is also in jeopardy from the same cause. The steamer Moscow has sailed with 3,000 Cossack emigrants for Port Arthur.

Many Bogus Dollars at Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—The Call asserts that large quantities of bogus dollars are in circulation here, and that the work of the counterfeiters has been so well done as to almost defy detection.

THE SECRET IS OUT

JOINT HIGH COMMISSION'S FAILURE TO AGREE

Due to Canada's Selfishness—Insists on Concession of Territory Which She Never Before Claimed—Her Idea of Fair Play—Invites Americans to Invest and Then Passes Restrictive Laws. Almost Certain That Retaliatory Measures Will Soon Be Adopted.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Feeling has made it necessary, at this stage in the exchanges between the United States and Great Britain respecting the Canadian boundary commission, that the exact status of the commissioners should be known, that the people, not only of the United States, but of Great Britain, should have an opportunity to judge for themselves of the comparative rectitude of the actions of the United States and Canada, respectively. The following statement has been obtained from a prominent person:

"Canada continues to be a land of surprises. The friendly protocol of Washington was signed on May 30, 1898, for the adjustment of all differences between the United States and Canada, in a most amicable spirit. The ink of that protocol was only well dry when the province of Ontario discovered a chance to exhibit her idea of international equity. American lumbermen had been invited to take timber leases in that province, with the privileges of cutting logs and exporting them to the United States.

Strange Inconsistencies.

"The provincial government, after taking their leases and placing their money in the treasury, passed a law prohibiting the exportation of logs, with the result of causing some bankruptcies in Michigan. During the session of the commission the same peculiar idea of international justice was exhibited in another province, that of British Columbia. This time it was the mining interests that were involved. The authorities of that province took the money of the American miners who had made the discoveries of gold, allowed them to spend thousands of dollars in constructing a roadway to the scene of their interests, and then proceeded to change their laws to confine all such mining privileges to British subjects and British corporations.

"Another such instance of this kind of practice was worked out to American surveymen. They had taken contracts to supply stocks to the Canadians when, under the pretense of fear of San Jose scale, the Canadian authorities prohibited any further importation of nursery stock. At the same time the Canadian courts held the Americans liable for violation of the contracts which their own laws had caused to be vacated.

"The Dominion government also seems to share fixedly peculiar principles of international intercourse in respect to the boundary of Alaska. They protested indignantly against any concessions saving the existing rights of Americans to the country to be arbitrated. Years before the commission met United States citizens, without any question or protest against their right to do so, had occupied the headwaters of the Lynn canal and established canals and settlements there.

"Under these circumstances the United States commissioners thought it right to withhold such tidewater settlements from the arbitrator's decision, and it was against this proposition that the Canadian commissioners so vehemently protested. Now they protest with equal vehemence against arbitration unless the United States shall agree to give them, in any case, the pyramid harbor region, to which they never, before the meeting of the commission, asserted any rights, which they had never occupied with flag or constable, or a Canadian subject, or even a canoe."

LATE MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, May 31.

WHEAT—Cash, No. 1 hard 77½c; No. 1 Northern, 71½c. No. 2 Northern 69½c; No. 3, 67c. To Arrive—No. 1 hard, 77½c; No. 1 Northern, 73½c; April, 77½c; May, 74½c; July, 75½c.

Minneapolis Wheat.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 31.

WHEAT—In Store—No. 1 Northern, 75½c; July, 75½c; September, 75¾@75¾c. On Track—No. 1 hard, 76½c. No. 1 Northern, 75½c. No. 2 Northern, 71½c.

Sioux City Live Stock.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., May 31.

HOGS—Market 5c lower. Range of prices, $3.75@4.05.

CATTLE—Market active, steady. Sales ranged at $4.00@4.90 for beeves; $3.00@3.90 for cows, bulls and mixed; $3.00@4.65 for stockers and feeders; $3.75@5.30 for calves and yearlings

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, May 31.

HOGS—Market 5c higher. Range of prices, $3.55@3.65.

CATTLE—Market strong and active. Stockers and feeders are steady and in good demand.

Sales ranged at $3.30@4.90 for stockers; $4.00@4.90 for heifers; $3.60@4.75 for calves; $2.65@4.00 for cows; $4.80@5.00 for steers.

SHEEP—Market 10@15c lower.

Sales ranged at $5.25 for lambs; $3.00@5.00 for yearlings.

Receipts: Cattle 300; calves 200; sheep, 60; hogs, 1,300.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, May 31.

HOGS—Market strong on good grades, others weak.

Sales ranged at $3.50@3.85 for mixed and butchers; $3.75@3.87½ for good heavy; $3.60@3.65 for rough heavy; $3.80@3.77½ for light.

CATTLE—Market dull.

Sales ranged at $4.35@5.30 for beeves; $3.00@5.00 for cows and heifers; $4.00@4.80 for Texas steers; $3.75@5.10 for stockers and feeders

SHEEP—Market slow.

Sales ranged at $4.75@5.50 for sheep; $4.50@5.50 for lambs

Receipts: Hogs, 30,000; cattle, 15,000; sheep, 15,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, May 31.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—May, 76½c; July 77¼c; September, 76½c.

CORN—May, 32½c; July, 32½c; September, 36½c.

OATS—May, 24½c; July, 25½c; September, 23c; May, 1900, 27@27½c.

PORK—May, $8.12½; July, $8.30; September, $8.35.

POULTRY—Dressed, turkeys, 11c; chickens, hens 10½c; ducks, 8@8½c.

BUTTER—Creamery, 15@17½c; dairies, 10@10c.

EGGS—Fresh, 12½c.

Crookston Market.

The following is the price of wheat quoted in the local market this morning:

No. 1 hard.....61c
No. 1 northern.....61c
No. 2 northern.....56c

ARE YOU A RENTER

A farmer's son on 40 acres can buy a farm near home, or location 2 with taxes, heavy mortgages, unprovedland sick, and failure of crops?

IF SO

the solution to your troubles is offered by the Canadian Government—every bona fide settler getting a

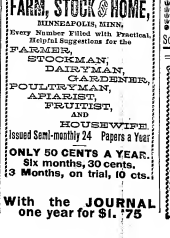
FREE HOMESTEAD

of 160 acres of the best land on the edges of existing lines of railway and sawmills. No. 1 Hard Wheat is raised in Western Canada, the average yield is from 25 to 40 bushels to the acre. Railway, schools, churches, markets convenient. This is a true chance to secure a home. Write for information apply to agent, Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to

BENJAMIN DAVIES,
Canadian Government agent,
934 E. 3rd St., St. Paul, Minn.

BRANCH OFFICE
DAVIES' HOUSE
DISCOVERY
WINNIPEG

N. Campbell, Crookston Minn.
P. Johnson, Fosston, Minn.
W. V. Nugent, Villano, Minn., local agents.



Are Made by reading

FARM, STOCK & HOME,

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Every Number Filled with Practical, Helpful Suggestions for the

FARMER,
STOCKMAN,
DAIRYMAN,
GARDENER,
POULTRYMAN,
APIARIST,
FRUITIST,
AND HOUSEWIFE.

Issued Semi-monthly 24 Papers a Year

ONLY 50 CENTS A YEAR.

Six months, 30 cents.
3 Months, on trial, 10 cts.

With the JOURNAL one year for $1.75

Headache

Is often a warning that the liver is torpid or inactive. More serious troubles may follow. For a prompt, efficient cure of Headache and all liver troubles, take

Hood's Pills

While they rouse the liver, restore full, regular action of the bowels, they do not gripe or pain, do not irritate or inflame the internal organs, but have a positive tonic effect. 25c. at all druggists or by mail of

C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

BINDER TWINE

Our famous B.I.F. Brand, 500 feet to the pound, 14 lbs. to the bale. Price $7.00 per bale for 1 week. Price will raise after you get our circular. Write us before you buy. We ship from Chicago, Omaha or Kansas City. Address nearest office.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO

United States Map.

15c.

A copy of our handsome map, size 18 inches, printed in four colors, and mounted on a roller, will be sent to any address on receipt of 15 cents in coin, postal or express money order. We cannot use foreign stamps. GEO. P. LYMAN, General Passenger Agent C., B. & N. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS,
DESIGNS,
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain, free, whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal. Weekly, terms $3 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND BOOK ON PATENTS sent free. Address,

MUNN & CO.,
361 Broadway, New York.

Burlington Route

Finest Train on Earth from St. Paul and Minneapolis to St. Louis.

And all Southern Cities.

Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

ALL ROADS ARE ALIKE TO A MONARCH

$25 King and Queen $25

The best pair of bicycles on earth for the money . . .

MONARCH CHAINLESS $75
MONARCH ROADSTERS $60
DEFIANCE ROADSTERS $36

MONARCH CYCLE MFG. CO.
Lake, Halsted and Fulton Streets, Chicago
Branches—New York, London, Hamburg

Send 20 cents in stamps for a deck of Monarch Playing Cards, illustrating Seven Leading Darts, Lillian Russell, Tom Moore, Leo Richardson and Walter Jones.

Ride a Monarch and Keep in Front

Sold by ERICKSON & VANNET.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C.A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASH. D. C.

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven but has long horizontal wires, which causes it to

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

Like a fence, fence is properly stretched and erected with few posts and without top and bottom rails. Has cable selvage and a cable running through the fence every foot. Each roll contains the famous M. M. S. trade mark.

None other genuine.

We are manufacturers also of the following famous fences:

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE

with or without lower cable barbed. All horizontal lines are cables.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE Ideal fence for lawns, parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel gates, posts, etc. Everything the best of its kind.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.

Pat. July 11, 1876. Pat. July 4, 1893.

FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

FOR ALL THE NEWS....

Read THE POLK COUNTY JOURNAL.

....JOB PRINTING A SPECIALTY.

THE

Everlasting Steel Harrow

The bands or double-bars and teeth are made of Bessemer Steel, and are made in two, three, four, five or six sections. Three sections, 82 teeth, 12 feet, usual size for ordinary farm team.

FULLY WARRANTED

....Will Last for a Life Time....

The illustration shows one of our four-section harrows at work on an extraordinary piece of ground known as a vertical or straight tooth harrow. You will notice that the harrow runs a little angling against the ground and the pressure of the ground against the teeth gave double bars a constant shake which gives the harrow a most terrific tearing power. It may be made into a slanting tooth by simply changing evener to the other end. For circulars and testimonials, address

JOHNSON & SMITH,

AUSTIN, MINN.

SUCCESSFUL SHOOTERS SHOOT

WINCHESTER

Rifles, Repeating Shotguns, Ammunition and Loaded Shotgun Shells. Winchester guns and ammunition are the standard of the world, but they do not cost any more than poorer makes. All reliable dealers sell Winchester goods.

FREE: Send name on a postal for 158 page Illustrated Catalogue describing all the guns and ammunition made by the

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO.,
NEW HAVEN, CONN.

THE JOURNAL IS "IT"

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVILS PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNERS TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER IX.

A BACK BLOCK SHANTY.

When the sergeant cf police arrested Jack, we were all so taken by surprise that it was a minute or two before we could realize the gravity of the situation, far less act. Savile came to himself first, springing to his feet with such an excess of energy that Samson barked in admiration.

"I say, sergeant, you're making some mistake," he insisted excitedly, "for the man John Farqnharson you speak of is dead as a red herring and buried on Scrubby creek near the Calvert river. Why. I helped to bury him myself."

"Do you think yon could prove that it was John Farqnharson who was buried?" asked the police officer. with the quiet, dry smile of one who is so sure of his case that he can afford to toy with it

"Don't worry. Savile, old man," interrupted Jack. "the sergeant can't help himself. Luckily Parker's a qualified devil dodger and will see me safe through. Keep what you've said for him and don't forget the red herring."

Despite his words it was not difficult to see that my mate fully realized his position.

Just then, glancing around the little crowd, I caught sight of Daly's face. It might only have been fancy, but it seemed to me as if there wee an uneasy grin there.

"Are you sure you haven't made a mistake, sergeant?" he asked.

The sergeant, I thought, looked at him rather contemptuonely, but made no reply.

"Yes, that's my ewag," said Jack to a trooper. Then it was eearched, rolled up, and placed on the hack of a peck horse.

"For mercy'e sake, take me out of thie, sergeant." He had eeen the figures of two women approaching the gronp. The sergeant made no demur when I spoke to the prisoner out of hearing of the others. My mind was made up. My helief in Jack's honor was ae positive as my belief in the immortality of the soul. Therefore we would fight. Why should the innocent suffer for the guilty? After all, I could not swear positively to having eeen my mate teke any papers from his own pockets and transfer them to those of the man murdered by the blacks on Scrubby creek. Besides, I bad always known him as Jack Tyndall. And there was the squatter's recognition of the murdered man. The whole affair was a preposteroue plot, and, no donbt, Daly waa at the bottom of it. Bnt Jack only shook his head sadly as I talked.

"I'm afraid, old man, it's no use," he whispered to me hurriedly. "However, I'll tell you nothing jnst now that might interfere with your evidence—you nnderstand. I dare say it might be as well to fight them, for I don't like the idea of being 'bested' by a villain like Daly. I'm sure he's at the bottom of this."

"Perhaps," said the sergeant, "if any of yon think you can do the prisoner"—how he winced at that word—"any good, you can come into the Macarthur tomorrow at 10 o'clock. He'll he brought up then before the magistrates. Some of you may be serv d with summonses to appear."

They were leading Jack away to a epare horse they had saddled hard by when Norah Mackenzie went up to him. There was a slight flush on his face, most likely arising from his painful position. Still with head erect, and a look of quiet dignity, he waited for her to speak. At first he had tried to pass her. but she stood right in his way.

She took both his manacled hands in hers and held them while she said:

"I have heard most of what has passed, Mr. Tyndall. You mnst not mind this silly mistake, or rather this black piece of villainy on some one's part. Everything will be put right tomorrow. depend upon it."

There is no denying it, Jack looked queer for a second or two when he heard her speak like that. It was something that he evidently had not expected. She had always, though perfectly frank, kept him at arm's length, but now that the handcuffs were upon his wrists she treated him as if he was a very old friend.

Jack thanked her, but it etruck me that her action comforted him more than her words. There was something in his face that filled me with a sudden fear. It was not the face of a man who considered his arrest the result of a mistake, but as something not unexpected and the outcome of which he dreaded. Doubtless Miss Mackenzie saw it, for ehe added pleasantly as if to reassure him:

"Goodby just now, Mr. Tyndall. We'll ride into the Macarthur township tomorrow morning. Perhaps you could epare Mr. Parker, Gordon? I'm sure he'd like to go some little way with his friend."

But Jack would not have this. "Oh, no, you are too good, Miss Mackenzie," he said. "That would be too much. But perhaps, Dick, you could come in tonight after you have finished tallying. I'll be all right then—not a convicted felon yet, you know." Then aside to the eergeant he whispered, "Get on, please, for heaven'e sake." And poor Jack rode off between two troopers, one of whom had a leading rein attached to the horee he rode.

When he had gone, it wae as if there had been a death in camp.

An hour before sunset Gordon told me I had better go to the police barracks and see Jack. He said he himself could count the bundles of wire that came from the vessel I went up the little rise to the tent that had been pitched for the two women. When I had seen the way in which Norah Mackenzie had spoken to Jack on his arrest by the police, it not only surprised but made me speculate on the sentiments that had prompted her to interest herself on his behalf. What if, after all—and I thought it not unlikely—Jack had made an impression on her which was to be the deathknell of my hopes? When I reached the tent door, the barking of the dogs before they had recognized me hronght out Norah Mackenzie She spoke first, probably to relieve me of any embarrassment. Elsie Gordon left as I came up.

"Oh, come in, Mr. Parker! Somehow I thought yon'd come." Her manner was much as usual and as if sho were unaware that anything disagreeable had occurred.

"I suppose you're going to eee Mr Tyndall tonight? Have yon any idea at whose instance the warrant was taken out or who gave the information?"

It was one of those points on which one could only bave a suspicion, for, much as I disliked Daly, I had no actual proofs that he had communicated with the police. I hesitated before answering her, and quickly reviewed the circumstances of the case. That Jack had been in the company of the murdered man I had learned from his own lips. As to the identity of the murderer I was, of course, ignorant, but until he was discovered there was a strong presumption that my mate was the guilty party. Now, I felt morally certain that Jack was innocent, but unless he proved—as there was some chance of his doing—that he was not John Farquharson. hut Tyndall, and thus gave us time to bring the real murderer to light, in all probability he would be hanged. I suppose as these thoughts occupied my mind the girl must have misinterpreted my silence, for she spoke again.

The barking of the dogs brought out Norah Mackenzie.

"You needn't answer. I dare say it was silly of me to expect you would take a woman and a comparative etranger into your confidence"—there was just the faintest trace of pique in her manner. "My reason for asking if you knew who gave the information was simply because I thought there was something in which I might be able to assist you."

Still I could not see what good was to he attained by making a confidant of her; so I remained silent. Resting her chin on a sun browned hand, she looked steadily at me for a minute and continued:

"I can eee you think I know nothing."

"If it's a fair question, what do you know?" I ventured. There was in reality nothing I would have liked better than sharing something of a confidential nature with her, but as yet to me the life of my friend was a sacred thing.

"You think I don't know it was Daly who rode into the township last night and told the police," she answered after a pause. "And you think I'm not aware that your friend's name is not Tyndall. But all thia is of no account. You think I don't know what you came to ask."

The hint etruck home, and I remembered what had brought me here. It occurred to me that seeing I had not invited her confidence she might consider it a one sided bargain I was trying to drive. As I hesitated she anticipated me.

"Yes, you can tell Mr. Tyndall I'll come to the examination tomorrow and prove that my father recognized the man who was killed by the blacks on Scrubby creek as John Farquharson. Of course we can all bear witness to that Is there anything more you'd like me to do?" She rose from the box on which ehe had seated hereelf.

"You can lieten to all I know about the affair, and then perhaps forgive me for not having told you sooner," I broke out, the fullness of the girl's knowledge, my unjust and uncalled for reticence and her generous treatment of the eame making me feel coneiderably ashamed of myself. In as few words as possible I told her all I knew about the matter and my consequent ... action. Then I asked for her opinion She reseated herself and, clasping her hands round her knees, spoke.

"I dare say it's possible to have Mr. Tyndall released tomorrow, if only we recognize the fact that we've to deal with men who'll swear to anything That of course means we've got to fight the devil with bis own tools. You look shocked."

"I'm not, only the devil may—tomorrow."

"You're frivolous, sir"—thie with an assumption of severity. "Remember an innocent man's life depends upon it Luckily the cargo will be out of the boat tonight, so that we can all go into the township tomorrow. In the meantime go and cheer up Mr. Tyndall and tell him from me he shan't want friends."

I had a pannikin of tea and, saddling my horse, cantered up to the crossing. Toward dusk, by following down the beautiful high bank of the river, I reached the Macarthur township, but etopped at the police station first. a large, new, galvanized iron building on the brow of the dip a little to the south of the town. When the sergeant showed me into the presence of the police magistrate, whose name wae Wilcox, I discovered him, with a neighboring storekeeper, busily engaged eating canned oysters. There was also bottled beer upon the table. I found the magistrate a middle aged, gentlemanly and somewhat talkative individual, with a shrewd, kindly face. In as few words as possible I told him the neture of my business and also of my professionel qualifications.

"This is rather an out of the way effair," he remarked, frankly enough. "I certainly received notice from Roderick Mackenzie of the Robinson river regarding the murder of one John Farquharson by the hlacks on Scrubby creek, but he didn't say he positively identified the body as John Farquharson's."

"But Farquharson'e papers were found on the body," I insisted.

"It wee essy to put them there," he remarked dryly. His eyes wandered over the table. "Have eome heer," he added, heartily enough.

I thanked him, but declined, much to the astonishment of the storekeeper.

"Of course," continued the magistrate, "when Sexton's body wee found no one knew anything about the murderer. Since then Farquharson hae been the suspect. New, this man you've come to me about, who goes under the name of John Tyndall, has been recognized hy certein parties who have given the information and who are now in the Macarthur, es Farquharson. Mr. Russell here, a brother J. P., issued the warrant. I've only done my duty by having him arrested, and unless it can be proved that he's not our man I must commit him for trial. I euppose you've known him for some time?"

"Yes, for some considerable time," I replied, with difficulty keeping cool. "But I needn't trouble you by explaining the nature of the mistake you've made, until you've had an opportunity of justifying your action. Is it a fair question to ask if the character of your information ie above suspicion?"

The police magistrate's face flushed slightly, and he appeared not a little annoyed. I wonder now why he did not kick me out.

"Mr. Parker," he said, "I'm not here to discuss the pros and cons of this case with you or any one else. Pardon me if I show any warmth in the matter, but tomorrow, if there's been any mistake in arresting the wrong man, you'll have an opportunity of proving it If not, I'll be obliged to commit him for trial, and, as the government cutter's in the river, must send him round and deliver him up to the Queensland authorities. In the meantime, you wish to see your friend? By all means."

He touched a small bell. The sergeant reappeared.

"Sergeant, Mr. Parker here wishes to see the prisoner. Perhaps we may have the pleasure of seeing you later on, Mr. Parker. Good afternoon."

I was taken round to the police barracks, some 60 yards distant, and had a long chat with Jack. What I said to him it is unnecessary to relate. Strangely enough one point never touched upon by us was his real identity. He seemed to take it for granted that I considered it immaterial. We only speculated upon what weight Miss Mackenzie's, Gordon's and Savile's testimony as to the recognition of the body by the squatter would have with the police magistrate. But the most important feature of the case would be the nature of the prosecution. Would It be sufficiently strong to outweigh ours? I expressed my intention of going down to the township and getting information on this point. It would not do to leave everything to chance. Besidee, I considered that when we had to fight the devil it would serve no good purpose to shirk the task by pretending to split ethical hairs. If Jack were Farquharson, he had at least not committed the murder. It would, however, be necessary to prove that he was not Farquharson, so as to avoid a miserable period of captivity, during which suspicion might be diverted from the real murderer. The end would justify the means.

Jack eeemed apathetic. He either considered hie case hopeless or he was regardless of consequences.

"I don't eee why you should put yourselves to all thie trouble about me," he eaid.

His indifference only made me the more determined and occasioned me to epeak my mind to him somewhat plainly.

"Jack, if you'll excuse my saying so, you're a fool! Leave thie affair to me. I'll look after your case tomorrow. I ehowed the police magietrate my papers, and he eaid there would he no trouble about my appearing for you. You're Jack Tyndall to the hest of my helief, and I can swear to it if necessary without perjuring myeelf. It won't do to let them make out that you're Farquharson, for then they'll commit you for trial, pack you off to Cooktown, and there'e no saying what may happen. Besides, once out of the district we'd never find out who did commit the murder. In the meantime put 'a stiff heart to a stae brae.' Here's some tobacco for you."

I then gave him Miss Mackenzie's message and, saying I would see him first thing in the morning, went. Though my words were purposely easy going and even brusque, my heart was heavy.

I went on to the township, where I strolled into the combined store and grogshop kept by one Jack Reid. It was a typical place of its kind, all iron roof and veranda.

The room in use for shop and bar was roomy and comparatively cool. At one end was a rough counter manned by the barkeeper, dark eyed, alert, in shirt eleeves and with a cabbage tree hat on his head. Ranged behind him were bottles, barrels and an assortment of generel merchandise as varied in its nature as the contents of a dry goods store in Chicago. A few barrels and benches were ranged around for the accommodation of the company. The company, however, mostly preferred the counter, as affording a point of vantage which based its claims to superiority of position in that when shaking for drinks was resorted to the dice could be easily passed round and the drinks themselves were handy. The bushmen and cattlemen present were of the usual type—garrulous, heavily bearded and travel etained. The man from the cutter who wore a coat was looked upon as giving bimself airs. A pair of moleskin trousers and a shirt—worn outside the former—rolled up at the eleeves waa the prevailing fashion in dress. The inevitable revolver in ite case on the belt completed the costume. When I entered, some were playing cards on the top of an old barrel, some were talking, and a select little party of drovers and bush hands were playing pitch and toss with half crowns in another corner.

Some were playing cards on the top of an old barrel.

I saluted the company, ae was customary, and went to the bar. To enter a hotel and not drink was then just as extraordinary and reprehensible as taking a "Jack Smither"—i. e., a lone drink—or without inviting every one in the room to drink with you. I therefore called upon those present to "breast the bar and signify by what deaths they would die."

That thie was a popular form of suicide was evidenced by the alacrity with which the entire company responded to the invitation. In fact, three or four old loefers, who had some days previously undergone the process of "lamming down," and were now in the condition when a drink is not only doubly acceptable but a sort of physical necessity to alleviate that prostration called "suffering recovery," were so moved that, having first assisted themselves to respectable sized nobblers of Queensland rum, they got together in a corner of the bar and, holding out their glasses toward me, began to sing in anything but the eteadiest or most musical of voices:

"Come, fill up your glasses and drink while you can;
Whatever's the damage I'll pay.
So be easy and free while you're drinking with me—
I'm a man you don't meet every day."

They were doubtless right so far as the last assertion, considered in a personal sense, was concerned. Still, the kind of man these convivial old fish had special reference to was a man like themselves, who came in with his £100 or £150 check, as the cese might be, after a long spell of bush work for some squatter, or after a long overland trip with some drover, and who, banding it over the bar to tho publican, said, "I say, old stick in the mud, just keep this 'ere and let'e know when it's done, will ye?" Then etraightway cried to the boys: "Breast the bar, ye sons of Aaron, breast the bar! Nominate yer p'isins and give it a name." And this would last for four or five days, or maybe, if the publican was not quite eo unscrupulous as the generality of publicans, for a week or even ten days. This wae their beau ideal of a man—the eort of man you didn't meet with every day!

Shortly after I entered an old organette wae placed on the counter and some wonderful gyrations called dancing were described to the strains of the "Devil's March." Another and perhaps the most popular of the innocent little amusements indulged in by this typical happy family was that of having a friendly spar without the aid of boxing gloves on the slightest pretext. On the completion of one of these rounds, which, with due regard to the proprieties, was always fought outside, the party who had come off "second best" was obliged to set up the drinks all round. These little incidents were rather encouraged than otherwise.

Entering into conversation with one or two members of the company who seemed in rather a less bemuddled condition than their fellowe, I learned that not a few of those present were eimply delayed there until the thunderetorms had properly eet in, so that they might surmount certain dry etagee on the uncertain track leading to the newly discovered goldfields in Western Australia. Of course, the chief topic of conversation wss the arrest which had been mads that afternoon. I found that although popular feeling was dead against the supposed murderer, still, from the fact that the man, by name Dan Smythe, who had laid the information, bore the reputation of being "a crooked one even to his own mates," the crowd on the whole was open to conviction. As I knew the indirect influence of public opinion, even on a police trial, in such a part of the world, and not wishing the witnesses for the prosecution to have the moral support or the encouragement of that all important community, I expressed my opinion pretty freely regarding the trumped up nature of the case. A £5 note was soon spent in "shouting" for the company, and I so far sacrificed myself and self respect as to perpetrate certain digressions in the vocal line for their especial benefit. They seemed to like it, but then there is no accounting for tastes.

When the "fun" was at its height I slipped out and made my way back to a grassy rise overlooking the river, where the gentle breeze would blow away the mosquitoes, and where the air was fresh and cool. There I intended to camp for the night. My horse, only a little way off, was cropping the rice grass.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

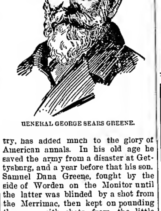
FATHER OF HEROES.

GENERAL GEORGE SEARS GREENE, BORN 1801; OBIIT 1899.

Oldest Graduate of West Point—Venerated Comrade of Veterans of Three Wars—His Son, Samuel Dana, a Naval Hero.

Every now and then the obitnary columns record the passing of some veteran whose very existence has long been forgotten by the closest contemporaries of his days of activity. Again and again at veteran reunions have the men of the old brigade who fought under General George Seare Greene at Antietam, at Gettysburg, at Wauhatchee, asked after their venerable commander, seldom wondering if he was alive, but wondering when told that he actually survived, a cheerful octogenarian, then a nonagenarian, then a patriarch crowding a century of life. He died at Morristown, N. J., last January with the weight of almost 36 years added to that which he bore in the days of battle, and he wae then past threescore. Born in 1801, General Greene well remembered the war of 1812, and, in fact, treined in the boy companies which emulated their eeniors in the excitement of that faraway conflict. Bearing a surname identical with that of the great Revolutionary soldier, Nathanael Greene, and hailing from the same province in Rhode Island, it might be supposed that our General Greene was a descendant of Washington's favorite marshal, but that was not the case. Of the same English stock, their lines were some degrees apart when the first American representatives of each followed Roger Williams to the new world.

General George Seare Greene, although not a professional soldier, since he laid by the eword in peaceful times and took it up at the call of his country, has added much to the glory of American annals. In his old age he saved the army from a disaster at Gettysburg, and a year before that his son, Samuel Dana Greene, fought by the side of Worden on the Monitor until the latter was blinded by a shot from the Merrimac, then kept on pounding the ram with ehots from the little cheesebox until she ran into a channel unknown to any one on the Monitor.



GENERAL GEORGE SEARS GREENE.

The Spanish war brought out another son, General Francis Vinton Greene, one of the captors of Manila. This soldier, Greene, was a West Point graduate, like his father, and had imitated his father's example by laying down the eword to await his country's call. At the outbreak of the war he was colonel of the Seventy-first New York.

The elder Greene lived in and near New York since the war which made him eo conspicuous in martial annals. For a long time he had the distinction of being the oldest living representative of West Point and from time to time appeared at the reunions of army officers. On those occasions he was duly honored by his aesociates and by the press, but immediately sank back into the retiracy he cultivated, and it waa necessary for his old followers, and even his contemporary officers, to search the records to see if he had not meanwhile passed to the eternal camping grounds without the world taking note of the fact. For a number of years he lived at Morristown, where he had for neighbors or frequent visitors a number of his most intimate comrades of the old army. Until the end his spirits were happy, his manners genial and courteous.

THE OLD EASTER BONNET.

Don't make 'em like they use to—done killed with too much style;
Fixed up with buds an ribbons till you'd know 'em half a mile!
They all look mighty fancy in the big store windows hung,
But they're nothin like the bonnets they wore when we was young!

AN EASTER GIRL.

How much completer, neater an sweeter was the old
Time bonnet coverin rosy cheeks an ringlets black an gold!
Plain, with no fixin's on it, with ribbons
white an blue,
But a kiss beneath that bonnet was as sweet as honey dew!

Don't make 'em like they used to, yet the girls that wear 'em seem Almost as lovely as the girls that made our boyhood's dream!
But still I sigh to see 'em in the big store windows hung,
For they're nothin like the bonnets that they wore when we was young!

—Atlanta Constitution.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR!

Ask your physician this question, "What is the one great remedy for consumption?" He will answer, "Cod-liver oil." Nine out of ten will answer the same way.

Yet when persons have consumption they loathe all fatty foods, yet fat is necessary for their recovery and they cannot take plain cod-liver oil. The plain oil disturbs the stomach and takes away the appetite. The disagreeable fishy odor and taste make it almost unendurable. What is to be done?

This question was answered when we first made of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Although that was nearly twenty-five years ago, yet it stands alone today the one great remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

The bad taste and odor have been taken away, the oil itself has been partly digested, and the most sensitive stomach objects to it rarely. Not one in ten can take and digest the plain oil. Nine out of ten can take SCOTT'S EMULSION and digest it. That's why it cures so many cases of early consumption. Even in advanced cases it brings comfort and greatly prolongs life.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

The ATLANTIC MONTHLY

NO American agency of public information and intellectual guidance has done higher service in this most momentous period of national transition and opening of a new world epoch than THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY. In its point of view and treatment of events of the first national importance, it has stepped into the vacant place of a political review of clear insight, high purpose, wide knowledge, and bold conviction. It is doing for America some part of the work the serious political reviews always bave done for Britain, and which it is the often baffled aim of the "Deux Mondes" to do for France. The time has now come for wide public attention to the illuminating discussion of which it is the medium.—From the New York Commercial Advertiser, Nov. 29, 1898.

The announcements for 1899 are of a variety, interest, and value greater than ever before. Upon receipt of ten cents a sample copy of THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY will be sent, together with an illustrated prospectus for the coming year.

Subscriptions received direct or through any established subscription agency.

35 Cents a Copy $4.00 a Year

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.

4 Park Street, Boston

FILIPINOS ACTIVE

INSURRECTION APPARENTLY TAKING A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

Our Troops Kept Busy Defending Themselves From Continual Attacks—Filipinos Consider the Peace Negotiations a Sign of a Desire to Quit Fighting. Thousands of Friendly Natives Appealing to the Americans For Food.

MANILA, May 26.—The approach of the wet season finds the insurrection seemingly taking a new lease of life. All along the American lines the rebels are showing more aggressive activity in their guerrilla style than at any time before since the fall of Malolos. They keep the United States troops in the trenches sleeping in their clothing and constantly on the alert against dashes upon our outposts and they make things warm for the American garrisons in the towns. The bands of Generals Luna and Mascardo, which retreated toward Ardlue when they found they would be caught between MacArthur and Lawton, have returned in force to their old trenches around San Feraando, where there are daily collisions.

Opposite our forces protecting Manila all the way round to San Pedro Macati the Filipinos have three rows of men in trenches for resistance.

Think the Americans Have Enough.

Their manner indicates that the insurgents consider the peace negotiations to mean that the Americans have had enough of fighting. The Filipinos are also encouraged by the belief that the Americans are preparing for an interval of inactivity during the wet season. This period is sure to be followed by much suffering.

The plantations that were under cultivation lest year have not been plowed this year and the Americans are obliged to feed thousands just as they fed the Cubans.

Thousands of friendly natives continue to pour into the American lines by land and sea, covering the country where the passage of the two armies has left nothing for sustenance, throwing themselves on the American for support. Thousands of young Filipinos have been kept by the insurgent leaders to dig trenches. The United States forces are distributing rice at Malolos and smaller towns where Filipino stores were captured, but the letter will soon be exhausted.

TROOPS SENT TO NEGROS.

Inhabitants of the Southeast Portion Attacked by Natives.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The war department has made public the following dispatch from General Otis, commanding at Manila:

"Possible attack by insurgents on inhabitants southeast portion Negros necessitated sending battalion troops from Manila there. Will soon restore order.

"Insurgent falsehoods circulated in SOUTHERN Islands of overpowering insurgent victories in Luzon keep up excitement in that section among the more ignorant classes and although intelligent people know American arms have never met reverse they call for United States protection.

"Have taken over to navy for use on coast southern islands number of purchased Spanish gunboats from which excellent results expected."

SEVERE FIGHTING.

Battle Occurs Between Americans and Filipinos on Mindanao.

NEW YORK, May 31.—A dispatch to The Journal and Advertiser from London says:

A special dispatch from Labuan announces that fighting is reported between Americans and Filipinos on the island of Mindanao.

The principal city on the island, Zamhoanga, has been bombarded and burned and is in ruins.

The same dispatch reports trouble in Sulu. The Americans have blockaded the port.

A British steamer was denied admission and was escorted seaward by the United States gunboat Castine.

CAPTAIN TILLEY'S DEATH.

The Party Was Ambushed After Friendly Demonstrations at Negros.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The following dispatch has been received at the war department and give the first details of Captain Tilley's death on the Island of Negros:

"Manila, May 30.—Adjutant General, Washington: Cable company's vessel placiag cable between Iloilo and Cebu ran to Escalante, east coast of Negros, to remove old cable connections. Captain Tilley, signal corps, accompanied with captain of vessel and three men, visited town, natives making friendly demonstrations. While there, ambushed; vessel captain and one man escaped to vessel in launch: Tilley and two men taking to water and not rescued; vessel then reported at Iloilo; General Smith informed, who immediately took 75 men and proceeded to Escalante. He reports this morning that body Captain Tilley found floating in river; marks of violence on head; body sent to Iloilo. Smith remains at Escalante for the present. OTIS."

MACABEBES AS SCOUTS.

Company of One Hundred Organized by Captain Wren.

MANILA, May 31.—Captain Wren has organized a company of 100 Macabebes as scouts. They wear United States army shirts and trousers and are under Wren's personal command.

Killed or Captured.

MANILA, May 31.—Two patty officers of the United States hospital ship Relief went sailing in the harbor Tuesday. Their boat was afterwards found in the possession of natives near the Paranique lines by the monitor Monadnock. The men are supposed to have been killed or captured.

PLAN AGREED ON.

American Commissioners at The Hague Will Support the British Scheme.

LONDON, May 31.—The correspondent of The Standard at The Hague says:

An important advancement was made in the direction of a scheme of arbitration combining the Russian, British and American proposals. The representatives of these nations arrived at an agreement which seems to find general acceptance. Sir Julian Pauncefote conferred with Seth Low and Mr. Holls and both the British and American proposals were examined with the result that the United States will support the Pauncefote scheme for a permanent tribunal.

In all practical and essential features the British and American plans are identical, but the American delegates have gone further, covered the whole field of litigation and drafted provisions for a rehearing in the event of a disagreement. "It ought not to be difficult," said Mr. Holls, "to hammer out a workable scheme from these three plans."

THE CONFERENCE BUSY.

Several Sections Consider and Approve Various Questions.

THE HAGUE, May 31.—The Brussels commission section of the international peace congress, after adopting the second reading of articles 29 to 34, which deal with prisoners of war, discussed questions relating to flags of truce, capitulations and armistices as contained in articles 35 to 52, inclusive, upon which an agreement was reached.

The Red Cross section considered the extension of the Geneva convention to naval warfare and adopted slight modifications of the articles relating to material, leaving the other two categories, general and personal, for future consideration.

Hott Vaderland prints the text of the Russian proposals regarding mediation and arbitration.

Part 1 deals with the desirability of seeking a solution of international disputes by the mediation of friendly powers and sets forth that such good offices, whether sought or preferred, shall bear strictly the character of friendly counsel and in no way of compulsory force.

Part 2 deals with international arbitration, which it declares the most efficacious and equitable means of settling questions regarding the international application of treaties.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Mr. Bryan Says the Trust Issue Will Be One of the Most Important Planks.

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—Colonel William Jennings Bryan expressed himself as being much pleased with the St. Louis banquet.

In a signed statement furnished to The Post Dispatch Colonel Bryan said:

"The sentiment of the meeting was in line with the sentiment of the party generally. The Chicago platform will be reaffirmed entire, and new planks added to cover new questions. The trust issue will be one of the most important of the issues."

Advent of Yellow Jack.

JACKSON, Miss., May 31.—Advices having been received that one case of yellow fever had appeared in New Orleans, Inspector Gant has left for New Orleans to make a thorough inspection in that city. He will be joined there by Inspector Dunn.

GREET THE RISING SUN.

Moravian Custom Still Observed on Staten Island.

No more quaintly impressive custom has descended to Greater New York from the early days than the Easter sunrise services held by the Moravians in their old burying ground over on Staten Island. Since the year 1763 there has never been an Easter morn in which these devout worshipers have failed to greet the dawn with praise and thanksgiving. With the farm lands and picturesquely wooded hills and fertile meadows of Staten Island absorbed under the new charter there came into the municipality the Moravian cemetery at New Dorp. There, on the hillside, since the old hip roofed frame building, which still stands, was dedicated as church and parsonage under British rule, the followers of John Huss have held a service at daybreak on every Easter day under the morning sky, among the ever multiplying graves, to reemphasize their faith in the resurrection of the body and their sense of exultation in the triumph of life over death.

The present church of white painted wood, with its lofty square columns and a cupola containing the bell which calls the worshipers to service, stands within the burying ground, on one of the loveliest spots in the new city of New York. Beginning the service by artificial light within the consecrated walls, the congregation moves out into the gorgeous of the air at the moment of dawn.

The midst of the night still abroad the lowlands between the cemetery and the sea, above which the sun is just appearing. As the red and yellow beams beat showering over a gilded track the winding sheet is swept from the land, and from the lush, marshy vegetation of the lowlands garbed in the exultants of spring, with brightness softened by a hazy bloom. Birds begin their morning song among the fruit trees planted by the early settlers, tender leaves bestir themselves in bright array on the branches, and the very blossoms seem to join in the refrain of the resurrection, rejoicing in nature's return to active life after the dreary deadness of winter.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Quaint Lenten Rhyme.

"Paas Egg day" is the curious name by which Easter is called in the rhyme which gives the names of the Sundays in Lent:

Tu., Mid and Misera
Carling, Palm, Paas-Egg day."

The meaning of "Tid," "Mid" and "Misera" is lost; Carling is mid-Lent, sometimes also called "Mothering day."

NINE WERE KILLED

TERRIBLE WRECK ON THE BURLINGTON NEAR WATERLOO.

Washout Derails a Passenger Train and Badly Smashes the Six Coaches—Long List of Casualties—In Addition to the Dead a Score or More Are Seriously Injured—Seven People Killed in a Storm in the Bijou Hills, South of Chamberlain, S. D.

WATERLOO, Ia., May 29.—The through train to Minneapolis over the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern was wrecked at 1:15 a. m. at a crossing about four miles southeast of this place. The train consisted of six coaches, the cinding mail and baggage car, smoking car, two passenger coaches and sleeper. Nine persons were killed and twenty-three injured. The list of dead is as follows:

E. L. ARNOLD, lumberman, Minneapolis.

W. A. MCLAUGHLIN, Muskegon, Mich.

R. H. SCHWETTE, Altoa, Ills.

DAVID HALLO, Minneapolis.

E. S. CARPENTER, St. Louis.

HAWKINS, Pullman conductor.

GEORGE WAUWHISHT, coach cleaner.

WILL SCOLLIAR, Waterloo, Ia.

ONE UNKNOWN PERSON.

Long List of Injured.

S. E. Bentley, Waterloo; Reubea O'Dell, Waterloo; Herman Dennet, Waterloo; S. H. Rasher, Waterloo; A. W. Currington, Chicago; W. T. Burke, Cedar Falls, Ia.; Corinno Neel, Minneapolis; D. W. Fleming, Albert Lea, Minn.; Mrs. Morganstein, St. Paul; Anna Burke, Tower, Minn.; George Petrocic, Tower, Minn.; Arund Asiaksen, Norway, Ia.; Miss Anna H. Njos, Miss Ostrunia Noredy, Orson Noredy, John E. Johnson, Norwegian emigrants going to North Dakota; Jeremiah Murphy, Castletonboro, Ireland; Mrs. M. P. Myers, Prentice, Wis.; C. W. Matthews, Cedar Rapids; Ed Skaug, Van Buren, Ark.; J. L. Neel, Minaenpolis; R. L. Colvin, St. Louis.

The physicians are of the opinion that all the injured will recover.

Caused by a Cloudburst.

A cloudburst last night washed out the sand and gravel roadbed, leaving the track unsupported for a stretch of 20 feet. The rails had held together and there was nothing to indicate the insecurity of the road. The engine struck the washout and was derailed in the ditch beside the track and behind it the cars were piled up in a confused heap, the mail car tipped over and telescoped by the baggage car behind while the rear end of the baggage car in turn telescoped the smoker. The roof of the sleeper ploughed its way through the day coach while the lower half of the latter crushed through the sleeper.

CYCLONE VICTIMS.

Seven Killed in a Storm in Bijou Hills, South of Chamberlain, S. D.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., May 29.—Word has just reached town of a disastrous and fatal cyclone which passed over the country in the vicinity of Bijou hills, 25 miles south of this city, resulting in the death of seven persons and the serious injury of three others. The killed are Charles Peterson and his four children, the latter four boys and two girls ranging from 3 to 14. The wife and two remaining children were so badly injured that they may also die.

The cyclone first struck the farm of Ara Goden, which was totally destroyed. The storm then destroyed a church and a schoolhouse after which it reached the Peterson place where the devastation done was simply appalling. The dead and injured were strewn about the premises all being bruised and mangled in a shocking manner while the buildings were smashed to splinters.

After doing its worst here the cyclone destroyed the Crieger premises, then passing into the range of hills skirting the Missouri river where it appears to have been dissolved. The path covered by the storm was only about 20 rods wide and about 2 miles in length.

WILL GET ANOTHER TRIAL.

Such Said to Be the Decision in the Dreyfus Case.

PARIS, May 29.—Early in the afternoon it was rumored that the president of the civil section of the court of cassation, M. Ballot de Beaupre, had reported to the president of the court of cassation, M. Mazan, in favor of a revision of the Dreyfus trial and sending the prisoner again before a courtmartial. This, later in the day, was confirmed by a direct statement that the president of the civil section had so reported to the president of the court of cassation. It is believed the report is practically certain to be accepted by the court of cassation and means that Dreyfus will be brought back to France and retried.

PREPARING TO FIGHT.

Chinese Viceroys to Put All Their Forces on a War Footing.

LONDON, May 27.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail says:

"Orders have been issued from Pekin directing the viceroys and governors of the neighboring provinces to put all their forces on a war footing, owing to the arrival of six Italian warships in San Mnn harbor. It is thought also that the Chinese propose to drive the Germans from Shan Tung peninsula."

AFFECTS FOUR THOUSAND.

The President Issues His Civil Service Exemption Rules.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—President McKinley has issued the amendments to the civil service rules which he has had under consideration for about a year. It releases from the operations of the civil service rules about 4,000 offices.

ROSA BONHEUR DEAD.

Illness of the Famous Painter Terminates Fatally.

LONDON, May 29.—A special dispatch from Paris says that Rosa Bonheur, the famous animal painter, is dead.

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, May 25.

Two cases of the plague have been reported at Alexandria, Egypt, making four in all.

An international congress of physicians is in conference at Berlin on the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis.

The bubonic plague is increasing at Hong Kong. The official reports thus far for the month of May show 413 cases and 284 deaths.

The London Daily Telegraph announces the discontinuance of its Sunday edition. No comment accompanies the announcement.

Robert L. Cutting has begun suit for absolute divorce from his wife, Minnie Seligman Cutting, better known as Minnie Saligiman, the actress.

Admiral Schley was given an ovation at Boyd's Opera House, Omaha, during the evening performance. In response to repeated demonstrations he made a brief speech.

Friday, May 26.

The New York legislature passed the franchise taxation bill and adjourned.

The biennial convention of the International Y. M. C. A. is in session at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Professor Arthur T. Hadley has been elected president of Yale college to succeed Timothy Dwight.

The League of American Wheelmen and the Intercollegiate Bicycle Racing association have formed an alliance.

Winnipeg carpenters, bricklayers, masons and plumbers have returned to work, pending a settlement of the strike difficulties by arbitration.

A demand has been made upon Dr. Palma, delegate in this country of the so-called Cuban republic, for an accounting the amount subscribed to the cause, said to be some seven million dollars.

Saturday, May 27.

The Natherst expedition has started in search of Andree.

The five principal breweries of La Crosse will probably be consolidated.

General Bernandez Reina, formerly minister of war and military governor of Madrid, is dead.

The threatened general strike of coal miners in the Missouri and Kansas district has been averted.

The continuance of the lightermen's strike at Havana is causing serious inconvenience to shipping.

Bartlett Tripp, the American representatives, has been chosen chairman of the Samoan commission.

The old Cuban assembly leaders who are fighting Gomez are striving to have the Cuban soldiers where the American money, disband and keep their arms.

Should the Michigan supreme court decide against the city of Detroit in the proposed purchase of the street railways, the commissioners will purchase them under the terms already agreed upon, and operate them in the interest of the city.

Monday, May 29.

At Pardeeville, S. C., a dwelling-house was burned and the entire family of nine cremated.

The Wisconsin congressional delegation has decided to support Henderson of Iowa for speaker.

Fire at St. Johns N. F., made 1,000 people homeless, caused two deaths and entailed a property loss of $500,000. Fifteen blocks were burned and 100 buildings destroyed.

Angus Kinnaird and Anton Pendery, working in the Diamond mine at Butte, Mon., while drilling in a hole where the charge had not been set, were blown to pieces by the explosion of powder.

Agent Clifford of the Tongue river Indian agency has received instructions from the interior department that the reports of uneasiness among those Indians are baseless and that the only trouble comes from the actions of some border whites.

Tuesday, May 30.

Ex-Governor Holliday of Virginia is dead, aged 71.

The embargo on American cattle has been raised by the Belgian government.

The Thirteenth regiment of regulars has arrived at Manila on the transports Senator and Ohio.

Andrew Henge, aged 40, an Illinois Central baggage checker, died at Dubuque, of hydrophobia.

Pierce Blewett of Jamestown has been appointed trainmaster of the Dakota division of the Northern Pacific.

It is reported that a combination with a capital of $200,000,000 is forming to control the automobils transit of New York.

Reports received by the Philadelphia missionary committee indicate that a famine is working havoc in Inland Africa.

Wednesday, May 31.

Cornell defeated Pennsylvania in the 8-oared boat race at Ithcca.

Duke d'Arcos, the new Spanish minister at Washington, has arrived.

The interstate commerce commission will meet at Chicago June 12, to investigate grain and flour rates.

Rudolph Kassen, of the firm of Schaffar & Rossam, wholesale harness and leather, St. Paul, is dead.

The queen regent of Spain has signed a decree appointing Marshal Martinez Compos to the presidency of the senate.

It is stated that a large number of volunteers in the Philippines will remain there and enter insmaas after they are mustered out.

The president of the civil section of the court of cassation in his report expresses the belief that Esterhazy, and not Dreyfus, was the real culprit.

The body of Edwin J. Barker, who was killed in the Waterloo (Iowa) railway wreck, has been claimed by two women—his widow and Miss Shadsville of Montana, whom Barker was about to marry.

Deere Vehicles are All Right!

We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to unload.

They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen.

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., LARSEN & CARPENTER, Fosston or Richton. Crookston.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes lies right past your door, delivering 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riverside at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. ERSKINE, President. J. W. WHEELER, Cashier. WM. ANGLIM, Vice-President H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier.

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $26,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits. Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

George B. Erskine, A. A. Miller, Wm. Anglin, J. R. Eckinson, E. M. Walsh, L. Fontaine J. P. Foote, W. H. Crosby, J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers.

SCANDIA-AMERICAN BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON, ... PRESIDENT. H. STERNERSON, ... VICE-PRESIDENT.
N. S. GERVAIS, ... VICE-PRESIDENT. L. ELLINGTON, ... CASHIER
A. P. HANSON, ASST. CASHIER.

Farmers, Attention!

I have the Champion Draw Cut Mower (something new) also the ever ready Jones Mower. Thomas and Plano Rakes, Disc and Acme Harrows, Newton and Stoughton Wagons.

CALL AND SEE THEM.....

S. L. COLLINS

PRINTING

Of Every Description done at this Office. City Styles at Lowest Prices.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Polk County Journal

Historical Society

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY JUNE 8, 1899 NO 9

THE SCHOOLS CLOSE

Special Programs in Grades-Alumni Banquet at Crookston A Great Success.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

President Weld's Address—Presentation of Diplomas—Total Enrollment in Schools 1250.

The holidays for the teachers and pupils in the Crookston public schools began last Friday. During the next three months no school bell will call educator and student to the school room but they will be free to re-create themselves, that they may be the better prepared for the work of the coming school year. It is a wise provision of school economy that calls for the closing of the school doors during the summer months, for the heat then is so great that teachers cannot teach nor can pupils study. Besides, those who closely apply themselves to this kind of work for nine months need a rest. Education however, neither for the teacher nor for the pupils, of necessity ceases, though the environment under which development goes on is changed. Nature, as a general thing, during the summer vacation, becomes the chief teacher and from her the most profound lessons may be learned, provided one has the capacity and is in the mood to receive those lessons.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS AND TEACHERS.

The school system of Crookston has kept pace with the growth of the city in other respects. In 1876 school was opened here for the first time, the building being a one-room edifice constructed of hewn logs and the teacher Miss Luella Thompson who afterwards became the wife of Mr. Hugh Thompson. As the educational needs of the community increased, new buildings were bought or built, and additional teachers hired, until today there is the high school, with nine rooms, the Central School, with eleven rooms, the Fourth ward building, with four rooms, Simpson's addition, with two rooms, and the second ward building with a single room, the total valuation being about $70,000, and a corps of twenty-three teachers.

The teachers in the high school during the past year were John Moore, superintendent, who taught Vergil and Geometry, Miss Friedlander, History and English Literature, Miss Roney, Science and Mathematics, Miss Dewart, Latin and German, and Mr. Jessie Childs, Caesar, Botany, Algebra and the Eighth grade Arithmetics. The grade teachers were, Miss H. Vashti Gillpatrick, Eighth B; Miss Christine Johnson, Seventh; Miss Olive G. Tweeten, Sixth A; Miss Evelyn Hall, Sixth A and Sixth B; Miss Julia Bloom, Fifth A; Miss Margaret L. Brown, Fifth B and Fourth A; Miss Edith J. Lucius, Fourth; Miss Anne Field, Third A; Miss Emma Fortier, Third; Miss Winnifred Griffin, Second; Mrs. M. B. Hayes, First; Miss Carrie Fitzgerald, Fourth A and Fifth; Miss Stella McIntyre, Third and Fourth B; Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, Second and Third B; Miss Emma J. Woodall, First; Miss Ada J. Still, Third and Fourth; Miss Winnifred Langford, First and Second; Miss Anna B. Fargeman, First, Second, and Third B.

TOTAL ENROLLMENT 1250.

The high school has had this last year a total attendance of 115, which is at least twenty-five more than during the previous year. The extension in the high school course was chiefly in the English department, every student being required to take English Literature five times a week.

The school in the woods was enlarged by the addition of two large rooms, and two new grade teachers had to be hired. During the school year 1897-98 the total attendance in the schools was 1138, this last year there were 1250 pupils.

CLOSING EXERCISES.

The afternoon of last Friday was given over to special exercises in all the departments except in the high school where the state examinations were being held. Two and sometimes three rooms combined and gave a program and the attendance of visitors at each entertainment was quite large.

The rooms were appropriately decorated and the skill which the pupils had acquired in drawing was shown by the handiwork on the blackboards.

Songs, recitations, rose drill, hoop drill, sword drill, flag drill, etc, etc, constituted the main part of what the pupils gave. These various exhibitions by the school children were pronounced by those present as great successes.

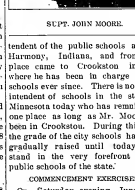
THE ALUMNI BANQUET.

Friday evening the third annual Alumni banquet took place at the Hotel Crookston. The company began to arrive before 9 o'clock and at 9:30 they were ushered into the large dining room which was tastily decorated for the occasion. Covers were laid for forty-nine persons, all of them graduates save four,—Supt. Moore and Misses Friedlander Dewart and Roney, the high School corps of teachers. After the company had partaken of the delicious refreshments served by Landlords Scott & Lyman, Mr. Maurice Malone, president of the Alumni Association and toastmaster of the evening arose and before introducing Supt. John Moore, who was to respond to the toast "Why This Banquet", briefly referred to some of the important events that had occurred during the two years since the association was formed, not the least important of which events being the marriage of two of the alumni and two of the alumnæ. Mr. Moore in his usual happy vein spoke of the benefits and pleasures to be gained by recalling the happy associations of the past, and of the good fellowship that was sure to be the result of such a gathering. Walter Stone toasted the class of '99 in the taking way for which he is noted. Miss Addie Marin's remarks upon "The Front Seat" were bright and witty. In his toast to "Our Teachers" Bruce Harris told some of his comical experiences in school and in referring to the beneficial influences of the teachers spoke particularly of what all the alumni felt Mr. Moore had done for them. In "Looking Forward" Miss Bertha McIntyre for the class of '99 told what she thought would be the future of her classmates, and Angus McKinnon spoke of the life at the State University at Minneapolis.

The Alumni elected Mr. Moore an honorary life member of the association. The officers chosen for the coming year are, Wm. Murin Jr., president; Fred McGregor, vice-president; Winnifred Samson, secretary and treasurer, and Will Anglim and Miss Nora Fuller, executive committee.

SUPT. JOHN MOORE.

John Moore who for the past fifteen years has been superintendent of the Crookston public schools, was born in the county of Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, in 1843. His early life was spent at his home on the farm. He attended a country school and later finished the course of study in the county high school. For three years he taught a village school and in 1865 entered the Victoria University at Cobourg, Canada. From this university he received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1869, graduating at the head of his class, and in 1872 he obtained the M. A. and L. L. B. degrees. He was head master of the schools at Norwood, Ontario, Canada, for seven years. He then crossed the line and for six years was superintendent of the public schools at New Harmony, Indiana, and from that place came to Crookston in 1884, where he has been in charge of the schools ever since. There is no superintendent of schools in the state of Minnesota today who has remained in one place as long as Mr. Moore has been in Crookston. During this time the grade of the city schools has been gradually raised until today they stand in the very forefront of the public schools of the state.



SUPT. JOHN MOORE.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

On Monday evening, June 3, at the Grand Opera House, occurred the Ninth Annual Commencement exercises of the Crookston High School. The stage had been very tastily decorated with plants and flowers. From above hung the class motto, "Palmam Qui Meruit" the letters on a field of cerise, cerise and gold being the class colors. On the right of the stage were seated the twelve graduates, on the left the board of education, and in the centre at the back, Mr. Moore, Mr. Weld and Miss Morrissey. The lower boxes on either side of the house, were occupied by the members of Junior class, twelve in number.

The audience was a large one and showed by their close attention and repeated applause that they appreciated the efforts that had been made to entertain and instruct them.

The program as printed had to be changed somewhat as neither the Mandolin Club nor Prof. Riggs could be present. After the Invocation by Rev. H. P. Fisher, Miss Morrissey, instructor in vocal music, at the Moorhead Normal school, sang "Three Roses" and "Memories", which was followed by the salutatory address by Miss Bertha Samson. This address was written in verse and in choice and fitting words welcomed the friends assembled to witness the graduating exercises of the class of '99. Miss Bertha spoke clearly and distinctly, and when she finished the audience felt that they were indeed right welcome.

The address of the evening upon "The Holy Grail" was then delivered by Mr. Frank Weld, president-elect of the Moorhead Normal school. It was a scholarly address spoken with ease and yet with such force as to persuade his audience that what he said was true. Intellectuality he said does not depend upon money. Thoughts can be enjoyed in the cottage as well as in the palace. Nobleness depends upon spirit and purpose. The universe belongs to those who can appropriate it. It cannot be bought. The world needs more spirituality. Toil is necessary, but one should work for all time, not for the present. The lecturer here read and interpreted one of Kipling's poems to emphasize the thought that long preparation is necessary before one is fitted to do any work well. He most lives who thinks most. Greatness is purpose not results. One to attain his highest manhood must lose himself in the service of others, as did the Christ, man's highest ideal.

Miss Morrissey sang a solo, "My Heart at Thy Dear Voice" and Miss Ella C. Hanson then gave the valedictory address. She was particularly happy in her remarks to Mr. Moore calling attention to the fact that he had directed their training since they had first entered school. She spoke with much earnestness and was roundly applauded at the close.

Mr. Weld presented the diplomas to the graduates and in doing so took occasion to make a few remarks to them. They had done well he said, so far, but their work was chiefly ahead of them. He especially counseled them to hold in grateful remembrance their teachers whose faithful work in their behalf was unbounded. He also said, in referring to the fact that theirs was an exceptional experience in that the same superintendent had been in charge of the schools ever since they entered, that the men of education in the state regretted very much that Mr. Moore had thought it best to retire from active educational work. Those receiving diplomas were: Literary Course, Margaret Arnold, William G. Anglim, William J. R. Finlayson, Charles J. Lucian, Bertha E. McIntyre, Edward F. Netzer, Alpha M. Tweeten Classical Course, Ella C. Hanson, Bertha Samson: General Course, Martha M. Munch; Latin-Scientific Course, Constance A. Norhlad, Frank M. Waldron.

Before announcing the last number on the program, a solo "Though You Forget", by Miss Morrissey, Mr. Moore, the retiring superintendent of the schools, made a few farewell remarks. He spoke briefly of some of the things that had been done in the schools during the last fifteen years, thanked the citizens of the city for their kindness and assistance in the past, and closed his remarks by extending to the teachers and pupils in the schools his thanks for the handsome Turkish leather bound rocker which they had kindly given him.

Miss Morrissey whose solo completed the program, has a strong, rich, clear voice over which she has perfect command and all of her songs were highly appreciated.

After the exercises the relatives and friends of the graduates went up on the platform to congratulate them. These twelve young ladies and gentlemen who have just finished the High School course were the recipients of many beautiful bouquets of flowers.

Professor A. T. Hadley has been elected to succeed Timothy Dwight, resigned, as President of Yale University.

1899 GRADUATING CLASS

CHAS. J. LUCIAN EDWARD NETZER WM. G. ANGLIM
MARTHA MUNCH BERTHA SAMSON CONSTANCE NORHLAD
FRANK WALDRON ELLA HANSON ALPHA TWEETEN W. J. R. FINLAYSON

RECEPTION TO HIGH SCHOOL.

Given by Mr. and Mrs Moore—A Most Delightful Time Spent by All.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore gave their annual reception to the High School last Tuesday evening. As there were more than one hundred pupils in the High School this year it was impossible for them all to be entertained at the same time, so the members of the first and second years' classes were received from eight to nine o'clock and the Juniors and Seniors from nine to ten. The parlors were brilliantly lighted and bouquets of flowers and plants were in all parts of the room. Most delicious frappe and cake were served in the dining room to all the guests. Miss Ital Wilkinson, Miss Jennie McAskill, Will Winney and others furnished instrumental music, Miss Martha Munch sang several solos, and games were played both inside the house and on the lawn. It was very evident that the young people thoroughly enjoyed themselves and that the time when it was necessary to say good night came all too soon. Led by Miss Martha Munch the company, just before leaving, sang "America" and "Auld Lang Syne."

DISTRICT COURT OPENS.

Judge Brown on the Bench—Will be A Very Long Session.

The district court opened Tuesday morning at ten o'clock. Judge Brown of the 10th judicial district presiding. This session bids fair to be one of the longest in the history of the district. There are over 100 civil cases on the calender, a large number of appeals from the justice courts, several criminal cases. Besides these there will be the trials of those against whom the present grand jury brings indictments. The first morning was spent in going over the calendar deciding which were jury cases, which court cases, settling upon particular dates when certain cases would be tried, hearing different motions from lawyers etc, etc. The judge gave his charge to the grand jury and the latter met in the afternoon and chose E. M. Bivins as foreman, and T. J. Lake as clerk.

The Forum.

The question of ritualism in the church of England is ably treated, from the Anti-Ritualists' point of view, in the June Forum, by Francis Allison Channing, M. P. Mr. Channing does not mince matters, but lays bare the operation of the secret societies in regard to confession, requiem masses, reservation of the Holy Communion, and the various other matters in dispute. The paper is one of the best expositions on the subject which have been published in this country for a long time. Mr. Brooks Adams contributes to the June Forum a striking paper on "England's Decadence in the West Indies." The history of her decline is traced back to the inception of the French beet-sugar industry by Napoleon Bonaparte; and Mr. Adams concludes that the drifting of the sugar-islands into the control of the United States is probable, if not inevitable.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE

Grand Gathering of the Soil Tillers of Red River Valley at Crookston June 20 and 21.

BEST INSTRUCTORS SECURED.

Will Discuss Sheep Industry, Poultry, Dairying—Care of Cattle, Horses and Grain Raising.

The Farmers Institute that will be held at Crookston June 20 and 21 promises to be the best one so far held in the northwest. Coming as it does at a time when the farmers can better spare a couple of days than at any other time during the summer, the attendance will undoubtedly be large. Supt. O. C. Gregg will be here and personally conduct the meeting. It is also expected that Prof. Shaw and other speakers from different states and localities will be at this important meeting to help along the good work of agricultural improvement—the very foundation of the future grandeur of Minnesota. In fact, the best staff of instructors that can be secured in the northwest will be here, each man an authority in his line of work.

Mrs. Ida E. Tilson, known as one of the most practical poultry experts in the country, will speak on her favorite topic "Poultry Culture." She will treat of such themes as breeds of poultry, feeding, shelter, parasites, diseases, incubator, language of fowls, poultry literature, profits, etc, etc. This branch of farming deserves more attention than it has heretofore received by the farmers in general.

The first institute Senator P. M. Greeley of South Dakota attended was at Crookston in July, two years ago. He gave at that time his experience in the care and management of sheep. Since then he has been one of the most successful institute instructors Minnesota has ever had. Those who are interested in the sheep industry will find it to their advantage to cultivate his acquaintance. He will treat of the matter of feeding range sheep, of the diseases common to sheep, and of how to handle large flocks. He will also show the possibilities of Rape plant in connection and will explain fully as to what profits there are in the business. A few years ago items very hard to interest any audience on the subject of horses. Now great interest is manifested in horse raising. Dr. J. C. Curryer of Mankato who has had charge of this department ever since it was organized will speak on this topic. Special attention will be given to the education of the horse, but care and general management will be important subjects that will be treated of very fully. He will show the different types for a purpose, the fallacy of continual crossing of breeds, the care and handling of the little colt, etc.

At the Farmers' Institute, which will be held in this city June 20 and 21, T. A. Hoverstad, superintendent of the creameries, building of barns and silos, and such other subjects as may be of interest to dairy men.

Prof. Barnett will take charge of the dairy types of cattle and what can be done along this line also the beef industry and the possible results.

C. W. Hale will discuss the subject of the care and management of sheep on the farm (from a farmer's standpoint) including why every farm should have sheep, the most economical feed for each season of the year, how to obtain a high standard of excellence in the flock, practical method of fattening lambs, and precautions which may be neglected. He will also give a practical talk on the eradication of weeds, with a view toward methods within reach of the farmer.

During the summer sessions of the Farmers' Institute the Ladies' Cooking School is generally omitted. At Crookston, however, there will be a deviation from that rule. Mrs Bertha Dahl Laws will take charge of that work. Mrs. Laws was for several years one of the most successful teachers in Domestic Economy in Minneapolis. During the past winter she was instructor in her favorite subject in connection with the institute. She was eminently successful from the very start.

Ladies will be provided a special hall and the different classes of foods will be prepared in their presence. The lectures will be accompanied with demonstrations wherever practical.

The farmers of the Red River Valley are to be congratulated on having the opportunity of having such a meeting and it is hoped that as many as possibly can will make an effort to attend.

Every farmer and those interested in farms should not forget that annual number eleven will be distributed at the close of the first forenoon session: a book of 350 pages, that has been estimated by those who have examined it critically to be worth from $5.00 to $25.00 and given free.

TWO FULL BLOODED ANIMALS.

Sold From Col. Wilkinson's Stock Farm—He Has More.

The matter of animal industry is one that is nowadays attaining great prominence in agricultural affairs, and those who are helping along this good work and who are particularly interested in raising the grade of the cattle hereabouts, deserve the thanks of all farmers, and of those also whose livelihood depends upon the stock and in seeing others do the same thing.

The editor of the JOURNAL recently met a Collies' livery team, Crulkshank Wilkes, which the Colonel has sold to P. J. Carey, of Beltrami. This is a fine looking young bull, bred in the purple. He was got by Minnie Cruickshank Second. No. 120,233, out of Blossom of Grandview Third 2d by Nonpareil Eighth. No. 113,033, tracing back to imported Filbert by Second Cleveland Lad. Alex. McKinnon has also bought from Col. Wilkinson a North Star, full blood short horn bull calf. This animal also is of royal breed and the largest number the country has of animals of this breed the better. The Colonel still has four or five more of these young bulls for sale and farmers wishing to improve their stock will do well to call and see what the Colonel has before they purchase elsewhere.

T. A. HOVERSTAD.
Superintendent Crookston Experiment Station

Crookston Experiment station, will be present and will give the farmers the benefit of his scientific knowledge of agricultural affairs. Mrs. Hoverstad also will assist in the management of the ladies' cooking school.

Prof. Craig, of Ames Agricultural school, Iowa, who is recognized as one of the best authorities on live stock, has promised to be present. His topics have not yet been learned but they will be mentioned in next week's JOURNAL.

A. W. Trow, of Albert Lea, one of the most successful dairy men in the best dairy section of the state will have charge of the dairy department. He will speak on the organization of

COURTESY TO THE FLAG.

In Camp When "Stars and Stripes" Played all Uncovered.

Captain Decker says that when the soldiers were in camp at Chickamauga last year the greatest courtesy was shown by them to the flag, and the people in the South became so educated to it that they too would do honor to the flag at the time of certain ceremonies, just as the soldiers. At times when the flag was raised he has seen thousands of people who were seated rise and uncover and when retreat was sounded and the bands struck up "The Stars and Stripes" the same set would be repeated. Geo. Keenan, in one of his articles in the New York Outlook on the "Regeneration of Cuba" says that he has repeatedly seen the little ragged Cuban urchins take off their hats when the Stars and Stripes were raised aloft, or at other military ceremonies when the flag played an important part. It is, indeed, a simple but beautiful tribute to that which is the emblem of all which we, as a nation, hold dearest and it would be better were the custom observed more than it is.

AROUND THE COUNTY

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

South Crookston.

T. C. Stewart is building an addition to his house.

The work of building O. Vllan's new cottage is progressing rapidly.

E. D. Childs and his son Jesse are in Fargo taking in the Fire Festival.

Any one desiring to build a good house cheaply would do well to purchase the old Carman school house.

Mrs. D. A. Darby left for Fargo Tuesday morning to enjoy the festivities in that city and to visit with old friends.

The rains have hindered the farm work so much that under the most favorable conditions it will take about ten days to finish seeding.

Miss Bertha Metcalf, who has taught the intermediate department in the Carman school during the past year has received a telegram informing her of the sudden death of her father, and will start home this evening to attend the funeral. Her many friends here sympathize very deeply with her in her affliction.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Childs have been entertaining Miss Booker, who went to India in 1899 under the auspices of the Manitoba Board of Foreign Missions. Miss Booker suffered a sunstroke which compelled her to relinquish the work in the field of that mission, and she engaged in that of the Women's Foreign Mission Board of the West whose headquarters are at Chicago. After three years in orphanage work there, the return of health enabled her to go again to the plains and she has since been engaged in evangelistic work on the Bapatla field, about 150 miles from Madras and on the Bay of Bengal. She arrived in this country two years ago, weakened by fever, and was obliged to spend a month in the hospital in Boston before coming West to her family. She is now fully restored to health and hopes to return to India in August. Those who heard her speak of her work on Wednesday evening in the Baptist church enjoyed a rare treat.

FISHER.

Jos Jarvis has gone south to see how hot it is in summer.

Mayor Krostne has returned from a business trip to St. Paul.

Mr. Nels Peterson is erecting a new residence on his lot on Grove Avenue.

Miss Hattie Minkler has returned from her winters trip on the Pacific coast.

F. J. Worden has started on a trip which may be extended as far as San Francisco.

Rev. H. Skyberg is spending the week at Perley attending a meeting of the Lutheran ministers of this District.

Jacob Eckels has purchased the business and residence of Chas. Nelson who expects to locate in the southern part of the state.

Rev. E. A. Cooke has gone to the Twin Cities for a couple of weeks vacation. His pulpit will be filled during his absence by Dr. Johnson of Grand Forks.

R. H. Bain has secured the contract for the improvements to be made on the Odd Fellows building and hopes to have it completed by the 15th of August.

McINTOSH.

Miss Louise Loe, who has been sick for several weeks, is very ill.

W. H. Hunt went to Crookston last Monday to attend court.

O. C. Morben has about completed a new house on Jackson street.

F. O. Johnson went to Crookston Tuesday of this week to attend court.

Hans Jacobson's young son, who has been sick, is on the road to recovery.

There was a dance given by Joe Mandt in the opera house last Monday night.

Aaron Sachrison's son, aged 12, is suffering with suppurating knee. He is quite sick.

Mr. Hendrickson of the restaurant is building a large house in the northwest part of town.

The new Norwegian Lutheran church built last spring, will be painted this summer.

M. W. Jensen made a trip to Crookston today (Tuesday), he being one of the petit jurors.

Mr. Miller of Crookston was in town Monday, called as coroner regarding Mr. Breuhaug's death.

Osco Froirak, living one and a half miles west of town, has about completed a large residence on his farm.

A young son made his arrival at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Ellingson last Sunday. Mr. E. now wears a smile.

J. J. Aldrich, who lives a mile and a half west of town, has just completed a large barn. It makes a nice improvement.

McIntosh is on the boom; Among others who contemplate building residences this summer are O. K. Lee, and Dr. A. McEakran.

Pete Soll's daughter, aged 12 years, fell down stairs last Monday night and sprained her arm. Dr. P. O. Neraal is the attending physician.

Joseph Mandt of McIntosh and Mr. Giles of Bemidji had a foot race here last Monday. Joe Mandt won. Distance 100 yards, Time 10.85 seconds.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Drew went to Crookston today (Tuesday). Mrs. Drew goes on to Chicago to visit her mother. Mr. Drew returns home Wednesday.

Ole Bjorgo was busy the first of the week unloading a car of Jones' chain dry mowers, which he sells for the Plano Manufacturing company. They take the lead.

There will be five new buildings built in South McIntosh immediately. Following are the names: Mr. Olson, Herman Helgeson, Mr. Farrup and Mr. Shadack and Carl Berg.

Mr. Breuhaug, an old gentleman, living in the town of Hill River, while watering his stock last Friday, fell into a well and was drowned. He was buried today (Tuesday).

Ole Bjorgo is completing a large house in South McIntosh, which Druggist Borch will occupy when finished. Size, main part, 15x24, and an addition 14x16, 14 foot posts.

The city council met last Monday night and they ordered the street commissioner to grade the street in South McIntosh and put in crossings. This will be the finest residence part of town.

A district meeting of the Norwegian Lutheran Synod, including the towns of Crookston, Fosston, Fertile, Thief River Falls and all adjoining towns, is in session here for three days. The meeting is composed of clergymen and delegates from their respective congregations.

There will be a grand celebration in McIntosh the Fourth. Senator Ryder will deliver the oration. The band will play. There will be horse racing, foot races, sack and wheelbarrow races, tugs of war, and a ball game between McIntosh and Lambert and everything to make it interesting. $300 has been subscribed.

FERTILE.

Crops are looking fine in this vicinity.

Fishing at Maple Bay is quite popular now.

Fosston base ball club will play here June 12.

We have a new tailor and a new music teacher in town.

Ed. Wahl has purchased the livery stable from John P. Tuff.

Attorneys Keefe and Walseth spent Tuesday in Crookston.

The school teachers have all left for their homes in Southern Minnesota.

The Fertile band and ball club will go to Fosston July 4 to help them celebrate.

Prof. Crippen and Miss Mayme Vannet, of East Grand Forks, spent Sunday in Fertile.

Sam LaDue and Otto Kankel are home from the State University to spend their summer vacation.

CLIMAX.

Hurrah for the Fourth. Climax will celebrate.

E. B. Lanegar is having an addition built to his house.

The Bank of Climax is repairing and painting their building.

J. G. Flemming closed a six months term of school last Friday.

E B Frye drove to Fisher on a pleasure trip Friday evening.

John Steenerson made a business trip to Crookston last Friday.

J. A. Ralston made a business trip to Crookston Wednesday of this week.

Rev. Villesvik held services in the new church Sunday morning for the first time.

Halvor Lonegar returned from Gary Saturday where he has been visiting friends.

Quite a number of the boys went to Eldred Saturday morning to trip the light fantastic.

Pete Eie, our popular banker, has purchased the store stock of S. S. Moen & Co., of Shelly.

P. J. Eie went to Shelly last week looking after his interests on his farm, returning Sunday.

S. F. Bonamie, accompanied by J. M Lochen, was doing business at the county seat on Saturday.

K. O. Slette was up from Halstad last week taking charge of the bank while P J Eie was at Shelly.

August Aas, Sam Dahlguard and Albert Bankin were in town Monday to purchase lumber for the new hall which is to be built at Neby.

G. W. Schramp, the genial landlord of the Hotel Climax, has fixed the house up in fine shape. He has a first-class hotel and will soon have a good livery in connection. All who can should avail themselves of the opportunity of stopping with him.

Married, at the residence of her sister, Mrs. S. A. Lochen, in this village, Wednesday, June 7, 1899, Mr. S. F. Bonamie to Miss Clara Bjerke, Rev. Villesvik officiating. They are spending two weeks at Niche, N. D., after which they will make their residence in Climax.

ERSKINE.

Mrs. F. Nelson is on the sick list.

Erskine will celebrate the Fourth.

Three new street lamps adorn our streets and avenues.

Miss Nettie Hanson was visiting in Fosston Monday.

Dr. Olson and daughter Anna visited Crookston on Thursday.

Carl Hast has sold his farm to Elif and Ole Nordgaard. Price $300.

Albert Jalson of Fertile is visiting with his sister, Mrs. M. H. Holte.

A sidewalk was completed last week along the street to South Erskine.

George H. Chase has completed a new residence in the east part of town.

Mrs. O. H. Oleson and daughters are visiting friends at Fertile for a few days.

Martin Flom and H. J. Narveson visited Fertile on Wednesday and Thursday.

P. N. Sevalrud and O. T. Wold of Badger made a trip to McIntosh today (Tuesday).

N. J. Ordeson, our landlord, who has been ill for the past ten days, is recovering slowly.

Peter Erickson and Olaf J. Kolberg went to Crookston Monday to transact business at the court house.

The Erskine flour mill is doing a nice business and they challenge the world to beat them on first-class flour.

J. J. Stenerson came up from Felton, Minn., to visit with his brother Gunder and also look after collections.

A new jail has just been completed, to accommodate, among others, the Weary Willies, alias bums, tramps and hoboes.

Mr. Ford, from McIntosh, who started in the livery business here about one month ago, quit business a week ago.

Mr. Dillon, the barber, has just built a new barn on his residence lot and will also erect a residence in the near future.

Bill Tatro from Maple Bay was looking over the town and putting in a good word for the pneumatic blower, Monday.

Even Tuft is building an addition 24x30 to his saloon building on Vance avenue. It will be repainted and otherwise improved.

Stenerson Brothers, our hustling lumbermen, have received seven cars of lumber in the past week. They report a good business.

A new building has just been put up on the shore of Lake Cameron for the new fire apparatus recently purchased of the village of Fertile.

I. I. Kansa, county superintendent of schools, visited with Banker A. F. Cronquist last Monday night, while visiting schools in this vicinity.

Casper Hanson wishes to inform the public that he is agent for the Plano Manufacturing Co., of Chicago. He sells binders, mowers, hayracks, also binding twine.

Casper Hanson, our pioneer blacksmith, is having a fine residence built in South Erskine. Size, main part, 14x26, addition 14x14, 14 foot posts. It will be completed about July 1.

Jorgenson Brothers, who opened up in the harness business last winter, are always pleased to meet new friends, and they are prepared to show them first-class goods at reasonable prices.

Banker A. F. Cronquist is about ready to move into his new house on his farm one and one-half miles southwest of town. The dimensions are 28x32, one and a half stories high. He has a very pleasant place.

O. Narveson is putting up a good-sized residence in South Erskine. Size, main part, 20x24, addition 14x16, 12 foot posts. He moved into the same last Monday. It will be completed in about two weeks.

L. F. Benson, one of our prominent merchants, has the foundation laid for a new residence about to be built in South Erskine. Dimensions, 28x28, 12 foot posts. This cottage is built on the edge of Lake Cameron.

A new well seventy-five feet deep has just been drilled in front of the Erskine Hotel for the accommodation of the citizens of our village. There will also be another drilled in the residence part of town, or commonly called South Erskine. Espe Bros., of Crookston, are the drillers.

The Bank of Erskine will be moved this week to the Loughie building on Vance avenue. This building will be used till their fine new bank building, which will be commenced next month, is completed. The latter will be built on the lot recently purchased of O. T. Berge.

Erskine is booming! New building are rapidly going up and everything points toward an increased population, as this is one of the prettiest and best located towns in the west, nestled as it is between two beautiful lakes. Lake Cameron nestles as a gem in a setting at our door steps, furnishing rare amusement for our fun-loving people, and the cool breezes that are gently wafted across its broad bosom are exhilarating on a hot summer day.

Hurrah for the Fourth! Erskine is to celebrate the 4th of July in the grand old style. Music by the Winger brass band. Holston is the speaker of the day. A. F. Cronquist is the president; W. J. Dargon, marshal. Among other attractive features there will be horse racing, bicycle races, foot races, boat races and yacht races. Fire works in the evening. There will also be a large bowery 40x80, which will attract many. Boat riding will be the order of the day, as we will have about twenty-five boats on the lake.

SHELLY.

J. J. Aberestad was around assessing last week.

B. B. Larson from Halstad was in town Monday.

A. Tromes of Nielsville was in town Monday evening.

S. Little, of Caledonia transacted business in town, Monday.

Hon. O. P. Ojen returned Monday from Sacred Heart, Minn.

Dr. Cleveland spent Sunday at Caledonia with his family.

Miss Marie Johnstad, of Duane, visited friends in town Monday evening.

T. T. Straw and Geo. Aftritt drove to Duane Sunday afteroon to visit friends.

Mrs. M. J Gresfield returned from Halstad Monday where she has been visiting.

Dr. Wilson from Toronto, Canada, is practicing medicine with Dr. Cleveland.

Geo. Aftritt is doing some fast riding on his wheel. Rubbing town three times daily.

A number of the Shelly Good Templars visited the "Frems Kridt" lodge Sunday evening.

Theo. Neyers crossed the Red last Saturday evening, and got caught in the rain coming home.

C. A. Hawkins and Ole Bekkedal drove to Hillsboro Saturday evening returning Sunday afternoon.

Shelly will send delegates to the I. O. G. T. District Lodge at Halstad next Saturday and Sunday

The firm of Moen & Highland has again changed hands. Mr. Highland selling out his share to P. J. Ais, of Climax.

The Shelly House has again changed hands. Mr. Q. Larson, of Hillsboro, has rented it and took charge last Monday.

Jo. Paulsrud and Ludvig Olson played ball with Halstad vs Hendrum last Sunday. Halstad won by a score of 18 to 21.

Mrs. Engelstad, mother of H. P. and O. P. Engelstad, died Sunday night. She has been confined to her bed for the last six years.

Joe Anderson, Julius Afteland, John Vig, Ed. Paulsrud and Ludvig Olson drove to Halstad to see the ball game Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. I. Lee, wife of T. T. Lee, died last Saturday. Funeral took place Monday. The deceased leaves a husband and two children to mourn her sad loss.

ELDRED.

Jno. Elg visited the county seat Friday.

A. Elby will attend court at Crookston this week.

John Boyer came a "Biking" it over Jim Hills grade last Wednesday.

John Meslo, three miles west of town, will build a new house soon. Size 20x24.

J. E. Elg has lately built a good, substantial sidewalk in front of his store building.

Elly & Co. have just received a new lot of groceries. They report an increasing business.

A concert by the famous Mr. Framstad in the Hall last Monday evening, a very slim crowd attended.

The Journal's hustler was in town the other day and secured any amount of new subscribers for his newsy sheet.

The Athletic and Sporting club held its meeting the 5th and decided to keep practicing for the Fourth of July when some of the boys expect to make a match with some worthy neighbor.

Iver Lund one of our old settlers and sturdy men is away on another trip, this time taking in friends and relatives in Otter Tail County.

Jno. Elg is treating his two story building and hall to a coat of paint, we were going to say "red" but no one yet has been able to say what color it is,—it takes E. Palm to paint things red.

Erik Palm has lately built an addition to his blacksmith shop and painted the building. He has also set out several shade trees around his place, and has made other improvements.

There will be another dance given in Elgys hall the 19th, during which time one of "Edisons" phonographs will be raffled off, to those purchasing dance tickets—50c, which ought to bring a very large attendance.

The dance at the hall Saturday eve was poorly attended, on account of the storm coming up just as it was time to leave home for the enjoyment, but those present report an enjoyable time and good praise for the music.

Death has again summoned one of its victims, this time the little one year old boy of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis. The service was conducted at home by Rev. Fisher of Crookston, and the little one was followed to its last resting place by a large concourse of friends and relatives. The parents have the sympathy of all.

Boyer–Arness—The natural course of human events devolves on the scribe this week—a duty which is most cheerful. That duty is to chronicle a no less event than the marriage of Mr. Theo. M. Boyer of this place and Miss Angelina Arness, daughter of Mrs. and Mr. Alexander Arness. The happy event occurred at the home of the bride last Sunday at 11:30 A. M. and was witnessed by about one hundred and twenty-five relations and invited friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Sundahl of Crookston. The bridesmaids were—Miss Arness, Miss Boyer of Audubon and Miss Erickson of Minneapolis. The groomsmen were, Mr. Boyer of Audubon, Mr. Arness and Mr. Bonkind. The bride wore a dress of cream white figured silk with veil and orange blossoms with kid slippers and gloves. The bridesmaids costumes were all white and trimmed. After the ceremony a tempting repast was served at two long tables in a summer house built for the occasion. The list of presents is long containing many both valuable and useful. Mr. and Mrs. Boyer will make this their future home. Their host of friends and admirers join in wishing them a full portion of life's joys and the smallest possible allowance of its sorrows.

NEILSVILLE.

O. G. Kittelson's new residence will be completed soon.

Nils Muus and family arrived home from Kenyon last Thursday.

John G. Olson has sold a forty of land situated in Norman county to C. Hanson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hayes went to Crookston on Friday's train returning Saturday.

Rev. Skyberg, of Fisher, was the guest of Rev. Brodland over Monday night, enroute for Perley.

D. Payne has purchased a new wheel. He must expect the roads to dry up sometime this summer.

Henry Simon has gone fishing. He started for Bemidji and Cass Lake, and we wish him a good time during his outing.

Monday forenoon the wheat prices were 66 cents for No. 1 Northern and 68 for No. 1 hard in Neilsville, the highest reached so far this year.

It might be profitable for those who contemplate starting housekeeping to look over Onstad's large stock of stoves and ranges which he received last week.

Monday was quite a busy day for the wheat buyers as the roads were getting into fair shape, but then Monday night it rained quite heavy which will stop wheat hauling a couple of days again.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Sortedahl, of Kenyon, the parents of Mrs. Nils Muus and Mrs. O. C. Keen, Mrs. Muus' sister, and her husband, of Grandin Station, N. D., are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Muus.

EUCLID.

Mrs. H. C. Misner is reported quite ill.

Charlie Pitkin who has attended the University at Minneapolis for the past year, returned Saturday morning.

Miss Edith Currie returned from St. Mary's school at Faribault Minn., where she has attended for the past nine months.

Miss Lettie Keenan who has been sewing for Mrs. Chapin for the past two weeks returned to her home at Warren this morning.

The strawberry and ice cream sociable given here last Friday night was not very well attended owing to the wet weather.

Notice For Bids.

Bids for building a wooden bridge across the Hunnelsbach creek, in the town of Fairfax, will be received up to one o'clock p. m. Friday, June 2, at which time the town board will be at the town clerk's office at the residence of John Amundson, for the purpose of opening said bids. Plans and specifications can be seen by calling at the residence of the undersigned in the town of Fairfax. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A. O. DANIELS,
Chairman of Board.

6-10

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk, ss.

The State of Minnesota, to T. H. Crittendon, Defendent:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said county, on the 10th day of July, 1899, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the City of Crookston in said county, to answer to Otto Burkhardt in a civil action, to his damage one hundred dollars or under. Should you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Otto Burkhardt for such sum as he shall show himself entitled to.

Given under my hand this 2nd day of June, 1899.

G. H. Holt,
Justice of the Peace.

6-12

Final Proof.

Land office at Crookston, Minn.
May, 1st, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver, U. S. land office at Crookston, Minnesota, on June 10th, 1899, viz:

JOHN P. BAKKEN,

H. E. No. 17,987 for the lot 2 and sw¼ ne¼, w½ se¼, section 2, township 149 n, range 44 w.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Otto H. Camp, Herman Camp, Charles Aehler, John T. Farden, all of Dugdale, Minnesota.

SYLVESTER PETERSON,
Register

4-9

Preserves

—fruits, jellies, pickles or catsup are more easily, more quickly, more healthfully sealed with Refined Paraffine Wax than by any other method. Dozens of other uses will be found for in every household. It is clean,—tasteless and odorless—air, water and acid proof. Get a pound cake of it with a list of its many uses from your druggist or grocer. Sold everywhere. Made by STANDARD OIL CO.

Refined Paraffine Wax

Final Proof.

Land office at Crookston, Minn.
May 8th 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on June 17th, 1899, viz.

ZOTI CAPISTRANS,

H. E. 14552 for the se¼, sec. 8, township 150, north of range 47 w.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz:

Joseph Capistrans, Fred Wagner, Adolph Klinger, Mederie Laplante, all of Crookston, Minn.

SYLVESTER PETERSON,
Register

5-11

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk.—ss.

In Probate Court, Special term May 26, 1899.

In the matter of the estate of George Easley, deceased:

Letters testamentary on the estate of George Easbey, deceased, late of the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, being granted to H. C Misner,

It is ordered, That six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to file the same in the Probate Court of said county, for examination and allowance or be forever barred.

It is further ordered, That the first day of December, 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m. at a special term of said Probate Court to be held at the Probate office in the City of Crookston in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, That notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by forthwith publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the Polk County Journal, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.

Dated Crookston Minn this 26th day of May A. D 1899.

By the Court,
OLE E. HAGEN,
Judge of Probate.

A. A. MILLER,
Attorney for Estate
Crookston, Minn.

5-11

Mortgage Sale.

First publication May 4th 1899.
Last publication, June 15th, 1899.

Notice of mortgage foreclosure by advertisement.

Default has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage, containing power of sale, dated the fifth day of July, 1892, filed in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, Minnesota, on the 13th day of July, 1892, at 10:40 o'clock a. m., and recorded in Book "51" of mortgages on page 236, whereby Edward Leo, a widower, mortgagor, mortgaged to The American Freehold-land Mortgage Company of London (Limited) of London, England, mortgagee, the certain tracts or parcels of real estate, situated in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:

The east half of the northeast quarter (e½ of the ne¼) and the east half of the southeast quarter (e½ of the se¼), of section thirteen (13), township one hundred forty-eight (148), range forty-three (43), containing one hundred sixty (160) acres, more or less, according to the United States Government Survey thereof, together with the appurtenances thereunto belonging, by which default said power of sale has become operative;

And no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured thereby, or any part of the same, and there is now due and claimed to be due on said mortgage and said debt the sum of four hundred and thirty-two hundredths (400.32) dollars;

Now, Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale and the statute said mortgage will be foreclosed and said premises sold at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, by the sheriff of said Polk County, or his deputy, on Saturday, the 17th day of June, 1899,

at the front door of the court house, in the City of Crookston, in said Polk County, Minnesota, to pay said debt, with interest, taxes (if any), twenty-five (25) dollars attorney's fees, and the cost and disbursements allowed by law.

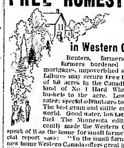
Dated, St. Cloud, Minn., April 25th, 1899.

THE AMERICAN FREEHOLD-LAND MORTGAGE COMPANY OF LONDON (Limited) of London, England.
Mortgagee.

GEO H. REYNOLDS,
Attorney for Mortgagee,
St. Cloud, Minn.

4-11

FREE HOMESTEADS



in Western Canada.

Renters, farmers' sons and farmers burdened with taxes, mortgages, impoverished soil and crop failures may secure free homesteads of 160 acres in the Canadian West, the land of No 1 Hard Wheat, 25 to 35 bushels to the acre. Lowest railroad rates: special advantages to prospectors. The best grain and cattle country in the world. Good water, low taxes, abundant fuel. The Minnesota editors, who recently made the Western Canada trip, speak of it as the home for small farmers. The official report says: "To the small farmer seeking a new home Western Canada offers great inducements. While it seems a long way north the Canadian Pacific Railway line is far south of Edinburgh, the climate is that of Northern Minnesota, and the land raises splendid and sure crops."

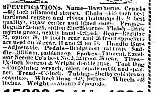
For maps and full information apply to Supt. Immigration, Ottawa, Canada or to

BENJAMIN DAVIES,
Canadian Government agent,
154 E. 3rd St., St. Paul, Minn.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

N. Campbell, Crookston Minn.
P. Johnson, Fosston, Minn.
W. V. Nugent, Villano, Minn., local agents.

HIGH-GRADE HAWTHORNE $22.50 NET.



SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne. Cranks—6½ inch (diamond shape). Chain—⅛ inch best hardened centers and rivets (Indianapolis best quality), straw center and blued sides. Frame—Regular 24-inch, option 22 or 26 inches. Finish—Dark myrtle green, neatly hand striped. Gear—Regular 72, option 78, 10 tooth rear and 26 front sprockets are used on 72 gear, 10 and 28 on 78. Handle Bars—Adjustable. Pedals—Bridgeport rat trap. Saddle—Gilliam, padded top. Spokes—Tangent, Excelsior Needle Co's best No. 2, 32 front, 36 rear. Tires—1½-inch Morgan & Wright double tube. Tool Bag—Containing wrench, oiler, repair outfit and spanner. Tread—5-inch. Tubing—Shelby cold drawn seamless. Wheel Base—43 inches. Wheels—28 inches. Weight—(About) 23 pounds.

15000 Sold in 1898

It's as good as any wheel made. All modern improvements. Guaranteed for one year. If not found as represented, return at our expense both ways, and you can have your money back on demand

ASK US TO SEND YOU OUR FREE BICYCLE CATALOG

Send 15 cents for our 1,600 page catalogue. It lists everything used by mankind.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

Shakopee has several cases of diphtheria.

The village of Mabel has a telephone system.

The United States court has opened a term at Winona.

The Moorhead normal graduating class this year numbered 48.

Hamlina and Macalester college commencements occur this week.

State capitol contractors say the walls will be completed this summer.

Maccabees are holding their annual convention at Duluth this week.

The pure food department has begun prosecutions under the last law.

Ellsworth Benham, the well known Duluth attorney, is mysteriously missing.

O. H. Andrews, gunsmith and dealer in sporting goods, Mankato, has assigned.

The Merchants bank of Red Lake Falls has been formally authorized to commence business.

The Anderson tax law has been affirmed in Jackson county in the St. Paul and Sioux City case.

Minneapolis has a case of smallpox, a child of Fire Chief Haney having been taken with the disease.

The state bid in the assets of the State Bank of Minneapolis, nominal value $317,000, for $8,850.

The state prison population has increased considerably during the past month, now aggregating 638.

Dan F. Carmichael of St. Paul has broken the century road record for Minnesota. Time, 5 hours 46 minutes.

The Minnesota congressional delegation has decided to vote solidly for Hon. D. B. Henderson of Iowa as Reed's successor.

The steeple of the Methodist church at Spring Valley was struck by lightning causing several hundred dollars' damage.

The state asylum board visited Hastings the latter part of the week and staked out the ground for the new cottage hospital.

Trafford N. Jayne, the missing Minneapolis attorney, has returned and promises to straighten out his affairs. He denies the stories of a shortage.

The graduating class at the Minnesota state university this year numbered 330. Commencement exercises were held at the university armory on Thursday.

Governor Lind has received a cablegram from Major Bean at Manila stating that the Thirteenth regiment is guarding the railroad from Caloocan to Guiguito.

George Irish, St. Paul, has been appointed appraiser of Indian lands under the Dawes commission, subject to the approval of the secretary of the interior. The position pays $1,200 and expenses.

F. Williams, a commission dealer at Pine Island, is missing. It is stated that he owes country merchants from $20,000 to $30,000. A warrant is out and the police are requested to watch for him.

The Winona city council is seriously considering the purchase of the historic Sugar Loaf Bluff from John O'Den, the reinse stone, of which there is many thousand loads, to be used in macadamizing streets.

An explosion of dynamite occurred at the new grade on the Omaha railroad near East Henderson, and several men were injured. Martin Swanson, the foreman, received serious injuries about the breast and arms.

The next Minnesota conference of charities and corrections will be held at Duluth Sept. 6, 7 and 8. The attendance is expected to be large on account of the season of the year, and the attractions offered at the head of the lakes.

Society ladies of Morris gave a ladies' minstrel performance for the benefit of Company E, Third regiment, N. G. S. M. It was a genuine old style burnt cork outfit and was carried out in fine shape, a large amount being realized for the company.

An order has been issued establishing a postoffice three and a half miles from Proctor Knott, St. Louis county, to be known as Adolphi, P. A. Berlin, postmaster; also Netus, Hubbard county, with Nellie Johnson postmistress, and at Visa, Otter Tail county, with Albert A. Woods, postmaster.

The 15½-year-old son of C. C. Fowler, living four miles west of Donnelly, was assailed by a big Plymouth Rock rooster, which punctured the boy's scalp twice with his spurs and then left one of them imbedded in the skull in the back part of the head. The injuries are serious but not necessarily fatal.

At the Springfield, Ills., Memorial day exercises Mrs. Julia E. F. Lobdell of Minneapolis, past department president of the Ladies of the G. A. R. of Minnesota, on behalf of the G. A. R. posts of Minnesota, presented a beautiful silken United States flag which will in the future envelop the sarcophagus of Lincoln.

The Winona Herald says a meeting of the American Malting company has been held at New York to effect the purchase of the extensive barley business of the H. J. O'Neill Grain company in Southern Minnesota, with headquarters in that city, and that the price to be paid is $200,000, the malting company soon to establish a malting house in Winona. A later telegram confirms the deal.

Sioux City Property Ordered Sold.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., June 2.—Judge Shiras of the United States district court has ordered the Sioux City Terminal Railway and Warehouse company's property sold to satisfy $1,500,000 bonds and interest held by the Trust Company of North America. He appointed Judge Warwick Hough of St. Louis special master in chancery to make the sale.

AN AMERICAN IDEA.

Uncle Sam's Delegates to the Peace Conference Submit Their Scheme.

THE HAGUE, June 1.—Both sections of the disarmament committee of the peace conference met during the day and, as was anticipated, failed to agree with regard to the questions of new inventions in armaments. The drafting committee of the arbitration committee made some advance. The American delegates submitted their scheme relating to an arbitration tribunal. The plan differs from the British proposal. It provides that each country shall appoint a single arbitrator to be selected by the supreme courts of the signatory powers. The tribunal shall have a permanent central seat and be composed of at least three judges, who shall not be natives or residents of countries belonging to the powers in discord.

Apart from the above project the Americans proposed a special scheme of mediation, providing that in the event of a difference arising between two powers each shall choose another power to act as its second. The powers thus selected shall do all they can to reconcile the opponents. These seconding powers shall, even when war has broken out, continue their efforts with a view of ending hostilities as soon as possible.

SCHEME OF MEDIATION.

Arbitration Committee Hears the First Reading of the Plan.

THE HAGUE, June 6.—The arbitration committee of the peace conference held a meeting under the chairmanship of M. Leon Bourgeois. Mr. Andrew D. White, head of the United States delegation; Sir Julian Pauncefote, head of the British delegation, and M. de Staal, head of the Russian delegation, with all the members of the committee, were present. The secretary of the drafting committee read the draft of the scheme of mediation it had had under consideration and it was adopted without modification, although the committee stipulated that it should be subject to modifications at the second reading.

The naval section of the armament committee has unanimously rejected the Russian proposals.

CAUSED GREAT SURPRISE.

Statement of Sir Wilfrid Laurier Is News to Washington Officials.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The statement made in the Canadian house by the premier to the effect that the Canadian government has proposed to the Americans to establish a customshouse on the Dalton trail and regard it as marking the provisional boundary there causes great surprise here, the officials asserting that this is the first that they have heard of any such proposition.

LATE MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, June 7.

WHEAT—Cash, No 1 hard, 77½c; No. 1 Northern 74½c; No 2 Northern 72½c; No. 3 .815c. To Arrive—No. 1 hard, 77½c; No 1 Northern, 75½c, July, 76½c; September, 74½c.

Minneapolis Wheat.

MINN APOLIS, June 7.

WHEAT—In Store—No. 1 Northern, June, 74½c; July 72½c; September 74½@75½c. On Track—No. 1 Northern, 74½c; No. 2 Northern, 71½c.

Sioux City Live Stock.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., June 7.

HOGS—Market 5@10c higher. Range of prices, $3.60@3.70

CATTLE—Market steady.

Sales ranged at $4.00@5.00 for beeves; $2.50@4.50 for cows, bulls and mixed; $4.00@4.50 for stockers and feeders; $4.00@5.50 for calves and yearlings.

Receipts: Cattle, 800; hogs, 9,000.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, June 7

HOGS—Market 5@10c lower. Range of prices, $3.62½@3.67½.

CATTLE—Market steady and active. Sales ranged at $4.60@4.90 for cows, $3.90@5.25 for stockers; $4.00@5.75 for calves; $4.00@5.75 for steers.

SHEEP—Market dull.

Sales ranged at $4.00@4.50 for wooled sheep; $5.00 for spring lambs

Receipts: Hogs, 4,000; calves, 400; cattle, 600, sheep, 200.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, June 7.

HOGS—Market active, strong.

Sales ranged at $3.70 @ 3.90 for mixed and butchers; $3.80@3.90 for heavy; $3.55@3.65 for rough heavy; $3.70 @3.90 for light.

CATTLE—Market dull.

Sales ranged at $4.30@5.00 for beeves; $3.00@4.00 for cows and heifers; $4.00@ 4.85 for Texas steers; $3.50@4.70 for stockers and feeders.

SHEEP—Market weak.

Sales ranged at $5.00@6.00 for sheep, $6.00@7.00 for lambs.

Receipts: Hogs, 35,000, cattle, 2,000; sheep, 8,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, June 7.

WHEAT—July, 73c. September, 76c, December 75c.

CORN—July, 33½@33¾c; September, 34c; December, 33¾@34c.

OATS—June, 28c; July, 25½c, December, 26½c.

PORK, June, 8.15; July, $8.22½; September, $8.40.

POULTRY—Dressed, turkeys, 10c; chickens, 6½@8c; ducks, 6@8c.

BUTTER—Creameries, 14½@18c; dairies, 9@18c.

EGGS—Fresh, 12c.

Crookston Market.

The following is the price of wheat quoted in the local market this morning:

No. 1 hard.....64c
No. 1 northern.....63c
No. 2 northern.....59c

One Fare for the Round Trip

to Cleveland, O. via. Nickel Plate Road, on June 20th and 20th, with return limit of June 29th, 1899. Three through trains daily. Chicago depot, Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave. on Elevated Loop. For further information, write General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

Deaths.

MUNN

On Thursday, June 1, Neil Munn died of heart disease in Crookston at the home of Wm. Welsh. He was buried on Saturday, June 3, at Oakdale cemetery. Rev. F. W. Fraser having charge of the services. The deceased was born in the Island of Calonsay, Argyleshire, Scotland in 1847. The same year his parents emigrated to Canada. Here, while Neil was a mere boy, his father died and a little later his only brother, so that while he was yet in his teens he became the main stay of his mother and two sisters. The two sisters are now married and together with their mother lived in the village of Priceville, Ontario, Canada. His only relatives in this country are Donald and Neil Blue, cousins of his, who live in Grand Forks.

Drowned at Bemidji.

On Monday last at Bemidji E. Gordon lost his life by drowning in the lake. Mr. Gordon, with Miss Riley and some others were up from Benidji, and were taking a ride on the lake, and the boat in which the two first mentioned were was capsized at some distance from the shore. By hard swimming Mr. Gordon managed to bring both himself and the young lady to within a short distance from shore, where the water was only three or four feet deep. There his strength gave out and though Miss Riley tried to keep his head above water till help arrived her efforts were in vain and the young man was dead ere aid reached him.

An Evening With Pictures and Flowers.

About twenty-five of Crookston's society young people were entertained last Thursday evening at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hitchcock in Miss Ethel D. Chandler, in honor of her sister, Miss Edna Chandler, of Minneapolis, who is visiting here. Miss Ethel Chandler who handles the pencil in a very clever manner had sketched many interesting scenes and each guest when he arrived was given half of a drawing with instructions to find the other half. Later in the evening each one present drew for a black horse and a representation of a song or of some object. Miss Mc-Kercher gained the first prize a beautiful medallion, by representing "Three Blind Mice" thus M-CE M-CE M-CE. Dainty refreshments were served, partners being found by matching bouquets of flowers. Music followed and about midnight the company dispersed feeling that they had had spent a most delightful evening.

The New Land of Gold.

Yes, Idaho's turn has come at last. For years she has lain dormant waiting, waiting. The turn has been called, "the clock has struck," the change has come.

The extension of the Northern Pacific's Spokane-Palouse branch to Lewiston, and the further extensions, the present season, from Lewiston up Lapwai Creek and up the Clearwater River into the heart of the old Nez Perce reservation are working wonders. And along with this era of railway expansion, comes the wonderful discovery of gold in the Buffalo Hump country, down where forty years ago the miner stakes yielded $1,000,000,000, so the authorities tell us, now are discovered the most stupendous quartz ledges ever known. Between Florence and Elk City, Grangeville and the Salmon River, the probabilities are that Klondike will be outdone.

Then too, the farmer and ranchman has his chance. Between Lewiston and the Hump lies a fruit and grain region famous around Idaho. The Cold Springs and Camas Prairie lands can't be beat. As a fruit and grain country this region beats California, and now that new mining camps furnish good and nearby markets and transportation facilities are so much improved, he farmer will find these acres to be as rich mines of gold to him as the quartz ledges are to the miner. So everybody has a chance here, to make a good turn. Send three cents to Chas. S. Fee, St. Paul, Minn., or to any General or District Passenger Agent of the Northern Pacific Railway for the new Buffalo Hump folder. It describes all this region. It has a large and up-to-date map in colors.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

STATE FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

WILL BE HELD AT

CROOKSTON,

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY

June 20, 21, '99

Farmers' Institute Work

In Minnesota has become a permanent institution in the improvement of Farm Work, Breeding and Care of Stock, Dairying, Horticulture, etc. The best instructors to be found were secured for this Summer circuit, and we are sure this Institute will be as successful as any ever held in the state. Come early, as the first hour will be as rich in instruction as any other during the meeting.

Remember this is State Work

All Free
No Charges
No Collections

GIVEN AWAY.

FORENOON SESSION ONLY

Every farmer who attends the forenoon session of this Institute can get a very valuable book of over 350 pages, estimated to be worth from $5.00 to $25.00, Free. This Book is made by practical workers, and can be relied upon. It is the Institute Annual, and is better than ever before, but is not for sale at the book stores- Tell all your neighbors.

You Can't Affod to Miss This.

A day spent in attendance at a Farmers Institute may result in the adoption of methods, the value of which cannot be estimated.

Polk County Journal,

BY N. S. GORDON.

$1.00 Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

Official Paper of the City of Crookston.

THE Melutosh Tribune has outgrown its diminutive size and last week appeared in a seven-column form. The new editor is a hustler and already in the editorial and news columns of the paper much improvement is apparent.

AGUINALDO and the Philippine insurgents attacked the American forces in the Philippine Islands, ordered that on a certain day all of Uncle Sam's citizens there should be massacred and yet our populist friends severely censure McKinley because he did not let the slaughter go on.

PRIZE fights are brutal and cannot but exert a deteriorating effect upon the community in which they take place. That a prize fight actually occurred in this vicinity, as is acknowledged by the fact that the two principals have paid fines, adds nothing to our standing and reputation in the state at large, and that it should have occurred on Sunday is still more of a disgrace.

THE city of Crookston has an ordinance forbidding bicycle riding on the sidewalks. While we shall not now discuss the merits or demerits of the law, we should like to ask whether or not this ordinance exempts any individuals? Arrests have already been made and fines imposed for the violation of this law and rightly, but why are some, who do ride on the sidewalks, even right on some of the business streets, allowed to go Scott free? Does one need to have a pull in order not to get pulled?

IT is evident that the lists of the Cuban army that were furnished the American authorities were padded by the officers as the latter thought that they themselves would distribute the money which the United States proposed to give to the Cuban soldiers. Considering what this nation has done for Cuba such action on the part of the Cuban officers was most ungrateful. Still it must be remembered that their training has all been Spanish, hence they cannot be expected to have very high standards of conduct.

AT the republican state convention in Ohio last week held to nominate candidates for state offices harmony apparently prevailed, notwithstanding the known enmity between Foraker and Hanna. These two gentlemen were appointed to escort to the convention hall the nominee for Governor Judge Nash. This is a good omen and may be taken as evidence that factional fights are not going to disturb the peace and harmony of the republican party, during the campaign of this year and next.

THE French people have redeemed themselves. They have taken the first steps to right a very great wrong. The court of Cassation at Paris has decided for a revision of the Dreyfus case and has ordered a new court-martial. It seems very evident that Dreyfus was the victim of a base conspiracy on the part of officers in the French army. Emile Zola who a short time ago had to flee from Paris for his life now returned in triumph. The victory of the Dreyfusites is really a victory for the republic.

SENATOR HANSBROUGH had a long conference with the President recently regarding the northwest trip. He strongly urged the President to visit Duluth after a view of the troops in the Twin Cities, and go thence across the state to Grand Forks and Fargo. The President listened with interest, but would not promise. He said all he had decided to do was to visit the Twin Cities.—Minneapolis Journal. If President McKinley comes to Duluth and journeys west from there it ought to see the Duluth line and then Crookston would be one of the points visited.

R. A. LEE, manager of the Minnesota State University base ball team recently allowed that team to play a game of base ball on Sunday. Mr. Lee was a member of the Senior class and had completed all the work necessary for graduation, but in consequence of the action mentioned above he was not allowed to graduate with his class, nor is he likely to receive his diploma till next September. We heartily endorse this action of the faculty. The State University stands as the embodiment of certain great principles and the violators of those principles ought to suffer. Students are thus given to understand that something besides high marks in studies is needed before a diploma will be given. No parent sending his boy or girl to the University need fear but that the moral influence there will always be uplifting.

"WE profess to be the most advanced of Christian nations and also the best of marksmen! Does the spirit of Christ, then, make for the straightest shooting, when men are the targets?" The above is one of many such flings which may be found scattered through the pages of the Farm, Stock and Home and their influence is all the more baneful because right along side these pessimistic may be found good sound advice on farming, so that the reader is readily led to believe that the Farm Stock and Home's political spirit is the spirit that should dominate the farmer. No wonder that many of our agriculturalists are populists, when, in order to gain more knowledge on farm matters, they have at least to glance over such covert attacks on our government. We are of the opinion that the sooner the farmers cease to permit themselves to be fed upon such food the better.

Notes From Exchanges.

Anoka Union: Should that popular personage and shrewd politician, Tom Shevlin of Minneapolis, decide that he wants to go to congress from the fifth district, your Uncle Loren would have an opportunity worthy of his steel. Tom knows no such word as fail.

Alexandria Post News: As was surmised by the Post News, the Great Northern does not intend to quibble over the McNeil stock shippers law but will accept its plain intent, and shippers will be returned to the point of shipment free.

Fertile Journal: The crop outlook in this vicinity was never better at this season of the year. The cold weather of the past few weeks has given the grain no opportunity to take substantial root, while the refreshing showers and fairly warm weather of this week are bringing it forward at a tremendous rate.

Aitkin Age: The Carlton Vidette says the silver forces are going to win in 1900 "as sure as God made little red apples." You've got another guess coming, Bro. Anderson, for God makes the little apples green, you know, and they blush for the likes of "you fellows" till they get very, very red.

Hutchinson Times: The fellows who think they are getting off a good thing in booming "Old" Pease of the Anoka Union for the republican gubernatorial nomination might look at the matter seriously and make no mistake in concluding that ye uncle Grandville would make a better governor than Jung Lind. How's that for a bouquet, Anoky?

Thirteen Towns: The Crookston College, a monthly issued by the institution of the same name, has been started by its proprietors, Mahn & Sathre, and bids fair to gain an extensive patronage. It represents an institution that has secured a prestige in Northern Minnesota, and also general educational interests in this section of the country and is an excellent magazine.

Warren Sheaf: The board of commissioners has taken the preliminary steps towards the erection of a new court house and jail. In as much as the county is in good shape financially and has the necessary funds already on hand, the step, we believe, is a wise one and will meet the approval of the majority of the people of the county. Thus a large and prosperous county like this needs a better court house, where important records and documents can be kept safe and secure, is admitted on all sides.

Grand Forks Courier: Minnesota and North Dakota people should raise their voices in thanksgiving that these states have not suffered from the tornadoes and rain and hail storms that have devastated many sections in surrounding states. The loss of farm property and destruction of crops has been enormous—and worst of all, death has followed in the wake of the storm and broken many a family circle.

The Farmer: It is not too early to say, positively, that the farmer who misses the State Fair of 1899 will miss the most instructive and most entertaining fair ever held in the Northwest. The two cities have this year left the entertainment of visitors for the entire week in the managers of the fair, and it has been determined to put on a great entertainment for every night of fair week. Plan to take a few holidays in September and attend the fair.

Duluth News Tribune: The postal business throughout the country is so heavy, that, as has just been announced from Washington, the number of offices in which the salaries of postmasters will be increased because of increased receipts is greater than at any previous time in the history of the government. Probably "there is no better indication of the improved industrial and commercial conditions of the country than that afforded by this activity in mail communication.

Norman Co. Herald: Hourfarmers continue to improve their farming methods the next five years as they have done during the five years passed no uneasiness need be left about the all wheat industry and its attendant evils. As one of our best farmers said to us last fall, the noxious weeds are not so bad after all. They compel the farmers to diversify. There are other good reasons for diversifying but the noxious weeds have opened the eyes of a good many.

Little Falls Transcript: The newspaper that is a consistent supporter of Bryan has a very plain duty in certain directions. It must not rejoice over the success of American arms in the Philippines, nor express satisfaction at the increase of wages or the enlargement of business in the United States. Success abroad and prosperity at home are indentified with the national administration, but a political campaign is coming sometime, and the popocrats are feeling rather blue—politically.

FROM THE FIRING LINE.

George Tausan, of Angus, Writes of Army Life in Philippines.

Dr. G. S. Watton, of this city, says the Warren Sheaf, has received a letter from Geo. W. Tausan, of Angus, a corporal in Co. M. 3rd, U. S. Inf., now on duty in the Philippines, from which we are at liberty to quote the following extract:

[Mr. Tausan took part in the Santiago campaign and he left for the Philippines on the 30th of January.]

"We arrived in Manila March 22d, but were not landed before late in the evening of March 23rd, striking camp in the residence part of the city. In the afternoon of Friday, March 24, we, that is four companies, left Manila for this place. Caloocan this being then out as far as the American lines. Saturday morning, March 25th, my company, Co. M. also G, F & E, were camping close to the Caloocan church and started out that morning as reserve, the 2nd Oregon being in the trenches and advancing on the Philippines. We had to make a charge for about one mile and then take firing line. Here we lost three killed and nine wounded—a very heavy loss. After holding firing line for about one hour, staying in the hot sun with no shade, we got up and made a charge against very strong trenches, chased the "niggers," as they are generally called, back, and holding their trenches, still breaking our way to the front. Gen. Wheaton, in charge of our brigade, sent his compliments to our batallion, to say, in his own words: "You crushed the enemy and killed many." On our way we could see many killed. From now we had it a little hard, sleeping out without blankets or anything over us, and many times only having one meal a day, still pushing forward, our destination being the insurgent Malolos. This city was taken March 31. The next day we were sent back to this place, where we have been and are doing out post duty. After what I can find out today we have orders to move to-morrow, the 20th, further to the front so we will again most likely be on the firing line in a few days, and then push right along to the northern part of the island, taking and holding the only railroad that is in the Philippine Islands."

Yours Truly,

GEO. N. TAUSAN, Jr.

[Mr. Tausan is well known in Crookston having formerly been night clerk at the Commercial Hotel.—Ed. POLK COUNTY JOURNAL.]

Literary Notes.

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW.

The great questions which are making the history of our time so intensely interesting have never had, in a single issue of any periodical, more striking and more able presentation than they receive in the June number of the North American Review. Whether the authority which the names of the authors carry with them, or the manner of treatment be considered, the list of articles is perhaps the most remarkable ever brought together in one number of the Review. On questions vitally affecting the United States there is a masterly treatment of "The Conditions and Prospects of the Treasury," by the Hon. Lyman J. Gage, who, as Secretary of the Treasury, is obviously qualified to deal convincingly with this subject; there is an article by Mr. William J. Bryan on the application of "Jeffersonian Principles" to the current issues of our politics; an exposition by Mr. S. N. D. North of the work of "The Industrial Commission," of which he is a member; and a disquisition by the author of the New York Franchise-Tax Bill, State Senator John Ford, on "The Taxation of Public Franchises."

Odd Fellows Home.

The corner stone of the Odd Fellows home in Northfield, Minn., will be laid on June 16. The two days prior to this event will be the annual session of the Grand Lodge in Minneapolis and elaborate preparations will then be made for the visit to Northfield. At least five thousand members of the order will go down from Minneapolis and almost as many from the capital city. In all probability the address of the day will be made by Hon. A. S. Pinkerton, Grand Sire, of Worchester, Mass.

Dr. A. A. Just will represent the Crookston lodge at the Grand

RINGLING BROS.' GREAT SHOW.

This Stupendous Amusement Institution Shortly to be Here.

The appearance of Ringling Brothers' famous World's Greatest Shows in Crookston Wednesday July 5, will be the biggest amusement event of the season. Ringling Brothers' circus is the leading scenic institution in the world, and a visit from this great show is equivalent to bringing an international exposition to the doors of the people. Since last season the show has been tremendously enlarged in every department, while the discriminating work of the show's army of foreign agents is evidenced by the assembling of the most remarkable company of high-salaried, sensational artists ever seen with an aerial exhibition. Among the world-famous specialists are the wonderful Fisher family, the greatest of all great middle air evolutionists: Mlle Turnour, the peerless equilibrist, and Alvo, Boiss and Pickard, emperors of the aerial bars. The marvelous DaCosma head the company of unequalled acrobats. Mme. Ada Castello and her wonderfully trained lions, Jupiter, are striking features in the international display of high-class horses. In the riding section, which is remarkable for the large number of equestrians of world-wide fame, Albert Crandall reaches the limit of novelty by a burlesque riding act upon a mule. The clowns are numerous, and what is better, they are funny. The trained animal portion of the program is a complete show itself. Lockhart's elephant comedians, a company of animal actors, which present the most laughable plays and farces with the intelligence of human players create a sensation everywhere. Herr Sonder's elephant brass band is equally remarkable. Marchand's pugilistic elephants are also wonderful in their way. Sunlin's performing bull is an illustration of what can be done with the unusually intractable domestic animal. As an instance of trained animal intelligence, however, even the elephant comedians are surpassed by the intellectual qualities displayed by O'Brien's equescurrian column, a great company of sixty-one beautiful horses, which pose, pirouette, form living equine pictures, climb unassisted to lofty pyramids and perform many other astonishing movements, all without the narrow area of a single ring, and all in unison, under the direction of one man. The introductory spectacle, "The Last Days of the Century," is a beautiful patriotic divertisement, the hippodrome races are as thrillingly contested as were the sensational events of the ancient Roman arena, the menagerie is a superb collection of rare wild animals, and the parade which ushers in circus day is the most magnificent spectacle ever seen upon the streets of any city in the world.

Weddings.

VANCHORWICK

At the Norwegian M. E. church on Thursday evening, June 1, at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Hanson, Mr. Ole Vang to Miss Rosie Horviet. After the ceremony the bride and groom were tendered a reception at the Scandia Hotel by Landlord and Mrs. Wesserheim. A wedding feast was prepared and quite a number of the friends and relatives partook of the refreshments. Mr. Vang is one of the successful young business men of the city and the bride has lived here during the last three years, her former home being in Fertile. The JOURNAL extends the best wishes to the bride and groom.

CURRYS CAMERON

On Wednesday, May 31 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cameron, in Fosston, Mr. John Curnyn to Miss Laura May Cameron, Rev. P. W. Fraser of Crookston officiating. Both the bride and groom are well-known in Fosston and have a large circle of friends. Mr. Curnyn is one of the business men of that town.

DAMPIER-FORTIER

On Monday afternoon at four o'clock in the parlors of Mrs. Fortier in the Fosser block, Miss Emma Rose Fortier to Dr. Charles Edward Dampier. Father Murphy performed the ceremony in the presence of a few of the intimate friends of the bride and groom. Misses Olive Fortier and Nellie Mallen and J. P. Foote and S. A. Wallace stood up with the bridal couple. Dr. and Mrs. Dampier left the same evening for Chicago and other points to the south. They will return in about five weeks and will be at home after July 15. The JOURNAL extends to them its best wishes.

Serious Results Were Feared.

"My son had swelling of one of the glands in his neck. I feared it would prove very serious and began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. After he had taken two bottles he was cured. My wife takes Hood's Sarsaparilla every spring as a blood purifier." Alex. Laviolette, Box 8, Rhinelander, Wisconsin.

Hood's Pills give strength even while their cathartic qualities are at work. Easy to take.

Elsewhere.

An anti-screen saloon ordinance has been passed by the city council of Fergus Falls, but the mayor's veto will intervene so as to allow liquor to continue to be sold far from the gaze of the public.

Mrs. Stanford, widow of the senator from California who built and endowed the university bearing his name has just deeded the bulk of her stocks and real estate, valued at $10,000,000 to the university.

Red Lake Falls will probably purchase a fire engine, two hose carts with 1,500 feet of hose and a heater. Cisterns will be built in various places throughout the city and when filled will supply sufficient water for use at fires.

One of the features of the shoot at Grand Forks will be a snipe shoot. In this the blue rocks are sent on their way without notice, the shooter, the while walking to and fro, expectant and waiting. There will be several other things that will be drawing cards.

The news comes from Washington that it is discovered that all the green pine out on the Leech Lake Indian reservation was cut by Indians, who were clearing up lands for farms. That is about the best explanation yet offered. The theory that white loggers were responsible was quickly disposed of.

Cattlemen say that immense numbers of cattle are being shipped into North Dakota at Portal, from the Canadian northwest to restock the North Dakota ranges. Notwithstanding the fact that all the available cattle in the Red River valley have been bought by western stock men, and that there has been a steady importation from Canada for the last two years, there is still a demand for more.

President McKinley has issued amendments to the civil service rules which have been under consideration about one year. It releases from the operations of civil service about four thousand offices, among them being such places as the following: Pension examining surgeons, Indians employed in the Indian service, not connected with Indian school service; and many places in the engineer department at large; quartermaster, subsistence and ordinance departments at large.

Dewey left Washington in November, 1897, a plain commodore, to take command of the fleet in the Pacific, and paid his fare on the railroads all the way across the continent, the lines over which he traveled being the Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. The passenger people of the B. & O. have succeeded in gathering up all of the coupons of the Dewey tickets bearing his signature, and they are to be lithographed and issued as a B. & O. souvenir.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Makes the food more delicious and wholesome

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

THE OLD RELIABLE

St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co.

Total Assets, $2,523,067.79

34 YEARS In Business.

The only Old Line Company Doing a HAIL INSURANCE BUSINESS.

There are no Assessments. Premiums are paid just as in cases of Fire Insurance. Losses Promptly Adjusted.

Messrs. Mann & Webster, Crookston, Minn.

Gents:—I cannot refrain from telling you that I had insurance last year for hail in the St. Paul Fire & Marine and that I suffered a loss which was very promptly paid by the company to my entire satisfaction.

I have again taken insurance on my crop for this year and believe that the St. Paul is a good strong, safe and fair company to transact business with it, and that all farmers wanting hail insurance would do well in calling on you before going elsewhere, and they will have no cause to regret their action.

Respectfully, FRANK SUTTER.

Represented by MARIN & WEBSTER,

Next door to Post Office.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings

When laying out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.

Call us up before letting your Contract.

We shall be pleased to give on the benefit of our experience in laing out wiring plans.

It Will Cost You Nothing

to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.

Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring

We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.

Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.

Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Items of Local Interest—Persons Mention—Society Doings, Etc.

—Miss Woodall is visiting at the Keystone farm.

—Mrs. Forster has taken rooms in the Fournet block.

—A Full line of Stationery at Andersen's Drug Store.

—L. H. Bulley, of Bemidji, was a Crookston visitor last Thursday.

—J. D. McPhee was up from his large Lockhart farm last Friday.

—Cashier Ellington made a business trip to Erskine and Mentor last Friday.

—E. A. Nelson, editor of the Hatlock News, was a Crookston visitor Friday.

—C. U. Webster, of Fisher, found it necessary to visit Crookston last Thursday.

—Louis Lohn, cashier of the Fosston bank, spent last Thursday night in the city.

—Sherlin-Carpenter Lumber Company recently bought $10,000 worth of pine lands.

—Fred Hall has been making Crookston his headquarters during the past few days.

—James Dewar, of Hommond, transacted business at the county seat last Thursday.

—C. N. Lindell has been trimming the line shade trees in front of his home on Ash street.

—H. L. Melgaard, the banker from Argyle, made a business trip to Erskine last Friday.

—Miss Hattie Davidson of Keystone, was the guest of Miss Mattie Brown last Saturday and Sunday.

—On Friday Judge Watts and Court Reporter Lohn went to Stephen where a case came up for trial.

—A. Rund, the Fosston druggist, came in on the 4 o'clock train Thursday afternoon, returning Friday morning.

—Paul Sorenson, Anton Lindem and Matt Month, of Fisher, have gone to spend about two months in California.

—Cass Lake and Bemidji are becoming the rendezvous for all those headsmen who like to handle the rod and reel.

—Will Anglin, Frank Waldron and Ed. Netzer, members of class of '99 each received a gold watch at their graduation.

—The indications are at present that many of the towns and villages in this part of the state will celebrate the 4th of July.

—John Bradish, a nephew of Mrs. J. W. Wheeler, has arrived from Springfield Ill. and taken a position in the First National bank of this city.

—Chas. A. Pilkin, who has been one of Dean Pattie's proteges at the University law school during the past year returned north last Saturday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Samson, who have been spending the most winter and spring in the city have moved out on to their farm in Hommond.

—During the month of May there were 122 homestead entries in the U. S. land office, 70 cash entries and 31 final proofs. The total receipts were $3,741.67.

—Attorneys D. H. Fisk and J. A. Hendricks of Fosston, are among the members of the legal fraternity who are at present sojourning at the county seat.

—D. E. Sprague, the lumber King from Winnipeg who has purchased from Sherlin Carpenter Co. 4,000,000 feet of timber, has been in the city for several days.

—The Northern Minnesota Firemen's Association hold their annual tournament at East Grand Forks on June 21 to 23. Special rates will be given on the railway.

—Charley Bang, who has been working in the Northern Pacific express office in Ashland, Wis., has been transferred to St. Paul. He spent last Sunday in Crookston.

—Harry and Ross Chesterman left yesterday for Pilot Mound, Manitoba, with their aunt, Miss Sadie Cram, who has been visiting for several months with her sister, Mrs. G. S. Chesterman. The boys will spend the holidays withthe the Queen's dominions.

—A decision in favor of the plaintiff in the land contestcase of Charles Quittschreiber vs Adolf Zeppe, of Otter Tail county, was recently received in the local U. S. land office from the department of the Interior at Washington. Nat Campbell was Quittschreiber's attorney.

—E. A. Webster, of the firm of Marin & Webster, was at Fisher last Monday looking after collections and seeing about writing hail insurance for the farmers. The roads were so bad, however, that he left his team over there and came back on the train Tuesday morning. His went out again yesterday.

—Old papers for sale at the JOURNAL office at very low rates.

—Bear in mind that A. G. Andersen deals only in pure and reliable goods.

Will Bloom has gone to Cass Lake and Bemidji for an outing of two weeks.

—Father Murphy conducted services at Bemidji and Cass Lake last Sunday.

—M. R. Brown's steamer out east is finished. It will be used in towing logs on Cass Lake.

—Hoch and Vaustrum have put in an elegant new counter in front of their soda Fountain.

—Register Peterson of the United States land office left Saturday for a weeks outing at Bemidji.

—County Surveyor Hamery was recently down at Hendrum examining the Hegre-Hendrum ditch.

—The Creolid Floor Paint sold by Andersen the Druggist is a genuine paint and dries in eight to ten hours.

—It seems to be a favorite pastime for some people over at Grand Forks to kick holes through plate glass windows.

—Albert Halvorson has donned a restaurateur's suit and has been assisting Vaustrum & Hoch in the Wahnsha Cafe.

—A. G. Andersen sells the Heath & Milligan best Paint, the purest and best House Paint on the market. Call and get a color card.

—County Commissioners Brutvold and McCarty after several hard days work at the court house left for their homes out east Saturday morning.

—The JOURNAL has at the office several dozen copies of the Premium list for the Fortieth State Annual Fair which will occur Sept. 4 to 9. Call and get one.

—Miss Clara Bjorge, of the class of '98, came in last Friday morning from her school near Fisher in order to attend the Alumni banquet and Commencement exercises.

—Frank Dulude, the dog catcher, has the paw pads. Several animals have been rounded up and placed in pound. Owners would better see to it that they have licenses.

—Jay Durand is assisting W. P. Snow, the expert accountant, who is looking over the county treasury records with a view to finding out all about the missing county funds.

—Fred. Thos. Camp, of Fisher, was a Crookston visitor last Saturday. After next Monday he will be located here for two months while the Crookston College is in session.

—At the Convocation of the diocese of Duluth held at Duluth last week, Rev. H. M. Green and S. Currie were made members of the ecclesiastical court and Mr. Green was also made a member of the board of missions.

—The fame of Crookston's contractors and carpenters is wide spread. For instance, Tom Harris was called to Red Lake Falls last week to examine into the condition of some of the business blocks there.

—The Lolly Lovers and the high school team had a practice game of base ball last Thursday afternoon. As Fred Lusian was pitching for the former the high school boys did not fare as well as they did with the Ada "Deweys."

—O. E. Erickson, who has had charge of the grocery department at Fountaine & Anglin's entered the employ last Saturday of the Bay Mercantile Company. His place at the department store has been taken by O. G. Peterson, of Minneapolis.

Tuesday morning C. E. Sawyer and family started for their new home in West Superior. A house has already been secured in that city so that they will be able to begin housekeeping at once. The flour mill of which Mr. Sawyer and A. N. Hixon are proprietors has not started to run yet, but it will in a short time.

—Of the prizes given in the Minneapolis Journal Voting Contest Crookston receives three: Miss Woodall will be given a trip to Duluth and all expenses paid, Miss Ruth Richardson gets a $10 fishing rod and reel, and the Central School will receive the Review of Reviews for one year.

—Judge Watts left last Sunday evening for Breckenridge, where he will hold a term of court, going from that town to Glenwood. He will be gone two weeks. Judge Calvin Brown, of the 16th judicial district, the district to which Judge Watts has gone, will preside in this district over certain cases in which Judge was retained before he was elected to the present position. Judge Brown was recently selected as one of the judges of the supreme court, but before entering upon the duties of that office he will serve out his term in the 16th District.

WANTED—Teachers to attend Crookston College Summer School. It is comp. thoroughly practical. Term opens June 12, and continues eight weeks. Address, Crookston College, Crookston Minn. 4-36

—Mrs. A. R. Fuller is attending the Fargo Floral Festival.

—T. S. Berg, of Mc Intosh, was in the city last Saturday night.

—Will Stone, of Minneapolis, is visiting at his home in this city.

—J. C. Hayes and wife of Newville spent last Friday night in the city.

—A full line of Furniture Hard Oil Coach and Varnishes at A. G Andersen and prices to suit.

—The citizens of McIntosh have unanimously decided to hold a good old fashioned Fourth of July.

—Attorney Mosser came over from East Grand Forks Monday to attend court.

—Luther Loucks and family recently arrived from Minneapolis, are occupying rooms on the second floor of the Fortier block.

—A. H. Pitkin and family of Euclid, will hereafter be residents of Crookston. They will occupy one of E. M. Walsh's houses on Ash street.

—The size of that new house that August George is putting up on Ash street is just becoming evident. It will be one of the largest in the city.

—Attorney Harris Richardson, one of the owners of the townsite of Bemidji, was up from St. Paul last Friday conferring with J. W. Wheeler.

—Martin O'Brien left last Saturday night to attend the head Camp of the Modern Woodmen of America at Kansas city. He will be gone about two weeks.

—Dr. Dunlop has bought a piece of land out beyond Bemidji near Turtle River Lake. He will make this his headquarters when he wishes to hunt or fish.

—The White Earth Indians will celebrate on June 14, this being the 31st anniversary of their removal to their present reservation. All kinds of exercises and sports will take place.

—Mrs. Nat Collins, the "Cattle Queen of Montana," lectures at the M. E. church in this city next Saturday evening, June 10, on "Wandering in the West." She will relate the personal experience of forty years. Stereopticon views will accompany the lecture.

—G. W. Schrump is keeping a first class hotel at Climax and travelers will do well to remember this. He has recently repapered and repainted the establishment and added other needed improvements. Call and see Landlord Schrump when you are in that village and you will be well treated.

—The Phoenix saw-mill out north of Bemidji, which is owned and operated by Eli Stenerson, of Crookston, J. Pourpore, of East Grand Forks and one or two others, is turning out first-class pine lumber at the rate of 25,000 feet per day, and they have millions of feet of timber in sight.

—There are four new residences in South Crookston, this side of the mill but west of the track. One 20x24 with a 10x14 kitchen is the property of Peter Elegeth. On the opposite side of the street are two more of about the same size which belong respectively to Hans Autonson and Pete Johnson.

—Ed. Peterson, local manager of the Water Works Power and Light Company, who has been for several weeks, in company with the president of the company, W. J. Murphy, of Minneapolis, at Kingston Falls, New York and other Eastern places making investigations with a view to improving the outfit and plant here, is expected home next Saturday.

—C. E. Milner, wife and three children left last Sunday night for Wisconsin where Mr. Milner will remain at least a month and the family till the opening of school in the fall. They will visit Mr. Milner's old home in Sheboygan County, his father, who is now living in Fond du Lac, and Mrs. Milner's parents in Walpaca County. Only once, for three days, in 10 years has Mr. Milner been back to the old home.

—Master Carpenter Mills, of the Northern division of the Great Northern had a fine field glass stolen from his office in Grand Forks some time ago. A week later he found in the possession of his next door neighbor, Tom Costello of the M. & N. Elevator Company's agent at Moorhead, who had purchased it from a fireman, who, in turn, had bought it from a hobo just of Moorhead. The hobo probably did the stealing.

—A new time table on the Great Northern went into effect last Sunday. Only two trains entering Crookston will be changed—the St. Vincent from the north will hereafter arrive at 8 o'clock in the evening instead of at 8:30 and the train from Duluth will reach here at 6:35 p. m. instead of at 6:48 as at present. The latter change is brought about by the fact the Great Northern wishes to make connections at Duluth with the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railway.

—Mrs. A. F. George and Miss Irma are visiting in Ashland, Wis., at Mrs. George's old home.

—J. A. Ralston, the popular transfer artist at Climax, made this office a pleasant call last evening.

—Henry Simon, of Nelsville, has gone out East to Cass Lake and Bemidji for a short sojourn.

—Miss Carrie A. Fitzgerald left Monday night for her home at Alexandria, where she will spend her holidays.

F. E. La Pore was in from Mentor last Sunday and Monday. He seems to be thoroughly enjoying life at his new home.

—M. A. Hewitt of Lake City arrived in Crookston last Tuesday morning and will work for Marin & Webster as stenographer.

—The wife of E. M. Peterson who has been keeping a boarding house just west of the Great Northern station has sued for a divorce.

—The Lutheran Synod church of this city is entirely clear of debt. Last Sunday in consequence marked the beginning of a new era for that society.

—Miss Bessie Clements will leave next week for Winnipeg where she will spend most of the summer with her father in the country and at different lakes.

—Mrs. Marsh and two children arrived in the city last Tuesday morning from Wisconsin. They will occupy one of N. S. Gordon's houses on Broadway.

—We had the pleasure last Monday, while at Erskine, of having a very pleasant call on Lake Cameron, upon invitation of James Moore. He hasn't the "Glee Whiz, is a flyer.

—City Engineer Hamery was doing some grading, Tuesday, for Larson and Carpenter who are preparing to erect a building on the land just back of their present quarters.

—Miss Emma Sandberg, of Austin, Minn., who has been a successful teacher in the public schools at Argyle for the last three years, passed through the city last night on her way home. She will teach next year at Zumbrota.

—E. B. Williams and H. Anderson, brother of A. G. Anderson, of this city, reached Crookston this morning from Lansing, in the southern part part of the state. They are up on a land inspecting tour.

—Jos. Moore, who has been clerking in the Great Western Clothing House since this firm began business here appears to have got the better of some of the business men of the city. He secured credit in the name of the firm of which he represented himself a member, which he was not, and now he is gone.

—Last Sunday evening at the Congregational church a young people's union held services was held, at which Rev. Mr. Fisher took up some of the most significant and thrilling incidents of the civil war which illustrated the prompt ness, perseverance and heroism of the union officers, as well as the common soldiers, and then showed how these very characteristics are essential to successful civil life.

—In the Congregational church a floral service for Children's Day will be given next Sunday at 11 o'clock. It will consist of songs, responsive scripture readings and recitations. A baptismal service will also be solemnized. Children's Day is becoming more and more an occasion of much joy to the young people, and one in which they delight to show their interest by taking part in its services.

Half Insurance Company.

Attention is called to the advertisement, to be found elsewhere in this issue, of the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Company. This company has been in business for thirty-four years, issound financially and can be depended upon to pay promptly all losses. It is the only old line company doing a hail insurance business. Marin & Webster, who are the local agents for this company, are reliable young business men whom the JOURNAL takes pleasure in recommending to the public. Besides the above mentioned company they also represent several other first class fire insurance companies.

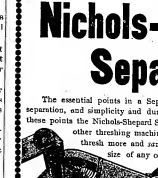
Within the Ring.

Last Sunday afternoon in a grove about four miles west of town an encounter took place between C. La Sore and Wm. Cayo. It was a very shorthited affair as the knock out blow was given by the former within less than a minute and a half from the time when the fight began.

La Sore was arrested Sunday night and Cayo gave himself up the next day. Both were out on bail, but yesterday they paid fines of $25.00 and costs in the justice court and were released from bail. The grand jury, however, may take the case up and examine into it. Several witnesses, it is reported, have been subpoenaed to appear before this body.

The Nichols-Shepard Separator

The essential points in a Separator are capacity, thoroughness of separation, and simplicity and durability of construction. On each of these points the Nichols-Shepard Separator has great advantage over all other threshing machines. Any one of the nine sizes will thresh more and save more grain than the corresponding size of any other separator. The Nichols-Shepard Separator is so strongly, simply, yet perfectly made as a separator can be. The work of separation is done without the aid of pickers, riddles, forks, or other complicated parts that in other machines cause continual bother and expense by breaking or wearing out. Write for large free catafogue that pictures and explains every part of the Nichols-Shepard Separator and the Nichols-Shepard



This shows the Nichols-Shepard Separator loaded and ready for the road.

Straw-Burning Engine.

NICHOLS & SHEPARD CO., Battle Creek, Mich.

Branch House at Minneapolis, Minn., with full stock of machines and extras.

The Perfect Wheel....

At the Right Price. Its reputation has been won by its merits. You will be proud to compare it with any other wheel made, and you will know that your neighbor paid the same price for his Victory as you did for yours. Price and Quality guranteed. Adults Chain Model $28, $35 and $50,

Hawkins & Olds.

Repairing a Specialty. Prices Reasonable.

Births.

SHAUGHNESSY—To Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Shaughnessy on Saturday June 3, a boy.

For Sale.

Tamarack fence posts, 6 and 8 cents. VANCE & STONE.

—WANTED—By the editor of the JOURNAL, a load of hay and a load of oats. These will be received on subscription.

Excursion to Cleveland, O.

One fare for the round trip via Nickel Plate Road, on June 20th and 20th. Tickets good returning to and including June 29th, 1899. Chicago depot, Van Buren St., and Pacific Ave. Address General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

Stewart Lumber Company

Our old friends and patrons will find us moved from the N. P. track to the W. E. Walker mill and yard. Don't forget this and to the new trade we wish to say that we can fill your order promptly from a 2 by 4 to several thousand feet of lumber. We always keep the best of every thing and at right prices.

Remember we are the sole agent for Flint Plaster and we have everything in the building line.

6-3t STEWART LUMBER COMPANY

Farm For Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—northwest quarter of section 29, town 150, range 45, in the village of Gentilly, about 300 yards from cheese factory. No. 1 buildings, including good house, well finished, large barn for stock, granary holding 6,000 bushels, good well—creek that never goes dry, close to barn; about four miles of fence on the farm. For further particulars, inquire of N. Brosseau, at Ottawa House, Crookston, Minn. 8-20

Agents Wanted.

The oldest and largest nursery in the west. Everything for the grove and orchard. Three plans of work and the year round. Pay weekly. Write for terms. THE JEWEL NURSERY CO., Lake City, Minn. 9-14

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.
HOMŒOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Office in McKinnon Block. Crookston Minn

Jules Gendron.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Rooms 2, 3, 4 and 5, over Postoffice & Anglin's
Office hours—8 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m. 7 to 8 p. m

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Office in Opera Block Crookston, Minn

Miller & Foote,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
Offices, corner Broadway and Robert streets
Crookston, Minn.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Services every Sunday, Morning, 11:00, evening, 8:00. Holy Communion the First Sunday of every Month. Sunday pews are welcome.
REV. H. M. GREEN, D. D. Rector

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.
Crookston

NORTHERN PACIFIC

SOUTH BOUND.	Arr.	Dep't
No. 108 to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and East.	7:20 pm	7:30 pm
NORTH BOUND.
No. 103 to Grand Forks, Grafton and Winnipeg.	6:50 am	6:50 am

C. A. SHARREY, Agt. CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A.
Crookston, Minn. St. Paul, Minn

THE GREAT NORTHERN

ARRIVE	*Daily	†Except Sunday.	LEAVE
6:45 am	From Grand Forks, North and West		7:00 am
6:00 am	From St. Paul and points east		6:05 pm
8:15 pm	†St. Vincent	8:15 am
6:00 pm	†St. Hilaire, Red River Valley and Red Lake Falls		8:30 am
4:08 pm	†Donaldson, Bemidji, Duluth and Superior		9:00 am
8:45 pm	‡Climax, Halstad, Moorhead and Fargo		1:30 am

Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and departs Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

THE COUNTY BOARD.

Hear Many Petitions—$4,000 Transfer From County Fund to Road and Bridge Fund.

TWO DITCH VIEWERS' BOARDS

A. A. Miller Retained by the County in Appeal Case—Many Bills Allowed.

Pursuant to notice the Board of Commissioners of Polk county met in special session May 31, 1899, with all members present.

The reading of the record of the preceding meeting was on motion dispensed with.

An application was presented by M. E. Kirsch, asking for reduction of assessment for the year 1898 on the sw¼ of section 4, town 150, range 46. The said application was granted and the assessment reduced from $720 to $360.

A hearing was had upon the petition of John Shrett et al., asking for the formation of a school district to be composed of all of section — the n½ of section 6 east of Red River, and the n½ of section 5, town 150, range 49; all sections 30 and 31, and the n½ of section 29, town 151, range 49 and the w½ of section 32 and the w½ of the e½ of section 32, town 151, range 49, all of section 25 east of Red River and Lot 1, section 30, town 151, range 50, and on motion the prayer of the petitioners was granted, order made accordingly and the district given the number 248, and the County Auditor was instructed to make a division of funds on hand between the districts in accordance with the present assessed valuation and as provided by law.

A petition was presented by O. A. Burns et al, asking for the alteration of the boundaries of school district No. 104 so that the n½ of section 23 and the n½ of section 24, town 147, range 46, will be included as a part of said district No. 104, and on motion a hearing was granted upon said petition for the next meeting of the county board, June 21, 1899.

The petition of Erick O. Storrusen, asking to be detached with his land, the sw¼, se¼ section 17, e½ sw¼ section 18 and the e½ ne¼ of section 19, town 148, range 48, was considered and on motion the same was laid over until the next meeting of the county board, June 21, 1899.

A petition was presented by Ole Engen asking to be detached with his land, the w½ se¼, lots 4 and 5, and the e½ sw¼ section 36, town 148, range 49, and on motion a hearing was granted upon said petition for the next meeting of the county board, June 21, 1899.

The matter of the rehearing upon the petition of H. C. Peterson, et al, the formation of school district No. 246, was taken up and considered at length. Affidavits were submitted and arguments made by E. D. Childs in opposition to the formation of said district. Arguments were also made by H. C. Peterson and by L. E Gussman, legally representing said district No. 246, favoring its formation.

The application of R. H. Bourdon for abatement of taxes on lots 13 to 28 inclusive, Champagne & Dow's addition to Red Lake Falls, for the years 1896 to 1898 inclusive, was on motion rejected.

The application of William Finderson for abatement of taxes on lots 15, 16 and 17, Champagne & Dow's addition to Red Lake Falls, for the years 1896 to 1898 inclusive, was on motion rejected.

The application of the North Dakota Miller's Association for abatement of personal assessment on milling property in the village of Fisher for the year 1898, was on motion denied.

The application of the Advance Thresher Co. for abatement of personal property taxes in the City of Crookston for the year 1898, was on motion rejected.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Eastman, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, that the time granted the viewers on county ditch No. 13 in which to submit their report be and the same is hereby extended until June 23, 1899.

On motion Board adjourned until 10 o'clock a. m. June 1.

June 1, 1899, Board met pursuant to adjournment, with all members present.

The committee appointed to examine the proposed alteration in the Grand Forks-Moorhead road, in township 148, range 49, submitted the following report:

To the Board of County Commissioners of the County of Polk:

The undersigned committee, appointed by you to examine the proposed change of a highway, as stated in the petition referred to in your order of appointment made on the 19th day of April, 1899, would respectfully report that we met at the time and place designated in your said order and proceeded to examine the highway proposed to be changed viz: Beginning at the southeast corner of section 36, township 148, range 49, running west 80 rods, thence north one hundred and sixty rods, descriptive and location of old road to be altered as follows: Beginning at the point first above mentioned, viz: at the southeast corner of section 36, township 148, range 49; thence north one hundred and sixty rods, or to the one fourth quarter post on east side of said section 36, township 148, range 49, thence west 80 rods to connect with old road, and do hereby recommend that the prayer of said petitioners be granted. Provided, that the said petitioners shall pay for the right of way needed for making the said change. Also that the said petitioners establish as good a grade on the new road as there now is on the old road that is to be discontinued, said grade and we petition for right of way to be done within sixty days from the date of this report.

Given under our hands this 1st day of June, 1899. CHAS. McCARTY
G. W. EASTMAN
HUGH THOMPSON
Committee.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Gruivold, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, that the delinquent road tax extended against Erick Dahlin on the tax list of the town of Rossland, for the year 1898, be and the same is hereby ordered canceled, it having been shown by affidavit of the town clerk of said town that said road tax had been reported as paid by mistake.

The following resolution offered by Commissioner Partier was on motion adopted:

Whereas, at a meeting of this Board held on the 9th day of March, 1899, a hearing was had upon the petition of H. C. Peterson et al, asking for the formation of a school district to be composed of the s½ of section 1 and the s½ of section 2, s½ of section 11, all of sections 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 of township 149, range 47, and by resolution the said petition was granted, and

Whereas, a written application was filed with the County Auditor asking the signatures of a majority of the freeholders who are voters having legal residence as required by law, asking for a rehearing upon the said petition, and request for rehearing having been granted by this Board all grievances and matters pertaining thereto having been considered, therefore be it

Resolved, that the action of this Board had on the 9th day of March, 1899, granting the said petition of H. C. Peterson et al, be and the same is hereby rescinded and the prayer of said petitioners for the formation of said school district is hereby denied.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Mc Carty, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, that the sum of $4,000.00 be and the same is hereby ordered transferred from the county revenue fund to the road and bridge fund, to be repaid by the latter fund as soon as conditions warrant.

Commissioner Eastman offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolved, that appropriations be and the same are hereby made from the road and bridge fund to cities, villages and towns in Polk county, as follows:

Town of Andover, $150; Town of Lliberty, $200; Town of Hill River, $100; Town of Sullivan, $100; Town of Highlem, $125; Town of Winger, $300; Town of Grove Park, $100; Town of Sletten, $200; Townof Garfield; $200; Town of Diamond, $125; Town of Hammond, $100; Town of Rocksbie, $300; Town of Garden, $200; City of East Grand Forks, $250; Village of Fisher, $250; Town of Tynsid, $150; Town of Fairfax, $100; Town of Hubbard, $150.

The motion prevailed, all members voting in the affirmative.

Commissioner Gruivold offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolved, that the county auditor be and he is hereby authorized and directed to secure and employ the services of W. P. Snow at a salary of $2.00 per day from the 23d day of May, 1899, including railroad fare from St. Paul and return, with instructions and authority to make a thorough and complete examination of the records of the county treasurer's office for the purpose of ascertaining and locating the shortage of funds shown to exist at the termination of Mr. Beaudry's term as county treasurer.

Resolved, further, that the county auditor be and he is hereby authorized and directed to employ an assistant for Mr. Snow, the compensation of such assistant not to exceed $2.00 per day.

The resolution was adopted.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Thompson, who moved its adoption.

Resolved, that the county auditor be and he is hereby authorized and directed to issue his warrant in favor of W. P. Snow at the expiration of each period of ten days service in the work of examining the books of the county treasurer, in accordance with the amount of compensation fixed by resolution of this Board.

The resolution was adopted.

The following resolution offered by Commissioner Thompson was on motion adopted:

Resolved, that M. G. Peterson, county treasurer be and he is hereby granted a leave of absence for ten days during the month of June 1899.

The application of Elsie H. Speed, for reduction of assessment and abatement of taxes on lots 7 and 8 block 30 Sampson's Woodland addition to the city of Crookston for the year 1895 was on motion laid over until the next meeting of the county board.

The application of B. F. Rustek for reduction of assessment and abatement of taxes on se¼ sec 23 and s½ sw¼ sec 24 town 148 range 48 for year 1898, was on motion laid over.

The personal property assessment against John Keenan for the village of Fosston for the year 1898 was on motion ordered canceled, it having been shown by affidavit that the property was assessed and taxes paid upon the same property in the town of Gilby, N. D.

Conformable with the recommendation of the finance committee of the city of Crookston the following real estate assessments for the year 1898 were on motion adjusted as noted:

Lot 2, block 4, L. Fletcher's addition reduced to $2,700.

Lot 10, block 3, L. Fletcher's addition, reduced to $375.

Lots 4 and 5 block 22, Garmon to wasite reduced $180 to $120

Lots 20 to 27 block 1, Jerome's addition, each reduced from $125 to $100.

Lots 45 and 46 block 14, Jerome's addition, each reduced from $85 to $40.

Lots 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 40, 41, 42 and 43 block 14, reduced from $850 to $720.

On motion the county attorney was instructed to correct description and assessment of sw¼ sw¼ sec 3 town 147 range 49.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Thompson and seconded by Commissioner Gruivold was on motion adopted, all members voting in the affirmative.

Resolved, that A. A. Miller be and is hereby appointed and employed to appear for Polk county and protect its interests in the matter of the appeal from the allowance made to John Gibsonn, Reul Fortier, Hugh Thompson, A. D. Stephens, W. E. McKenzie, J. W. Wheeler and James Rosanen for expenses incurred in opposing the Red Lake county ditch, and the said A. A. Miller is hereby authorized to take exclusive charge and control of said proceedings, this action being found necessary for the reason that the county attorney is financially interested in said proceedings, he having presented a bill to this Board for similar service and said bill being laid on the table pending the result of said appeal proceedings.

Board adjourned until 10 o'clock a. m. June 2, 1899.

Board met June 2 pursuant to adjournment with all members present.

Commissioner Reul Fortier submitted the following report which on motion was adopted.

Crookston June 2 1899.

To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners of Polk County.

Your committee appointed at the last meeting of said Board to have the well on the court house grounds cleaned, begs leave to report that I have entered into a contract with Espe Brothers and Berg whereby said firm agree to finish said well so it will furnish not less than 50 barrels per day of good, pure water, fit for drinking and other purposes for the sum of $75 to be paid as soon as the work is done, provided said firm furnish a good bond in the sum of $100 conditional that said well will furnish the above stated amount of water for the term of one year from time of completion.

REUL FORTIER,
Committee.

Espe Bros. & Berg submitted a bond in compliance with the foregoing agreement with T. H. Thompson and A. K. Austin as sureties which on motion was accepted and approved.

The following resolution offered by Commissioner Eastman was on motion adopted:

Resolved, that the county auditor is hereby instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of a wooden pile bridge across the Sand Hill river on east line of section 36 town of Vineland town 148 range 49, according to plans and specifications on file in the office of the county auditor, bids to be received up to June 21, 1899, and the board reserving the right to reject any and all bids.

The application of A. G. Cowing for abatement of personal property tax in the City of Crookston for year 1898, was on motion laid over pending advice of from city council of said city.

The matter of the completion of the Broadway bridge in the City of Crookston, as reported by City Clerk W. A. Lauctot, was on motion referred to Commissioner Fortier with power to act.

In compliance with the recommendation of the Finance committee, the taxes for the year 1898 on lots 3 and 4 block 1 Fisher & Houston's addition to the City of Crookston, was on motion abated in full, except sewer tax in amount of $11.66.

The application of Malin & Sathre for abatement of taxes for the year 1898 and for all subsequent years while such is in use for college purposes, on lots 1 and 2, block 8, A. C. Loring's addition to the City of Crookston, was on motion granted in accordance with a written opinion submitted by the County Attorney holding that said property was exempt from taxation.

Moved by Commissioner McCarty, seconded by Commissioner Eastman that the bill of Frank Mageau for cut of room in city hall be considered, and that the same be allowed in full. Motion carried.

The offer of Adam Zeh for the purchase of certain lots in Red Lake Falls under application for an absolute deed was on motion rejected.

On motion accepting the petitions and appointing viewers on county ditches Nos. 14 and 16 was passed. The viewers for ditch No. 14 is Grove Park, were Chris Houston, of Fairfax, J. O. Johnson, of Columbia, and Hugh Galbraith, of Hammond, and for ditch No. 16 is Euclid, Keystone Sullivan and Hunterville were C. C. Osaby, of McIntosh, O. A. Thoreson, of East Grand Forks, and Adam Thompson, of Fisher.

The recommendation of the Board of Review of the city of Crookston to readjust the assessment for 1898, on lot 3, block 11, Fletcher and Houston's addition to the city of Crookston by increasing the valuation thereof was on motion laid on the table as the county commissioners did not think they were vested with legal authority for such action.

The following resolution offered by Commissioner McCarty was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That Commissioners Fortier, Gruivold, Eastman, McCarty and Thompson be and are hereby appointed a committee to examine the condition of the outlet of Tabor ditch where it enters into the Morris, the same having been found to be of too large enough to carry off the water that now flows through said Tabor ditch, said committee to report at the next meeting of the County Board.

DULUTH CONVOCATION

Clergy and Lay Members of Episcopal Church Hold Meeting.

The annual convocation of the Duluth Missionary Diocese of the Episcopal church, held a session recently in St. Paul's church, Duluth, Bishop J. D. Morrison presiding.

After morning prayer, there was a sermon by Rev. J. F. Hamilton, of Rush Center, Minn. Then followed by the Ordination to the Priesthood of the Rev. F. E. Alleyne, of Alexandria. It was followed by the administration of the Lord's Supper; after which the convocation went into business session.

About twenty-seven Clergy, and nearly the same number of Lay delegates were present. The work of the Convocation was carried through with promptness, enthusiasm and good will so that before one o'clock of the second day the council was declared adjourned sine die.

At the noon adjournment luncheon was served by the Woman's Auxilary in the Guild room connected with the church.

The joint committee, which was to report on the property as held by the church before the division of the Diocese of Minnesota, asked for further time, looking to the completion of the work, granted.

The Treasurer Mr. W. S. Bishop made his report, which showed the financial affairs of the Diocese to be in a flourishing condition. Report received, and Mr. Bishop was re-elected treasurer.

Judge D. A. Dickenson was re-elected chancellor of the Diocese.

The ecclesiastical court is composed of the following: Revs. J. F. Hamilton, W. Walton, H. M. Green, S. Currie and L. J. Belbin.

The Board of Missions is made up as follows: Revs. H. F. Parshall, E. C. Johnson, F. E. Alleyne, H. M. Green, W. D. Muckay and P. W. Payne.

The time for holding the Convocation was changed so that the next session will be held during the third week of June.

Dr. Ryan, rector of the parish brought up an important matter in regard to St. Luke's Hospital, and looking towards the setting apart of the offerings of some fixed Sunday during the year, said offerings to be given to the hospital, carried.

The Episcopal church has large interest in the Mission work among the Indians. There were present five of the Indian Clergy. During the afternoon of the second day Mrs. Louis Maypenny, of Twin Lake gave in the Chippewa language, a statement of the work of the church and of the Woman's Auxiliary among the Indians. Her story was interpreted by the husband Rev. Mr. Maypenny. The large number present of the Woman's Auxiliary showed great interest in all of the various branches of church work.

Dr. H. P. Nichols, of Minneapolis, preached an eloquent sermon to the Woman's Auxiliary, this was followed by a general report from the various branches, all of which showed deep interest and extensive growth.

A very pleasant and informal reception was tendered the Convocation by the Bishop and Mrs. Morrison at their beautiful home at Twenty-Second Ave., East.

The event was made the more pleasing on account of the fact, that it happened to be the thirtieth anniversary of the wedding of the Bishop and Mrs. Morrison, and in recognition of this fact the friends of the Bishop and his wife presented them with a box containing thirty beautiful roses.

Thus closed one of the most aggressive and enthusiastic meetings of the Convocation, showing from every outlook growth and prosperity.

Buffalo and Return at one Fare For The Round Trip

Via the Nickel Plate Road. June 11, 12 and 13. Tickets good to return to and including July 2, 1899, or visiting Elks' are deposited with Joint agent in Buffalo on or before June 17, 1899. City Ticket Office, 111 Adams St., Cor. Dearborn (near the Loop). Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave., near Clark.

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk—ss.
In Probate Court. Special Term. May 31, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of Joseph O. Mathers, deceased:
Letters of administration on the estate of Joseph O. Mathers, deceased, late of the county of Polk, state of Minnesota, having been granted to Emma B. Mathers.
It is ordered that six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to file the same in the Probate Court of said County, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.
It is further ordered, that the 2nd day of December 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. at a Special Term of said Probate Court to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston in said County, be and the same is hereby appointed and designated the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.
And it is further ordered, that notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by publication of this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, Minn., said county.
Dated Crookston, Minn., 31st day of May, 1899.
By the Court,
OLE E. HAUGE,
Judge of Probate.

YOU CAN USE IT 20 DAYS FREE

Are setting up one of our High Arm Sewing Machines with Ball Bearings and all modern improvements. Can be sold for 20 days to any person within 200 miles of Crookston. Has no equal for ease, light running and strength of stitch. Guaranteed for 20 years. Send postal for full particulars.

IT'S SPECIAL PRICE AND TERMS FOR 20 DAYS

A rare opportunity to get a high grade machine at a low price. Every machine warranted for 20 years. Has no equal for ease, light running and strength of stitch. Guaranteed for 20 years. Send postal for full particulars. Don't delay, as this offer will be withdrawn in a few days. Write us at once. Mention this paper. Address

Illustrations of every detail.

Originators of The Catalogue Business.

Send Illustrated Catalogue and Special Price List. Mention this paper. Write us at once. Write us at once. Write us at once. Write everything used by mankind.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., Michigan Ave. & Madison St., Chicago.

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven but has long horizontal wires, which cause it to

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

Little fence, Scarce be seen. Special instructions and circulars with few posts and without top and bottom rails. Can be used on hilly ground and is quite running through the fence every foot. Each roll contains the famous M. M. S. trade mark. Name other genuine.

We are manufacturers also of the following famous fences:

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE with or without lower cable barbed. All horizontal wires.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE ideal fence for parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel gates, posts, etc. Everything the best of steel.

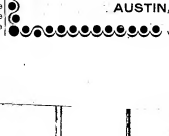
DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.

Post, July 15, 1899. Pat. July 5, 1897.

THE Everlasting Steel Harrow

The bands or double-bars and teeth are made of Bessemer Steel, and are made in two, three, four, five or six sections. Three sections, 82 teeth, 12 feet, usual size for ordinary farm team.

FULLY WARRANTED



....Will Last for a Life Time....

The illustration shows one of our four-section harrows at work on an extraordinarily rough piece of ground, drawn as a vertical or straight tooth harrow. You will notice that the harrow runs a little angling against the ground and the pressure of the ground against the teeth give the double bars a constant shake which gives the harrow a most terrific tearing power. It may be made into a slanting tooth by simply changing cevver to the other end. For circulars and testimonials, address

JOHNSON & SMITH,
AUSTIN, MINN.

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF

THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY

JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNER'S TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER X.

THE MAJESTY OF THE LAW.

When that early riser, the laughing Jackass, crashed into the tender spirit of the dawn with its discordant cachinnation, I sprang from my bed of dried grass, over which my blanket had been placed, and went down to the river. Then I found Barney and boiled my quart pot under the leafy Moreton bay ash that did service as my roofTree. The air was as yet comparatively cool and pleasant. September being only a spring month. A ghostly, gauzelike mist rose from the river and crept lingeringly from tree to tree. The tawny yellow in the east changed to a saffron, and as the white quivering sun rose above the tree tops, the dew sparkled on the grass as if a shower of fine diamonds had fallen.

I had in a great measure shaken off the effects of the fever, and as a consequence my spirits were acquiring their old buoyancy. Once more I was appreciating the beauty, the freshness and the freedom of life in the Australian bush.

Having finished breakfast, I went over to the police barracks and saw Jack. He had recovered much of his coolness and self confidence by this time. There was a look of quiet determination on his face refreshing to see after his apathy of yesterday. I knew now that he meant to fight.

"I've been digesting what you spoke of yesterday," he said, "so if you want to 'say wi' the de'il get out your long-eet shankit spnin.' You want to look out, though, and not burn your tongue. If you think you can stand the cold chaf off with what you already know, you can be master of ceremonies in my case, but look out for your tongue. You understand?"

About 9 o'clock Daly drove up in the station wagon with Elsie, the rest arriving on horseback. We pitched a tent for the women near the river by a grove of acacias within convenient reach of the courthouse. Gordon, I discovered, knew much more than I had given him credit for. Being a quiet, cool, long headed Scot, he had provided for certain contingencies that made me lie in dodge in considerable speculation.

At 10 o'clock I began to get a little nervous. We were now all gathered together in the large marquee tent, with the sides looped up, and alongside the unfinished courthouse, which was not yet available for use. There were two women present, the publican's wife and her sister. They were accommodated with chairs. A large table, behind and around which were ranged several camp stools, stood at one end of the tent, and occupying the body of the court was the truly noteworthy public. Contrasted with the bibulous appearance some of the individuals composing it presented on the previous evening their present staid demeanour bordered on the funereal. A clear space was left between the magistrate's table and the appreciative little crowd of spectators. There was not one cast in the company, and no one dreamed of removing his hat. Some of them had washed, some had not,perhaps washing, and others again, judging by appearances, had evidently forgotten that there was such a thing in the world as water, or at least feared that its mat might int...rfere with the liquor they were just then assimilating into their systems. Several had well defined halos of black and blue encircling their eyes and suggested a new species of rook. Of these rings the majority possessors were doubtless proud, testifying as they did to their powers of endurance in another kind of ring.

The face of one man resembled that of a Maori chief being tattooically tattooed with sticking plaster. Some had a comical, muddled, blurry look and blinked like owls in the sunlight. Evidently they had been already allayed the considerable thirst engendered by the libations of the night before in a thorough and conscientious manner. In fact, during the progress of the trial it was customary for several of the aforesaid thirsty individuals to leave the tent quietly by turns and adjourn to a certain hollow tree in the bush, from which they came back looking refreshed and as innocent as the circumstances permitted.

In the background, hanging round the tent, was the mob of blacks already referred to. They exemplified the childlike simplicity of the gentle savage with delightful efficiency. Having been ordered by a paternal government to cosse themselves after the fashion of civilized society—such as it meant out there—they did it according to their own graceful and airy ideas. The gins of the party were akin to the most fashionable Parisian and English exponents of dress in that they only wore as much of it as was absolutely necessary and tarely enough to meet the demands of the laws regulating common decency. One of the blacks had managed to pick up an old nightshirt and an old chimney pot hat—how the latter article came to be in that part of the world is one of those mysteries past all clearing up—and in those he strutted about with that kingly step which no other people in the world have to such perfection as the Australian black fellow. This gentleman, with a due sense of his dignity and importance, kept somewhat aloof from the less fashionably attired brethren. Doubtless they were dying of admiration and envy, and more than likely he afterward was created a chief on the strength of his superior tastes. The remainder of the others ran him closely for originality of dress. One wore a pair of new "one crown" moleskin trousers tied round his neck like a bag boa, and several wore their shirts as it they were capes, tying the sleeves of these useful garments in front, as they would have done a scarf. A favorite form of headdress was a clarion crown handkerchief round the forehead and inclosing the hair. A crowd of hungry, mangy dogs prowled, fought and stunk about. The women carried the pickaninnies, and the men strutted about with dignified looks, carrying boomerangs and nulla-nullas in their hands, like the kings of creation they were.

The magistrate dropped a chair from under him.

The police magistrate and his colleague now took their seats. I was looking around—and even when a general turning of heads in a certain direction told me that Miss Mackenzie and her maid were coming. Nothing short of two strange women would have caused such a flutter of excitement in that truly interesting throng. Norah Mackenzie came in with a quiet, self possessed air. The magistrate had turned his head with an impatient gesture at this distraction. But when he realised the cause of the interruption, it seemed as if he had quite forgotten the dignity of his position and the occasion, for, springing up, he dragged a chair into ceremoniously from under an unwashed and hairy looking individual, who had coolly appropriated it, and sent him sprawling on the ground. Being, however, in a place this individual had a considerable amount of wholesome respect for, and knowing it would be impossible to challenge the "P. M." to have a "set to," he wisely held his tongue and betook himself to the hollow tree. Then I saw how charming the magistrate's daughter could be when it suited her purpose. She shook hands with the P. M. and seemed so genuinely delighted to see him that the worthy magistrate would have gone on talking, utterly oblivious of any such thing in the world as a trial, if his brother magistrate had not given him a slight reminder by covertly kicking him on the shins. It was obvious that we should not have had a fair, prejudiced against one of our witnesses.

A few men from the government camp and a couple of police constables were interspersed throughout the crowd so as to eject anybody evincing a disposition to hurry. There was silence. Every one was in a state of expectancy. In another minute Jack marched in between two policemen. I had feared that he would feel the humiliation of his position and present an appearance less consistent with injured innocence than that which was to be desired. In this I was mistaken. He might have looked a trifle pale, his demeanour might have been rather thoughtful and subdued, but there was a quiet dignity and an onen...ss...nance bore on his face that at accorded with the popular idea of association with injured criminality. I noticed he only once seemed to observe the presence of the women, and then he turned his head quickly away, never looking at them again, at least so far as I could make out.

There was a hush, and the magistrate read over the necessary preliminary papers in connection with the charge. In dealing with this case I shall neither repeat discussions regarding points of law nor give in full the evidence of the witnesses, confining myself to the main features. I therefore do not pretend to be technically correct.

The charge was to this effect—that he, John Farquharson, alias John Tyndall, did, near the Cloncurry, on or about the ninth day of March last, kill one James Sexton, a bushman and miner, etc. "Guilty or guilty?"

"Not guilty," was the quick and half indignant response. Then the sergeant of police who conducted the case for the crown, said that, on the 9th of March last, one James Sexton, bushman, digger, stockman—one, in fact, who, like most other men in Queensland, turned his hand to anything—had left Cloncurry either in company with, or on the same day as, the prisoner, John Farquharson, and a fortnight later, the prisoner entered the town of Normanton alone. At this time it was not known that he had left with the deceased. A number of horses had been stolen some time previously at the cattle station of Millungera, and as the prisoner had been seen with a gang of men who were recognized horse thieves, a search of police officers were sent in toward the Cloncurry to find out if certain horses had not been "rejected" in that direction. On their way up they found the murdered body of James Sexton. It was known that the murdered man had about him a considerable sum of money. The numbers of certain bank notes—Queensland National bank notes —he had were found on a slip of paper, in a small pocket which the murderer had overlooked. The watch of the deceased had also been taken. The fact of finding the body had been kept as quiet as possible by the police, in order that the murderer might be put off his guard. After giving it out that he was going to the gold diggings on the Gilbert the prisoner had disappeared, and all traces of his whereabouts were lost. Descriptions of him had been sent to all the police stations in the country. Some few weeks ago word had been received from a respected and well known squatter, Mr. Mackenzie of Tarragona and the Robinson river, that he and some others—the prisoner among the number —had come across the body of a man who had been murdered by the blacks.

The description of this man corresponded with that of James Sexton, and the papers found on the body were also those of the latter. It was therefore believed that the murderer of James Sexton had met with his just deserts at the hands of the blacks. However, a few days ago the prisoner was recognized as being the real John Farquharson, living under the assumed name of Tyndall. He would produce witnesses to swear to his true identity. The surprise was that when he discovered the body of the man who was murdered by the blacks, seeing in it a presentment of himself, the idea occurred to him to effect a transfer of personalities He had previously changed his name to that of Tyndall. He therefore tendered his own papers to the person of the murdered man, whose real identity had thus been lost. Moreover, two £5 Queensland National bank notes had been found on the body corresponding with the numbers on the notes that had been taken from the body of Sexton. To say the least of it, it was an ingenious device of the prisoner's. Personally the sergeant had no knowledge of the accused, but he would produce witnesses of undoubted respectability and probity who would identify him.

At the mention of the aforesaid witnesses of "respectability and probity" an old bushman in the body of the court broke into an explosive snort. He had a keener sense of humour than his comrades, but he was promptly ejected from the tent by a stalwart trooper.

The sergeant now produced a warrant for the prisoner's arrest and exhibited its execution. He repeated that he would produce witnesses who would testify to the prisoner's identity and justify his worship committing him for trial.

He paused. His straightforward and earnest manner of stating his case had made its impression. Jack, however, seemed perfectly unmoved. Then the sergeant called his first witness, Timothy Daly. I looked at this representative of "undoubted respectability and probity" and confess to having experienced a species of admiration for the man's cool effrontery. He was a handsome villain in his way; at least he was the style of man that some women would call handsome. There was a suggestion of Mephistopheles about him. To me that set smile and those shifting hard eyes were only the veneering of a cold blooded, crafty nature. I noticed that Norah Mackenzie never once took her eyes off him while he gave his evidence.

His examination was to this effect:

It was much against his natural inclinations that he was in his present position as a witness in this case against the prisoner, they being to a certain extent comrades and working on the same station. He had been out at Cloncurry in March last, and seen the prisoner with the deceased James Sexton and understood they intended going on together toward Normanton. He was aware that Sexton had a considerable sum of money with him; was sorry to say that he had then his suspicions about the prisoner's character. He knew, however, the witness had shortly afterward left the Cloncurry, traveled down to Burketown, passed the travelling mob of cattle belonging to Mr. Mackenzie, and come with them right out into this northern territory, he had heard, on account of hearing the news of Sexton's murder. Next saw the prisoner on Mr. Mackenzie's run on the Robinson river. He was then going under the name of John Tyndall. He had heard that one John Farquharson had been murdered by blacks near the Calvert river, but thought that the prisoner had simply changed his name through some private reason that was no concern of his and instances of which were by no means uncommon in the gulf country. In short, the prisoner he saw was John Farquharson.

Then I rose to cross question Daly. I admit I took pleasure in making him feel uncomfortable. I was determined to play a bold game and began at once to do so.

What was he doing at the Cloncurry about the beginning of March last and would he state the names of the men he was with?

Daly betrayed but little outward annoyance, though a covert glance of rage could be detected in his cold eyes as I asked this question. He took the bull by the horns, however, and appealed for protection to the bench. I was a friend of the prisoner's, he said, and was endeavoring to make out that he had been keeping certain notorious company, with which, unfortunately for him, he had come in contact. But the bench made him give the names of the parties, all of whom had warrants out against them for horse stealing.

"Now, Daly," I said, and tried to rivet those shifting blue eyes of his with mine, "if, as you tell me, you did not know anything about the murder of Sexton, why did you steal out of Mr. Mackenzie's camp a couple of nights ago and come into this township on purpose to tell that you believed John Farquharson, the reputed murderer of Sexton, was in the camp?"

This was a bold shot and ought to have been a telling one, but I had not gauged the depth of villainy and rapidity which lay under that smooth, smiling face of his and shot blind, planshot edgeo. He looked down and said as if with evident reluctance:

"In trying to harm me you're harming your own case and the prisoner's, a thing I've no desire to do. As for stealing out of the camp, as you call it, I wasn't aware that I'd first to ask your permission or any other person's, for the matter of that."

Here a very solemn faced individual who sat on his heels in the back of the tent, and who had once, when in very different circumstances, belonged to a debating society in the old country, under the impression that he was in "Codger's hall" listening to a debate, promptly shouted, "Hear, hear!" He was promptly suppressed by having his hat jammed down over his face.

Daly continued: "If I suspected that Farquharson murdered Sexton, I couldn't help my suspicions. Besides, I didn't think of the matter for I was getting the prisoner into when mentioning these suspicions. Of course I didn't think that he committed the murder. I may have had some words with the prisoner, but I hope there's no ill will borne on either side."

At this point I caught a glimpse of Edith Gordon's face and fancied there was a look of disappointment on it as she listened to the hypocritical speech of her admirer, but still it could not altogether conceal a certain hint of pride as she gazed upon his cool, unchanging, devil may care countenance. I had no time or inclination to feel sorry for her. It was fortunate that I looked at her moreover, for I read in her eyes that which plainly said she had something to communicate. Instinctively I followed her gaze. It rested on my lip lying on the bench alongside. I picked it up and in the way found a small piece of paper, which, unobserved, I unfolded and read. I had not seen it put there, but even with the distractions of the restive little crowd that any such action might easily have passed unnoticed. It was as much as I could do to suppress my surprise on reading the following: "Don't say anything. Though it contained what was not exactly a revelation to me, still it showed that she was interested in her self to a degree than she thought it discreet just then to divulge and that her subtle brain had devised a plan by which, without precipitating matters while looking our knowledge like a sword of Damocles' hung over his head, could bring him to modify his views. As the note was folded I put the question, then with-drew it. I was a strategical movement worthy of a Machiavelli.

"Now, Daly," I said in a careless way, but in a tone which con-

"Now, look here, Daly," I said.

veyed a note of meaning to the sharp ear of the rascal, "you said you were paying for it in Queensland bank notes in May last?"

"I said that I found the right chord had been struck. In a second there was a startled, scared look in his eyes as he replied hastily and with a quaver in it:

"I can't see why you should ask me questions that have nothing to do with the case. Can you see any connection?"

"I only wished my position had been such as to have put the question, but I did not possess the key to it, and his time had not come yet. He had, however, unfurled the white flag, and knew that the fortress had capitulated. I turned to the magistrate as if [illegible] ceed by what he had said, then asked him another question.

"I think you said you only met the prisoner once before, seeing him on the Robinson river. Are you prepared to swear positively that he is the John Farquharson whom you saw on the Cloncurry?"

He paused—for the sake of appearances, I suppose—then answered slowly:

"I believe I am, though in saying I could identify him as John Farquharson. In looking at him now it seems to me that I must have been taken in by some resemblance."

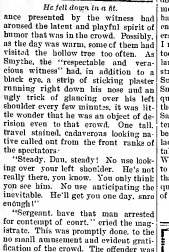
"That's to say, you admit having been mistaken by a chance resemblance?"

"I'll not swear that he's the same man," he answered.

"That will do. I've no more questions to ask."

The magistrates and the spectators appeared not a little surprised and mystified at the turn things had taken, the girl at least showed nothing of that she thought. The next witness for the prosecution was the bottle nosed ex-shipper, Barney. For some reason he had imposed his unwelcome presence on the United States [illegible] evidently thought it the proper thing to parade the fact by an unduly accentuated and exaggerated form of speech.

The sergeant drew from him that he had seen John Farquharson and Sexton together at the Cloncurry on the 9th of March last. He "guessed" that he could swear positively that the prisoner in the box was the identical John Farquharson he had seen with Sexton on the Cloncurry, no matter what he called himself now. He "guessed, reckoned and calc'lated," when interrogated by the magistrate as to the meaning of [illegible] interpretation of the word "guess," that



He felt dogs in a fit.

ance presented by the witness had aroused the latent playful spirit of humor that was in the crowd. Possibly, as the day was warm, some of them had visited the hollow tree too often. As Smythe, the "respectable and veracious witness" had, in addition to a black eye, a strip of sticking plaster running right down his nose and an ugly trick of glancing over his left shoulder every few minutes, it was little wonder that he was an object of derision even to that crowd. One tall, travel stained, cadaverous looking native called out from the front ranks of the spectators:

"Steady, Dan, steady! No use looking over your left shoulder. He's not really there, you know. You only think you see him. No use anticipating the inevitable. He'll get you one day, sure enough!"

"Sergeant, have that man arrested for contempt of court," cried the magistrate. This was promptly done, to the no small amusement and evident gratification of the crew. The offender was not popular. He had been the forcible means of making too many of them stand the drinks.

It was quite evident that Smythe was in that condition bordering on what is felicitously termed "the horrors." Still, I could not shake the stubborn pertinacity of this witness, who clung to his assertion that the prisoner was no other than the John Farquharson he had seen with Sexton, the murdered man. Just then I found on looking down that another small piece of paper had been put into my hat. Instinctively I knew what it was and who had caused it to be put there. I picked it up carelessly and read, "Ask Smythe what he did with the half caste boy Freddy he used to have with him and notify the magistrate that you wish to have an opportunity of examining Smythe later on in order to confront him with a witness of importance."

I looked across at Norah Mackenzie. What was she going to play now? But her dark eyes did not betray the workings of her mind. I fancied, however, there was the ghost of a smile lurking about her lips.

I put some other question to divert attention, then asked Smythe suddenly and with as much significance in my voice as could be thrown into it what he had done with the half caste boy, Freddy?

The witness glared at me with wide open, fearful eyes for a moment without speaking. He was evidently taken by surprise.

Surprise was on my side now, for he fell down in a fit.

"I wish to give notice, your worship, that I would like to examine the witness later on in the day."

"If the witness is in a proper condition to appear," said the magistrate, "you will have an opportunity for examining him."

And now the little crowd was being rewarded for its patient attendance by the sight of this unfortunate wretch's misery. But fits are uncommon in the vicinity of back block shanties. In relation to chanties they are purely a product of bonier growth. So six yards, Savile and a brawny trooper seized Dan Smythe and carried him out kicking and struggling. As if by magic half a dozen black bottles were produced from the inside of shirts and breadsheet before the sole arbiter with the most reckless prodigality. It was evident that some of the whites, like the somewhat philanthropic, did not believe in tempting the innocent savages outside by turning a hollow tree into a temporary wine cellar. They reasoned that if liquor could put their own souls in conflict it could surely fetch him out again. The women left the tent, and the police magistrate declared an adjournment for lunch. I noticed that Norah Mackenzie sent Elsie on ahead and waited outside for the two magistrates, who went with her over to the camp.

What the sergeant had said about the two Queensland bank notes being found on the body of the man killed by the blacks had completely overwhelmed with those taken from the murdered man Sexton fairly staggered me. That Jack had possessed no money I knew for a certainty. I had seen him, now that I raked my recollection, take what looked like bank notes from the dead man's pocket and put them back again. Was it likely that if he had murdered and robbed Sexton and wanted to lose his identity, but anticipated discovery of his scheme, he would put such incriminating evidence as the bank notes into the pockets of the man killed by the blacks, thus virtually proving that he, John Farquharson, had murdered Sexton? The case was fast becoming a mystery even to me and baffled conjecture.

But still I cheered Jack as best I could. As to who the witness was that Norah Mackenzie spoke of bringing forward, something told me it would be unwise to ask questions. Regarding Dan Smythe's antecedents neither Jack nor I knew anything.

Before leaving my comrade I had the satisfaction of learning that Smythe had recovered from his fit, though feeling "rather queer," as the constable who had him in charge said, and who was pledged to produce him in a proper condition in the afternoon.

Then I went over to the camp, where, in the dusky shade of a great leafy tree, some little distance removed from the others, I saw Norah Mackenzie entertaining the two magistrates. I got a gumshin of tea from Sevile. Daly was very quiet and, indeed, seemed as if he regretted the position to which he found himself. Gordon informed me that he felt like giving him his money and telling him to go, but the circumstances hardly justified this summary mode of procedure. As it would have defeated my project—that is, would be contrary of ultimate fulfillment—for eventually discovering the murderer of Sexton, I commended his views on this point. Then I had a talk with Savile and Gordon. The former somewhat briefly told me that the witness Miss Mackenzie had referred to was black boy, at present with the Tyrrey and Scrutton, the drovers, who were then on the Macarthur. I must excuse him, he explained, going too minutely at present into particulars, as doing so might only put restraints on me while giving evidence. Suffice it that this boy had once been in Smythe's employ. He handed me some questions on paper which I might ask the witness, but he begged that he—Savile—should first be sworn in as interpreter, and that no questions should be asked the boy save through him. the lad being almost a myall black and only talking a species of pigeon English. When Savile told me that he had talked to Miss Mackenzie on the subject and that this was her request, I was quite acquiesced to this rather one sided form of procedure.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

ASK YOUR DOCTOR!

Ask your physician this question, "What is the one great remedy for consumption?" He will answer, "Cod-liver oil." Nine out of ten will answer the same way.

Yet when persons have consumption they loathe all fatty foods, yet fat is necessary for their recovery and they cannot take plain cod-liver oil. The plain oil disturbs the stomach and takes away the appetite. The disagreeable fishy odor and taste make it almost unendurable. What is to be done?

This question was answered when we first made of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Although that was nearly twenty-five years ago, yet it stands alone today the one great remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

The bad taste and odor have been taken away, the oil itself has been partly digested, and the most sensitive stomach objects to it rarely. Not one in ten can take and digest the plain oil. Nine out of ten can take SCOTT'S EMULSION and digest it. That's why it cures so many cases of early consumption. Even in advanced stages it brings comfort and greatly prolongs life.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

BINDER TWINE — BLUE RIBBON BRAND. Guaranteed 600 feet to the pound. Pure Manila. Equal to any 7c. Twine. Sold by the pound only. Sample by mail, 10c. Price 8½c. per lb. Subject to change. MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO

United States Map.

15c. A copy of our handsome map, 28x18 inches, printed in four colors and mounted on a roller, will be sent to any address on receipt of 15 cents (in coin, postal or express money order). Size when folded for pocket use, 4½x7 inches. Pacific coast through Minn. & Ore. Receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND BOOK ON PATENTS sent free. Address

MUNN & CO.,
361 Broadway, New York.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain, free, whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

TO TRAP FILIPINOS

CONCERTED ACTION AGAINST GENERAL PILAR

By a Large Force of Americans—Insurgents Being Driven to the Morong Peninsula, Where Capture Is Inevitable—Some Hard Fighting Done—Hall's Division Has Two Engagements Before Reaching Their Position—Lost Four Men Killed and a Dozen or More Wounded in the Encounters.

MANILA, June 5.—The position of the American troops indicates that they intend to attack the peninsula of Morong, the land projecting to the south into Laguna de Bay, where the insurgents are supposed to have a large force, near the town of Morong, as well as the battery on the western shore of the peninsula, which recently smashed the propeller of the gunboat Napidan.

General Hall is marching from Antipolo, about six and a half miles northwest of Morong, toward the peninsula, with his forces spread out to cover a large section.

Colonel Truman, with the First North Dakota regiment and the Twelfth infantry, is advancing along the coast of the lake from Taytay, incidentally clearing several small towns. Colonel Wholley, with the First Washington regiment, has landed on the peninsula above the town of Morong. The army gunboats Napidan, Covadonga and Ceste are in a position to co-operate.

Original Plan Not Successful.

The original plan was to surround the forces of General del Pilar so that he must retreat to the Morong peninsula, where capture would have been inevitable. This was not a complete success because General Hall's column found the country full of hamlakaos to march through. Some of General Pio del Pilar's followers are supposed to have escaped northward, probably reaching Bosoboso, a stronghold in the mountains. Colonel Wholley, having successfully completed his share of the movement, brought the Washington regiment to the Pasig river where, about midnight, the men embarked upon canoes and started for the island under the cover of the gunboats. They encountered a portion of the experience undergone by almost every expedition on attempting to enter Laguna de Bay as the boats went aground in the shallows at the mouth of the river and were detained there several hours.

Major General Lawton, in the meantime, was indefatigable, riding from one force to the other and supervising the landing of the cascos, without sleep for two nights.

General Hall's column, in the movement on the Morong peninsula, completed a circuit of 20 miles over rough and mountainous country, having two engagements with the insurgents, one of them severe, and kept up with scattered bands of insurgents for nearly 24 hours. The Filipinos were driven in every direction and the country through which General Hall passed was pretty well cleared. At 10 o'clock Sunday morning the column reached a point a few miles from Taytay, where General Hall was met by General Lawton who had already entered the town and found it deserted.

General Hall's objective point was Antipolo, 10 miles off, and there was desultory firing all along the line of march. The gunboats could be heard shelling the hills in advance of the column.

The column, after driving the rebels from the foothills near Maria Chiuo about noon with a loss of but two or three slightly wounded, proceeded with all possible haste toward Laguna de Bay, the Fourth cavalry in the lead, the Oregon regiment next and the Fourth infantry last.

Second Battle of the Day.

At 5 o'clock those three regiments fought their second battle of the day and it resulted like the first in the complete rout of a large Filipino force located in the mountains and having every advantage of position. In this fight the American losses were four killed, three of the Fourth cavalry and one Oregonian—and about 15 wounded. The Filipino loss could not be ascertained, but the terrific fire which the Americans poured into them for half an hour must have inflicted severe punishment. In this engagement our troops made one of the most gallant charges of the war and the enemy was forced to flee in the greatest disorder.

It was the intention to press on to Antipolo at once, but this was found impossible owing to the two fights and the constant marching for more than 12 hours with nothing to eat since morning and no supply train in sight. The troops suffered from the intense heat, many being prostrated and all greatly exhausted. Consequently they bivouacked for the night on the second battlefield.

Antipolo Found Deserted.

The forces, after camping for the night on the battlefield, started at 5 o'clock in the morning for Antipolo, where it was expected a strong resistance would be made. The progress of the column was considerably delayed, while rushing up the steep mountainside, by a small band of insurgents, but these were effectively routed by the Fourth cavalry, which was in advance, and the troops reached Antipolo in a few hours. Our troops were immediately thrown around on three sides of the town and the final advance was made. But it was found unnecessary to fire a shot. Not a rebel was visible and the town was entirely abandoned. Two hours later, after a conference between General Lawton and General Hall, the column proceeded towards Morong to drive away any rebels found in that quarter.

When the start was made for Antipolo in the morning the Oregon regiment and the Ninth infantry were left behind as a rear guard and there was considerable firing along their lines in clearing the enemy from the high hill between their position and the lake.

SUSTAINED THE TRUST.

Decision by the New Jersey Supreme Court Causes Surprise.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The New Jersey supreme court has rendered a decision, said to be the first in this country, in favor of a trust. The decision was given in the suit of the New York Trap Rock company against Brown & Fleming. About two years ago there was bitter competition and rivalry between the owners of quarries and a trust was formed. Several quarries were absorbed and prices were advanced. A part of the agreement was that only the agent of the trust could sell the stone and a penalty of $5,000 was prescribed for violating this clause of the contract. There was some dissatisfaction and Brown & Fleming accepted an order for a large quantity of stone. The trust demanded the penalty of $5,000, but the firm refused to pay the forfeit and decided to oppose the trust. The company instituted suit for the amount of the penalty. Brown & Fleming filed a demurrer, setting forth that by the declaration of the plaintiff the company admitted it was a trust, that it was an illegal combination formed for the purpose of destroying competition and to control the prices of trap rock. The supreme court has given a decision overruling the demurrer. The court holds that a contract that a single person shall be employed as the sole agent of the manufacturers to sell all their output does not violate any principle of law and may be enforced. It was a decision of the entire court and was a surprise to many lawyers.

CAUSED SURPRISE.

Cession to Germany of Spain's Possessions in the Pacific Unexpected.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The announcement at Madrid in the speech from the throne to the cortes that Spain had ceded the Caroline islands, Palaos and the Marianas was received with surprise here. The cession marks the relinquishment of Spanish possessions in the far East save the island of Fernando Po and dependencies on the African coast. The Mariana islands, which go with the Carolines and Palaos in the cession, of course do not include Guam, over which the American flag now flies.

The strategic value of this cession to the German interests in the Pacific is evident from the fact that the Marianas and Palaos are the only islands of any importance in a direct line between Hawaii and the Philippines and will form excellent points of supply for Germany.

The American commissioners at Paris last December vainly sought one of the Caroline islands on account of its being in a line with Hawaii and the Philippines and valuable as a station for the proposed Pacific cable. Failing in that, the American flag was hoisted over Wake island, 139 miles east of Guam.

THE OHIO TICKET.

Full List of Officers Nominated at Columbus—Hanna Men in Control.

COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—The Republican state convention nominated Governor A. L. Nash, the present incumbent for Hanna, for governor and ex-Congressman John A. Caldwell, the favorites of George B. Cox, for lieutenant governor, with the other five nominations distributed among those of other distinguished political affiliations. The complete ticket follows:

Governor, George K. Nash, Franklin.
Lieutenant governor, John A. Caldwell, Hamilton.
Secretary of state, W. H. Davis, Marion.
Auditor, Walter D. Guilbert, Noble.
Treasurer, Isaac B. Cameron, Columbia.
Attorney general, James M. Sheets, Putnam.

What was generally called the Hanna-Cox combination controlled a large majority of the 731 delegates, but it did not use its power beyond the nominations of Nash and Caldwell.

OUR NAVY TOO SMALL.

Admiral Sampson Believes We Should Have Twice as Many Ships.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The Independent this week will contain an article by Rear Admiral Sampson on "The United States Navy" in which he says: "I have long believed that the navy of the United States is now inadequate to the needs of the nation. Foreign armies do not constitute a danger to this country. The possible wars which we confront us are naval wars and in order to wage them successfully we need more ships. I believe that we should have at least twice as many ships as our navy at present contains."

IT WILL BE UNANIMOUS.

New York Congressmen in Line for Mr. Henderson.

NEW YORK, June 7.—A conference of Republican congressmen of New York state to decide upon a candidate for the speakership of the house of representatives was held at the Fifth Avenue hotel and resulted in a decision to support David B. Henderson of Iowa. The conference was held behind closed doors. Representative Sherman was not present. He said it was his intention to obey the decision of the conference whatever it might be.

FRIENDLY TO AMERICANS.

Filipino Military Commissioner Gets Twelve Years.

MANILA, June 7.—A Spanish paper asserts that Colonel Arguelles, one of the two members of the original Filipino military commission who were placed under arrest at Tarlac last month after returning to Luna's camp from their conference with the United States commissioners, has been court-martialed and sentenced to 12 years' imprisonment for "friendship displayed towards the Americans."

Freight Rates Are Being Cut.

CHICAGO, June 7.—After maintaining rates for nearly six months the Western roads are understood to be cutting freight rates between Chicago and St. Paul and Kansas City. One line which runs to all these points is said to be chiefly responsible for the trouble.

ATTACK ON LOUBET

VIOLENT DEMONSTRATION AGAINST THE PRESIDENT OF FRANCE.

One Blow Struck at Him but His Personal Guard Manages to Protect Him. Over a Hundred Arrests Made of the Tricksters Prominent, Representing Best Families in France—Special Cabinet Meeting Held to Discuss Measures to Preserve Order.

PARIS, June 5.—President Loubet, accompanied by the premier, M. Dupuy, and the chief of the military household, General McBaillord, drove to the Auteuil races, closely followed by Mme. Loubet in a second landau. As they drove along the Avenue des Champs-Elysees the crowd hooted respectfully, but on arriving at Auteuil they were met by a violent demonstration, evidently organized and directed against the president. There was a storm of hoots, yells and cries of "Panama," "A bas Loubet," and "Vive Parmee." A few shouts of "Vive Loubet" were drowned in the clamor.

During the second race the clamor increased to violence and was plainly directed by a committee of the League of Patriots, collected with their supporters before and behind the presidential stand, around which a formidable affray proceeded. During the tumult steeplechase many blows were struck and in their endeavors to prevent an invasion of the presidential stand. At the crisis of the excitement, while shouts of "Vive l'armee," "Vive Deroulede" were heard on all sides, Count Christiano rushed toward the president, brandishing a stick and directed a blow at him, striking his hat. The crowd rushed upon Christiano, who only escaped severe handling by being taken under police protection.

Several Policemen Were Injured

President Loubet remained all the while quite unmoved, taking in the disorder, while the members of his military household were defending him against violence. Finally after many arrests had been made the prefect of police ordered the Republican Guards to surround the presidential stand. The principal leaders of the demonstration were M. Joseph Lasies, anti-Semitic and National deputy for Gers, and M. Firmin Faure, anti-Semite and National deputy for Oran, Algeria.

Altogether about 130 arrests were made, one being that of M. Daunesette, deputy mayor of Arrondissement. The demonstrations and counter demonstrations were made until M. Loubet left the race course at 4:30 p. m., the arrival of his carriage being the signal for An Indescribable Tumult.

The mounted guards with difficulty opened a passage through the crowd, the president being pursued to the last with hoots and yells. Even eggs were thrown.

Most of the persons arrested represent some of the best families in France. Comte Christiano is held on a charge of attempting to strike the president.

Among those now in custody are MM. de Clermont Honnerre, de Rosnant, de Villiers, de Neuville, de Panisse Passy, de Ferry and de Mun, son of Comte Albert de Mun, the well known deputy for Finisterre. Several others scarcely less prominent were arrested. Many influential persons sought to obtain the release of these aristocratic prisoners, but the prefect of police refused all such requests and removed all the prisoners to cells.

ESTERHAZY DID IT.

Confesses That He and Not Dreyfus Wrote the New Francaise Bordereau.

LONDON, June 3.—The Daily Chronicle says that Major Comte Ferdinand Walsin Esterhazy called at its office with a confidential friend and after declaring the time had arrived when the truth should be told, although bitterly opposed to inducements, he had kept silent on the essential points, made the following statement:

"The chiefs of the army have disgracefully abandoned me. My cup is full and I shall speak out. Yes," raising his voice and glaring around, "it was I who wrote the bordereau. I wrote it upon orders received from Sandherr."

Esterhazy, The Chronicle says, then proceeded to explain that for months before 1893 moral proofs had been obtained of leakages only possible through officers belonging to the ministry of war, and it was necessary to catch the guilty party by material evidence. Hence the bordereau.

GETS A NEW TRIAL.

Court of Cassation Decides in Favor of Dreyfus.

PARIS, June 3.—The court of cassation rendered a verdict in favor of a revision of the Dreyfus case and ordered a new courtmartial to sit at Rennes, sixty miles from Nantes, for the trial of the prisoner.

BOTH FACTIONS DISARMING.

Malietoans and Matafans Surrendering Their Guns.

APIA, Samoan Islands, May 31, via Auckland, N. Z., June 6.—Both native factions, the Malietoans and the Matafans, are disarming. Matafa has surrendered 1,800 guns.

STARTING FOR HOME.

Oregon Regiment Will Get Away From Manila This Week.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—General Otis advises the war department that the Oregon regiment will leave for the United States this week. It will be sent direct to Portland, Or., for muster out at Vancouver barracks.

Gomez Removed to Havana.

HAVANA, June 5.—General Gomez has been removed from Quinta to the residence of a private family in Havana. There is a marked improvement in his health, but the doctors still consider his condition precarious.

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, June 1.

Tug operators at Duluth are on a strike.

The Epsom Derby was won by Flying Fox, owned by the Duke of Westminster.

General Degnay, formerly military attache of the French legation in Washington, is dead.

The Ohio valley league of bimetallic clubs met at Louisville. It endorsed the Chicago platform and Bryan.

America's mediation scheme has been unanimously adopted by the subcommittee at The Hague peace conference.

The report of the Admiral Walker Nicaragua canal commission recommending a route has been made public.

The queen regent of Spain has signed decrees appointing Marshal Martinez Campos to the presidency of the senate.

General Otis has filed an elaborate report on the causes of the war with the Filipinos. The report shows it was not the fault of the Americans.

Friday, June 2.

Anthony Kelly, the Minneapolis grocer, died suddenly.

Parisians went wild with enthusiasm over Major Marchand on his return from Africa.

It is now thought probable that a call will be issued for 10,000 volunteers to go to the Philippines.

Vice President Hobart has so far recovered as to be able to leave Washington for Long Branch.

The transport City of Puebla has arrived at San Francisco from Manila. Among her passengers is General King.

Miss Anna H. St. Clair Patterson of Baltimore was married Thursday to Count Cesaro da Costurbia of Milan, Italy.

The Ohio congressional delegation has decided to cast a unanimous vote for Henderson for speaker of the next congress.

Lieutenant Colonel Du Paty de Clam, the probable instigator of some of the forgeries in the Dreyfus affair, has been arrested and taken to a military prison.

Saturday, June 3.

General Gomez is dangerously ill. His ailment is asthma.

The insurgents in Negros who killed Captain Tilley have been severely punished.

In a street fight at Athens, Ala., four men were wounded, at least two of them fatally.

It is stated that Sir Julian Pauncefote, British ambassador at Washington, is to be raised to the peerage.

The University of Colorado has conferred the degree of LL. D. upon Brigadier General Irving Hale, U. S. A.

A 25 per cent advance in rates on all freight coming from Atlantic seaboard territory and consigned to points in the Northwest is to go into effect June 25.

The monthly statement of the comptroller of the currency shows total circulation of national bank notes on May 31, 1899, to have been $242,485,554, a decrease for the month of $540,770, and an increase for the year of $14,451,709.

Monday, June 5.

Strauss, the composer, is dead.

It is now thought that Mrs. Maybrick will soon be released from prison.

Rev. W. H. P. Faunce has been elected president of Brown university.

Congressman Bland of Missouri is seriously ill and his friends are considerably alarmed over his condition.

The president has designated Assistant Secretary Cortelyou as secretary to the president during the absence of Secretary Porter, who has gone to Europe.

Chairman Odell of the New York Republican state committee has called a meeting of the Republican congressmen of New York state to discuss the speakership. The meeting will be held on Tuesday next.

Tuesday, June 1.

Admiral Kautz has left Samoa for San Francisco.

The sultan of Sulu is reported preparing to fight the United States.

Manufacturers of farm implements have combined and will raise prices.

Cubans lynched an agent of Weyler who murdered women and children.

A contract has been let for the four largest steel vessels ever built in fresh water.

Harvard and Yale have accepted the Oxford-Cambridge challenge for an athletic contest.

Governor Sayers of Texas has issued a call for his anti-trust convention to be held at St. Louis Sept. 20.

It has been decided to give each state one of the last five months were: January $742,448, February $707,127, March $806,925, April $860,221, May $927,238; total $4,136,961.

Deere Vehicles are All Right!

We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to unload.

They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen.

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., Fosston or McIntosh.

LARSEN & CARPENTER, Crookston.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes lies right past your door, delivering twice each day. Call on our driver, or through telephone No. 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riverside at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. ERSKINE, President. J. W. WHEELER, Cashier. WM. ANGLIN, Vice-President. H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier.

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits. Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

George B. Erskine, A. A. Miller, Wm. Anglin, J. R. Eckinson, F. M. Webb, L. Fontaine, J. P. Foote, W. H. Crosby, J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers.

SCANDIA-AMRERICAN BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON.....PRESIDENT. H. STEENERSON.....VICE-PRESIDENT. N. S. GERVAIS.....2d VICE-PRESIDENT. L. ELLINGTON.....CASHIER. A. P. HANSON, ASST. CASHIER.

Farmers, Attention!

I have the Champion Draw Cut Mower (something new) also the ever ready Jones Mower. Thomas and Plano Rakes, Disc and Acme Harrows, Newton and Stoughton Wagons.

CALL AND SEE THEM.....

S. L. COLLINS

PRINTING Of Every Description done at this Office. City Styles at Lowest Prices.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY JUNE 15, 1899 NO 10

FARMERS' INSTITUTE

To be Held in Crookston, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 21 and 22.

A STRONG CORPS OF WORKERS.

Entire Institute Corps Concentrated at This Meeting.

If the weather will be pleasant next Tuesday and Wednesday, there is [illegible] to believe there will be a good attendance at the Farmers Institute.

Supt. O. C. Gregg says he wants to make the Crookston meeting warm enough to evaporate some of the water that we have soaked in. He says it is awful hard for the dumps to sit down in a wet spring in the Crookston clay and wait for the sunshine. Let us get onto the dryest spot there is and warm up and plan to make this a lively energetic meeting. Supt. Gregg has brought this Institute work to a high state of efficiency, and will have with him for this meeting a strong corps of practical workers.

There will be no set program, but the work will be confined largely to the wants of our locality making the work of the Institute especially attractive and practical.

A number of letters have been received from farmers in different parts of the Red River Valley expressing their intention to come. The institutes so far held this season have been very well attended. Mr. Gregg has invited several special speakers, many of which, have expressed their willingness to come. Mr. Chas. McKissick, Superintendent, of the Grandin farm North Dakota writes that he will be here. He is preparing a paper on the subject "Grain and Stock in the Red River Valley." Mr. McKissick is one of the most practical farmers in the Northwest. He is Superintendent of the very large Grandin farm near Mayville, N. D. He is recognized as an authority in many lines of farming. His address at the Grain Growers Convention at Fargo was one of the best on the program and created a great deal of attention and comment.

A. W. Trow, of Glenville, Freeborn county, is a live, practical dairyman, he has been for many years the manager of the largest co-operative creamery in the state of Minnesota, and has also served several terms as vice president of the State Dairymen's Association. On the institute platform he is interesting and instructive and will be a valuable addition to the list of speakers who will entertain our convention.

A. W. TROW.

The present season has been unfavorable to the successful prosecution of farm work. Those who are depending on grain exclusively as the only source of their bread and butter have worked against great odds. To depend wholly on grain is too risky, and is too much of a lottery. No matter how well a person may understand grain growing and how well he may do his work, he has no assurance what the harvest will be. This is of course due to the fact that the development of grain is so very much dependent on the weather. This is one condition over which man has no control. There are other methods of farming that can be practiced side by sidewith garin grow ing that is far more safe, and where the outlook for the farmers future welfare is more safe. This phase of farming will be discussed at the Institute. You will receive valuable suggestions. Come and be prepared to ask questions on any subject you wish to have discussed.

Prof. Burnett of South Dakota, will take the platform to discuss some of the live stock problems Prof. Burnett has had along experience in the management of all kinds of farm animals. In South Dakota he has been connected with the Agricultural College and Experiment Station for a long term of years. His work there has been very fruitful of good results.

Supt. Gregg is making every effort to make this meeting the greatest success possible. There is only one thing more necessary and that is that the farmers come and attend the meetings. Nowhere else in the state has there been such an opportunity to receive instruction in matters relating to agriculture for years by the most practical and scientific men. Come yourself and bring as many of your family as possible. Tell your neighbors to do the same. Let us make this meeting the best on record in the state.

Children's Day.

At the Congregational church a "Children's Day Concert" service was given, consisting of songs, recitations, scripture selections and class dialogues. The painstaking care of the teachers and superintendent was manifest at every point. One part, among others worthy of special mention, was taken by six girls, each bearing a gilt placard representing the benevolent organizations of the church. After each had taken her part and while all were standing, the pastor was called on to explain fully the meaning of each monograph. Another part represented the coming of spring and the singing of birds. After the organ imitation of each bird, one of the girls would call the little songster by name and welcome him to the spring-time.

Six girls with prettily decorated basket received the offering which was for the "Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society" whose work is to establish and assist Sunday schools in destitute places. The floral decorations, which were in charge of one class, were ample and very pretty.

In connection with the exercises the Baptismal service was administered by the pastor.

CUBAN CLAIMS DISHONEST.

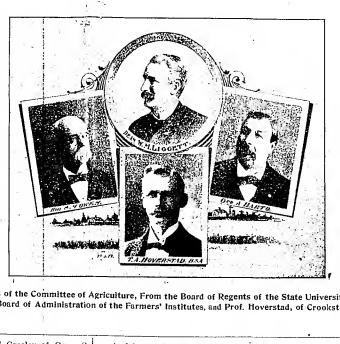
Complain Because Fields Disfigured By Graves of Americans.

Mayor Vardeman, who was appointed president of the army board of claims in Cuba recently submitted his report. Among other things he says:

Our duties upon this board have brought us into contact with every class and condition of Cuban citizenship, and we regret to report that qualities and characteristics have been revealed in the prosecution of these investigations which are not creditable to any people. Ninety-five per cent. of the claims considered were conceived in a spirit of dishonesty and supported almost entirely by the most unblushing falsehoods. In truth, the most absurd and extravagant demands were made, and universally a crowd of witnesses compassed us about ready to swear to any proposition which was deemed necessary by the unscrupulous claimants, whose tools they were to aid in robbing the United States government.

Unmindful of the fact that the United States have expended large sums of money and sacrificed some of her brightest and purest men for Cuban liberty, still we find these people demanding that rent be paid them by the United States for land which American soldiers occupied while actually fighting Cuba's battles around Santiago. Worse still, they complained bitterly that their fields should be disfigured by the temporary graves of our peerless heroic dead.

They have also endeavored to make the United States pay for property and repair losses for which Cuban and Spanish armies were responsible, the damage being done long before the American army landed upon the Island of Cuba.



Three Members of the Committee of Agriculture, From the Board of Regents of the State University and Members of the Board of Administration of the Farmers' Institutes, and Prof. Hoverstad, of Crookston Station.

Senator M. F. Greeley of Gary S. D. is one of the most thoroughly practical and successful sheep raisers in the country. His personal experience in the care and management of sheep will be valuable to anyone at all interested in sheep raising. He will tell you how to feed range sheep and how to handle large flocks, and to treat disease of sheep. There is nothing on the farm that will yield larger or quicker profit than a well managed flock of sheep. And there is no place in the country where they can be handled more successfully than in Polk county.

SUPT. O. C. GREGG.

Plan to attend the first meeting of Institute-and stay till the last. Bring your "X" with you. Gregg is loaded and wants to answer them.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

Of Presbyterian Churches in Red River Valley Form a Union.

Representatives, lay and clerical, of the Christian Endeavor Societies in connection with the Presbyterian churches which constitute the Red River Valley Presbytery, met at Warren last week Thursday and Friday and formed a union of these various societies. Rev. Mr. McKibbin, of East Grand Forks, was elected president of the new association, Miss Lydia Fletcher, of Red Lake Falls, secretary, and Mr. Harvey, of Red Lake Falls treasurer. A very enthusiastic and helpful meeting was held. Addresses on important Endeavor topics being made and general discussion following. Dr. Adams and Rev. W. E. Covert, prominent Presbyterian ministers from the southern part of the state were present. Rev. and Mrs. Fraser from Crookston were also at the meeting.

COME TO THE INSTITUTE.

Several Good Reasons Why Every Body Should Attend.

The Farmers' Institute which is to convene in Crookston next week should be a matter of wide and general interest to all farmers of the Red River Valley. The continued low price for our leading cereal at this time when the prices of all manufactured goods, machinery, etc., are advancing; the difficulties many have experienced during this unusually wet spring in working the extensive acreage required for small grain farming; and the threatened impoverishment of nearly fertile fields by a system of continuous cropping to wheat, oats, barley, and flax; all are serious reminders of the absolute necessity our farmers are under if entering more extensively into animal husbandry and general diversified farming.

In order to do this successfully we have much to learn and much to unlearn. Among the topics which might be discussed with much profit are such as "The eradication of noxious weeds, especially French Weed and Wild Mustard." The different branches of animal husbandry, as for instance those pertaining to conditions best suited to the raising of sheep, best systems of fattening beef for the market, how to profitably conduct a small dairy on a farm situated at a distance from a creamery, breeding and rearing of horses and swine, forage crops, their cultivation and best methods of preserving after harvest. In horticulture, the question of propagating and raising of small fruits etc. The farmers' wives should be interested in floriculture, the poultry yard and home adornment.

Each and every one should come with some question, the solution of which has perplexed him or her as it has arisen in the routine of daily life. These carefully written out and deposited in the "question box" will elicit answers which will be very helpful to not only those who bring them, but to many others beside. The Institute should be helpful in that it brings our farmers and their wives together in a social way, helping them to become better acquainted each with the other, and enabling them to lay plans for future improvement. Few of our farmers or their wives can afford to miss so favorable an opportunity—one which will not often occur.

Again, this proposed meeting should be a matter of great interest and concern to the citizens and especially to the business men of Crookston. While we are all proud of our various manufactories, and are all greatly benefited thereby, yet the fact remains that this is an agricultural community, and our city's growth and prosperity will ever be very largely influenced and determined by the prosperity of our farmer neighbors. Their prosperity is the prosperity of this city, their failure means stagnation of business and loss of continued growth for the city. Anything which brings about higher and better agricultural conditions acts and reacts to the benefit of all. It follows then, that the most common regard for their own business interests should lead every one of the merchants, bankers or trades-people to do everything in their power to advertise the coming meeting throughout this and the adjoining counties. No customer should be allowed to leave their store without at least a printed slip announcing the date of the approaching meeting being folded in their package. The committee on advertising should see to it that posters announcing the meeting be conspicuously displayed in all railway depots in neighboring towns and villages, besides which each citizen of Crookston should appoint himself a committee of one to notify their country acquaintances of its coming, and where convenient invite them to their homes for entertainment during their stay intown.

Again, would it not be well for our citizens, so far as they possibly can, to show their interest and appreciation for this work by attending the different sessions of these meetings and during the intermissions meeting the Institute workers and giving them words of encouragement and cheer?

Fargo has already held two very successful three days meetings this spring, one a "Grain Growers' Convention", and the other a festival of rejoicing on the anniversary of their big fire. Each of these has drawn thousands of people to their city who have left tens of thousands of dollars with their hosts and tradesmen, and the city has been widely and favorably advertised and benefited. Can we not make an equally pleasing success of this meeting? If we are, to do so the time is short and must not be allowed to run idly by.

PATRIC NEZO.

MISS IDA TILLSTON.

Mrs. Ida E. Tillston is one of the most practical poultry experts in the country, and will speak on her favorite subject, "Poultry Culture." She will treat such themes as breeds of poultry, feeding, shelter, parasites, diseases, language of fowls, profits, etc. Every person, whether in the city or country, who is at all interested in poultry, should hear Mrs. Tillston. She is thoroughly practicel and talks from her personal experience in the care of poultry.

Mrs. Laws and Mrs. Tillston will be sure to please every lady who will attend the meetings in their departments of the institute work. No one can possibly hear either one of these women talk without learning some practical lessons.

DISTRICT COURT WORK

Judge Brown Sits for Judge Watts Who has been Interested in Cases on Trial.

IMPORTANT CASES DISPOSED OF

East Grand Forks Injunction is Dismissed—The Jury is out on Schnagl Case.

As announced in the JOURNAL last week the District Court convened on Tuesday, June 6, Judge Brown on the bench. After the preliminaries incident to the opening of court, which occupied most of the first day, the case of Ole S. Spidell et al vs Lauman Taylor Machinery Company was called. The plaintiffs bought a threshing outfit from the defendants and gave their notes in payment for the same. The plaintiffs claimed that the machinery was not as represented and sued defendants for the value of the notes. The defendants alleged that the plaintiffs did not fulfill their part of the contract. When the plaintiffs rested the defendants asked the court to render a verdict in their favor and the motion was granted, the case accordingly being dismissed without going to the jury. A. A. Miller and Senator Somerville of Sleepy Eye were attorneys for defendants.

The next case called was that of Horton & Horton vs Ingmar R. Messely to recover value of a note given by defendants. While the jury was being called the case was settled.

George Schnagl, against whom the grand jury brought in an indictment for arson was arraigned before the court and given one day to plead guilty or not guilty. The court appointed H. Steenerson to defend him. The latter plead not guilty.

The next case called was that of Gurine Koppang against J. Gernnager. The action was brought to obtain possession of a quarter section of land which the plaintiff claimed defendant had deeded to him in return for money loaned her. Defendant claimed that an erasure had been made in the so-called deed and that anyway this document was only a mortgage. The jury after being out about an hour returned a verdict for the defendant, whose attorney was H. Steenerson.

In the case of Brown Kaus-on vs J. S. Nickols, which was appealed from the Justice Court the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, assessing his damages at $70.86.

The case of Minerva Freeman against Joseph Brewster came next. This case had been appealed to the supreme court and sent back to the District Court for a new trial. A jury was waived and it was agreed between the attorneys that the testimony which had been sent to the supreme court would be used, Joseph Brewster being the only witness examined and he only for a few minutes. The judge now has the case under advisement.

Early in the session an injunction asked for by Martin Purvell, was issued by Judge Brown restraining Mayor Thompson, City Clerk Hamm and Treasurer Buckley of East Grand Forks from issuing the $25,000.00 worth of bonds that had been sold to W. H. Pringle. It was alleged in the complaint that East Grand Forks had already exceeded its debt limit and that the proceeds of these bonds were to be expended illegally. The city officers were ordered to appear before the court Saturday and show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent. The injunction was discharged.

Besides George Schnagl the grand jury brought an indictment against H. O. Breidal, charging him with larceny. He drew a check on a St. Paul bank and had the same cashed at Erskine when the amount of the check was greater than the amount of his funds at the St. Paul bank. Indictments were also returned against Anton Johnson and Torkel Holland, of the town of Columbia, for selling liquor without a license. Both men were arrested. P. Russel, of Crookston was indicted for larceny, it being charged that he had retained money sent to him by a man in Otter Tail county.

Case of W. E. Kelsey vs St. P. & M. Ry. was first taken up Monday morning. It is an action brought by Mr. Kelsey against the G. N. Ry. to recover damages which he alleges to have suffered during the years of 1894-5-6-7 by reason of the railroad grade damming up water and overflowing his land. Court adjourned at 11 o'clock to permit the jury to go out and look over the premises, about two miles southeast of town. The jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

AROUND THE COUNTY

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

McINTOSH.

Miss Louise Loe is still very ill.

Hay is scarce in town on account of bad roads.

Joseph Mandt went to Fosston last Tuesday.

Rev. Oppegaard left Monday for Spring Grove, Iowa.

Sheriff Lawrence sized up the city Monday with his eagle eye.

A ball game at Fosston next Sunday between we'uns and them.

Nils Fosen, of Minneapolis, a relative of Rev. Reishus, is visiting in town.

The Misses Dolly Drew and Mabel Johnson visited in Fosston last Thursday.

Hans Xybus is just putting the finishing touches to his large new house on his farm.

The Lambert baseball team will try their luck with the ball tossers of McIntosh at the Fourth.

The base ball nine have sent for a set of high grade suits, and expect to look pretty flashy when they get them.

Matt Jensen spent last week on the jury at Crookston with Andrew Narveson, Knut Brekke and John Rakstad.

Thorman Rosholt is home again from Fergus Falls. He has completed the Academic course at Park Region Luther College this year.

Rev. Reishus went to Shevlin Saturday, and returning Sunday, went right through to Spring Grove, Iowa, to attend the annual meeting of the Lutheran Synod.

Emil Johnson's little baby died Monday morning and was buried Wednesday. The bereaved family have many sympathizers who do their best to help them bear their sad loss bravely.

Ferdinand and Gunda Oppegaard opened their new restaurant last Saturday. It is fixed up elegantly. And you don't have to perch yourself and lady on top of a high stool and lean over a dirty counter to get a meal neither. The new restaurant satisfies a long felt want in our good old town, and we wish it success.

A reception was given last Monday night to Mr. and Mrs. Hans Bolstad, who were married some days ago. Dr. A. McEachran made the speech of the evening and distinguished himself. Some useful articles in furniture were presented by the citizens to the honored couple. Then came the "everybody dance". Every participant reports a fine time.

A grand picnic will be held at Halvdan Engeonen, near McIntosh the 24th and 26th of this month. The judge from the preparations, it is going to be something all unheard of. The Winger Cornet band will blow their loudest. The special feature of the day will be three orations delivered by Minnesota's three most successful Scandinavian temperance lecturers. One of these is E. E. Lobeck, the prohibitionist candidate for congress of the last election.

ANGUS.

Our newspaper is making his rounds.

H. C. Clark drove to Warren on Friday.

J. Revier and A. Evans spent Sunday in Warren.

W. Lennon went out to Mick Ants on Tuesday.

F. Strohle and son J. A. were in Warren on Saturday.

Mrs. Finlayson returned home from Duluth on Thursday.

Jesse Campion was in Crookston on Sunday visiting friends.

D. Christoffersen's children who have had the measles are better.

A. E. Rush and son Theodore spent Tuesday night in Crookston.

P. M. Lennon, A. T. Campion, J. F. Montgomery and wife went to Fargo on Tuesday night to attend the carnival.

Mrs. McAvoy, of Crookston, is visiting her daughter Mrs. Montgomery.

S. J. Lake went to Crookston on Monday evening to act as a grand juror.

H. C. Clark and wife spent Sunday with Mrs. Clark's mother in the town of Brisbet.

Some of the young folks took in the Woodmen ball in Euclid on Friday night. They report a good time.

NEILSVILLE.

O. G. Dale's new barn is nearing completion.

Hayes Bros. have resumed marketing wheat.

Mrs. T. Sundet, of Crookston, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. B. Spokelelie.

Rev. Brodlund's congregation have decided to build for him a new barn this summer.

Rev. and Mrs. Michael, of Halstad, visited with Hayes Bros. and families last week.

We expect to see quite a turnout from here the time of the excursion to Duluth this week.

The weather continues very favorable for the crops. Nevertheless, we could get along with a little less rain.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Kolstad went to Crookston Monday of this week, taking their baby there for medical treatment.

This is a busy week for E. C. Oustad. He is moving his goods into his new store and is also receiving large supplies of new goods.

O. J. Bye took in part of the Fire Festival at Fargo, going there Thursday evening via Cummings and returning Friday on our flying Dutchman.

Died, at the home of her parents, Friday, June 9, Mrs. H. Hoven, daughter of Paul Simon. She was nineteen years of age. Her husband is teaching the school in District 5, and they were at present staying with her parents. She leaves her husband with two small children. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon.

HALSTAD.

School closes June 21.

S. Refsland is building his house larger.

Ole Fredrickson is laid up with a sore hand.

Quite a little wheat is coming in now-a-days.

Ole Bye, of Nelsville, visited our burg Sunday.

P. A. Nelson is moving into the Ryan Hotel this week.

H. Hawkins is busy fixing up the house he bought lately.

Mrs. Jacob Farnseth has been down with the typhoid fever.

Andrews & Gages Elevator company's house is being fixed up.

J. J. Flikkie bought a pair of roadsters lately from H. J. Brasch.

J. W. Anderson, L. E. Olson and O. Paulsrud from Shelly was in town Sunday.

C. Ed. Nordly and M. A. Paaumon amongst others went to Fargo on Tuesday.

Johnny Whaje went to Ada on Friday to work in Ed. Desnoe's tonsorial shop.

A big rain shower struck town on Saturday and lasted about fifteen or twenty minutes.

Lightning struck the Norwegian Lutheran church here Saturday and damaged the steeple some.

E. Fuglede received his furniture from South Dakota last Friday. His family will be here by June 15.

A base ball game was played here last Sunday between Hendrum and the newly organized Selsley team of this place. Score 18 to 13 in favor of the Selsley.

The session of the district lodge of the I. O. G. T. met last Saturday at the Good Templar Hall. The meeting was well attended. Delegates were present from Shelly, March River, Lockhart, Ada, Caledonia, Fremdstrit and St. Hilaire lodges, and a rousing meeting was held. The grand lodge degree was also given to those who were entitled to receive it. Sunday a open meeting was held at 2 o'clock p. m. and also in the evening. The services consisted of songs, recitations and speeches delivered by Hon. O. P. Olen, Atty. N. T. Moen, Superintendent of schools Miss C. Bradley, Grand Chief Templar Dykeman, Profs. Hankey and Aarestad and A. Berge. A good audience attended both in the afternoon and evening.

MENTOR.

Joe Tagley sold six McCormick mowers last week.

J. K. Messelt and wife made a trip to Crookston last week.

W. Farrell bought a new wagon from Frank Bain Monday.

John Remick is going to build a large barn on his farm this summer.

Orilla Dronsvolle bought himself a new wagon last week from Joe Tagley.

Messrs. Ellington & Austin came from Crookston today for an outing at the lake.

The crops are looking fine around here and the prospects are good for a large crop.

Frank Bain has sold his horse to Jim Anderson, and Jim has bought lumber for a stable.

J. O. Bahu has had all his boats repainted, and now has plenty of them to supply everybody.

Several of those that have cottages at the lake have now arrived and are here to stay for the summer.

Joseph Tagley is going to build an addition to his store. He is going to put in a complete stock of hardware.

J. L. Sletten is going to take a pleasure trip to Iowa. He will start tomorrow, and he goes about two weeks.

Andrew Thompson has bought himself a new two seated buggy. It is a stunner, and if anybody else wants one he can get it at Tagleys.

J. L. Sletten had six livery rigs out Sunday. Most of them came down to the Lake fishing. Everybody reports a good time and plenty of fish.

Tideman Olsen is having his house fixed up and several loads of lumber have been used already. It will look just as good as a new one when finished.

Joseph Tagley intended to go fishing Sunday, but a dark cloud on the sky scared him so he give it up. He missed it though for he did not catch any fish.

The grader will be seen at work on the streets of Mentor next week as it is the intention of the board to have the streets graded up in fine shape.

The new engine house for the St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator is now nearly completed, and the engine will be running in a short while with Engineer J. H. Fulton at the throttle.

EUCLID.

The Woodmen's dance given Friday evening was largely attended and an enjoyable evening was spent by all.

C. Eide moved his family up from Crookston today and will occupy the house which Mr. Pitkin has just vacated.

Father Murphy came down Saturday evening and held services on Sunday in the Belgium school house east of town.

Miss Ruth Hancock returned from Southern Minnesota Thursday morning, where she has been attending school.

A. H. Pitkin and family, who have lived here for the past three years moved to Crookston Monday, where they will reside in the future.

ERSKINE.

Dr. Olsen returned from Crookston Saturday.

Gunder Steenerson returned from Felton Tuesday.

Our barber visited at Mentor Sunday, returning Monday.

O. Steenerson is improving his lumber yard these days.

N. C. Lillemoe was doing business at Fosston on Monday.

Mr. Sampson was in the burg between trains Wednesday.

Mrs. Pet Rolsiun and children visited at Fertile Sunday.

Great preparations are being made for the Fourth of July.

Mrs. A. F. Crompiet was at Mcintosh between trains Friday.

Haus Hanson has built a new sidewalk in front of his saloon.

G. B. Trip, of Mentor, was in town Wednesday doing business.

Ole Bjorge came down from McIntosh Tuesday looking for Piano deals.

The wrecking crew was here today (Wednesday) clearing up the wreck.

An addition is being built to the dwelling part of the shoe and harness shop.

Martin Hanson, of Rotesy, is visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Ole Krogstad.

Marshal Holte took T. Hartland to Crookston for running a blind pig in Dakota.

L. F. Benson has started raising the frame work of his new building in South Erskine.

Dr. Olsen was doing business in our burg on Friday and he says Erskine is booming.

Hrs. Pet Rolsiun left for Rice county for a months visit with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Engen were up to Fosston Wednesday, doing business between trains.

H. T. Gilbertson, our miller, has been out east along the line disposing of some of his flour.

Miss Hamre returned from Fertile Sunday, where she has been visiting for the past two weeks.

Dr. McKinnon, of Fosston, was called Friday to see N. C. Lillemoe's little daughter as she was very sick.

Water was struck at 90 feet in South Erskine Monday, the water rising to within six inches of the top. How is that for Erskine.

Hoblar Heskin and daughter Anneta arrived from Montana Tuesday, where he has been herding sheep for the last two years.

The local freight run two cars off the side track here Tuesday. One of the cars is still standing and the other one tipped over in the ditch. Both cars were empty and while going round a curve the car jumped the track, causing the wreck.

SHELLY.

A. O. Anderson took in the Fargo Festival.

Nicholas Olson from Halstad was in town Monday.

Joe Anderson and Christ Hawkins drove to Halstad Sunday afternoon.

C. K. Semling, of Halstad, transacted business in Shelly last Monday.

Rev. Michael held English service in the Good Templar Hall Sunday evening.

E. J. Paulsrud went to Neilsville Saturday and stayed over Sunday with he folks.

J. C. Johnson has put an addition to his fruit store which will be fitted out for a tonsorial parlor.

Ole Aalkestad returned Friday from Moorhead where he has been attending the Concordia College.

Thos. Neyers says he can't go to see his girl any more for a while, as he says it is coming in too fast.

Mr. Dykeman, Grand Chief Templar I. O. G. T. for State of Minnesota was in town Monday and Tuesday.

There will be a number of Shellyites taking in the Superior excursion. About 25 or 30 contemplate going there.

Thos. Neyers is getting the bulk of the wheat now-a-days. Saturday's figures run up to four thousand bushels.

Misses. Clara and Amelia Schell and Messer. Geo. Affrit and Torkev Steen drove to Halstad Sunday afternoon.

A large number of the Shelly Good Templars went to Halstad Saturday and Sunday to attend the District Lodge.

Dr. Cleveland, C. A. Hawkins, Ed Paulsrud and Ludvig Olson took in the Woodmen lodge at Halstad Friday evening.

Ludvig Olson drove to Hillsboro Saturday evening and returned Sunday afternoon. He reports a splendid time.

K. J. Osthy and wife visited friends and relatives at Hickson N. D. They all took in the Fargo Festival. They returned Tuesday.

Miss Tina Thompson, who is teaching school near Hillsboro spent Saturday and Sunday with her folks on the farm. She returned to Hillsboro Sunday evening.

There will be a bowery dance at Shelly on July 4, and a big crowd is expected to trip the light fantastic. The famous Bye's Orchestra will be secured if it can be had, and a swell time is warranted.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hallu, of Owatanna, Minn., were called here to see Mrs. Hallu's father, Mr. S. B. Sandbek, who is seriously ill and not expected to live. Mr. Sandbek is now improving. Mr. Hallu returned to Owatonna Tuesday.

LENGBY.

A. Welte returned from Crookston Monday.

Sheriff Lawrence was here last Friday between trains.

Assessor Obrin is around this week figuring up how much we are all worth.

Chas. Carlson, John Stove and Andrew Olson went to Crookston Tuesday.

Jacob Folstrom has moved into one of John Newton's houses on section 31.

Rev. Refsdahl and little daughter where visiting with Mr. Bye's family on Tuesday.

Miss Carrie Molstad, who has been home for a visit, returned to Fosston Tuesday.

Attorney Hendricks, of Fosston, was here on Saturday conducting a mortgage sale.

John Retad came in from his claim near Pine Lake Sunday and returned Tuesday.

E. Kingsley and family, of Wheatland, N. D. arrived this week for a visit with relatives here.

Bengestad, Nelson & Olson received a carload of Deering harvesting machinery a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Nelson gave a dance Saturday night. There was a large crowd and a splendid time.

John Anderson left Monday for Minneapolis where he will stay a week and visit relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Satterstrom and daughter Pearl left Saturday for a week's visit with friends at Fargo N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Nelson arrived Tuesday with their household goods and will set up housekeeping in the Lillo building.

The Modern Woodmen of Lengby gave a ball last Saturday but on account of the rain they had a small crowd but a good time.

Mrs. Reda and daughter who has been visiting her brother Adolph and John Fredrickson for a few weeks, returned to her home at Duluth this morning accompanied by her brother Adolph who will remain there for a time.

RUSSIA.

Moss was sold here today by the French Priest of Crookston.

Th. Stephens has just finished a large barn 34 feet high. 32 feet wide and 60 feet long.

Some interesting reading can be looked for in every weekly JOURNAL sent from this station.

John Larivere, of Hammond, attended the Catholic church service and transacted business here today.

Two base ball nines have been lately organized and on the 18th inst they will do their best to win the prize which somebody is putting up.

Peter Wermanger has just about finished a very fine residence building near this place. He has beautified his place in planting 300 young trees around it.

The Russia-Grand G. N. R. R. section crew has been helping the crew here in leveling the rails and taking away the grease along the ties and rails. There are about 20 men working at it.

South Crookston.

The roof of the Baptist block is undergoing repairs.

Mrs. D. A. Darby on Monday returned from Fargo, where she has been visiting friends.

Mrs. Babcock and her son Harry, of Fosston, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Childs.

The foundation of the new school house has been completed and the frame work is going up rapidly.

Mrs. E. D. Childs, together with a party of Crookston people, spent Tuesday in Grand Forks with Mrs. Robt. Stanton.

The residents of the Fifth ward are greatly rejoiced over the fact that a patrol limits ordinance has been passed by the city council.

Frank Bantz, one of the plaining mill employes, on Tuesday morning accidently upset a pile of lumber which fell across the lower part of his body breaking his leg in several places. He was immediately taken to the hospital, where he is being cared for.

CLIMAX.

Miss Petra Lee left for Crookston Monday.

W. R. Tainter, of Hawley, was in town this week.

Gilbert Kittelson was on the sick list Monday.

Melvin Erickson was doing business in Crookston Saturday last.

Hans Samuelson was doing business in Crookston Friday last.

E. B. Bye went to Crookston Friday and returned Saturday.

J. A. Ralston went to Fargo last week to take in the Fire Festival.

John Steenerson and R. B. Mjore made a business trip to Fargo last week.

Oscar Erickson, traveling salesman for the Ray Mercantile Co., was here on Monday.

Hans Samuelson has had a new front put into the building that he purchased from Ole Brevik.

H. L. Trimble, of Hillsboro, was here on Monday looking after the interests of the Valley Lumber Co.

Messrs. J. M. Lochen, Arnie Johnson, Albert Spokhlie and Andrew Evenson, drove to Nelsville on Monday.

ADA.

John Grove Land & Loan Co. have a good business.

A new sidewalk has been laid from the depot to Hotel Ada.

Charley Snyder, the grain man, who lives at Fertile, spent Wednesday at Ada.

James Montgrue came to our village last Tuesday night to make a short stay.

J. G. Schumming will make a trip to Crookston Sunday to visit his friend Frank Cramer.

Rondmaster J. J. Hess of Grand Forks and Assistant E. J. Regan of Crookston, were in town on Monday.

Rudolph Brawand is building a residence in the southwest part of town. Dimensions 31x34, 16 foot posts.

Chauncey Jenkens has lately built a livery barn on Downs aveune. Size 34x114, 20 feet high. It is being painted.

M. Rosenquist, who represents the American Copying Co. of Chicago, was in town Wednesday looking after his employers' interests.

Fred C. Gollmar, a brother of the show man who was killed at New Richmond, Wis., in the recent disaster, was in town last Thursday.

E. J. Knotz went to Minneapolis last Tuesday night as a delegate to the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F. He will be gone the rest of the week.

P. O. Oustad, who was recently married at St. James, Minn., to Miss Emma Krogen, of that place, is expected back the first of next week. Congratulations.

The artesian well was finished last week. It now has a flow of 200 barrels a day, and now furnishes the water with which to flush the sewers.

Messrs. Chauncy Jenkens, Charley Ward and Ed. J. Farley and their respective wives and lady, are on a fishing trip to Pelican Lake, near Perham, Minn.

Cashier Lodgren of the Norman County Bank went Tuesday evening to Minneapolis to attend the Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T. He will be back Sunday evening.

Quite a number of our citizens went over to the White Earth celebration last Tuesday to partake of the festivities and possibly indulge in the war dance.

W. C. Patterson, who has been in his new hotel building about one month, has every nice furnishings and will be a first-class house. The Hotel Ada deserves a good patronage.

C. H. Rasmussen and wife, A. J. Vangne and wife, and Dave Fulton, E. J. Farley and Julius Pleth went to the Fire Festival at Fargo from here last Wednesday, returning Saturday.

Our saw mill has purchased a lot of new machinery (two new band saws among the rest) and commenced operations last week. Owing to a breakdown Monday work was postponed until Wednesday morning.

Ed Bookmiller, one of our popular barbers, who has recently opened up business in the annex of the Ada Hotel on Pacific avenue, has fixed it up in fine shape and has a first-class bath room in connection. Give him a call.

EDNA.

Cornelius Hanson is repairing his house.

I. D. Welter has just painted his residence a neat color.

S. C. Johnson of Crookston drove to our town Tuesday.

Posters for Ringling Bros. circus were in town Tuesday.

I. N. Kingsland went to Crookston Tuesday to transact business.

Anton Gumme is building a large barn, the length being sixty feet.

Mr. Nevne is building a new residence and barn on his place north of town.

J. F. Aagard has added an addition to his residence. He lives northeast of town.

A. P. Gill left last week for La Crosse, Wis., where his father is dying of dropsy.

H. B. Budd has just completed a neat and substantial board fence around his premises.

Mrs. S. Regedal has built a barn just east of the hotel. Size 28x32. It is now being painted.

I. N. Kingsland is erecting a large, new hotel 24x44, 18 foot posts, for the better accommodation of the public.

J. I. Daughenbaugh has just completed a house on his home-tend seven miles southeast of Edna. Dimensions 18x20.

John Weinborg has added to the improvements of Edna this year by building a new blacksmith shop 34x32, in the north part of town.

I. B. Welter is building a machine shed 24x36 for A. P. Hall. It will be completed right away. He has just received two car loads of farm machinery and wagons.

The St. Anthony & Dakota Lumber Co. have built them a lumber shed just east of their elevator, and it is now in running order. It is one of the finest sheds in the Valley. Size 30x80.

I. Welter is putting in seats in the new Union church. It makes a good house in which to worship. The church was built through the Ladies' Aid Society of Edna and Larson & carpenter of Crookston very kindly donated the paint for the edifice. It will be painted as soon as the weather permits.

DUGDALE.

The Great Northern fencing gang is fencing near Dugdale.

Mr. Tollef Farden, has bought a farm near Dugdale on section 12.

Anton Shuland and wife returned from their visit today. They claim they had a good visit.

W. C. Hartin has sold his blooded horse to Ben Wether, who lives near Mentor, for a good price.

Some new settlers came to this township today to take up homesteads. Our town is settling up fast.

Dugdale is in need of a blacksmith. There is a good shop for the right man, as there is lots of blacksmithing to be done here.

J. P Bakken has final proof on his claim three miles north of Dugdale. Minn. John Farden and Herman Camp were his witnesses.

The crops are looking fully as good as they looked in 1895 around here. We have a shower of rain every day that is o k for our country around here.

Charles Oehler has a fine blackhawk trotting horse for which he was offered $275, but his price is $300. Charles Oehler will get his price under any other.

One of the blacksmiths of Fertile came over to Maple Lake recently on a fishing trip. He caught about 200 fish, consisting of pike, sun fish and perch.

Brennan Camp is taking several contracts around Polk county to paint bonses, buggies and wagons. He wants to hire a man that can stripe and do grain work.

Calvin Hartin and August Pike had an interesting foot race at 8 p. m. for a house worth $25. Mr. Pike is a telegraph operator for the Great Northern R. R. at this place. He is a swift man.

Brennan Camp, of Dugdale, while in Crookston dropped into the shooting gallery the other day, and when he left the same he had all the cigars he could carry. He was very lucky.

Dugdale is in need of a grist mill. This is a good point for a miller. Who is the lucky man with some capital who will start a mill here? This is the centre of the county and yet we have no mill.

J. J. Hattlestad's barn was badly wrecked by a wind storm recently. Andrew Ricke will repair it. Mr. Hattlestad was afraid that his house would tip over, though it did not, but it was raised about two inches.

T. Wicks is turning the sod over to beat everything. He expects to break about 40 acres this season, and he is one of the greatest hustlers for a young man we have in our township. As his father died two years ago it leaves him at the forefront.

W. C. Cupper, commercial traveler for Rosen, Beck & Co., was in town today with sample trunks containing gents' furnishing goods. They have the finest samples that we have seen this year. They invested in about $12 00 worth of stock. That will fill all the empty shelves.

Mr. William McKinley, the president of the United States, will visit Dugdale in July to call on all of his republicans, which will be the greatest thing for all citizens, and he will try to convert Mr. Joe Miller Sr., who is a very strong populist. Mr. W. C. Hartin, proprietor, of the Dugdale Hotel, will give a great dinner for Mr. Wm. McKinley and all of his friends. It will be given free.

LOCKHART.

P. H. Dykeman has remodeled his house. He has also built a wired picket fence, with a nicely painted iron gate.

August Munns is building a new house 26x26, with kitchen 12x12; 12 foot posts, on the east side of the railroad, in Lockhart. It will be completed about July 1.

The piledriver from Barnesville has been putting in new piles beneath in the railroad bridge just south of town.

Frank Goeke, our grain buyer, had his hand bruised quite severely last Monday in the elevator, but it is improving.

J. D. McPhee made a trip to Crookston Wednesday, June 14.

Albin Peterson has the finest wheat field in this vicinity and is therefore to be congratulated.

Farm For Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—north-west quarter of section 29, town 150, range 45, in the village of Gentilly, about 100 rods from cheese factory. No. 1 buildings, including good house, well finished, large barn for stock, granary holding 6,000 bushels, good well; creek that never goes dry, close to barn; about four miles of fence on the farm. For further particulars, inquire of N. Brosseau, at Ottawa House, Crookston, Minn. 8-20

Excursion to Cleveland, O.

One fare for the round trip via Nickel Plate Road, on June 25th and 26th. Tickets good returning to and including June 29th, 1899. Chicago depot, Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave. Address General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

—WANTED—By the editor of the JOURNAL, a load of hay and a load of oats. These will be received on subscription.

Agents Wanted.

The oldest and largest nursery in the west. Everything for the grove and orchard. Three plans of work, and the year round. Pay weekly. Write for terms. THE JEWEL NURSERY CO., Lake City, Minn. 9-14

Notice For Bids

Bids will be received by the undersigned at his office in City hall, in city of Crookston, Minnesota, until Friday the 16th inst., at 10 o'clock a. m. for doing repairs on building belonging to August Munn in said city as per specifications on file in his office.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids subject to approval of Street and Bridge committee.

WM. A. LANCTOT,
City Clerk.

NEWS MORE PACIFIC.

But Preparations For Possible Hostilities Continue In England.

LONDON, June 13.—Commander-in-Chief Lord Wolseley has been busy for several days and evenings at the war office, preparing for possible eventualities in South Africa. The effective lists of the first-class reserve have been prepared and transportation for the First army corps has been provisionally arranged. The officers on furlough have been warned to hold themselves in readiness to return to their regiment. The general trend of news, however, is more pacific.

LUNA ASSASSINATED.

Report That the Philippine Military Chief Was Killed In Aguinaldo's Camp.

MANILA, June 14.—2:45 p. m.—Information believed to be reliable, has reached here of the assassination of General Luna and his aide-de-camp, Lieutenant Paseo Ramon, June 8, by Aguinaldo's guard, at the headquarters of Aguinaldo. Luna and Ramon, it appears, went to the headquarters of the Filipinos to confer with Aguinaldo, got into an altercation with the captain of the guards and one of them drew a revolver. The guard then killed Luna and Ramon with their bayonets.

LATE MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, June 14.
WHEAT—Cash, No 1 hard, 74½c; No 1 Northern 76c; No. 2 Northern 71½c; No. 3, 69c. To Arrive—No. 1 hard, 74½c; No. 1 Northern, 69½c; July, 70½c; September, 73½c

Minneapolis Wheat.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 14.
WHEAT—In Store—No. 1 Northern June, 74½c; July, 74½@74½c; September, 74½c. On Track—No. 1 hard, 74½c; No. 1 hard, 73½c; No 1 Northern, 76½c; No 2 Northern, 73½c.

Sioux City Live Stock.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., June 14
HOGS—Market about a dime Lighr. Range of prices, $3.35@3.67½.
CATTLE—Market steady
Sales ranged at $4.40@4.70 for beeves, $3.00@4.00 for cows, bulls and mixed; $3.20@3.50 for stockers and feeders, $4.00 @5.25 for calves and yearlings.
Receipts: Cattle 800, hogs 1,800.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

ST. PAUL, June 14.
HOGS—Market is lighter. Range of prices $3.20@3.45.
CATTLE—Market about steady. Good demand but few offered.
Sales ranged at $3.45@4.95 for steers; $3.50@4.40 for calves, $3.00@4.00 for heifers, $3.25@3.60 for cows, $4.00@4.75 for stockers, $2.85@3.10 for bulls
SHEEP—Market steady
Sales ranged at $3.25@4.50 for sheep; $4.25@5.25 for spring lambs.
Receipts: Cattle, 301, calves, 230; hogs, 100, sheep, 2,000.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, June 14.
HOGS—Market steady to 2½c higher. Sales ranged at $3.45@3.90 for mixed and butchers; $3.60@3.90 for good heavy; $3.60@3.70 for rough heavy; $3.70@3.95 for light.
CATTLE—Market steady.
Sales ranged at $4.00@5.00 for beeves; $3.00@4.30 for cows and heifers; $4.00@4.90 for Texas steers; $3.90@5.15 for stockers and feeders.
SHEEP—Market steady
Sales ranged at $3.75@5.00 for sheep; $4.75@5.35 for lambs
Receipts: Hogs, 40,000; cattle, 14,000, sheep, 12,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, June 14
CLOSING PRICES
WHEAT—July, 76c, September, 77½c; December, 78½c
CORN—June 34½c; July, 34½c; September, 34½c; December, 34½c.
OATS—June, 24½c; July, 23½@23½c; September, 20½@20c.
PORK—June, 8.22; July, 8.32½; September, 8.45.

Crookston Market.

The following is the price of wheat quoted in the local market this morning:
No. 1 hard..... 64c
No. 1 northern..... 63c
No. 2 northern..... 60c

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO. Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk, ss.
The State of Minnesota to F. H. Otten don, Defendant:
You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Judges of the Peace in and for said county on the 10th day of July, 1899, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon at my office in the City of Crookston in said county, to answer the complaint of the said plaintiff in this action, to the damage of one hundred dollars and costs. Should you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Otto Hartlieb for the sum so said above specified and costs.
Given under my hand this 2nd day of June, 1899.

G. H. HOLT,
Justice of the Peace

Notice For Bids.

Bids for building a wooden bridge across the Blumenbaum creek, in the town of Fisher, will be received up to one o'clock p. m. Friday, June 2, at which time the town board of the town of Fisher will meet at the residence of Ole Asmundson, for the purpose of opening said bids. Plans and specifications can be seen by calling at the residence of the undersigned in the town of Fairfax. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A. O. DANIELS,
Chairman of Board.

BINDER TWINE Your famous BLUE LABEL BRAND. It's the best in the world. Price wise—you know you will deliver it. Write for prices and samples.
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO

MICA AXLE GREASE lightens the load—shortens the road. helps the team. Saves wear and expense. Sold everywhere. MADE BY STANDARD OIL CO.

Final Proof.

Land office at Crookston, Minn.
May 6th, 1899.
Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on June 20th, 1899, viz:
PETER CARPENTER,
H. E. 4262 for the se¼, sec. 5, township 150, north of range 47, w.
He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:
Joseph Cuperus, Fred Wagner, Adolph Kliurer, Mederic Lagasse, all of Crookston Minn.
SYLVESTER PETERSON,
8-11 Register.

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk,—ss.
In Probate Court, Special term May 31, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of George Eadey, deceased.
On reading and filing petition of the estate of George Eadey, deceased late of the county of Polk, State of Minnesota, being granted to H. C. Mosher.
It is ordered, That six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims against said deceased may present the same for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.
It is further ordered, That the first day of December, 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m. at a special term of this Probate Court to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston, in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.
And it is further ordered, That notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by publication of this order in the Polk County Journal, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.
Dated Crookston, Minn. this 5th day of May, A. D. 1899.
By the Court.
OLE E. HAGEN,
Attorney for Estate Judge of Probate.
Crookston, Minn. [9-11]

Mortgage Sale.

First publication, May 25, 1899
Last publication, June 15th, 1899.
Notice of mortgage sale given by advertisement.
Default has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage containing power of sale dated the 15th day of December, 1894, filed in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, Minnesota, on the 18th day of July, 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m. and recorded in Book "M" of mortgages on page 526, wherein Edward Law, a widower, mortgagor, mortgaged to The American Freehold and Mortgage Company of London, Limited, of London, England, mortgagee, the following described tract or parcel of real estate, situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:
The east half of the northeast quarter (e½ of ne¼) and the east half of the southeast quarter (e½ of se¼) of section fifteen (15), township one hundred forty-eight (148), range forty-three (43), containing one hundred sixty (160) acres, more or less, according to the United States Government Survey thereof, together with the appurtenances thereunto belonging, by which default said power of sale has become operative;
And no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been taken to recover the debt secured thereby, or any part of the same, and there is now due and claimed to be due on said mortgage and said debt the sum of four hundred and thirty-two hundredths (.80) dollars;
Now, therefore, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and the statute said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale promptly said at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, by the sheriff of said Polk County, or his deputy, on Saturday, the 15th day of June, 1899, at the front door of the court house, in the City of Crookston, in said Polk County, Minnesota, to pay said debt, with interest, taxes (if any), twenty-five (25) dollars attorney's fees, and the costs and disbursements allowed by law.
Dated, St. Cloud, Minn., April 25th, 1899.
THE AMERICAN FREEHOLD LAND MORTGAGE COMPANY OF LONDON (Limited) of London, England.
Mortgagee.
GEO H. REYNOLDS.
Attorney for Mortgagee.
4-11 St. Cloud, Minn.

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk,—ss.
In Probate Court, Special Term, May 31, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of Joseph O. Mathews, deceased.
Letters of administration on the estate of Joseph O. Mathews, deceased, late of the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, being granted to Emma M. Mathews.
It is ordered, that six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against said deceased are required to file the same in the Probate Court of said County, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.
It is further ordered, that the 2nd day of December 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m. at a Special Term of said Probate Court to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston, in said County, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.
And it is further ordered, that notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by forthwith publishing this order in the Polk County Journal, a weekly newspaper printed and published in said County.
Dated Crookston, this 31st day of May, 1899.
By the Court.
OLE E. HAGEN,
5-10 Justice of Probate.

Final Proof.

Land office at Crookston, Minn.
May 3rd, 1899.
Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver, U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minnesota, on June 20th, 1899, viz:
JOHN P. BARKICH,
H. E. No. 11,897 for the lot 2 and w½ of e½, w½, section 1, township 149 n, range 45 w.
He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:
Joseph Sago, Herman Camp, Charles Sago, John T. Fardon, all of Dugdale, Minnesota.
SYLVESTER PETERSON,
4-9 Register

Order to Examine Accounts, Etc.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk,—ss.
In Probate Court, special term June 13, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of Henry H. Granger, deceased.
On reading and filing the petition of Jerome W. Wheeler administrator of the estate of Henry H. Granger, deceased, representing among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining and allowing the account of his administration, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to heirs.
It is ordered, that said account be examined, and petition be heard by the Judge of this Court on Friday the 7th day of July
A. D. 1899 at two o'clock p. m. at the Probate office in Crookston in said county.
And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested, by publishing this order for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper, printed and published at Crookston in said County.
Dated at Crookston Minn. the 15th day of June A. D. 1899
By the Court.
A. A. MILLER, OLE E. HAGEN,
Attorney for Estate. Judge of Probate.

STATE FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

WILL BE HELD AT

CROOKSTON,

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY

June 20, 21 '99,

Farmers' Institute Work

In Minnesota has become a permanent institution in the improvement of Farm Work, Breeding and Care of Stock, Dairying, Horticulture, etc. The best instructors to be found were secured for this Summer circuit, and we are sure this Institute will be as successful as any ever held in the state. Come early, as the first hour will be as rich in instruction as any other during the meeting.

Remember this is State Work

All Free
No Charges
No Collections

GIVEN AWAY.

FORENOON SESSION ONLY

Every farmer who attends the forenoon session of this Institute can get a very valuable book of over 350 pages, estimated to be worth from $5.00 to $25.00, Free. This Book is made by practical workers, and can be relied upon. It is the Institute Annual, and is better than ever before, but is not for sale at the book stores- Tell all your neighbors.

You Can't Afford to Miss This.

A day spent in attendance at a Farmers Institute may result in the adoption of methods, the value of which cannot be estimated.

Polk County Journal,

BY N. S. GORDON.

Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minn., as second-class matter.

WE wish to state that we are very careful in selecting our advertisers and that we can guarantee all those who insert advertisements in the JOURNAL.

THE ladies of both city and country can not afford to miss Mrs. Bertha Dahl Laws' work at the Farmers' Institute next week, as she is specially gifted and her work will surely be interesting and profitable to every lady who attends.

THERE is a probability that the United States may be asked to mediate between Great Britain and the Transvaal. This is only further proof of the high standard to which this country has attained in the eyes of the civilized world.

THE next National convention of the Modern Woodmen of America will be held in St. Paul in 1901. This assures that St. Paul will be called upon to entertain from 40,000 to 50,000 people during the week. We predict that the Woodmen will not catch the ground of reception and the most royal entertainment ever accorded them.

THE farmers must not forget to bring their wives and daughters with them when they come to the Institute June 20 and 21, for the work which the women have on the farm is just as important as that which the men do, for that reason all the ladies ought to be in attendance at the Farmers' Institute which will be held in this city June 20 and 21, for at that time any question with reference to live stock that may be asked will be answered.

THE republican friends seem to fairly glory in the fact that General King, who has returned from the Philippines, gives it out as his opinion that the war is far from being finished. What republicanism is here! An enemy attacks us, we defend ourselves and that which has been given into our keeping, and so-called Americans even jubilant because there is a possibility that we may have to continue the fight for some time. The American people will think a long time before they will grant power in public affairs to men of this stamp.

IT is generally conceded that Col. D. B. Henderson, of Iowa, will be chosen for the next speaker of the National House of Representatives. No better selection could have been made. He has every qualification needed to make a good speaker, and he is so well acquainted with the merits of all the old members of the house that he can arrange all the committee assignments before congress meets, or nearly all of them, and being guiding free from pledges to any one he can make his selections strictly upon merit, something that every speaker has not been able to do.

WE must make useless by our behaviour the pretence of a strange power in the island, and must assist Americans to complete the honorable mission they have been compelled to assume by force of circumstances." The above is a part of Gomez's farewell address to the Cubans and if this advice is followed all will go well, but so far such has not been the spirit which has dominated those whom the United States forces have freed. Many of the officers in the Cuban army have gone so far as to gossip their old general, Gomez, who has spent thirty years in trying to liberate Cuba from the clutches of Spain.

SIX months before congress meets the new speaker, Col. Henderson, of Iowa, has practically been elected. No sectional fight was developed, as congressional delegates from most of the Eastern states have already publicly endorsed the Iowa man's candidacy. The strength of Western republicanism is nevertheless shown in this victory, for no congressman from west of the Mississippi has before now been elected speaker of the National House of Representatives. Col. Henderson entered congress with the forty-eighth session and has been a member ever since. There is a lesson in this for those congressional districts which keep continually changing their representatives at the nation's capital. Colonel Henderson's long term of office aided him greatly in securing the position, which in point of power ranks next to that of the president.

Notes From Exchanges.

Fosston Thirteen Towns: Dr. G. G. Benault accompanied W. W. Hoch, of Crookston, to the latter's claim at Pine Lake on Tuesday, returning Wednesday. Doc. found that pulling horses and wagon out of the mud was about fourteen times worse than jerking mules.

Brainerd Tribune: Commodore Jim Tawney's much talked of "flying squadron" proved to be a phantom fleet after all. Jim is a likely lad, but there are at least six gentlemen representing six Minnesota congressional districts, who are of the opinion that "there are others" besides the wily Winona politician.

Duluth News Tribune: Carl Brown, of Coney fame, proposes to march an anti-trust army from Denver to St. Louis. Citizens along the route, the Nashville Banner thinks, will doubtless manifest their interest in the march by placing "no trust" placards in their store windows, on the saloon screens and on the barns and farm gates.

Rosean Times: Gen. Clapp, is frequently mentioned as the Moses to lead the republicans from out the wilderness of John Lind. Personally, Gen. Clapp has more true warm and hilfellowship friends than any other public man in the state. An early nomination of the ex-attorney general and a thorough canvass of the state by this hand-some and brainy man would score a victory. Like Judge Collins he would move a great vote-getter.

Thirteen Towns: It is anything to excite wonder that farms have been selling at good figures in this section of the country of late? When has any one ever heard of a failure of crops in the Thirteen Towns? This locality is one of the grandest gardens of garden state, and farms here are worth more, every one of them, than has ever been thought of being offered for them. Where will you find a thorough farmer in this locality who has not made his business highly successful?

Thirteen Towns: A few days ago a shipment of 1,100 pounds of fine wool, the finest "clip," in quality, yet obtained, was received at the mills from F. M. Bivens, the well known sheep grower living near Crookston. It was received in the best condition possible, proving that while Mr. Bivens understands sheep growing the kinds to raise, he also knows thoroughly just how to take care of the wool. When a sheep raiser understands these two important matters he can always command the extreme market price for that wool.

Ortonville Herald Star: To be not "afraid" is a dreadful affliction when applied to a newspaper writer. If we were to subside to fairy tales and engage in the new-paper business," we should say, be its timid as amuse, as handsome as love, as aggressive as a butterfly and as inconsequential as a hop toad, and you will gain the plaudits of an unthinking and an unspeakable constituency, and the contempt of the one or two brainy men still remaining in your community.

Grand Forks Herald: The unbounded confidence of W. J. Bryan in his own surpassing merit and importance seems to be equalled only by his confidence in the gullibility of the American public. He now assures the public that the Chicago platform with its free silver doctrine will be endorsed by the democratic national convention next year, but he confidently announces that "the main issue will be the trusts." Without considering future issues and this point, it is worth while to note the amazing effrontery and apparent ease with which he talks about and comes at the public every campaign with a new proposition that brands his preceding ode as a fallacy and a failure.

Little Falls Daily Transcript: A few weeks ago the daily papers of Minneapolis received an offer from a London, England, jewelry firm as an advertising contract, in which the price offered for space was several times above the regular rates. The boys had lots of fun over this wave of prosperity that had struck them, and the Stillwater Gazette was particularly funny, as it drew such an absurd proposition that it was not supposed that any answers were sent. But some of the wise ones didn't know any more than to enter into correspondence, and the Crookston Daily Times, for one, is now running a column and about half-a-dozen in English jewelry.

Cass Lake Times: Frank Brown, of Crookston, stopped between trains on Tuesday. Frank says their new boat, recently built on Wolf Lake, will make her first trip to Cass Lake on Thursday or Friday of this week, and a free ride will be granted to Cass Lake people. The boat is 60 feet long, 12-foot beam, 16 feet over all, with 40-horse power engine. It was made by Hoving logs. Has an oil telegraph poles. Mr. Brown has 30,000 ties and 4,000 telegraph poles coming down the Turtle river, which will be towed across Cass Lake and landed on the bank near the railroad track. The railroad company will build a spur track to the landing for convenience in loading the ties and poles for shipment to various points.

Elsewhere.

Fosston has a new postoffice.

Emile Zola will write a novel on the Dreyfus case.

Moorhead Normal School graduated 43 students this year.

The state bankers will meet in the senate chambers at St. Paul on June 20.

The attempt to publish Sunday papers in London, England, has failed.

Francesque Crotte, of Paris, claims to have discovered an absolute cure for consumption.

Paderewski, the famous pianist, was married last week at Warsaw to Mrs. Helen Rosen.

Attorney General Douglas has decided to punish the proceedings to set aside the Halstead village election.

The cyclone season has started out in earnest this, several twisters made their appearance during the past week.

At Parkhall last week the fortieth anniversary of Bishop Whipple's election to the bishopric was celebrated.

The Venezuela boundary arbitration commission meets in Paris today. The opening speech of Sir Richard Webster, one of Great Britain's representatives, is expected to last 16 days.

C. A. Ballard for the past five years superintendent of the Fergus Falls schools, has declined his position at Fergus Falls to accept the department of science in the Moorhead normal school.

The poles for the Ada-Twin Valley telephone line have all been placed in position and the wires need only be strung and it will not be long now before these towns will be able to say hello to each other over the phone.

Many of Uncle Sam's volunteers will remain in the Philippines and enter into business there. Their discharging expenses home will be given them and this will make quite a nice little sum with which to begin.

The state reformatory board at a meeting held in St. Paul last Friday, unanimously agreed that no interest gation into the management of the St. Cloud reformatory was necessary, as they were satisfied with Supt. Boulton's work.

Fertile will appropriate the exhibition hall at the fair grounds down there for school purposes. The building will be moved to the lots just west of the present school house and will be used by the primary department. This will necessitate the hiring of another teacher—making six in all.

Congressman Frank M. Eddy has gone to the Pacific coast with his family to visit his mother who lives in the state of Washington. They will make a tour of the National Park and Congressman Eddy will go on to Alaska to see the sights and get a rest which he has well earned. He expects to be gone about three months.

E. A. Donkin has been appointed superintendent of the Dakota division of the Great Northern to succeed J. E. Britton, who resigned to take a position on the Cotton Belt. Mr. Donkin was at one time chief dispatcher on the Fergus Falls division, and has recently been on the Cascade division.

Elk River Star-News: "Old Pease" of the Anoka Union is getting worse and worse as time progresses. His treatment of Congressman Morris is simply coarse and brutal without any extenuating circumstances, that is it would be in any one else. But Bro. Pease is a privileged character and is permitted to say anything that comes into his old bald pate with impunity.

The sale of the Seattle & Northern for $600,000 has been announced, and it is stated that J. J. Hill has acquired the property. This will give the Great Northern another connecting that covers one of the wealthiest parts of Western Washington, yields a revenue of $100,000 a year, and is tributary to the entire Sumomish flats and the best part of the Shagit valley. The road is thirty-seven miles long, and its value is placed at $700,000.

The great Fargo fire was in 1893, and though nearly all the city was wiped out, no one seemed to feel discouraged, and the following day every one was at work again to make Fargo better, more attractive and more powerful than it ever was before. The Fargo of today is a monument to western push and energy, and was accomplished too by western money—something rare in the history of this section of the country.

Col. Henderson, of Iowa, the next speaker of the National House of representatives, enlisted as a private in 1861 in the Twelfth Iowa regiment, and won his first lieutenant's commission and lost his leg at the same time. In February, 1864, he was discharged for disability, but in June of that year was back again in the service as colonel of the Forty-Sixth Iowa. He came to congress with the forty-eighth session, and has been here ever since.

A GORGEOUS SPECTACLE.

Ringling Bros.' New Military Display Creates a Sensation.

A new patriotic military spectacle is the latest colossal novelty introduced by the famous Ringling Brothers as a prelude to their unrivalled World's Greatest shows. There is something in human nature that demands beauty and light and color, and which finds its highest gratification in the glories of spectacular display. None knew this better than Caesar Augustus, Alexander the Great and even Napoleon Bonaparte, and these great leaders of men and nations controlled the hearts and won the loyalty of the people as much by the magnificence of their public spectacles as by the power of their legions. While partaking in a large measure of the military character of the times, the Roman and Greek spectacles artistically modified the glare and panoply of war with the sumptuous arts of peace, the sentiment of a classic beauty poetic age, the lover of luxury and the delight of the populace for glittering display. In their new military spectacle Ringling Brothers have conceived the brilliant idea of giving a display that dazzles while it delights, that mingles startled wonder with gratified admiration, that awakens all that is noblest and best in human nature through the three-fold test-likeness of the eye, the ear and the intellect. The conspicuous and striking titles of Ringling Brothers' new spectacle is "The Last Days of the Century, or the Light of Liberty," but this does little more than suggest the scope of the display or the possibilities of gorgeous environment with a vivid portraiture, and constructing the military posters of the world; whole troops of American parades and entire battalions of jolly Jack tars; her Majesty's 5th regiment of Hussars, the swellest of England's crack military organizations, led by their famous mounted military band; companies of German Uhlans and French Cuirassiers; platoons of Russian Cossacks from the Steppes; the Imperial Japanese Grenadiers of the Mikado's body guards; the picturesque of Japanese soldiery, and other military organizations, all appearing in a magnificent spectacular drama, in which the American Goddess of Liberty rises, under the hallowed folds of the stars and stripes, triumphant over the military powers of the world. This great spectacle will be seen in all its magnificent completeness when Ringling Brothers' world famous circus exhibits in this city Wednesday July 5.

Where the Money Goes.

The following bills were allowed at the recent meeting of the board of county commissioners. We were unable to get them in time for the Monitor in time for publication last week.

Village of Fisher, number for bridge	11 00
Pioneer Press Co., blanks	42 00
S. R. Mantzaac, blooms for court house	2 25
Gazette & Ledger, office furniture	71 70
J. J. Grover, serving for county attorney in criminal docket	15 00
R. A. Lawrence & Co., blank books	29 00
Crookston Telephone Co., rent of telephones	5 00
Collins Bros., hardware to county	6 85
Otis E. Miller, services as coroner, 2 bills	30 50
St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator Co., lumber for bridge	10 00
Ole Larson, hardware for bridge	1 10
A. S. Butler, pub notice of taxpayers meetings	2 00
Crookston Telephone Co., rent of telephones	5 00
Geo. H. Steele, printing	5 85
Geo. H. Stuart, printing	21 00
C. C. Chapron, printing	13 00
W. E. McKenzie, printing and other supplies	126 00
F. O'Brien & Co., merchandise to county	3 85
Esgen Lumber Co., materials in court house well	75 60
A. C. Schmidt, numberm court house jail and etc	1 60
Free Press printing Co., blank book	3 50
Jos. Sherman & Co., blanks	2 50
Chas. Nelson, sun boards for bridge	5 00
J. P. Lawrence, boarding prisoners	10 00
J. J. Gaskell, work on bridge	6 00
Hoke Miller	2 00
Thomas Nurse, "	2 00
P. S. Nelson, boarding prisoner	4 00
Frank Nuccon, rent of room for jury in city hall	20 00
C. H. Jefferson, plastering in jail	35 00
J. S. Harper, postage	15 65
J. S. Harper, stationery book	3 00
John Fanebaum, work on well	4 00
G. N. Railway Co., balance due on orders	19 13
N. G. Eberson, supplies to court house	1 00
Erick Wiehlcock, hauling wood to jail	8 00
Wm. Ivan Hedges Co., balance on plans for Mallory bridge	1,076 00
Ole S. Hagen, postage	5 00
H. Kraus, postage	4 00
John Chesson postage and express	22 45
E. E. Loomers, revenue stamps and postage	17 19
S. S. Lawyer, justice fees	9 00
Wm. Gray, justice fees	1 55
John Anderson, justice, 2 bills	3 00
F. J. Cunningham justice fees	2 00
A. W. Smith, constable fees	9 57
T. Barlow "	10 25
Thomas Murray " 3 bills	17 87
T. Hennessy "	4 10
T. H. Ashbus "	13 85
C. Ellis "	3 87
Last Chase, witness fees	1 57
John A. Rathbun, witness fees	1 12
E. M. Knutson witness fees	1 12
Patrick Broderick witness fees	1 12
Mrs. Jane Thompson witness fees	1 12
E. M. Peterson witness fees	1 12
Louis Kelley witness fees	1 00
Chas Kelley witness fees	3 00
Wm. Kelley witness fees	3 00
Urban Gray witness fees	1 12
Noah Willette witness fees	1 12
G. Finch juror fees	1 12
Wm. Conklin juror fees	1 12
A. Opheim juror fees	1 12
Peter Peterson juror fees	1 12
F. H Beers juror fees	11 00
F. W. Bastian services as commissioner	8 00
Emil Fortier services as commissioner	17 20
The Sentry services as commissioner	12 60
C. Bostwick services as commissioner	18 80
Buck Thompson services as commissioner	21 00

Following bills were laid over:

E. J. Grover and A. R. Holston, Bill of Geo. Clifford was ordered returned for correction. The bill of D. G. Scobey was disallowed.

On motion board adjourned sine die.

JOHN GLEASON,
Clerk of the Board.

Advertised Letters.

List of letters remaining unclaimed at the Crookston, Minn., postoffice for the week ending June 10, 1899:

Anderson Oscar	Hegg Ole
Berg Sven John	Hewett Chester
Bjorn Bjorn	Clemens A. Simon
Burnam Ben	Gerber Fritz
Gibson Alfred	Johnson A. Alfred
Larson Will	Larson N. J.
Lyons Edward	Lyons Thomas
Olson Carl	Olson J. Todd
Rule Jules	Stevens Charles
Swan Jacob	Swanson Mrs.
Ryan Miss	Carlson Lena
Bond Jennie Mrs.	Smith Annie
Stevens Florence Mrs.	Swanson Annie

Persons calling for the above will please say advertised. ANDREW ERIKS, Postmaster.

Notice.

We having closed up our meat market desire all owing us to call and come and settle. Any one wishing to purchase meat market supplies can have a good outfit cheap.

MAYSON & CO.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Makes the food more delicious and wholesome

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

CASS LAKE ATTRACTIONS.

Steam and Row Boats Galore.—Fish are Very Plentiful.

Capt. Percy Baker states that C. P. Trepanier's new boat has been launched at Cass Lake and is a great success. No difficulty was experienced in "getting away" as within a few minutes of the time she struck the water her machinery was started and everything ran as smoothly as could be desired. Mr. Trepanier and party started at once for Kitchie Lake. Capt. Baker says that R. W. Bradshaw and a party of three from Chicago made a catch of 168 lbs in three hours at Lake No. 12, eight miles from Cass Lake. There are from 50 to 100 cases given aboard at Cass Lake continually, and Capt. Baker assures us one of the reasons for this large number that the sportsmen get the best of treatment there, no exorbitant prices being charged for board accommodations, boat livery or anything else.

The Shamrock, a new 40 foot side wheeler steamboat, has come into commission there which gives Cass Lake two steamboats—a convenience and safeguard to visitors by

THE OLD RELIABLE

St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co.

The only Old Line Company Doing a

HAIL INSURANCE BUSINESS.

Total Assets, $2,251,497.27

34 Years in Business

There are no Assessments. Premiums are paid but as in case of Fire Insurance. Losses Promptly Adjusted.

Represented by MARIN & WEBSTER, Next door to Post Office.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings

When la ing out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.

Call us up before letting your Contract.

We shall be pleased to give on the benefit of our experience in laing out wiring plans.

It Will Cost You Nothing

to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.

Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring

We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.

Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.

Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Items of Local Interest—Personal Mention—Society Doings, Etc.

—George Minard was in from Climax last Friday.

—G. A. Penny, of Warren, spent Friday night in the city.

—The Fertile Journal has entered upon its fifteenth year.

—Bert Moore will spend the summer on the Lockhart farm.

—Attorney H. L. Gaylord, of Fertile, was in the city on Tuesday.

—Mrs. S. H. Beer, of McIntosh, is in Chicago visiting with her mother.

—Oscar Loyd, of Minneapolis, is the new head clerk in the New York store.

—M. E. Harbin expects to build a residence in Jerome's addition this summer.

—Will Smith has built him a neat cottage 28x28 on Pleasant Ave., Sampson's addition.

—It is expected that the logs from Clearwater Lake will reach the city in about 10 or 12 days.

—F. M. George and wife, of Hallock, were in the city a few hours last Saturday morning.

—Travel on Broadway south of Fletcher street was stopped while the street was being fixed.

—Attorney E. J. Grover, of East Grand Forks, transacted legal business in Crookston last Saturday.

—————— is excavating for a basement for his new house at the park in South Sampson's addition.

—Miss Lydia Fletcher, of Red Lake Falls, was in Crookston last Friday night. She was en route from Warren home.

—Mrs. Sara Stole, of Polk county, who was sent last Fall to the hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls died there last week.

—Mrs. G. W. Roberts is a delegate from the local lodge of the Rebekahs to the Grand Lodge which is in session at Minneapolis.

—Supt. John Mooney has mailed to the state board 230 examination papers which were written in the Crookston high school.

—D. F. Miller, conductor on the Northern division of the Great Northern has launched a new electric-motor boat on Cass Lake.

—Jack Bendshaw, a carpenter on the Northern Pacific with headquarters at Fargo was visiting his parents in this city last week.

—Rev. Guy West, of Red Lake Falls, spent Friday night in the city. He was on his way home from the Y. P. S. C. E. Convention at Warren.

—Jerome's addition has been building up very fast this spring. Numerous residences have already been erected and still others are going up.

—Rev. F. W. Fraser was at Grand Forks last week assisting in the installation of Rev. C. McKibbin as pastor of the Presbyterian church there.

—O. Nelson, manager of the clothing department of Fontaine & Angus's, is building a five room cottage on Woodland Ave., Sampson's addition. It will make a neat dwelling.

—Crookston shippers have petitioned the railroad and warehouse commission to have the railroads build a Y here so that goods can be the more readily shipped from one road to another.

—H. M. McCullum, of Minneapolis, has been secured by the Strawbridge Mercantile Company to assist them in the management of their business. This firm expects to open up in about ten days.

—Miss Ida Stone, of Crookston, who for the past two years has been attending the Normal school at West Superior, Wis., graduates from that institution on June 21 as the salutatorian of her class.

—John B. Senve, one of the enterprising farmers from Gentilly, was in the city last Saturday and took with him a load of lumber for that line new barn that he is building on his place. This new structure will be 48 by 42.

—Rev. Herman P. Fisher left the city Monday night for Fargo to attend the meeting of the Board of Incorporations and the Board of trustees of Fargo college which occurred on Tuesday. He attended also the Commencement exercises on Wednesday and spoke at the annual dinner.

—Rev. John S. Hood, pastor of the Congregational church at Moorhead, is expected to preach next Sunday morning and evening on exchange with Rev. Mr. Fisher. His morning subject will be—"Higher values;" and his evening subject—"The Christian Sabbath."

—The 14th Annual Encampment of the Park Region Association of the G. A. R. will be held at Detroit, Minn., from June 27 to 30. There are twenty-four posts in this association. Governor Lind and Department Commander Searle will be there. Members from the Crookston Post will also be in attendance.

—A dance was held at the G. A. R. hall last Friday night.

—The family of E. M. Walsh has moved out on the farm north of the city.

—The Crookston Telephone company has need in book form a new list of subscribers.

—Mrs. G. E. Schuneman attended the wedding of Miss Lou Maulton at Kenyon last Friday.

—The old settlers of the Thirteen Towns formed an association at McIntosh on June 10.

—John McKinnon, Frank Mageau and Ed. Shaughnessy joined the antlered fraternity last week.

—Postmaster J. S. Chapin drove in from Euclid last Friday and transacted business at the county seat.

—The city band favored the citizens with one of their popular open air concerts last Thursday evening.

—The Lutheran League held a strawberry social last Thursday evening at the home of A. O. Basterud.

—Crookston will not get free delivery before Oct. 1. There will be three carriers, one substitute and 21 letter boxes.

—Messrs. A. Campion and F. McLennan passed through the city last Friday on their way from Fargo to their home at Angus.

—Samuel Yates, of the town of Roome, who has been in the hospital at Fergus Falls for the past two years has been paroled.

—Judge McLean, who owns the Christianla saloon building on Main street, is raising it and making other improvements upon it.

—Austin & Locken received last Friday a solid mahogany music cabinet which will be placed in one of the houses of the city.

—The base ball grounds to the northeast of the city have been ploughed up and the fair grounds are suffering the same fate.

—Thos. Casey, superintendent of the Fisher schools, came over Saturday morning to join the teaching force at the Crookston College.

—John Baptiste and Anthony Tibesar, of Crookston, recently graduated from the school at Faribault for the deaf and dumb.

—Ed. Martin returned last Friday morning from the Fargo Fire Festival. He reports that immense crowds were concentrated there.

—The result of each round in the big fight between Fitzsimmons and Jeffries was received by telegram at the Hotel Crookston the night of the mill.

—"Doc." Rutledge, who has charge of the printing of the Cass Lake Times, has been chosen assistant chief of the new fire department out there.

—Arthur Matter, for the past three years cashier of the St. Hilaire Lumber Co., has gone to Minneapolis to spend the summer. His health of late has not been the best.

—Geo. W. Peake is up from Minneapolis to look after a damage suit instituted against himself by Miss Lobunde, who last fall, fell from her shoulder on excavation near the Penke block.

—Gilbert Brattland, of Ada, a former student in the Crookston high school, who has attended the State University during the last year, was appointed corporal in company D of the University Cadets.

—Grand Forks will send 75 Elks to the B. P. O. E. Convention in St. Louis. The city council also voted $100.00 to assist in advertising Grand Forks in the south. What is the matter with the antlered brethren in Crookston?

—John Moorlend's genial countenance will be seen no more behind the counter at the Palace Hotel. He is now night clerk at the Dakota Hotel in Grand Forks. Archie McKinnon in future will see to it that the wants of guests at the Palace are attended to.

—A. F. George is building a fine cottage on his property on Lincoln Avenue. The size is 20 x 24 and it is expected that it will be finished some time in July. Jim Bendshaw is also erecting a private dwelling on the same avenue. The size of this house is 14 x 24 in the main part and 14 x 14 in the addition, with 14 foot posts.

—Register Peterson, of the United States land office, returned Thursday afternoon from a week's outing at Bemidji. He reports the fishing there as most excellent. During two hours of the day on which he came away he and another caught 108 fish which he has been distributing among his friends since his return.

—A party consisting of Dr. Robertson, C. Rawson, Judge Holt and Walter Bozzel started Saturday morning for Bemidji. They will take a trip through several of the lakes, fishing and camping out. They have not decided as to just when they would return. Dr. Dunlop, who was to have been one of the party, was unable to go.

—County Auditor Gleason is in the Twin Cities this week.

—C. D. Billings spent Sunday at Marin with Mayor Fred Warneke.

—Frank Mageau is building a fine residence on the corner of Ash and Hurlbert streets.

—W. J. Murphy's private secretary is looking after business interests here for his principal this week.

—F. J. Farden and Herman Chapin, of Dugdale were pleasant callers at the JOURNAL office Saturday.

—Mrs. Milne, of Grand Forks, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harry Finch, returned home Tuesday.

—Editor Ives, of the St. Hilaire Spectator, passed through Monday evening on his way to the Twin Cities.

—Dr. Just and Judge Holt are representatives of the Crookston Odd Fellows at the Grand Lodge meeting in St. Paul this week.

—The striking tug men at Duluth have come to an agreement with their employers, and shipping has been resumed at all of the docks.

—Halfcor Kilde is visiting relatives and friends here for a short time. He comes from near Stephen, Minn., where he has a land claim.

—J. G. Flemming has just completed a five months term of school near Climax. He will take a course at the Crookston Business College this summer.

—Judge John McLean is moving his building on Main street back onto the street line. He will also remodel and improve the building while he is at it.

—Henry Hines and Hugh Neil wheeled over from Grand Forks last Sunday and spent the day at the home of C. D. Billings. They rode home again Monday.

—Prof. Thomas Casey has come to Crookston from Fisher and will remain here until after the session of the summer school, of which he is one of the instructors.

—J. W. Wheeler, cashier of the First National bank, and his brother A. D., of Chicago, will take another of Montreal July 1 for a tour of Europe. Mr. Wheeler will leave Crookston about the 25th of June.

—Another of those bountiful rain showers Monday evening. My, but don't it make the crops grow though. Many farmers say that small grain never looked better at this time of the year.

—Editor Knuppen and family are now ruralists, having left for their farm near Bemidji the latter part of the week. Mr. Knuppen's health demanded his retirement from active business for a short time.

—Those individuals who have been inclined to find fault because of the late spring and abundance of rain should remember that there are other equally annoying features of the weather. Down in New England there has been practically no rain since February, and the ground baked soil is as dry as gun-powder. Crops are suffering severely, and except in low bottoms, the hay crop will be a failure if the heavens do not send relief soon.

—Chief Ryan and Officer Blue, says the Grand Forks Herald, officiated last night at the reception of an estranged couple, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bellamy, formerly of Crookston. The lady arrived in the city yesterday, and said she didn't want her husband to find her as she was afraid of him. Officer Blue located the husband, who said his wife had run off with $400 of his money. The two were brought together in the city hall, the chief first taking the precaution to borrow temporarily a very large and vicious looking revolver which the man carried. The two immediately fell upon each other's necks and wept, and peace and happiness were again restored.

—Grand Forks is enjoying a little excitement now in the way of more jewelry auction sales. Two of the leading jewelry firms have entered the contests and are knocking the bottom out of things in that line. One of the firms has an auctioneer who, the advertisement says, was admitted to the bar while not yet of age; he had obtained a medical diploma before he was twenty-four, and not caring to follow either profession for a livelihood, he adopted that of jewelry and fine art auctioneering, after several seasons spent as lending man with some of our finest actors. His interests of late are have been devoted to art and literature, and he is not only a passable marine and landscape artist, but is the author of several books that have a very wide sale and is classed highly in Prof. Shoddy's book of "Missouri's Poets."

—John Kitten drove over from Fisher Saturday.

—S. C. Bagley, came down from Preston Wednesday.

—A. L. Reeves, of Stephen was registered at the Crookston Wednesday.

—H. Logan and wife of St. Hilaire were registered at the Commercial Hotel on Tuesday.

—M. Vanstrum, Will Vanuet, C. C. Hoch and L. E. Lawson went over to Grand Forks this morning to take in the shoot at that place.

—J. I. Stevenson, of Erskine, went down to Fetton last night to take charge of a lumber yard which he recently bought in company with his brothers.

—Martin O'Brien who wasin Kansas as a delegate to the National Woodman's meeting has returned and reports a very successful and pleasant meeting.

—The gun club is doing some great shooting this season. A. Vanstrum succeeded in making a straight Tuesday evening, and several others followed with twenty two, etc.

—The State Fireman's Association is holding its annual meeting in Duluth this week and the Crookston department is being represented by Chief Morris, Art Fallor and Thos. Johnston.

—Andrew Kingsland and Charley Lasher, of East Grand Forks, have been arrested on the charge of manslaughter as a result of the verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of Nevankoski.

—The police and a local drunk bonded a parade up Main and Fletcher streets Tuesday afternoon. Such cases make one desire to see the guardians of the peace make liberal use of their billies.

—Bingling circus advertising car arrived Tuesday morning and the big show itself which accompanied it, immediately set out to decorate the town and by night had succeeded in getting in their work in about every place an opportunity offered.

—Every farmer and all those interested in farms, who will attend the forenoon session of the State Farmers' Institute next week will be given a valuable agricultural book of over 250 pages. The dates of the institute are June 20 and 21. This book is the Institute annual, and is made up by the most experienced farm workers in the country. They cannot be bought in book stores and is given away at the forenoon session only.

—Street Commissioner Jerome and his crew are to be congratulated on the condition into which they are bringing our streets. They have on hand a big job and are handling it in a very satisfactory manner, considering the condition of the streets when the frost left the ground and the excessive rains that have visited this locality this season.

—The Crookston Band is now the most popular musical organization in this neck of the woods. They have so many engagements that Prof. Riggs is compelled to make correspondents' bonds. This will be the order of things on the Fourth of July. One will go to Ada and the other to Bagley. Such is the result of a few month's work of a good man.

Another Accident.

The saw mill was the scene of another accident Tuesday morning. A young man named Jerome Doane is the victim and now lies at the Riverside hospital with his leg broken in three places. He was employed in wheeling the lumber into the yards and while making a trip out the cart turned over the lumber falling on him with the above results. He was immediately taken to the hospital where physicians set the broken limb. He is doing as well as would be expected under the circumstances.

Shooting Tournaments.

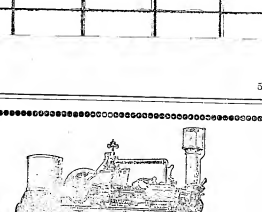
C. C. Hoch and W. L. Vannet represented the Crookston Gun Club at the shooting match in Wadena last week. There were, they report, 70 sportsmen there, from Wisconsin, Iowa, St. Paul, Fargo, Grand Forks and other places. The wind the first day was very strong hence few good records were made. The Crookston shooters, however, carried off several prizes. Several members of the Gun Club at Wadena have promised to come to Crookston when the tournament here comes off. Some of the St. Paul creek shots will be here also to accommodate them the dates of the Crookston shoot have been changed to June 29 and July 1.

Open Air Concerts.

The next Concert by the Crookston band will be given Friday evening June 16 at 7:30 at the corner of Broadway and Fletcher street.

PROGRAM

March ..... "The Great Captain" ..... Scouton
Medley of Popular Songs. Jess Cox ..... Hall
Gem ..... "Floral Ball" ..... Sherman
Serenade ..... Solo for Euphonium ..... Mackie
Dr. W. R. O'Neill
March Two Step. "Hoodoo Ball (new) ..... Johnson
Artists Two Steps. "On the Levee" ..... Hall
Rag Time Medley, Miss Coon Scouton
March ..... The Flying Squadron (new) ..... Mackie
..... Scouton

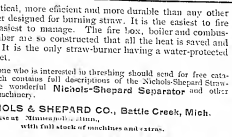


The Nichols-Shepard
Straw-Burning Engine

More practical, more efficient and more durable than any other engine ever designed for burning straw. It is the easiest to fire and the easiest to manage. The fire box, boiler and combustion chamber are so constructed that all the heat is saved and utilized. It is the only straw-burner having a water-protected crown sheet.

Every one who is interested in threshing should send for free catalogue, which contains full descriptions of the Nichols-Shepard Straw-Burner, the wonderful Nichols-Shepard Separator and other threshing machinery.

NICHOLS & SHEPARD CO., Battle Creek, Mich.
Branch House at Minneapolis, Minn.,
with full stock of machines and extras.



The Perfect Wheel....

At the Right Price. Its reputation has been won by its merits. You will be pround to compare it with any other wheel made, and you will know that your neighbor paid the same price for his Victory as you did for yours. Price and Quality guranteed. Adults Chain Model $28, $35 and $50.

Hawkins & Olds.

Repairing a Specialty. Prices Reasonable.

—Gov. Lind has commissioned Capt. James C. Robinson as major in the Thirteen Regiment and has notified the war department that the appointment is as successor to the late Maj. Diggins.

—New York's chief of police says that the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries mill was not a violation of the law because no one got hurt. We always supposed the law was intended to prevent prize fights and glove contests, without requiring that one of the participants be either killed or crippled.

Weddings.

SEVERSON—ANDERSON

A. Severson to Miss Christine Anderson, both of Angus, on June 7. The ceremony was performed by Judge Hogen at Crookston.

For Sale.

Tamarack fence posts, 6 and 8 cents.
VANCE & STONE.

Stewart Lumber Company

Our old friends and patrons will find us moved from the N. P. track to the W. E. Walker mill and yard. Don't forget this and to the new trade we wish to say that we can fill your order promptly, from a 2 by 4 to several thousand feet of lumber. We always keep the best of every thing and at right prices.

Remember we are the sole agent for Flint Plaster and we have everything in the building line.

6-3t STEWART LUMBER COMPANY

Notice For Bids

Bids will be received by the undersigned at his office in City hall, in city of Crookston, Minnesota, until Friday the 16th inst., at 10 o'clock a. m. for doing repairs on building belonging to August Munn in said city as per specifications on file in his office.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids subject to approval of Street and Bridge committee.

WM. A. LANGTRY.
City Clerk.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.
HOMEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Office in McCannon Block. Crookston, Minn

Jules Gendron.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Rooms 2 3, 4 and 5 over Fontaine & Angus's
Office hours—9 to 12 a. m.; 1 to 5 p. m.; 7 to 8 p.m

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Office in Opera Block Crookston, Minn

Miller & Foote,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
Offices corner Broadway and Robert streets
Crookston, Minn.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Services every Sunday, Morning 11:00 every Sunday, Holy Communion the First Sunday of every Month. Strangers are welcome.
REV. H. B. GREEN, R. D. Rector.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.
Crookston

SOUTH BOUND.

No. 98 to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and East.	Arr.	Dep't
	7:38 p m	7:38 p m

NORTH BOUND.

No. 837 Grand Forks, Grafton and Winnipeg.	9:50 a m	9:50 a m

C. A. SHARKEY, Agt. Crookston, Minn.
CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A. St. Paul, Minn

THE GREAT NORTHERN

ARRIVE	*Daily	†Except Sunday.	LEAVE
6.55 a.m.		Grand Forks, North and West	7.00 a.m
8.00 p.m.		Fargo, St. Paul and points east	10.00 p.m
2.15 p.m.		Warren, Stephen & St. Vincent	2.15 p.m
8.00 p.m.		St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls	8.30 a.m
4.05 p.m.		Bemidji, Bemidji, Duluth and Superior	9.00 a.m
5.45 p.m.		Climax, Halstad, Moorhead and Fargo	7.30 a.m

*Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and departs Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

RETREAT FROM FEVER.

Woes of Shafter's Stricken Army In Cuba and at Montauk.

"OH, THE FAMINE AND THE FEVER"

Last of Campaign Evils the Worst. A Sick List Simply the Full Roster of the Hospital Sheet—Bless the Red Cross!"—Montauk a Pronounced Land.

[Copyright, 1899, by the Author.]

XV.

EVERYWHERE the victors of Santiago have been described as just emerging from a horrible night-mare when the writer began his work interviewing the survivors at Camp Wikoff. There were three stages in the nightmare — the trip from Tampa to Cuba and the landing, the war-fare of the jungle, blockhouses and trench, and that with the fever, this last not fully ended when the camp broke up. Every narrative of the campaign, whether from the lips of a private soldier or those of a captain, colonel or general, was prefaced and punctuated by anathemas of the fever as the chief evil encountered in Cuba. Witnesses needed sparring in order to bring out details of battle, but the unsteadiness of the transports, of existence in Cuba and of the fever were staple topics.

In general the breakdown of the troops began immediately after the surrender. The heat, the loss of capacity to relish and digest coarse, fatty rations, physical strain and malaria, were reasons for the collapse. The regulars also said that drinking water was rendered impure by the volunteers, who washed and bathed in the streams above camp. Regular soldiers knew better and carried water away from the streams for their ablutions. In every respect the sanitation of the volunteers was cited as bad, and Camp Wikoff official inspection records go to evidence of it.

Wetness due to heat and the lack of instrument invited fever. Every effort was made to stem the evil. From the first cargo of foodstuffs landed at Santiago Shafter bought several thousand cans of condensed milk for the troops. Cuban wines and all the farinaceous foods available were also purchased by the government or from outside funds. Two officers of the Sixteenth regulars, Lieutenant Colonel McLaughlin and Captain McFarland, expended $3,000 contributed by their wives in getting supplies for their commands. The Red Cross led in noble work, and the one sentiment in the army about this society was, "God bless the Red Cross!" July 22 was the date when the first alarming list of fever patients was reported. Out of 1,500 sick 150 cases were set down as fever. On the 23d there were 400 new cases and 4,000 on the 24th. This report was misleading, for on the 25th there were over 2,100 fever cases in camp, 800 of new, and only 300 were sick of other complaints. By the 26th the sick roll had reached 3,770, nearly 3,000 being fever cases. About this time there were 600 to 800 new fever cases daily, and on the 28th, with a sick roll of 4,279, over 3,400 were down with fever. This exhibit refers to the hospital only. Several thousand fever cases were returned from the hospital to the quarters each day, but the victims were not cured, so on the 3d of August, when the round robin took the matter up, General Ames of Kent's division declared "a full list of the sick would mean a copy of the roster of every company" in Cuba. Throughout there were more sick in the quarters than in the hospital.

The first general relief began about July 24. That day Clara Barton sent word to camp that she had supplies at Santiago both for the regimental sick. The dole for a regiment was a sack of rice and one of cornmeal. One officer told me that it cost $7 per to get the supply for his regiment to camp, and it helped all hands. Before the troops left Cuba they received issues of vegetables and of fresh beef. The government supplied beef to the officers' messes at 10 cents a pound. Puzzle prices prevailed in the markets. An officer said that he paid $8 and upward for the canned fruit and vegetables sold by grocers here at 10 to 15 cents each and was glad to get them at any price.

On Aug. 5 the first troops sailed from Santiago. After that steamers left daily. At one stage 1,000 men per diem poured into Camp Wikoff. On the 7th of the month there was not a bit of shelter ready, and the same was the case of necessity, so that on the arrival of the first troops from Cuba the accommodations were inadequate and never up to the demand until the very last. By the time the 1,000 new arrivals of a given day had been provided for a fresh detachment, half of whom were sick, demanded attention. Yet there was no appparent lack of wise and energetic action in the use of such facilities as the government provided, while the exception perhaps of the medical department Hospitals grew, but they couldn't beat the pace of the fever, nurse came forward, but the fever gave too new victims to the one they could save, and supplies poured in, but not in time to stop the ravaging famine of nourishment already prevailing.

The cavalry tents were pitched upon rolling hills, but the encampment was surrounded and cut through by swamps. The infantry lay on the low seashore, where chill night winds and heavy mists made fall underwear a necessity for well men. Repeated demands failed to bring flannels, even for the sick, until public generosity came to the rescue, and even then summer weights were supplied. Grimes' artillerymen made themselves shirts out of coarse grain sacking.

Candidly, words fail to describe the situation as I found it from Aug. 22 to 29, and this not at the hospitals, but in the quarters of supposed well men. On every side I heard the one cry, sometimes equaling in terrible suggestiveness those harrowing lines of Longfellow:

> Oh, the famine and the fever!
> Oh, the wasting of the famine!
> Oh, the blasting of the fever!

Stories of exalted daring and heroism have failed to remove from my mind its first impression, which was that I was in a fever camp.

An extreme example of distress was the Eighth regulars, which was just out of Camp Detention when I visited the quarters. It had been among the last to leave Cuba. About 40 sick were left at Santiago, many having been sent north earlier, and there were 60 technically sick at Montauk. This regiment came up on the transport Mobile, where 11 died from the ranks of well men as against 8 deaths among the sick on the hospital ship Olivette. When I asked the commandant how many men he could muster for battle or heavy fatigue duty, he answered, "None!" For explanation I was invited to walk through the company streets. Every tent had from two to four prostrate men rolled in blankets, their faces the picture of deep and prolonged suffering, due, as was stated, to general debility and fever. Every regiment had a sad story of sick in quarters, not varying relatively, from the following statement taken verbatim at the headquarters of the Second Massachusetts:

> Went to Cuba, 825 strong; effectives on paper at Montauk, 500; fit for duty, 80. Came north on the Mobile; over 40 sick all the way from Santiago; left 32 sick of yellow fever in Cuba under care of an officer a surgeon and ten men, besides about 50 sick in Santiago hospitals. Have put in Montauk hospital 83 sick and ordered in all 93 deaths. Colonel Clark thinks that 150 men will be doubled for life from hardships, fever and wounds.

For the sick in quarters at Camp Wikoff there was no government medicine and no aid up to Sept. 1. Coarse field rations forused the staple diet until they got into the hospital. Half the dairy cows were too weak to walk from the wharf to Camp Detention. One transport came to the office flying a flag of distress and signaled: "Many starving. Send food." On the 28th of August out of 15 fever applicants for the general hospital 12, having a temperature of 106, were sent back to the regiments. Colonel Forwood said that his hospital carried already a third more than its normal capacity, and 106 was not a high temperature.

There were positively no medicines for the camp sick in the government supplies. I saw requisitions returning demands that had been repeated daily many times, and heard official statements made to cover a whole division, while Colonel Forwood admitted as much for the entire camp. Knowledge of this lack of medicine reached General Wheeler late on Aug. 27, and on the 28th there was a cool of sorrowing lasting five hours. At this council it transpired that there were 8,000 sick soldiers in the camp out of about 13,000 men, including those who had not been in Cuba; also that there was no medicine except for the 2,000 acutely in hospital. General Wheeler took the matter in hand, putting red tape and wiring rush orders for medicine, as well as outfits for division hospitals to receive the overflow at the general hospital.

By the way, General Wheeler was the man for the hour at Camp Wikoff, as the man for the hour at Camp Wikoff, as the man for the hour at Camp Wikoff, as

GENERAL WHEELER.
[Commander at Camp Wikoff.]

Shafter had been in the crisis at Santiago. Wheeler is a marvelous, tireless and self sacrificing worker, patient yet overwhelming, courteous yet persistent, with but one weakness, if weakness it was. His heart was always open to individual distress. Possibly this many did not suffer because of his attention to the few.

On the 5th of September, after a brief absence, I returned to camp to find the evil remedied in part. Still there were not nurses enough for delirious and unconscious cases and no adequate cooking arrangements for such on diet. On the whole, however, the health of the men improved greatly by Sept. 10. The trip to Montauk, together with the hope inspired by the thought that the heroes of Santiago were not to be left to die, the fruit and vegetables supplied by public generosity and by the government—above all, the milk ration ordered by Secretary Alger on Aug. 25—had raised the physical tone so that the men could help themselves. All in all, then, Camp Wikoff wasn proved promised land for Shafter's stricken army. Relief from famine and from fever came none too soon, but it came through the timely removal of the corps from the world's worst fever pest hole, Santiago de Cuba.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

WAS AN EASY WINNER.

Jeffries Defeats Fitzsimmons in Eleven Rounds of Whirlwind Fighting.

New York, June 10.—James J. Jeffries, another sturdy young giant, has come out from the West to whip champion pugilists.

At the arena of the Coney Island Athletic club he defeated Robert Fitzsimmons, world's champion in two classes—middleweight and heavyweight—in 11 rounds of whirlwind fighting. He came to the ring a rank outsider and left it the acknowledged master of the man he defeated. He was never at any time in serious danger and after the sixeup in the early rounds of the contest took the lead. He had the Australian whipped from the ninth round. It was acknowledged that Jeffries would have an immense advantage in weight, height and age, but the thousands who tipped and backed his opponent to win were sure that he was slow and that he would in that respect be absolutely at the mercy of the past master at the science of fighting that he was too meet. He proved on the contrary that he was just as fast as the man he met and beat him down to unconscious defeat in a fair fight. He is a and marvelously speedy for his immense size. At 24 he has defeated Robert Fitzsimmons, Tom Sharkey and Peter Jackson, and if he cares for himself he will probably be able to successfully defend the title for many years. The defeated man was just as good as when on that crispy morning on the plains of far away Nevada he lowered the colors of the then peerless Corbett. He was just as active, just as clever, just as tricky and just as fearless of punishment. Jeffries fought from a crouching attitude that was hard to get at. He showed an excellent defense and the ability to use both hands with skill. He is game, too, for he never shrank from his punishment. It was a great fight to watch and commenced and ended amid scenes of intense excitement. It was all very dramatic.

Veritable Ghost in Stature

The men fought before a crowd of 9,000 persons and stood up in a great beam of blinding white light used by the vitagraph people.

One Fare for the Round Trip

to Cleveland, O. via. Nickel Plate Road, on June 25th and 26th, with return limit of June 29th, 1899. Three through trains daily. Chicago depot, Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave., on Elevated Loop. For further information, write General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

A New Burlington Book.

Railroad companies are great patrons not only of the liberal arts, but of that modern classical expression that printing, engraving and photography places within the reach of everyone.

The Burlington Route has contributed its share to the sum total of railroad art and its latest addition will rank among the finest specimens of scenic souvenirs ever issued. It is the Burlington Route book of St. Paul and Minneapolis, a rich oblong volume picturing first the magnificent train, then scenes along the route, then St. Paul and suburbs, roundings followed by Ft. Snelling and Minneapolis. In all respects, composition, letter press, illustrations and binding, it is a dainty volume.

Copies of this elegant book can be had by enclosing 25 cents (unused postage stamps not received) to Geo. P. Lyman, G. P. A., Burlington Route, St. Paul, Minn.

Expenses of remittance can be saved by several persons combining orders. 10 13

FARMERS, WHAT DO YOU SAY?

This was the question asked by the Chicago Tribune of a recent date, when referring to a speech made by Wilbur Cronkes dwelling upon the problem of the world's future supply. Great it was being able to answer only a small percentage of what she consumed.

REPLY:

WESTERN CANADA WILL PREVENT IT.

Will millions of acres of excellent wheat lands in Western Canada available for homesteaders—when there is no fear of an exhausted supply. Those interested by the Government are given free to settlers, near churches, schools, &c. Particulars can be had on application to Supt. Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

BENJAMIN DAVIES,
Canadian Government agent,
176 E. 3rd St., St. Paul, Minn.

N. Campbell, Crookston Minn.
R. Johnson, Fosston, Minn.
W. V. Nugent, Wilmar, Minn., local agents.

HIGH-GRADE HAWTHORNE $22.50 NET.

SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne. Grade—No. 1. Frame—Diamond, 22 inches. Finish—Black enamel, with gold stripes. Fork—Hawthorne, straight. Handle bar—Drop, 22 inches. Grips—Corrugated rubber. Saddle—Hawthorne, leather. Pedals—Rubber. Sprocket—Hawthorne, 22 teeth. Rear sprocket—Hawthorne, 18 teeth. Chain—Hawthorne, 1/2 inch pitch. Rear hub—Hawthorne, 3 inch. Front hub—Hawthorne, 3 inch. Spokes—Hawthorne, 28 inch. Rims—Hawthorne, 28 inch. Tires—Hawthorne, 1 3/4 inch. Weight—About 30 pounds.

15000 Sold in 1898

It's as good as any wheel made. All modern improvements. Guaranteed for one year. If not found as represented, return at our expense both ways, and you can have your money back on demand.

ASK US TO SEND YOU OUR FREE BICYCLE CATALOG

Send 10 cents for our 1899 page catalogue. It tells everything used by riders. Address

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Pat ent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can obtain patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with descrip tion. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with references to actual clients in your State, county or town, sent free. Address,

C.A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Burlington Route

Finest Train on Earth from St. Paul and Minneapolis to St. Louis.

And all Southern Cities.

Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

United States Map.

65c A copy of our handsome map, about 22 inches square, showing in four colors and great detail, will be sent to any address on receipt of price. Size when folded, 6 inches by 9 inches. Elegant enough for any office or parlor. Send postage stamps, coin, or postal note. Address GEO. P. LYMAN, General Passenger Agent C., B. & N. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain, free, whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3.00 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

Book on Patents, free. Address,

MUNN & Co.
361 Broadway, New York.

The ATLANTIC MONTHLY

NO American agency of public information and intellectual guidance has done higher service in this most momentous period of national transition and opening of a new world epoch than THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY. In its point of view and treatment of events of the first national importance, it has stepped into the vacant place of a political review of clear moral purpose, wide knowledge, and bold conviction. It is doing for America some part of the service which great political reviews always have done for Britain, and which it is the often stated aim of the "Revue Mondes" to do for France. The time has now come for wide public attention to the illuminating discussion of which it is the medium.—From the New York Commercial Advertiser, Nov. 29, 1898.

The announcements for 1899 are of a variety, interest, and value greater than ever before. Upon receipt of ten cents a sample copy of THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY will be sent, together with an illustrated prospectus for the coming year.

Subscriptions received direct or through any established subscription agency.

35 Cents a Copy $4.00 a Year

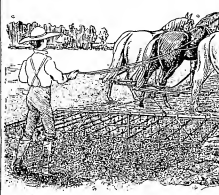
HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.
4 Park Street, Boston

THE

Everlasting Steel Harrow

The bands or double-bars and teeth are made of Bessemer Steel, and are made in two, three, four, five or six sections. Three sections, 82 teeth, 12 feet, usual size for ordinary farm team.

FULLY WARRANTED.



....Will Last for a Life Time....

The illustration shows one of our four-section harrows at work on an extraordinarily rough piece of ground, drawn as a vertical or straight tooth harrow. You will notice that the harrow runs a little angling against the ground and the pressure of the ground against the teeth gave the double bars a constant shake which gives the harrow a most terrific tearing power. It may be made into a slanting tooth by simply changing evener to the other end. For circulars and testimonials, address

JOHNSON & SMITH,
AUSTIN, MINN.

YOU CAN USE IT 20 DAYS FREE

Ask us to ship you one of our High Arm Sewing Machines with Full Set of Attachments, Shuttle Improvements. We're all there. Use it 20 days in your own home, then if not satisfactory return it to the express agent, and he will give you all your money paid for it. We pay freight both ways. Don't buy a Sewing Machine of any kind of anybody until you have seen our 1899 Model Ideal. When machine reaches destination, and take entire charge of it. If you don't like it, you don't have to keep it. If you don't like it, you don't have to pay. Don't order from anybody who will not do as we offer. We refer to 100,000 customers all over the United States. IT'S SPECIAL FEATURES are Ball Bearing, Self Threading Shuttle, Self Regulating Tension, Positive Feed, Self Threading Shuttle, Automatic Needle, Tension Liberator, Automatic Bobbin Rich Arm, Visible Bobbin, Automatic Lifter, Reversible Feed, Improved Attachments, Range of Finish, Highly Ornamental. Send for our 1899 catalogue. It has everything used by makers. It tells everything used by makers. It tells everything used by makers. It tells everything used by makers.

Send 15 cents for our 100-page illustrated catalogue. It tells everything used by makers. It tells everything used by makers. It tells everything used by makers. It tells everything used by makers.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., Michigan Ave. & Madison St., Chicago.

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven but has long horizontal wires, which crimped in a

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

Like a fence, it can be properly stretched and erected with few posts and without top and bottom rails. The cable selvage and a cable running through the fence every foot. Each rail contains the famous M. M. S. trade mark.

None other genuine.

We are now selling this fence direct to consumers.

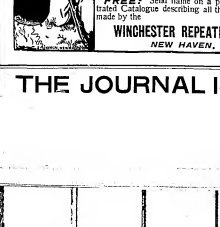
CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE
With or without lower cable barbed. All horizontal lines are cables.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE Ideal fence for lawns, parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel gates, posts, etc. Everything for a fence of all kind.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.

Pat. July 11, 1876. Pat. July 9, 1872.

FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.



SUCCESSFUL SHOOTERS SHOOT
WINCHESTER

Rifles, Repeating Shotguns, Ammunition and Loaded Shotgun Shells. Winchester guns and ammunition are the standard of the world, but they do not cost any more than poorer makes. All reliable dealers sell Winchester goods.

FREE: Send name on a postal for 196 page illustrated Catalogue describing all the guns and ammunition made by the

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO.,
NEW HAVEN, CONN.

THE JOURNAL IS "IT"

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF

THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY

JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNERS' TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1898, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER XI.

A MYSTERIOUS WITNESS.

The two magistrates left the camp and went over to the courthouse, a signal that the trial was about to recommence. We returned to the marquee, and the prisoner was once more brought in. It was quite evident that the greater number of the spectators in court had dined, for they did not present quite so orderly and intelligent an appearance as they had done in the morning. There was a tendency among them to indulge in facetious personal remarks in a tone of voice hardly permissible in a court of justice. In fact, one or two had lapsed into that condition of mind in which it seemed they only vaguely realized that they were there at all, and then only for a very brief period indeed. These lucid intervals were even more noticeable than the periods of imbecility, for they were inclined to assert their right to be present when nobody seemed of disputing it and to state that they would very much like to know the man who said otherwise.

Some bash-wag having told the blacks and their ilk that their childish innocence having believed that a white man was either to be hanged or burned alive that afternoon, after the fashion of the Christian whites, they had turned out in full force with their gins, picaninnies and dogs to enjoy the spectacle. Christian white ladies could not have mustered in better form to enjoy a pigeon hatch than those black ladies of the bush did to see a white man roasted alive. The beau of the party, who had boasted of the nightshirt and the tall hat, was now eclipsed by another colored gentleman who had picked up from a refuse heap an old pair of trooper's long boots and stalked about in them to the admiration and envy of his comrades. As, however, the only other articles of wearing apparel he possessed consisted of a bunch of feathers and a fly net, a young constable made a dart at him whenever he showed up near the marquee, and thus put a check to his vanity and love of admiration.

It would only waste time and trouble to detail the particulars of the trial. I opened the case for the defense, saying with all due deference that the police sergeant, who commanded the respect of every right thinking person had only done his duty in making the arrest, and that I was grateful for the chance thus given of vindicating the character of an innocent man. The prisoner's arrest was due to mistaken identity. It would not waste time by commenting on the flimsiness of the case against him. I would prove it by witnesses, of whose "probity and respectability" I would say nothing, after what had been said of ourselves that morning, but whose personalities and evidence would speak for themselves.

Here a seedy looking gentleman of sporting appearance and whose face betokened that he had seen better days, forgetting himself for the moment, indulged in an audible "Hooray!" To his own surprise and the intense enjoyment of the rest of the crowd, he was promptly caught by the nape of the neck and bundled out of the marquee.

After giving my own evidence and having undergone a cross examination by the sergeant, I called upon Miss Mackenzie to give her evidence.

I can not record the effect of her presence there as a witness before that motley crew. They became orderly and respectful to a degree. Only once a gallant old lushman who in a fit of absentmindedness had dined in two different places rather forget himself. This gentleman had a reputation for dandyism because he wore a boiled shirt and a clean handkerchief tied round his neck. It occurred when, in answer to a repeated question raised by the sergeant of the witness, "if she could actually swear her father had recognized in the corpse of the man murdered by the blacks the person of John Farquharson," she had inquired quietly, "Is it necessary for me to swear twice to everything I say?"

At this the gallant old party—he of the boiled shirt—had thought it incumbent on his reputation to applaud and raise a feeble "Hip, hip!— But he also left the tent abruptly.

I asked only a few leading questions of this witness, not wishing to keep her subjected to the scrutiny of that court longer than I could help. It was a unique sight to see that well bred and beautiful girl standing, facing me, in such a place, among those time worn, rough looking men, many of whom, though rough in exterior and even in manner, had not always been so. Once upon a time they might even have claimed acquaintanceship with her. She stood there as calmly and as self possessed as she might have done in her father's drawing room, only perhaps there was a subdued and simple earnestness in her speech which betrayed the fact that she felt the gravity of the position and of the charge against the prisoner.

One thing noteworthy about her evidence was that, without having to ask her concerning certain points which I was somewhat unwilling to do, she seemed to divine my reluctance and answered the questions just as I would have desired had I worded them differently.

Her examination being finished, she sat down.

I then explained it was needless to take up the time of the court by questioning Miss Mackenzie's maid and companion, who could only bear out—which was quite unnecessary—what the former had said. At this Elsie Gordon looked somewhat surprised. Then the women left the court.

I called upon Savile, and that seemingly simple one somewhat surprised me by his astuteness. After his examination he asked permission and withdrew.

Gordon was next examined. It is unnecessary to particularize the evidence for the defense. It was all I could, under the circumstances, have desired. But I felt that unless the evidence of Dan Smythe could be upset the magistrate would be quite justified in committing the prisoner for trial. I became uneasy and merely asked my witness a few unimportant questions so as to allow Smythe time to bring his. Suddenly some of the members of the court, who had become a little wearied of the proceedings, evinced a lively interest in the appearance of some person or persons who came from the direction of our camp. I looked. It was a remarkable procession.

Leading the way came Samson, that elegant poodle, in a knowing and dignified manner, as if conscious of the fact that he had a personal interest in the matter on hand. He sported a cherry colored ribbon tied round his forelock. Next came Savile with a look of preternatural gravity on his round and shining face, and following closely with the peculiarly stilted yet dignified walk peculiar to his kind, was a dark skinned half caste boy. He wore a large cotton shirt about two sizes too large for him of a most atrocious blue pattern, molesk in trousers, and a gaudy print kerchief tied round his neck and another encircling his brow and hair. After the manner of semi-civilized blacks. Judging by his manner he looked on the stroll as any pare bred black fellow. The appearance of the two was the signal for a break in the monotony of the proceedings.

The wretch fatally shook as if horror stricken.

"It's Savile and his Absalom!" remarked a young stockman, who had hitherto covered silence, in an awe-stricken voice. "When shall we three meet again?" some one else said in lugubrious tones, but with a nasal drone. "Shiney now, he's a boob of a bloy as you may well be proud of. Via, and, faith, but he doesn't be take after his father!" another said with a broad brogue. But the latter had his way to the front and did not seem to hear these invidious remarks, which were, however, quickly suppressed.

The police magistrate, who had been intent on reading some papers in front of him, suddenly looked up and caught sight of the remarkable figure of the half caste.

"Hello!" exclaimed that surprised worthy. "What's this?"

Now, as Savile at that precise moment was thoroughly contemplating the form of Samson—who had at once assumed a begging position right in front of the magistrate's table, thinking that something was required of him—he at once replied with an air of profound perspicacity:

"Samson, your worship."

"Humph!" remarked the magistrate, who had not observed Savile's mistake and never lost his dignity on any occasion. "Seems to me that he's profited by the lesson taught his illustrious namesake and doesn't intend any Delilah to get at his locks."

As the court, with the utmost good nature and most commendable policy roared again at this sally Savile felt it incumbent on him to smile a sickly smile, although he could not see the point of the joke.

After a few technicalities in regard to the mode of procedure had been discussed I represented that as the half caste had been brought up principally with the blacks and could not properly take English, if the bench permitted, I would question him through Sergeant Savile, who had special knowledge of his peculiar pigeon English, and thus the possibility of any misunderstanding would be prevented. This was agreed upon, and Savile was sworn in as interpreter.

In the scene which follows it will therefore be understood that the questions put to the witness by Savile were first communicated to the latter by me.

The half caste stood with his back to the court, facing his interpreter. I noticed he had all the natural good looks of his kind, the handsome Caucasian features and the large, dreamy, dark eyes which seem to speak of a soul that is, alas, too seldom there. There were doubtless many others present besides myself who thought him a handsome youth, although his skin was darker than a nair caste's generally is, and the red cotton kerchief tied round his head gave him a bizarre appearance.

"What is your name?" asked the magistrate, forgetting that he had sworn an interpreter.

"Name b'longin to me, Freddy," the boy promptly replied.

"Have you no surname, my lad?"

If he had asked him this in Greek, it would have conveyed just as much meaning to the witness.

"What name that young man jabber?" asked the puzzled half caste, turning to Savile for an explanation.

The sergeant promptly suppressed the outbreak on the part of the spectators, and the magistrate, who was no longer young, did not resent the imputation concerning his years. Savile explained.

"He has lived mostly in the blacks' camp, your worship. I apologize for the witness' way of putting things I may say, your worship, that all along he's only been known as Freddy."

"Oh! Then Freddy is your name?" remarked the magistrate. "Then you must understand, my lad, that you have to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and if you say what is not true the great God will cause you to be burned in the big fire when you die. Hold up your hand."

The half caste held up a brown hand. But it was here decided that the youth must not make a mockery of the oath by taking it in the regular way. The matter was compromised by Freddy saying earnestly

"Freddy bail gammon. Me savvy big fellow master put him alongs fire belongin to devil-devil s'posin he hurt 'im fellow bail bin do any harm."

"That's good; you can proceed," said the magistrate. "Oh, by the way, you want to confront him with Mr Smythe?"

"I should like him to be present when the witness is examined," I admitted.

In spite of an infatuation for French poodles and a predilection for paper snakes and Chinese puzzles Savile exhibited an astute presence of mind.

I was wondering how Savile had managed to pick up this boy and what the result of the examination was to be, seeing that Miss Mackenzie had consented to expect such important issues from it, when my attention was attracted by the respectful and reverential bow of Daniel Smythe. This worthy was truly not in a proper condition to give evidence in a court of justice. He glared defiantly round the tent as if expecting to find some one at his elbow whom he did not particularly wish to see. This incited several of the spectators to pass jocular but unkind remarks, which were only put a stop to with difficulty. When he caught sight of the half caste, I feared he would have another fit and that the case would have to be again adjourned. The wretched ex-skipper of the ketch Alacrity fairly shook as if horror stricken. If he had seen the ghost of some one whom he had murdered, he could not have betrayed greater fear. As for the half caste, he slowly turned his great dark eyes upon him, and, as if Smythe were some animal fascinated by the eyes of a snake, he could not free himself from their spell. My information was that he had owned a half caste boy, whom rumor said he had beaten to death. The presence of this lad therefore filled him with a superstitious dread.

Then Savile, pointing to Daniel Smythe, asked the half caste:

"You know him that one fellow?"

The indescribable expression on Smythe's face

"Oh, he savvy me, but me savvy him that one reason—Danny Smythe," answered the half caste significantly and in a tone of contempt.

"How and which way, you been savvy that one?"

"Me look out yaraman—bosses, belonging to him, alongs Bowen downs when fellow moon ago" (he held up seven fingers) "all a same time when that fellow Mista Mackenzie bin send um bullocky from Turragong alongs Gibson come up here."

"Your worship," interpreted Savile, "he says he's dare say you've already twigged—that in March last, on the ninth day of March, when Farquharson is said to have started for Bowen downs, Freddy here was with this man Smythe at Bowen downs, some hundreds of miles from the Gibson country where he now says he saw the prisoner." Savile looked significantly at Smythe, who seemed simply bereft of speech.

A murmur was heard in court, and the magistrate looked grave. The half caste stood with the erect, princely carriage of an aboriginal.

"And now you tell if that one Danny Smythe been bindereie—good master, alongs you?" Savile asked the half caste.

Here the sergeant rose and said:

"Your worship, I protest against the time of the court being wasted in such irrelevant evidence. In fact, I protest against this black fellow's evidence being taken at all. It perhaps matters little what he says anyhow."

And now the magistrate, who had all throughout the case heard both sides impartially, remarked somewhat dryly:

"I think, sergeant, that if I consider it proper to take this black fellow's evidence you call him, evidence your protest is ill timed. I am sure you by you should object to it. I myself feel rather cautious in regard to Mr. Smythe's antecedents."

"Head 'tear!" again interjected the gentleman of sporting proclivities, who, after having been forcibly ejected for a like offense, had once more come into the tent, only to forget himself in a weak moment.

"Corporal," cried the magistrate, "have that man arrested."

But as the offender happened to be a personal friend of the magistrate's he was doubtless released later on and fined the drinks. Order had to be maintained in court, particularly when the man's credit was good.

"Well, Freddy," Savile repeated, "that one Danny Smythe been good master alongs you?"

The half caste seemed to mesmerize Smythe with his great eyes as he answered:

"That fellow plenty coolah, alongs me—plenty killum me—bail that fellow gin' him shirt, nor tobac, bail that fellow gin' him thirshtapence. That fellow bin bad, bad, man. One time that fellow—"

Here the half caste paused, raised one hand fearfully to his head as if touching the mark of an old scar, and as if overpowered by some terrible recollection.

Smythe began to shake in every limb. I began to fear that he would have another fit. The same thing seemed to have struck Savile.

"That will do, Freddy," I said hurriedly to the boy. "But perhaps the sergeant might like to ask you some questions."

The sergeant, thinking that he would have an easy time with this untutored son of the bush, straightway began to question him. He had not asked many questions before he discovered, much to his astonishment, that he had unaccountably succeeded in damaging his own case. He sat down in a bewildered fashion, and muttered something about "the devil being in the boy."

When the half caste came to put his mark to his evidence he again excited the amusement of the appreciative audience, for he nearly upset the ink pot. Then dabbling his fingers in the ink he drew them across his face. When I looked for him again in the crowd, he had vanished as completely as if he had only been a passing shadow.

I asked permission to cross examine Smythe, and the magistrate granted my request.

I had got my clew.

"And, now, Mr. Smythe," I asked as Savile sat down, "I want you to think a minute, and to be careful of what you say. Don't you think you made a mistake when you said you were at the Cloncurry on or about the 9th of March last?"

"I suppose I must have been mistook," was the coved and whining reply, his eyes wandering around as if looking for some one; "it must have been later than that."

The sergeant threw down the papers he had been holding, and crossed one leg over the other with the air of a man who says "the game is up."

"And now, look at the prisoner again," I continued. "You see, one is liable to make mistakes. Looking at him closely, isn't it possible that when this morning you spoke of seeing him at the Cloncurry you were deceived by some chance resemblance, and that it is more likely you never saw him before?" I looked aromnd as if for the best caste.

He interpreted my glance, and in a voice that quivered with trepidation whined:

"I—I—don't—begosh! I reckon I did make a mistake—yep—oh, yes, yep, yep—I jist cal'late I was fooled by a resemblance—he is not the John Farquharson I meant at all—I reckon I never saw the fellow before."

"If you ever knew any John Farquharson," I sneered. "I have done with you—in the meantime."

As he sat down he was evidently vastly relieved. If guilt was not clearly written on the debauched face, then I never saw it on any. I made known to the court that all my witnesses had been called.

The sergeant rose to his feet, but with a look that told weight. He evidently knew his case was hopeless. When he sat down it was my turn.

I merely said that as the bench had heard my case it was needless for me to comment upon it. I was not quite sure but that the learned man who sat there as a prisoner had a perfect right to take proceedings against the parties who had imprisoned him on such a false position. Moreover, it appeared to me that the charge of murder against the alleged murderer of John Farquharson was a very shadowy and incomplete one indeed. I would take care that his friends should yet clear up the mystery associated with his memory and bring the assassin to the dignity man.

"Why, man, that half caste was Miss Mackenzie!"

At this point the magistrate slightly raised his hand, and my heart bent wildly as I interpreted the action. Now that victory was near at hand, I felt a strange sickness and a buzzing in my head. I felt that the fever had not quite left me, and the strain of the past several hours had almost been too trying. As in a dream I caught the magistrate's words:

"The prisoner at the bar, you are discharged. I regret that in the exercise of justice you have been placed in such a position. The facts of the case have been of such an extraordinary nature that in the whole course of my experience I have not met with anything like them. I feel that there is yet much to be cleared up. I am not quite sure but that the conduct of one of the witnesses for the prosecution justifies criminal proceedings being taken against him. I have no proof that the prisoner is John Farquharson or the murderer of Sexton. Neither has there been anything said when a cheer arose in that court which spoke volumes for the hearts and lungs of the rough but justice loving little mob of Britons.

We went over to the police quarters and rolled up Jack's swag. The sergeant—who, of course, had only done his duty and was indeed a good fellow and the other troopers were one and all glad of Jack's release. We touched glasses with them, and bid them goodby. We had not walked far before Jack threw down his swag, and I saw he was going to make a speech. I knew that he meant to thank me, and I cut him short. Then we walked over to the camp.

"By the way," I said after a pause, "I forgot to ask Savile about that yellow boy and what he has done with him. What fine eyes the beggar had—a remarkably good looking chap, altogether. I've been cudgeling my brains as to which of my friends he bears a certain resemblance to, but can't for the life of me remember. However, I can't say I'd exactly a good name look, at him; he seems always getting behind Stevie, fashion, and muttered something about "the devil being in the boy."

When the half caste came to put his mark to his evidence he again excited the amusement of the appreciative audience, for he nearly upset the ink pot. Then dabbling his fingers in the ink he drew them across his face. When I looked for him again in the crowd, he had vanished as completely as if he had only been a passing shadow.

I asked permission to cross examine Smythe, and the magistrate granted my request.

I had got my clew.

"And, now, Mr. Smythe," I asked as Savile sat down, "I want you to think a minute, and to be careful of what you say. Don't you think you made a mistake when you said you were at the Cloncurry on or about the 9th of March last?"

"I suppose I must have been mistook," was the coved and whining reply, his eyes wandering around as if looking for some one; "it must have been later than that."

The sergeant threw down the papers he had been holding, and crossed one leg over the other with the air of a man who says "the game is up."

"And now, look at the prisoner again," I continued. "You see, one is liable to make mistakes. Looking at him closely, isn't it possible that when this morning you spoke of seeing him at the Cloncurry you were deceived by some chance resemblance, and that it is more likely you never saw him before?" I looked around as if for the best caste.

He interpreted my glance, and in a voice that quivered with trepidation whined:

"I—I—don't—begosh! I reckon I did make a mistake—yep—oh, yes, yep, yep—I jist cal'late I was fooled by a resemblance—he is not the John Farquharson I meant at all—I reckon I never saw the fellow before."

"If you ever knew any John Farquharson," I sneered. "I have done with you—in the meantime."

As he sat down he was evidently vastly relieved. If guilt was not clearly written on the debauched face, then I never saw it on any. I made known to the court that all my witnesses had been called.

The sergeant rose to his feet, but with a look that told weight. He evidently knew his case was hopeless. When he sat down it was my turn.

I merely said that as the bench had heard my case it was needless for me to comment upon it. I was not quite sure but that the learned man who sat there as a prisoner had a perfect right to take proceedings against the parties who had imprisoned him on such a false position. Moreover, it appeared to me that the charge of murder against the alleged murderer of John Farquharson was a very shadowy and incomplete one indeed. I would take care that his friends should yet clear up the mystery associated with his memory and bring the assassin to the dignity man.

At this point the magistrate slightly raised his hand, and my heart bent wildly as I interpreted the action. Now that victory was near at hand, I felt a strange sickness and a buzzing in my head. I felt that the fever had not quite left me, and the strain of the past several hours had almost been too trying. As in a dream I caught the magistrate's words:

"The prisoner at the bar, you are discharged. I regret that in the exercise of justice you have been placed in such a position. The facts of the case have been of such an extraordinary nature that in the whole course of my experience I have not met with anything like them. I feel that there is yet much to be cleared up. I am not quite sure but that the conduct of one of the witnesses for the prosecution justifies criminal proceedings being taken against him. I have no proof that the prisoner is John Farquharson or the murderer of Sexton. Neither has there been anything said

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

The annual meeting of the State Federation of Labor began at Duluth Monday.

A smallpox case at Windom has caused quite a stir in Southern Minnesota towns.

Five old settlers of Mankato have died within a week. Three of them were territorial residents.

The Augustana synod has voted an increased income to the Gustavus Adolphus college at St. Peter.

William Anderson and Leonard Mason were drowned while bathing in the Minnesota river at Renville.

The German Life Insurance company of Mankato has qualified and has been admitted to do business in the state.

The general land commissioner has approved a swamp land list of 1,000 acres in the Duluth land district to Minnesota.

Brown Hadley, who killed Private O'Connell of the Fifteenth Minnesota in a saloon row at Augusta, Ga., has been acquitted.

The proposed summer school in Worthington, Nobles county, has been postponed from June 22 on account of a smallpox scare.

The annual conference of the Range church has been in session at Hamilton for a week. About 600 ministers and delegates were in attendance.

Rafael Cotte, the Porto Rican, sentenced to hard labor for life by the military commission of San Juan, has been released on state prison parole.

The 18th annual convention of the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association will be held in Como Park, Minnetonka, June 20 and continue in session four days.

The 40th anniversary of the elevation of Rt. Rev. H. B. Whipple to the bishopric of the Episcopal diocese of Minnesota was celebrated at Faribault Wednesday.

The 12th annual encampment of the Commercial Travelers' U. A. C. association will be held at Elysian June 14, 15 and 16, and the largest attendance in its history is expected.

The Great Northern road has just bought 1,000 feet of dock frontage at Duluth on which to build passenger and freight terminals for lake steamship traffic and its own vessels.

One of the largest shipments of wool ever made from Winona has just been completed. C. W. Miller sent out 130,000 pounds and the Laird-Norton company 30,000 pounds to St. Louis.

The Great Northern flyer was derailed near St. Michael's station. Nine cars left the track while the train was going at the rate of 60 miles an hour. No one was killed and none seriously hurt.

The latest intimation from the Milwaukee officials in response to inquiries from St. James business men, is that the road will not come to St. James, but will cross the Omaha at Bingham.

Director of Census Merriam has completed his official technical duties in the appointment of S. N. North of Boston chief statistician in charge of the division of manufacturing and mechanical industries.

The receipts of the Minneapolis post office for the last month were $40,765, against $46,140 for the corresponding month last year. The receipts of the St. Paul postoffice were $41,113, against $36,010 last year.

The railroad and warehouse commission's order to the Minneapolis and St. Louis to put in a station at Emmons is being met by the supreme court. It has been sustained by the district court in Freeborn county.

The Minnesota Star mine in the Swine river district has passed from the control of the Duluth stockholders and is now in control of Toronto men. The sale of stock in this connection has been on a basis of $700,000 for the gold mine. The property pays a monthly dividend of 1 per cent.

At a meeting of the state reformatory board at St. Paul a communication was received from Superintendent Houlton asking as to certain press reports reflecting on the management of the institution and requesting an investigation. The board agreed that no investigation was necessary.

The state dairy department will make no further analysis of vinegar and other food products sent in by country merchants, but confine its work to samples submitted by inspectors. The reason given for this is that false statements have been made as to the source of samples submitted and an improper use of resulting reports.

Drafts have been drawn by Auditor Dunn for the winter's log cut on state lands. The total on 40 contracts was $91,866.82, representing a cut of 30,837,-220 feet. The total includes the preliminary payment of 25 per cent of the estimate. The final bill is based on the actual scale of the log crop. The prices last winter for stumpage ranged from $1.25 to $4.75, the latter an uncommon price for stumpage. The average was $2.36, somewhat larger than usual. The cut was mostly in St. Louis, Itasca, Beltrami and Pine counties.

Governor Lind has issued the following commissions to Thirteenth Minnesota men: Joseph P. Masterman, captain of Company K, promoted to be major May 26, under the law authorizing three; Lieutenant Conrad of Company K, promoted to be captain June 5, vice Masterman; Noyes C. Robinson, captain of Company C, promoted to be major May 29, vice Diggles, deceased; Lieutenant Snow of Company C, promoted to be captain June 5, vice Robinson; John M. Smethurst, sergeant of Company C, promoted to be second lieutenant June 5, vice Snow; Hugo O. Hnaft, Company E, battalion adjutant, June 5. The governor, in notifying the war department, insists that the regiment is entitled to three majors, and states that in this view Senator Davis agrees with him.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR!

Ask your physician this question, "What is the very great remedy for consumption?" He will answer, "Cod-liver oil." Nine out of ten will answer the same way.

Yet when persons have consumption they loathe all fatty foods, yet fat is necessary for their recovery and they cannot take plain cod-liver oil. The plain oil disturbs the stomach and takes away the appetite. The disagreeable fishy odor and taste make it almost undurable. What is to be done?

This question was answered when we first made of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Although that was nearly twenty-five years ago, yet it stands alone today the one great remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

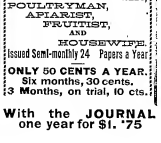
The bad taste and odor have been taken away, the oil itself has been partly digested, and the most sensitive stomach objects to it rarely. Not one in ten can take and digest the plain oil. Nine out of ten can take EMULSION and digest it. That's why it cures so many cases of early consumption. Even in advanced cases it brings comfort and greatly prolongs life.

50c. and $1. on all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

FARM PROFITS



Are Made by reading

FARM, STOCK & HOME,

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Every Number Filled with Practical, Helpful Suggestions for the

FARMER,
STOCKMAN,
DAIRYMAN,
GARDENER,
POULTRYMAN,
APIARIST,
FRUITIST,
AND HOUSEWIFE

Issued Semi-monthly 24 Pages a Year

ONLY 50 CENTS A YEAR.

Six months, 30 cents.

3 Months, on trial, 10 cts.

With the JOURNAL one year for $1.75

DEATH LIST LARGE

NEW RICHMOND CYCLONE ONE OF THE MOST DISASTROUS.

At Least One Hundred Are Killed and It May Exceed That Figure—Injured Also Numerous—Now Estimated That Fully Two Hundred Are More or Less Maimed—Those Able to Stand the Trip Taken to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

NEW RICHMOND, Wis., June 14.—The tornado that has swept out of existence the happy and prosperous little city of New Richmond is the most disastrous in fatality yet known in cyclone history. The exact number of dead is still unknown, but it will certainly reach 100 and very probably will considerably exceed that figure. As they were recovered the bodies were brought to the schoolhouse or the Catholic or Congregational churches. Nurses and physicians from St. Paul, who had come down by special train on the Omaha road as soon as news of the disaster reached the Minnesota capital, were of great help and when the day closed all the seriously injured were believed to have been cared for. Those whose injuries were serious but whose chances for recovery were believed to be good were of St. Paul and Minneapolis, where the best of care can be given them. The slightly injured and those whose cases seem hopeless were kept here and were given the best care possible. The list of dead gradually increased during the day and at dark it seemed that 100 might be the minimum estimate of the dead, while the list of injured will reach and perhaps exceed 200.

Quickly Sent to the Hospitals

During the day scattered groups of rescuers searched the debris where bodies might be found. A fire company from St. Paul kept two streams of water pouring on the smouldering ruins until a heavy rain at the close of the day just about extinguished the flames. Some of the merchants organized private salvage corps and managed to save some property, but the amount was small.

Supply of Coffins Runs Out.

The supply of coffins ran out early in the morning and at present there are not enough in the city to bury the dead. A sufficient number are on the way from St. Paul, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire and other places.

As is usual in cases of great disasters there has been a large influx of disreputable characters and there have been several cases of petty pilfering, but they have not amounted to much. Although it is out of their own state the St. Paul police officers have done most excellent work in checking general thieving. A large number of detectives in plain clothes are on duty watching the ruins, and it is expected by morning that the militia will have things so well in hand that the police officers will be withdrawn to their own state.

BUSINESS SECTION GONE.

The Tornado's Path Was Through the Main Streets of the City.

The business portion of New Richmond covered a space of four squares each way and was solidly built of brick and stone. This entire space was swept clear, foundation walls, and in some places masses of debris, alone marking where the business places formerly stood. Trees that had lined the streets of the neighboring residence districts were broken clear off or twisted and uprooted. The tornado came up the Willow river from Hudson, where the damage was comparatively slight, following the general course of the river and the branch of the Omaha road. The storm gained in intensity as it progressed and was at its worst when it struck the business center of New Richmond. Outlying residences in the path of the storm were or sides were blown off, or else, as more frequently happened, were torn asunder and the fragments were scattered to the four winds of heaven. What had been a prosperous, peaceful city of 2,500 people had in a few minutes become a veritable city of desolation. A circus was in town on Monday and people had come to from all the surrounding country to see the show. After the circus the people had crowded into the city to do their shopping before going home in the evening. It was at this time the storm cloud came up from the southwest, bringing death and destruction in its path. The circus grounds were outside the path of the storm, but the people being in the business places fell a prey to the all devouring tornado.

Stripped of Shingles and Boards,

Many Bodies in the Ruins.

It is believed that the greatest mortality in any one place occurred in the basement of the hardware store of Ward Williams. This stood upon one of the most prominent corners in the business portion of the town and when the storm approached there was a large crowd immediately in front of the building. A large number of people fled into the basement and in an instant they were overwhelmed by the ruins. Several bodies have already been taken out, but it is estimated that fully one dozen bodies are still in the ruins.

The family of Samuel Hawkins was nearly wiped out. They were on the second floor of their residence when the storm broke and made a rush for the cellar. Before any of them could reach the first floor the house was a mass of splinters and Mrs. Hawkins, two sons and two daughters were killed.

AID FOR THE SUFFERERS.

Surrounding Cities Respond Promptly to the Appeal for Help.

As soon as the news of the New Richmond disaster had reached the outside world offers of help and help itself began to come into the city. St. Paul, being the railroad center to which New Richmond was tributary, was the first to learn of the storm and its attendant woes, and within two or three hours the first relief train was started with physicians, nurses, hospital supplies and commissary stores for the people of the stricken city. A second and a third train soon followed and speedily neighboring cities in Wisconsin sent in all they could gather for their needy sister city. The Omaha and the Wisconsin Central roads promptly carried through all the supplies and delivered them to relief headquarters, whence they were delivered to the people of the city.

Hundreds of morbidly curious people from neighboring cities thronged the ruined town all day and crowded about those whose hearts had been wrung with an anguish too great for words.

DISTRESS IS GREAT.

Governor Issues a Proclamation Calling for Public Contributions.

MADISON, Wis., June 14.—The executive and other officials of the state of Wisconsin were early advised of the New Richmond disaster, and acted as promptly and effectually as the urgent necessities of the situation demanded. Governor Scofield at once appealed to the public by proclamation for aid and ordered the adjutant general to the scene. Later a company of the national guard was ordered to New Richmond to aid the detachment of St. Paul police officers in preserving order and to give all possible aid to the suffering. As soon as Governor Scofield received a message from New Richmond which confirmed the reports of a arrangements were immediately made for sending representatives from the state to the scene. A conference between the governor, Major Doyon, Mayor Howe and several leading citizens was held, and while the mayor and citizens arranged to secure supplies and money in the city the governor and Major Doyon mapped out a plan of action on the part of the state.

Death-Dealing Cyclone,

Adjutant General Boardman, who was at Oshkosh, was ordered to New Richmond. Surgeon General Edwards left for that place at noon and will immediately report as to what supplies, tents, provisions and financial aid are needed. General Boardman will join him in the morning and take charge of relief work.

JENKINS ON THE SCENE.

Congressman From the District Tells of the Destructive Wrought.

MILWAUKEE, June 14.—The following telegram has just been received from Congressman John J. Jenkins from New Richmond, Wis., addressed to the governor and chamber of commerce:

"The city wiped out by storm. Every business building and contents and over half the dwellings and contents total loss. Many hundred dwellings and contents partly injured. Over 100 wounded. Forty dead bodies, many missing. Storm this morning. Local people making heroic efforts and giving every of what little they have left. They can be furnished for a short time, but with few exceptions no food or clothing. Not an article of goods, wares or merchandise left; by noon there will not be a mouthful to eat; must have immediate relief. Will require aid for some time. Not a coffin or article to bury the dead. Practically destitution prevails.

OPINION OF RESIDENTS.

Some Place the Loss of Life as High as Four Hundred.

NEW RICHMOND, Wis., June 14.—It is the average resident of New Richmond who estimates the loss of life most seriously. They claim that hundreds are missing who were burned in the ruins. One such is C. A. Nelson, who owned the Columbia restaurant. His estimate of the loss is 400 dead. He says that fully 20 people sought refuge in his place when the storm came up and that only four of them escaped alive. Mr. Nelson says the storm came up with great suddenness and sounded much like a railroad train crossing a bridge. A moment after the first of the noise the front of the building was crushed in and the walls fell en egg shell.

TAKEN TO TWIN CITIES.

Special Trains Bring Many Wounded to St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, June 14.—Two special trains arrived at St. Paul during the afternoon with injured from New Richmond. They were distributed among the various hospitals, which were thrown open for their care upon arrival. A long procession of ambulances, police patrol, light express wagons and undertakers vehicles carried the patients from the Union depot. Three patients died en the way to the hospitals.

ONE IN NEBRASKA.

Tornado Strikes the Town of Herman and Wipes It Out of Existence.

OMAHA, June 14.—A tornado struck the town of Herman, in Washington county, and wiped the place out of existence. At least a dozen people were killed and nearly a hundred injured. Herman is a town of about 300 inhabitants on the line of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway.

LOSS VERY HEAVY

OTIS REPORTS FILIPINO CASUALTIES SATURDAY FOUR HUNDRED.

Move Made to Corner the Rebels in the Locality, But It Proved a Failure. Fighting Was Most Severe — Enemy Was Strongly Entrenched and the Heat Also Affected Our Men—Coast Towns of Paranaque and Las Pinas Now in Control of Americans.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The war department has received a report from Major General Otis of the military movement to the south of Manila for the purpose of clearing out the rebels in that section. It shows that the movement was a great success and that the enemy's loss was considerably greater than stated in the press dispatches. General Otis' cablegram is as follows:

"Terrific heat did not permit troops to reach positions at hours designated; enabled majority of insurgents to escape in scattered organization south and westward which they effected during the evening and night. Movement great success, however, enemy disorganized and routed, suffering heavy loss; troops resting at Las Pinas and Paranaque. Navy did excellent execution along shore of bay, but many insurgent detachments retired in that direction, protected by presence of women and children, whom they drove along with them. Our loss, four killed and some 20 wounded. Report of casualties later. Conservative estimate of enemy's loss about 400."

VERY SEVERE FIGHTING.

Saturday's Battle the Hardest Yet Experienced by Our Troops.

MANILA, June 12.—The Filipino occupation of the province of Cavite has been broken up, as the result of the present movement, the Americans now control the important coast towns of Paranaque and Las Pinas, while a long line of insurgent trenches facing our south line has been cleared.

The insurgents have again proved their facility as dodgers. Between 3,000 and 4,000 warriors, who seemed destined to be captured, have disappeared, the majority abiding away under cover of the night, after fighting the Americans all day. Some others came to meet our troops with protestations of friendship.

The Thirteenth infantry lost 1 man killed and 6 wounded; the Ninth infantry, 1 man killed and 3 wounded; the Fourteenth infantry, 3 wounded, and the First Colorado volunteer regiment, 11 wounded.

SWAM THE ZAPOTE.

Fourteenth Infantry Makes a Gallant Charge on the Filipino Trenches.

MANILA, June 14.—8:15 a. m.—Before dark the Fourteenth infantry swam the Zapote river, charged and carried the trenches, a heavy fusillade of artillery preparing the way, and covering the crossing. The insurgents broke for the woods before the Fourteenth reached them. Almost the same time the Thirty-and the Twelfth crossed a bar of the sea and came upon their left flank, at a point where a body of marines and the Maxim guns landed under the protection of the ship's batteries and fired upon the enemy's left rear, with a demoralizing effect. The Twenty-first crossed the river by a bridge as soon as it was mended. Sixty-five dead Filipinos were found in the trenches, most of them shot through the head. Several 5-inch smooth bore guns were captured, with ammunition marked "U. S. Navy Yard." After crossing the river the troops were withdrawn, with the exception of the Ninth and Twenty-first, these regiments being left with four guns to guard the bridge. As they were being formed into companies, the insurgents commenced to fire volleys from the bamboo jungle, 300 yards away. The regiments formed into line coolly, though under fire, and rushed to the woods, driving the enemy a mile away, the Filipinos disputing every foot. The Fourteenth encamped across the river, the men caring for many of the Filipinos wounded. Eight prisoners were captured. The majority of the Filipinos wore red uniforms.

VERY CLOSE TO MANILA

News of the Latest Battle a Surprise to Washington Officials.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The news of the heavy fighting reported in front of Manila and adjacent to the yards at Cavite where Admiral Dewey landed his forces more than a year ago was received with intense interest here. It is evident to the officials that the insurgents either are stronger than had been realized or that they have come to the end of their ammunition and are making their last stand. Otherwise it is hard to understand why they should come down to the shore of the bay and meet the warships. Adjutant General Corbin steadfastly maintained his confidence in the success of the present movement in Luzon, and said that he felt encouraged at the advices from Otis that with heavy loss and that the latter could not be reassembled in force. Still there is great concern exhibited over the conditions that confront the American troops in this campaign and there was a renewal of the inquiry as to whether or not there is to be further reinforcement of the troops or another call for volunteers. The statement was made in reply to this that Otis has, or soon will have, all the men he asked for, and the opinion of General Otis in these matters, it can be said, will determine the policy of the president in the matter.

Lawton Had Driven the Enemy

The immediate danger is past. By most strenuous efforts the enemy has been driven back. In doing so many more men were prostrated by heat than by their wounds, although the casualties were quite numerous.

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, June 8.

Fire at Augusta, Ga., caused a loss of $250,000.

Augustin Daly the well known theatrical manager, died suddenly in Paris.

Senator Hanna denies that he will resign the chairmanship of the Republican national committee.

A number of sugar companies, comprising the Arbuckle and Dascher interests, also the American and Glucose Sugar Refining companies, is being negotiated.

The special tax for drainage, pure water, paving, park and other improvements at New Orleans, carried at a special election. The plan contemplates an expenditure of $14,000,000.

The liquid air trust has been incorporated in Delaware with a capital stock of $10,000,000. The incorporators assert that with their liquified air they will supplant both the coal and the ice men.

Friday, June 9.

The French ministry is threatened with overthrow.

Prince is seeking a reciprocity treaty with the United States.

Paderewski was married in Warsaw. May to Mrs. Helen Rosen.

The salary of President Northrop of the University of Minnesota has been increased.

Three laborers on the Burlington road at Hot Springs, S. D., were killed by the overturning of a steam shovel.

All opposition to the acceptance of the United States' $8,000,000 in Cuba has ceased.

An Anglo-American agreement on the Alaskan boundary will probably be signed very soon.

The market town of Ottensheim, Austria, has been totally destroyed by fire. Four women perished in the flames and a number of people were injured.

Saturday, June 10.

Recruiting officers have been instructed to enlist as many men for the Philippines as they possibly can.

The steamer Mariposa has sailed from Sydney, N. S. W., for San Francisco, having on board $750,000 in gold.

Twenty-five people were drowned in Texas and 20 laborers were buried by a landslide in Arkansas and probably all killed.

General Eaton has returned from Porto Rico. He says American methods of education have taken well in the island.

President Kruger has declined the proposals of England through Sir Arthur Milner and British newspapers are discussing the possibility of war.

Irreconcilable Cubans are credited with a design to burn the island from one end to the other if the Cubans are not granted independence within two years.

Monday, June 12.

The sugar war is reported over.

The Sfax, with Dreyfus on board, has left Cayenne, French Guiana, for France.

Cleveland street car employes are on a strike. They have a number of grievances they wish redressed.

The Afro-American council has issued an appeal to Southern governors, legislators and judges to prevent lawlessness and lynching.

The government report shows a reduction of 2.3 per cent in spring wheat acreage. The condition is 91.4, against 100.0 last year.

The Dane County (Wis.) state bank, doing a general banking business at Stoughton, has suspended. The bank was capitalized at $60,000.

Major Sears of the corps of engineers, U. S. A., now stationed at Duluth, has been detailed to establish harbor lines in the harbors of Porto Rico.

A telegram received at the navy department from Admiral Kautz, at Honolulu, via San Francisco, states that he arrived at Honolulu June 1. He was to leave on June 10 and arrive at San Francisco on the 22d.

Tuesday, June 13.

The Wisconsin national guard is being reorganized on the regular army basis.

It is announced that the gum trust is now an actuality. The concern has a capital stock of $8,000,000.

Sir Thomas Lipton has invited Lady Russell of Killowen, wife of the lord chief justice of England, to christen the Shamrock.

The Rev. William Garden Blaikie, D. D., LL. D., professor of theology, Free Church, Edinburgh, and former president of the Pan Presbyterian alliance, died at North Berwick, Scotland, early Sunday morning.

John Sherman, the well known writer on political economy, formerly of Milwaukee, who fell from the steps of the treasury department at Washington Thursday, died from his injuries and shock, at the Emergency hospital.

Wednesday, June 14.

Four people were drowned in floods near Moose.

The French courts completely exonerated Lieutenant Colonel Picquart.

Cuban army officers are stated to have collected weapons of their men and secreted them.

The battleship Iowa has been placed in dry dock at Seattle to undergo needed repairs.

Baron Christiani was sentenced in Paris to four years imprisonment for assaulting President Loubet.

A sub-committee of the industrial commission will visit the Northwest and investigate agricultural matters.

The application of the Geneva convention to naval warfare is favored by the Red Cross subcommittee at The Hague.

Congressman Bland continues to improve and his condition inspires his physicians and friends to hope for his ultimate recovery.

Deere Vehicles are All Right!

We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to inland.

They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen.

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., Fosston or Clontosh. LARSEN & CARPENTER, Crookston.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes lies right past your door, delivering twice each day. Call on our driver, or through telephone No. 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riversdie at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. EDGERTON, President. WM. ANGLIN, Vice-President. J. W. WHEELER, Cashier. H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier.

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits. Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

George B. Erskine, J. A. Miller, Wm. Anglin, J. R. Eckinson, C. M. Wall-h, L. Fontaine James they wish redressed. J. P. Foote, W. H. Crosby, J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers.

SCANDIA-AMRERICAN BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON, ... PRESIDENT. B. STEENERSON, ... VICE PRESIDENT.
N. S. GRIVAAS, ... 2d VICE PRESIDENT. L. ELLINGTON, ... CASHIER
A. P. HANSON, ASST. CASHIER.

Farmers, Attention!

I have the Champion Draw Cut Mower (something new) also the ever ready Jones Mower. Thomas and Plano Rakes, Disc and Acme Harrows, Newton and Stoughton Wagons.

CALL AND SEE THEM.....

S. L. COLLINS

PRINTING Of Every Description done at this Office. City Styles at Lowest Prices.

Polk County Journal

Historical Society

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY JUNE 22, 1899 NO 11

SCIENTIFIC FARMING

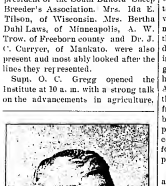
Will Result From the Instructive Farmers' Institute Held Here

HELPFUL TALK BY THE EDUCATORS

Duluth the Place for the Last Institute of the Season.

The Crookston Institute opened with a good attendance of representative farmers, and with an exceptionally strong force of speakers upon the platform. Among the latter were such towers of strength as Prof. Thomas Shaw, of the State Agricultural School. Prof. W. L. Carlyle, head of animal industry at the Wisconsin Experimental Station and M. F. Greeley, president of the South Dakota Sheep Breeder's Association. Mrs. Ida E. Tilson, of Minneapolis. Mrs. Bertha Dahl Laws, of Minneapolis, A. W. Trow, of Freeborn county and Dr. J. C. Curryer, of Mankato were also present and most ably looked after the lines they rep resented.

Supt. O. C. Gregg opened the Institute at 10 a. m. with a strong talk on the advancements in agriculture.



SUPT. O. C. GREGG.

incidentally mentioning that the speakers who would follow him were all practical men and that what they would bring to the platform would be no farming in the air, but the very best gathered from the hard experience of years. Mr. Gregg was followed by Dr. Curryer, who crowded into a short talk many practical pointers in the management of young horses. Kind treatment he placed foremost, and then early education. When only a few days old the colt should be caught, and held firmly, and as soon as it ceased struggling and gave up, quietly released. In this way it could be taught at a very early age that it had a master, which meant much in the care and management of horses.

Both ends of the colt should be caught at the same time so that it could neither jump, bound nor go backward. Halter breaking should come next and be thoroughly done, after carefully getting the halter on the head, and before pulling it at all, a small rope should be placed around the body just in front of the hipslip noose passed between the fore legs and under the nose band of the halter, as whatever happens at the front end of a horse impells it backward, and just the reverse at the other end by pulling at the small rope at the same time the halter is pulled a colt can be made to lead easily, and will forever remember.

After Dr. Curryer came Mr. Greeley, who for more than half an hour talked earnestly of the importance of more mutton sheep upon Red River Valley wheat farms. "Stockfarming of some kind" the speaker said, "is the foundation of all successful agriculture," and sheep were especially recommended for run-out wheat farms, particularly in regions like the Red River Valley where seeds greatly abounded. Out of about 600 weeds and grasses growing in the Northwest, it was shown that while the cow could make way with but about 40 of them, and the horse with barely 80, the sheep eats greedly over 550 or nearly all of them. It was also shown that with her pure air, cold climate, almost constant sunshine and mountain like atmosphere, Minnesota offered many natural advantages for the economical production of mutton. cow or the large formed vigorous cow would be great milkers and yet produce large strong and finely formed beef steers for feeding purposes. Mr. Carlyle attaches a great deal of importance to the organs of the body most closely associated with the milk giving function, viz, the udder and veins on the under side of the body, usually termed the milk wells. A knowledge of the conformation and development of these is of vital import in the selection of a good milk cow. Mr. Carlyle is convinced that it is quite possible and is beyond doubt advisable for the grain farmers in the Red River Valley to keep a good large formed cow of either Shorthorn. Durham, Red Polled, or Aberdeen Angus cow selected for their large forms and deep milking function, using the milk for making butter and raising the calves for beef purposes. From his experience he is convinced that this is a profitable cow for Red River Valley farmers at the present time.

Mrs. Bertha Dahl Laws, of Minneapolis, gave a short address on Sanitation. While much had been said upon the question of fifty dollar cow, how best to feed and stable the animal, etc., she thought that the It was recommended that only the mutton breeds be kept, and that the flock be comprised largely, almost wholly, of good business mutton ewes. These ought to yield not less than 100 per cent. of lambs, thus enabling one to keep a small flock in the winter time when room and feed are more valuable, and a large flock when room is nothing and food is very cheap.

It was shown that the rape plant could be made of much value by being sown with small grain, drilled in with the grain, and pastured in the fall when pastures are short. Instances were given where large bunches of western lambs had been fitted for the block with rape alone, and the land greatly benefited by the presence of the sheep.

The afternoon session opened by a continuation of the morning discussion on the selection of beef and of dairy cattle by Prof. Carlyle. The points he made most strong were the conformation of the milking cow be she of the dairy breed, a special dairy farmer himself, who was worth thousands of dollars, looking at him merely from the financial point of view, ought to be given at least as much consideration. Those things which are most essential to man's health, namely, sunshine, fresh air and pure water, all farmers have in great abundance and yet many of them have trouble with their lungs. Nature is ready to lend her assistance and give it merely for the asking and yet alas! too often she is ignored. Many farm houses are filled with poisonous gases incited or with fresh air and sunshine. Great care should be taken to keep everything in the immediate vicinity of the farm house neat and clean. The little things as well as the more important matters ought to be attended to, so that agricultural people may not merely exist but live well.

Prof. Thomas Shaw gave a most interesting and valuable talk on forage plants for the northwest, and the discusion which followed was one of the most animated of this session.

Capt. Tilson on grass and sorgum-etc., were shown to be the cornfodder plant, particularly the two first named, which can be grown almost wild the length and breadth of the Red River Valley. It is impossible to give even a short outline of this most important subject and the able manner in which it was handled by Prof. Shaw.

Mrs. Tilson followed with a short poultry talk which completed the morning session.

In the afternoon Mr. McKissick gave an address on grain growing and live stock in the Red River Valley which address will be printed in full in a future issue of the JOURNAL. Col. Wilkinson started a discussion upon dairying and suggested that it would be a good thing to have a creamery started at the Experiment Farm. Mr. Carlyle spoke upon the topic as to how a creamery should be started, and he also gave a public demonstration of the good qualities of the dairy cow, using as examples four cows owned by Louis Fontaine and N. S. Gordon.

Mr. Trow showed how a silo should be built and Dr. Curryer spoke upon his favorite topic, The Horse.

The Institue closed about five o'clock. All who were in attendance are enthusiastic in their praise of the papers read and the addresses given.

The entire corps of farm educators together with E.D. Childs, N. S. Gordon and wife, H. Mc L. Dewars and C. C. Currie, of Euclid, went out to the Experiment Station and took dinner and spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Hoverstad. Mrs. Hoverstad showed by the most delicious viands which she spread before her guests that she is an adept in the art of cookery and fortunate indeed were those cooking schools in connection with farmers' institutes-in the past which had Mrs. Hoverstad as head instructor. A very pleasant social time was spent at the farm house and later in the evening these connoisseurs in all things pertaining to farm life inspected Supt. Hoverstad's horses, cattle and farm equipments and pronounced everything very good.

Supt. Gregg and his staff of instructors left this morning for Duluth, where the last Farmers' Institute of the season will be held tomorrow and Saturday. The plans for the next senson's work have already been made, the first institute being scheduled for about the first of December.

GRAND ZOOLOGICAL DISPLAY.

Ringling Bros.' Menagerie the Largest and Finest in the World.

Ringling Brothers' menagerie is the finest zoological collection in the world. Many innovations in the way of arrangement have been introduced, thus adding to the effectiveness of the display, and simplifying the opportunities for study. The vast menagerie pavilion is laid out like a zoological garden. In the centre is the pachydermium, in which is exhibited the largest herd of elephants ever seen in the Western Hemisphere. There are twenty-five of these interesting and powerful beasts, ranging from the tiniest of baby elephants to a pair of the largest probosctidians in the world. In the middle spaces are also displayed the various led animals, including a score of Arabian and Bactrian camels, water buffaloes, sacred cattle, and dwarf ponies. The cages line the outer walls, and the several species are arranged in such a way as to readily illustrate the radical differences between the herbivorous and carnivorous beasts. The amphibia are represented by a remarkable collection of hippopotami, sea lions, seals and other water-frequenting animals, exhibited in huge aquaria, with constantly flowing water. The aviary comprises nearly a score of mammoth gold-illuminated cages, in which are exhibited an unrivalled ornithological display, comprising the brightly-plumaged birds of every land. The children's menagerie, with its tiny cages of wild animals, has been augmented by a complete exhibition of simians from the diminutive ring-tailed monkey to the almost human anthropoid apes. In addition to these already enumerated, there are hundreds of other curious wild animals, including a ferocious bighorned rhinoceros, a magnificent specimen of the multi-natured horned-horse or gnu, a manlike Congo chimpanzee, snow white Polar bears, a dozen of black tigers, ferocious lions, sinuous tigers, and other interesting beasts, the whole comprising a display unique enough to duplicate anywhere on earth. Ringling Brothers' menagerie is a worthy induction to the great show for which it forms a mammoth vestibule. The famous O'Brien sixty-one horse act, the elephant brass band, Lockhart's horse act, the elephant comediadians, the international exhibit of high-bred racing stock, the beautiful menage riding of Mme. Ada Castello and Miss Aille Jackson, the feats of legermanship by an incomparable company of lady and gentlemen equestrians the unrivalled aerial performances of the Fisher Family, Nile Turnour, Alvo, Boise, and Pickard, and Mons. Le Pierre; the acrobatic sensations of the marvellous DeComas—these are but a few of tee supberb features that are to be seen only with this great show. The free street parade, a magnificent gratuitous spectacle, in thirty monster sections which takes place at ten o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, July 5, and the brilliant introductory divertisements. "The Last Days of Century," are the most resplendent spectacular display ever organized.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

An Adjourned Meeting Held to Amend the Patrol Limits Ordinance.

REFERRED TO CITY ATTORNEY.

Lots of Talk for the Amount of Business Done—Finance Committee Makes two Reports.

A meeting of the city council was held at the city hall Thursday evening as per adjournment from Tuesday night, the principal purpose of amending the patrol limits ordinance passed on the last named evening. Alderman Brown and McGregor were absent.

Alderman Childs moved to reconsider the vote by which the ordinance to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in certain parts of the city was passed, and the motion carried. He then moved to amend the ordinance as offered by inserting the words "and north of Fletcher street" just after the words "west of the Great Northern Railroad" where they occur in section one of said ordinance. Alderman McKinnon made a motion to refer the amendment to the city attorney to see if it is legal. Alderman Childs thought this motion was out of order, but the chair ruled that it was not, and by vote the council referred the matter to the city attorney.

The council then took up the matter of caring for the city dumping ground, and on motion of Alderman O'Brien Pat O'Connor was appointed custodian of the grounds at a salary of $20 per month, which salary is to be placed in the hands of the finance committee to be expended for Pat's benefit.

A communication from the board of health concerning the dumping grounds was referred to the city attorney.

His Honor, the Mayor, sent a communication to the council recommending that money be appropriated for the relief of the sufferers at New Richmond. Alderman Harris objected to an appropriation, and no action was taken.

A petition was presented to the council from the Fifth ward, asking for the appointment of a policeman for the business portion of that ward. The petition was ordered to be referred to the aldermen from the Fifth ward. Alderman McKinnon thought this was a slap at the mayor, and wanted the petition sent to him. The council finally voted to refer that portion of the petition asking for the appointment of a policeman to the mayor, and that part referring to patrol limits was laid on the table. There is no necessity at the present time for a policeman in the Fifth ward, but the people over there seem to have an idea that the ordinance before the council prescribing patrol limits will bring to pay into police protection and they wanted to find out, if they could, if it was really so.

K. D. Chase sent a communication asking for the abatement of taxes for 1898 on the old city hall lot, on the ground that he did not purchase the lot until after the first of May. The council recommended the application favorably to the county commissioners.

Julius Holmbo asked to have a sewer tax assessed against her property canceled, on the ground that the sewer did not pass her property. The petition was referred to the sewer committee.

The petition of Philomene Brosseau asking to have the tax penalties against her property abated was favorably recommended to the board of county commissioners.

The residents of Jerome's addition petitioned the council for an extension of the water mains for the purpose of fire protection and for additional electric light service, but the prayer of the petition was not granted.

Alderman Childs wanted the hill in the street in the Fifth ward next to the railway right-of-way just this side of the saw mill fixed up. His resolution asked that the street be fixed from the mill to a point in the First ward where the road has already been repaired by planking, proper gutters and culverts, scraping off the shavings and other debris to a width sufficient to allow two wagons with hay racks to pass, and covered with earth and ballasted with gravel. Alderman Davis moved to amend by referring the matter to the city engineer with instructions to furnish an estimate of the probable cost, and the resolution as amended was passed.

A petition presented by S. L. Collins and others asking for a sewer was referred to the committee on streets and sewers. Another petition asking to have Second Avenue north, between Main and School streets graded, was referred to the committee on streets and bridges.

James Simpson wanted to be reappointed as pound master and his desire was granted.

John W. O'Brien wanted his tax abated to the amount of $411.48, or that part assessed for grading the street in front of his place, which he claimed damaged rather than improved his property. President O'Brien called Aldermen Harris to the chair, and after fully explaining the conditions surrounding the premises, moved that the request for abatement be granted. No second was received to his motion, and the next order of business was taken up.

President O'Brien then moved to reconsider a motion passed some time ago recommending that the tax of O. H. Lucken be abated, and this motion received a second and was passed. He then moved that the request for abatement made by Mr. Lucken be rejected, and the council passed this motion also. By this action the council has placed itself in a rather ridiculous position. A favorable recommendation was made to the county commissioners some weeks ago and that body has made the abatement as recommended. This action has more the appearance of spite work than of a business transaction. It is not intended to convey the idea in this report that the tax of Mr. Lucken should have been abated, still if the recommendation for abatement passed some time ago was right, that action should stand: if not it never should have been made. The council should be well assured before making any recommendation for tax abatement that the request is a just one.

The bond of Archie Woodham, indemnifying the guarantee on furniture purchased of him, with L. P. Nelson and N. P. Stone as sureties, was accepted.

City Engineer Hamery presented a detailed report of the condition of several streets and sewers. Alderman Childs moved to accept that portion of the report recommending that the contractor be required to build manhole covers in the Fifth ward to level off street as required by contract. Also that a catch basin be constructed at the intersection of Main street south and Third Avenue south, and that the work be ordered done. Alderman Harris moved to amend the motion by including the recommendation for a flushing tank to the Ash street sewer. The amendment was accepted by Mr. Childs and the motion as amended was passed.

The financial committee, instructed some time ago to make the best settlement possible in the case of A. C. Wilkinson against the city, brought in three reports. The majority, Aldermen Ellington and Childs, reported that they had affected a settlement with Mr. Wilkinson in behalf of the city according to pay him $1,000 in satisfying the judgment for costs against him amounting to $88.70. Alderman McKinnon presented a minority report, contending that it would be better to continue the litigation than to make the settlement on this basis. On motion of Mr. Childs the majority report was accepted and an order of $110 in favor of Mr. Wilkinson was ordered to be drawn, also orders to satisfy the judgment for costs amounting to $88.70 making a total of $198.70. The case has already been tried three times in the district court and once in the supreme court. The jury verdict each time has been in favor of Mr. Wilkinson, and the supreme court now sends the case back for another new trial. It is only a question of the amount to be paid in the end, and the council would have shown good business judgment in settling the case, thereby saving the heavy expenses of continued litigation.

A liquor license was granted to John W. Pratt on payment of the other fee of $500.

It was Friday morning when the council adjourned to meet again in a week, Friday evening June 23.

Shot a Lynx.

Hendrum News: Charlie Begger man is the hero of the hour. Last Thursday while hunting in the woods on the Pippen farm three miles west of Halstad, he shot a lynx. When he saw the animal it was about ten feet from him, and advancing toward him, when he fired, instantly killing the animal. It was a lucky shot for Charlie, as he only had one shell in the gun, which was loaded with B B shot. He brought the lynx to J. M. Douglas: who will mount it.

When he was returning home in the evening, he saw the mate to the lynx but by the time he secured a gun, the animal had disappeared.

IN DISTRICT COURT.

Geo. Schnagl on Trial for Arson Acquitted—Defense Claimed Insanity.

JUDGE WATTS RETURNS MONDAY

Grand Jury in two Indictments has Wrong Complaining Witness Hence no Trial.

Judge Brown after presiding in court in Crookston for two weeks returned to his own district Saturday and Judge Watts on Monday resumed his place on the bench here.

Last Thursday the court case of A. A. Jordahl against Inzebor Thomas et al came up before Judge Brown and he has not as yet, given his decision.

George Schnagl who was charged with setting fire to several buildings in Crookstonas was acquitted by the jury. His Lawyer, Halvor Steenerson, made the plea that the young man was insane.

In the case of T. H. Bjoin vs J. M. Stephens—one of those cases in which Judge Watts was an attorney before he was elevated to the bench—Judge Brown appointed A. A. Miller referee. The matter would have come up before the judge himself but the facts in the case could not be found.

In the case of Daniel K. Hagestad against Bert Johnson and Nettie Johnson a verdict was given to the plaintiff as the defendants did not appear.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in the case of J. B. Swing vs M. W. Jenson and company. Swing a trustee of an insurance company sued defendant for $312.00, but the evidence brought out the fact that he insurance company was insolvent at the time the policy under consideration was given.

Tuesday morning the case of Andrew Tupp vs C. B. Peterson came up. The plaintiff sued the defendant to recover the amount of a note which the latter gave six years ago. The defence claimed that Peterson was a minor when the note was made out and hence could not be held for the amount. The jury after being out an hour brought in a verdict for the defendant.

Neither the case against Forkbirdland nor that against Anton Johnson, both of whom were indicted for selling liquor without a license out near Lengby, was tried, as the grand jury in making out the indictments gave the wrong complaining witness in each case.

Yesterday the case of Mat Cornelius against the County Commissioners was tried and a verdict given for the defendant. Mr. Cornelius sued for wages for twenty-one days when he was deputy county auditor in 1894. In this case also of the Minnesota Shoe Company against S. C. Bagley came up. The plaintiff sued to recover balance of $142 on a bill of goods sold to Mr. Bagley. When the evidence was all in the jury to return a verdict for the defendant.

THEY PLAYED SOLDIER

With a Real Gun and it Was Loaded —Boy Instantly Killed.

A fatal accident occurred June 9, in the town of Excel about eight miles north of Thief River Falls the circumstances of which are as follows: Christ Sevaldson, aged 17, son of Berger Sevaldson, Martin Grunley, his cousin, aged 14, and three other boys were together at one of their homes playing war. Martin Grunley with two others were in a fort while the other two were outside starting to "take the fort." Martin had an old style, muzzle loading shot-gun, loaded, which was at half-cock, supposed to be safe. When the boys were within about six feet of the fort Martin took aim at Christ's head. He pulled a little to hard on the trigger and the gun was discharged, the load hitting Christ between the eyes and killing him instantly, to the horror of the boys. A physician was procured as soon as possible but of no avail. He was the only son and as his parents are aged and the father in poor health it is a severe blow to them. While the act was extremely careless no intent can be charged to the boy who did the deed.

Farm F or Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—northwest quarter of section 29, town 150, range 45, in the village of Gentilly, about 100 yards from cheese factory. No. 1 buildings, including good house, well finished, large barn for stock, granary holding 6,000 bushels, good well; creek that never goes dry, close to barn; about four miles of fence on the farm. For further particulars, inquire of N. Brosseau, at Ottawa House, Crookston, Minn. 8-29

AROUND THE COUNTY

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

McINTOSH.

C. P. Hole has moved into his new house.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Ole Espeland, a boy.

The new Lutheran Synod church is to be plastered immediately.

The Swedish Baptists are contemplating erecting a new church.

A. G. Anderson and wife, of Fisher, are visiting in town with K. Helle a relative.

Mrs. Ole Stovern is giving her house a thorough repairing, both out and inside.

Mrs. Rev. Reishus and Mrs. K. Bakke visited the Fosston last Sunday between trains.

The Duluth Hotel changed hands last Friday. The new proprietors are Hendriksen & Eriksen.

Mr. Paul Oppegaard from Albert Lea, a brother of Edward Oppegaard is staying with the latter.

The Duluth excursion did not take very many from McIntosh, Only twenty-five tickets sold here.

Mrs. Martin Tvelten came up from Thompson, N. D. last Thursday to visit with friends and relatives.

Some of our citizens went to attend a picnic at Peter Olson's last Sunday. The picnic was O. K. they say.

Miss Julia Brevig, from Sioux Falls, came up Sunday. Mrs. Brevig is engaged by Rev. Reishus as parochial school teacher for the summer.

There are now good prospects that the "slough", or mudhole, or whatever you will, on Jackson street will be ditched out and filled up. It will make a fine residence lot for somebody.

ANGUS.

F. Struble was in Warren on Saturday.

A. T. Campion was in Warren on Saturday.

H. C. Clark and wife were in Warren on Thursday.

Mrs. J. M. Palmer was in Fergus Falls on Thursday.

C. R. Perkins and wife went to Duluth on Saturday.

Mrs. M. A. Campion was in Crookston Tuesday on business.

Frank Horton, of Key West, attended lodge here on Thursday.

Andy Diffenbaugh, of Key West, was in town on Thursday visiting old friends.

Mr. Boyd, superintendent of the Independent Elevator, was in town on Friday.

A. Evans, Wm. Watteun and J. Bevier went to Warren on Sunday on their wheels.

F. R. Stevens was in Warren on Saturday. He was accompanied home by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Dean.

Misses Hannah and Louise Palmer arrived home from Hudson on Friday, where they have attended school for the last year.

LENGBY.

J. Lodeen will build a new dwelling soon.

O. M. Olsom is having a fine pleasure boat built.

Ole K. Ringstad and A. A. Argall made a trip to Eelmo this week.

Saterstrom, Olson & Co., will commence the building of a warehouse this week.

Andrew Opheim, the Fertile merchant, was visiting with friends about Lengby last week

Lengby will celebrate July 4th, 1899. Preparations are being made and a great time is expected.

Mr. and Mrs N. O. Nelson went to Duluth on the excursion train last Friday and returned yesterday.

Rumor has it that another one of our young business men will soon launch into the sea of matrimony.

O. M. Olsom, Walter Peden, Joe Dove and Ole Lommen paid a visit to Duluth with the excursion.

Several of the Lengbyites went to Crookston last Monday, to settle some of the matters about the blind pig in Lengby.

The dwelling and household furniture belonging to Andrew Olson, the Lengby merchant, which were on his claim near Teckla, were burned up completely a few days ago. It was presumably set on fire.

A man by the name of Andrew Kronkvest from Park River, N. D., was drowned in Spring lake near Lengby last Sunday. He was 36 years old. He went out in the forenoon fishing and didn't return for dinner, and two men went out in the evening to look for him and found him near the shore of the lake tangled up in the fish line, hands and feet, with the fish pole stuck into the bottom of the lake.

GRAND FORKS.

There are lots of new buildings going up in town.

John Bonns has just finished painting his house.

Father Green left this morning for a fishing vacation at Bemidji.

Uncle Sam's Park was opened up Tuesday. Sam is sparing no pains in refitting the place this year.

The Lockerby building which was burned down last winter, is now replaced by a neat looking structure.

It is rumored that Gene Brink, the genial N. P. ticket agent, is seriously contemplating matrimony in the near future.

Only two weeks until the glorious Fourth, when Ringling's Brothers' circus will make its appearance in our lucrity.

A. D. Fuller, the draymau, left last Monday for parts not known to the writer. It is thought he has gone to get married.

The Queen City Juniors of Crookston and the Little Diamonds of this city played ball at the ball park Tuesday.

Collins & Stinson, the well known machinery firm, have erected a fine machinery hall on 4th street. Size, 48x60, 1 story.

The Crookston ball team played the Fossett nine here Monday at the ball grounds. Score, 7 to 14, in favor of Grand Forks.

A prominent plumber was married to one of the belles of hushing fame at the residence of the bride's parents at Fergus last Tuesday, June 13.

Miss Anna Wilson, one of the prominent Central school teachers, left Saturday evening for her home in Winona to spend her summer vacation.

The University commencement exercises were held in the opera house Thursday morning. It was the largest class ever graduated from the "U."

Mrs. J. D. Sattler and daughter Marie arrived in the city Monday to spend a couple of months with Mrs. H. E. Maloney, proprietor of the Ingalls House.

The lecture on "Imperialism and the Private Soldier," to have been given at the Metropolitan last Monday night by Capt. J. Henry Grant, failed to materialize.

Mrs. R. F. Slaughter, accompanied by her daughters, the Misses Doris and Ruth, of Victor, Col., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Topping for a few weeks.

Antonio Pierre, former manager of Hull Adall, the Salmon's line, sailed from New York last Thursday, after a new Turk to defeat the one that has deserted him recently.

Several of the boys will go up to Langdon to see the races. Mr. Jones will entertain the visiting horses; Sherburne Sands, Easter, runners; and Brownie, which is a pacer.

Tom Ford, who runs a grocery and general supply store, has recently put up a new building, Size of new part 20x22, 16 foot posts. It will make a nice improvement.

The high school exercises were held in the opera house Friday evening. A class of thirteen was graduated. President Merrifield of the "U" spoke to them on their duty in life.

Contractor McGovern is building two residences on 5th street and Belmont avenue for another party. One of them is completed. S. A. McLean has the job of painting them.

The Nash Bros.' wholesale brick block, corner of 5th and DeMers Ave., is just finished and is very nicely furnished. There are five elevators, and the side track runs up to rear of house.

Seventy-five Elks left Monday for St. Louis and are prepared to take the numerous prizes for the largest number from one place, the longest distance traveled, nicest uniforms, and best drilled.

The paving of the streets in the residence portion of Grand Forks with cedar blocks is still going on. Contractor McDonald is rushing the work, as the paving will be extended to the Lutheran College.

It is rumored that the North western Telephone Exchange Co. are negotiating for the purchase of Uncle Walsh's lots, corner 4th and DeMers avenue, for the erection of a new telephone exchange building.

D. A. McMillan, the champion five style wrestler of America, is stopping at the Ingalls House. He is arranging for a wrestling tournament, to take place at East Grand Forks Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

J. Milligan of Minneapolis, a N. P. official, was in theeity recently looking after the laying of the new switch track to be put in soon. It will be laid from Riverside park along 3rd street to the Arlington hotel. The hotel will be torn down about July 1 and an elegant new passenger depot built on its sight.

Sam Grossman had a runaway Tuesday morning, his horse getting frightened at a Reenecker that exploded, and started to run from Bo Camp & Beyers' wholesale fruit store and ran to 4th street, where the horse was stopped. No damage but there was considerable excitement.

S. A. McLean informs us that he has just finished painting three nice residences this week, on 6th street and North Sedkirk avenue, belonging to A. D. Skinner of the Palace Hotel. They cost $1700 apiece.

Miss S. A. Thompson of Minneapolis has a fine new residence on Vernon avenue that she has just moved into this week. She has had it raised, painted and a new base built. It will make one of the finest and prettiest dwellings in the city.

J. D. Bacon will move his residence from its present location just south of the First Methodist church on 4th street to 6th street, and he will build on to his livery barn on the north so that when completed its dimensions will be 100x140 feet. There will be three offices and a wash room, which will be heated by steam.

Married, Robert Huntington Bazard to Miss Jessie Miller, at the Episcopal church last Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. A. F. Gunne officiating. Only a few intimate friends were present. They left for Duluth on the morning train, where they will spend a week. They will make their home at Grand Forks, where the groom is the junior partner of the firm of Bazard & Bazard. Congratulations.

ERSKINE.

W. J. Dargon spent Sunday at Crookston.

P. A. Mork returned from Crookston Wednesday.

The village well in South Erskine is ready for use.

Martinus Nelson returned from Crookston Friday.

Hans Hanson was at Solway between trains Tuesday.

Olof Mossett was at McIntosh Tuesday between trains.

H. J. Nyvoen received a good big assortment of fruit Monday.

Gilbertson & Espeseth received a car load of machinery Tuesday.

Traveling men are as thick as black birds in a corn field now-a-days.

A runaway on Thursday made things lively for a while. No damage done.

W. J. Dagon's boy and girl came up Thursday to make their papa a good visit.

O. H. Dale returned from Crookston Wednesday, where he was doing business for the town.

A. F. Cronquist has moved the bank fixtures to the Langhelmbling until they build on their corner lot.

One of our prominent saloon keepers took with him one of the fair sex to a baptising party in Winger Friday. Let it sail.

L. F. Benson is moving his building in South Erskine across the street on the lot which he purchased last week from Geo. G. Erskine.

Those from Erskine that took in the excursion to Duluth were Richard Xess, Ole Eggen, John Peterson, Hans Sandly, Jens J. Lawson and H. J. Narveson. All report a good time.

CLIMAX.

Quite a number took in the excursion to Duluth last week.

John Fossum was doing business in Crookston Saturday afternoon.

Miss Bertha Satermoe visited with friends at Crookston over Sunday.

Carl Nordby had his bicycle stolen from him at the saloon last Friday.

Osmun Sorenson was over from East Grand Forks the first of the week.

Mrs. Ernest Hanson, of Crookston, has been visiting with his sister, Mrs. L. S. Lofsun.

Hans Samuelson has ordered the fixtures for his saloon from St. Paul and will open up about July 1st.

J. H. Arthur had three of his fingers smashed while loading freight Tuesday

Henry Gilbertson left for Bemidji Monday, where he will spend a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Bonnime returned from their wedding trip Tuesday morning.

Miss Julia Anderson has been visiting her mother, west of Crookston for a week and returned Friday.

A game of ball was played between Belmont and Climax on the latter's ground Sunday. The score stood 5 to 11 in favor of the home team.

John Steenerson, the mayor of Climax, was married Wednesday afternoon to Miss Martha Thompson, from Glyndon, Minn. The wedding took place at his farm, half a mile from town. A large number of friends and relatives were invited and all report having a glorious time.

MALLORY.

Crops are looking fairly good around Mallory.

There was a dance at Pat Leahn's last Saturday night.

The roads are in excellent shape for the "Knight of the Bike."

Representative Cumming claims flax will grow on stump land.

John Rengier is hauling lumber for his new house on Red river.

E. P. Bement drove over to Lowell Sunday to see Adolph Klinger.

Boyd Sprot, living northeast of town, is building a new barn 28x30.

Harry Gowendeck of Barnesville was a visitor in our town last Monday.

John M. Wiley will make his headquarters at Grand Forks after this week.

T. D. Stewart went to Crookston Monday morning, where he is on the jury.

F. J. Fronts, living one mile north of town, is building a barn 22x28, 16 foot posts.

Miss Ferguson from St. Charles, Minn., is visiting her brother, D. B. Ferguson.

William Flemming is building a beautiful home on the bank of the Red Lake river.

C. L. Conlter is painting his house and otherwise improving the looks of his premises.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ferguson of Ulen, Minn., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. David Hill.

Station Agent King received a short call from some of his Dakota friends on their return trip from Duluth.

Our Modern Woodmen hall is nearing completion and will make a fine improvement for our town. Size, 30x30, 20 foot posts.

Sam Sorenson has just opened up in the merchantile business. He received his first supply Monday morning. Give him a call.

Charles Hilton of Fisher was seen on our streets last Monday. He landed a load of finishing lumber for our new Woodmen hall.

L. Stimson was a caller in our village last Monday. He represents the Fairbanks & Morse gasoline engine, and resides at Grand Forks.

George Ldenby of East Grand Forks, who is agent for Sullivan Brothers, implement dealers, at that place, was in our village Monday.

The Crookston kid baseball team drove through here Monday on their way to Grand Forks, where they had a round at the national game.

Albert Asmundson, Chris Coulter, John Driscoll and Mike O'Neil went to the Duluth excursion from here Friday night, returning Monday morning.

S. S. Davidson is building a new barn in Bemidji and expects to be ready in a couple of weeks to supply his many patrons with all they are in need of.

Mallory is making rapid strides in improvements. A number of sidewalks have been built already this summer and there is good prospects for many more in the near future.

S. S. Davidson will start to move this week to McDonald, where he will run a store. He will take down his building here and rebuild it at McDonald. Mr. M. has lived here since the fall of 1881.

Miss Sadie Davidson, an Osborn student of the Fargo Institute, is visiting her many friends in this community. Miss Davidson will graduate next September, and is very enthusiastic concerning the new science of treating human ailments.

John Coulter moved down from Grand Forks to his farm two miles southwest of town, the first of the week, where he and his family will spend the summer. J. L. Coulter, Jr., will graduate from the high school the Forks next year.

C. Smith, of Johnstown, N. D., drove through here last Monday on his way home. He tried to go to Thirteen Towns but the roads were so bad he had to return home without reaching his destination. He will move his family, by rail, to Thirteen Towns soon.

The Woodmen will hold their first annual picnic Friday, June 30, in James Lee's grove, two miles east of Mallory. Dinner will be served at usual time. Several sports will be engaged in during the day and nothing will be left undone to make the occasion as pleasant as possible. A grand ball will be held the same evening in the new hall, which is almost completed. Those seeking a good time should not miss so important an event.

LOCKHART.

Mr. S. B. Palmer was in Ada Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. LeGear drove to Ada Tuesday.

Miss Lacy McPhee has been visiting in Crookston.

Miss Deal Ford has been here visiting her cousins

Mrs. Wilson, of Ada, has been the guest of Mrs. Palmer.

The assessor Mr. Julius Maukoski was around assessing last week.

Mr. J. Rourke, of Red Wing, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Manss.

Church time has been changed from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 2 to 4 p. m.

The weather has been very disagreeable for the past few days because of rain.

A minister from Kansas spoke Sunday evening at the Lockhart school house.

Mrs. Dykeman's sister and children are up from St. Paul making Mrs. Dykeman a visit.

Mrs. Ross has had a child quite sick with croup, but the little one is improving now.

The sisters of the district lodge of the I. O. G. T. served refreshments last Wednesday evening.

The hail destroyed a large amount of growing grain and garden stuff. It fell to the depth of three inches in some places. Mr. Crans was quite a heavy loser.

RUSSIA.

F. H. Mineeny went to Crookston Tuesday on business.

Most everybody is busy breaking up some new land in this vicinity.

B. O. Lindberg, assessor, made a call in his official capacity around this station, last Friday.

Messrs. John Bantz and Theleefore Generous attended services last Sunday in some of the Crookston churches.

Ed. Demarais is enjoying a visit from his brother from Wisconsin, who intends to settle on some quarter section near this place.

Peter Wernquist moved his household goods from his former residence near Crookston to his homestead near this place, last Saturday.

E. E. Ellertson from Mayville has been looking after his land interests in this neighborhood, and will have lots of prairie sod turned over this summer.

NEILSVILLE.

The herculeun farm of K. O. Siette was seen in town oneday last week.

Edwin Paulsrud and Operator Olson were up from Shelly Sunday.

The roads are not in condition to make bicycling popular at present.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Rye returned Monday evening from a pleasure trip to Fargo.

P. L. Wigen has put a new awning to his store which gives it a city like appearance.

D. Payne looks quite officer-like in his new cap which he received a short time ago.

T. Torkelson with his family drove up to Grand Forks in the early part of last week returning Sunday.

The wheat receipts at Nelsville have been from two to three thousand bushels per day for the last few days.

P. Hanson has just completed the foundation of his new barn. K. S. Aker has begun to raise the frame work of his.

Nils Moss is quite busy this week. His clerk, O. M. Melseuss having gone with the excursion to Duluth and visited at his home near Erskine on his return.

Peder Johnson, H. T. Clauson, J. P. Skalet, O. A. Paulsrud and Mar. tin Simonson were among those that took in the excursion to Duluth last Friday.

Messrs. Julius Spokkelie, Tommy Thoreson and Carsten Otteson returned last Saturday from Minneapolis where they have completed a business course at the Curtiss College.

Our genial Henry Simon returned last Saturday morning from Bemidji lot and hearty as ever. The boxes of flaxed game that arrived from Bemidji while he was there show that he has not spent his time idly.

Iver Branten forgot to take his tuba horn along to Duluth. He might have used it as a stand in case fire should have broken out, but then it would have been too bad to have scared all the fish out of Lake Superior.

New buildings are being put up all around us and at this rate this part of the county will soon rank with the best parts of the state in having uniform good buildings, as it certainly does rank with any part of any state in quality of soil.

The song festival to be held July 12, at n place in this vicinity to be announced later, bids fair to be the affair of the season. Choirs and quartettes will be gathered from all around and several speakers have been engaged among which may be mentioned E. E. Lobeck, the noted Scandinavian temperance lecturer and prohibitionist candidate for congress from this district during last election.

EAST GRAND FORKS.

Joseph Hoss has lately erected a new house.

Frank Carey has had a house put up recently. Size, 20x28.

George Hiller has had a wire fence built around his premises.

East Grand Forks is booming, new buildings springing up all over town.

T. Powers is having his house on 4th street painted by S. A. McLean.

W. C. Nash & Son have opened a real estate office in the old postoffice building.

W. Foresight has about finished his new house in the east part of town. Size 18x24.

Joseph Weidner, in the east part of town, has put up a house. It will be painted later on.

Alex. St. Lawrence returned from Superior on the excursion train last Monday morning.

Rumor is in circulation that the Great Northern will build a new depot close to town.

Tim Ryan has just built and moved into his new house in the east part of town. Size, 18x24, 16 foot posts.

Casper Moeller is going to build a small house just north of the railroad track. He has a brick foundation laid.

A grand stand has been erected to view the races at the firemen's tournament.

Tom Sedevic has built him a house in the northeast part of town this spring. Dimensions 20x26; also a kitchen.

The county commissioners, accompanied by County Surveyor Hamery, drove over from Crookston Tuesday.

The East Grand Forks brass band beat the Fosston and Bemidji aggregations at the G. N. depot Tuesday evening.

R. G. Elwood, the grain buyer, is having his new house, 22x26, 16 foot posts, with kitchen 12x16 painted by S. A. McLean.

Alex. St. Lawrence has put up a saloon building on Brooklyn avenue. Size, 20x36, 14 foot posts. It will cost about $1000 when finished.

W. H. Pringle and G. R. Jacobi are erecting a double store building of brick, on DeMers avenue. Size, 40x75. It will be completed about July 1.

A. Hanestad has completed his store building, 22x40, and has about finished his other building on the south. The latter will be used for a saloon.

Charles Burr has completed a residence for Frank Tessier, aldermun of the Third ward. Dimensions 18x24, 16 foot posts. It will be completed by the last of the week.

The steamer Grand Forks arrived Tuesday Morning with three large barges laden with ecment, from down stream. She was elevated to G. N. cars the same day.

James Jarvis has remodeled, painted and added a large porch to his house on Brooklyn avenue. He has also fixed over and painted his restaurant building on the same street.

The two large evergreen arches across DeMers avenue in the coming of the fire companies are very tasty. F. E. Tiffany, is the originator of the designs, and they are indeed beautiful.

George Barlow has just finished painting his hotel building. His hotel is headquarters for the firemen at the tournament. He has the front of the house very nicely decorated.

Albert Bergh is building a very substantial and neat residence, 24x41, 16 foot posts, for J. R. Glover, our good-natured G. N. station agent. It is located a little south of the railroad tracks.

C. W. Rickerd, manager of the Grand Forks Lumber Co., has just completed a large house barn, 36x110, 28 foot posts. It is the largest barn in the two cities. S. A. McLean will give it another coat of paint this week.

The principal of the high school, Prof. A. B. Christie, has nearly completed a new cottage, 24x28, near the school house and will soon have it painted. He has the foundation laid for another house of the same size, n few blocks away from the other.

The Grand Forks Lumber Co. purchased and brought down from Crookston last week two large wanniganus which will be used in driving piles. They will be fastened together and the engine and pile-driver will be landed upon them, and piling will be placed in the river for a distance of about five miles up stream. This is done so as to keep the logs going to Winnepeg from getting mixed with the home logs.

C. W. Rickerd is superintending the construction of the large new saw mill. It will be a double band mill, with provision for a resaw. The dimensions are 80x200, 3 story; annex to the east, 32x72, to be made for a shingle and lath room. The boiler and engine room will be 48x66.

The latter will be built of brick. The power will be furnished by four 60-inch by 18-foot tubular boilers. The mill will be driven by a 24x48 foot Corliss engine. It is intended to have it completed by Sept. 1. The frame work will be up this week. About seventy-five men are employed in the construction of the mammoth structure.

FERTILE

E. L. Johnson spent Tuesday in Crookston.

Clara Nelson is away to Wisconsin for about two months.

The new heavy machinery for the brick yard came Monday and is being placed in position.

L. E. George returned Tuesday morning from a trip to Minneapolis and southern Minnesota.

The wedding of Olga Foss and Charles O. Kaukel occurred Wednesday evening at the Congregational church.

Lloyd Duckstad, the 8 year old son of Brown Duckstad died Friday from a complication of diseases resulting from diphtheria. The funeral was held Monday.

EUCLID.

Mr. Geo. Purvis is building a large barn on his farm just east of the track.

Preparations are being made for the erection of a Catholic church in Euclid.

Mr. Henry Stuhr returned from the University at Minneapolis on Wednesday.

Miss Grace Chapin, of Warren, was the guest of her cousin Nellie Chapin this week.

Mr. A. H. Pitkin formerly of this place came up this morning and went out in the country to sell machinery.

Mr. E. B. Ballou received a telegram Monday morning notifying him of the death of his mother who lives in Hutchinson, Minn. Mrs. Ballou has been quite sick for several weeks.

SHELLY.

T. T. Strom spent Sunday at Caledonia.

C. A. Hawkins returned Saturday from Cass Lake.

Rev. Megrund held service in the Good Templar hall Sunday evening.

Dr. Cleveland, Joe and Oliver Johnson spent Sunday at Caledonia.

C. Howland and wife, of Nelsville, transacted business in town last week.

Miss Christine Flikkie took Thursday's train for Fargo. Returned on Friday.

J. W. G. Anderson drove to Hillsboro Saturday afternoon returning Sunday.

Misses Smith and Butterfield, of Caledonia were shopping in town Saturday.

Adolph Bognlie and Sam Little, of Caledonia, transacted business in the city last Saturday.

O. M. Johnson has removed into his new lumber shop and is now ready to do all kinds of consorial work.

H. L. Trimble, of Hillsboro, came in from Nelsville Friday to look after the interest of the Valley Lumber Co.

Geo. Kittit is now manager of the Shelly pharmacy while Druggist Hawkins is enjoying a vacation at Cass Lake.

Mr. Johnson has given up his dance that he intended to have here on the Fourth of July, on account of the Halsted celebration.

L. H. Larson, of Hillsboro, came over Friday to look after business interests here. He returned to Hillsboro Saturday afternoon.

C. A. Hawkins boarded the P. R. & N. route last week for Cass Lake where he will join Capt. Percy Baker on one of his excursions on the Cass Lake.

Misses. Clark, Edmunds and Messrs. Heo. Clark and Sargeant, of Caledonia returned Friday from Fargo, where they have been attending the Fargo College.

Last Friday our city was visited by a hail storm. The hail was about as large as any ever seen in this part of the country, and the ground was covered all white with hail. No damage has been reported.

W. J. Warner, agent for the St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator Co. at Nelsville, called on Bro. Noyes Saturday evening. Mr. Warner will leave in the near future for Portland Oregon to spend the summer with his family there.

A. J. Kyhus and Ole Leeland, of Hillsboro, presented our people with some long speeches relating to the Mutual Life Insurance Co. They also supplied some of the boys with their lead pencils. We will let Bro. Kyhus know again when we get out of pencils and shall b pleased to have him call again with another supply.

Among those who took in the Superior excursion were: P. O. Holte, and wife, B. A. Fheje, and wife, Mrs. Dr. Cleveland, Mrs. Peter Hechemsson and son, Misses Martha Ueland and Hanen Bjore, Messrs. A. Rodal, P. O. Logen, P. J. Eteland, L. Mauritson, Peter Peterson, G. J. Borg Theo. Strandedal, I. Torkelson, B. M. Olen, J. K. Ueland and W. W. Marsh.

QUEEN CITY TOURNAMENT.

Several Hundred Dollars in Prizes for the Crack Shots.

The Crookston Gun Club will hold its Fifth Annual Tournament in this city on Friday and Saturday June 30 and July 1. Preparations are being made for a big time and it is expected that a large number of the leading sportsmen, not merely in Minnesota but from other states will be here.

The program of events is as follows:

JUNE 30

15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
20 targets, entrance $2.00, $15 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.

JULY 1.

15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
20 targets, entrance $2.00, $15 added.
15 targets, entrance $1.50, $10 added.
In addition to the above, the club has hung up a list of cash prizes for those shooting in the tournament who make the best averages, as follows:

First $5, second $5, third $5, fourth $5, fifth, sixth $5, seventh $5, eighth $5, ninth silk umbrella, tenth sack flour.

The eight low guns will receive $3 each in cash—just for consolation.

LAWN TENNIS

The Courts are Being put in Shape and Play Will Soon Begin.

It has been found necessary by the town tennis club of the city to change the grounds from North Main street where it was first thought of locating them to the lots just south of Allen McKinnon's residence. All the fixtures in the way of tape for the lines, wire for the backstops, tennis balls, etc., have been ordered. The contract for leveling the courts has already been given, and it is only a question of a few days till active play will begin. The membership fee of $2.00 is now being collected from the members.

A New Burlington Book.

Railroad companies are great patrons not only of the liberal arts, but of the most modern classical expression that printing, engraving and photography places within the reach of everyone.

The Burlington Route has contributed its share to the sum total of railroad art and its latest addition with rank among the finest specimens of scenic souvenirs ever issued. It is the Burlington's Book of St. Paul and Minneapolis, a rich and lasting volume picturing first the magnificent train, then scenes along the route, then St. Paul and surroundings followed by Ft. Snelling and Minneapolis. In all respects the composition, letter press, illustrations and binding, it is a dainty volume.

Copies of this elegant book can be had by enclosing 25 cents (postage stamps not received) to Geo. P. Lyman, G. P. A., Burlington Route, St. Paul, Minn.

Expenses of remittance can be saved by several persons combining orders. 10-13

Agents Wanted.

The oldest and largest nursery in the west. Everything for the grove and orchard. Three plans of work and the year round. Pay weekly. Write for terms. THE JEWEL NURSERY CO., Lake City, Minn. 9-14

"The Mill Cannot Grind with Water That's Past."

This is what a fagged out, tearful little woman said in telling her cares and weaknesses. Her friend encouraged by telling of a relative who had just such troubles and was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The little woman now has tears of joy, for she took Hood's, which put her blood in prime order, and she lives on the strength of the present instead of worrying about that of the past.

Neuralgia—"I had dreadful neuralgia, miserable for months. Neighbors told me to use Hood's Sarsaparilla; it cured me perfectly." MRS. FRED TIMMS, Barre, Vt.

Erysipelas—"My little girl is now fat and healthy on account of Hood's Sarsaparilla curing her of erysipelas and eczema." MRS. H. O. WHEATLEY, Fort Chester, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Never Disappoints

Hood's Pills cure liver ills; the non-irritating and only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla

The Duluth Excursion.

The excursion to Duluth went off as per previous advertisement and the two trains that took the pleasure seekers to the head of the lakes were crowded as is usual on such occasions. A large number of Crookstonites helped to swell the total. Trains from the north and west brought in a very respectable representation, composed of both business men and farmers, who were bent on seeing this new candidate for the trade of the Red River Valley. The returning trains reached here at about 8:30 Monday morning. A very pleasant time is the verdict of all. There was only one accident: A man by the name of Lasmay, fell from the train and had his leg smashed by the wheels. He was left at Grand Rapids under the care of physicians, but died a short time afterwards.

Excursion to Cleveland, O.

One fare for the round trip via Nickel Plate Road, on June 27th and 28th. Tickets good returning to and including June 29th, 1899. Chicago depot, Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave. Address General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

For Sale

Tamarack fence posts, 6 and 8 cents.
VANCE & STONE.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk, ss.
The State of Minnesota to T. H. Crittenden Defendant.

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said county, on the 10th day of July, 1899, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the City of Crookston in said county, to answer to Otto Burkhardt in a civil action, to the amount one hundred dollars or under. Should you fail to appear and answer as herein required, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Otto Burkhardt for recleven as he shall show himself entitled to

Given under my hand this 2nd day of June, 1899.

G. H. HOLT,
Justice of the Peace.

6-12

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk, ss.
In Probate Court, Special term May 29, 1899.

In the matter of the estate of George Bagley, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of George Bagley deceased, late of the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, being granted to H. C. Minger.

It is ordered, That six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to file the same in the Probate Court of said county, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is further ordered, That the first day of December, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. at a special term of said Probate Court, to be held in the Probate office in the City of Crookston in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place when and where the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, That notice of such hearing be given by publication of this order thereof for three successive weeks in said county, published in said order once in each week for three successive weeks in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.

Dated Crookston Minn. this 30th day of May, 1899.

A. A. WILDER,
Judge of Probate.

(SEAL)
H. C. MINGER,
Attorney for Estate
Crookston, Minn. 9-11

Order to Examine Accounts, Etc.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk, ss.
In Probate Court, special term June 5, 1899.

In the matter of the estate of Henry M. Wheeler, deceased.

On motion and filing the petition of Jerome W. Wheeler administrator of the estate of Henry M. Wheeler, deceased, representing among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining and allowing the account of said administrator, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to heirs, etc.

It is ordered, that said account be examined, and petition be heard by the Judge of this court on Friday the 7th day of July A. D. 1899 at two o'clock p. m. at the Probate office in Crookston in said county.

And it is further ordered that notice thereof be given to all persons interested, by publishing this order in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a weekly newspaper printed and published in Crookston in said County.

Dated at Crookston Minn. the 15th day of June, A. D. 1899.
By the Court.
A. A. WILDER, OLE E. HAUGEN.
Attorney for Estate. Judge of Probate.

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk, ss.
The State of Minnesota to G. F. Ellis, defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said county, on the 10th day of July 1899 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the City of Crookston in said county, to answer to the complaint of J. F. Mathews in a civil action wherein the plaintiff claims against you the sum of one hundred dollars (100.00). Should you fail to appear and answer as herein required judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence offered by said J. F. Mathews, for said sum of fifteen and sixty-one hundredth dollars.

Given under my hand this 6th day of June 1899.

JOHN McLEAN,
Justice of the Peace.

Eureka Harness Oil is the best preservative and new leather. Restores and the best dressing for all kinds of leather. It oils, softens and makes tough and pliable. Don't crack-en and harden.

Eureka Harness Oil

Prevents dandruff and falling hair, 50c. and $1.00 at druggists.

Eureka Harness Oil is the best preservative and new leather. Restores and the best dressing for all kinds of leather. It oils, softens and makes tough and pliable. Don't crack-en and harden.

Prevents dandruff and falling hair, 50c. and $1.00 at druggists.

Celebrate National Holiday at Crookston July 5.

RINGLING BROS.
WORLD'S GREATEST SHOWS

1000 People
500 Horses
300 Performers
5 Big Arenas
1 Aerial Enclave
1-4 Mile Race Track.

THE INVINCIBLE MONARCH OF THE AMUSEMENT WORLD.
65 Railroad Cars
25 Elephants
100 Dens and Cages
12 Acres of Tents
$3,700,000 Invested
$7,400 Daily Expenses.

A MAJESTIC, IMPOSING, IDEAL, PATRIOTIC SPECTACLE,
LAST DAYS OF THE CENTURY
OR, THE LIGHT OF LIBERTY!
OVER 1000 PEOPLE AND HUNDREDS OF HORSES IN THE CAST.

THE ONLY EXHIBITION IN THE WORLD PRESENTING
John O'Brien's Famous Equine Show, She . . .
61 - HORSE ACT.
61 FINE BREED HORSES IN ONE RING, AT ONE TIME, PERFORMED BY ONE MAN.

LOCKHART'S FAMOUS ACROBATIC, DANCING, PLAY-ACTING ELEPHANT COMEDIANS.

ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPHIC VIEW OF THE TREMENDOUS SENSATIONAL FINALE OF O'BRIEN'S 61-HORSE ACT

OVER 3-SCORE PIROUETTING, POSTURING, PYRAMID-MAKING, PICTURE FORMING, GORGEOUSLY TRAPPED EQUINES.

AN EQUINE SENSATION

THE MARVEL OF THE AGE

HERR SOUDER'S WONDERFUL FUNNY ELEPHANT BRASS BAND.

BIG NEW FREE STREET PARADE IN 30 SECTIONS EVERY MORNING AT 10 O'CLOCK.

ONE 50c. TICKET ADMITS TO EVERYTHING. CHILDREN, UNDER 12 YEARS OLD, HALF PRICE.
SPECIAL CHEAP EXCURSIONS ON ALL RAILROADS.

TWO COMPLETE EXHIBITIONS DAILY, AT 2 AND 8 P. M. . . . DOORS OPEN ONE HOUR EARLIER.

THE ACKNOWLEDGED GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH.

WILL EXHIBIT AT
CROOKSTON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 5th.

Reserved Numbered Seats and Admissions Show Day, without any advance in price at Tom Morris' Jewelry Store, 117 Broadway.

Mortgage Sale.

(First publication June 22 1899.
Last publication, August 3, 1899.)

Notice of mortgage foreclosure by advertisement.

Default has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage dated the 19th day of June, 1893, on the 19th day of July, 1893, in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, Minnesota, on the 19th day of June, 1893, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. and recorded in Book 37 of mortgages, on page 376, whereby Richard Leo, a widower, mortgagor, conveyed to the Scottish American Mortgage Company of London (Limited), of London, England, mortgagee, the certain tracts or parcels of real estate, situated in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota described as follows, to-wit:

The east half of the northeast quarter (e½ of ne¼) of section thirty-one (31), and the southwest quarter (sw¼) of the southwest quarter (sw¼ of sw¼) of section thirty (30), township one hundred forty-eight (148) range forty-three (43), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres more or less, according to the United States Government Survey thereof, together with the appurtenances thereunto belonging, which said mortgage with the said note has become operative.

And no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured thereby, or any part of the same, and there is now due claimed to be due on said mortgage and said debt the sum of four hundred and eighty-seven dollars and seventy-five cents. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, said mortgage will be foreclosed and said premises sold at public vendue on the highest bidder for cash by the sheriff of said Polk County, or his deputy, on Saturday, the 5th day of August 1899, at the front door of the court house, in the City of Crookston, in said Polk County, Minnesota, to pay said debt with interest, taxes, if any, and the costs and disbursements allowed by law.

Dated St. Cloud, Minn. June 21st, 1899.

THE AMERICAN FREEHOLD LAND MORTGAGE COMPANY OF LONDON (Limited) of London, England.
Mortgagee.

HOLT & NYHOLMS,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
9-12 St. Cloud, Minn.

BINDER TWINE

Our Famous BLUE RIBBON TWINE is the best in the world. Price always the lowest. We deliver free on board cars at Chicago in any quantity to suit purchaser. Write for prices and samples.

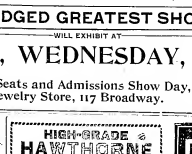
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO

United States Map.

15c. A copy of our handsome map, elegantly colored, printed in four colors and mounted on a roller, will be sent to any address on receipt of 15 cents in coin, postal or express money order. We cannot sell one-page stamps. GEO. H. LYMAN, General Passenger Agent C., B. & N. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

—WANTED.—By the editor of the JOURNAL, a load of hay and a load of oats. These will be received on subscription.

HIGH-GRADE HAWTHORNE $22.50 NET.



SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne Frame—Diamond, 22 inches. Tires—Dunlop, 28 inch, beaded edges and Dunlop rims. Bearings—Ball, 3/8 inch, best steel. Pedals—Rubber, 4 inch. Saddle—Hawthorne, 3 inch, leather. Handle Bar—Drop, 16 inch. Grips—Rubber. Sprocket—Steel, 24 teeth. Chain—Hawthorne, 1/2 inch pitch. Rear Hub—Hawthorne, 3 inch. Weight—About 30 pounds. Finish—Black enamel, with gold stripe. Tool Bag—Leather, with tools. Wheels—Hawthorne, 28 inch. Rims—Dunlop. Spokes—Steel, 14 gauge. Tubular Tires—Dunlop. Pedals—Rubber. Wheel Base—44 inches. Wheels—Hawthorne, 28 inch. Rims—Dunlop. Spokes—Steel, 14 gauge.

15000 Sold in 1898

It's a good deal to say of a bicycle. All modern improvements. Guaranteed for one year. Sold direct from factory to rider, saving middleman's profits. Write for free catalogue and special offer.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

Burlington Route

Finest Train on Earth from St. Paul and Minneapolis to St. Louis.
And all Southern Cities.
Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

Free Homes for Millions.

20,000,000
Acres Wheat and Grazing Lands for Settlement in Manitoba, Assiniboia, Alberta and Saskatchewan

Deep soil, well watered, wooded, easily reached by railroads. Wheat averages 25 to 35 bushels to the acre. Unsurpassed for the growth of grains and grasses, stock, &c., yet unequaled. Immense coal fields, guaranteeing an illimitable supply of cheap fuel. The Canadian Government gives to every male of eighteen years and to every female head of a family, effective independence for life to every one who, in this means, but having sufficient energy to settle. Climate healthiest in the world. Descriptive pamphlet, with maps, reduced rates, Information, Circulars, &c., free on application to

FREE FARMS OF 160 ACRES

BENJAMIN DAVIES,
Canadian Government Agent,
154 E. 3d St., St. Paul, Minn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms, $3 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND BOOK ON PATENTS sent free. Address,

MUNN & CO.,
361 Broadway, New York.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can obtain patents in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C.A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASH. D. C.

N. Campbell, Crookston Minn.
P. Johnson, Fosston, Minn.
W. V. Nugent, Villano, Minn. local agents.

Polk County Journal,
BY N. S. GORDON.

Subscripton $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

THAT all the world's ails and that there is today more human sympathy with suffering than ever before, is again evidenced by the liberality with which the people of Minnesota and Wisconsin responded when the appalling calamity came upon New Richmond last week. Not only have the present needs of those most unfortunate ones been attended to, but money has been and is being given with which to set up in business those men whose all was swept away in the twinkling of an eye.

GERMANY appears to be blocking the way for arbitration which it has been generally expected the Peace Conference at the Hague would bring about. The present Emperor of Germany is a firm believer in the divine right of Kings, and evidently intends to manage the affairs of his Empire himself regardless of the existence of the rest of the world. It is to be sincerely hoped that the other nations represented at the Hague will form a compact, without Germany, to submit to arbitration most questions in dispute and this a great stride forward toward universal peace will have been taken.

ALL the prominent Minnesota educators in the field of agriculture were here in Crookston last Tuesday and Wednesday at the Farmers' Institute, and their influence for good in all things pertaining to the farm will long be felt in this section. These men are experienced, scientific and skilful workers, each in his own line, and those farmers who had the good fortune to hear them will go back to their homes to pursue the agricultural life with greater zest. These farm instructors are doing a most commendable work and that matters agricultural in this state are of a high order is due in no small part to them.

Do the people who are criticising the president's action in matters relating to the settlement of affairs in the Philippines forget that those who lived through the Lincoln administration were permitted to live to see the outcome of his plans shape itself to meet their approval? Then the vital questions were opposed by many, and yet right was triumphant. In one day and age so daft as to make one people incapable of belief in the final settlement of difficulties if time be given to the administration to adjust its plans? Will not the croakers await the results of the efforts of those who see farther because they stand on higher ground?

A CONTROVERSY has in some way been started between two of the prominent republicans of the state, Congressman Heatwole and State Auditor Dunn, the friends of each among the newspapers are taking sides, the combat deepens, and if it is kept up it is sure evidence that the republicans of the state are rushing not to glory but to the grave, as they did in the campaign last fall, at least as far as the head of the ticket was concerned. We do not see what is to be gained by recalling the mistakes that men have made in the past. "To err is human" and there are few men but that have quite a streak of selfishness in them. If the state is again to have a member of the grand old party as its governor, and the present incumbent of the gubernatorial chair is to be removed, factional fight must cease and harmony must prevail.

THE Tribune, commenting upon the action of the city council in the matter of awarding the city printing, publishes the following in its editorial column:

"Although the printing committee recommended The Times' bids as being the lowest, Mr. Childs proved to the satisfaction of at least four of the aldermen that it was not so low as the JOURNAL'S bid. Here a body of supposedly intelligent men can split on most equally on an opinion of whether one bid is lower than another, when they have the figures before them in dollars and cents, is something we are not quite able to understand. Possibly The Times or JOURNAL can offer the citizens some satisfactory explanation."

The Tribune is evidently lamentably ignorant of Mr. Childs' ability as a weaver of sophistic theories, and never read of the eminent jurist who declared that nobody but God could tell what would be the decision of a petit jury.—Times

This is one of those cases where neither God nor justice had anything to do with the case. It was just the city council responding to the pull. And the people foot the bills. We will print the bids as submitted by the JOURNAL and Times so that the people may see for themselves how much more it will cost them to have the city printing done by the Times than it would if the JOURNAL had done this same work.

Here are the figures: The Times bid for printing the council proceedings, set in brevier type, was 7 cents an inch, or 108-9 cents a folio. The JOURNAL'S bid was 10 cents a folio. For resolutions, set in brevier type, the Times' bid was 10 cents an inch, or 15 5-9 cents a folio. The JOURNAL bid 10 cents a folio. For ordinances, financial statement, and by-laws, set in nonpareil type, the Times bid 20 cents an inch for the first publication, or 16 2-3 cents per folio, and ten cents per inch for each subsequent publication, or 8 1-3 cents per folio. The JOURNAL bid for these items 10 cents for the first and 5 cents for each subsequent publication. The report of the printing committee was only a puerile excuse to vindicate their action.

Elsewhere.

Warren will celebrate the Fourth.

Admiral Sampson is strongly in favor of a large increase in the United States Navy.

The largest steel barge cargo carrier on the great lakes was launched at West Superior last Saturday.

Judging from some of the stories that reach us from Cass Lake some of the loggers must over-estimate their net results.

Cyclones and wind storms have been severe over a large portion of the country for the last week, and the damage has been great.

The next State Convention of the Maccabees will be held two years from now at Mankato. At the meeting last week in Duluth 400 new members were taken into that order.

Fargo is advertising a Live Stock Growers' convention to be held in that city July 18, 19, and 20. Fargo is a hustling place and seems to have something coming all the time.

Gov. Scofield, of Wisconsin, has finally honored the requisition of Gov. Lind for the return of J. R. Clements, the Preston bank robber. The application was made last April, and a desperate legal battle has been waged over since over its issue.

The Mcintosh city fathers have decided to build a new city hall and have called a special session for June 27 to give the people a chance to say whether they shall add to the tax levy or issue bonds to raise the money. The cost of the new structure will be about $4,000.

THE OLD SETTLERS.

Will Elect and Have a Good Time in Walhalla on June 22-24.

To members of the Red River Valley Old Settlers' association:

The annual meeting of the Red River Valley Old Settlers' association is hereby called to meet at Walhalla, Pembina county, N. D., June 22, 23 and 24, 1899, on the occasion of the hundredth anniversary of that settlement, the oldest in the Red River valley.

All persons who settled in the Red River valley prior to July 1, 1870, are urged to become members of the association and to be present on this occasion. The joining fee and dues for the current year is $1 and the annual dues thereafter, 25 cents.

All old settlers of the Red River valley are invited to attend this meeting. It will aid the association if those attending or hoping to be present will advise the secretary by postal card of their purpose.

Elaborate preparations are being made by the committee at Walhalla for the proper celebration of Walhalla Centennial.

SUICIDE AND DROWNING.

Ethel Bjorke Near Fosston Cuts His Throat—A. Cronquist Drowns.

Coroner Miller was kept busy the first part of the week in investigating the circumstances attending the death of two men in the southeastern part of the county. Ethel Bjorke, of the town of Queen, took his own life last Sunday. Bjorke has been living alone on his farm a few miles east of Fosston for the past ten years, and is well to do farmer. The lonely life, however, has told on him and his neighbors had noticed that he looked as if something were wrong and acted very strangely. He has told them that he had nothing for which to live and undoubtedly in a fit of melancholy laid violent hands upon himself. Sunday night late three or four neighbors found him in the woods back of his house with his throat and the arteries on his wrists cut. He lived but a few hours after he was found.

The other was a case of drowning. Andrew Cronquist, a railway employee went out fishing last Sunday morning on Turtle Lake about half a mile from Langby. Nothing being seen of him all day, toward evening friends went out in search of him. They first found the boat, which he had had, drifting, and later the body at the bottom of the lake in about 10 feet of water. The remains were brought to Crookston and buried here at the county's expense, as the father and a brother, living at Park River, N. D., though telegraphed, to failed to do anything.

NORTHERN PACIFIC CONFERENCE.

Held at Fosston next Week—Delegates from Crookston Congregational Church.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the Northern Pacific Conference will be held at Fosston, Minn., June 27, 28 and 29, 1899. The delegates chosen by the local church are Rev. Herman P. Fisher, Mrs. John Wyand, Arthur A. Miller, Esq., and Mrs. Miller.

This is the first time the conference has been held at a point on the Duluth line, and the expectation is the make the meetings large and enthusiastic. The following is the program:

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

2:00. Praise and Prayer Meeting—
Rev. George Michael
2:20. Organization and Business.
2:30. Written Reports from the Churches.
3:30. Address—Home Mission Work. Address, Hints on Improving Our Sunday Schools—
Rev. T. H. Lewis

TUESDAY EVENING.

7:30. Praise Meeting.
8:00. Address of Welcome—Rev. C. F. Simmons
Address in Response—Rev. C. A. Clark, followed by Conversation.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

9:00. Devotional meeting—
Led by Rev. W. E. Griffith
9:20. Business.
9:30. Organization of the Church to the Kingdom of God—
Rev. L. H. Parker
10:30. The Power of Personality—Rev. S. E. Fish
11:00. Symposium: Our Missionary Work in the N. P. Conference—
Led by Rev. J. H. B. Smith

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

2:00. A City Without a Church—
Rev. George Michael
2:20. Our Benevolent Societies, represented by Revs. J. H. B. Smith, J. S. Root, Esther Smith and others.
3:30. Women's meeting—
Wanted: The Woman Who Cares—
Miss Catherine Nichols.
God's Providence in Home Missions—
Mrs. Lamed
The Spiritual Aspect of Missions—
Mrs. Buchanan
How to Awaken the Interest of our Best Auxiliaries—
Mrs. A. E. Ford
The Need of a Deeper Interest in Foreign Fields, Our Auxiliaries Can Assume Mission—
Mrs. F. T. Goodsell

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

7:30. Praise Meeting.
8:00. Congregationalism—
Rev. E. H. Stickney
Its Fundamental Idea—Rev. A. J. Miller
Its Historical Development—Rev. L. Herrick
Its Present Mission—Rev. J. H. Root
The Church of the Future—
Mr. Geo. E. Peter

THURSDAY MORNING.

9:00. Devotional Meeting. Mr. C. B. Andrews.
9:30. Business.
10:00. Christian Citizenship—Rev. R. L. Hyde.
10:30. Our Schools—
Rev. B. Ives Gilman
11:00. The Use of the Vacant Pulpit—Address—
Rev. J. S. Root

12:15. Free Parliament and Closing Exercises.

Trains leave Crookston going east at 9 o'clock a. m., arriving at Fosston at 10:38 a. m., and Cass Lake at 1:20 p. m. Leaves Cass Lake at 1:20 p. m. and arrives at Fosston at 3:36 and Crookston 4:53 p. m.

Each church in the conference is entitled to representation by its pastor and one delegate; each missionary society to one delegate.

Send names for entertainment as soon as possible to Rev. C. F. Blomquist, Fosston, Minn.

FARGO COLLEGE.

Commencement Exercises—Faculty increased.

The Commencement exercises of Fargo College were held last week occupying several days. President Simmons gave the Baccalaureat sermon, and Rev. L. H. Hallock of Plymouth church, Minneapolis, delivered the annual address before the alumni and citizens.

The Trustees and Incorporators met on Tuesday and took steps for the enlargement of the teaching force of the College. The year has been one of large success. Nearly eleven thousand dollars of the floating indebtedness has been paid; large accessions of books have been added to the library; and the growth of the college spirit has been marked.

The oratorical contest, the preparatory graduation exercises, and the Commencement Concert were greatly enjoyed. The large pipe organ in the chapel which was given by the Grand Forks Congregational church during the past year, added much to the enjoyment of the week. A special honor came to the college this year from the fact that one of her graduates at Chicago Seminary was awarded the fellowship which entitles him to two years study in Germany.

From this city Arthur A. Miller Esq., and wife, and Rev. Herman P. Fisher were present. Mr. Miller spoke at the Commencement dinner on "The Smaller Colleges," and his address met with very general and favorable comment.

Pushing the Railroad.

Rosenu County Times: The work of grading on the South Eastern Railroad from Winnipeg to Rainy River is being rapidly pushed and a large force of men are at work on the right of way near Sprague's old lumber camp. The wet weather has some what retarded the work and it is hardly possible to complete the road to Warroad by July 4 as contemplated by the contractors. The grading however will reach that place by very near by July 1. The contractors are experiencing some difficulty in procuring teams. It is not thought that any track laying will be done until the first week of the year when it will be pushed until the road is completed to Rainy River. The contract for the construction of the road requires it to be completed to that point this year. The road to Port Arthur will hardly be finished before 1901.

WANTED—Teachers to attend Crookston College Summer School. It is comp. thoroughly practical. Term opens June 12, and continues eight weeks. Address, Crookston College, Crookson Minn. 4-30

Notes From Exchanges.

Warren Register: Immigration is again on the increase—another evidence of American prosperity under Republican administration.

Hendrum News: W. R. Mumby received from his son Clifford, who is with the Washington volunteers, in Manila, among other relics, his boy's campaign hat with four bullet holes in it. Cliff must have had some close calls.

Warren Register: The people of Crookston are hopeful of being given an elegant new depot by the Great Northern railway in the near future. It has long been needed and we trust the question will not be much longer postponed.

McIntosh Tribune: J. H. Rone, who has been in the restaurant business at Crookston for some time past has decided to open up a second-hand store in our town, and has leased the old Johnson store for that purpose. They will be ready to do business shortly.

St. Paul Dispatch: Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, is being mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate. Mr. Thurston will have the last say in the matter and probably he would prefer a senatorship to the magnificent obscurity of the vice president's house.

McIntosh Times: Crookston parties have filled a petition with the railroad and sure house commissioners for transfer facilities at that point between the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, and the entire surrounding country being equally interested, should sustain the motion.

Roseau Times: After every newspaper in Marshall county announced that the body of Halvor Storbakken, a Red river farmer, was found hanging from a tree, the Warren Sheaf comes forward and resurrects the man and asserts that he is alive and living with friends in another state.

St. Paul Dispatch: The New York police and lawyers who discovered that there was a difference between a prize fight and the kind of a "police contest" in which Jeffries and Fitzsimmons engaged are entitled to the palm as the discoverers of the difference—"twixt tweedledum and tweedledee."

Duluth Evening Herald: The honor man in the Annapolis naval academy this year will be William McEntee, son of a well-to-do farmer living at Montgomery, Le Sueur county, this state. Young McEntee was appointed four years ago by Congressman Heatwole and is the first Minnesota man to win first honors at Annapolis.

Exchange: A Kansas man has discovered the reason that an engine is called she. His argument is that they wear a jacket, an apron, have shoes, hose and draw a train behind them, they have a lap, need guiding, ride wheels, will not turn out for pedestrians, sometimes foam and refuse to work; they attack men and are very contrary, and it always takes men to manage them.

Norman County Index: Elias Steenerson, of Polk County, has 25 acres in potatoes, and intends to put in a like amount each year. In this way he hopes to keep his grain fields clean and extraordinarily productive. When the timbers bring a good price he will reap a rich reward, and when the price is low he will take it out in the increased yield of grain in succeeding years.

McIntosh Times: Our Scandinavian friends are planning on a big basket picnic at Hallden Engemesen's place, Sec. 3, town of Winger, on Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25. Among other speakers who will be present will be E. E. Lobeck, of Farwell, Adelsteo Berge, of Minneapolis, and Oscar Wolf, of Holmes City. Music will be rendered by the Winger Cornet Band and several singing choirs and in case of rain tents will be raised.

Midway News: Base ball cranks make all kinds of fuss over professionals who play a whole afternoon and can't make even a single tally. Professionals are not in it with our intercollegiate leagues. The Hamline University played against the Carleton college boys, on Wednesday and made a score of 83 to 42 in favor of the Hamlines. What sense is there in blowing so much money on them goose-egg fellows.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: The farmers are putting in more time hay from year to year, and it pays. Several blades of timothy and orchard grass that had been growing just 40 days were picked last night, and found the orchard grass measured twenty-nine and three quarters inches, and the timothy, as long as thirty-five and one-half inches, from the surface of the ground to the tip. This is almost an inch per day.

Grand Forks Daily Courier: Geo. W. Thompson, one of Grand Forks oldest settlers, died at his home, 610 DeMers avenue, last night, aged 82 years. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his loss—Miss Emma and Mrs. H. Finch, of Crookston and four boys, Dan, Joe, George and Will, all of this city. The funeral will be held at the house tomorrow at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Sutton Thompson officiating.

Red Lake County Courier: This section experienced a lively hail storm on Sunday afternoon, and although the hail stones were not as large as eggs they were large enough to do considerable damage to window glass. Hardly a house in town escaped without one or two broken lights. As an example, the North Side school house had some twenty broken. The crops were not injured much, not being far enough advanced. One of the hailstones picked up measured over three inches in circumference.

FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT

Held at East Grand Forks—Towns in Valley Sends strong Teams.

The annual tournament of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Association began at East Grand Forks yesterday and will continue through today and tomorrow. Teams from Crookston, Fosston, McIntosh, Bemidji, Hallock, Thief River Falls and other places in the valley are in attendance and four bands will be there to enliven the proceedings. Today is the big day, one of the most important contests being the hose race, free for all, between picked teams from North Dakota and Northern Minnesota.

They Like Our Style.

Hendrum News: The POLK COUNTY JOURNAL is one of the neatest and most ably edited papers in northern Minnesota.

Norman County Index: The Crookston Journal is now one of the neatest and newsiest weekly papers in the state, and reflects credit upon its publisher.

Grand Meadow Record: N. S. Gordon, who is now the proprietor of the Crookston JOURNAL, is issuing a very neat and interesting newspaper. His experience is shown in the makeup of the paper throughout.

Warren Register: The POLK COUNTY JOURNAL is coming right to the front these days. N. S. Gordon, the present owner, is a hustler of the hustlers, and proposes to make the JOURNAL second to no newspaper in the valley.

Clen Union: The neatest most shapely and interesting weekly paper we have ever seen or received from any point on this line is the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL (Crookston,) a copy of which we received last week. It is born full of interesting news and is a good credit mate to both the city and county in which it is published.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

THE OLD RELIABLE
St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co.
The only Old Line Company Doing a
HAIL INSURANCE BUSINESS.
Total Assets, $2,523,097.77
34 Years In Business
There are no Assessments, Premiums are paid just as in case of Fire Insurance. Losses Promptly Adjusted.
Messrs JOHN & WEBSTER,
Crookston, Minn.
GENTLEMEN:—I wish to say to you that I had insurance last year for hail in the St. Paul Fire and Marine and that I suffered a loss which was very promptly paid by the company to my entire satisfaction.
I have again taken out hail insurance on my crop for this year and believe that the St. Paul Fire and Marine is a good strong, old line company from my dealings with it, and that all farmers wanting hail insurance would do well to talk with you and have the merits of this company explained. Yours truly, GOOD WATER, for Kathryn Insurance.
Represented by MARIN & WEBSTER,
Next door to Post Office.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings
When la ing out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.
Call us up before letting your Contract.
We shall be pleased to give ou the benefit of our experience in laing out wiring plans.
It Will Cost You Nothing
to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.
Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring
We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.
Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.
Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

CITY AND VICINITY.

—Sunday and Monday last were rent earn days.

—F. J. Carey, of Beltrami was in the city yesterday.

—Rev. S. Carrie, of Euclid, was in the city last Tuesday.

—Old papers for sale at the JOURNAL office at very low rates.

—A. H. Anderson of Hallock, was in the city Tuesday morning.

—P. Benschemin and wife of Argyle were in Crookston yesterday.

—S. F. Bonnine and wife of Climax spent Monday night in this city.

—Dr. Spence spent several days of the week ruticating at Cass Lake.

—Attorney J. A. Hendricks, of Fosston, came in Monday afternoon.

—Bear in mind that A. G. Andersen deals only in pure and reliable goods.

—The brick work on the Waterstradt block on Main street is completed.

—Attorney Martin O'Brien went up to Warren yesterday on legal business.

—Most of the West Superior excursionists returned home Monday morning.

—Tom Morris is away at St. Louis attending the National meeting of the Elks.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hayes went out to Mentor yesterday morning for a short visit.

—Mrs. M. G. Legaee went to Pipestone, Minn., Tuesday to visit her mother and brother.

—Mrs. W. H. O'Neil, of Grand Forks, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Legaee.

—Senator J. J. Rider of East Grand Forks, will deliver an address at McIntosh July 4.

—The Cecelli Floor Paint sold by Andersen the Druggist is a genuine paint and dries in eight to ten hours.

—William Hoven, one of the prosperious young farmers near Crookston was doing business in the city Monday.

—Messrs Hugh Robertson and J. B. McGill spent a week at the lakes out east fishing. They returned Monday afternoon.

—Miss Inis Lord and Miss Jessie Comstock, of Moorhead, were Crookston visitors last week, the guests of Miss Laura Davies.

—A. G. Andersen sells the Heath & Milligan best Paint, the purest and best House Paint on the market. Call and get a color card.

—Judge Holt after attending the I. O. O. F. Grand Lodge in Minneapolis went on to visit with friends and relatives in Wisconsin.

—Miss Ethel Chandler who has been staying with Mrs. Chas. Hitchcock will hereafter be found at the Low mansion on Broadway.

—Miss Mary Williamson, well known in Crookston will graduate from the school at Villa Marie, Frontenac, Minn. next Wednesday.

—Miss Helen Davies came home from Monmouth, Ill., last Friday. She was one of the teachers in the public schools at that place.

—There will be a grand opening of the Big Store at Carman on July 1. A beautiful souvenir will be given to every lady and gentleman purchaser.

—The drive of new logs has reached the boom just above the Northern Pacific railway bridge and the work of sawing these into lumber will begin at once.

The Strawbridge Mercantile Company are busy these days getting their goods in order at their store in the Chase block on Broadway. They expect to open up for business about next Tuesday.

—Andrew Elken has been out at Cass Lake and Bemidji hauling in the fish by the dozen. While Postmaster Elken was away, F. E. LePage came in from Mentor to help out the boys in the post office.

—Fred Fair, who it will be remembered wrestled in the Crookston opera house a few weeks ago, is matched to wrestle with two famous wrestlers at the Firemen's Tournament in East Grand Forks.

—The sixth anniversary of the birth day of Charlie Chesterman, son of G. S. Chesterman, was celebrated last Tuesday with high carnival. All Charley's playmates, boys and girls, on the hill were invited to his home to spend the afternoon and a right royal time they all had.

—Part of the gang saw, a huge piece of machinery at the saw mill that will cut several dozen boards at one and the same time, broke last Friday night and part of the mill has, in consequence, been shut down since, while the company is waiting for a new piece of machinery to come.

—E. A. Nelson, editor of the Hallock News, returned Monday afternoon from Duluth. He was one of those who enjoyed the editors' outing last week and he reports that all had a very pleasant time. Wherever the newspaper men stopped they were royally entertained.

—Miss Clara Mugeam spent Sunday with her parents.

Miss Ella Walsh has been visiting friends in Grand Forks.

—Nellie and Harry Chapin, of Euclid, spent Sunday in town.

—Miss Ethel Chandler was a visitor at McIntosh last Sunday.

—J. E. Carpenter is now licensed to practice before the Interior Department.

—Fred Kaiser, of Red Lake Falls, is the new stenographer in Miller and Foote's office.

—A full line of Furniture Hard Oil Coach and Varnishes at A. G Andersen and prices to suit.

—H. M. Hellieson and A. L. Forth of McIntosh came in to the county seat last Monday afternoon.

—The Northern Pacific railway are repairing the trestle work on the railroad bridge near the station.

—Miss Clara Bjorge, of the class of '98, came in last Friday morning from her school near Fisher in order

—Mr. Brokaw, of Grand Forks, who drives the quill for the Plaindealer, spent Sunday in Crookston.

—C. A. Talley was one of the farmers from up north near Warren who came down to attend the Farmers' Institute.

—M. J. Lally went out to Akeley Monday morning to assist in getting T. B. Walker's mill out there in working order.

—Rev. Father Murphy has resigned the pastorate of this parish and has removed to Farris, where he will make his home.

—Will Bloom, after spending a few days at home, left yesterday morning for Bemidji and Cass Lake were he will continue his fishing exploits.

—The JOURNAL has at the office several dozen copies of the Premium list for the Fortieth State Annual Fair which will occur Sept. 4 to 9, inclusive, and get one.

—The Northern Pacific is repairing the bridge that crosses the Red Lake River at this Place. A large amount of material is being unloaded here for the purpose.

—Fontaine & Anglin yesterday began putting in a complete set of new fixtures in their grocery and boot and shoe department—shelving counters, etc. Call and see how handsome the store looks now.

—The ladies around Cass Lake have been holding several rather suspicious meetings of late and it is possible that there may be some trouble out there. The red men do not like the fact that the white men have settled on the reservation and are pushing lots of fishing in Indian waters.

—Joe Koelmel's saloon was entered last Friday night and $2.35 taken from the till. The burglars took a pane of glass out of a back window and thus effected an entrance. Saturday night thieves got into Anderson's barber shop and succeeded in getting away with the large sum of ten cents.

—We met J. E. Bonvette of the Hallock Enterprise at the depot Monday morning on his way home from the West Superior excursion. His party was present at the review by Secretary of War Alger in Duluth Saturday, and the Hallock band headed the procession. Good for the Hallock boys, they have a splendid band of 26 pieces.

—M. R. Brown after spending a few days at home left again Tuesday morning for Cass Lake. The last two weeks he has cut out near there last winter he expects to begin hoeing on the cars this week. A spur track has been built by the railway company to a point close to the lake.

—The Crookston squad, consisting of Messrs. C. C. Hoch, Vanstrum, Vannet, F. E. Larsen and W. E. Rowe, who represented the gun club of this city at the State Shooting tournament in Grand Forks last week did remarkably well. They were not allowed to enter all the contests as they were from Minnesota. If everything had been open to them most of the prizes would have been brought to Crookston.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hitchcock, who for several years have been living in the Episcopal rectory on Broadway, have packed up their household goods and stored them for the summer. Mrs. Hitchcock and son Harry left last night for Mrs. Hitchcock's home in Thorpe, Iowa, where they will spend the summer. Rev. and Mrs. Green will move into the rectory.

—Attorney George Finlayson received word last Tuesday morning from the State Board of Examiners in regard to the examinations that he recently took for entrance at the bar.—He passed with flying colors. The class in which Attorney Finlayson was at the law school at the State University graduated about a month ago. He, therefore, is entered at the bar as soon as any of them, and has the advantage of having, in the meantime, spent a year in practical work in the law office of Steeseron and Rowe.

—H. C. Misner, of Euclid, was in the city Tuesday night.

—Sheriff Lawrence went out to McIntosh yesterday morning.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Westerberg came home Sunday morning from a pleasant visit in Superior.

—J. O. Hilliard, station agent of the Great Northern at Argyle, has returned from his vacation spent at Chicago and other places near there.

—Landlord Westerberg of the Scandia hotel is putting up a two story addition at the east end of his hostelry.

—Mrs. Sheldon Vance gave a delightful afternoon last Saturday to her lady friends in honor of Mrs. Folk, who is visiting here from Chicago.

Bemidji is the Mecca of all the local lucky ones who wish to enjoy a day or two of piscatorial sport. The trains carry a large number each day.

—Last Monday the team of A. Hockinson, who owns a farm near Warren, ran away. Mr. Hockinson was thrown out and from injuries received died within a short time.

—The Cass Lake Independent has retired from business at that enterprising burg and the Cass Lake Times now has everything its own way. Editor Clark has moved his outfit to Akely.

The sixth annual session of the State training school for teachers will be held in this city beginning July 10. The examinations will be held August 7 and 8. This will be the only teacher's examinations held in the county this fall.

—F. A. Bell, Charley Bell, A. G. Anderson and T. G. Thompson made up a fishing party which spent last Saturday, Sunday and Monday at Wolf Lake near Farris. When they returned they very generously supplied their friends with fish.

—J. G. McGrew, a former Crookston resident, who has been state weighmaster at Duluth, has been removed from his position and H. B. Moore put in his place. Those with whom Mr. McGrew has been working presented him with a cane —At least one citizen of Crookston will have substantial reason to hold pleasing remembrance of the engagement of the Frank E. Long company at this place, and that one is George Lewis, who held the ticket her that won the bicycle at last Saturday nights entertainment.

—Art Fellor and Thomas Johnstone represented the Crookston fire department at the meeting of the firemen's association of the State at Austin last week. Tom Morris was elected 2nd vice president of the State association and it was voted to meet in Crookston in 1902.

—Crookston sportsmen are getting right to the front and those who attend the big shooting tournament to be held here June 29 to July 1 will have to be pretty skillful in order to beat our shooters. L. A. Larsen made a score of 24 this week with W. L. Vannet a close second at 23, and several others 20 and above.

—Monday was the day that Hicks promised us a cyclone demonstration. The cyclone did not material ize but we had enough wind if properly handled to have made a half dozen ordinary twisters. We are not kicking, merely stating the fact that the advertisement was a little overdrawn, as it were.

—At a convention of the Woman's Missionary society of the Red River Valley Presbytery held at Fergus Falls last week, Mrs. A. P. Frank, of Warren was elected president, Mrs. Yoe, of Hallock, second vice-president, Mrs. J. M. Palmer, of Angus, recording secretary, Miss Eva Polar, of Warren, treasurer, Mrs. Fraser, of Crookston, gave an address on Porto Rico.

—Oscar Erickson, of the Rav Mercantile Co. can tell you all about the sensations that attend a personal encounter with the unchained batteries of the elements. He was driving along a country road last Friday during the storm and got mixed up with a shot that was intended for a neighboring fence post. The post was reduced to the proper dimensions for kindling wood and Oscar received enough of the charge to satisfy him of the capricuttiveness of the weather clerks artillery.

—The capacity of the Presbyterian church was taxed to its utmost last Sunday morning it being the annual Children Day. "The Conquering Cross" was the theme presented in a missionary concert form. The infant class procession "We are Coming," the children singing as they marched made a very pretty picture. The "Spirit of Missions" consisted of recitations and was well carried out. The profuse decorations supplemented by the melody of the sweet young voices filled the room completely with sights and sounds to please the eyes and ears of an appreciative audience.

—Tobe J. Farden is in the city to day on business.

—L. S. Hancock and wife of Euclid attended the Farmers' Institute.

—E. W. Chamberlain, of Racine, Minn., is visiting with relatives at Mentor.

—John O'Brecht is building a large new barn on his farm near Buffington.

—The county commissioners are in session. A full report will appear in the Journal next week.

—S. Crookshanks was in from Buffington last Tuesday to hear the talks given by the farm educators.

—Miss Melissa King, of McIntosh, and Tracy Elrey, of Duluth, will be married at McIntosh next Tuesday.

—The Farmers Co-operative Elevator Company at Fisher will in the near future erect an elevator at that place.

—Cashier Ellington, of the Scandia bank, has been attending the meeting of the State Bankers' Association at St. Paul.

—Mrs. Hayford and son Morven, of Litchfield, mother and brother of city Editor Hayford of the Tribune are visiting with the latter.

—Miss Ida Stone, who graduated with honors from the West Superior Normal School this week is expected home some time next week.

—County Treasurer M. G. Peterson left Tuesday evening for St. Paul and his old home in Nickel county, where he will spend the next two weeks.

—F. L. Pluck, former manager of the Crookston Tribune, whose present place of business is at Hawley, Minn., is spending a few days in the city.

—Among others present at the Farmers Institute in Crookston were Robert Godkin, of Keystone; A. P. Frank, of Brisbet, James Bain, of Fisher.

—W. L. Carlyle, a member of the faculty at the Agricultural School, Madison, Wis., was in Crookston yesterday and the day before greeting old friends.

—Prof. Thos. Shaw of the Minnesota State Agricultural school, after lecturing at the Farmers' Institute here, left for the Experiment Station at Grand Rapids.

—Sergeant Bennett, of Fosston, formerly an officer in the 13th Regiment of Minnesota volunteers, was in the city this week. He is practicing law and had a case before Judge Watts.

—Farm educators, Carlyle, Shaw and others drove out Tuesday evening to Colonel Wilkinson's farm northwest of town to see his stock. It was the general verdict the Colonel had an excellent foundation for a fine herd.

—Hugh Robertson, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, in this city, resigned his position last Thursday and his resignation was accepted by the directors of the bank Saturday night. Fred Mix, who has been employed in the bank for some time has been advanced to the position of teller.

—A. P. Johnson, who for the past year and more, has been in the Alaskan gold fields, returned last Monday to this city. He is the richer by much experience, but as yet he has not worked his claims, of which he has two, very much. He came back here on account of his ill health and may return to Alaska later.

—Several million feet of lumber in the log is now held in driveson Leech and Winnibigoshish lakes. The logs are held pending settlement by the owners with the government through Special Agents Nessler and Jenkins, and are blocking the way for other logs coming down to the mills. A question has also been raised that lease log jams may endanger the government dams.

—Messrs. P. E. Lynne, C. C. Strander and O. C. Rued, who took a ten days outing in the region of the Lake of the Woods, returned to Crookston last Tuesday night. They went by way of Roseau and Warroad, thence along the lake to Rat Portage and home by way of Winnipeg. They were looking after their claims in that section and rusticating amid some of Nature's beautiful scenes.

—Conductor Percy Baker, who is in a position to know, says that the reports that the Indians were on the eve of making trouble in the Cass Lake country is entirely false and were concocted by rival towns to discourage people from going to Cass Lake. He states that he is recent interview he had with Chief Flat Mouth the chief said that their only grievances were against the actions of certain government officials and some of the members of the big lumber "ring," but that as far as the settlers or visitors were concerned the Indians had the utmost kindly feelings for them and that all talk of an uprising them was "humcumb" pure and simple.

The Thresher You're After

is the one that will earn and save the most money—that will thresh the most grain and separate it most perfectly, at the lowest cost. Every part of the Nichols-Shepard Separator is designed to do the best work in the least way, in the shortest time—at the least expense for power, help and repairs. Every feature and attachment—from the self-feeder to the stacker—is of the most improved pattern; efficient, strong, durable. Purchasers of the

Nichols-Shepard SEPARATOR

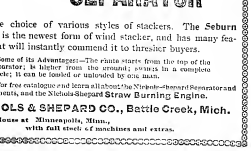
have the choice of various styles of stackers. The Seburn Stacker is the newest form of wind stacker, and has many features that will instantly commend it to thresher buyers.

Some of its Advantages:—The grain starts from the top of the separator; is higher from the ground; passes in a complete circle; it can be loaded or unloaded by one man.

Write for free catalogue and learn all about the Nichols-Shepard Separator and its attachments, and the Nichols-Shepard Straw Burning Engine.

NICHOLS & SHEPARD CO., Battle Creek, Mich.

Branch Houses at Minneapolis, Minn., with full stock of machines and extras.



Still In It.....

We are still in the ring, as our large Sales the past week have shown us. Our sales of the Victory Wheel have exceeded all our expectations, still we have more on hand and want to supply the public with a first-class Wheel at low Prices Crescents as good as ever, if not better, and prices lower too. Just think of a Crescent, '99 model, at $35.

Repairing a Specialty. Prices Reasonable.

Hawkins & Olds.

Bicycle Doctors.

Weddings.

BILLADEAU—MOOT

At St. Ann's church in this city last Thursday morning, Edward Billadeau to Miss Delenn Moot of Thos. Rev. Fr. Leuret performed the ceremony.

MUXTER—WINSON

By Judge McLean at his office in this city, Tuesday, June 20, Henry O. Muxter to Sophie L. Winson, both of Polk County.

Births,

To Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ralph, on Tuesday, June 20, a girl.

An Optical Operation.

Drs. Morley and Smith performed an operation last Sunday at the Bethesda hospital on the eye of Thomas Ralph, in which a cataract was removed from the patients eye. The operation was witnessed by several local physicians and is thought to be most satisfactory in its results. This is the first operation of the kind that has been attempted in this city.

Teacher's Summer School.

Crookston, Minn., June 19, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the Sixth Annual Session of the State Training School for teachers will be held in Crookston, beghuning July 10th. Teachers' State examinations, under the new law, will be held at the close of the Training School, Aug. 7 and 8. All intending to teach the coming year, whose certificates expire this fall, must take this examination. This will be the only teachers' examination held in the county this fall.

I. I. KAABA,
County Superintendent of Schools.
11-3t

Notice.

We having closed up our meat market desire all owing us to call at once and settle. Any one wishing to purchase meat market supplied can have a good outfit cheap.

MOSSON & Co.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.
HOMOEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Office in McClinton Block. Crookston, Minn

Jules Gendron.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Rooms 2, 3, 4 and 5, over Fontaine & Anglin's
Office hours—9 to 11 a. m.; 1 to 3 p. m.; 7 to 8 p. m

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Office in Opera Block Crookston, Minn

Miller & Foote,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
Offices, corner Broadway and Robert Streets
Crookston, Minn.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Services every Sunday, Morning, 11:00 evening, 8:00. Holy Communion the First Sunday of every Month. Sunday Services are welcome.
REV. H. H. GOWEN, B. Rector

TIME CARD
—OF—
TRAINS.
Crookston

NORTHERN PACIFIC

SOUTH BOUND

No.		Arr.	Dep't
No. 101 to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and East.		7:30 p m	7:35 p m
NORTH BOUND
No. 102 to Grand Forks, Grafton and Winnipeg.		8:50 a m	8:50 a m

C. A. SHARKEY, Agt. CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A.
Crookston, Minn. St. Paul, Minn

THE GREAT NORTHERN

ARRIVE	*Daily. †Except Sunday.	LEAVE
8.55 am	†Grand Forks, North and West	9.00 am
6.05 pm	†Fosston, St. Paul and points east	9.05 am
8.00 pm	†Warren, Grand Forks, Fisher	4.30 pm
6.00 pm	†St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls	9.30 am
4.00 pm	†Fosston, Bemidji, Duluth and Superior	9.00 am
8.45 pm	†Climax, Halstad, Moorhead and Fargo	7.30 am

*Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and departs Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

GREETING.

Many years have sped
Since first I saw your orange covers,
And with them youth and strength have fled,
Old friends are gone and youthful lovers

But, even as in days gone by
You came to bless my scanty leisure,
Still in your pages I descry
A welling fount of quiet pleasure.

Go on, old friend, and as of yore
You bid us company with sages,
Walk with them still as heretofore,
And may no evil mar your pages.

And when death's deep forgetfulness
Has closed for me all earthly pleasure
May Chambers still remain to bless—
Those who come after—in full measure.
—M. L. S. in Chambers' Journal.

A STORE ROMANCE.

William French prided himself on the fact that he was not an ambitious man.

He was wont to say that envy and discontent are the twin roots of all evil and that to be satisfied with one's lot in life is the sum total of all earthly philosophy.

William did not put it that way exactly, for he hadn't much more education than he had ambition. But that was what he meant when he would occasionally announce to his fellow clerks over the bowl of mush and milk that formed his noonday meal at the "quick lunch" counter, "What I can get is good enough for me, and don't you forget it."

And his fellow clerks, mostly unambitious men like himself, would generally reply, with laconic vagueness of assent, "That's what."

William's lot in life was sufficiently humble.

He sold tin bathtubs in the poorly lighted basement of a big department store six days in the week. His Sundays he spent in riding a secondhand bicycle, if it was fine, and reading the pictorial papers or sewing refractory buttons and reluctant patches on his clothing when the weather precluded any idea of outdoor amusement.

For William was a bachelor and looked askance at the fair sex as the lovely promoters of much of the discontent he so sternly deprecated and the gentle inciters of the reckless and wicked extravagance whose existence in the world he so greatly deplored.

So when he caught the flutter of a skirt on any stray bicycle he chanced to pass on a lonely road he would scorch sternly ahead and never once glance around to see if the fair traveler was riding for fun or to reduce her waist measure.

From which it may be seen that Mr. French was very much of a philosopher.

But, alas, even philosophers are not exempt from the visitings of the tender passion, and it chanced one day that Cupid, for want of something better to do, chose to visit the basement of that particular store and plant his dart deep in the heart of the young man who sold tin bathtubs!

It happened this way:

A young woman came to fill a vacancy in the graniteware department, next to William's own, and he, so long indifferent and even callous to the charms of woman, no sooner saw the new clerk busy over her saucepans and teakettles than he was smitten with a desire to possess her for his own.

Miss Thompson was not beautiful, to be sure, nor was she at all imposing of appearance, that she should thus captivate the heart of this severe critic at first sight. And she trotted about with a brisk alertness of movement quite incompatible with grace and elegance of movement.

But she suited William right down to the ground.

To begin with, she had soft eyes, of no particular color perhaps, but somehow when their gaze rested on William he felt that here, at last, was one who could appreciate his true value almost as keenly as he did himself. Her brown hair, of a very ordinary shade, was parted very neatly over her smooth brow in a fashion extremely plain and unambitious compared with the imposing pompadours worn by the magnificent young ladies who sold ribbons and neckties at the counters up stairs and whose airs and graces made William so uncomfortable that he frequently went to a rival establishment to purchase the modest "made up" cravat which completed his humble toilet.

Moreover, Miss Thompson's simple black alpaca gown, with its trimly belted waist and spotless cuffs and collar, betrayed none of the wickedly extravagant ideas William had long considered the prevalent weakness of the sex.

It wasn't very long before the two young people became very friendly.

Stewpans and teakettles being more in demand than bathtubs, William was frequently called upon to assist Miss Thompson in her department, and this association with her afforded the young man moments of exquisite joy.

At other times he would watch her, busy over her cooking utensils, and imagine how she would look in a little kitchen of her own manipulating similar implements in the preparation of his own supper.

The thought was intoxicating. Here at last he had found a girl who would be willing to share his humble lot, he told himself. A plain little thing like her would probably regard a tiny three room flat such as he had in mind as a very palace of luxury. He himself would seem to her a sort of special Providence through whose benevolent intervention she would realize all those dreams of home and husband most girls indulge in.

This thought he found even more agreeable than the other, and he found himself assuming a protecting and even patronizing air with her at times.

The enamored young man went so far as to hint to the object of his affection his hopes of having a modest home of his own one day, and while he could not recall afterward that she had betrayed any great interest in his plans he took comfort in thinking that girls are shy about showing their feelings and that probably it had not occurred to her that he would notice a little clerk in the graniteware department.

So William dreamed his dreams, and even began to inquire around about the rent of flats such as he would be apt to require.

But he did not tell his love. There was no hurry about that. He would wait till spring—when rents were cheaper.

And, besides, she was probably not prepared to hear of the honor he proposed to pay her. She might faint or something. Girls were apt to do those things when you took them unawares, he had heard.

So the winter wore on, and William spent more and more of his time talking to his fair neighbor, and fell more deeply in love at every interview.

To be sure, he did most of the talking.

He often confided to her his views on extravagance and high living and took occasion to ridicule those who spent their money on good clothes and theater tickets instead of laying it up for a rainy day.

And while Miss Thompson never said anything he could construe into an admission that she thought he was right she always listened with grave attention, and with her soft eyes fixed on him he remained blissfully certain that here was a woman who would thankfully devote her life to helping him save his income and provide for his old age.

At last the spring drew near. The flower counter in the main aisle began to glow with golden sunshine of daffodils and jonquils and odors of hyacinth and Easter lilies were wafted down the stairway to the dim basement where the bathtubs and the teakettles had their home

And then one day William had a shock. The crosseyed girl at the crockery department told him that Miss Thompson was going to leave.

He could not believe it. But inquiry at the glassware department revealed the fact that the rumor had spread the day before and had been confirmed by the young lady herself. William was astounded. She had made up her mind to leave without telling him! What did it mean? he wondered.

Then he had an idea. Perhaps she had grown to care so much for him that seeing him every day was painful. He had read of such things in novels. He resolved to tell her that very day of the plans he had made for her and ask her to become Mrs. William French.

It was long, however, before his opportunity came.

It seemed to him that every fat woman in the city had decided to lay in a supply of graniteware that particular day.

At last he encountered Miss Thompson behind a huge pile of coffeepots.

"I—I—hear you're going away," he began, surprised to find himself feeling decidedly nervous.

"Yes," she said pleasantly, as she made an entry in her little cashbook. "I'm going tomorrow."

"Well, I didn't know—that is, I thought—I hope, I mean, that I've not had anything to do with your going," he went on, beginning to be appalled at the miserable figure he was cutting.

"You, Mr. French—how could you—I don't understand, I'm afraid," she replied, in evident bewilderment.

"Oh, you see—I thought maybe you'd been expecting, you know—that is, you might have known that I was going to ask you to marry me, you know. I'd have asked you before—only"—

"Pray, don't apologize," she exclaimed quickly. "It's much better that you didn't. A man with your ideas would be making a great mistake to marry. And, besides, I'm going to be married next week to Mr. Morgan, up at the silk counter. He commenced as a cashboy, and now he's head of the department. But, then, he was ambitious."

William has seen her but once since then.

They were having a big bargain sale of remnants up stairs, and at the noon hour he was struggling to make his way through the vast crowd of ladies which surged bout the counter, when a little woman in a rustling silk gown turned suddenly and faced him.

It was she!

He passed her with only a formal and hurried bow, but he had time to observe, with pain, that she wore her hair in a pompadour.—Edgar Temple Field in Chicago Times-Herald.

A Plunge In the Dark.

A remarkable accident befell an English cyclist. He had been a few miles into the country to see some friends, and was riding home along a lane about 10 o'clock p. m., when he suddenly received a sharp blow on the chest and was lifted completely out of the saddle and thrown with considerable violence to the ground, where he lay for some minutes partly stunned. On recovering his senses the cyclist looked around to try to find the cause of his extraordinary spill.

It did not want a lot of finding, for it was very apparent in the shape of a stout rope which was stretched across the road. The rope, it appeared, was fastened at one end to a gypsy wagon standing by the side of the hedge, and to a horse at the other. In search of fresh herbage the animal had strayed across the road, and, startled, no doubt, by the sudden appearance of the bicycle light, had thrown up its head, drawing the cord taut at a height of five feet or so from the ground. In the darkness it was imperceptible, and, catching the cyclist breast high, it flung him from his machine with scant courtesy

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

Warren has a telephone system.

Postal service has been established at Palmdale, Chisago county.

The State Bankers's association is in session at Minneapolis this week.

Conde Hamlin has resigned as colonel of the Fourth regiment, M. N. G.

The cornerstone of the Lutheran seminary at Hamline will be laid Friday.

The Nickerson-Hurd sawmill at Nickerson has been sold to Iowa purchasers.

The cornerstone of Lac qui Parle county's new courthouse has been laid.

Yankee, the White Bear Yacht, won the second race with Dominion at Montreal.

At Sandstone Parish's livery barn was broken into and a team of horses and a wagon stolen.

McMichael's large elevator at Canton, Minn., was destroyed by fire, caused by being struck by lightning.

The Minnesota Elevator company, with a paid-up capital of $100,000, has been organized at Winona.

A heavy wind at St. Paul blew off several roofs and injured two women by overturning a sidewalk.

Judge Otis has granted judgment against the Bank of Minnesota stockholders under the double liability act.

Insurance Commissioner O'Shaughnessy refuses to license companies organized under "stipulated premium" laws.

M. E. Neary has been elected president of the State Federation of Labor. A Socialistic resolution was voted down.

Considerable property in Southern Minnesota, Northern Iowa and Southwestern Wisconsin was damaged by a wind storm Saturday.

Winona is to become sole headquarters of the Empire Lumber company. It has heretofore been doing business under a Wisconsin charter.

Professor U. S. Grant, assistant state geologist of Minnesota, has accepted the chair of geology in the Northwestern university, Evanston, Ills.

Fred Kier, the Howard Lake wife murderer, has been arraigned in court. He had no attorney, and though he professed to fully understand the enormity of the charge against him, he stated to the court that an attorney was not necessary.

The Bassett family held a reunion near Glyndon to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of N. A. Bassett and wife. Four generations were present and interest was added to the occasion by the wedding of the youngest daughter of the family.

John R. Clement, wanted at Preston in connection with the failure of the Preston bank, has been extradited to Minnesota by Governor Scofield. He lives at Eau Claire and his friends have actively opposed the requisition, which has been pending since March 24.

The secretary of state has reinstated, under the recent Summerville act, several corporations. The Wells-Fargo Express company paid in a fee of $50; the Thief River Trading and Transportation company, domestic, with $25,000 capital, paid a fee of $50, and the Duluth Telephone Exchange company, incorporated with capital at $500,000, paid as a fee $275.

By the annual readjustment of salaries of postmasters Minneapolis becomes an office of the first class with a salary of $6,000. The St. Paul postmaster also gets a raise of $1,000. The statement accompanying the list shows that of the 120 presidential offices in Minnesota 75 postmasters will have increased salaries next year. Only two offices show decreases.

At Mankato William Haggerty, Jr., convicted of robbery in the first degree, was sentenced to six years at Stillwater. Edward Coswell, who had pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree, got two years at Stillwater. Haggerty is an old offender and was pardoned out of Stillwater at the April meeting of the pardon board. He was in for robbery at that time.

At the open meeting of the superior lodge, Degree of Honor, of the A. O. U. W., held at Indianapolis, Mrs. Kate Blewett of Jamestown, N. D., presented the banner offered by the superior lodge to the state showing the largest number of new lodges instituted since Jan. 1. The banner went to the jurisdiction of Minnesota, where 17 new lodges of the Degree of Honor have been organized.

The board of hospital trustees has made an official investigation into the alleged abuse of a patient named Harlan at the St. Peter state hospital. The testimony proved that Harlan made a vicious assault upon a nurse named Hughes, the attack being at midnight, when Hughes was alone. In attempting to control the patient, Hughes pushed him upon the bed and the patient had one or two ribs fractured.

The Mississippi Valley Lumbermen's association met at St. Paul and advanced the price of low grade white pine lumber on an average of 50 cents per thousand. Incidentally the 150 lumbermen present discussed trade conditions, and Congressman Tawney was present by invitation to present the outline of the present status of the tariff on Canadian white pine, a matter that is shortly to be brought before the joint high commission at Washington.

Accident reports for the last five months compiled by the state labor bureau show a total of 187, of which 12 were fatal. Three of the fatal accidents were in the mines, where 9 were reported in all. A large proportion of the accidents were of the miscellaneous sort, men falling or having things fall on them, or cutting themselves with tools and the like. There were 33 machinery accidents, as follows: Buzz saws, 6; matching machines, 5; gearing, 14; belts and pulleys, 6; caught in rollers 2.

NEW STYLE ADOPTED.

A Good Way to Advertise a Good Article, Familiar Proverbs Used in Calling Attention to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The use of proverbs, old sayings, wise saws, couplets, or other quotations in calling attention to the merits of a medicine is an altogether new departure in the advertising business. In nearly all the newspapers and high class publications at the present time may be seen the new proverb advertisements of the well known medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. If you watch the papers and the Hood advertisement in each issue you will find it quite interesting to study the headline and the short introductory paragraph that leads up to the subject matter.

As illustrations, the proverb says, "To err is human," and the advertisement adds that to err all the time is criminal or idiotic, and argues that it is an error to neglect the blood, which, when it becomes impure and poor in quality is the source of many diseases. The proverb reads, "In union there is strength," and the advertisements point out that the union and harmonious working together of all parts of the human organism gives true strength, and all know that this cannot be expected unless the blood is in good order and circulates properly. The argument in each advertisement is clear, strong and convincing.

As to the real blood-purifying and health-giving power of Hood's Sarsaparilla it is hardly necessary to speak. This medicine is beyond question unequalled both in its curative virtues and in its record of actual cures accomplished. It is today the standard preparation for the blood, the true nerve tonic and great stomach invigorator.

The new advertisements do not fail to give plenty of evidence of cures effected by Hood's Sarsaparilla, as each one presents numerous plain, straight-forward testimonials from people who have taken it.

Do not fail to notice this new advertising, and if you are not feeling as well as you would like to feel, do not fail to get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. We know from the experience of thousands of people that it will do you good.

LATEST MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, June 21.

WHEAT—Cash, No. 1 hard, 78½c. No. 1 Northern, 75½c. No. 2 Northern, 71½c; No. 3, 65½c. To Arrive—No. 1 hard. 78½c; No. 1 Northern, 75½c, July, 75½c. September, 75½.

Minneapolis Wheat.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 21.

WHEAT—In Store—No. 1 Northern, June, 7½c; July, 73½c; September, 7½c. On Track No. 1 hard, 74½c; No. 1 Northern, 73½c; No. 2 Northern, 71½c.

Sioux City Live Stock.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., June 21.

HOGS—Market 5c higher. Range of prices $3 55@3.65.

CATTLE—Market slow, about steady. Sales ranged at $4.35@4.85 for beeves; $2.2 @4.00 for cows, bulls and mixed; $3.75@4.50 for stockers and feeders; $4.00 @5.25 for calves and yearlings.

Receipts: Cattle, 800; hogs, 2,800.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, June 21.

HOGS—Market 5@10c higher. Quality fair. Range of prices, $3.25@3.67½.

CATTLE—Market steady and active. Sales ranged at $3 60@4.90 for stockers; $3.90@4.00@ for heifers; $4.50@5.10 for steers; $3.15@4.35 for cows; $3.00@3.60 for bulls; $4 25@6.00 for calves.

SHEEP—Market stronger for good sheep and lambs.

Sales ranged at $4.65 for sheep; $4.25@5.25 for lambs.

Receipts: Cattle, 400; calves 200, hogs, 2,500, sheep, 400.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, June 21.

HOGS—Market steady to strong. Sales ranged at $3.70@3.90 for mixed and butchers; $3.80@3.92½ for good heavy, $3.65@3.70 for rough heavy; $3.70 @3.95 for light.

CATTLE—Market strong. Sales ranged at $4.40@5.40 for beeves; $2.00@4.90 for cows and heifers, $3.85@ 4.85 for Texas steers, $3.50@5.00 for stockers and feeders

SHEEP—Market steady. Sales ranged $1.50@5.25 for sheep; $4.50 @6.75 for lambs.

Receipts: Hogs, 33,000, cattle, 14,000; sheep, 12,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, June 21.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—July, 75⅛@75¼c; September, 76⅝c; December, 78⅝c.

CORN—June, 34¼c July, 34⅜c; September, 34⅜c; December, 33⅞c.

OATS—June, 25⅛c, July, 24⅛c; September, 24⅛c.

POULTRY—Dressed, ducks, 8c; chickens 9@10c, turkeys, 8c.

BUTTER—Creameries, 13½@18c dairies, 10@16½c.

EGGS—Fresh, 12¼@12½c.

Crookston Market.

The following is the price of wheat quoted in the local market this morning:

No. 1 hard....................64c
No. 1 northern....................63c
No. 2 northern....................59c

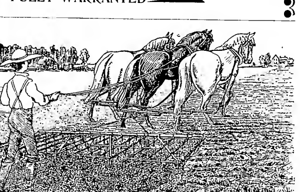
One Fare for the Round Trip

to Cleveland, O. via. Nickel Plate Road, on June 25th and 26th, with return limit of June 29th, 1899. Three through trains daily. Chicago depot, Van Buren St. and Pacific Ave, on Elevated Loop. For further information, write General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

THE Everlasting Steel Harrow

The bands or double-bars and teeth are made of Bessemer Steel, and are made in two, three, four, five or six sections. Three sections, 82 teeth, 12 feet, usual size for ordinary farm team.

FULLY WARRANTED



....Will Last for a Life Time....

The illustration shows one of our four-section harrows at work on an extraordinarily rough piece of ground, drawn as a vertical or straight tooth harrow. You will notice that the harrow runs a little angling against the ground and the pressure of the ground against the teeth give the double bars a constant shake which gives the harrow a most terrific tearing power. It may be made into a slanting tooth by simply changing evener to the other end. For circulars and testimonials, address

JOHNSON & SMITH,
AUSTIN, MINN.

YOU CAN USE IT 20 DAYS FREE

Ask us to ship you one of our High Arm Sewing Machines with Ball Bearings and all Modern Improvements. ... Upon arrival ... with the express agent of your town, then

TAKE THE MACHINE HOME AND TRY IT FOR 20 DAYS

If you are perfectly satisfied with the machine, keep it, otherwise return it to the express agent, and he will give you back your money ... We guarantee the machine for ten years. ... We have sold over 100,000, and they are all giving perfect satisfaction. ITS SPECIAL FEATURES are Ball Bearing, Light Running, Durable, Easily Operated, Noiseless, Double Positive Feed, Self Threading Shuttle, Self-Setting Needle, Tension Liberator, Automatic Bobbin Winder, High Arm, Nickle-plated working parts, Steel bearings, Improved steel Attachments, Superior Finish, Highly Polished Bent Woodwork, Oak or Walnut.

Up-to-date in every detail.

Send 15 cents for our 1000-page catalogue. It lists everything used by mankind.

Originators of The Catalogue Business.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., Michigan Ave. & Madison St., Chicago.

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven but has long horizontal wires, which classes it as

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

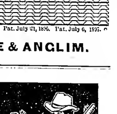
Like a fence, it can be properly stretched and erected with few posts and without top and bottom rails. Has cable selvage and a cable running through the fence every foot. Each roll contains the famous M. M. S. trade mark. None other genuine.

We are manufacturers also of the following famous fences:

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE with or without lower cable barbed. All horizontal lines are cables.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE ideal fence for lawns, parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel gates, posts, etc. Everything the best of its kind.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.



Pat. July 21, 1896. Pat. July 6, 1897.

FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

THE JOURNAL IS "IT"

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY

JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND," AND "SINNERS TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER XII.

THE BLACKS SHOW UP.

Next morning Gordon hired a Chinaman cook, no white man being found in a sufficient state of sobriety to take the billet. We recrossed the river, loaded up the teams with the most perishable goods and prepared to start for the station. Gordon's intention was to leave one man in charge of the remaining stores, stacked on the bank, until we could send for them.

After dinner we were ready to start back again to the station. Gordon told me that he had half a mind to discharge Daly, but that inclination was his only excuse for summary dismissal. Mr. Mackenzie was always averse to parting with good hands, because they were scarce "ont back." Although I agreed with Gordon that it would be a mistake to dismiss him, I knew well enough that Daly had endeavored to make himself useful to Gordon for the sake of his sister. But I also had a vague idea that by keeping sight of Daly we might, in course of time, get some clew to the murderer of Serua.

And now we were all jogging along at an easy pace in the bright sunshine, but had not as yet left the track. I was strangely glad to think that we were leaving the scene of so much trouble behind us. But perhaps the fact that Norah Mackenzie had not been left behind on the Macarthur under the wing of the police magistrate's wife had something to do with that. I should at least have another fortnight, which would give me an opportunity of making myself better known to her, perhaps winning such a share in her regard as would encourage me to hope for a certain happy consummation. But she was so utterly unlike any other woman I had ever met that I hardly knew what to make of her. Was she simply a bright, excitement loving and impulsive creature, whose strange ways might be ascribed rather to a craving for change and novel experiences than to any sterling and individuality? Sometimes it seemed to me that she only adopted those erratic ways in order to disguise her warm, sympathetic nature. At other times I thought they were merely the outcome of a want of heart. Then the opposite would suggest themselves. Would she have done for me what she had done for my mate? Would she have masqueraded in the outre character of a half caste boy and have braved that strange coach thing for my sake?

But was I jealous of Jack, and did she put show a decided preference for him? Here let conduct baffled me. Sometimes the evil one made me wish my friend a thousand miles away, and I was not quite so civil to him as one mate ought to be to another. But Jack either did not or would not see these signs. So far as his relations with the squatter's daughter were concerned I could take no exception to them. His manner toward her had changed since the trial. He no longer treated her like a spoiled child or a frivolous girl, as he had done at first, and she indeed seemed pleased when in his company. She had undoubtedly gone a metamorphosis in his eyes—on that, alas, meant trouble for me.

It was significant that none of us referred to the proceedings of the day before. We observed an unnatural reticence on the theme.

As for Daly, he discreetly kept himself aloof from the rest of us, performing his diversities silently and well.

On our journey back to the station little of interest occurred. Of course we took longer to go back—being heavily loaded—than in coming, but on the morning of the third day Gordon saddled up the horses for Norah Mackenzie and his sister, telling me to get ready and accompany the two women to the station, which we would possibly reach in the course of the afternoon. He said he would come on himself about nightfall. The teams would probably reach the station some time next day.

We talked of many things as we rode back, but we never once mentioned what had occurred at the Macarthur river. I caught myself looking curiously at her several times. It was a strange thing that I should have been so blind as not to recognize her in the character of that half caste boy. Freddy, who had caused such a sensation in court. Here were those great soulful eyes that had so struck me when I looked upon the boy. Here were those clearly cut and mobile features that had captivated my fancy in spite of myself. She must have dyed her skin with some simple decoction peculiar to the bush, to have transformed that face as she did. I could understand now why the boy had covered his head with that ugly, gaudy handkerchief. In it were gathered those great, silky, brown tresses. As for the broken pigeon English which came so naturally from her lips, that was not to be wondered at. I had often heard her counterfeit the gibberish of the blacks with such startling verisimilitude that had not her lips moved I would have sworn a black gin talked. There was no doubt she was a born actress and mimic.

In the course of the afternoon we reached the station and found things much as we had left them. The squatter had not returned, but one of the stockmen, by name Mooney, had something to tell. He had been out on the run up the river, when in a little pocket in the main range he had heard the chattering of some blacks. On riding up with his black boy he came right on to a mob of these gentry who, having run one of Mackenzie's bullocks into this natural yard and speared it, were cutting up and dividing the meat. They had dried upon them with fatal results and then retired.

CHAPTER XIII.

IN THE HEART OF THE NEVER-NEVER.

Next morning the teams came up, and we were kept busy unloading. We unpacked the goods and stowed them away in the substantial storehouse just built, stacking the sugar on swinging shelves from the roof so as to bulk the more. I saw little or nothing of the squatter's daughter. She and Elsie Gordon kept well to the quarters built for them—a neat slab house with an iron roof and another of bark over that to keep it cooler. Under the wide verandas I sometimes caught a glimpse of Norah Mackenzie swinging in a hammock reading or else staring about making some alteration in the little house that happened to strike her fancy.

We saw no signs of the blacks, and Gordon began to think that they had moved to another part of the country. On the third day after our arrival he explained that it would be advisable to take a trip up the river to the south in order to explore a certain part of the surrounding country. He found it necessary to split up the band on account of the pastrurage; to take about a thousand head of cattle up the valley some 80 or 40 miles, and fencing off the entrance to some good grassy pocket in the ranges, have them there. Keeping the cattle in hand had begun to be very troublesome on account of the advanced season of the year. Gordon therefore said that Saville, Daly, Jack and I should go with him and drive the cattle before us up the valley. Moreover, Mrs. Mackenzie had been asking him for the last few days to make a trip of the kind, as he thought he might as well take her and his sister also. They had lots of pack horses, and could pack a tent for them and all they might want. Besides, they would be safer with us than if left at the station. On this point I had my doubts.

Everything had been arranged and we were to start on the morrow. Daly, Mooney and a couple of blacks went out and, mustering the cattle, drove them some 15 miles up the river so that we could conveniently pick them up next day. Gordon, Jack and I got the pack saddles out and made up the rations with such things as we would require for a six days' trip. In the afternoon Norah Mackenzie came over to the store. She was evidently in high spirits. She wanted some cartridges for her small sporting rifle and some for a small Smith & Wesson revolver.

"Why, Norah," said Jack as she tripped off, and I walized how near I had been to telling her what she had become to me, "I thought we never left off all things come round to him who will but wait," I said to myself.

Next morning after breakfast we made a start, leaving Mooney and two blacks at the station. Our party consisted of the two women, Gordon, Saville, Daly, Jack, myself and a couple of boys. With us we had eight pack horses. Gordon and Daly, with the blacks, rode on ahead to drive up the cattle. I found myself with Jack leading the way, Norah Mackenzie and Elsie Gordon following close upon us.

For several miles the creek was straight as an arrow—a succession of long, deep water holes, on which the purple and white water lilies bloomed and on which hundreds of wild fowl rested, while on the banks the pelicans, the snow white ibis and other gaudy and long legged birds enlivened the scene.

It was significant that all along the banks of the creek there were piles of empty mussel shells, which showed that it was a veritable mine of wealth to the foraging black fellow. At times we passed heaps where the blacks had camped. It was rather startling to commit the number of their fires. In some camps alone there must have been at least 600 or 600. Where were those blacks now?

Toward evening we came to a beautifully grassed, lightly timbered meadow. Here Gordon said it would be as well to leave the cattle until we explored the country further up the river. We passed a little ironstone ridge, where we could guard against surprise from the blacks, and camped for the night.

Next morning by daybreak we were all up and stirring. Saville boiled the billy, the black boys rounded up the horses, while Jack and I went down to the creek and had a swim. It was Gordon's intention to push through the gap which we saw to the south and explore the country which lay beyond and to the west. He thought it was not unlikely that the squatter, on his way back from the table land, might pass in that direction. In fact, he said, it was probable that we might meet him within the next three days.

We had saddled up the horses and gone on again. Just as we were leaving camp Snowball checked his horse, and, pointing to a distant rocky height some three or four miles off, he cried:

"My word, black fellow sit down alonga monntain. That fellow make 'm fire, tell him 'nother fellow- look out white fellow!"

And there, surely enough, rose a tall, thin, white column of smoke, which broke into a series of rings as it ascended into that pale blue sky.

One of those signal fires by which each fellows communicate to one another at a distance the fact that something unusual is approaching.

But we were ell too carelessly happy to trou ble about such things. Thanks to the light cool breeze, which seemed like we were getting into somewhat higher latitudes, we felt an exhilaration and buoyancy of spirits that made us think but little of such a contingency as one party being attacked by blacks.

We came to a place where the river ran through a rather awkward gorge, but as the cliffs on either side were very high and overhanging we had little to fear from any hostile savages throwing their spears down upon us.

Suddenly, however, it took u turn. Then, as if we had passed through a gateway, it stopped abruptly, and we passed, as it were, into another world.

We saw no signs of the blacks, and Gordon began to think that they had moved to another part of the country. On the third day after our arrival he explained that it would be advisable to take a trip up the river to the south in order to explore a certain part of the surrounding country. He found it necessary to split up the band on account of the pastrurage; to take about a thousand head of cattle up the valley some 80 or 40 miles, and, fencing off the entrance to some good grassy pocket in the ranges, have them there. Keeping the cattle in hand had begun to be very troublesome on account of the advanced season of the year. Gordon therefore said that Saville, Daly, Jack and I should go with him and drive the cattle before us up the valley. Moreover, Mrs. Mackenzie had been asking him for the last few days to make a trip of the kind, as he thought he might as well take her and his sister also. They had lots of pack horses, and could pack a tent for them and all they might want. Besides, they would be safer with us than if left at the station. On this point I had my doubts.

Everything had been arranged and we were to start on the morrow. Daly, Mooney and a couple of blacks went out and, mustering the cattle, drove them some 15 miles up the river so that we could conveniently pick them up next day. Gordon, Jack and I got the pack saddles out and made up the rations with such things as we would require for a six days' trip. In the afternoon Norah Mackenzie came over to the store. She was evidently in high spirits. She wanted some cartridges for her small sporting rifle and some for a small Smith & Wesson revolver.

"Why, Norah," said Jack as she tripped off, and I walized how near I had been to telling her what she had become to me. Then he continued: "All things come round to him who will but wait," I said to myself.

Next morning after breakfast we made a start, leaving Mooney and two blacks at the station. Our party consisted of the two women, Gordon, Saville, Daly, Jack, myself and a couple of boys. With us we had eight pack horses. Gordon and Daly, with the blacks, rode on ahead to drive up the cattle. I found myself with Jack leading the way, Norah Mackenzie and Elsie Gordon following close upon us.

For several miles the creek was straight as an arrow—a succession of long, deep water holes, on which the purple and white water lilies bloomed and on which hundreds of wild fowl rested, while on the banks the pelicans, the snow white ibis and other gaudy and long legged birds enlivened the scene.

It was significant that all along the banks of the creek there were piles of empty mussel shells, which showed that it was a veritable mine of wealth to the foraging black fellow. At times we passed heaps where the blacks had camped. It was rather startling to commit the number of their fires. In some camps alone there must have been at least 600 or 600. Where were those blacks now?

Toward evening we came to a beautifully grassed, lightly timbered meadow. Here Gordon said it would be as well to leave the cattle until we explored the country further up the river. We passed a little ironstone ridge, where we could guard against surprise from the blacks, and camped for the night.

Next morning by daybreak we were all up and stirring. Saville boiled the billy, the black boys rounded up the horses, while Jack and I went down to the creek and had a swim. It was Gordon's intention to push through the gap which we saw to the south and explore the country which lay beyond and to the west. He thought it was not unlikely that the squatter, on his way back from the table land, might pass in that direction. In fact, he said, it was probable that we might meet him within the next three days.

We had saddled up the horses and gone on again. Just as we were leaving camp Snowball checked his horse, and, pointing to a distant rocky height some three or four miles off, he cried:

"My word, black fellow sit down alonga monntain. That fellow make 'm fire, tell him 'nother fellow- look out white fellow!"

And there, surely enough, rose a tall, thin, white column of smoke, which broke into a series of rings as it ascended into that pale blue sky.

He checked his horse and pointed to a distant rocky height.

One of those signal fires by which each fellows communicate to one another at a distance the fact that something unusual is approaching.

But we were ell too carelessly happy to trou ble about such things. Thanks to the light cool breeze, which seemed like we were getting into somewhat higher latitudes, we felt an exhilaration and buoyancy of spirits that made us think but little of such a contingency as one party being attacked by blacks.

We came to a place where the river ran through a rather awkward gorge, but as the cliffs on either side were very high and overhanging we had little to fear from any hostile savages throwing their spears down upon us.

Suddenly, however, it took u turn. Then, as if we had passed through a gateway, it stopped abruptly, and we passed, as it were, into another world.

We saw no signs of the blacks, and in the arena of a vast natural amphitheater. At first it seemed to me that if some great landlocked area of the sea could have been, by any possibility, dried up and its bed grassed and timbered it would have presented something like what similar appearance. I would have wanted the many curious basaltic and sandstone figures which were scattered around everywhere, crowning its rugged heights. We had passed, as it were, through Sydney heads and into a fixed stool in the deep bed of what once was a great natural harbor, in which the blue waves of old ocean had danced and shimmered in the sunlight, far above our heads, in the misty bygone ages

CHAPTER XIV.

A WOMAN'S PLUCK.

After traveling some few miles we began to explore the numerous caverns and gullies of this ancient seabeach, when, at the foot of the cliff on the strip of yellow sand, we gathered shells the like of which none of us had ever seen before. On some of the recesses were long rows of extinct fires, indicating that large mobs of savages had frequently camped there. When I expressed surprise that the blacks should follow the example of the cliff dwellers of the North American continent, one of the squatter's daughter who showed it was a matter of necessity, not of choice, and she pointed to the fallen limbs of a tree several feet from the ground, where rested a bunch of driftwood.

He checked his horse and pointed to a distant rocky height.

"In the wet season," she explained, "this valley must all be flooded. The gorge, being so narrow, can't carry off all the water that pours into it, and the blacks have to take to the cliffs for safety. Pleasant, isn't it?"

I saw many signs of the truth of what she said. She read the face of nature as it were an open book. For instance, in one cave there were some rude drawings in colored clays or chalks upon the smooth walls, and I heard her remark to some one how they represented the elementary efforts of the savage to express himself by means of symbolic—primitive man writing before he had attained to the dignity of pothooks and hangers. It was a strange instinct that made men anxious to perpetuate themselves, even in this fashion, and to dread being utterly forgotten. On that rough surface there was a most important event recorded in the history of those savages—the coming of the whites.

And then to our surprise she interpreted the hieroglyphics, the black boys nodding their heads with approval as if assenting what she said.

I looked wonderingly at the girl. She had interpreted the rude sketches of those savages as easily as if she had been reading out of a book. Though at first sight the figures to us were distorted and entirely without meaning, under her they assumed a natural order and transparency. With a boldness representation of the manner of a showman she pointed to figure after figure with her riding whip, at the same time garnishing her remarks with a running, commentary regarding the artistic qualities of the pictures, which indeed violated every canon of art.

At length we came to where there were some fresh tracks of blacks. At first we paid little attention to the fact, but soon they became so numerous that Gordon became anxious. Even the black boys showed surprise.

"My word," declared Snowball, "bis, fellow mob black fellow bin yan this way yestiday."

The father of the black boys seemed to like the aspect of affairs.

Notwithstanding, we sought out a large cool cavern, into which we ascended from one of the terraces, some 15 feet from the ground, and began to prepare dinner. We left the pack saddles with what provisions we did not require just then at the foot of the cliff. Our horses we turned loose without even hobbling, as the grass there was good, and we knew they would not stray far. A spring bubbled out from the face of the cliff in a narrow gully to our right, which was connected with the cave by a narrow passage.

After dinner I converted my saddle into a pillow and lolled lazily back with my pipe between my lips. I must have been fast relapsing into that condition when sleep overtakes a man, for I was but vaguely conscious of Saville talking to Samson, as that intelligent quadruped stood upon its hind legs and gravely regarded its master. I could hear the voice of Norah Mackenzie as she talked to Gordon, telling him something about the horses being uneasy. I was aware of only a vague consciousness of this in my brain at the time, for I must have been half asleep. These things passed before me much as a dream might have done and without any awakening of my reasoning faculties or volition in regard to action on my part. Then suddenly there came a hollow moaning sound, as of horses galloping, and it seemed to me that I could distinguish Gordon among the howlers and trees some hundred yards away peering all about.

And then a coo-ee was shrilled out, making me jump to my feet and bringing me to my senses in a second. It was Norah Mackenzie, who had called as she looked up my side. She was evidently not a little excited and beckoned to Gordon to come back. In a second all the camp was astir. The girl watched apprehensively the figure of Gordon, who came slowly back to camp, lingering and looking around as if he wondered why he was being so energetically recalled.

"Look!" cried the quick eyed Australian girl. "Don't you see? There they are—bloodies—dozens of them! If Gordon doesn't look sharp, some of them will sneak on him and have him yet! Oh, why does he hurry up?"

I looked, but for the life of me could see nothing to alarm any one. Only Snowball and Yarry uttered exclamations of surprise and consternation.

"My word!" they chorused. "Big mob black fellow!"

And now, as if it were the stage of a puppet show and a string had been pulled, a semicircle of dusky figures sprang from the grass, from behind trees and bushes, where they had been in a large number of human beings could have sneaked upon us without being seen and how they managed to conceal themselves, only those who have had some experience of savage life can understand. In another second a shower of spears was sent after the astonished Gordon, making him shout. Picking up my Winchester—which, luckily, I never kept far from me—and without a thought, I sprang down the cliff. A thick golden wattle bush broke my rash leap; otherwise it might have gone hard for with me. In another minute I was alongside Gordon. The blacks made an ugly rush upon us, but I stopped short the onward career of two of them, and Gordon stopped another. We had a few minutes' respite, in which we backed slowly toward the cave.

I never saw a man take anything so coolly as that highlander.

"Dash them!" he cried, relapsing into his native Doric. "Are we to be beaten back by a parcel of blackguard savages? Ha, Parker, and scatter the loons! The devil tak 'em ongunnet!"

And, suiting his actions to his words, he did charge. Of course I followed him, but we overshot without our hosts, for the savages stood firm, sending such a shower of spears and boomerangs at us that Gordon got a spear in his left arm and I received a blow on the cheek from a spent boomerang that made blood and the feel rather sick and dizzy. In another minute Saville, Jack and Daly were alongside. Surely now that there were five of us we could turn the blacks. I'st, no: they were not the blacks of Victoria, New South Wales or even of northern Queensland. They were as different from the puny specimens that is generally accepted as typical of the Australian black fellow as a Bengal tiger is from a cat. They were the aboriginal highlanders of the Cerpentarian gulf, resembling the stal-

She fired in the face of the savage, who fell backward dead.

wart inhabitants of Arnheim's Land—savages pure and simple, uncontaminated by civilization, perhaps with a tinge of Malay or Papuan blood in their veins, for one could see that some of them were not black but copper colored.

We fired together and attempted another rush, but the effect was disastrous. Gordon received a spear in the thigh and I was struck on the left shoulder and was running with him toward the cave. The others covered my retreat, but I saw something that gave me a bad scare before getting there, for clambering up the terrace toward the two women were a couple of black fellows. One of them had just gained the ledge, carrying a spear in his teeth, when I saw Norah Mackenzie rise as if from the floor of the terrace. In her right hand she held a revolver. In another second she had fired right in the face of the savage, who staggered for a moment, then fell backward, head first. The other savage was so much taken aback at the "white Marry's" summary action that he changed his mind about entering the cave and dropped to the ground and—

"This way!" the girl cried to me —"Don't hurry, but make sure of your footing. You're lots of time."

The very sound of her voice gave me that courage which I had been far from feeling the minute before.

"Mr. Parker," she said, "carry Gordon back into the cave. He has only fainted, and we'll see what damage the spearhead has done. Elsie, my dear, your crying can only make matters worse. Go back into the cave and lie down. We will look after your brother."

I carried Gordon into the cave and ripped open his shirt with my knife. In another minute, with the help of the girl, I had made a cut in the flesh over the ribs, forced through the barbed spearhead and withdrawn it. Having completed the operation and given Gordon a drink of water, I noticed that Mary womanlike, the girl had turned deadly pale beneath her sun browned skin. But she declared it was only the fresh air that she wanted when I handed her a pannikin of water, and with a sigh, as if of relief, she went to the mouth of the cavern.

We had now time to realise our position. There were five of us—one laid off, however—and all well armed, but my heart sank within me when I saw the mob of blacks. There must have been 200 of them swarming round the cave, forming a half circle and dodging behind the rocks and trees. They had evidently made a great master; probably a couple of friendly tribes had joined to make a last vigorous effort to wipe out the white man.

For a few minutes there was a lull in the hostilities, during which the blacks carried on an excited discussion among themselves. Jack and Daly knelt with their rifles ready so as to offer a sunlier front to the enemy's spears. Saville's black eyes roamed curiously from side to side trying to pierce the scrub, as if that bloodthirsty mob rather amused him than otherwise. If Gordon showed the dauntless stubborn pluck of his countrymen, Savile showed a supreme indifference and coolness that bordered on the sublime. Everything had come to a quicky that the whole affair resembled more a series of scenes from a dream than anything else. And what gave them all the more the incongruous character of a dream was Savile's whisper to his dog: "Hello, there, Samson! Look out, old fellow! Rats!" And then he gave a low whistle and a "Hist!" to the collection of his canine friend.

But the most serious feature of the situation was that we had lost our horses, one of which had been speared, while the others had attended.

But we were not to be left long idle. We could see a surging and swaying mass of blacks, who with hoarse guttirals and wild, strange cries, which for all the world resembled those of a pack of wild animals, came toward us and surrounded the mouth of the cave. An old fellow whose head and beard were as white as driven snow was evidently the chief. An immense man, piercing, the cartilage of his nose, stuck out on either side of his face, giving him a peculiarly fierce and diabolical expression. He had been, and was still, a remarkably powerful man. Carrying an army fal of spears behind him, and uttering words of encouragement, was a huge ugly whose arms we feel sick and dizzy. In another minute Savile, Jack and Daly were alongside. Surely now that there were five of us we could turn the blacks. I'st, no: they were not the blacks of Victoria, New South Wales or even of northern Queensland. They were as different from the puny specimens that is generally accepted as typical of the Australian black fellow as a Bengal tiger is from a cat. They were the aboriginal highlanders of the Cerpentarian gulf, resembling the stalwart inhabitants of Arnheim's Land—savages pure and simple, uncontaminated by civilization, perhaps with a tinge of Malay or Papuan blood in their veins, for one could see that some of them were not black but copper colored.

She fired in the face of the savage, who fell backward dead.

We fired together and attempted another rush, but the effect was disastrous. Gordon received a spear in the thigh and I was struck on the left shoulder and was running with him toward the cave. The others covered my retreat, but I saw something that gave me a bad scare before getting there, for clambering up the terrace toward the two women were a couple of black fellows. One of them had just gained the ledge, carrying a spear in his teeth, when I saw Norah Mackenzie rise as if from the floor of the terrace. In her right hand she held a revolver. In another second she had fired right in the face of the savage, who staggered for a moment, then fell backward, head first. The other savage was so much taken aback at the "white Marry's" summary action that he changed his mind about entering the cave and dropped to the ground and—

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

ITS TERMS A SECRET.

Reciprocity Treaty Signed Between the United States and the Barbadoes.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—A reciprocity treaty between the United States and Great Britain in relation to trade between this country and the British colony of Berbadoes was signed at the department of state during the day by the representatives of the two governments. It is the first treety fremed under the Dingley law and the first of the series of treaties which the British colonies to the south of this country are seeking to effect.

Because this convention is a treaty and not a mere reciprocity arrangement, it consequently that all treaties must be submitted to the United States senate for its approval, the state department is precluded from making public its terms.

DEATH OF MR. BLAND.

End of the Great Silver Advocate Peaceful and Without Suffering.

LEBANON, Mo., June 17.—Congressman Richard Parks Bland died at his home near Lebanon, at 4:30 a. m., peacefully and without apparent suffering.

WORKMEN MAKE A CHANGE

Affianced Wife of a Member Can Become a Beneficiary.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 17.—The supreme lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, has decided to enlarge the limit of the beneficiary department in order to include an affianced wife. Heretofore only blood relatives have been accepted as beneficiaries. At the session of the lodge held a year ago, a price of $2,000 was offered to the jurisdiction showing a net increase of 20 per cent in membership, providing the increase exceeded 1,000 members. Two jurisdictions, Delaware and West Virginia were successful.

CURRENCY LEGISLATION.

Senate and House Republicans Will Surely Get Together.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Information has reached the treasury department from the senate committee which is now considering the subject of currency legislation. The Republicans of the senate committee, according to this information, took about the same view as the other Republicans of the house committee which met at Atlantic City in April, and there will be little difficulty, it is said, in getting together upon a programme for currency legislation.

Ninety-two Had Tuberculosis.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Germs of tuberculosis were found in every cow of a herd of 92 that were received at the stock yards during the day. The choicest of the lot by several instances were found to be the most pronounced victims of the disease.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA will generally correct this difficulty.

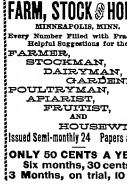
If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

FARM PROFITS



Are Made by reading

FARM, STOCK & HOME,

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Every Number Filled with Practical, Helpful Suggestions for the FARMER, STOCKMAN, DAIRYMAN, GARDENER, POULTRYMAN, APIARIST, FRUITIST, AND HOUSEWIFE.

Issued Semi-monthly 24 Papers a Year

ONLY 50 CENTS A YEAR.

Six months, 30 cents.

3 Months, on trial, 10 cts.

With the JOURNAL one year for $1. 75

A BRISK ENCOUNTER

FILIPINOS ATTEMPT TO FLANK THE AMERICANS

But Meet Defeat With Heavy Loss—Five of Our Men Killed and Twenty-five Wounded in the Engagement—All the State Troops Now at Manila Vote to Muster Out at San Francisco Reply From General Otis in Response to an Inquiry of the Department.

NEW YORK, June 20.—A special from Manila says: Desperate fighting is the order. The Filipinos seem to grow more determined as the war progresses and are showing the Americans a hard fight. The latest engagement was brought on by an attempt of the enemy to flank the Americans and attack them at a weak spot. This was balked by prompt action of the troops under General Wheaton, and, as a result, the rebels sustained heavy losses. The engagement, which occurred about 20 miles from Manila, was still raging when night came on. The Filipinos were being slowly driven back, but fighting for every inch of ground yielded.

General Wheaton had a decidedly close call in going forward to the relief of troops whose ammunition had run out. He was seen by the Filipinos, who poured a hot fire upon the general and his staff, but fortunately the Filipinos are poor marksmen and the general escaped injury.

ATTACKED BY FRIENDLIES.

Five Americans Killed and Twenty-five Wounded.

MANILA, June 20.—4:30 p. m.—A battalion of the Fourth infantry which left Imus, where General Wheaton is in command, to reconnoiter toward Peras das Marinas, where it was believed most of the rebels who escaped Parumpong and Bacoor had fled, was attacked in the rear by apparently friendly natives. This brought on a sharp engagement, lasting several hours, resulting in five Americans being killed about twenty-five being wounded. The loss of the rebels was very heavy.

The battalion soon exhausted its ammunition and at 2:30 p. m. General Wheaton and his staff with the Second battalion, two mountain guns and one field piece, went to reinforce the troops attacked. General Wheaton was fired on in the road and had a narrow escape.

Later the Third battalion was ordered to the front and formed on the Las Mimas road. Heavy firing on both sides followed, the artillery being freely used. The enemy was located in the woods at 4 o'clock, showing signs of retiring as the rebels were being pressed very hard. One gun of the Sixth artillery, in an advantageous position, did great execution.

The scene of the fight is over twenty miles from Manila.

OCCUPIED DAS MARINAS.

Wheaton's Troops Met Little Opposition During the Advance.

MANILA, June 21.—6 a. m.—General Wheaton's command has renewed the attack upon Peres das Marinas. Early in the morning they moved on the town, hoping to reach there by noon, unless very strong opposition was encountered.

The latest list of the American casualties in fighting shows that 5 were killed and 23 wounded. The list includes no officers. The wounded were brought to Manila from Bacoor in cascos.

MANILA, June 21.—8 p. m.—The troops commanded by General Wheaton entered Peres das Marinas without opposition except upon the part of small bodies of rebels, who inflicted no losses upon the Americans. The town is an unimportant place surrounded by swamps and General Wheaton will probably retreat to Imus.

MUSTER OUT AT 'FRISCO.

All the Volunteer Organizations at Manila Choose That Point.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The following cablegram has been received from General Otis:

"All volunteer organizations here desire muster out San Francisco."

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The cable message of General Otis regarding the wishes of the volunteers was in response to a specific inquiry of the war department based upon the declared policy of having each volunteer organization elect whether it should be mustered out at San Francisco or at its home station. It appears from General Otis' message that the volunteers prefer to disband at San Francisco in accordance with the original arrangements of the war department.

SAYS IT IS SERIOUS.

Beyond That, However, Miles Refuses to Discuss the Philippine Situation.

NEW YORK, June 21.—"The situation in the Philippines is very serious," said Major General Nelson A. Miles, at the Waldorf-Astoria.

"I know nothing of the story that the war department is suppressing the news from Manila. But everybody knows that things are very serious there. The question of issuing a call for volunteers has not, I believe, been decided. I do not care to discuss the Philippine matter. I am here on private business."

AN OFFICIAL REPORT.

General Otis Cables the War Department of the Engagement at San Fernando.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The war department has received a dispatch from General Otis, announcing the repulse of an insurgent attack upon our forces at San Fernando. The dispatch follows;

"Northern insurgents concentrated large force near San Fernando, and early this morning attacked MacArthur's troops; enemy quickly repulsed and driven, leaving over 50 dead on the field and large number wounded; enemy in retreat. Our casualties 14 wounded, mostly very slight. Preparations for this attack in progress several days; believed to be under personal direction Aguinaldo."

NEW RICHMOND'S DEAD.

Latest Estimate Makes the Total Loss of Life 125.

NEW RICHMOND, Wis., June 19.—It is now possible to give with fair accuracy a summary of the death and destruction to property by the cyclone.

The official list of known dead contains 103 names; 5 unidentified bodies have been buried, besides some parts of bodies. A conservative estimate of the bodies still in the ruins of people not reported missing would be 15. This brings the loss of life to about 123.

The best estimate on the loss of property in the city of New Richmond, compiled from a list of individual property owners who lost everything, reaches a total of $850,000. To this may be added about $200,000 for household goods, and other property destroyed in the immediate vicinity not included in the buildings totally demolished.

Attempt to Rob a Bank Vault.

A bold attempt to rob the vault of the Manufacturers' bank was made during the night. Will Thompson, the teller of the bank, gives the following account of the affair:

"Shortly after midnight the young man whom he had hired to watch the vault during the night heard a man slide down beside the vault. He waited a minute and saw him set down a small satchel, from which he began to take his burglar's tools. He turned a dark lantern on the door of the vault and began his deviltry work at once. The watchboy, instead of running to call the guard, commanded the man to halt and started for him with only a club in his hand. He just succeeded in reaching the robber and dealing him one blow over the head when the fellow picked up his kit of tools and took to his heels. The boy followed him, but did not succeed in overtaking him before he got outside the lines."

A complete description of the burglar has been given the police here, and two Twin City detectives are working on the case.

WORK OF REBUILDING.

It Will Be Prepared for by Burning All the Debris.

NEW RICHMOND, Wis., June 16.—New Richmond will be rebuilt. This is the unanimous decision of Mayor Weeks. Preliminary plans have already been shaped by the temporary committee for their construction of new buildings with the aid which has been given by outside towns. Committees were appointed during the day to have the work in charge. A conference was held later and it was decided to burn all the debris as soon as it has been thoroughly renovated. It will be raked up in great piles and huge bonfires will be made, and the city will start anew.

Thursday was a banner day for the committee. Supplies kept pouring in from all directions. A carload of provisions was received from each of the following places: Eau Claire, Chippewa Falls, Hudson, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

AS A RELIEF COMMITTEE.

Governor Appoints Five Citizens to Look After New Richmond Matters.

MILWAUKEE, June 20.—Governor Scofield has issued a proclamation calling attention anew to the havoc wrought by the tornado at New Richmond. He also created a commission of five on the entire relief work. The commission consists of Lingle Wilson, Chippewa Falls, lumberman; O. W. Mosher, New Richmond, member assembly; A. E. Jefferson, Hudson, president First National Bank, Hudson; O. H. Ingram, Eau Claire, lumberman; Colonel W. J. Boyle, governor's staff, Milwaukee.

The Wisconsin Telephone company has subscribed $1,000 to the relief fund.

NORTH OF NEW RICHMOND.

Forty Families Rendered Homeless by the Storm—Three Killed.

MILWAUKEE, June 19.—A message from Surgeon C. F. King, who was sent by Governor Scofield to examine into the conditions in the track of the storm north of New Richmond, reports several killed and a large number injured.

Surgeon King's message is dated at Clayton, Polk county, Wis., and reads: "Thirty-four families, consisting of over 190 persons, in vicinity of Richland, son, and six families, consisting of 41 persons, in the vicinity of Clayton, need immediate relief. Fred Kornell, Samuel Olson and A. L. Rosaquist were killed, and Mrs. Samuel Olson, Ole Olsen and son, Mrs. Caroline Pabst, Butler Hurlbut and Gust P. Peterson were injured.

Nearly $40,000 Received.

HUDSON, Wis., June 20.—Subscriptions received by the First National bank for the cyclone sufferers amounted to between $38,000 and $40,000 at noon. Hudson women have made arrangements to care for 150 of the New Richmond people in this city.

Dreyfus Passes Cape Verde Islands.

PARIS, June 19.—A dispatch from the Cape Verde islands announces that the French second class cruiser Sfax, having Captain Dreyfus, has passed on her course for Brest, where she is expected before Saturday next. It is understood that Captain Dreyfus will be landed by night.

Workmen to Meet at Sioux Falls.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 20.—The supreme lodge Ancient Order of United Workmen spent the greater part of the day in executive session and transacted business of interest to the members of the order only. Just before adjournment it was decided to hold the next annual meeting of the supreme lodge at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Aidor Agricultural Colleges.

WASHINGTON, June 21. — Secretary Hitchcock has determined upon the apportionment of the fund appropriated by the last congress to aid in the support of the state agricultural colleges. Each state gets a like amount—$25,000. An increase of $1,000 over last year. Minnesota and other Northwestern states will benefit by the distribution to this extent.

TROOPS ARE READY

BRITISH FORCES PREPARED TO DEPART FOR KIMBERLY.

Natal Volunteers Officially Notified to Be in Readiness for Active Service. Dutchmen Also Drilling—South African Allies of the Boers Getting in Shape to Offer Assistance—Fifty Villages in Southern India Looted and Burned by Native Rioters.

CAPE TOWN, June 21.—The activity of the war office local authorities has been suspended in the matter of contracts for certain military requisites on the ground that the regiments are now ready to leave Cape Town for Kimberley on short notice. An engine driver on the Cape railway declared that he had seen men, armed and mounted, engaged in drilling at Houthkaal, not far from Kimberly. He was informed that they were Dutchmen preparing to assist the Boers in the event of hostilities.

LONDON, June 21.—The Capo Town correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: The Natal volunteers have been officially notified to hold themselves in readiness for active service.

The Daily Telegraph says that it understands, in the event of war with the Transvaal, General Sir Henry Bulwer will be the commander of the British forces in South Africa.

RIOTS IN SOUTHERN INDIA.

Police at Travancore Severely Beaten and Forced to Retire.

BOMBAY, June 21.—The riots in Southern India have spread to Travancore, where the police have been severely beaten and forced to retire. The rioters have seized a number of guns and a quantity of ammunition. They are cutting off the ears of their opponents, in order to obtain their earrings more expeditiously. About 400 houses have been burned at Sankeovadgari.

LONDON, June 21.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Simla says: Over 50 small villages have been looted and burned in the Timevelly district. At one town more than 100 murders were committed. The victims in many cases were literally hacked to pieces and then thrown into the flames of their burning homes.

OTHER POWERS OPPOSE IT

Germany Is Not Alone in Fighting Arbitration.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Private advices received here from a high authority are to the effect that the conference at The Hague probably will be redissolved, nominally for the purpose of an agreement on an arbitration project that will satisfy the apparently general demand on that point, but which at the same time, by carefully framed safeguards, will so narrow the field of matters that may or must go before the arbitration tribunal as to make it little more than arbitration in name. The attitude of Germany is said to be only a little in advance of that of some of the other powers after all in opposition to the plans submitted, and the disaffection is more general than appears on the surface. As for the other proposal that were especially desired by the Americans, such as protection of individual property from seizure at sea, they have all been irredeemably lost, according to this report.

THE MOTHER OF TRUSTS.

Mr. Havemeyer's Opinion of the Protective Tariff.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Mr. Henry O. Havemeyer, president of the American Sugar Refining company, was examined by the industrial commission in connection with its investigation of trusts. His testimony related almost solely to the sugar industry, and he opened with a vigorous attack on the customs tariff, which he declared was the "mother of all trusts," becoming such by providing "inordinate protection to manufactured articles." This attitude was made in a written statement which he read. Continuing his statement, he said that a tariff of 10 per cent was as high as any tariff should be. He contended that sugar is discriminated against in the tariff in the interest of Louisiana cane growers, the beet sugar growers and the cane growers of the Hawaiian islands. To these interests he contended the United States contributed $21,000,000 which was taken out of the pockets of the people.

Mr. Havemeyer's statement aroused great interest and the next three hours were devoted to answering questions asked him in rapid succession by members of the commission.

COLONIAL OFFICIALS DENY

They Say a Modus Vivendi Has Been Practically Completed.

LONDON, June 19.—The officials of the colonial office here were shown the dispatch from Washington saying that Canada had served notice on Great Britain that she must choose between the United States and her North American dominion in settlement of the Alaskan boundary dispute. They declared that the story is wrong, both in substance and fact and that it can be further affirmed that a modus vivendi was reached early last week, as cabled to the Associated Press at the time. The arrangement, which is a verbal one, deals with the question on broad lines. One or two minor details are still under discussion, and when they are settled a final arrangement will be drawn up. Generally speaking, it may be said that the boundary agreed upon follows the summits of the White and Chilkoot passes.

The Story Positively Contradicted.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 20.—The statement published in New York that the Dominion government has told Canada to choose between the United States and Canada in the Alaskan boundary negotiations is positively contradicted in government circles here.

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, June 15.

A preliminary agreement regarding the Alaskan boundary has been reached.

Hungary secured a victory in the Anglseich arrangement and in 1907 will become practically free.

Frederick P. Perkins, the well known archaeologist, artist and collector, is dead at Burlington, Wis.

Congressman Richard P. Bland of Missouri, for many years famous as an advocate of free coinage, is dead.

A sub-committee of the industrial commission will visit the Northwest and investigate agricultural matters.

Colorado smeltermen are on a strike. Three thousand are out and almost every Colorado industry is more or less affected.

President Havemeyer of the sugar trust testified before the industrial commission that in his opinion the protective tariff was the mother of all trusts.

Friday, June 16.

A clothing combine with $100,000,000 capital is forming.

The skeletons of five cave dwellers have been found in Montana.

The Great Northern, it is said, will control the Pacific Short Line.

The Venezuelan arbitration commission has begun its work in Paris.

Three regiments of regulars are being organized in the Philippines from volunteers.

The output of the Minnesota iron mines this year is estimated at three millions, the greatest yet.

Several people were killed and injured near Clear Lake, Wis., by the cyclone that ravaged New Richmond.

A third of the Filipino force in the vicinity of Bacoor was killed, wounded or captured by Lawton's men last week.

The Northern Pacific Railway company has announced a reduction of passenger rates to 2 cents a mile on all lines in Manitoba.

Saturday, June 17.

Two men were killed by a landslide in a mine at Florence, Wis.

President McKinley has left Washington for his New England trip.

At Port Clinton, O., Fred Shelx was killed by his wife during a family quarrel.

Lake and rail coal business is almost stagnant on account of high rates demanded by lake carriers.

The Whitefriars club of London dined Mark Twain Friday evening. Several hundred representatives of literary London were present.

Options have been secured on 150 large clothing manufacturing establishments throughout the country by Mr. Samuel Rosenthal of Baltimore. A gigantic clothing combine is proposed.

A disastrous explosion occurred at the Caledonia mines of the Dominion Coal company, about 30 miles east of North Sydney, C. B. It is reported that 10 men were killed and a number injured.

Monday, June 19.

Imp won the Suburban handicap at Sheepshead Bay.

The transport Sherman, with General Fred Grant and 1,800 men, has arrived at Manila.

It is believed the Northern Pacific will sell all its branches in Manitoba to the Canadian Pacific.

The steel barge John Smeaton, the largest cargo carrier on the great lakes, has been launched at West Superior.

A returned officer from the Philippines declares General Otis is incompetent and is prolonging the war for his own ends.

Ira J. Holmes, nephew of Burton C. Holmes, the lecturer, was drowned in Lake Michigan, at Chicago, by the capsizing of a skiff.

Cash contributions to the New Richmond cyclone fund amounted to over $30,000. Of this amount St. Paul has donated about $18,000.

The Colorado Athletic association has offered a purse of $30,000 for a 25-round contest between Bob Fitzsimmons and "Kid" McCoy. The fight is to be for the middleweight championship.

Tuesday, June 20.

The Fairmount Park Transportation company in Philadelphia was robbed by masked men of $40,000.

Russia desires to have American ordnance manufacturers establish plants within the czar's domain.

Charles E. Littlefield, Republican, has been elected to congress from Maine to succeed the late Nelson Dingley.

Norman Williams, a prominent lawyer of Chicago, is dead at Hampton, N. H. Mrs. Merritt, wife of General Wesley Merritt, is his daughter.

Major General Nelson A. Miles has accepted the invitation of the combined labor organizations of Western Pennsylvania to address them on Friday night of next week at the Grand Opera House, Pittsburg.

The government, if it decides to raise more troops, will not call out state troops, but get the required number of men by recruiting for the regular army, as Otis still insists that 30,000 men are enough.

Wednesday, June 21.

Two suspected Union Pacific train robbers have been arrested near Dillon, Mon.

It is expected that the time between the Twin Cities and Chicago will be shortened to 10 hours this fall.

The total receipts from all sources at the ports of Manila and Iloilo during the first four months of 1899 were $1,-416,026.

The 58th annual session of the American Institute of Homeopathy is being held at Atlantic City, N. J. Over 1,400 delegates are in attendance.

The Cambria Steel company of Johnstown, Pa., has posted notices of a general advance of wages of 10 per cent. About 8,500 men are affected.

Deere Vehicles are All Right!

We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to unload.

They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen.

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., LARSEN & CARPENTER

Fosston or Mcintosh. Crookston.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes lies right past your door, delivering twice each day. Call on our driver, or through telephone No. 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riverside at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. EDGLINE, President. W. M. ANGLIN, Vice-President
J. W. WHEELER, Cashier. H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier.

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits.
Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

George B. Erskine, J. A. Miller, Wm. Anglin, J. R. Robinson, F. M. Walsh, L. Fosmire, J. P. Foote, W. R. Crosby, J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers.

SCANDIA-AMERICAN BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON.....President. H. STENERSON.....Vice-President.
N. S. GERVAIS.....2d Vice-President. L. ELLINGTON.....Cashier.
A. P. HANSON, Asst. Cashier.

Farmers, Attention!

I have the Champion Draw Cut Mower (something new) also the ever ready Jones Mower. Thomas and Plano Rakes, Disc and Acme Harrows, Newton and Stoughton Wagons.

CALL AND SEE THEM.....

S. L. COLLINS

PRINTING Of Every Description done at this Office. City Styles at Lowest Prices.

Polk County Journal.

Historical Society

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY JUNE 29, 1899 NO 12

DIVERSIFIED FARMING

Stock Raising, Dairying and Wheat Growing Should be Combined.

WILL BE MORE PROFITABLE

Highest Grades of Stock Should be Kept—Farm Journals Subscribed For.

Recent developments have conclusively proven that "wheat" is far from being the only cereal that can be successfully grown on the broadly prairies of the "Red River Valley." Experiment has demonstrated beyond controversy that our fertile soil and genial climate are well adapted to the growth of a wide range of cereals, plants and grasses, and the abundant production of any vegetables commonly grown in our northern latitudes. Situated midway of the continent, within easy access of the great railways and warterway systems of the world, with general condition of country, soil and climate most favorable for production, our natural advantages for agriculture and commerce are unparalleled. There is every encouragement to the earnest agriculturist and inducement to persevere, and here if any where it is possible to attain the highest success in his chosen calling. But while it is true that the farmers of this favored region are as a class thrifty and prosperous, the possessors of broad acres and good homes, yet it is also true that here and there are notable exceptions to the general rule, for it is a well known fact that in agriculture as in other business money and labor are often thrown away by injudicious experiment or expenditure, lack of method and bad management, eventually resulting in failure and discouragement. Now much of this might have been avoided, if we as farmers gave more time and thought to our work, used more discrimination as to farm methods, proper attention to adaptation and diversification of crops, preparation of soil, selection of seeds, etc. In short made a careful study of our local surroundings with a view of turning everything to best advantage. Now in my opinion many make a failure of farming because of their persistent adherence to the one crop system, relying upon wheat as their only source of profit, and when that fails everything has gone. While it will always be true that here in the "Red River Valley" wheat will be the main crop because of cheaper production, it is none the less true that it should not be the only product or occupation to receive the attention of the thoughtful farmer.

CHARLES N'KISSICK.

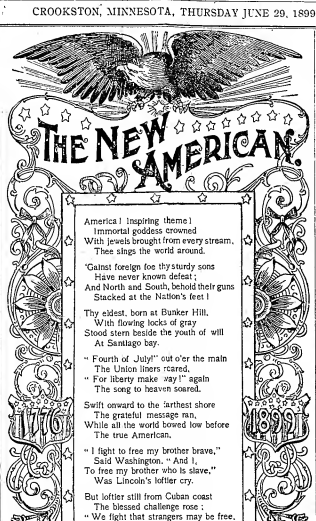
It has been the history of farming from the Atlantic States westward that the "one crop plan wheat" was pursued until it failed. Farmers were then compelled to diversify, and give their attention to something besides the more raising of wheat, that they might have other sources of profit in ease that failed. Not until this point was reached was success assured, and rapid advancement made toward a higher rank in agriculture, stock raising and dairying. The Eastern and Middle States have had their experience along the one road, as we and have found that from year to year diversification givesgreater assurance of success than the old time way. It remains for us to profit by their example and create new industries instead of putting our sole dependence upon wheat, as our only source of revenue. There is no reason why the farmer of the "Red River Valley" can not profitably carry on "stock raising" and "dairying" in connection with the raising of crops. It is being successfully done in other states and why can it not be here, where the climate is most favorable and our soil produces an abundance of rich nutritious food for the feeding of stock? Certainly every farmer can raise a few horses, cows, pigs, sheep and poultry and these are all helps to bring in the dollars. Begin in a small way, and raise some good calves, colts and sheep each year, being careful to improve your stock by breeding up, for the best is none too good and it costs no more to keep good stock than it does the scrubs, and good stock will always command fair prices. Our winters here can be very profitably given to the care of stock and there should be something to claim the attention of the farmer the year around. One of the evils of the one crop systems that it furnishes employment to the laboring class for only six months in the year, with little or nothing to do the other six months. This is not well, as it tends to habits of idleness, drives men from the country, and when they go they take with them thousands of dollars, which is spent in the eastern cities leaving this country the poorer. Now if stock raising, dairying and other industries were envied on in connection with wheat growing the laboring class would be given employment the year around, habits of industry encouraged and a better class of laborers drawn to the "Redfiver Valley," many of whom would eventually settle here, build up the country and become good and law abiding citizens.

The outlook for stock raising here is better now than it has been in years past because farmers are beginning to know the difference between an inferior and superior animal, and prices are constantly improving. None but the best dams and sires should be used, and thus the quality and individuality of the stock would be raised. The farmer should raise a class of horses he can make a profit on the same as upon sheep and cattle. The higher and better grades will bring much better prices than the scrubs. There is always good money in the best. A good fair draft horse today brings a good price, while it is almost impossible to give away a scrub at any price. I consider the draft the most profitable horse for the farmer of the northwest to raise, for the reason that you can sometimes sell a draft horse to as good or better advantage unbroken as broken, and if any blemishes develop or accidents befall him he can still work on the farm. Right here, let me impress upon your minds that the best of care and feed is needful to keep your horse or any stock in good condition. There is an old saying "There are two pints of oats in the curry comb and four in the brush." Bear in mind that a merciful man is merciful to his beast. What has been said of horses applies to all classes of stock, that the best are none too-good and should have the best of care. Every farmer should keep a few cows, that he may supply his own table with the best of butter, have some for market and provide a source of revenues to meet the necessary expense of living, during the season, until he gets return from his crop. None but the best appliances should be used in the making of butter, thatit may be of the best quality and secure the highest market price, and also render its manufacture as easy as possible for those who make it and thus lessen the work of the house. This country is well adapted to the raising of stock and crops of all kinds, as the climate is favorable and the soil produces an abundance of good feed. Another profitable industry, we must not forget, is that of sheep raising, and many within the past few years have engaged in this occupation. With careful, judicious management and good accommodations, this kind of stock can in my opinion be made to pay as wool and mutton now command fair prices. In order to settle the question of profit and loss on any one kind of crops or stock, a careful estimate should be kept of the farm expenditures, cost of raising crop, stock, etc., that the farmer may know exactly the gains and losses for the year, whether his showing is good or bad, so that in the future he may avoid the losses and increase the gains. If now and then a year comes, as usual it will there will, we must not be discouraged. One or two seasons does not settle the question of profit and loss in any one crop or any one kind of stock. With some good crops, and stock suited for the soil there will always be something to sell at a fair price and no such thing as failure. The progressive farmer is the one who keeps well abreast of the times hy a liberal subscription to the best stock and farm journals, attends the institutes, exchanges his views with his neighbors, getting the benefit of others' experience. In short feeds his mind as well as his body and puts his knowledge into practice. He should give his sons and daughters a liberal education in order to fit them for any occupation or position they may be called upon to occupy. Our agricultural colleges and other institutes of learning afford every facility to do this and one thing more, let us make our homes attractive and pleasant and use every possible inducement to keep our sons and daughters on the farms, training the boys to become practical, scientific, commonsense farmers and noble citizens wisely promoting and directing the agricultural interests of the state, and the girls to acquire a love of home and a knowledge of house-wifely arts, that shall fit them to grace any station in life and become in the best and truest sense the home makers of this nation.

In conclusion let me say the time has come when the man who has taken to farming with the idea that any man can farm will find that he has mistaken his calling. The time for that is past. Farming is truly a science, and to be a successful farmer requires as much or more general intelligence as any other business or profession. Intelligent farming is the great need of the day. Realizing this our department of agricultural is now conducting a study of plant and animal life in this country. Experts are thoroughly investigating every section as to the soil and adaptation of crops to each particular locality, with a view to publishing this knowledge in book form and so placing a work of the greatest value in the hands of every farmer. The result of this investigation will furnish correct data by which we may be guided as to what new industries we may safely engage in and what crops and stock will insure us the most profit, and our fertile fields may then be cultivated with more skill and diligence than have heretofore been employed, and with far better success. When intelligent thought and judicious painstaking effort shall be brought to bear upon our work, we shall secure greater efficiency and thoroughness in our farm methods and a furthering of the best interests of all engaged in the noble calling of agriculture.

[This paper was read at the Farmers' Institute in Crookston last week by Charles McKissick. of Hayville, N. D.—Ed.]



America! Inspiring theme!
Immortal goddess crowned
With jewels brought from every stream,
Thee sings the world around.

'Gainst foreign foe thy sturdy sons
Have never known defeat;
And North and South, behold their guns
Stacked at the Nation's feet!

Thy eldest, born at Bunker Hill,
With flowing locks of gray
Stood stern beside the youth of will
At Santiago bay.

"Fourth of July!" out o'er the main
The Union liners roared,
"For liberty now and again"
The song to heaven soared.

Swift onward to the farthest shore
The grateful message ran,
While all the world bowed low before
The true American.

"I fight to free my brother brave,"
Said Washington. "And I,
To free my brother who is slave,"
Was Lincoln's loftier cry.

But loftier still from Cuban coast
The blessed challenge rose;
"We fight that strangers may be free,
All tyrants are our foes!"

And onward still to every clime,
Where'er a river runs
That oars may sweep in martial time,
Shall go our men and guns,

While over them shall break and float
The banner of the free,
Till all the sons of earth shall vote
It full supremacy.

Then shall the heaven-born symbol hold
No hint of tear or sigh,
But only God's great promise told
To man from Sinai.

CHARLES EUGENE BANKS.

SHOOTING TOURNAMENT

Fifty Sportsmen to be Here June 30 and July 1.

What promises to be the biggest shooting tournament ever held in Crookston or vicinity begins tomorrow and is scheduled to last two days. The local gun club of which C. C. Hoch is president, W. L. Yannet, vice-president, Will Bloom, secretary, A. E. Fuller, treasurer and Tom Morris, field captain, have made big preparations for the coming shoot. A large club house 20x24 has been built on the hill and in this the trap and other equipment will be kept.

Squads from Superior and Eau Claire, Wis., Grafton, Fargo and Grand Forks, N. D., Winnipeg, Manitoba, Fergus Falls, St. Cloud, Hallock and other places will be in attendance, and in addition the following crack shots have promised to be here: George Trent, of Wadena, O. E. Robins, of Fargo, Wm. Taber, of Grand Rapids, Dr. and Mrs Dale, of Duluth, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs J. Shattuck, of Minneapolis. Of Mrs. Shattuck, the Minneapolis Journal says that "she is the superior of any woman in the United States at trap-shooting.

There will be at least sixteen events and more than $1,000 is offered as prizes.

Mid-Summer Carnival.

Grand Forks will hold a Mid-Summer Carnival on July 18 to 20. The State Press Association will meet in that city at the same time and the State Convention of the Foresters will also be held there then. Fargo has selected the same day's for Northwestern Live Stock Growers' Convention. Grand Forkers assisted at the Fargo Fire Festival and they are now complaining at what they consider as an ungrateful act on the part of Fargo.

FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT.

Large, Enthusiastic Crowds,-Spirited Contests.

The fifth annual tournament of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Association was held at East Grand Forks three days of last week. Rainon Wednesday prevented the regular program from being carried out save only the business meeting of the association, at which it was decided that the next tournament would be held at Fosston, and the following officers were elected: President, Geo. Dunlevy of Fosston. vice-president, Wm. McGuire of Bemidji, and secretary, W. E Black, of Fosston. The weather on Thursday and Friday was most favorable, and all the races were hotly contested. Teams were present from Crookston, Fosston, Bemidji and Hallock and East Grand Forks furnished the fifth aggregation.

Hallock won the association hose race and with it the association burner, Crookston gaining second place. In the hook and ladder service test, Fosston was first, Hallock second, and Crookston third. In coupling contest Leen of East Grand Forks was first, Audersou of Hallock second and Fred Harris, of Crookston third. The combination hook and ladder race was captured by Bemidji, with Hallock second and Crookston third. In ladder climbing contest there was no decision given by the judges.

Thursday evening a grand ball was given to the visiting firemen by the local company.

On Friday, the closing day. the hub and hub race was won by Hallock with Crookston a close second. The free for all hose race was the big event of the day. East Grand Forks captured the first money, Bemidji, second, Fosston third. The judges awarded the parade prize for the best appearing company to Crookston, Hallock second. Fosston got first for the largest number of men in line, Bemidji second. The Argyle band won $225.00, the East Grand Forks and Crookston teams got $120 each in prizes and Hallock took home with them the association banner and $100. Archie McKinnon of Crookston, Ed Sullivan and P. W. Hennessy were the judges.

The tournament was a great success. All Crookstonites who were present, and there was a large number, speak in words of high praise of the treatment accorded them.

The Fosston, Bemidji, Hallock and Crookston teams together with the Argyle band and many visitors who had attended the tournament arrived in this city Saturday morning. The two teams first named passed through to their homes, while Hallock and the Argyle band spent an hour here before going north. Speeches were made by Archie McKinnon. who captained the Crookston team and by Mr. Audersen of Hallock, and the visiting band played.

CASS LAKE MUST GO

Government Orders all White Settlers off the Reservation.

Capt. Mercer, one of the Indian officials at Walker, has received peremptory orders to remove all white persons off the Chippewa Indian reservation within thirty days. This means the obliteration of the thriving village of Cass Lake, the division headquarters of the Great Northern railway on its Fosston extension. The railway property is not included in this order, for President Hill holds his right of way through the reservation by an act of congress.

United States officials at Duluth said last Saturday that the government orders anent white men having to leave the reservation would be strictly enforced.

THE STREET FAIR.

Meeting at City Hall Friday Night—Last Everybody Turn Out.

Pursuant to the call of the Mayor a meeting was held at the city hall last night to discuss the question of the coming street fair. The meeting, however, was adjourned to tomorrow evening, as it was thought that the business men ought to be better represented than they were there, before any definite action was taken. Let the citizens turn out and hold a rousing meeting and give this project a good start.

Dr. Carlson Chosen.

Dr. J. S. Carlson, who for years was professor of history and philosophy in the Gustavus Adolphus College at St. Peter has been selected by a committee of the Board of Regents to succeed Prof. Breda as professor of Scandinavian languages and literature at the Minnesota state University.

OUT-CZARS CZAR REED

Pres. O'Brien Votes Twice on Same Motion to Secure Its Passage.

FIRST STEPS TOWARD PAVING

Bills Allowed—Liquor Licenses Granted—Intake Pipe Will be Completed.

An adjourned meeting of the city council was held at the city hall June 23, 1899. The meeting was called to order by President O'Brien. Aldermen Anderson. Thompson. Davis, Childs, O'Brien, McKinnon. Chesterman and Harris were present.

The reports of committees were taken up first.

Alderman McKinnon from the finance committee reported the bill of L. J. Mourgue for $6.25 for cash paid out while he was city attorney last year, and the same was on motion allowed and ordered paid.

The sewer committee to whom was referred the petition of Burkhardt and others for the construction of a combination hook and ladder race on Main street, original townsite, recommended that the petition be granted, and the council ordered that the sewer be built as soon as the required amount of money for the work is paid in through assessment of adjacent property.

The committee on street and bridges to whom was referred the petition of residents on Ross and McDonald additions for the opening up of Manitoba street across the N. P. tracks recommended that the petition be denied and this part of the report was accepted. It was further recommended that the city take steps to acquire the title of a certain triangular piece of land belonging to the railway company at that point, when in the opinion of the committee the city would be in a position to make the proper crossings over the N. P. tracks. The matter was referred back to the committee with instructions to learn the probable cost of securing this piece of property and to have city engineer make a plat of the same and report at the next meeting.

The street and bridge committee further recommended favorably upon the petition of residents of Fifth ward for grading of Second avenue south, between Main and School street, and the work was ordered to be done as soon as the required amount of money to be assessed for such grading is paid in.

The same committee read a list of the sidewalks needing to be relaid, but no action was taken by council.

A bill of A. J. Harris for $18 was on motion referred to the city comptroller to ascertain if same had ever been paid, same being for earth filled on Third street and allowed on Jan. 21, 1897.

The petition of Chas. Wood for abatement of tax was on motion referred to the finance committee.

Mayor Stephens sent in the nomination of Frank Steinbrook as patrolman for the Fifth ward, and recommended that in addition to his regular duties as patrolman, he be required to take care of the fire apparatus in that ward. The nomination was confirmed, and the council further ordered that said patrolman strictly enforce the laws against the tethering of cattle on the street. Steinbrook will enter upon his duties Aug. 1.

The city attorney to whom was referred the proposed ordinance regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors gave it as his opinion that the council had the right to pass such an ordinance also that the city council had the right and power to reject any application for liquor license which they saw fit to reject.

The ordinance relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors and the amendment to it, which was up at the last meeting, being before the council. Alderman Childs moved the adoption the amendment and Alderman Anderson seconded the motion.

Ald. Davis moved an amendment to the amendment. seconded by Ald. Thompson that the whole ordinance be stricken out. The vote on the amendment to the amendment stood as follows:

Ayes: Davis, Thompson. McKinnon.

Nays: Anderson, Chesterman, Harris and Childs. President O'Brien, claiming the right to vote as alderman, voted aye, and the vote then stood four ayes and four nays. The tie vote then came up before Mr. O'Brien in his capacity as president and he voted aye again and declared

(Continued on Fifth Page.)

AROUND THE COUNTRY

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

LOCKHART.

Mrs. Clark was visiting her sisters of this place.

Mrs. Carlyle of Crookston is the guest of Mrs. H. Leger.

Mr. Lee, Gimalt is building a fine big barn and granary.

Will Boss had one of his best yearling colts killed by lightning.

Mrs. McPhee and Miss Lucy were visiting friends in Crookston.

Mrs. Harry Legere was in Crookston visiting friends and relatives.

Crops and mosquitoes are thriving quite well under the circumstances.

The I. O. O. F. of Lockhart have decided to have a picnic the 12th of July.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Legere were in Ada on business the first part of the week.

Strawberries are getting ripe and there are prospects of a large crop if nothing destroys them.

ADA.

[Last Week.]

Since the last rain the mosquitoes have been thicker than ever before.

The new barbershop in connection with the hotel is ever run with business.

The dance Friday night was not as large a success as should have been.

A female bear and two cubs passed through some of the citizen's yards the other morning.

The second part of the big log drive which will run the mill all summer is expected every day.

The New Hotel Ada is crowded for rooms and will probably have to be made larger the coming season.

Grand Fourth of July celebration here—two of the "excellest" bands in the State of Minnesota take part.

Pinske was arrested on account of assault and battery and was fined $10 and costs which amounted to $56.10

Myrun, Johnson, Matthews, Emerson and a few other of Ada's leading citizens took a fishing trip to Bemidji this week.

C. H. Hunnason of the firm of Hunnason Fulton, Julius Plath, John Grove and wife made a business trip to Mar-hall County the last part of the week.

MENTOR.

The G. N. have built a new cattle yard and chute here.

F. E. Le Page drove over to Red Lake Falls Tuesday.

F. L. and Jay Durand of Crookston stayed over Sunday on the lake.

J. L. Sletten received a carload of Deering machinery and twine Monday.

F. Whiting and wife are going away for a visit to Clitherall next week.

Frank Gravell came down to the lake Friday and stayed over until Monday.

John McCarty, of the Minneapolis Plow Works, was in town Tuesday selling plows.

August Haugen of Woodside has sold 100 acres of his land for $1500 to an Iowa man.

H. Elliott is building a new house on his lands. He will move into it in about a week.

A. L. Nelson will put in a complete stock of candies, fruit and cigars in his restaurant in the near future.

The Mentor-Maple Bay Telephone line will be completed in a couple of weeks and it will soon be in order to say, hello.

John Cameron of Fisher has been hooking this country over for land. He has bought half a section in town of Woodside.

Joseph Tagley and others of Mentor were down to the lake Sunday fishing. They all report lots of fish and mosquitoes.

The Northwestern Exchange Telephone Co.'s men are now at Tilden and will be here in a few days. An air-tight heath will be put in Tagley's store.

The St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator Co.'s engine house is now completed and the engine is in running order. J. H. Fulton went here to say, "Get there, Barney," any more.

J. O. Sather of Hallock, who is going in partnership with Joseph Tagley, will be here tomorrow. The new firm will remodel the old store and also build a large addition for hardware and clothing.

The Felsing Gustavson Co. of Maple Bay have built a small steam boat for the convenience of the people there, to freight goods from Mentor down to Maple Bay, and also for for their own use, as they take a lot of freight by rail to Mentor.

HALSTAD.

Miss Mary Nordby took the train for Fosston Friday to visit with relatives.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hendin Saturday morning a ten pound boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Runum went to attend the funeral of their niece, Christine Knutson.

A. H. Hulland was in town yesterday in a new attire, having taken off part of his whiskers.

FOSSTON.

The wooden mill is running full time.

M. Morsbol is giving Erick Fleck's house a printing coat of paint.

C. Bolinhauser will soon leave for Crookston where he has relatives.

C. Lawrence made a trip to Bagley Monday, returning Wednesday.

Hans Potter, fifteen miles northeast of town, is building a barn 30x50.

J. H. Williams went to Bagley today to overlook some standing timber.

C. Thrundsom, living in the north part of town, has added an addition to his cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Borch and children of McIntosh are visiting at Dr. Tufte's for a short time.

Richard Leet made a pleasure trip to Remidji the first of the week, returning Monday.

O. Hosthesse, living on Harrison street, is building a good-sized residence on his premises.

D. H. Fish and W. E. Black will move into the rooms now occupied by the postoffice, July 1.

P. L. Jestness is building a new house in the east part of Fosston. Size, 20x28, 16 foot posts.

J. M. Anderson has almost completed his new residence in Fosston. Size, 14x24, 14 foot posts.

H. C. Olson and family went to Crookston last Friday to visit relatives. He will return this week.

E. A. Engbretson made a trip to Crookston last Sunday. He went to St. Cloud and the Twin Cities.

R. E. Bakke bought a farm of 160 acres of M. L. Rykruger, in the west of Rose Bud last Saturday.

S. S. Stodsvold informs us that the grist mill is doing a good business, constantly shipping wheat and flour.

O. B. Vanier and wife returned Saturday from Houston county, where he attended a general church meeting.

The Fosston baseball team went to Fertile Monday to play a game of ball. Score, 13 to 26, in favor of Fertile.

John Olson and family were over to Langley Sunday visiting friends and relatives. They had a pleasant visit.

Martin Flom and family from Euclid are visited Iver Steene and family the first of the week, returning Tuesday.

Adelsten Berge of Minneapolis arrived in town Tuesday morning to remain the guest for a few days of Rev. O. L. Berglund.

S. M. Sorenson returned last Sunday from Hillsboro, N. D., where he witnessed a trial of the wind stacker with it he has an interest in.

Mrs. Molstad and young son of Crookston, who have been at Bemidji for a few days' bidding, are visiting Dr. Tufte's for a short time.

Johnson & Rickansrud, who are in the furniture, hardware and farm machinery business, have a large stock and report an increasing business.

Sweet Secretsom of Halstad was in town this (Tuesday) morning, looking after land matters. He returned without making an investment.

Rev. Kringle, who built a nice, large house last fall, is having the finishing touches put on the same. It is being plastered, and new sinks, etc., are being put in.

S. S. Stodsvold is adding an addition to his residence at corner of front street and Harrison avenue. He is also raising his house so as to have water works, bath room, etc.

J. A. Hendricks, who had three law cases in hand at the district court in Crookston last week, returned home Friday. He will make another trip to the county seat Thursday of this week.

Mrs. O. J. Kolseth leaves for Lake Minnetonka Thursday to spend a month or more with her sister, who has a cottage at the lake. She will also visit the Twin Cities while away.

Gus Nordlin, M. Swanson, their families and William Cameron (15 in all) returned Saturday from a two weeks' fishing trip at Long Lake, north of Bemidji. They had good luck and had a most pleasant time.

Fosston will celebrate in grand style. Fine works, races, good music, speaking, etc., will help to make the eagle scream, as well as the small boys with their firecrackers. Let everybody turn out and have a good time.

Peter Qualin, living twelve miles north of town, cut his foot very badly with an ax last week while chopping a log. He nearly bled to death before medical assistance could be procured. He is now stopping in town for a few days.

John Lohn, our genial postmaster, will move into his elegant new quarters July 1. We are sure the citizens of Fosston will appreciate the commodious and tasty apartments. The furniture and fixtures cost $500 and will make a fine showing and a model office.

R. E. Bakke, who has purchased two lots of J. A. Hendricks recently adjoining the latter's beautiful home on the east, has been hauling sand preparatory to laying the foundation to his new house, the dimensions of which will be 22x30, with kitchen 14x16, 18 foot posts.

About twenty-six members of the fire department from here attended the tournament at East Grand Forks. According to the number of races entered the Fosston boys carried off as many prizes as any of the teams competing in the races. At the business meeting Fosston secured the tournament for 1900.

The Congregational church is being remodeled and otherwise improved, both inside and out. The building when completed will be 46x30. It will seat nearly 400 people. There will be two separate rooms, divided by hanging doors, so they may be made into one auditorium when needed. O. T. Beverford is boss carpenter.

SHELLY.

Oliver Johnson drove to Halstad Friday.

Julius Hawkins of Halstad was in town last week.

Einar Berg of Hillsboro was seen in our town last week.

A large number of Caledonians were in Halstad on Woodmen's day.

Joe Anderson entertained a number of Hillsboro acquaintances last Sunday.

Messrs. Joe and Oliver Johnson and Dr. Cleveland spent Sunday in Caledonia.

Ed. Ian again commenced going to Halstad, apparently the road is smooth now.

Noyes Brothers and Cutler's representative, Dan G. Scoby, was in town last Tuesday.

Shelly and Nelsville were well represented at the log rolling picnic in Halstad on the 22nd.

Druggist Floberg from Hillsboro came over last Friday and took Monday's train for Crookston.

Shelly's base ball team must be where Moses was when the light went out, because it hasn't showed up yet.

L. D. Marshal, superintendent of the St. Anthony and Dakota Elevator Co., called on Agent Neyers last Tuesday.

A. A. Anderson boarded the train for Crookston Monday, returning the day after.

The milliners here are doing a rushing business. The Fourth is coming and all the girls are going to show their colors.

Arestad Bros. received a fine line of Champion mowers this week and it looks as though they expect to do a big business in that line.

Misses Sina Hawkins and Christine Qunnme, on their way to Climax from Halstad, stopped here a while to look up some acquaintances, last week.

Theodore Neyers could not go to Halstad on the 23d before evening because when was on the move. That's right, Ted. Business before pleasure.

Miss Inga Wilson, Mrs. J. Wilson and her mother drove over to Hillsboro early Saturday morning and took the train for their home in Otter Tail county.

Miss Hawkins of Halstad and Miss Pauline Gilbert of Fisher were in town visiting friends during last week, Miss Gilbert returning to Fisher Monday.

L. E. Olson and E. J. Pudsrud rode their bikes down to Halstad Sunday and helped the Halstad boys to beat the Hendrum boys at a game of ball. Talk about Ike's arm if you will, but whatever you may say, his arm is all right. A little too much for the Hendrumites. L. E. Olson umpired the game and did it quite well. With a little practice he would make an umpire that the league players would not be ashamed of.

DUGDALE.

Wm. Abbot was in town on business yesterday.

W. C Hartin has gone to his claim near Black Duck in Beltrami county.

The crops around here are looking splendid. Rain falls almost every day.

Andrew Alphnp has his new house partly finished. It is going to be one of the finest residences in this neighborhood.

Chas. Oehler is enlarging his residence as it is too small for his present needs. John McLaughlin and Herman Cnup put in a large cistern for him last week.

Herman Cnup and Mr. McCrae were down to Maple Bay recently on business, and while there inspected the blower factory which is doing an extensive manufacturing business.

Wolves are getting quite thick here and John Ricke has been called upon to turn out with his hound and run the beasts down. A few nights ago Joe Case had one of his young cattle killed by one of these ravenous animals.

—WANTED—By the editor of the JOURNAL, a load of hay and a load of oats. These will be received on subscription.

GRAND FORKS.

Grand Forks is in its building boom.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stearns, a boy.

The last of the flats have been removed for the new N. P. depot.

Congressman Spaulding of Fargo was in the city Monday evening.

Bids are open for the furnishing of a steam heating plant for the State University.

Miss Mattie Ellingston left Saturday for an extended visit with friends in Tacoma.

Lem Brent will not confirm the rumor that he will soon buckle up. "That's bad."

Mrs. H. B. Fluch and son of Crookston are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Milne.

Ten inch water mains are being put in on South 4th street by Contractor Carroll.

Miss Lizzie Levi of this city gave an entertainment in Manvel Monday. A dance followed.

Robert Bosard and bride returned Sunday from their trip to Duluth and the Twin Cities.

The Sunday school picnic of the St. Pauls church had to be postponed Tuesday on account of rain.

Jo Foubert, one of the "old boys," came in from Devils Lake last week and shook hands with friends.

Elbert Addison and James Elton, Jr., have made application to Bishop Edsall to study for the ministry.

Men are at work fixing the water mains in front of the N. P. freight depot and Peterson's tailor shop.

Dr. Oppenhimer's Medical Co. is in the city and is giving entertainments at the corner of the Security building.

Lou Freeman, one of the old member men of Grand Forks, came down from Fargo and greeted old time friends last week.

Quite a number of Grand Forks people attended the picnic given by the ladies' society of the Presbyterian church at Mallory last Friday. The first bicycle parade of the season was given last Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. About 125 participated in the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Lyeon were over from Crookston Monday evening and were the guests of Frank Lyeon. While here Will took a creek at the traps.

Frank Fisk came down from Lucmore Wednesday morning and said "how" to friends. Frank is now studying law under Judge Wilcox. Success.

The people of Argyle should well be proud of their band. Before supper last Friday they came over and serenaded Grand Forks, which was greatly appreciated.

An excursion under the auspices of the O. R. C. will leave here Sunday, July 2, returning the same evening. Music will be furnished by the East Grand Forks band.

The Grand Forks fire department rode the horses of bending the same Thursday morning. East Grand Forks protected the rear with the fire engine and hook and ladder.

Frye Ayre, formerly clerk of the Commercial Hotel, has apparently recovered from the attack of sciatic disease and unexpectedly resumed his position behind the counter.

The funeral of Mrs. Roberts, who died last Saturday, took place at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Tarpen, occurred Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. T. Gesner conducted the services.

Miss Jane Stewart of Cando died in this city Sunday morning at the age of 53. The remains were prepared and shipped to Cando the same evening for interment. She leaves two brothers and a sister to mourn her loss.

Sunday was a beautiful day and found the roads between here and Uncle Sam's park crowded with bicycles and carriages. The lake was full of bathers and those who didn't care for the water enjoyed a most plenty of sport on the picnic grounds.

Papers for divorce proceedings have been filed with the clerk of the court in behalf of Mrs. Louise C. Berg vs. Karl H. Berg; Jennie Moss vs. Lincoln Moss; Phillip A. Glover vs. Ida M. Glover; Wm. Thomas vs. Mary Thomas.

The young people of St. Paul's church were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gale at their beautiful home in East Grand Forks last Wednesday evening. Music and games were among the pleasures of the evening. Refreshments were served at 10:30.

Most of the Elks are home from St. Louis. It is not known when Exalted Ruler Hall will be able to come back, as his condition is critical. Frank Kent is staying in St. Louis looking after Mr. Hall's health. They captured $600 in prizes while there, which goes to show that we are still in it, even if we have to go a long ways to get there.

Maj. J. A. Watrous of Milwaukee passed through this city last Wednesday enroute to Portland, Oregon, where he goes to take up his duties as pay-master-in-chief of the United States army, District of Columbia. Maj. Watrous is a relative of Mrs. Lindl of this city, who accompanies him a short distance on his western trip.

The death of Mrs. O. S. Rifke occurred Friday morning at 6:30. She was aged 26 years. The funeral took place Saturday afternoon from the St. Michael's church, Rev. Father Conroy assisting. The remains were then taken to St. Cloud for interment. Mr. Rifke has the sympathy of the public in his bereavement.

The Lutheran ball team must have been in a trance when they agreed to play Grand Forks or they didn't know any better. As a result they went home last Friday carrying to their friends that little tale of woe. "We got a goose egg every inning." The score was 14 to 0. Craig and Hanrahan were batteries for the home team and Walker and Chamberlain for Larimore.

The parade which was to have been given Wednesday morning by the firemen had to be postponed on account of rain, but Thursday morning saw them out in full. They started from the East Side city hall and marched down DeMers avenue. As they came across the bridge with the Argyle band doing justice to Matthews' famous march the Grand Forks people think what show would they stand with them?

CLIMAX.

Hot weather!

Base ball "dampness" fell Tuesday. We anticipate a glorious Fourth.

S. A. Lochen went to Fargo on Sunday.

S. S. Moen of Shelly was in town Monday.

Dr. Frye was doing business at Crookston Monday.

N. Rollstad of Crookston is selling pianos around here.

L. D. Marshall spent Tuesday and Wednesday with us.

J. S. Skinners, the candy man of St. Paul, made this place yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stenerson are spending a few days at Valley City, N. D.

P. F. Murphy was decorating barns this week with dingling Brosbills.

Evenson Brothers will be located in their new quarters at Hotel Climax on July 1.

Dan G. Scoby, traveling salesmen for Noyes Bros. and Cutler was in town Tuesday.

Quite a number from Climax attended the dance at Ole Dahle's on Saturday evening.

H. L. Trimble of Hillsboro was looking after the interests of the Valley Lumber Co. Tuesday.

J. A. Fossum and Gilbert Kittelson went to Halstad to attend the Woodmen log-rolling association.

Miss Nellie Hopkins had a very successful entertainment at the close of the term of school on Friday evening.

The train service on this line is excellent (?). One stranger whose time was too precious to wait a couple of days for the train, walked out of town.

EUCLID.

Mrs. Will Meuringhausen left last night for her home in Iowa.

Mrs. H. C. Mosserand son, Harvey, left Tuesday evening for a four weeks trip through Iowa.

The Misses Carpenter who have been visiting Miss Ruth Hancock for the past two weeks have returned to Crookston.

Take Northern Pacific-Shasta.

Route to the Coast and N. P. A. rates are very low and the finest scenery in the west is thrown in. Inquire of any Northern Pacific ticket agent for the various rates and information in general.

Going Out of Business

The Fair Store

Will offer their entire Stock at cost, consisting of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Working and Dress Shirts, Pants and Overalls, Trunks and Valises, Ladies' Underwear, Corsets, Hosiery, Laces and Ribboas, Etc. Silverware, Pictures and Picture Frames, Albums, Dolls, Crockery, Tinware, Light Hardware, Notions, Etc.

This is a genuine closing out sale and those looking for bargains will do well to call early while the lines are complete. Everything at cost.

THE FAIR STORE,

Robert Street, Next to Anderson's Drug Store,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Order For Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk.—ss.
In Probate Court, Special Term, June 5, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of Neil Mune, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of Neil Mune, deceased, late of the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, being granted to Donald Bine and Neil Mune.

It is ordered that on Saturday, the 22nd day of July, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m., the matter of said Probate Court, to be held at the Probate office in the City of Crookston in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed for the hearing upon the final account of said executors and upon the petition for allowance of said account and for the assignment of residue of said estate.

And it is further ordered, That notice of said hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said county.

Dated at Crookston this 5th day of June A. D. 1899.

By the Court,
OLE E. HAGEN,
Judge of Probate.

12-15

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk.—ss.
The State of Minnesota to G. F. Bates, defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the District Court of the 9th Judicial District of the State of Minnesota, at the term thereof, to be holden at the office in the City of Crookston in said county, on answer to the complaint of J. F. Matthews, in a civil action wherein the plaintiff claims one-quarter of the wood over one hundredth dollars (fifth), should you fail to appear and answer the said complaint within thirty days after the service thereof, judgment will be rendered against you by default for the relief demanded in said J. F. Matthews' complaint, to wit: one-fifth of fifty-two and one-hundredth dollars.

Given under my hand this 8th day of June 1899.

JOHN McLEAN,
Justice of the Peace.

10-14

Order to Examine Accounts, Etc.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk.—ss.
In Probate Court, special term June 5th, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of Henry M. Gruner, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Jeremy Wilson, representing among other things that the estate of said deceased is ready to be closed, and among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining and allowing the account of said administrator and for the assignment of the residue of said estate.

It is ordered, that said account be examined and petition be heard by me on the 22nd day of July.

Friday the 7th day of July A. D. 1899 at two o'clock p. m. and that notice be given in Crookston as said county.

And it is further ordered that notice thereof be given to all persons interested, by publishing this order for three successive weeks prior to said hearing in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said County.

Dated at Crookston, Minn. the 29th day of June A. D. 1899. By the Court,
J. A. MILLER, OLE E. HAGEN,
Attorney for Estate. Judge of Probate

It's easy to haul a big load up a big hill if you grease the wagon wheels with

MICA AXLE GREASE

Grades and lasts very best. Saves two-thirds wear and tear. Sold everywhere. Made by STANDARD OIL CO.

BINDER TWINE Our Famous BLUE RIBBON BRAND Is the best made in the world. Prices without rival. Write for them. Chicago, Omaha and Kansas City. We offer a premium to those who purchase a Watertown offer. Agents wanted. Mann & Co. receive special notice in the

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND-BOOK ON PATENTS sent free. Address,

MUNN & CO.
361 Broadway, New York.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain, free, our opinion whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the

ERSKINE.

O. H. Olson returned from Crookston Friday, where he has been attending court.

Hans Hanson was at Solway Friday on business.

Olaf Messelt was at McIntosh Friday between trains.

The frame work on Benson's house is getting in shape rapidly.

Martin Flom and wife went to Fosston Sunday on a few days' visit with friends.

O. H. Dahle and H. J. Narveson went to Crookston on Monday to attend court.

Ole Bjorn was in the village over Saturday on business.

Mrs. Ole Narveson went to Crookston on Saturday to make a visit with her daughters Miss Emma Narveson and Mrs. A. Holmboe.

ANGUS.

Frank Fuss spent Monday in Warren.

F. Stredde was in Grand Forks on Monday.

Gus Berg was up from Euclid on Thursday.

G. Evans and wife were in Warren on Tuesday.

J. F. Montgomery was in Crookston on Monday.

F. Stredde and sons were in Grand Forks on Friday.

John Grodvitn was in Grand Forks on Tuesday.

Ira Bradley, of Warren, was in town on Thursday.

John McLennon drove to Grand Forks on Wednesday.

Mrs. Dixson, of Warren, visited her sister, Mrs. Perkins, on Sunday.

D. H. Miller and wife transacted business in Grand Forks on Monday.

Frank Howard, the south side teacher, spent Sunday in Crookston.

Miss Maud Wees, of Warren, visited Mrs. Montgomery on Thursday.

Ed. Henry and sister, of Mallory, were at the dance on Thursday evening.

Lew Watten and Fred Main were down from Warren to the dance on Thursday.

LENGBY.

Aleck Ringstad was at Fosston last Friday.

T. W. Bjoin, of Crookston, was in town last Thursday.

Carl Fredrickson made a trip to Bagley sometime last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Lanelson came back from Bemidji Sunday.

Miss Meule Molstad and Miss Rundlay Wiemer went to Fosston last Friday.

Miss Clara Engelund and Mr. Endrew J. Olson will be married Sunday, July 2.

Mr. N. O. Nelson returned last Saturday from a visit to his farm north of Fosston.

Ole Pauls on, who has been teaching school near Nelsy, came back to Lengby last Sunday.

Endreu Olson returned Monday from a four days visit with his folks in town of Brandsvold.

Mathias Beaurud, a Rosebud farmer, was in town last Saturday and bought some lumber from Ringstad, Nelson & Olsen. Mathias will build a new house this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Stenberg, Ole H. Ringstad, C. E. Johnson, Tom Davine, Walter Peden, Julius Fredrickson, Ole Lindberg, Miss Amanda Fredrickson, Bella Loonmen, Carl Hilliard and Anne Aspell were at Ebro ton ball Saturday night and a good time they had.

The Lengby and Columbia base ball team played a game at Lengby last Sunday. The batteries being Joe Weltz, pitcher, N. P. Stenberg, catcher of the Lengby Nine. Ole Paulson, pitcher, Geo. Lills, catcher on the Columbia side. Five innings were played, and the game ended 1 to 0 in favor of the Columbia Nine.

RUSSIA.

Mr. Peter Wermuger is beautifying his residence with some fine colored paint.

The Ringling Circus bill poster has been here today, the second time putting up bills.

The final hay was cut in this vicinity last week by M. A. Wendelboe and Peter Wermuger.

On account of the rain today, a small congregation attended the Catholic church service conducted by the French priest of Crookston.

Mr. A. J. Price, agent for St. Anthony & N. D. Elevator Co., at Kittson, has been here since last week, at this elevator shipping thirteen carloads of wheat.

Mr F. R. Lineause got some party from Canada to live on part of his quarter section that he bought of A. Bolsvert, who left sometime ago for Michigan.

Peter Wermuger and Felix Rauenbichler have one-sured off on the land of the former a piece of ground 200 feet square and will move on to this the store and postoffice, which are now half a mile away from this point.

NEILSVILLE.

J. O. Sortedahl is busy receiving lumber nowadays.

E. C. Onstad has been building a sidewalk in front of his new store.

The wheat buyers have been quite busy of late, whenever the roads permit wheat hauling.

A farmers' lumber yard meeting and a meeting of the supervisors kept the town quite lively Monday.

Rev. Brondland is away to St. Paul at present attending the annual meeting of the United Lutheran Church.

Andrew Monson is putting the finishing coat of paint on his house, which makes it one of the neatest looking residences in the neighborhood.

Sunday school was resumed last Sunday in the school house in Dist. 17, town of Lindhard. James C. Hoyes was re-elected superintendent. All the other last year's officers were also re-elected.

The date of the song festival is changed from the 12th of July to the 11th, at the request of the speaker, E. E. Lobeck, as it would suit his time better. It will be held on Koldeu's land south of G. Spokkeim's buildings. All are cordially invited. Free dinner will be served.

LATE MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, June 28.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 73½c; No. 1 Northern, 74½c; No. 2 Northern, 69½c; No. 3, 63c. To Arrive—No. 1 hard, 73½c; No. 1 Northern, 74½c; July, 72½c; September, 72½c.

Minneapolis Wheat.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 28.

WHEAT—In store—No. 1 Northern, June, 70¾c; July, 70½c; September, 71½c. On Track—No. 1 hard, 71½c; No. 1 Northern, 70½c; No. 2 Northern, 69c.

Stock City Live Stock.

STOCK CITY, Ia., June 28.

CATTLE—Market steady. Range of prices $4.30@5.87½.

HOGS—Market steady. Range of prices $4.30@5.87½.

SHEEP—Market steady; stockers dull.

Sales ranged at $4.75@5.00 for beeves; $2.30@4.00 for cows, bulls and mixed; $4.15@4.20 for stockers and feeders; $3.50@4.00 for calves and yearlings.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, June 28.

HOGS—Market slow; lower than yesterday. Range of prices, $5.07½@5.60.

CATTLE—Good steers are steady; common weak.

Sales ranged at $5.00@5.20 for steers; $4.00@5.00 for calves; $3.70@4.25 for cows; $4.75@4.90 for stockers; $4.70@5.75 for heifers; $5.00 for bulls.

SHEEP—Good demand for sheep and market is higher.

Sales ranged at $5.75 for bucks; $5.00 @5.00 for lambs; $5.25@5.85 for sheep.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, June 28.

HOGS—Market fully 5c higher.

Sales ranged at $5.05@5.87½ for mixed and butchers; $5.70@5.85 for good heavy; $5.25@5.65 for rough heavy; $5.70@5.95 for light.

CATTLE—Market about lower.

Sales ranged at $4.50@5.60 for beeves; $3.00@4.90 for cows and heifers; $3.50@5.00 for Texas steers; 3.30@5.10 for stockers and feeders.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Sales ranged $4.00@5.25 for sheep; $4.00 @7.00 for lambs.

Receipts: Hogs, 35,000; cattle, 21,000; sheep, 14,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, June 28.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—July, 74½c; September, 74½; December, 74½@75c.

CORN—June 34½c; July, 34½@34½c; September, 34½@34½c; December, 393/8@ 39½.

OATS—June, 23½c; July, 24½c; September, 21½@21½c; May, 24½@24.3c.

PORK—June, $8.17½; July, $8.17½; September, $8.37½.

POULTRY—Dressed, turkeys, 8c; chickens, 9@9½c.

BUTTER—Creameries, 13½@18c; dairies, 11@15½c.

EGGS—Fresh, 12c.

Crookston Market.

The following is the price of wheat quoted in the local market this morning:

No. 1 hard.....62c
No. 1 northern.....62c
No. 2 northern.....58c

PAYMENT OF CUBANS.

Over Four Thousand Have Received Their Gratuity So Far.

HAVANA, June 28.—Brigadier General Randall has paid up to date in the provinces of Havana and Pinar del Rio and the western half of Matanzas province 3,700 troops. This raises the full number, exclusive of provinces of Puerto Principe and Santiago, to about 4,500. If the same ratio is maintained in the two latter provinces as the original lists stand the figures will reach a total of 12,000. American army officers consider that the figures shown in the payments represent the most reliable estimate of the size of the Cuban army, which included a large number of unarmed followers.

MENAGE RETURNS.

Fugitive President of the Guaranty Loan Gives Himself Up.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 28.—Louis F. Menage, the fugitive president of the defunct Northwestern Guaranty Loan company, which failed disastrously on May 17, 1893, returned to Minneapolis and gave himself up to Sheriff Megarden. There are two indictments against him for grand larceny, and after six years of voluntary exile in Guatemala and Mexico, he has determined to come back and give himself up. Under the same indictments, William F. Streeter, vice president of the company, was arrested and tried. Both trials resulted in a disagreement, and the indictments were finally nolled as to Streeter. They still stand as to Menage. It is not known as yet what action County Attorney Louie A. Reed will take in the matter.

›TIS TAKING IT EASY

NOT PROSECUTING A CAMPAIGN DURING RAINY SEASON.

Simply Defending the Territory Now in Possession of the United States—Long Cablegram From Manila in Reply to Request for Information—Limits of the American Troops Have Worked to the Limit of Endurance.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—General Otis' detailed report of the conditions existing in the Philippines is considered very satisfactory at the war department. It is taken to mean that General Otis will not now prosecute a campaign on account of the rainy season, except where the insurgents make it necessary to defend the territory now in possession of the United States. That portion of the dispatch telling of the belief among Filipinos that the present policy of the United States will not be upheld is regarded as of great significance. It is believed that when the Filipinos see there is no hope of their recognition by the United States they will give up the fight. The absence of any suggestion as to more troops being needed is taken to mean that General Otis does not believe they could be used to advantage at present.

GENERAL OTIS REPORTS.

Present Situation in the Philippines Given in Detail.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—General Otis, in reply to a cable from the war department asking for information regarding the situation and conditions in the Philippines, cabled a long reply as follows:

"Rainy season. Little inland campaigning possible in Luzon. We occupy large portion Tagalog country, lines stretching from Luna south to San Fernando north, nearly 60 miles, and to eastward into Laguna province. Insurgents armies have suffered great losses and are scattered; only large force held together about 4,000 in Tarlac province and Northern Pampanga. Their scattered forces in bands 50 to 400 in other portions Luzon; in Cavite and Batangas provinces could assemble possibly 3,000, though demoralized from recent defeats; mass of people terrorized by insurgent soldiers, desire peace and American protection; no longer fee on approach our troops; taxes forced by insurgents, but gladly welcome them; no recent burning of towns; population within our lines becoming dense, taking up land cultivation extensively; kept out Manila as much as possible, as city population becoming too great to be cared for. Natives southeast Luzon combining to drive out insurgents; only hope insurgent leaders in United States aid. They proclaim new conservative present administration to be followed by their independence and recognition by the United States.

Enables Them to Hold Out.

"This is the influence which enables them to hold out; much concerned prevails among them and no civil government remains; trade with ports not in our possession, former source insurgent revenue, now interdicted; not certain of wisdom of this policy, as people in those ports now without supplies of food; merchants suffer loss and some meditate restoring trade privileges, although insurgents reap benefits. Courts here in successful operation under direction of able Filipinos.

"Affairs in other islands comparatively quiet, awaiting results in Luzon. All anxiously seeking trade, and repeated calls for American troops received. Am giving attention to Jolo archipelago and Palawan islands. Our troops have worked to limit of endurance. Volunteer organizations have been called in, replaced by regulars, who now occupy salient positions. Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Utah now taking transports and Sixth infantry sent to Negros to relieve California. These troops in good physical condition; sickness among troops has increased lately, due mostly to arduous service and climatic influences. Nothing alarming. Of the 12 per cent of the command reported sick, nearly 6 in general hospital, of whom 3 per cent have typhoid and 17 malarial fevers; 23 per cent have intestinal trouble; remaining 36 per cent have various ailments, 14 of which due to wound injuries."

WANT 10,000 MEN.

President and Secretary Alger Decide to Begin Enlistments at Once.

CHICAGO, June 28.—A Washington dispatch to The Tribune says: As a result of a conference between the president and Secretary Alger it was decided to begin the enlistment of volunteers for two years' service in the Philippines. Orders to recruiting officers to this effect will be sent out at once. It is proposed to arm and equip three brigades, or about 10,000 men, and then to continue the work until the whole 35,000 authorized by law are secured. There will be no call upon the states. The officers will be appointed by the president and assigned to regiments without regard to state lines. The

Maximum of the Regular Army

of 65,000 men has been secured and new enlistments will be for the provisional army to make up the total number of 100,000 men. General Otis has 29,000 men on the ground or under orders, and volunteers will be rushed to him until he has an effective force of 50,000 men. In the enlistments veterans of the late war, including those who did not get beyond the home camps but were seasoned, will be given the preference, and the same will be true of the officers. A brigadier general for every three regiments and a major general for each division of three brigades will be appointed. They will be part regulars and part volunteers and General Joe Wheeler will be among the number.

Transports Reach Manila.

MANILA, June 27.—The United States transports Grant and Hooker have arrived here.

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, June 22.

Commodore Oscar N. Badger, U. S. N., retired, is dead, aged 76 years.

William Ver Bryck, a well known portrait painter, is dead at Milwaukee, aged 76.

A movement is on foot to secure the Democratic national convention of 1900 for Milwaukee.

In the Wisconsin state firemen's tournament Oconomowoc won the state championship hose race.

The directors of the American Bell Telephone company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent with 1¾ per cent extra payable July 15, on stock of record June 30.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones has reported to Secretary Hitchcock that the smallpox epidemic which recently raged among the Moqui Indians in Arizona has been stamped out.

Friday, June 23.

Montreal has just sold bonds in Chicago instead of in London, as usual.

The United States and Portugal decide to negotiate a reciprocity treaty.

R. M. Allen of Alabama has been elected grand exalted ruler of the Elks.

The town marshal of Avoca, Wis., was fatally shot by a tramp, who was then killed by the marshal.

The president, it is expected, will authorize the recruiting of 10 additional regiments for the Philippines.

Ex-Senator Peffer of Kansas denies that he has joined the Republican party, but declares he will do all he can to keep the Democrats out of power.

The Sault ages canal will be opened by Canada in August and will reduce the cost of transporting grain from the Northwest to tide water one-half.

Saturday, June 24.

General Joseph Wheeler will be assigned to duty in the Philippines.

Montana roughs attacked Japanese laborers, shooting five, one of whom will die.

The Cherokee executive council has liberated all the criminals in the Cherokee penitentiary.

The government has ordered the removal of all the whites from the Chippewa Indian reservation in Minnesota.

The French cabinet has been finally formed, with Waldeck-Rousseau as premier. A short life is predicted for it.

George Odom, the 14-year-old jockey, has signed a contract to ride for W. C. Whitney in 1900, 1901 and 1902 at a salary of $10,000 a year.

A mask thief stole a $10,000 roll of bills from the Metropolitan National bank of Boston Thursday. He was captured the evening of the same day alighting from a train in New York.

Monday, June 26.

The Havana customs receipts from Jan. 1 to June 23 inclusive amounted to $4,338,010.43.

Fire at Laurel, Del., destroyed property valued at $150,000 to $200,000, including a number of stores and one hotel.

The transport St. Paul has sailed for St. Michaels with 300 soldiers under Colonel Ray, who are going north to relieve the troops now on the Yukon.

The Russian minister of marine, Vice Admiral Tyrtoff, has assigned the sum of 11,000,000 roubles for the building of the construction of two moles at Port Arthur.

It is the intention of the University of Pennsylvania to enter a team next year in the Olympian games at the world's fair in Paris and also in the English championships.

The pressure of applications for admission to the International Council of Women, to open at London June 26, has been so great that it was found necessary to change the place of meeting to the large convocation hall of Church house.

Tuesday, June 27.

The transport Sheridan has sailed for Manila.

Chicago photo engravers to the number of 200 are on strike.

The president and party have left Adams, Mass., for Washington.

The Russian czarina has given birth to a daughter. She is named Maria.

John D. Rockefeller, the Standard Oil magnate, and party have arrived at Seattle from Alaska.

The cable ship Hooker has arrived at Manila from Honolulu with cable and telegraph supplies for the signal corps.

All the tin plate works in the country will close this week, due to a dispute over wages, and 30,000 people will be idle.

Henry C. Payne of Milwaukee is said to have been offered the chairmanship of the Republican national committee, to succeed Mark Hanna.

E. E. McLeod, assistant general passenger agent of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, has been elected chairman of the Western Passenger association.

Wednesday, June 28.

Arthur Tennyson, younger brother of the famous poet laureate, is dead.

Three negroes were killed in a fight between white and black miners in Alabama.

Professor George Harris of Andover Mass., has been elected president of Amherst college.

General Otis has raised the blockade of several important Philippine ports and trade will be resumed.

Pennsylvania won the boat race; Wisconsin second, with Cornell and Columbia far in the rear.

The deadlock in the Kentucky Democratic convention ended in the nomination of William Goebel for governor.

Proceedings are to be brought against the United States Flour Milling company under the Minnesota anti-trust law.

Still In It.....

We are still in the ring as our large Sales the past week have shown us. Our sales of the Victory Wheel have exceeded all our expectations, still we have more on hand and want to supply the public with a first-class Wheel at low Prices Crescents as good as ever, if not better, and prices lower too. Just think of a Crescent, '99 model, at $35.

Repairing a Specialty. Prices Reasonable.

Hawkins & Olds.

Bicycle Doctors.

Deere Vehicles are All Right

We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to mikond.

They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen.

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., LARSEN & CARPENTER,

Fosston or McIntosh. Crookston,

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. ESKINE, President W.W. ASHLEIN, Vice-President
J. W. WHEELER, Cashier. H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier.

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits.
Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

George B. Eskine. A. A. Miller. Wm. Ashlein. J. R. Robinson. E. M. Walsh. L. Fontaine J. P. Foote. W. H. Crosby. J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers

SCANDIA-AMRERICAN BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $18,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON.....PRESIDENT. H. STEENERSON.....VICE-PRESIDENT.
N. S. GERVAIS.....2d VICE-PRESIDENT. L. ELLINGTON.....CASHIER
A. P. HANSON, Asst. Cashier.

Farmers, Attention!

I have the Champion Draw Cut Mower (something new) also the ever ready Jones Mower. Thomas and Plano Rakes, Disc and Acme Harrows, Newton and Stoughton Wagons.

CALL AND SEE THEM.....

S. L. COLLINS

Polk County Journal,

BY N. S. GORDON.

☞Subscription $1.50 per year in advanc

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

THE Grand Forks Herald celebrated its twentieth anniversary last Tuesday by publishing a special edition of forty pages.

WE print in this issue Governor Lind's reply to State Senator Miller's charge that the governor had vetoed the railroad and warehouse commission bill at the instance of the railroads.

THE POLK COUNTY JOURNAL has the best equipped newspaper office in this section of the state. Our leading contemporary, the Crookston Times, said this to the city assessor. Thanks, Brother McKenzie.

EDITOR PEASE of the Anoka Union is being prominently spoken of as the republican candidate for governor next year. Newspaper men are all right and no mistake will be made in selecting our next governor from among the members of this fraternity.

WE are indebted to the Supt. of Immigration, of Ottawa, Canada, for a copy of the Canadian Year Book for 1899. It is brimful of interesting facts relating to the development of Canada, her natural resources, her commercial activity, her prominent statesmen and business men.

THE Willmar Tribune's Special Old Settlers' edition was a well prepared and interesting publication. Such efforts to investigate and record the deeds and sufferings of those who early settled in Minnesota are commendable, for such history is valuable and the participants in these struggles are fast passing away.

THE first number of the Euclid Olive Leaf, a monthly three column four page paper, published by Misner, Chapin & Fisk, of Euclid, came from the JOURNAL press last Saturday. It contains local news, the contributions are carefully selected, and the editorials are unusually bright and well-worded. A paper as ably edited as the Olive Leaf ought to be welcomed at Euclid.

JIM TAWNEY, of Winona, congressman from the First District, is making considerable noise of late and endeavoring by his much speaking to make people believe that he is doing something, that he is the man who brought about Col. Henderson's selection as speaker, etc., etc. The people, however, will soon find that this is a case of "big cry and little wool" as the fellow said when he shaved the pig.

THE JOURNAL is publishing each week the news from every city, town, village and farming community in Polk county. Pages two and three of the paper are given up to these interesting happenings. Our correspondents are bright, wide-awake people and if anything occurs anywhere they are sure to find it out and let us know. Watch for the weekly history of Polk county and of points just beyond the county boundaries, as it is narrated by the JOURNAL'S able corps of writers.

WE think that as a general thing the calling of agriculture is not held in as high estimation by the people as it ought to be. It is true that it is admitted that business prosperity depends upon the prosperity of the farmer, still the simplicity and nobility of the rural life do not as yet have the recognition which is their due, but this state of affairs is fast changing. Farming is one of the sciences and in no other calling in life today is there needed more intelligent or more highly educated men and women.

THE state democratic convention of Kentucky adopted a platform which re-affirms the Chicago platform, declares for Bryan and free silver in 1900, denounces trusts, arraigns the republican national and state administration. Later, balloting on a candidate for governor begins and before a candidate is chosen, pandemonium breaks loose and singing and shouting and yelling become the chief business of the convention and police men are called in. The platform and the demonstration are about on a par. The men who would write and adopt the former would be expected to act just as they did.

GENERAL OTIS in command in the Philippines, in a special cable report on the situation over there says: "The only hope of the insurgent leaders is United States aid. They proclaim the near overthrow of the present administration, to be followed by their independence and recognition by the United States. This is the influence that enables them to hold out." How glorious must be the feelings of the anti-expansionists as they behold their magnificent work!—lending their aid to the insurgents and at the same time crying out at home that the administration is making a mistake in not sending more men across the water.

THE Brainerd Tribune's illustrated supplement which was published last week in magazine form reflects great credit upon the management of that paper. The resources, business prosperity and prospects of Crow Wing county and the city of Brainerd are well and entertainingly presented in a pen picture, and the cuts of farm, city and summer resort scenes, and of prominent business men and farmers are particularly handsome. Such workmanship and business enterprise ought to be and undoubtedly is appreciated by the good people of Brainerd.

IT is among the possibilities, if not probabilities, that a "flying squadron" will be formed in the First Congressional District of this state, whose aim will be to prevent the re-nomination for congress of James A Tawney. Mr. Tawney is evidently not making friends as fast as he is hatching schemes for his own advancement. His ambition soars so high that a Chicago paper recently said that he had the presidential bee in his bonnet, but, alas for him! his fate is sure to be the same as that of another man, Darius Green, who had a famous flying machine. He will come down on the ground ker-flop.

THE present city council has not so far made very brilliant record for itself. In the council chamber last Friday evening that honorable body upheld the chair in a usurpation of power befitting a medieval monarch. As explained elsewhere, President O'Brien ruled that he had the right to vote twice on the same motion and he did vote twice. For such an action no reasonable excuse can be given. It was simply a high-handed, arrogant assumption of power, regardless of justice. Czar Reed in his palmiest days never undertook to vote twice on the same measure. And the councilmen in sustaining the chair in this act of usurpation voted away some of their own rights of which judicious legislators are very tenacious.

WE invite the careful attention of our readers to the paper on "Grain and Stock in the Red River Valley," by Charles McKissick of Mayville, N. D., which is published on the first page of the JOURNAL. Some ideas are here given which the farmers in the Red River Valley will do well to ponder over. "The progressive farmer," he says, "is the one who keeps well abreast of the times by a liberal subscription to the best stock and farm Journals, attends the institutes, exchanges his views with his neighbors, getting the benefit of others' experience. In short, feeds his mind as well as his body and puts his knowledge into practice." Mr. McKissick is evidently a man who has done this. He has also made a careful study of the soil and climate of the Valley and he says, with emphasis, that stock raising and dairying should be combined with wheat growing, that it will pay better to do this, that it will be more pleasant and satisfactory to the farmer and will tend to better the class of people in any community. This being true, and all experience teaches it, it behooves those farmers who have adherred to the one crop system gradually to gather around them stock, and that of the highest grade.

THERE is nothing today of more importance, if, indeed, there is anything of as much importance, to the welfare of the United States, as the educational system of the nation, with its common schools, graded schools, high schools, colleges and universities. Within the four walls of these institutions the youth of our land receive the training which fits them to begin their life's work, and have developed within them the ideals which they will afterwards express in act. How careful, then, the citizens of every community should be to perform faithfully their duties which pertain to the affairs of the public schools and one of the most important of those duties and privileges is the selection of the men who are given the power to choose the teachers. The members of any board of education should be selected solely because of their ability to perform the duties of that office. No other consideration should have any weight whatever in deciding this momentous question. And each voter ought to consider it his bounden duty to vote at the election of school trustees, just as at the election of a president. A question fraught with such possible good or ill to a community ought not to be left to a few to decide, as is, alas! too often the case.

IT seems to be the general impression in the United States today that a much larger force than is now in the Philippines will be needed there in order to put down the rebellion and restore order. The anti-imperialists are attempting to make capital against the administration out of this fact, claiming that this shows that the government has failed in its policy and is clearly incompetent to manage the Philippine question. This inference is not logical. The statesman is ever ready to change his policy to suit the exigencies of the case. The man in public life to be feared is the man who forms his opinion from meagre facts and then holds to that opinion regardless of new circumstances that may arise. Our knowledge of the Philippine situation is constantly increasing and if McKinley decides that a force of 100,000 or more men is needed to cope successfully with Aguinaldo, this decision will not be evidence of poor judgment on his part in the past, but conclusive proof that the man who is at the head of our government bases his action on fact, and who, pray would have imagined that citizens of the United States would be so un-American as to join their forces with those of Aguinaldo against their native land? The extra men who may be sent to the Philippines will in reality fight anti-expansionists.

Elsewhere.

A bridge 80 ft. long is to be built over the Sand Hill River at a point on Andrew Steenerson's farm not far from Climax. W. A. Maria of Crookston has the contract for doing the work.

The Great Northern has a weed burner that does some lively work along the right of way of that railroad in the way of getting rid of weeds. Two oil tanks are attached to a locomotive, the oil is thrown over the grasses and then a match is applied.

Col. Van Duzee informed Sec. Alger, when the latter was at Duluth, that he would guarantee to place a first class regiment at the disposal of the government in two weeks time in case it were wanted. Col. Van Duzee was an officer in the 14th Regiment. The government, however, has decided that no state organizations will be accepted for service in the Philippines.

A carpenter in Illinois brought his daughter's young man up before a judge for violently ejecting him one Sunday evening from his own parlor. After hearing the other side, the judge said: "It appears that this young fellow was courting the plaintiff's gal, in plaintiff's parlor: that the plaintiff intruded and was put out by the defendant. Courting is a public necessity and must not be interrupted. Therefore, the law of Illinois will hold that a parent has no legal right in a room where courting is afoot. Defendant is discharged and plaintiff must pay the costs.

Congregational Conference.

There were present at the conference in Fosston this week from this city, Mrs. John Wynand, Arthur A. Miller, Esq., and Mrs. Miller, and Rev. Herman P. Fisher. Delegates from Barnesville, Ada, Detroit, Lake Part, Moorhead, and other towns, have passed through this city en route to the meetings. Rev. Edwin H. Stickney, of Fargo, and Rev. John H. Morley, from Minneapolis, Superintendent of Home Missions for Minnesota, and Rev. Robert P. Herrick, from Minneapolis, State Superintendent of Sunday Schools, are among the attendants.

—Strayed from farm of undersigned sec. 9, town of Fairfax, a red and white yearling heifer. Anyone having same please notify.

J. M. DELANCE.

ORDERED TO OTTAWA.

Jamaica Reciprocity Delegates Sent to Canada by Chamberlain.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 26.—The secretary of state for the colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, has directed the governor of Jamaica, Sir Augustus W. L. Hemming, to instruct the reciprocity delegates to proceed immediately from Washington to Ottawa for the purpose of conferring with the Dominion authorities on the whole project of Jamaica's future relations with Canada. The reason for this step is not known, but many people suppose Mr. Chamberlain doubts the practical results of the American negotiations and desires to hasten the movement of the alternative Canadian annexation.

Five Women Drowned.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 26.—A special from Lampasas, Tex., says: Mrs. T. J. Lloyd, living seven miles northwest of this place, with her five daughters and a visitor, Miss Childers, went in bathing in a creek. The three youngest girls went beyond their death when their eldest sister and Miss Childers went to their rescue and all five were drowned. Mrs. Lloyd saved her other daughter only by heroic efforts.

The Columbia's Trial Trip.

NEWPORT, June 26.—The Columbia had her first trial trip in Narragansett bay during the day. She met the Defender in a short mile brush with an 8-knot breeze and easily passed her to windward. The Columbia then went back to Bristol for slight repairs.

Khalifa Said to Have Been Defeated.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 24.—It is announced that the Khalifa has been defeated with heavy loss by the natives friendly to the British. It is added that he has fled to the woods with a few followers and his capture is imminent.

GOV. LIND'S REPLY

Answers the Criticism of His Veto of the Railroad and Warehouse Bill.

Promptly Demands Retraction of Charges Made by the Luverne Herald.

THE CHARGES RETRACTED

Vetoed Measure Would Have Made Redress of Grievances Impossible.

Full Text of Governor Lind's Statement In Regard to the Railroad Case.

ST. PAUL, June 29.—The Luverne Herald, of which State Senator H. J. Miller is the editor and proprietor, has led the Republican criticism against Governor Lind for his veto of the Miller bill, being Senate File No. 24, to make findings of fact in proceedings before the Railroad and Warehouse Commission official court records in such cases. In a recent issue Senator Miller charged unworthy motives on the part of the governor and that he had been governed in his action by certain railway influence. Thereupon Governor Lind addressed to Senator Miller an explicit denial and demand for retraction of his charges, coupled with a full statement regarding the bill and reasons for the veto. Senator Miller, in The Herald of June 22, retracted the charges, with the statement that he would publish Governor Lind's letter in full in the following issue. The full text of the governor's communication is as follows:

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20, 1899.

Hon. H. J. Miller, Luverne, Minn.

DEAR SIR—I confess I was not a little surprised when a copy of your paper of June 9th was placed before me and I saw the article headed "Lind's Betrayal of Trust," the first paragraph of which reads as follows: "The Herald has made the charge in previous issues that Senate File No. 24, relating to proceedings for the enforcement of the orders of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission, was killed by Governor Lind at the instance or by the demand of the Great Northern Railway company." I had been informed previous to this that you had made charges of some such character in earlier issues of your paper, but I paid no attention to them as I hoped that you would be down to the City and that I might have an opportunity to place the facts before you in their proper light, my time hardly permitting communication by correspondence in a matter so involved as the consideration of our statutes relating to the Railroad and Warehouse Commission, but this last charge is such a brazen falsehood and of such character that, coming from the source it does, I feel that it demands not only an explicit denial, but an explanation of the law as it now stands and the effect of the proposed amendment, so that you and any citizen who desires to understand the matter may see and appreciate the dangerous character of Senate File No. 24, which I refused to sign.

In Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway Company vs. Railroad and Warehouse Commission, 44 Minn., 336, which was one of the earlier cases under the present railroad law before our Supreme Court, Judge Mitchell uses this language: "The act (Laws 1887, Chapter 10) regulating common carriers and creating the Railroad and Warehouse Commission is a piece of legislative patchwork composed of provisions borrowed from different and dissimilar sources without uniformity of plan and not always consistent with each other. A construction of the act is therefore a difficult task." Although the act has been amended several times since that language was used with reference to it, it is still applicable to many of the provisions of the law as it now stands, as any one who has read it with care must concede; but, nevertheless, it has now been before the Court so often and many of its sections so thoroughly construed, that the most striking inconsistencies have been reconciled and the legislation, as a whole, made harmonious by judicial interpretation. In my message to the legislature I recommended only one change and in the following language: "The report of the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission will be laid before you. No new legislation is needed on that subject, except that the record made before the Commission on a hearing should be made to constitute the record on appeal. The present practice of trying a case de novo in the District Court is useless and expensive and by its delays tends to defeat the ends of the law." An amendment in harmony with this suggestion would have been a decided improvement on the law as it now stands and would have had my prompt approval, as it had my cordial endorsement in advance. I cannot help feeling that you are under the impression that Senate File 24 would have accomplished the purpose indicated by my recommendation, for I can hardly conceive that a man of your standing would purposely traduce and malign a public servant from partisan motives alone. I shall therefore take more time and exercise more patience in explaining the law to you than I would to one for whose character and motives I have less regard than I have had for yours in the past, believing that when the matter is placed before you in its proper light you will have the manhood to undo, so far as you are able, the injustice which you have done me.

By our legislation constituting the Board of Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners and defining their powers, the duties of the Board are divided into two classes. The first, and most important, is to pass upon the reasonableness of transportation rates and to prevent discrimination between persons and places. The second, is the power to regulate the manner of maintaining and operating the railroads, with a view to insuring the security, convenience and accommodation of the general public, without regard to the question of rates; in other words—the rate-making power and the administrative power respectively. This distinction must be borne in mind in order to understand the different provisions of the statute and the decisions of our Supreme Court pursuant to them.

In proceedings under the first class of questions, viz.: Those that involve the rate making power and the prevention of discriminations, the railroad company has the right of appeal to the District Court from the determination of the Commissioners. See Subdivision D of Section 15 of the Act. (Page 21 of the pamphlet which I send you herewith). In the other class of cases, which relate only to administrative regulations, there is no appeal from the action of the Commissioners to the District Court. The propriety of their determination can only be inquired into upon a suit instituted for the enforcement of the Commissioners' decision. See the case cited, 44 Minn., page 336.

The "Steenerson case," which is the most important case that we have had in our courts under the law up to the present time, was decided upon a review of the action taken by the District Court upon the trial of an appeal taken from the Commissioners' decision prescribing lower rates. See the statement of the case by Judge Canty on page 714, Vol. 72, Northwestern Reporter. He says: "After summoning the railway company and having a hearing, as provided by the statute, the Commission made an order reducing rates on grain on all the lines of the railway company within the state. From this order the railway company appealed to the District Court and after a hearing on the appeal, the Court reversed the order of the Commission. From this order of the Court the Attorney General appeals to this Court, etc." This appeal was taken under Subdivision D, Section 15, just cited. A trial in the District Court upon an appeal of that character is undoubtedly the most important feature in a proceeding under the law, for upon the record as there made the case will be reviewed by the Supreme Court and eventually in the Supreme Court of the United States, if a writ of error is taken to the latter Court. This trial in the District Court upon an appeal is now virtually a trial de novo, as I suggested in my message, and it was this section that I recommended should be amended so that it would not be necessary to go over again in the District Court the same ground that had been traveled before the Commissioners, for a retrial upon new evidence necessarily consumes more time.

Senate File No. 24 did not assume to correct this defect, as you appear to think, but steps in to amend Section 22, page 26 of the pamphlet, which simply relates to the enforcement of the orders or decisions of the Commission. These orders or decisions are of two kinds: Administrative orders and final orders or decisions involving the rate making power, when such orders have not been appealed from to the District Court. In regard to the latter class of orders, where the railroad company had the right of appeal if they saw fit, it is a well settled principle of law that where an individual or corporation has litigated a question before a tribunal upon the merits and had the right of appeal from the order or decision of such tribunal to the District Court and omitted to exercise it, it cannot subsequently raise any question as to the merits of the order or decision when it is sought to secure enforcement of such order or decision in the courts. It stands upon the same footing, when not appealed from, as a judgment of the District Court rendered upon an appeal under the provisions of Subdivision D of Section 15. Therefore, when such an order comes up for enforcement in the District Court, no question can be raised as to its validity or its reasonableness, provided the company had due notice. Hence the only class of orders or decisions that can be litigated under the provisions of Section 22, which you sought to amend by Senate File 24, as the law now stands are those relating to administrative proceedings.

You will observe by Subdivision B of Section 15 that on the hearing of the appeal provided for in that section "the record of said Commission shall be prima facie evidence of the matters therein stated." The same provision exists in Section 22 in regard to proceedings for the enforcement of the orders or decisions of the Commission under that section. It is provided (commencing on Page 28), "upon a trial of such case, the findings of fact of said Commission, as set forth in its record, shall be prima facie evidence of the matters therein stated." I have underscored these provisions in the pamphlet which I send you. These two provisions are the most important features regulating the practice under the railroad act. They have the effect of throwing the burden of proof upon the railroad company to show that the decision of the Commission is wrong in case of an appeal under Section 15, and likewise that the order or decision was wrong or unjustifiable in proceedings for its enforcement under Section 22. On this point let me call your attention to the language of Justice Canty, N. W. Reporter 72, page 715, who after quoting this provision says: "Then the burden is on the railroad company to show that the rates fixed by the Commission are unreasonable." Justice Collins, page 73 (same volume), commenting on the same provision in the statute, said: "Here we find that by legislative enactment an order of the Commission fixing and prescribing a tariff of rates must be deemed and taken in all of the courts of our state as prima facie evidence that the tariff so fixed and prescribed is equal and reasonable; the onus being thus fixed upon the appealing carrier, in all our legal tribunals and in all proceedings, to show that it is not. The burden of proof was therefore upon this respondent carrier (Great Northern Railroad Company) to overcome a prima facie case presented in the Court below by means of the order of the Commission." I have no hesitancy in saying that but for this statutory provision the judgment rendered in the Steenerson case could not and would not have been rendered by our Supreme Court. The decision, as you will observe, is simply to the effect that the record does not show the rates established are unreasonable or confiscatory. In other words, the Court simply held that the railroad company had failed to overcome the determination of the commission, which the statute said and which the court said was prima facie just and reasonable. I realize that it is difficult and practically impossible to make one who has had no experience at the bar appreciate the immense advantage of going into Court with a prima facie case, instead of being called upon to establish the case by affirmative evidence, particularly in matters of this character. If it were incumbent upon the state to establish the reasonableness or unreasonableness of the rate by affirmative evidence, such as would be admissible in Court, it would be next to impossible under existing conditions to do so. It certainly could not be done without the co-operation of railroad experts. Notwithstanding these facts, the proposed amendment to Section 22, by Senate File No. 24, leaves out this vitally important provision of the section as it now stands. Now Senator, let me ask you in all candor, why was this left out? Did you realize that it had been left out when you introduced the bill? Would you have introduced it, knowing that it was left out? Would you have voted for this amendment with the knowledge that the effect of it would be to shift the burden of proof from the shoulders of the railroad company to the side of the producer and the state? A candid answer to these questions I have a right to ask and do ask of you. But this is not by any means the sole reason why I omitted to sign Senate File 24, although it seems to me that any candid man would regard this not only sufficient but imperatively demanding that it should not have my approval.

I recommended in my message that the record made before the Commission on a hearing should be made and constituted the record on appeal. This was for the sole purpose of expediting matters and saving time. The protracted delays resorted to by the railroad companies on all proceedings against them is, as you well realize, the worst feature in the administration of the law that we have to contend against. The provisions of Senate File 24, instead of tending to curtail and prevent delays, seem especially calculated to further them. The proposed amendment, Senate File No. 24, provides that the Commission should report to the Court the papers and testimony taken before it and further, that it the Court "shall think it needful, that additional evidence shall be taken or further inquiries be prosecuted, it shall recommit the matter to the Commission to prosecute such inquiry." Now, if you know anything about legal procedure, you know that it would be infinitely more expeditious for the District Court to try and dispose of the case before it in its own way than send a portion of it back for rehearing or for the taking of additional evidence before another tribunal. You also know or realize that if this provision had become a law, the first thing that the railroad company would have done upon a report being filed in the District Court, would have been to make innumerable motions, all of which take not less than 10 days' notice, to have this question and that question and the other recommitted to the Commission for the taking of further evidence. But this is not all, nor the worst feature of this provision. The proposed amendment provides that the Commission might be called upon or it might in its own discretion rehear and reconsider all the questions "involved in or connected with its order or requirement, to enforce which the petition was filed, such rehearing to be had and upon additional evidence in connection with the whole record filed with the petition, as above provided, and may thereupon make and file in the case with its report and return of evidence taken, an amended or supplemental order, which shall then be substituted for the original order or requirement of the Commission." When this amended or supplemental order was brought in, it would, of course, be subject to the same power of the court to be recommitted, and so on without limit. Now, although I realize that you are not a lawyer, it seems to me that when you consider these facts, especially if you will take the trouble to confer with some competent practitioner, or say Judge Brown, you will see that I am correct in saying that these provisions seem especially calculated to further delays. You will also observe that these are very different provisions from those that I recommended and this subject was not new to me. I had it up in all its phases when a member of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce of the House of Representatives, and I then arrived at the same conclusions which guided my action in this matter.

You criticise me for not consulting with the Attorney General. Why should I? Would you ask anybody's advice upon a plain proposition where your duty was clear? But I make this suggestion to you. You are at liberty to submit this letter to the Attorney General and take his views upon the questions which I have discussed. I am surprised, in view of your experience in the senate and the judgment which you entertained and expressed of the majority of your colleagues, that the fact that this bill was permitted to go through without opposition was not sufficient to put you on your guard, especially after the passage through the senate with only three dissenting votes of the Shellbach bill, which would have repealed the Anderson law taxing railroad lands, had it passed the house and received my approval. With such experience fresh in your mind, it seems to me that you might have scented the woodchuck in Senate File No. 24.

If you require further information to enable you to understand this subject, let me know and I will cheerfully furnish it. In the meantime, I denounce every statement and innuendo contained in your several articles bearing upon this subject as absolutely false; and as a small measure of reparation, I demand that you retract your charges and that you give this letter such publicity in your paper as you have given the libelous articles referred to.

Yours truly,

JOHN LIND, Governor.

CITY AND VICINITY.

—Frank Nesbit was over from Fisher last Friday.

—Mrs. Chaplin of Euclid spent last Friday in the city.

—Gilbert Walker was in Crookston on business last Saturday.

—Office papers for sale at the JOURNAL office at very low rates.

—Robt. Nesbit was down from Mallory on business last Thursday.

—Mrs. J. D. Ball has been entertaining Mrs. Tobor of Buxton, N. D.

—Ed Chapin left Monday for New York where he will visit at his old home.

—John Dwyer, register of deeds, saw the fire lads run at East Grand Forks.

—Dr. O. H. Olson, Erskine's skilled physician, was a Crookston visitor last week.

—The Scandinavian M. E. Church held an ice cream social last Thursday evening.

—Robert Amos from Stillwater has entered the employ of the Electric Laundry company.

—O. E. Olson and E. P. Hood, of McIntosh, spent last Thursday night at the county seat.

—Mrs. P. Martin has been visiting at Red Lake Falls with her daughter Mrs. La Bissonnere.

—O. I. Kaasa, of Worth county, Iowa, has been visiting with his brother I. I. Kaasa.

—H. J. Sorvesen, Erskine's popular druggist, came up last evening and returned today.

—J. B. Johnson, one of McIntosh's prominent merchants, made a trip to Crookston Tuesday.

—Editor C. C. Knappen and wife have been out on their claim near Bemidji for several weeks.

—A full line of Furniture Hard Oil Coach and Varnishes at A. G Andersen and prices to suit.

—Chas. Mitchell and George Smith from Marshall county are serving sentence in the Polk County jail.

—A wooden pile bridge is to be constructed across the Sand Hill River in the town of Liberty.

—Miss E. D. Chandler returned from a short trip to McIntosh, where she attended a marriage.

—O. Osmundson of Mallory visited at Bemidji a couple of days this week, returning home Tuesday evening.

—Miss Helen, the three year old daughter of C. C. Hoch, had one of her arms badly sprained last Friday.

—The Creolin Floor Paint sold by Andersen the Druggist is a genuine paint and dries in eight to ten hours.

—Miss Stosie Low was one of those from Crookston who attended the firemen's tournament at East Grand Forks.

—Bruce Harris who has been teaching in the Daniels district east of Crookston, closed his term of school last Friday.

—Cashier Ellington, of the Scandia bank, returned Saturday morning from the meeting of the bankers of the state at St. Paul.

—A. G. Andersen sells the Heath & Milligan best Paint, the purest and best House Paint on the market. Call and get a color card.

—Martin and Webster, insurance and collection agents, have moved into their new quarters next door east of the post office.

—An excursion under the auspices of the order of railroad conductors will be made to Cass Lake and Bemidji on Sunday July 2.

—John Thesan, who learned his trade at the Faribault institute for the deaf and dumb, will assist in the repairing department of the Klevel shoe store.

—Miss Lizzie Audrist has taken Miss Inez Legnee's place in the telephone exchange office. Miss Legnee will act as cashier in Fontaine and Anglim's beginning July 1.

—The case of Mat Cornelius vs. county commissioners which was decided at the present term of court in favor of the defendant, will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

—There was a gathering of 2000 Good Templars at Goosen last Sunday. A most pleasant time was enjoyed by the large assemblage. Adelsten Berge of Minneapolis was among the number who spoke.

—Last Thursday Judge Hagen closed up the estate of Anson C. Merrill, deceased. It is situated in the vicinity of Fisher and is valued at $40,000. The property has been divided between Mrs. Merrill and her three children.

—The Crookston band will be divided on the Fourth of July, part of them going to Ada and part to Bagley. The towns around here evidently know a good thing when they see it, for all our musicians are in great demand.

WANTED:—Teachers to attend Crookston College Summer School. It is cheap, thoroughly practical. Term opens June 12, and continues eight weeks. Address, Crookston College, Crookston Minn. 4-3t

—L. L. Richardson comes from Prescott, Wis.

—R. D. Childs went to St. Paul last Tuesday night on business.

—Bear in mind that A. G. Andersen deals only in pure and reliable goods.

—Attorney A. C. Wilkinson went to St. Paul Tuesday night on business.

—Judge Holt is back from his trip to the Twin Cities and points in Wisconsin.

—Miss Helen Stoddard of Woodside neighborhood appointed Monday on a homestead of 160 acres.

—Dr. J. A. Wyand went to Fosston Tuesday to attend the conference of the Congregational church at that place.

—The farm house of John Ren in Keystone was burned last Monday morning. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

—Dr. Nels Nelson of Fertile was found dead in his office last Friday morning. Excessive used morphine was the cause of his death.

—A. C. Gannon last Monday fell from a scaffolding in a building which he was lathing and badly sprained one of his ankles.

—P. A. Hoverstad of the Crookston Experiment Farm will address the Hollock farmers next Saturday on the question of cheese making.

—D. Vannet, roadmaster on the Northern Pacific, was in the city Friday with a view to moving the N. P. stock yards east north of town.

—Messrs W. D. Scott, Frank Grevel and Sam Rosenthal were investigating the lifting qualities of the fish in Maple Bay the latter part of last week.

—Messrs Crawford, Bernet and Jacob Beck of Ada have taken up claims near Edmonton in the Northwest Territory, Canada and will engage in stock raising.

—Miss Barsky, who has been doing missionary work among the colored people at Memphis, Tenn. gave two addresses at the Baptist church last Friday afternoon and evening.

—There are still at the JOURNAL office premium lists for the Fortieth Annual Fair of the Minnesota State Agricultural society which will take place Sep. 4 to 9. Call and get one.

—Mrs. S. W. Vance and children, Geo. Q. Erskine, Wm. Anglim Sr. and Miss Anglim left Monday morning for a trip on the great lakes. Mrs. Erskine will join the party at Mackinaw.

—W. S. Hawes in his letters home from the gold fields writes very encouragingly of the prospects. His many friends and those of Mr. Osborn are, he says, considered among the best in that vicinity.

—The volcanizer in the workshop of Dr. Robertson's dental rooms blew up last Monday and did some damage to the office fixtures, though fortunately neither the doctor nor his assistant was hurt.

—When the present kiln of brick that is being burned at the Erskine brick yards in South Crookston is finished burning, that company will have manufactured this season close to a million of brick.

—In the probate court last Friday there was a hearing of proof in the wills of T. Lien and his wife of Fosston. Norwegian was the language used in the wills. The executor appointed was T. O. Lofthus.

—A. Chelton in a drunken frenzy Saturday night threw stones at the White Front saloon breaking two of the large panes of glass. He was arraigned before Judge McLean and the case continued for a week.

—Miss Clara Skaar, of Crookston, on her way to her claim out east in Bottineau county, not long ago, got lost in the woods in the midst of a storm and wandered around for a day and a night before finding shelter.

—The many friends of Miss Addie Dickman in this city will be pleased to learn that she has successfully completed the two years course in the hospital for trained nurses at St. Paul. She will remain there for the present.

—Judge McLean added to the city's funds by fining Frank Williams and an employee of his, which two gentlemen had disturbed the peace by getting into a slight altercation about when work should begin in the morning.

—Mr. Allsong, of McIntosh, and J. L. Sletten of Mentor gave the JOURNAL a pleasant call last Saturday. They were on their way home from Spring Grove where they attended, as delegates, a conference of the Lutheran Synod church.

—W. J. Murphy and wife, of Minneapolis, were in this city last Thursday and Friday. Mr. Murphy was looking after his interests in the Crookston Water Works Power and Light Company and arranging to have the new intake pipe finished.

—A pet dog of Mr. McManus' little son was on the track when the N. P. came rolling in Sunday night. The boy went to the rescue of his favorite and in so doing placed himself in great danger but fortunately the engineer saw him and stopped the locomotive before it reached them.

—Charley Bang is spending the week in the city.

—J. S. LaDue, of Fertile, was in the city Tuesday.

—City Clerk Lunetot went out to Benoit yesterday morning.

—I. P. Marcum had one of his young horses badly cut yesterday.

—Good rooms to rent. For particulars call at the JOURNAL office.

—Judge Montague was at Red Lake Falls on legal business yesterday.

—Knute Jacobson, of McIntosh, spent Sunday night at the county seat.

—The report of the court proceedings has been held over until next week.

—Attorney Brownlee from McIntosh was in attendance at court last Tuesday.

—Miss Bessie Clements has gone to Winnipeg to spend the summer with her father.

—Dr. A. H. Barber, of Lanesster, Wis., is visiting with his sister, Mrs. Fred L. Durand.

—The excursion to Detroit last night was joined by quite a number from Crookston.

—Mrs. C. F. Getchell and Miss Eva Getchell, of Climax, were in Crookston last Tuesday.

—P. H. Hilliard who has been out on his claim near Cass Lake has returned to civilization.

—Hugh Robertson has again resumed his place as assistant cashier in the First National bank.

—A. B. Christy, of East Grand Forks, has accepted a government position in the Indian Territory.

—J. P. Johnson, one of McIntosh's prominent merchants, was doing business in Crookston Tuesday last.

—Mrs. Sylvester Peterson has been visiting with friends in Grand Forks this week. She returns home this evening.

—Next Saturday you will find Slocum, the grocer, in his new quarters in the Chase Block on Broadway.

—Mrs. M. McGuire, of Fertile, came up Sunday and will remain for a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. H. R. Nolan.

—J. W. Wheeler left Tuesday evening on his trip to Europe, which he will make in company with his brother, of Chicago.

—Attorneys Keefe and Gaylord came up from Fertile last Tuesday to see that the court officers were performing their duties.

—Mr. Jessie Childs who taught in the Crookston high school last year has accepted a position in the Fargo high school for next year.

—P. B. Tarkis, S. V. Dullon and W. C. Currie, of Euclid, were among those who were in Crookston last Tuesday transacting business.

—Nils Hinna, of Nelleville, who is the administrator in the estate of Ole S. Spokelli had business before the probate court last Tuesday.

—James E. Morrisey, of the Crookston Iron Works Company is out east inspecting the machinery in the saw mills and on the streams.

—Dan Blue, of Grand Forks, who was in the city yesterday on business before the probate court, called around at the JOURNAL office.

—John Fee, who manages an experiment farm of his own about four miles northeast of town gave the JOURNAL office a call yesterday.

—The estate of Nell Mann was closed in the probate court last Tuesday. The property, which is in Cotanda was willed to deceased relatives.

—Mrs. Max Erelsonu, Lloyd Erelsonu, Mrs. A. R. Fuller, and Bruce Harris went out to Maple Lake yesterday morning. Bruce will return Friday.

—Attorney Wm. A. Marin, of this city, and Miss Emma A. Poehler, of Minneapolis, will be married at the home of the bride's parents in Minneapolis on July 12.

—Perry & Taft, is the name of a new firm which will open up for business in the store recently occupied by Slocum's Grocery. Mr. Taft comes from Grafton, N. D.

—The gang saw at the saw mill in South Crookston is again in running order. The lumber company lost quite heavily because of the enforced shutting down of part of the mill for nearly two weeks.

—The grand opening of the new store by the Strawbridge Mercantile Company took place last Tuesday. Riggs' Orchestra furnished music and large crowds were on hand to do the buying.

—J. Elwood, a prominent farmer of Belmont, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Elwood has exchanged part of his farm for a stock of goods in town, part of which stock he will bring to Belmont.

—On the 4th of July Crookston and Red Lake Falls will meet each other on the base ball grounds at the latter place. The Crookston Nine will be composed of Messrs. Will Martin, captain, Fred Luskin, Clem Winslow, Roy Lowe, Walter Stone, Dunn, Davis, Murphy and Koelmel. An exciting game is expected. Quite a number of the Queen City base ball cranks will be on hand to shout for our players.

OUT-CZARS CZAR REED

(Continued From First Page.)

the amendment carried. There were then 9 votes cast on this question though there were only eight aldermen present, counting in President O'Brien. In other words Mr. O'Brien claimed and exercised the right to vote twice on the same motion. Ald. Childs appealed from the ruling of the chair and on the question "Shall the chair be sustained?" Aldermen Davis, Thompson, McKinnon, Chesterson voted yes and Aldermen Anderson and Childs no, Ald. Harris not voting.

The original motion as amended was then carried.

An ordinance having for its object the prohibiting of the sale of intoxicating liquors in the Fifth ward was offered and read before the council and referred to the aldermanof the Fourth ward.

A communication from the mayor was read, relating to sidewalks proposed to be built according to resolution passed at meeting of council, June 5, 1899, which was on motion referred to the street and bridge committee.

Fifteen applications for liquor license were granted for the term beginning July 1, 1899.

A resolution was passed empowering the mayor to pay to the Water Works Company the $4,800 which the city was to give if a new intake pipe were laid. This money is to be paid out in small amounts as the work of laying the pipe proceeds.

A resolution was presented providing for paving and laying gutters on Broadway, from Fletcher to Third, on Main street, from Fletcher to Third, on Fletcher, from Ash to Main on Third from Broadway to Main, on Second and Robert, from Ash to Great Northern right-of-way, the material to be used being cedar blocks laid on plank.

The city engineer presented a written report to the council of the probable cost of repairing the highway from south end of Polk street to north end of Main street, South Crookston. His estimate was $785. The report was accepted.

Deaths.

SETZER.

At his home in this city yesterday afternoon June 28, Joseph Setzer, of interstitcent fever. Deceased was born in Germany, coming to Crookston from Wahoshin about twenty years ago. He was seventy-five years old. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Rasmussen and a son, Joseph Setzer, Jr. The funeral will occur tomorrow morning at 9:30. Services will be held at St. Anne's church. Cohlton Post G. A. R. of which deceased was a member will attend in a body.

Weddings.

TRACY—KING.

On the afternoon of Tuesday June 27 occurred the marriage of Mr. Elon N. Tracy of Duluth and Miss Melissa I. King of McIntosh. The service was held in the Congregational church at McIntosh and in the presence of a large company of friends, Rev. Herman P. Fisher officiating. The best man was Mr. Harrison King, brother of the bride, and the bride's maid were Miss Daisy Drew of McIntosh, and Miss Ethel Chandler of this city. Miss Maud Drew played the wedding march. The church was prettily trimmed with flowers from the fields and the aisles were strewn with clover blossoms and wild roses. After the ceremony a reception was held in the parlors of the West Hotel, where refreshments were also served, and the wedded couple took the four o'clock train for this city, and thence by the Northern Pacific evening train to Duluth, where they will make their home.

MCGLYNN—ARNOLD.

On Wednesday evening June 21 after the regular mid week service, Rev. Herman P. Fisher united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. John Patrick J. McGlynn and Miss Harriet Elizabeth Arnold. The ceremony occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilde in Houston Ave. in the presence of a few invited friends. Mr. and Mrs. McGlynn begin keeping house at their home in the south part of the city.

For Sale.

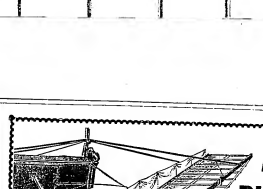
Tamarack fence posts, 6 and 8 cents. VANCE & STONE.

Teacher's Summer School.

Crookston, Minn., June 19, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the Sixth Annual Session of the State Training School for teachers will be held in Crookston, beginning July 10th. Teachers' State examinations, under the new law, will be held at the close of the Training School, Aug. 7 and 8. All intending to teach the coming year, whose certificates expire this fall, must take this examination. This will be the only teachers' examination held in the county this fall.

I. I. KAASA,
County Superintendent of Schools.
11-3t



A Big Stack

of grain can be threshed in a day (and threshed perfectly and separated thoroughly, without waste) if you have a Nichols-Shepard Separator. And the straw will be handled easily, without the slightest breakage and almost no litter, if you use the Nichols-Shepard Swinging Stacker. This takes the place and does the work of an independent stacker. It oscillates automatically, is easily swung to right angles with the separator to carry the straw to either stack or barn. This stacker has been demonstrated by thorough and practical tests in the field to be the handiest, most efficient swinging stacker ever attached to a thresher. Like every other feature of the

Nichols-Shepard SEPARATOR

it is strongly and durably made, without any intricate parts to break or get out of order. All the advantages of the Nichols-Shepard Separator and the Nichols-Shepard STRAW BURNING ENGINE are fully described and illustrated in our free catalogues. Write for it.

NICHOLS & SHEPARD CO., Battle Creek, Mich.
Branch House at Minneapolis, Minn.,
with full stock of machines and extras.

SATURDAY OPENING

SATURDAY OPENING

Slocum the Grocer

Is moving his large stock of Groceries into his new quarters in the CHASE BLOCK, Broadway, where he will be ready next Saturday to fill all orders in his line to the satisfaction of all customers.

....Chase Block....

BROADWAY.

SATURDAY OPENING

SATURDAY OPENING

THE OLD RELIABLE

St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co.

The only Old Line Company Doing a

HAIL INSURANCE BUSINESS.

There are no Assessments, Premiums are paid just as in case of Fire Insurance. Losses Promptly Adjusted.

Total Assets, $2,523,087.72 — 34 Years in Business

MESSRS MARIN & WEBSTER,
Crookston, Minn.

GENTLEMEN—I wish to say to you that I had insurance last year for hail in the St. Paul Fire and Marine and that I suffered a loss which was very promptly paid by the company to my entire satisfaction.

I have now taken out insurance on my crop for this year and believe that the St. Paul is a good reliable fire and tornado company from my dealings with it and that all farmers wanting hail insurance cannot do better than to go to you and have the merits of this company explained to them before going elsewhere for hail insurance.

Respectfully, FRANK SUTTER.

Represented by MARIN & WEBSTER,
Next door to Post Office.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes lies right past your door, delivering twice each day. Call on our driver, or through telephone No. 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riverside at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

THE COUNTY BOARD.

Contract for Bridge Over Sand Hill River in Vineland Let to Marin & Nolen.

GENTILLY DITCH EXAMINED.

School Petitions Received—Bills Audited and Allowed—Taxes Abated.

Official proceedings of the Board of Commissioners of Polk County.

Pursuant to notice the Board of Commissioners of Polk County met in special session June 21, 1899 with members Fortier, McCarty, Eastman and Bratvold present.

The reading of the record of the preceding meeting was on motion dispensed with.

On motion the consideration of proposals for the construction of a bridge over Sand Hill river in the town of Vineland was postponed until 1 o'clock p m. today.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner McCarty, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the assessment of Oscar Carlson, for year 1898, on ne¼ section 12 in the town of Knute, be reduced $132.50 to correct an erroneous assessment and the county auditor is hereby instructed to issue a refunding order in proportion to said reduction. said tax having been already paid.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Fortier, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the county auditor be and he is hereby instructed to cancel the seed grain lien charged in the taxes of 1898, in amount of $16.69, against the sw¼ of section 10, T. 153, R. 44 in compliance with the petition of E. J. Lander & Co.

A petition was presented by Joseph Montague et al asking for the construction of a county drainage ditch through the towns of Gentilly, Kertsonville and Fairfax and considered at length, and the following resolution offered by Commissioner McCarty was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That action upon the petition of Joseph Montague and others, for the construction of a county drainage ditch through the towns of Gentilly, Kertsonville and Fairfax, be and the same is hereby postponed until Friday, June 23, 1899, pending an examination of the route of said ditch with a view of ascertaining the most feasible point for an outlet, and Commissioners Eastman, Bratvold and Fortier are hereby appointed a committee to make such examination.

The proposals submitted for the construction of a bridge across the Sand Hill river in the town of Vineland were taken up and considered, and the following resolution, offered by Commissioner McCarty, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the bid of Marin & Nolen for the construction of a wooden pile bridge across the Sand Hill river in the town of Vineland for the sum of $4.50 per lineal foot be and the same is hereby accepted and the said Marin & Nolen are required to furnish a good and sufficient bond in the sum of $1,000 for the faithful performance of said work according to plans and specifications.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Bratvold, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the sum of $200 be and the same is hereby appropriated out of the road and bridge fund to the town of Queen, for the improvement of roads and bridges in said town.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Fortier, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the assessment on ne¼ nw¼ se¼ nw¼ and lots 12 and 3, section 17, town of Gentilly for the year 1898 be and the same is hereby reduced $100, to correct an erroneous assessment, and the auditor is hereby instructed to issue a refunding order proportionate with said reduction.

A petition was presented by Fred Wetterlet al, asking for the formation of a school district to be composed of all of sections 1, 2, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, the n½ of section 24, the se¼ of section 10, in T. 149, R. 47 and the sw¼ of section 7 and the w½ of section 18 in T. 149, R. 46 and on motion a hearing was granted upon said petition for the next meeting of the county board July 10, 1899.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner McCarty, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the taxes for the years 1897, 1898 and 1899 on the s½ nw¼ ne¼ section 27, T. 148, R. 41, be and the same is hereby abated in full, it appearing by a clerical error the said taxes when paid were credited upon another discription.

On motion Board adjourned until Friday, June 23, 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m.

June 23, 1899. Board met pursuant to adjournment, with Commissioners Fortier, McCarty, Eastman and Bratvold present.

The committee appointed to examine the proposed route of the Gentilly-Kertsonville county drainage ditch submitted the following report, which on motion was adopted:

To the Board of Commissioners of Polk County, Minn. Your committee appointed to examine the outlet of the Gentilly, Kertsonville and Fairfax ditch would respectfully report that we have examined the same and would recommend that the route of the Fairfax town ditch to Burnham Creek be taken.

G. W. EASTMAN
R. FORTIER } Committee.
K. O. BRATVOLD

Conformable to the recommendation in the foregoing report the petition of Joseph Montague, et al, for a county drainage ditch through the towns of Gentilly, Kertsonville and Fairfax, was on motion rejected.

The application of Mrs. Elsie H. Spendley for abatement of taxes on lots 7 and 8, block 10, Sampson's Woodland addition to City of Crookston for the year 1895, was on motion rejected.

The application of Sam Gibson for reduction of assessment and abatement of taxes on 145x193.66 out of nw¼, section 15, T. 150, R. 41, for the years 1897 to 1896 inclusive was on motion referred to Commissioner Fortier for further investigation, to report at the next meeting of the County Board.

On motion July 5, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. was fixed as the date of hearing upon the petition of Joseph Shorter, et al, for the construction of a county drainage ditch through the towns of Andover and Fairfax, known as "Ditch No. 13" and the county auditor was instructed to give the required notice of such hearing.

The application of P. J. McGuire for abatement of taxes for the year 1897, on w½ sw¼ lots 2 and 4, section 32, T. 150, R. 46 was on motion referred back for correction.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner McCarty, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the following sums be and are hereby appropriated to the following named towns out of the road and bridge fund, for the improvement of roads and bridges in said towns:

Russia, $150. Hill River, $50, Gentilly, $75, Farley $150.

The application of B. F. Barkle for correction of assessment and abatement of taxes on se¼, section 33 and ne¼ sw¼, section 34, T. 148, R. 48 was on motion rejected.

The application of Kuren Rundhem for correction of assessment on lots 2 and 3, Sundsvold's and Lind's addition to village of Fosston, for the year 1898, was on motion granted and said assessment was reduced from $210 to $160, and the county auditor was instructed to issue a refunding order proportionate with said reduction.

The application of M. L. Lindlue of the town of Hill River, for an appropriation of $100 to aid him in the payment of hospital care and treatment to his son, claimed to be suffering from impaired sight, was on motion rejected, the Board deeming such appropriation as unauthorized by law.

A petition was presented by T. T. Buckley, et al, asking for the alteration of the boundaries of school district No. 234, as follows, to-wit: "So as to include all of sections 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 16, 17, 18 and the s½ of section 21, and the ne¼, section 20 in T. 150, R. 40, town of Chester, detaching from said district now established all that portion of it now being in town of Lambert, Red Lake county, and adding thereto all of section 4, 5, 8 and e½ of sections 3, 9, 17 and the n½ of section 21 and ne¼, section 20," and on motion a hearing was granted on said petition at the next meeting of the County Board, July 10, 1899.

A petition was presented by O. A. Barnes et al, asking for the alteration of the boundaries of School District No. 104 as follows: "That said district No. 104 shall include the n½ of section 25, and n½ of section 30, T. 147, R. 46," and on motion it was ordered that a hearing shall be had upon said petition at the next meeting of the County Board, July 10, 1899.

A petition was presented by the supervisors of the town of Queen, asking that said town be reimbursed in the amount of $345.25, money expended in the care and medical attendance of Peter Brunnun, a non-resident pauper, and on motion said petition was rejected on the ground that said appropriation was not authorized by law.

Commissioner Fortier submitted the following report which on motion was adopted:

To the Hon. Board of Commissioners of Polk County:

The undersigned committee appointed by this Board to examine the Broadway bridge in the City of Crookston, with a view of ascertaining if same was completed in accordance with the agreement made by your Board with said city, respectfully report that I have made the examination as directed and find that said city has complied with all the conditions required, and I recommend that the balance due upon the appropriation made to said City of Crookston in amount of $115.00 be paid.

REMI FORTIER,
Committee.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Bratvold, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the county auditor be and he is hereby instructed to issue his warrant in favor of the City of Crookston in the amount of $115.00, said sum being the balance due on Broadway bridge.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner McCarty, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the sum of $500.00 be and is hereby set apart from the general revenue fund of Polk county, the same to be placed to the credit of drainage ditch No. 13 fund and the same to be paid back to the general revenue fund as soon as the bonds for said ditch No. 13 are sold.

The petition of Ole Engen asking to be detached with his land, the e½ ne¼ and lots 4 and 5 and e½ se¼ of section 36, T. 148, R. 48, from School District No. 236 and attached to District No 5 was presented, considered and on motion a hearing was granted upon same for the next meeting of the County Board July 10, 1899.

A petition was presented by Erick S. Skorstrom asking to be detached with his land the sw¼ nw¼, section 17, e½ sw¼, section 18 and e½ nw¼, section 19, T. 148, R. 48 from School District No. 236 and attached to District No. 6, and on motion a hearing was granted upon said petition for the next meeting of the County Board July 10, 1899.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Eastman, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the county auditor be and he is hereby instructed to cancel the sum of $25.35, the amount in full for all taxes on the n½ of nw¼ of section 27, and e½ ne¼ section 28, T. 152, R. 43, for the year 1898.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Bratvold, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That N. S. Gordon and E. J. Grover be and they are hereby allowed $25.00 each, to reimburse them for expenses incurred in going to St. Paul to oppose the passage of the Red Lake county bill.

The application of A. R. Holston to have a telephone placed in his office at county expense, was on motion adopted.

The following resolution, offered by Commission Eastman, was on motion adopted.

Resolved, That the request of the jurors of precinct to have his office removed to the Fournet block be and the same is hereby granted, provided that the rent be the same as at his present location.

Commissioner Fortier offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That the decision of the district court dismissing the cases of appeal from the allowances made by this Board to A. D. Stephens, W. F. McKenzie, John Glenson, Remi Fortier, Hugh Thompson, J. W. Wheeler and James Rosenau, merely with the approval of this Board and Counsel for Polk county is hereby instructed to discontinue said cases and thus avoid further expense to said county.

The following bills were audited and allowed:

Thomas Lawrence fees as sheriff	$ 235 18
Thomas Lawrence fees as sheriff and postage	71 05
Thomas Lawrence fees as sheriff and postage	33 60
Maria Lawrence services as matron in county jail	10 00
Brown Tenney & Co books and blanks	338 47
L. F. Grossman appearing as county attorney in probate court	3 00
People's Press sundry printing	17 25
A. H. Stevenson building supplies for court house	9 50
Austin & Lockey rent of chairs for grand jury	4 00
H. Steenerson revising ballots 1898	5 00
S. A. Walker, drugs and office supplies	18 05
Erikson & Vasnet merchandise to court house	14 05
Barnes & Peterson burial of non-resident pauper	18 00
O. H. Miller fees as county coroner's physician	92 31
Crookston Lumber Co. wood to jail	6 00
St Gabriel's Hospital care of Albert Becker	30 00
O Rimfler fees as county coroner	22 45
Pioneer Press Co blanks & bills	23 05
Christopher Hansen services as viewer on ditch No. 13	49 60
J. W. Gibson services as viewer on ditch No. 13	62 40
Jo Larbandeire services as viewer on ditch No. 13	60 40
G. T. Blakeney chairman on ditch No. 13	8 00
Aurora Rolf rodman on ditch No. 13	19 00
O. L. Ramey engineer on ditch No. 13	70 00
Wm Powers meals to jurors	4 55
Wm Powers meals to jurors	4 55
John Glenson postage	2 00
A F Lundall repairs on court house	2 75
Aaron Gustafson repairs on old jail building	14 09
John S. Dwyer postage	2 00
John Nelson bottle fees 3 bills	17 05
Wm Powers meals to jurors	4 55
J O Johnson postage	2 00
L Comyns constable fees 3 bills	28 55
H E English constable fees	3 75
Geo Clifford jury fees	1 12
Jas Bain " "	1 12
Geo Kronenschnabel " "	1 12
Otto Kunkel " "	1 12
Wm Petersen " "	1 12
Jas Bain " "	1 12
Martin Flom " "	1 12
Remi Fortier services as county commissioner	19 20
K O Bratvold services as county commissioner	7 20
G W Eastman services as county commissioner	27 60
Chas McCarty services as county commissioner	28 80

Following bills were laid over: F. E. LaPage, Geo. P. Kirk, F. J. Duggan.

On motion board adjourned sine die.

SHOW DAY ALMOST HERE.

Only a Little While Before Ringling Bros.' Big Circus Comes.

Next Wednesday, July 5, is Ringling day in this city. That it will be a memorable occasion is a certainty. The coming of such a famous institution as Ringling Brothers' circus is in itself an event of extraordinary importance. The magnitude and high character of the show make it a welcome visitor. In the organization of such a stupendous national entertainment, and in bringing to the doors of the public the rare, curious and beautiful things of the wide world, the five famous proprietors of this incomparable exhibition have constituted themselves public benefactors. Do you love fine horses?—here you will find the finest specimens of high-born equines ever bred. Are you interested in the wonders of the beasts creation?—the zoological marvels of sea and river, forest and jungle are displayed for your edification. Do you enjoy the beauties of art and the brilliancy of classic pugeantry?—the loviest spectacle of modern or ancient times will greet you. Are you exhilarated by the hotly contested struggles of the racing course? Do you delight in gallant deeds of daring and dexterity? Are you impressed by wonderful exhibitions of trained animal intelligence? All this and more you will find in absolute perfection with this great show. From the initial parade in the morning of show day until the close of the final performance at night everything is on a scale of grandeur and magnitude hitherto unknown in the amusement world. The inaugural parade next Display takes place at ten o'clock in the morning, and is a fitting introduction to the wonders of the day. It is divided into thirty sections, each complete in itself, and yet in its clever arrangement adding to the effectiveness of the whole. There is the English military section with its brilliantly-uniformed hussars and its mounted military band: the French, Spanish, Russian, Turkish, Japanese and American military sections, each represented by a faithful reproduction of its crack military organization: zoological sections, with all kinds of rare, wild beasts openly displayed in magnificently-carved and ornamented dens and cages; and many other sections which in wealth of display and beauty of coloring vie with the rainbow in prismatic brilliancy. The performance is grandly in keeping with this marvelous preliminary carnival. From the opening spectacle, "The Last of the Century," to the hippodromic finale the show is a succession of the world's great acrialists, the cleverest of clever acrobats and gymnasts, the supreme leaders in equestrianism, the most unique of unique specialists contribute to the absorbing interest of the show. The Lockhart elephant comedians, Sonder's elephant brass band and Marchand's pugilistic pachyderms compose a triumvirate of trained animal features impossible to find with any other circus on earth. In fact, from the moment you enter the show until you leave there is a never-ending succession of new novel and astounding performances such as would be beyond the power of any other amusement management to imitate. Reserved numbered seats and admissions show day at Tom Morris' jewelry store at the same price as on the exhibition grounds.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.
HOMOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Office in McKinnon Block. Crookston, Minn

Jules Gendron.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Rooms 2, 3, 4 and 5 over Fontaine & Anglin's
Office hours—9 to 12 a. m.; 1 to 3 p. m.; 7 to 8 p.m

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office in Opera Block Crookston, Minn

Miller & Foote,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
Offices, corner Broadway and Robert streets
Crookston, Minn.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Services every Sunday, Morning, 10:30, even ing, 8:00. Holy Communion the First Sunday of every Month. Reader you are welcome.
REV. H. M GREEN, R. D.
Rector

Agents Wanted.

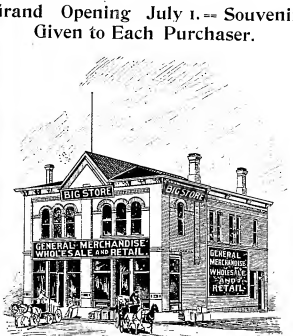
The oldest and largest nursery in the west. Everything for the grove and orchard. Three plums of your and the year round. Pay weekly. Write for terms. THE JEWEL NURSERY Co., Lake City, Minn. 9-14

United States Map.

15c. A copy of our handsome map, 48x36 inches, printed in four colors and mounted on a roller. Also sent folded in pocket size for 25 cents, postage or express not prepaid. We cannot sell use postage stamps. GEO. P. LYMAN, General Passenger Agent C., B. & N. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

CARMAN BIG STORE

Grand Opening July 1. -- Souvenir Given to Each Purchaser.



The Carman Big Store will have a grand opening next Saturday, July 1. Farmers and towns people alike are invited to call and inspect the immense stock in this department store. On the opening day a beautiful souvenir will be given to every lady and gentleman purchaser.

The Carman brick block in which the Big Store is located has been thoroughly repaired and fixed up in most handsome style. The entire first floor, composed of two large store rooms, will be occupied, but an archway has been cut between the departments thus throwing the store into one room. The counters are all supplied with glass tops, making in this way fine show cases, which are filled with all kinds of fancy notions. The display in the windows and the arrangement of the goods throughout the store show the handiwork of a skilled workman.

A full line of clothing and gent's furnishings will be carried, also a complete stock of millinery goods, carpets, dry goods, boots and shoes, staple and fancy groceries, crockery, jewelry, notions, tinware, light hardware, paints, oils, wall-paper, etc., etc. Everything is fixed up in the most modern style. In the front part of the store is the cashier's office; in the rear of the grocery department is the bookkeeper's office, and at the further end of the dry goods department is the private office of the proprietor. Nothing in the way of fixtures or goods seems to be wanting and all customers will receive the most courteous treatment.

S. Bisazza, the proprietor of the Big Store, is a successful business man of eighteen years' experience. He had the misfortune to have his store at Thief River Falls burned last Christmas. Two months later he came to Crookston and has since been arranging to open up for business in South Crookston. He has a complete stock of new goods. Butter and eggs taken in exchange for dry goods, groceries, etc. Remember the Carman Big Store.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings

When la ing out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.

Call us up before letting your Contract.

We shall be pleased to give on the benefit of our experience in laing out wiring plans.

It Will Cost You Nothing

to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.

Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring

We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.

Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.

Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF

THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY

JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNERS TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT 1899, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER XV.

DEADER THAN LIFE ITSELF.

The persistency of the blacks was appalling. When they got within 30 or 40 yards of us, they discharged a volley of spears and stones. We had knelt down on the terrace, and the ledge being higher than the floor they either rattled harmlessly against the roof of the cavern or else struck against the ledge that skirted the terrace.

For a minute after this there was a deathly stillness, during which I could actually hear the bubbling and spurting of the water at the spring, the cricking of a cicada and the labored breathing of wounded Gordon in the cave.

"Fire!"

And we went in a well directed volley into them that carried death with it. I believe every bullet did good work that day. I saw the old chief spring into the air and fall back stone dead. In another minute he was borne away. Then there was a murderous rush up that hateful terrace. Some blacks fell dead ere they had begun to ascend. In another minute it was a hand to hand fight—a bloody, fierce, devilish struggle. I saw Saville, when he had emptied the magazine of his carbine, throw it behind him, snatch a great ironwood club from the hands of a black fellow and dash in among them, clearing that platform in a way which only a giant like himself could have done. At every sweep of his brawny arm a nigger's head cracked like a glass bottle, and the owner collapsed all of a heap like a poleaxed bullock. Jack, Daly and I kept firing into the mob that pressed them on from behind. To my surprise and just when I was looking back with fearful eyes to see if any of the blacks had passed by us into the cave I saw something that startled me. Kneeling on the ground and firing with a cool deliberation, Norah was defending the narrow entrance or passage that led to the spring, which in our excitement we had overlooked. It gave me a bad turn at the time to note that the warm olive of the girl's cheek had a crimson stain. Still, she was as methodical and collected as if she had been simply practicing at a mark on a tree, as we had often seen her do

One night have thought that Elsie Gordon would be rather in the way than otherwise in an experience of this kind, but it would have been a mistake. She had snatched up Saville's rifle and, taking from her pocket several brass cartridges, forced them into the slot. Then just as the savages were making a final rush and Saville's club was from his hands as a blow from a boomerang momentarily paralyzed his arm Elsie Gordon, darting to his side, put the loaded rifle into his hands. This turned the tide of their fierce onslaught. Saville did not even put the rifle to his shoulder, but, as the Americans say, literally "pumped the lead" into the mass of bodies in front of him. The blacks wavered, broke, seized their dead and wounded and made back for the cover of the trees and bowlders some couple of hundred yards away. If we could only have had our bones just then and followed up our victory, I have no doubt but that we could have effectually dispersed the blacks and saved ourselves As we were situated, however, it would have been madness to have left the shelter of the cave. Gordon was in such a weak and helpless condition that we could not have traveled. Suddenly something occurred to me—I r. n down the terrace to the spring and there found a couple of blacks making away from the narrow crevasse that opened from it into the cave and which Norah Mackenzie had defended. I promptly squared accounts with them.

He snatched a great ironwood club from the side of the entrance.

One noteworthy feature of the fight was the behavior of Samson. On one occasion when Saville had been hard pressed by a huge black this four footed lactician, coming behind the latter, sank his teeth into his shins. The terror and agony of the savage at this unexpected attack were only equaled by the look of mortal terror on his face as Saville, recovering himself, swung his great club around his head and cracked his skull.

It was Jack who first discovered that the blacks had taken with them our provisions, which in the pack bags had been placed at the foot of the cliff. At this discovery we stared blankly at one another, for if we were forced to remain in that cave for any length of time we must starve. Jack wanted to make a field upon them and endeavor to recapture the provisions, but this was a mad scheme and impracticable I promptly reminded him of those whom in that case we must leave behind us in the cave comparatively unprotected. I believe each was the reckless courage of Jack that he would have attacked the blacks himself single handed if we had let him. As for Daly, he was strangely taciturn, though he had showed considerable courage. I had seen him during the fight when a black fellow had seized the barrel of Jack's rifle and I was otherwise engaged deliberately fire in another direction when he might just as well have rid Jack of his antagonist. It was satisfactory, however, to think that Elsie Gordon had also seen this, for I saw surprise, indignation and horror in her eyes.

Going back into the great cavern which opened up into three other passages as it pierced the cliff, I found Norah Mackenzie leaning against the side of the cave as if in a faint. On seeing her I forgot that hint of resentment in her voice when Jack had asked if she really cared when he died. For getting what it meant, I only remembered what she was to me. To fetch some water from the spring, take the handkerchief from the breast of his jacket and to lave her cheek with the water was my next effort. When I had removed the blood, I discovered to my relief that she had only received a slight cut on the cheek bone, which if it did leave a mark would only be trifling. So concerned was I over her condition that it is not unlikely my manner betrayed a greater degree of solicitude than any one in my position was justified in using any right to express just then. What I said to her out of the steadily growing tense of my great love it were difficult to remember now, but I must have lost sight of the fact that as yet she had given me no right to speak to her as I did, for the color came back into her cheeks, her great eyes looked at me reservedly, and that delicate purple shadow under them seemed to deepen as she spoke.

"Mr. Parker, do you think it right to talk to me as you are doing? I don't wish to appear ungrateful, but why forget yourself like this?"

"Because you have grown dearer than life itself to me!" I cried boldly, and the truth was out at last.

Bitterness rose to her feet and looked steadily but, as I thought, not resentfully upon me.

"You don't know what you are saying," she said. "This is neither the time nor place to talk of such a thing Besides, there is some one"—

I heard no more, for at that moment my taste entered the cave and also stopped short. I could see their eyes meet and read in them the dawn of that new life which in her case became impossible to conceal. Her action and words only a few minutes before had been overwhelming. How could I have been so blind? Was it not natural that she should prefer Jack to me, he who was a handsomer, a better man than myself in every respect? What had I more than ordinary interest in him could have made her masquerade as she had done on the Macarthur and run the grave risk of detection? It was clear as day to me now. "It is written in the book," I said, for the time being becoming a fatalist.

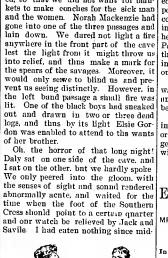
I bowed my head and went out on to the terrace—the light had gone out of my life. It seemed a matter little to me now whether or not I was killed by the blacks. I thought the stood looking at me, as if she would have softened the blow. But I had got my answer—the deathknell of my hopes had been sounded.

We held a council of war upon the terrace—it was the outlook was gloomy one. We knew that tomorrow or next day at the latest the squatter must come back, most likely down the very narrow valley in which we were now entrapped, and discover us. But again the chances were that the blacks who must have been cognizant of his whereabouts would lie in wait for him in large numbers in one or more of the gorges and surprise him on his way back

It was now getting dark, but we could still see the forms of the savages, here and there sticks in their hands, flitting about among the bowlders and behind the trees. All that night they kept up a most terrible howling over such of their numbers as had come to grief in the fight.

All through that long dreary night I watched at the mouth of the cave on the terrace and peered into the darkness in order that we might not be surprised by the savages sneaking upon us for a savage, when he does sneak upon a foe in the dark, is as noiseless and unsubstantial as a ghost. He will crawl on his stomach stealthily as a snake. At the slightest hint of danger he will, like certain members of the animal kingdom, suspend, as it were, animation in his body until, peering into the gloom, the foe will think that the dark body seen is only a tree stump or a dead branch or some physical peculiarity of the ground—anything but a black fellow. We determined that two of us should go on watch together Daly and I took the first watch, so Saville and Jack retired into the cave Gordon by this time was in a condition that made us fear an attack of fever, but his sister waited upon him and attended to his slightest wants. Luckily the blacks had left our swags untouched, so that we did not want for blankets to make couches for the sick man and the women. Norah Mackenzie had gone into one of the three passages and lain down. We dared not light a fire anywhere in the front part of the cave lest the light from it might throw us into relief, and thus make a mark for the spears of the savages. Moreover, it would only serve to blind us and prevent us seeing distinctly. However, in the left hand passage a small fire was lit. One of the black boys had sneaked out and drawn in two or three dead logs, and thus by its light Elsie Gordon was enabled to attend to the wants of her brother.

Oh, the horror of that long night! Daly sat on one side of the cave, and I sat on the other, but we could not speak. We only peered into the gloom, with the senses of sight and sound rendered abnormally acute, and waited for the time when the foot of the Southern Cross should point to a certain quarter and our watch be relieved by Jack and Saville. I had eaten nothing since mid-



"You have grown dearer than life itself to me," I cried boldly.

day, but somehow I did not feel hungry. As has been said, the savages had carried off our pack bags and left us with only what little food we had remaining from our dinner, which, of course, we tactily understood would be reserved for the women and the sick man. The blacks kept prowling about, for small kindling and then rekindled fires and keeping back from them, so that they might not be marks for our bullets. The Southern Cross had described a half circle when Daly said:

"I guess it's a fair thing now, Parker. What d'ye say?"

"Certainly," I replied. "Time's up. A six hours' spell of this sort of thing becomes monotonous after a bit The beggars are beginning to go to roost. I don't think they'll attempt anything tonight."

Now that Daly was in the same dilemma as we were my dislike to him had become somewhat modified, and I was inclined, despite his late conduct, to trust him civilly. One thing was certain—he had not shown any cowardice when the blacks had made their attack For my part, I would just as soon have watched there all night, knowing that if I did lie down it would be impossible for me to sleep But still the air was somewhat chilly in that elevated situation, and having on only a thin shirt I confess to having thought just then that a warm over a fire would be rather a pleasant experience. One understanding with Saville and Jack had been that we should awake them at the time appointed for beginning their watch. I told Daly to keep a lookout and went into the cave to do so. I groped my way in for several paces and then, a bright light showing from a passage on the left, turned into it. Here near a small fire lay Gordon, as if asleep, with one hand under his head. Resting with her back against the side of the cave sat Norah Mackenzie, as if watching the sick man. She had just sent Elsie Gordon away to lie down and had taken her place. Jack lay some little distance off. He must have been asleep when I came in. However, he sprang to his feet and buckled his belt more tightly round him. But the most singular figure of all was that of Saville, who sat with his legs drawn up, his back against a large bowlder, his head buried in his hands and the Chinese puzzle on the ground in front of him. "I say, Parker," said the great fellow as he rose to his feet to allow Jack out, "just have a turn at that thing puzzle. I'm blessed if I can make it out!"

"You must be tired," remarked Miss Mackenzie pleasantly. "You'll find some freshly made tea in the billy Two others have just had some. Daly and I require it, I'm sure. Luckily we saved the tea and sugar."

I thanked her, and Daly and I helped ourselves. It seemed to put new life into me. There is nothing like a drink of good tea and coffee to comfort one who is troubled in mind or fatigued in body Then beside that flickering fire I sat and brooded, the cankerworm of disappointment gnawing at my heart. I had tried to prevail on Norah Mackenzie to lie down, saying I would watch, but she would not hear of it and advised me to try to get some sleep Sleep! And with such a fever in my brain!

After what had passed that day between us I felt about 20 years of age What she had told me had sunk deep into my soul and weighed upon my spirits with the oppressive sense of existence of some horrible nightmare. If I forgot it for a minute the thing was, I would loom up and crush down upon me again with a fuller revelation of its hopelessness. How could I have been so blind as to suppose that a bright young creature like her could come to cure for such an old, sour stricken, rolling stone as myself? I marveled at my consistent blindness and cursed myself for my folly I could not blame her She had never by word or sign encouraged me to hope. What had become of all my fine plans for the future now? What did my altered circumstances matter? Money was only an element that seemed to buzz at and make me feel my position all the more, for there was my comrade Jack, the man she had chosen in preference to me, without a sixpence he could call his own in the world Poor Jack, or, rather, happy Jack! And things might not take place with him as fiends of selfishness and jealousy fought for my soul.

Chill, gray evil morn looked with wan eyes and pallid face into the cave and on the tired, blood stained human beings it contained.

Though I knew that we were all in imminent danger of being massacred or slowly starved to death, these dangers appeared as nothing compared with that of the doom of Bellingen.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

ENGLAND IS READY

MR. CHAMBERLAIN DISCUSSES TRANSVAAL AFFAIRS

In Unmistakable Terms—Hopes a Clash May Be Averted but Declares Patience Is About Exhausted—Friendly Advances of the English Received With Applause—Action and Attitude of the Boers Strongly Denounced by the Speaker.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., June 27.—Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, addressing the Liberals of this city during the evening, reviewed carefully the Transvaal question. In the course of his address he said: "Even though our attitude is governed by the instructions of the British government, we cannot help being influenced by the fact that we have a million and a half of our own flesh and blood in South Africa, and that they are subjected to a system of government which is thoroughly corrupt and intolerable. We have always been willing to make the fullest allowance for the difficulties of the government of the South African republic. Great Britain has been compelled to increase the British garrisons in Cape Colony and Natal, entailing an additional expenditure of £100,000 annually.

"If the reforms which Lord Ripon proposed in 1894 had been accepted," said the minister, "there would have been no mail and no crisis at the present time. The country had the full confidence of the government and prevented the application of pressure."

Mr. Chamberlain said this government had tried to establish friendly relations with President Kruger, but all advances had been Received With Contempt.

After denouncing in the strongest terms the attitude and actions of the Boers, Mr. Chamberlain, with great deliberation and emphasis, added:

"The Transvaal government serves service fund has procured it friends and sympathizers in every country. The way the British subject is treated is not only a menace to them all, but interferes with our prestige among the natives, who now regard the Boers and not the British as the paramount power. Before violating the London convention the Transvaal is flagrantly violating the equality the assurances were designed to accomplish. Its misgovernment is a festering sore, poisoning the whole atmosphere of South Africa. The Dutch in Cape Colony and Natal would be in the happiest condition, but so long as the disease is prevails in the Transvaal it is impossible to stop the contagion.

Hatred and Suspicion

"Four times since independence was granted we have been on the verge of war. I hope the circumstances warrant us to say the British government wants, and has wanted, nothing more than to say that the government will draw back now that it has put its hands to the plow.

"We hope the efforts that are now being made will lead to an amicable arrangement, for if Great Britain only desires justice, but there comes a time when patience can hardly be distinguished from weakness, and when moral pressure becomes a farce, that cannot be ignored. Sentiment is not a self-respect. I trust that time may never come in this instance, but if it does Britons will insist upon the means to find a result essential to the peace of South Africa."

READY FOR THE FIELD.

Queen Victoria Reviews Eighteen Thousand of Her Troops.

LONDON, June 27.—The queen, the Duke of Cambridge, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, Grand Duke Michael of Russia, the Duke of Connaught, General Sir Redvers Buller, commander-in-chief of the army, and many princes and princesses were present on the occasion of the review. The interest in the review of over 18,000 of the best troops in England. This review is interpreted in London as a means of satisfying Queen Victoria that her troops are ready for any emergency in the Transvaal or elsewhere. It is now known that the queen returned from Balmoral especially to London, mostly for the purpose of attending this review. Nearly 18,000 infantry, 300 guns and 18,000 horses made up this magnificent display.

MANY WILL ATTEND.

General Acceptance of Invitations to the Anti-Trust Conference.

CHICAGO, June 26.—Secretary Early of the Civic Federation of Chicago, under whose auspices a conference will be held in Chicago Sept. 18-16 to consider trusts and combinations and legislation for their control, has received hundreds of letters from prominent men all over the country accepting invitations to be present at the meeting. Among those who have signified their intention of attending the conference in person or who will be represented are: Governor Pingree of Michigan, Roosevelt of New York, Stanley of Kansas, Sayers of Texas, Mount of Indiana, Faucher of North Dakota, Thomas of Colorado, Tanner of Illinois, McLaurin of Mississippi, McMillan of Tennessee, Poynter of Nebraska and Lee of South Dakota.

July 7.

The Nickel Plate Road will run an excursion to Chautauqua Lake at one fare for the round-trip. Write to General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago, for particulars.

Northern Pacific-Shasta.

Route gives you a chance to visit Yellowstone Park en route to the N. E. A. or the Pacific coast on the low rate tickets now on sale. Don't forget it. Visit your Northern Pacific ticket office and talk it over with the agent.

Education and Fine Scenery.

Go well together. Those going to the N. E. A. at Los Angeles will be better prepared for it by going via the Northern Pacific, Shasta route. Tickets good for stopovers. Call on Northern Pacific ticket agents for information in detail.

Take Advantage.

Of low rates to N. E. A. at Los Angeles California via Northern Pacific, Shasta route, and make a trip to the coast. You can go pretty nearly anywhere you want to—don't have to go to Los Angeles. Ask any Northern Pacific agent to explain the combination.

Don't Miss the Chance.

To go west this summer via Northern Pacific-Shasta route at small expense. N. E. A. low rates enable you to go to Washington, Oregon and California for very little money. You can go via one route and return over another-have stopovers en route to N. E. A. or not, as you please. Ask Northern Pacific agents about details.

The Nickel Plate Road.

Will sell excursion tickets to Chautauqua Lake and return on July 7, at one fare for the round-trip, with return limit of August 8, 1899. Tickets good on any of our three daily trains. Cheap rates to other excursion points. Van Buren St., Passenger Station on the Loop. For further information address the General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago. Telephone Central 2057.

The N. E. A. Low Rates.

Give you the opportunity of going through Montana, Idaho and Washington to North Pacific Coast and California via the Northern Pacific-Shasta route and returning via Colorado points, or vice versa. Stopovers allowed—time limits reasonable. Go on ask your Northern Pacific agent to explain the different combination rates and routes to select.

For Fourth of July.

The Nickle Plate Road will sell tickets at one fare for the round-trip within a radius of two hundred miles of starting point, on July 3 and 4, with return limit of July 5. Where going: to Cleveland, Buffalo, New York, Boston or other easternpoints, Washington, D. C., and Atlantic coast. Vestibuled sleeping cars on all trains and excellent dining-car service. For further information address General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

Farm For Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—northwest quarter of section 29, town 130, range 45, in the village of Greatly, about 100 yards from depot. Good No. 1 buildings, including good house, well finished, large barn for stock, granary holding 6,000 bushels, good well; cross fenced, new pump, close to barn; about four miles of fence on the farm. For further particulars, inquire of V. Brosseau, at Ottawa House, Crookston, Minn. 8-29

Fourth of July Excursion.

Over Nickle Plate Road, at one fare for the round-trip, within a radius of two hundred miles from starting point. Tickets on sale July 3 and 4, with return limit of July 5. Through trains daily in each direction between Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York, Boston and New England points. Every facility offered for comfort of traveling public. Rates and time cards, call on or address agents for information cheerfully given by General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

A New Burlington Book.

Railroad companies are great patrons not only of the liberal arts, but of that modern classical expression that printing, engraving and photography places within the reach of everyone.

The Burlington Route has contributed its share to the sum total of railroad art and the latest addition will rank among the finest specimens of scenic souvenirs ever issued. It is the Burlington Book of St. Paul and Minneapolis, a rich oblong volume picturing first the magnificent train, then scenes along the route, then St. Paul and surroundings followed by Ft. Snelling and Minneapolis. In all respects, composition, letter press, illustrations and binding, it is a dainty volume.

Copies of this elegant book can be had by enclosing 25 cents (postage stamps not received) to Geo. P. Lymon, G. P. A., Burlington Route, St. Paul, Minn.

Expenses of remittance can be saved by several persons combining orders. 10-19

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Agricultural Land Seekers

save time and money and improve their condition if their corres pond with

Free Homestead Lands in Western Canada

Secure for yourself and your sons a heritage in the Golden West. Two years of occupancy of six years will

Yield You a Competence

as it has done thousands of others, who follow the advice, go to the land of wheat, barley and oats, and obtain employment and prices for the harvest, entire to extravagance of grain and Low Railway Rates that Exist.

Climate healthy, fuel abundant and taxes merely nominal. Write for pamphlet, "Last Best West," describing the true facts as to the Canadian Government Land Regulations, Immigration, Homes, Etc., etc., sent free.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY

BENJAMIN DAVIES

154 E. 3rd St., St. Paul, Minn.

N. Campbell, Crookston Minn.
P. Johnson, Fosston, Minn.
W. V. Nugent, Villana, Minn. local agents.

TIME CARD

OF TRAINS.

Crookston

SOUTH BOUND	Arr.	Dep't
No 50 to 58 Mixed		7:00 a m
apolis Duluth and East	5:15 p m	7:30 p m
SOUTH BOUND
No 108 Limited Exp. Grand Forks and Winnipeg	11:10 a m	11:40 a m
G. A. SHARTLE, Agt.	Chas. S. Fee, G. P. A.
Crookston Minn	St Paul, Minn

THE GREAT NORTHERN

ARRIVE	DAILY	EXCEPT SUNDAY	LEAVE
8:30 am	Grand Forks, North and West		9:00 am
6:30 pm	Grand Forks, East and West		6:45 pm
6:00 pm	St. Cloud, Minneapolis & St. Paul		6:30 pm
10:30 am	Red Lake Falls		4:00 pm
4:00 pm	Fosston, Bemidji, Duluth and points on Lake Superior		9:00 am
6:45 pm	Climax, Halstad, Northwood and Fargo		7:30 am

"Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and departs Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk, ss.
In Probate Court, Special term May 26, 1899.

In the matter of the estate of Frederick Lafayette, deceased.

On reading and considering the petition of Peter Lafayette, administrator of said estate of Polk County and State of Minnesota, duly appointed and qualified, and now acting as such administrator.

It is ordered, That the meeting be and the same is hereby allowed, and that after the date of the order in which all persons having claims against said deceased may present the same to the Probate Court of said county for examination and allowance at the Probate Office in said county.

It is further ordered, That the first day of December next and the second day of January next terms of said Probate Court be and the same are hereby appointed for the hearing of said claims and demands, at which time the said petitioner appointed to the time and place aforesaid, and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, That notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by publishing a copy of this order in the Polk County Journal for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, and by personal service of a copy hereof upon all known creditors at least fourteen days before said day of hearing.

Dated Crookston Minn. the 26th day of May A. D. 1899. By the Court.

(Seal) C. W. MILLER, Judge of Probate.

A Duplicate Attest: Judge of Probate.

Notice of assignment for benefit of creditors.

Notice is hereby given that on the 26th day of June, 1899, a general assignment was made by Thomas Hall of the village of Fertile, county of Polk and state of Minnesota, to the undersigned, for the benefit of his creditors; that the inventory of his assets and a list of his creditors, so far as known to him, are now on file in my office; that the time limited for the presentation of claims against said assignor is three months from the date of said assignment, and that the time and place for the meeting of his creditors for the appointment of assignees and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said meeting will be held at my office in the village of Crookston, in said county, on the 26th day of July, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day.

Dated this 26th day of June, 1899.

C. W. MILLER, Assignee.

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage, containing power of sale, dated the 4th day of July, 1892, filed in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, Minnesota, on the 5th day of July, 1892, at 9 o'clock a. m., and duly recorded in Book "M" of mortgages on page 256, which said mortgage has been duly assigned and transferred to The American Freehold Land Mortgage Company of London, Limited, by instrument of assignment, the certain lands and premises described in said mortgage, situate in Polk County, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:

The east half of the northeast quarter (e ½ of ne ¼) and the east half of the southeast quarter (e ½ of se ¼) of the west quarter (w ¼) of section thirty-six (36), township one hundred forty-eight (148), range forty-five (45), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, according to the survey of the United States Government Survey thereof, and according to the plat of said land now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said county.

And no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and there is now due upon said mortgage and the note therein described the sum of Two Hundred Seventy-five Dollars and Fifty-two Cents ($275.52) principal and interest, and no part of said principal or interest has been paid, and the undersigned the present owner of said mortgage intends to foreclose the same by sale of said premises to pay the amount due thereon, with interest and costs and disbursements allowed by law.

Dated St. Cloud Minn. June 1, 1899.

THE AMERICAN FREEHOLD LAND MORTGAGE COMPANY, LONDON (Limited) of London, England.

GEO. H. HENDERSON,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
6-22 St. Cloud Minn.

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota County of Polk, ss.
The State of Minnesota, by P. H. Cotter, Plaintiff, vs.
Geo. Defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Judges of the Peace in and for said county, on the 10th day of July, 1899, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the City of Crookston in said county, to answer to Otto Burkhardt in a civil action, in the said county, wherein he is plaintiff and you are defendant, and to set forth and show cause, if any you have, why judgment will not be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said Otto Burkhardt for such sum as he shall show himself entitled to.

Given under my hand this 2nd day of June, 1899.

G. H. HOLT,
Justice of the Peace.

6-22

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

Nineteen naval recruits have been enlisted at St. Paul.

Five new postal stations will be established in St. Paul.

Census examinations will be held in St. Paul in September.

Night dockmen at Two Harbors have struck for $2 per night.

A new paper, The News, will make its appearance at Ackley this week.

The grand commandery of Minnesota Knights Templar met at Duluth Saturday.

J. A. Herrick, late of the Farmington Tribune, has purchased The Gazette at Exeter, N. H.

State tax collections in the June settlement show an increase over last year of 9 per cent.

Norwegian Lutherans laid the cornerstone of the Theological seminary at Hamline Friday.

The State Horticultural society held its annual meeting at the state farm beginning Thursday.

The State Medical society has closed its annual convention at Minneapolis. The next meeting will be at Duluth.

The strike at the Two Harbors ore docks has been settled and the men returned to work. Their demands were granted.

The Methodist camp meeting for the Watertown (S. D.) and Willmar districts, is being held at Simpson Park, Ortonville.

J. Adam Bede announces that he is a candidate for the Republican congressional nomination in the Sixth district to succeed Congressman Page Morris.

Governor Lind has appointed Alois Schwab a special judge of the municipal court at Le Sueur in accordance with the law passed by the recent legislature.

Governor Lind has received a cable dispatch from Major Bean announcing the death at Manila of Private William Pilgrim, Company A, Thirteenth Minnesota.

At the class day exercises at the Winona normal school the dress of one of the girls caught fire and she was quite painfully, though not dangerously burned.

The state railway commission has asked the courts to enforce the Duluth-New Ulm coal rate. Mandamus proceedings were commenced Friday at St. Paul.

The death is reported of Fred Fritzen of Company E, Thirteenth, by a cablegram from Major Bean to Governor Lind, from typhoid fever. Fritzen was a single man, was 20 years old, a harher, living in St. Paul.

At Duluth the managers of St. Luke's hospital have decided to erect a new hospital building. The new building will cost $80,000, and the pavilion plan will be adopted. The structure will accommodate 100 patients.

Big Stone Lake Interstate Chautauqua has been established at Simpson park, Ortonville, where it will be held annually hereafter. It will open July 14 and continue until July 31. Elaborate preparations have been arranged.

The receiver of the Marine National Bank of Duluth has advised the controller's office that the affairs of the bank are in such a condition that he will be able to relinquish the receivership within the next two months.

Dr. Ohage, health commissioner at St. Paul, reports that the city has finished with the smallpox patients. The penthouse has been cleansed and fumigated and the one patient who had the disease during May has been discharged.

The state board of pharmacy has won its case against the Hansen Drug company of Minneapolis. The company had been brought into court upon complaint of the board for permitting the sale of medicines and poisons by an unregistered clerk.

Warden Wolfer, President Nelson and F. W. Temple of the board of prison managers have gone East to purchase additional machinery for the prison twine plant. The new purchase will embrace about $20,000 worth of new carding machines, spinners, etc.

The Minnesota river at Carver has been rising until now it is out of its banks, and no signs of its falling for a few days. Many acres of sugar beets are under water and the entire celery farms have been abandoned, where thousands of plants were set out.

Mrs. James McIlrath of St. Paul, who is perhaps the best known cyclienne in the Northwest, Sunday finished a "quint" century. She made the run of 500 miles in 38 hours and 45 minutes, which is said to break the world's record, and she is probably the only woman in the Northwest that has accomplished the feat.

A couple of women, one quite aged and infirm and the other a woman of about 50, have secured a good deal of money from Minneapolis merchants, to whom they represented that the older woman is a victim of the New Richmond cyclone. It is represented that the old woman lost all her relatives and her building. The women produced a letter purdorting to be from Mayor Gray. The letter is a forgery.

At the festivities of the 21st annual council of the Ojibwas of Minnesota at White Earth, a fine procession was carried out. Over 1,000 Indians took part in the parade, including about 300 Sioux. Had the weather been favorable, it is estimated that upward of 5,000 people would have been present from different portions of the state. A splendid programme was rendered by the young girls, scholars from St. Benedict's Orphan and Industrial school.

Engage in a Shooting Affray.

BOSCOBEL, Wis., June 28.—The town marshal of Avoca attempted to arrest a tramp, when the latter fatally shot the officer, who in turn shot and killed the tramp.

CELEBRATE THE NATIONAL HOLIDAY AT CROOKSTON, JULY 5

A NEW HIPPODROME OF THRILLING SPEED CONTESTS UNDER THE LARGEST COLISEUM TENTS EVER ERECTED.

3 GREAT MENAGERIES of the Marvelous, Rare and Costly Created Beings of the Earth, Earth's Waters and the Air. The BIGGEST ZOO IN THE WORLD.

A SUPERB, GLORIOUS, ORIGINAL DEPARTURE. Something New. Old Ideas Abandoned. Twice the LARGEST, MOST MAGNIFICENT HOLIDAY PAGEANT EVER SEEN, Presented in 30 ENORMOUS SEPARATE SECTIONS, EACH ONE A BIG GLORIOUS PARADE.

RINGLING BROS. WORLD'S GREATEST SHOWS

1000 People
500 Horses
300 Performers
5 Big Arenas
1 Aerial Enclave
1-4 Mile Race Track.

THE INVINCIBLE MONARCH OF THE AMUSEMENT WORLD.

65 Railroad Cars
25 Elephants
100 Dens and Cages
12 Acres of Tents
$3,700,000 Invested
$7,400 Daily Expenses.

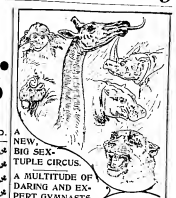
A MAJESTIC, IMPOSING, IDEAL, PATRIOTIC SPECTACLE,

LAST DAYS OF THE CENTURY

OR, THE LIGHT OF LIBERTY!

OVER 1000 PEOPLE AND HUNDREDS OF HORSES IN THE CAST.

THE ONLY EXHIBITION IN THE WORLD PRESENTING John O'Brien's Famous Equine Show, the... 61 FINE, BRED HORSES IN ONE RING, AT ONE TIME, PERFORMED BY ONE MAN. 61-HORSE ACT.



A NEW, BIG SEXTUPLE CIRCUS.

A MULTITUDE OF DARING AND EXPERT GYMNASTS.

A DOZEN FAMOUS EXPERT BAREBACK RIDERS.

HUNDREDS OF TRAINED ANIMALS OF EVERY KIND.

A Scintillating Whirl of Ever-changing Surprises, Interwined with the Exhilarating, Youth-Rejuvenating, Laugh-Compelling Antics of MORE THAN 20 FUNNY CLOWNS.

A Continuous 2-Hours Session by a Company of 300 Arenic Artists, Occupying 3 RINGS, 2 STAGES, HIPPODROME, AND AERIAL SPACES And PRODUCING ASTONISHED DELIGHT, FUN AND GOOD HUMOR, WORTH MANY TIMES THE PRICE OF ADMISSION.

LOCKHART'S FAMOUS ACROBATIC, DANCING, PLAY-ACTING ELEPHANT COMEDIANS.

THE BIG 20 TON BRASS BAND

LOUDER THAN A THOUSAND HUMAN BAND MEN

A NEW GREAT FEATURE.

THE BIGGEST BAND OUT.

HERR SOUDER'S WONDERFUL FUNNY ELEPHANT BRASS BAND.

BIG NEW FREE STREET PARADE IN 30 SECTIONS EVERY MORNING AT 10 O'CLOCK.

ONE 50c. TICKET ADMITS TO EVERYTHING. CHILDREN, UNDER 12 YEARS OLD, HALF PRICE.

SPECIAL CHEAP EXCURSIONS ON ALL RAILROADS.

TWO COMPLETE EXHIBITIONS DAILY, AT 2 AND 8 P. M.... DOORS OPEN ONE HOUR EARLIER.

THE ACKNOWLEDGED GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH.

WILL EXHIBIT AT

CROOKSTON, JULY 5

Reserved Numbered Seats and Admissions Show Day, without any advance in price at Tom Morris' Jewelry Store, 117 Broadway.

OUTCOME VERY DOUBTFUL

Alaskan Boundary Negotiations Again Jeopardized.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The negotiations for a modus vivendi regulating the Alaskan boundary have fallen into a state that jeopardizes a successful outcome and causes apprehension among officials. Nothing has been heard from Ambassador Choate as to the results of the conference he had during the day with Lord Salisbury on this subject, but the last phase of the case was that the Canadians had come back with a counter proposal in place of accepting the definitive American proposition which had been carefully drawn with the sole purpose of preventing any future controversy over the points already agreed upon between Choate and Lord Salisbury.

Instead of following the lines of the American proposal and confining the counter proposal to a plain statement of the points already roughly indicated as marking the boundary, this last issue proposed a radical change in the line on the Dalton trail and was of a character wholly unacceptable to the American side, involving as it did the transfer into Canadian jurisdiction of the fortunes and claims of many American miners. Unless there is a decided abatement on one side or the other of the demands, the desired modus will be as unlikely of attainment as was the permanent agreement on the boundary question and the chance for a resumbling of the joint high commission will fade away entirely.

ROUGH RIDERS' REUNION.

Memorial Services the Feature of the Day's Celebration.

LAS VEGAS, N. M., June 28.—Memorial services was the first thing on the Rough Riders' reunion programme. They were held at 11 o'clock at the Duncan Opera House and Rev. Thomas A. Uzzell, pastor of the People's Tabernacle of Denver, preached the memorial services. Mr. Lindsey Young, editor of The Iowa State Capital, then delivered an address. Mr. Young served with the Rough Riders and his recital of the regiment's experiences at Tampa and San Antonio found a responsive echo in the hearts of the assembled Rough Riders.

The regimental parade took place at 4 p. m. The regiment formed at Camp Cochrane and marched to the tournament grounds six blocks away. Colonel Roosevelt rode as a commander, accompanied by a staff of officers. At the tournament grounds Colonel Roosevelt occupied a box reserved for him and the guests of the regiment. As the Rough Riders passed and repassed the grandstand in performing their evolutions Governor Roosevelt stood with bared head. Each troop was preceded by its respective captain as far as they were present. The scene was witnessed by fully 10,000 people. At the conclusion of the parade Hon. Frank Springer, on behalf of the people of New Mexico, presented Governor Roosevelt with a medal. The latter was visably affected and replied feelingly to the address.

At midnight Colonel Roosevelt left for Milwaukee and after a brief participation in the carnival exercises there will leave for New York.

OPPOSES AN EXTRA SESSION

Aid for New Richmond Sufferers Must Be Raised by Subscription.

MILWAUKEE, June 27.—Governor Scofield was in Milwaukee during the day to confer with Dr. F. W. Epley of New Richmond in regard to the relief fund. Dr. Epley advocated the calling of a special session of the legislature to provide for an appropriation of $500,000 for the relief of the tornado sufferers. Governor Scofield has decided not to call a special session. He is of the opinion that all necessary funds should be raised by subscription and is confident adequate subscriptions will ultimately be made in that way. The plan which Governor Scofield favors provides for the forming of a responsible committee who shall determine what amount is immediately necessary and how much in all. The committee should then apportion the sum among the various communities of the state and the organization extended for the purpose of influencing each community to raise its share.

LABORERS WIN A STRIKE.

Chicago Stock Yards Employes Get an Advance in Wages.

CHICAGO, June 28.—The unskilled laborers at the stock yards have won their strike and nearly 2,000 men, who have been idle for three or four days, returned to work at an increase of 25 cents a day. This brings the wages of unskilled labor to the standard of 1898.

The dissatisfaction among the laborers had practically been settled, but a more serious problem confronted the packers. The skilled workingmen, who drew from $3.50 to $4.50 per day, demanded advances which the packing companies say they will not grant. The gutters in Armour & Co.'s killing department struck for an increase of 50 cents a day. They receive $4.50 a day and demand $5. Superintendent Conway says the firm will not meet the demand as the men are drawing as much as they did in 1893. It was estimated that at present only 900 people are striking and this number includes dozens of boys and girls not over 14 years of age.

YOU CAN USE IT 20 DAYS FREE

Ask us to send you one of our High Arm Sewing Machines with Ball Bearings and all Modern Improvements, and use it 20 days in your own home, or any reasonable time you desire. If you are not perfectly satisfied after using it 20 days, return it to us at our expense, and we will refund your money. We pay freight, cartage, and express charges, with the exception of points in Texas, Cal., and Oregon.

TAKE THE MACHINE HOME AND TRY IT FOR 20 DAYS

If you are perfectly satisfied after using the machine 20 days either keep it or send it to your nearest agent. If you prefer, we will ship it to you C. O. D. subject to examination. You need not pay a cent in advance. Buy direct from factory. Higher grade machines than you can buy from agents. Save agent's profit. Sold on easy terms. We guarantee every machine for 10 years. Buy of the manufacturer and save dealer's profit. Buy of the largest manufacturers of sewing machines in the world. Capacity 10,000 machines per year. Established 1872. Capital $1,000,000. ITS SPEED, LIGHT RUNNING, Easy Motion, Lateral Motion, Reversible Feed, Self-Threading Shuttle, Self-Setting Needle, Self-Regulating Tension, Self-Adjusting Bobbin Winder, Automatic Stop Motion, Noiseless Gears, Perfect Stitch, Elegant Working Parts, Ball Bearings, Improved Rich Arm, Nickle Plated Working Parts, Handsome Ornamentation, Quarter Turn Treadle, Heavy Balance Wheel, Drop Leaf Shelves, Drawers, Cover or Walnut. Illustrations show everything used by mankind.

Up-to-date in every detail.

Proprietors of The Catalogue Business.

Send 15 cents for our 1000 page catalogue.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., Michigan Ave. & Madison St., Chicago.

Burlington Route

Finest Train on Earth from ST. PAUL -AND- Minneapolis -TO- CHICAGO

Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven but has long horizontal wires, which cause it to

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

Like a fence, it can be properly stretched and erected with few posts and without top and bottom rail. Suited to any age, and a cable running through the top of every foot. Each roll contains the famous M. M. S. trade mark.

None other genuine.

We are also manufacturers of the following famous fences:

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE with or without lower cable barbed. All horizontal lines are cables.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE ideal fence for lawns, parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel posts, posts, etc. Everything in fence or its kind.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.

FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

Pat. July 25, 1899. Pat. July 4, 1899.

SUCCESSFUL SHOOTERS SHOOT WINCHESTER

Rifles, Repeating Shotguns, Ammunition and Loaded Shotgun Shells. Winchester guns and ammunition are the standard of the world, but they do not cost any more than poorer makes.

All reliable dealers sell Winchester goods.

FREE: Send name on a postal for 158 page illustrated Catalogue describing all the guns and ammunition made by the

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

HIGH-GRADE HAWTHORNE $22.50 NET.

SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne. Cranks hollow forged steel. Chain—1-2 inch best hardened centers and rivets. Frame—Diamond, 1 inch tubing, new center and rear connections. Fenders—Steel, 4 inch, with reinforced rim. Finish—Dark green, striped and lettered in gold. Sprocket—22 tooth. Rear sprocket—16. Handle Bars—Adjustable, nickel trimmings. Tires—Dunlop, 1 inch, detachable, nickel rim. Tanks—Detachable, best Seamless Oil Tank No. 2, 2 1-2 gal. capacity. Saddle—Leather, spring. Pedals—Rubber, detachable. Weight—About 40 lbs. Sizes—Gents. Wheels—28 inch. Weight—About 40 lbs.

15000 Sold in 1898

It's as good as any wheel made. All modern improvements. Guaranteed for one year. If not found as represented, return it to us and we will refund your money. We pay freight both ways, and you can have your money back on demand.

ASK US TO SEND YOU OUR FREE BICYCLE CATALOG

Send 15 cents for our 1,000 page catalogue. It lists everything used by mankind.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY JULY 6, 1899 NO 13

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

CO-OPERATIVE DAIRY

A. W. Trow Compares Advantages of Freeborn and Polk Counties in Matter of Dairying.

MILLIONS OF MONEY IN MILK

Farmers Ought to Organize Their own Creameries. Co-operative Spirit Beneficial.

The talks upon dairying which were given by A. W. Trow, of Glendale, Minn., at the Farmers' Institute recently held in Crookston, were very interesting and instructive, and the following article by Mr. Trow setting forth the benefits which Freeborn has derived from dairying will be found equally helpful:

What the creameries have done for Freeborn county may be of but little interest to you of Polk county, unless you first allow that under similar conditions the creameries can do as much for one locality as for another. If in one place the dairy cow, with intelligent feeding, in comfortable quarters and with the care and attention that makes cow life worth living, furnishes the prime requisite to creamery success—that is, abundance of good, wholesome milk—then we must assume that she will be equally profitable wherever she finds equal intelligence, and equal comfort, providing those food-stuffs which contribute to the economical production of milk are produced at a cost or bought at a price that, when converted into butter or cheese, will bring a better return than when sold in the market.

The question with you then, would naturally be—Are the conditions as favorable for dairying in this locality as in other places where the creameries have been a decided success?

Before we consider what the co-operative creameries have done for Freeborn county, let us first see if it is possible for them to do as much for Polk county. Dairy intelligence, or what we sometimes call "cow sense," should be as well developed with you as it was with us at the time of our commencement. The comfort and protection against inclement weather is as easily provided by you as by ourselves, for the reason that your building material is enough cheaper to counterbalance the difference in temperature. The care and attention needs no more for the reason that your farm wages are as low or lower than ours, except during the harvest season, and that is the best time for the cows to go dry.

A. W. TROW.

The dairy foods, with both grain and grass considered, are about equally balanced, you have the advantage in cost of grain, and we an advantage over you in our ability to grow the tame grasses. Quite likely you will have the same experience as ourselves in raising timothy and clover. Years ago the farmers considered it almost impossible to get good returns in raising these two valuable forage crops which now seldom fail in making a very luxuriant growth. I am reliably informed that immense crops of fodder-corn have been grown in this section. Such being the case, the main problem of the feed question after you is solved. Our most experienced and successful dairymen have come to believe that fodder-corn, properly handled, is one of the very best and most economical foods for the dairy cow, and with the advent of improved corn machinery it now looks as if it might be a question of only a very short time when cornfodder will form the principal part of the cow ration.

The feeding season may be a little longer in this portion of the state than in the southern part, yet at the same time, in old dairy sections, where land is highest, the dairymen are making the pasturing season shorter. They have come to the conclusion that it is better and cheaper in a great many instances to harvest the feed for the cow than to let her harvest it for herself, except during about three months of the best grass growing season, and that there is more profit in having the cows in fall milk in autumn and winter than in summer. The fact that all the great dairy districts of the world are to be found in the colder climates is an evidence that the latitude of Northern Minnesota need offer no very formidable obstacle to successful dairying. Red River Valley is noted over the entire northwest for its productiveness. The atmosphere and the pure water from your deep wells are adopted to good butter and cheese making. The cheese exhibited at one of our recent State Fairs that scored among the best and was equal to the best Canadian cheese, was manufactured on the farm of Mr. Childs in the immediate vicinity of your city.

Now, I will assume that the natural conditions are as favorable for you at the present time as they were for ourselves eight years ago, when there was not one co-operative creamery on creamery in Freeborn county, and I will beg of you to excuse any remarks that may have the appearance of boasting, and wish you to consider the facts of our success as your own future possibilities. I also ask that you consider these statements not as Freeborn county real estate advertisement, for we have but few farms for sale, but hope that you will take them and consider what we have done and are now doing in a light that will enable you to see your own future opportunities when this great wheat field of the northwest is exhausted. I assume that you are of the same temperament as ourselves. We did not quit raising wheat until we were obliged to. We did not commence raising good dairy cows, taking good care of them and organizing and supporting co-operative creameries, until our soil became exhausted and our financial condition made it very necessary for us to turn our attention to the cow, and to the handling of her product through the co-operative creamery which enables us to manufacture this product into a fine article at the lowest possible cost and to sell the same for the highest price.

You probably know that Freeborn county has an area, including its many lakes, of only 720 square miles, less than one-third that of Polk. It also has a population of about 18,000, which is, I am informed, less than one-half that of your county. This small county of only twenty townships has 28 co-operative creameries, two skim stations and two cheese factories, all of which are in active operation both winter and summer. The milk that daily passes through them would make a train-load of thirty cars. The cash receipts from these factories average over $3,000 per day, or over $1,000,000 per annum, without counting the enormous receipts from hogs and cattle that are grown in a measure with the skim milk.

The result of this monthly income of nearly $100,000 is to enable the farmers to pay cash to the merchant and the merchant in turn to pay cash to the wholesaler, and the ultimate result is much lower prices than when accounts were carried from fall to fall. We have been informed by several of our merchants that, while their sales are much greater, their book accounts are less than 20 per cent of what they were ten years ago.

The records of the county auditor show the delinquent taxes less than one-fifth of those of ten years ago. In 1893 there were 24 mortgage foreclosures, in 1894, one, in 1895 none, in 1896, the time of financial depression, only two.

The records of transfer of 1899 show that the bulk of farm lands that changed hands during that year sold at from ten to thirty dollars per acre, while the records of late years prove that farm lands are now valued by the purchaser at from thirty to sixty dollars per acre.

The average deposits carried by the Albert Lea banks for the farmers during the year 1896 were only $36,000, while the average deposits of 1898 were $320,000. The above figures do not include the deposits of the business men who carried open accounts, nor does it include the creamery deposits which average about $60,000.

These figures show that a great change has been wrought during the last few years, and a ride through our county proves that the capacious farm dwelling is taking the place of the log hut, and the large hay barn that of the straw shed, while on nearly every homestead the wind-mill stands as an index of progress.

THEIR FIRST CELEBRATION.

How our Dusky Proteges assisted Uncle Sam in keeping alive the memory of our Great Natal Day.

While giving out the monthly milk checks we have heard one remark that has become nearly as common and almost as frequent as passing the time of day, when the patron receives his check he remarks, "I don't know how I could get along without these milk checks," or "How could I have made my payments raising oats at 15 or with barley at 16 cents?" Perhaps some of our Polk county farmers have had some experience along this line.

Albert Lea, a city of some 5,000 inhabitants, the business center of Freeborn county, passed through the four years of financial disaster with but one financial wreck, and that was due entirely to outside speculation. Our merchants, bankers, and in fact nearly all our business men are of the one opinion that if not for the creameries they would have shared the fate of less favored localities where financial loss and suspension of business have been the rule rather than the exception.

The co-operative creamery has another advantage that cannot be mensured in dollars and cents. By force of circumstances, it brings the farmers together, and through the creamery organization educates them in the science of co-opernion, and we expect still greater results as we become better disciplined, and when this co-operative sentiment becomes more fully developed.

Now don't infer that we would have you believe Freeborn county to be the farmer's paradise, or that it is an agricultural Utopia, but we would have you understand that we are getting along in a way that is very satisfactory when compared with our brother farmers in other localities.

The farmers who come visiting among us from other localities generally catch this creamery contagion, and they quite naturally ask for advice, and as dairymen have no trade secrets, we are always as ready to impart knowledge as to receive. And as some of our Polk county friends may be contemplating this same question we will consider it proper to here mention a few of the cardinal principles of co-operative creamery organization.

First, ascertain if the pledge of four or five hundred cows can be obtained within a radius of four or five miles for the best equipped creamery would be a flat failure without sufficient patronage. If less than four hundred cows can be obtained the project would better be postponed, for it is seldom that a success is made with less.

Do your own organizing without the help of professional creamery organizer, or what is more commonly called "the creamery shark," who goes through the country soliciting, organizing, building and furnishing a creamery for from $1,000 to $2,000 more than it is actually worth. There are today scores of these creameries standing vacant as monuments to the farmer's gullibility.

Spend a few days' visiting three or four good creameries. Get the ideas of a few successful creamery managers concerning creamery management, and find what a few of the best butter-makers think of the different makes of separators, and other creamery supplies, and the cost of the same. All time and money thus spent will prove a most satisfactory investment. Also write Prof. Haecker for his Bulletin No. 35, which is replete with valuable dairy information, and gives organization agreements, by-laws, and plans and specifications for building material with estimated cost of supplies and machinery. Leave not a stone unturned in your search for information. Realize that a great enterprise is in your hands, and that the prosperity and welfare of a large neighborhood rests upon the success of the undertaking.

A co-operative sentiment is very essential to the success of a co-operative enterprise, especially the co-operative creamery. Work for the development of this feeling among the farmers, for the good that can be done in this respect is incalculable.

FOURTH OF JULY ORATORY.

Crookston Citizens Help to Celebrate at Other Places.

Though Crookston did not have any official celebration of the Fourth, that is in the way of sports and speeches, but spent the day quietly, that is as far as the almost continuous boom and crack of the small boy's artillery would permit, still many of her citizens assisted other towns to have a big time. The city band divided, part under Prof. Riggs going to Ada, and the rest to Solway. But it was in Fourth of July eloquence the Queen City furnished that she aided most in calling to mind the good old days and the inestimable privileges of American citizenship. A. R. Holston, the Red River Valley cyclone, delivered an oration at Euclid that carried the people off their feet. George A. Finlayson laid down the law to the glories of the United States, her present greatness and her future prospects, while Erick Hagen captured an audience at Audubon with his well rounded sentences, histimely thoughts and eloquent manner of delivery.

It is now stated authoritatively that the Northern Pacific will begin the removal of their tracks in Grand Forks in about two weeks. The rails will be laid about fifty feet from Third street and run parallel from the present depot to the top of the hill. Nothing is known regarding the intentions of the company relative to the new depot, but there is little doubt but that it will be forthcoming in a very short time.

RURAL FREE DELIVERY.

No Extra Expense to Farmers—Petition Sent to Congressman.

"The farmers are afraid that this rural free delivery is a part of the war revenue plan and that they will have to pay," was the comment made by Thomas Howard, special agent for the rural free delivery.

"I believe," he went on, "that if the people in the country were fully advised that the free delivery system costs them nothing in the way of money, and saves them trouble and inconvenience they would hasten to put in their applications for the system.

"The rural free delivery means nothing less than bringing the postoffice to the farmer's very door.

"One or more men in a community start a petition, and, after securing a number of names, send it to the congressman representing their district. The petition may be sent directly to the postoffice department, but it is customary to send it to the Congressman, who, in turn, forwards it to the postoffice department. I am under the orders of Francis M. Dice, of Crawford-ville, Indiana, superintendent of the Western division of the rural free delivery system. When the petitions have been examined I am sent to mark out the route for free delivery. I may receive orders to proceed to any part of the west, but am at present working in Minnesota. The route which I lay out generally lies contiguous to some postoffice and is not more than twenty-five miles in extent, for a carrier can hardly cover more ground than that in one day's work.

"The route must contain not less than 100 houses, and I inquire whether the people in the neighborhood are people who make free use of the mails or not, for there are families who do not receive a letter once in a year and take no papers. The government would scarcely undertake to establish a mail route for them. I also note and report the condition of the roads within the route, for that is an important consideration. I inform the people of the nature of the free rural delivery, and that there is but one condition, which is, that each house shall put in place on the line of the road a letter box so that the carrier may reach it without getting out of his wagon or of his horse. The carrier receives pay at the rate of $400 a year and must furnish his own rig or horse, but he is permitted to conduct a newspaper business in connection with his carrier duties and this express business will materially increase his income. The pay seems small, but we have a large number of applications for places as carrier. The carrier is bound to visit each box once each day, whether he has mail for that particular box or not. He must collect mail for and deliver it and that each family is bound to receive one call a day."

COUNTY DRAINAGE.

Over $100,000 Being Spent in This Work—ten ditches the Result.

Polk county now has in process of construction six ditches whose length, all told, is about forty miles, and has under consideration four more ditches through which water will flow for a distance of at least thirty-five miles, the total cost of which ten ditches will be more than $100,000. This is a splendid showing, such as no other county in the state can anywhere near equal. The consequence of this expenditure will be greatly improved farms and a rise in the value of landed property.

The Hammond-Vineland Ditch, No 6, cost about $20,000, the Tabor ditch, No 7, cost about $20,000, the Russia-Hammond ditch, No 9, cost about $15,000, the Hammond-Andover ditch, No 10, cost about $1,500, the Onstad-Russia ditch, No 11, cost about $2,500, the Russia-Hammond, Fairfax ditch, No 12, cost about $8,000,—all these ditches were begun last year and are now nearly completed. The Gentilly-Keeseville-Fairfax ditch was petitioned for, but as the county commissioners decided that another outlet than that referred to in the petition was better a new petition will be presented and there will be a hearing on it July 28. This ditch will be about 12 miles, 3 or 4 miles of which will be a cutting.

In the matter of the Sullivan ditch in the Northwestern part of the county, viewers have been appointed, and it has been decided to make the ditch a mile longer than the petition called for, therefore a new petition will be made. This ditch will be about 11 miles long. The Fairfax-Andover ditch was petitioned for last spring. The length will be five miles and the probable cost is $7,000 though the contract is not yet let. There will be a final hearing in the matter before the county board on July 28. On the Grove Park ditch, which will be about seven miles long, the viewers are now at work. There will be, then, seventy-five miles of drainage ditches and the estimated cost of the same will be $100,000 or more.

THE DISTRICT COURT.

The Jury Cases are Finished and Court Adjourns to Chambers Saturday Morning.

APPEAL CASES ARE DISMISSED.

Johnson Gets $300 From City-Court Opens in Ada next Monday.

The Judge dismissed the case of the appeal from the action of the county board in appropriating certain money to John Gleason et al to cover expenses at St. Paul at the time the Red Lake County bill was before the legislature. A. R. Holston who was in charge of case moved a stay of proceedings for twenty days. In the case of Daniel O'Neill against the Great Northern the plaintiff got a verdict for $850. Anthony Quesnell brought action against the Great Northern for $1,000 and got $100. Louis Morin against the Great Northern was a court case. The case of Agnes Sullivan vs Great Northern was settled out of court the railway giving $250 to plaintiff. The action of Adelaide Marin vs Fontaine and Anglin was continued by consent. The plaintiff received a verdict for $70 in the Grand Forks Nat. bank vs. L. M. Thompson case. The next case was that if L. K. Hassel vs the East Grand Forks Driving Association. The verdict was for the defendant.

The case of Wm. B. Mitchell vs Andy Jones was dismissed, as a deposition necessary to the prosecution's case had been taken in Canada and hence was not admissable. The action brought by Mary Finsen against Edwin A. and Francis Mills came up next. The case against Edwin A. was dismissed and the case against Francis Mills on being tried was given to the defendant. Julia Leclerc sued W. E. Kelsey for a note of the Northwest Collection Agency given to her husband and the jury returned a verdict of $51.67 in favor of the plaintiff. A. B. Hunt sued Knute Jacobson for $40, the actual value of a piece of land. The jury returned a verdict in favor of defendant. The next was a criminal case. State of Minnesota vs Peter Rodsted. The latter was accused of setting a prairie fire in the town of King, which fire was the cause of seven tons of hay belonging to a neighbor being burned. The jury found a verdict to the defendant. The case of J. G. Johnson vs city of Crookston next called. Plaintiff brought suit for $5,000 for damages sustained by him in falling into an open sewer at south end of Broadway last fall. The jury returned a verdict of $300 in favor of defendant. De Forest Buchlen, attorney for the defendant moved a stay of proceeding for twenty days.

The case of Oftelie vs town of Hammond occupied a whole day. The plaintiff claimed his crops were damaged to the extent of $2,000 by the overflow of one of the ditches. The jury gave a verdict to the defendant.

Richard P. Samson sued Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shields for a meat bill amounting to about fifty dollars. Defendants claimed the bill was paid. This case was tried Friday evening but before it went to the jury, was on motion of the prosecuting attorney, dismissed without prejudice, as a slight mistake had been made in the complaint.

The case of Harris vs Wood, which was brought to recover the amount of a note given for hail insurance, came up before the Judge and he decided the matter in favor of the defendant.

After a month of work the court dismissed the petit jury Saturday morning. The court cases still on the calendar will be tried in Chambers.

Next Monday court opens at Ada, in Norman County.

Judge—Did you enjoy the Fourth, Willy? Willie—You bet. I only had two fingers shot off.—Philadelphia Press.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

AROUND THE COUNTRY

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

LOCKHART.

Mr. and Mrs. McMillan drove to Ada Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Legear drove to Gary Friday.

Jerry Briggs was in Ada the first part of the week.

Mrs. Will Greenlaun has been in Dakota visiting.

Mrs. R. Legear and children are visiting in Detroit Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Palmer returned from Ada Wednesday evening.

Rev Hamberger, Lockhart's pastor, preached a sermon at Green Meadow last Sunday.

CLIMAX.

We are having all kinds of weather.

Mr. E. L. Perry, of Fargo, was here on Wednesday.

Mrs John B. Myers is recovering from a severe illness.

Miss Hannah Moffatt, of Ada spent the Fourth here.

We understand Mr. Toft will soon open a store in Crookston.

Miss Olga Satermo came up from Fargo to spend the 4th with friends here.

H. R. Burrill, of Fargo, is in this vicinity in the interest of the Dreving Co.

About 75 from Climax went to Crookston Wednesday to take in Ringling circus.

John Stevenson and bride returned on Monday from their trip to her home in Valley City, N. D.

Charles A Schramp, of Larimore, N. D. will spend the summer with his brother at the Hotel Climax.

Fred C. Toft and Miss Ida Satermo drove over from Crookston on Saturday returning in the evening.

Climax and Bellmont nines crossed bats at the latter place, Sunday. Score was in favor of the Climax boys, of course.

Mrs Geo. W. Schramp went to Crookston on Friday, returning on Saturday, accompanied by her sister Miss Lottie Laudgren, of Alexandria, who will spend a month with us.

Dr. S. H. Johnson's team indulged in a lively spin on Friday afternoon. They became frightened at the train and throwing the doctor out near the depot, they started on a four mile run, going through five or six barb wire fences. One horse was badly cut while the other escaped with a few scratches. The doctor was not injured

ERSKINE.

A few of our horses came back on Sunday.

O. H. Dale returned from Crookston on Saturday.

Dr. Olson was at the county seat on Sunday on business.

A. P. Cronquist was at Crookston on Thursday on business.

There are quite a few going to Crookston tonight to take in the circus.

Miss Jennie Hanson went to Grand Forks to take in the circus on the Fourth, and returned home on Wednesday

W. J. Duncan's children and their grandmother came down from Crookston Sunday to spend the Fourth of July here with their pa.

Cashier Hanson came down from Crookston on Thursday to treat sheep, while Cashier Cronquist was at Crookston on business.

The Fourth of July was a great success. There was any amount of people in town and everybody was satisfied that they came to Erskine to celebrate.

ANGUS.

John McKinnon spent Monday in town.

G. C Winchester was in town on Sunday.

J. A. Struble spent Monday night in Crookston.

J. M. Palmer drove to Grand Forks on Friday.

A. E. Brash returned home from St. Paul on Tuesday.

Wm Struble took some cattle to Grand Forks on Thursday.

Miss Maggie Struble is visiting with friends in Grand Forks.

Fred Struble and wife were in Grand Forks on Thursday.

W. F. Powell's right hand man, Harry Wood spent Saturday in town

C. D. McLennen spent Friday night in Mallory to attend the Woodmen's ball.

Olsim & Holen, of Argyle, agent for the Minneapolis Threshing Machine Co., were in town on Wednesday.

GRAND FORKS.

Mr. and Mrs. P. McDonnell came in from Duluth Thursday.

Madame Nevaqe, the Pianist, has removed to Grand Forks.

Somebody erected a bowery and raised money on the eventful day.

George F. Flath will have an engine exhibition at the Winnipeg exposition.

Miss Lucie Evans of Goodrich, Ont., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lashua.

Quite a display of fire works was made in front of Reg. Smith's store the evening of the 4th.

With a combination of Ringling Bros. and the 4th of July Grand Forks was strictly in it.

Business men on both sides are planning to make plans for the summer carnival parade.

Brace Duncan has his engine log gulley nearly finished and will be ready for business in a few days.

A dance was given Tuesday night in the Woodmen's hall, under auspices of Charles Argall. A good time was enjoyed.

Agent Griffin of the G. N. says he wants several Grand Forks young men between the ages of 21 to 25, to learn the railroad business.

Mrs. A. T. Gosney and two children Helen and Dorothy left Monday evening for Detroit Lake, where they will spend the rest of the summer.

Miss Anna Kassanhaus of the Metropolitan has gone to Wilmar, Minn., to spend her vacation. Mrs. Block will fill her place at the desk.

Oliver Sullivan presided over the execution of a dog Thursday, the animal being ushered out of misery by the scientific application of illuminating gas.

Dr. Oppenheimer gave his free lecture Saturday afternoon, introducing a new article, claiming to be his own mixture. He is raising money from the sale.

News of the death of Maurice Lyons was received here Saturday from St. Paul. He was a father of Mrs. Capt. McCormick and a brother of Simon Lyons of this city.

Two female shoplifters were rounded up by Officer Pete Jarvey. They were not prosecuted but were given to understand that a second offense would mean trouble.

W. L. T. Goodeson of Grafton has been appointed assistant states' attorney for Grand Forks county, and will remove his family to this city and open a law office.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wood returned Monday morning from their St Louis trip, having taken in Chicago, Milwaukee and other towns of importance, on their way back.

Phillip Sampsonville of this city and Miss Hilda McPherson were married at the home of the bride's parents in Minto Friday. They went to St Paul Lake for a few weeks outing.

E. S. Allen of Bismarck has been appointed U. S district attorney to succeed C. J. Murphy of this city, who has held the position since the appointment of Tracy Bangs as district attorney several years ago.

Frank Lyons left last week for St Paul, where he will make arrangements for another show property at Mount Clemens. Frank has been troubled some time with sciatica, and will take a complete course of treatment.

On Thursday afternoon occurred the death of Dollie, the six-weeks-old child of Mr. and Mrs. P. Smith, who are residing at the McClellan House, Mr. Smith being employed by P. McDonnell. The funeral took place Friday afternoon under the direction of D. McDonald.

On Friday a team attached to a top buggy in front of the Grand Rule store took fright and made a lively run down South 3rd street. They dashed half a dozen times and turned Minnesota avenue and ran over the bridge. The lost that was seen of them everything was right side up and they were cutting the wind at a lively pace.

The fire department was called out on box 3 Tuesday night about 1:30. It proved to be the home of H. McGowan back of Sheriff Conner's home. By the time the department arrived the structure was in a mass of flames, so their attention was called more to Mr. Wendtlens' husband ten feet across the alley, which had caught fire from the sparks. Mr. McGowan's barn, house and buggy was a total loss, but Mr. Wendtlen's son saved after hard work with small damage. It is supposed a sky rocket or some other piece of fire works was the cause.

On Friday evening the screams of a girl from the vicinity of the saw mill, used by P. McDonell, to rut paving blocks, attracted the attention of Night Clerk Bell of the Northern and several traveling men who were sitting on the hotel steps. Upon arriving at the spot they found her in an exhausted condition. She was taken to the Hotel Northern where she recovered sufficiently to say she had been criminally assaulted by a man whose name she was unable to give. A short time afterward the police arrested a man on suspicion, who gave his name as Barret and claims to hail from Minneapolis. He will be given a hearing on Friday.

CIRCUS TENT DOWN.

High Wind Prevailed—Hundreds Pinned Beneath the Fallen Poles, Seats and Canvass.

MANY PERSONS ARE INJURED.

Houses Near Grounds Turned Into Hospitals—Exciting Scenes In Midst of Ruin and Wind.

During the storm of wind and rain that prevailed early last evening the large circus tent of Ringling Bro's. was blown down and hundreds of people caught beneath the debris. Fortunately no one was killed though several persons had legs broken, ankles sprained, heads, arms and bodies bruised.

One thousand or more people were seated in the immense tent which is capable of holding ten to fifteen thousand people, and the performance had just begun a few minutes after 8 o'clock, when the rain began to fall in torrents and the wind to blow at a terrific rate. Suddenly all the poles, save the large ones in the centre, were raised to the feet from the ground. When this happened many of those present started to leave the tent but before they got out the wind lifted the tent and threw it over on its side, crushing to the ground those who were seated on the east side of the pavilion, but leaving those on the reserved seats exposed to the elements but uninjured.

As dozens of poles that were holding up the tent were buried in different directions it is indeed a wonder that no one was killed. Those present displayed great presence of mind or else the disaster must have been awful. Seeing escape was impossible many of them deliberately stood still and dodged the poles as they fell. The stories of bare breadth escapes are numerous. The work of rescuing the men, women and children who were buried under the poles and canvass was begun at once, but as it was dark and was raining fast considerable difficulty was experienced. The spectators who escaped helped to pull out their more unfortunate comrades and Ringling Bros. soon organized their men into a good working corps. Those who were encased simply by the canvass cut their way out and the big tent was a sorry looking sight when all was over. Shrieks and cries were heard on all sides and many women fainted. It took some time to free those who were pinned down by the poles and seats.

Those who were injured were carried to the houses near by and medical aid quickly summoned. Into the same houses also crowded dozens and dozens of women who were nervously prostrated from the shock and it was long after midnight before the crowds left Mrs. Talladay's and the other places. It was indeed a kind act on the part of these people to thus open their homes to the sufferers for the crowds who there congregated, were so large that the furnishings of the houses were very badly demolished.

It was fortunate that the tent did not go down in the afternoon when so many thousands were in the pavilion for in that case many would undoubtedly question have been killed. Indeed had the storm burst a few minutes before it did, when all the elephants, loose, were in the tent, an awful catastrophe must have followed.

As it was the scene was almost indescribable. Wives lost their husbands, parents their children and friends their friends and as it was impossible to discover for some time whether or not anyone was killed it was indeed heartrending and it is small wonder that many women fainted. Men, women and children walked around in the water and mud which in places was a foot or more deep. Dozens of hats were crushed out of all shape and this morning might have been seen floating around on the small lakes on the circus grounds. There were also some amusing incidents. One woman dragged out unconscious from beneath the debris, on regaining consciousness exclaimed, O, my new hat is all spoiled!

The following is a list of those who were injured: Charles Dudley, struck on the head, Emil Brosseau, 13 years old, right side of head injured, D. Robertson, druggist at Argyle, ankle sprained, Mrs. Bailey, of Argyle, right side injured, Mrs. Andrew Larrivierre, head injured, Miss Bell, a very badly fractured ankle, Joseph Smith, cut on forehead, John Goine, dislocated shoulder, Charles Studley struck by a pole, cut on head 3½ inches, F. E. Hillard, back injured by being struck with a pole, Miss Anna Brink, of Carman, slightly hurt, J. P. Johnson, of McIntosh, leg broken, Miss N. Lewis, nurse at E. Sheviin's, ankle broken, a mill man, ribs broken, August Georgs, head hurt, Gale Dunlavs, ankle sprained, Fred Reynolde, of Red Lake Falls, ankle hurt, Miss Kirsch, niece of M. E. Kirsch, slightly injured, Erick Borkman, of St. Hilaire, leg broken, James O'Neill, chest crushed, the last two being at Riverside hospital, Miss Hannah Elsholz, face cut, John Phlipps, back hurt, Mrs. Arne Bisterud, head and neck hurt. Two Indies and one man from the circus company were quite badly injured. They were at the Riverside hospital till two o'clock this morning, when they were taken to Fargo to which place the circus went from here. It was reported today that one of the lady performers died before reaching Fargo but the report was not verified.

The circus was of a high order, as it was seen at the afternoon performance, indeed one of the best that ever came to Crookston and it is unfortunate, both for those who were present and for the circus people that the accident occurred. Much property belonging both to Ringling Bro's. and to the spectators was destroyed, though all are thankful that the result was no worse than it was.

Launched Upon the River.

Sunday afternoon a new steam launch was set afloat upon the river near the Riverside Hospital and christened "The Daisy." The new vessel was the property of a number of shooters from Grafton, N. D., who were here last week at the tournament. When all were aboard the boat was cast loose and the party of jolly rollers, amid cheers from friends and onlookers on the shore, started upon their voyage home.

Captured in Crookston.

There escaped from the Great Northern train last Saturday morning, as it was pulling into the station, one J Stramore. Another man, a Mr. Warren, in the same coach, was on the trail of Stramore, as it seems the latter had left the former's place in Thompson, N. D., where he had been working and had taken with him $18 in cash, a bike and other valuables. The police were notified by Warren and after diligent search the offender was found in the foundry in the northern part of town

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

—Dr. Spence leaves for Chicago, next week.

—A dance in G. A. R hall a week from tonight.

—George A. Ralph went to St Hilaire this morning on business.

—It was one of the cleanest and best conducted circuses that ever struck Crookston.

—Sheriff Lawrence reported that the Fourth of July decorations in Erskine were of the best.

—C. C. Mathieson, the popular grain buyer of Nicholville was a caller at the JOURNAL office today.

It was a scared crowd and yet they conducted themselves in a very orderly manner, considering.

—Ole Heyen of Wheelside was taken to the Fergus Falls hospital last night by Sheriff Lawrence.

—There was a large enough number of lots on the circus ground this morning to start a millinery shop.

—It was one of the worst accidents that has ever happened in the Hastings and the first mishap of the year.

—The rain poured into the circus dressing room and well when rains most of the costumes of the performers.

—Hans Paulson, a prominent farmer from Gentilly, is under Dr. Shute's care. He had an operation performed yesterday.

—A. L. Abuss, president of the Scandia America bank of St. Paul, was in the city yesterday, the guest of Cashier L. Ellington.

One individual as he pulled himself out from under the debris at the circus grounds last night was heard to remark: "I wonder if we will get our money back."

—The ball game which was played at Red Lake Falls on the Fourth, between that town's team and Crookston resulted in a victory for the former town, score 2 to 6.

—Miss Eleanor Whitelaw, of Day ton, Ohio, a new teacher in dietetics at the Agricultural College of the present year, is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hoverstol.

—The JOURNAL'S correspondents have most of them been celebrating this week—hence the county news page is not as full as usual. Fourth of July, however, comes only once a year.

Arthur Laufel of Brooks, Red Lake county, who has just completed a successful nine months' term of school at Brooks, and expects to begin teaching again August 1, was a pleasant caller at the JOURNAL this morning. Mr. Laufel is attending the business college.

The latest estimates of the sugar beet crop of the United States for the present year places the total yield at about four times the product of 1898. If that ratio of gain can be maintained a few seasons is will not be long before the American sugar maciem, the greatest in the world, can be supplied from American farms. There is not the least reason to doubt that the sugar beet industry of this country is destined to prove one of the foremost agricultural interests of the American people.

Going Out of Business

The Fair Store.

Will offer their entire Stock at cost, consisting of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Working and Dress Shirts, Pants and Overalls, Trunks and Valises, Ladies' Underwear, Corsets, Hosiery, Laces and Ribbons, Etc. Silverware, Pictures and Picture Frames, Albums, Dolls, Crockery, Tinware, Light Hardware, Notions, Etc.

This is a genuine closing out sale and those looking for bargains will do well to call early while the lines are complete. Everything at cost.

THE FAIR STORE,

Robert Street, Next to Anderson's Drug Store.

CROOKSTON, MINN.

EASTERN STAR

Was Organized Last Friday Night—Officers and Mrs. J. E. Hunter Assist.

Though Crookston has societies and lodges galore, it was not until last Friday night that the order of the Eastern Star was organized here. This society is affiliated with the Masons, and the mothers, sisters, wives and daughters of the Masons, as one form or another, together with the Masons themselves, are eligible to membership. This local organization will be called the Crookston Chapter, U. D., and will be under distinguished visit the next meeting of the Grand Chapter. Mrs. S. Rosenthal was chosen worthy matron, John Cronk worthy patron and Mrs. Sylvester Peterson associate matron. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hunter, of Warren, assisted in the organization of the new lodge.

Fourth of July at Noby.

The Good Templars of Noby planned and carried out a splendid program on "Independence Day." A large grove near the school house was cleared up and made ready for the occasion. The day was perfect, and some time before noon a large and happy crowd of people came from the surrounding country.

The formal procession consisted of citizens in carriages; the one (driven by "Uncle Sim") a company of school children, two long columns, one of which was made up of men, and the other of women. These were followed by bicyclists in laughable costume. At the grove the exercises consisted of several pieces of patriotic music by the choir and an oration by Herman P. Fisher, M. A., of Crookston. In his address the orator traced the geographical growth of our country, beginning at Plymouth Rock. He then took up the scientific development of the United States, noting the triumphs of steam and electricity. He closed with a brief outline of the educational and moral progress of the last 20 years. Mr. Fisher explained the meaning of the stars and stripes; paid a delicate and made appreciated tribute to the homes of America, and drew a most cheery word-picture of the future of the Red River Valley. The entire address was occasionally lighted up by a story which illustrated a point and added greatly to the enjoyment of the people. After dinner, which was served in the most happy style by the ladies, there were various races, foot and pony races, potato scratches and a tug of war. Everybody had a good time and the entire affair was most creditable to the committee and the people.

Excursion to Lynn, Mass., And Return

Via Nickel Plate Road, at one fare for the round trip from Chicago. Tickets on sale July 10 and 11, with return limit of July 20, account of N. P. C. U. Through service to Ft. Wayne, Buffalo, New York, Boston and other New England points. For further information address General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

The Nickel Plate Road.

Will sell excursion tickets to Chautauqua Lake and return on July 28, at one fare for the round trip, with return limit of August 29, 1899, by depositing ticket at Chautauqua not later than July 31. Tickets good on any of our three daily trains. Cheap rates to other Eastern points. Van Buren St. Passenger Station, on the Loop. For further information, address the General Agent, 111 Adams St. Chicago.

—Notwithstanding the accident and the storm, Ringlings left for Fargo late in the night. The damage to the large tent may have prevented them from giving a performance there today as they were billed to do.

COMPLETE LISTS OF

FREE Homestead Lands

In the Agricultural districts of

WESTERN CANADA

and lands for sale by the Canadian Government and Railway Companies, may be obtained on application to the Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to Canadian Government Agents.

Circulars, Maps, Reduced Rate Certificates, Pamphlets containing reports of delegates, and other information regarding the best mixed farming districts, the healthfulness, productiveness, and the splendid educational facilities of Western Canada, can be had free on application to the undersigned.

Intending settlers should write at once, as the rush of emigration is expected to be greater than ever this season. Information can be obtained from Canadian Government Agents.

BENJAMIN HAYDEN, Commissioner of Immigration, 176 Jackson St., St. Paul, Minn.

N. Campbell, Crookston Minn. P. Johnson, Fosston, Minn. V. V. Nugent, Villano, Minn., local agents.

Northern Pacific-Shasta.

Route gives you a chance to visit Yellowstone Park en route to the N. E. A or the Pacific coast on the low rate tickets now on sale. Don't forget to visit the Shasta Route. Tickets good for stopovers. Call on Northern Pacific ticket agents for information in detail

Educ ation and Fine Scenery.

The world over for. There going to the N. E. A. at Los Angeles will be better prepared for it by going via the Northern Pacific. Shasta route. Tickets good for stopovers. Call on Northern Pacific ticket agents for information in detail

Take Advantage.

Of low rates to N. E. A. at Los Angeles California via North ern Pacific. Shasta route, and make a trip to the coast. You may never have a better opportunity when you want to and have to go to Los Angeles. Ask our Northern Pacific agent to explain the combination

The Nickel Plate Road

Will sell tickets from Chicago to Lynn, Mass., on July 10, and 11 at one fare for the round trip, good for return to and including July 17, to 20, inclusive, account meeting N. P. C. C. Vestibuled sleeping cars and excellent dining car service. Address J. Y. Calahan, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

The N. E. A. Low Rates.

Give you the opportunity of going through Montana Idaho and Washington to North Pacific Coast and California via the Northern Pacific. Shasta route and returning via Colorado or Texas, or vice versa. Stopovers allowed—time limits reasonable. Ask our agent Northern Pacific agent to explain the different combination rates and routes in effect.

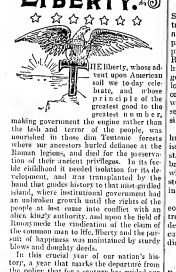
A New Furbington Book.

Railroad companies are great patrons not only of the liberal arts, but of that modern classical expression that printing, engraving and photography places within the reach of everyone.

The Burlington Route has contributed its share in the sum total of railroad art and its latest publication will rank among the finest specimens of souvenir excursion ever issued. It is the Burlington Book of St. Paul and Minneapolis, a rich oblong volume picturing most the magnificent trains, then scenes along the route, then St. Paul and surroundings followed by Ft. Snelling and Minneapolis, in all respects, composition, letter press, illustrations and binding. It is a dainty volume.

Copies of this elegant book can be had by sending also 25 cents (postage stamps will pass) to Geo. P. Lyman, G. P. A., Burlington Route, St. Paul, Minn.

Expenses of remittance can be saved by several persons combining orders. 10-14



HE Liberty, whose advent upon American soil we to-day celebrate, and whose principle is the greatest good to the greatest number, is a

making government the engine rather than the lash and terror of the people, was nourished in those dim Teutonic forests where our ancestors hurled defiance at the Roman legions, and died for the preservation of their ancient privileges. In its fatherly childhood it needed watchfulness for its development, and was transplanted by the hand that guides history to that mist-girdled island, where continental government had an unbroken growth until the rights of the people at last came into conflict with an ultra kingly authority, and upon the field of Runnymede the vindication of the claim of the common man to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness was maintained by sturdy blows and doughty deeds.

In this crucial year of our nation's history, a year that marks the departure from the policy that for a century has guided our law-makers and statesmen, our thoughts are our more and more to the history of liberty, and we draw lessons from the greatness of free government in the civilization of the world. Our banner has been planted upon the farthest islands of the Pacific and upon the beautiful tropic lands of the southern seas, as a measure to the world that the rights of man shall triumph over the wrongs of tyranny, and that liberty's circle is not complete until the world is girdled.

Those who stand in the way of civilization must go down before the forces of progress. This is the decree of the ages, and every thrush it may appear to those whose view of history is blinded by the white light of our own day, the survival of the fittest is nature's law.

In reviewing America's share in the world's civilization, the coldest heart must be thrilled with the glory of her deeds and the grandeur of the position achieved by adherence to exalted ideals. While carving out for themselves homes in the wilderness the American colonists laid deep and broad the foundations of a nation whose principles of individual right are almost identical with those of our Teutonic ancestors, and may thus justly claim to be the fruit of Anglo-Saxon ideas.

It was this spirit of individualism that brought forth the soldiers and statesmen of the war of independence. The democracy that strove for the recognition of the right of the common man at Runnymede found worthy successors in men who fought at Bunker Hill to preserve liberty. Transplanted to American soil, the seed of freedom sent out hopes that took root in the world's consciousness, and European constitutions alone, as well as American liberty, was the fruition.

In its infancy, democracy was content to animate the interiors of the territory of the western continent, and to assert that European monarchy should be denied the privilege of aggression thereon. In its manhood this same democracy recognizes its duty and responsibility in the moral uplift of mankind and the dissemination of that Christian civilization, in which its own strength rests.

The brain of democracy evolved the mental device that have enfranchised labor by procuring for it labor for self-cultivation. It brought forth the telegraph and the applications of steam, and has made all man brothers by thus bringing them into close communion. It has spread the cycles of tradition from church and state, and has made itself the recognized power in commerce and science. So little more than a hundred years has become the leader of the world's wealth, but conscious of its great destiny it is now erecting for its rest upon its laurels are its endeavor.

To-day of its solemn obligation to its own people and to those new peoples whose fate is within its keeping, conscious of the charity of its great thinking effective agency, America faces the future fearlessly and with an unfaltering faith in the Most High God, who holds the nations in His hand and has directed each, since time began, their work in perfecting men and making him worthy of an immortal soul. LOU V. CHAPIN.

ROMANCE OF WAR.

Two Young Soldiers, a Red Cross Nurse and the Legacy of $60,000 in the Outline of the Story.

Samuel Seall, of Mays Landing, N. J., and H. S. Smith, whose home is in Utah, were both members of the Twelfth regiment, U. S. A., and took part in the battle at Santiago. Typhoid malaria attacked them after the fight, and they were subsequently sent to the hospital at Fort McPherson, Ga.

Miss Annie E. Thompson, a Red Cross nurse who had volunteered for hospital duty in Boston, nursed both of these young soldiers through their illness. Then she broke down, and they in turn did everything in their power for her. She was not dangerously ill, but they saw that she suffered for nothing, and as far as possible lifted all responsibility from her shoulders.

Eventually Miss Thompson went to Kansas, where she owned some property. She then suffered a relapse and died.

It has now been discovered that she was a wealthy woman, and by her will she has left to Seall and Smith, share and share alike, a hotel in St. Louis, valued at $40,000.

Seall is a milk dealer at Mays Landing. He will go to St. Louis and look after his share of the property which has come to him so romantically.

Sounds Heard in a Balloon.

A writer of the Strand Magazine describes the astonishment he experienced when, riding over London in a balloon at a height of more than half a mile, he heard the deafening roar of the great city beneath him as it could not be heard on the ground. The noise, even at that height, was so harsh and intense as to be painful to the ear. How perfect a sound conductor the air is was shown when the balloon drifted far over the city to a wooded part of the country, where the murmur of the rustling leaves moved by the wind half a mile below was distinctly heard.

DREYFUS ARRIVES.

Landed From the Cruiser Sfax at Quiberon and Conveyed Thence to Rennes.

RENNES, France, July 1.—Captain Dreyfus has arrived here.

The prisoner landed from the cruiser Sfax at Quiberon and was conveyed by train to Dinz, 12 kilometers from Rennes. There he entered a landau, accompanied by the chief of detectives of the prefect department, and was driven to Rennes, where 950 gendarmes awaited his arrival in the town. Part of the gendarmes entered a wagon and followed the carriage and the rest followed on foot. The party reached the prison without incident. A large crowd assembled and witnessed the arrival in silence and without manifestation.

Mme. Dreyfus was allowed to see her husband for a few minutes. When she issued from the prison she was in a state of collapse. She found her husband much aged, with beard and hair whitened and body shrunken and enfeebled. She said Dreyfus knew nothing of the events of the past two years.

The weeping wife acknowledged the kindness of the gendarme she had been treated. The gendarme who was ordered to be present at the interview, carried out instructions and kept at a discreet distance.

IOWA LAND CASE.

Decision by Federal Judge Shiras in the Northern Iowa County Litigation.

DUBUQUE, Ia., July 3.—Judge Shiras of the federal court has decided the famous O'Brien county (Ia.) land case by ruling that title in the disputed land is vested in innocent purchasers.

The land grant was given the Sioux City and Pacific railway conditioned on the construction of the road into Minnesota, but building was stopped at Le Mars. The road sold much land to settlers, but the company was not forfeited the grant. The lower court so decided, the United States supreme court sustaining the decision. The lands were reopened and settlers went in and seized property purchased from the railway. After many years of litigation the court now enters a decree holding that the original purchasers are entitled to retain land occupied by them. The decision involves title to 30,000 acres of land in Iowa.

Northern Pacific to Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, July 3.—President Mellen and Traffic Manager Hannaford of the Northern Pacific had an interview with the members of the government on matters concerning the Northern Pacific railway projects in this province. The interview lasted from 8 o'clock in the afternoon until midnight. Several questions were very thoroughly discussed.

LATE MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, July 5.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 Northern, 72½c; No. 1 Northern, 71½c; No. 2 Northern, 70½c; No. 3, 67½c. To Arrive—No. 1 hard, 73½c; No. 1 Northern, 72½c; No. 2 Northern, 71½c; September, 74½c.

Minneapolis Wheat.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 5.

WHEAT—In store—No. 1 hard, Northern, July, 72½c; September, 71½; December, 72½. On Track—No. 1 hard, 72½c; No. 1 Northern, 72½c; No. 2 Northern, 71½c

Sioux City Live Stock.

SIOUX CITY, July 5.

HOGS—Market strong to 2½c higher, selling at $3.80@3.95; bulk, $3.85.

CATTLE—Market slow; stockers weak to 10c higher.

Sales ranged at $4.00@5.05 for steers; $2.00@4.00 for cows, bulls and mixed; $3.25@4.25 for stockers; $3.00@4.00 for feeders; $3.50@4.20 for calves and yearlings.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

ST. PAUL, July 5.

HOGS—Market 5 higher and strong. Range of sales, $3.75@3.95; bulk, $3.85@3.90.

CATTLE—Good demand for butcher cattle. Light run and very little doing. Sales ranged at $4.00@4.75 for cows, $4.80@5.10 for steers; $3.75@4.25 for stockers; $3.25@4.00 for feeders; $4.00@4.50 for calves; $3.50@4.20 for yearlings.

SHEEP—Good demand for good sheep and lambs.

Sales ranged at $4.65@4.75 for muttons; $5.00@5.75 for lambs.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, July 5.

HOGS—Market shade lower.

Sales ranged at $3.75@3.97½ for mixed and butchers; $3.85@3.95 good heavy; $3.80@3.95 for rough heavy; $3.80@4.02½ for light.

CATTLE—Market shade lower.

Sales ranged at $4.00@5.10 for beeves; $3.00@5.00 for cows and heifers; $4.00@5.00 for Texans; $4.00@4.90 stockers and feeders.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Sales ranged at $4.00@5.15 for sheep; $4.00@7.00 for lambs.

Receipts, Hogs, 42,000; cattle, 12,000; sheep, 10,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, July 5.

WHEAT—July, 72½; September, 72½@73½c; December, 77½c.

CORN—July, 34½c; September, 34½@34⅝c; December, 34c. May, 36½c.

OATS—July, 21½c; September, 21¾c; and May, 24½c; December, 22½.

PORK—July, $8.15@8.25; September, $8.27½.

POULTRY—Dressed, turkeys, 8c; chickens, 9@9½c.

BUTTER—Creameries, 13¼@18c; dairies, 11@15½c.

EGGS—Fresh, 12c.

Crookston Market.

The following is the price of wheat quoted in the local market this morning:

No. 1 hard.....68c
No. 1 northern.....68c
No. 2 northern.....58c

Farm For Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—northwest quarter of section 29, town 150, range 45. In the village of Gentilly, about 100 yards from cheese factory. No. 1 buildings, including good house, well finished, large barn for stock, granary holding 6,000 bushels, good well, creek that never goes dry, close to barn; about four miles of fence on the farm. For further particulars, inquire of N. Brosseau, at Olson House, Crookston, Minn. 8-20

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

Maurice Lyons, a St. Paul poineer, is dead.

German day will be celebrated in St. Paul Sept. 8.

A contract for a sewer system at Minneota has been let.

Winona banks have reduced the interest rate from 4 to 3 per cent.

Four small boys who ran away from St. Paul were arrested at Hinckley.

The state fair managers have a plan for a show ring for the exhibition of stock.

Two store buildings at Barnesville belonging to E. Nelson, have been burned.

The government is beginning a topographical survey in the vicinity of the Twin Cities.

Dr. Robinson of Rock Island has been appointed principal of the St. Paul Central high school.

Sixty-three centuries were ridden in June by Minnesota members of the Century Road club.

State Chemist W. S. Eberman has resigned, and J. A. Bonnell has been named to succeed him.

Public Examiner Pope has issued a call for the state bank statement at the close of business June 30.

A postoffice has been established at Action, Meeker county, with August Hendriksen as postmaster.

Parties representing 15 lodges, A. O. U. W. are making arrangements for a picnic at Bialtzky, July 19.

The appointment of Colonel Lowenstein as state immigration agent re-establishes an office abolished eight years ago.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the bank examiner by the Amboy State bank, with David Scour of Winnebago city as president. The capital stock is $25,000.

It is reported that William Angell of St. Paul, well known in political circles, has been appointed appraiser of lands in Indian Territory. Angell is backed by Tams Bixby. The position pays $7,500 a year.

Lumber shipments from Duluth are very heavy. In the past seven days 17,000,000 feet have been shipped east from Duluth and Superior by water, besides what has goae west and south in the car trade.

The death is announced in Manila of Paul Rhoda, private in Company K, Thirteenth regiment, from typhoid. He was unmarried and a bartender before enlistment at Stillwater. His sister, Gertrude Rhoda, living in Stillwater, is his nearest relative.

Robbers entered the city hospital at Stillwater and ripped the till of $30 and also took a gold watch and chain. There is no clue and the mystery is deep, inasmuch as all the doors were locked and there is no evidence of tampering with the windows.

Pat Flaherty, who was losing transferred from Duluth to the Fergus Falls insane asylum, was placed in the jail at Staples over night for the safe keeping, where he committed suicide while the officers went for breakfast. He hung himself to the top of the cell with his straps.

Foley Bros., contractors on the Eastern Minnesota extension of the Hibbing to Virginia, are troubled by a scarcity of laborers and have raised wages to $2 a day. Between a scarcity of help and rainy weather it is scarcely likely that the road will be in operation by Sept. 1, as expected.

Ida May Beatty, the 3-year-old daughter of Andrew P. Beaty of Company C, Thirteenth regiment, who was killed at Manila April 10, has applied to the adjutant general through her guardian father, George Warrant of Kasota, for a pension. Her mother died shortly before her father's enlistment.

Seven miles west of Mantowa, near Kettle lake, the body of August Berg, a farmer, was found by Jerking a bullet holefrom a rifleextended through the back of the head and out of the mouth. An empty gun was elasped in the arms of the victim. The body was sent to Carlton and King held as a witness.

A terrible electrical and windstorm prevailed at St. Vincent Friday. The Great Northern pumping mill was blown down and the St. Anthony and Dakota Elevator company's mill house wrecked. The storm took J. Dumont's 60-foot barn with nine horses 60 feet. It broke windows, and blew down trees and chimneys.

The state game and fish commission has begun the annual distribution of trout fry in the various sections of the state where trout streams are located. It is expected that 1,000,000 will be sent out. The work was delayed lest the heavy rains and high water of the early season might wash the young fish away. The streams in Winona, Washington, Stearns, Houston and St. Louis counties suffered from those causes.

William H. Angell, who has been acting as executive clerk in the governor's office for the administrations, and who recently resigned, was presented with a beautiful gold watch by the state officials and office force. The presentation was made by Deputy Auditor San Iverson. Governor Lind also made a short speech. He says that Mr. Angell had left of his own accord, as he had offered him the privilege of remaining.

Exchanges throughout the state are requested by Professor Lugger, the state entomologist, to give prominence to the fact that migratory locusts have appeared in this locality, and may do sons damage. The presence of even a few in any agricultural district may be a menace to the entire neighborhood. It will be well to apply drastic measures at once, and to heed the advice as to plowing, last, first of all, to communicate with him.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following are the real estate transfers for Polk county as furnished by Christianson & Strandberg, abstractors, for the week ending June 14, 1899:

Elsie Peltondt to Jacob Lee ne¼ sec 32-148-41.....$ 1 00
Henry P Brown et al to Charles Hoyt et al lot 4 Lockhart & Harbaugh's addition to Crookston.....200 00
H C Silsbee to S Chapin lot 26 block 1 Lockhart & Harbaugh's addition to Reeder.....25 00
F S Sargeant, receiver to David Cross ne¼ sec 19-148-45.....50 00
Joseph B Pougiere to Hattie Beulin and Mary Bessette nw¼ 1-2 3 and e sec 25-149-49.....1000 00
Wilbur H Jennings et al to Charles E Sawyer part of lot 1 block 1 Railroad Crookston.....1 00
Benton Sylvester et al to Ole Bjerkelien e of ne¼ sec 8-149-49.....550 00
Silas H Kennedy et al to Robert Dudley lot 1 sec 19-147-46.....500 00
Silas H Kennedy to Robert Dudley sec ne¼ sec 19-147-46 and e½ sec 24 sec 19-147-46.....2500 00
Josephine Elsner to John B McPhee lots 23 24 25 and 26 block 10 Jeromes addition to Crookston.....2000 00
Estella E Hutter to Sheldon W Vance and George F Stone nw¼ sec 24-148-47.....1 00
Wm J Anderson to James Elliuston lots 9 and 11 block 33 and lots 11 and 16 block 14 Traills addition to East Grand Forks.....1000 00
J P Foote to A K Austin lot 11 block 1 L L Fletcher's addition to Crookston.....300 00
Myron Collins to S L Collins lots 11 and 12 block 3 second addition of Crookston.....2000 00
Hellen Hellickson to Halvor A Bolken ne¼ sec 22-150-48.....200 00
Arce Freeman to May Spencer lot 13 block 12 Jerome addition to Crookston.....50 00
Christie E Sawyer to Andrew D Stephens part of lot 1 block 21 Jerome's addition to Crookston.....300 00
Robert W Dickson et al to Ole Bjerkelien e of ne¼ sec 8-149-49.....150 00
Peter Burtness to Jerome B Stephens and Mary Bessette nw¼ 1-2 3 and e sec 25-149-49.....1000 00
Charles Nelson to Jacob Kittel part of lot 3 Village of Fisher.....150 00
James Gilmore to John McNamara beach and 11 block 42 Traills addition to Grand Forks and Frederick Heath ne¼ sec 24-149-51.....2100 00
Effa Stanley to Hans Johnson lot 4 sec 31-147-46.....300 00
Hans Johnson to Lewis Olson lot 4 sec 31-147-46.....300 00
Cole & T S Manufacturing Co Ltd to Ole Bjerkelien nw¼ sec 8, nw¼ sec 9 and e½ sec 5-149-49.....960 00
St Paul & M Ry Co to Andrew Anderson ne¼ sec 8-148-47.....2560 00
Ole S Leland to Andrew Anderson ne¼ sec 22-149-49.....1280 00
Helen Nelson to John F Kroll nw¼ ne¼ sec 10-147-46.....300 00
Jorgen Jorgenson to Ole Tollefson nw¼ sec 2-149-49.....1000 00
Caroline Carouette to Alex Neville lots 2 and 3 block 11 Jerome addition to Crookston.....1000 00
Mary F Rollins to O O Christianson and C C Strander e½ sec 7-148-46.....1100 00
O O Christianson and C C Strander to Ole Bjerkelien e½ sec 7-148-46.....600 00
Bertrand Hellerman Ocoee to Peder Hellerman ne¼ sec 22-150-48 and nw¼ sec 23-150-48.....2000 00
Crookston Improvement Co to W H Smith lots 1 2 3 4 and 8 block 9 and lots 11 12 20 and 24 block 8 Sumpter's second addition to Crookston.....1500 00
Jorgen Jorgenson to Gabriel Kvidahl ne¼ sec 2-149-49.....1 00
Knud O Fladoe to Destiny Harvester Co lots 1 2 and 3 block 2 and lots 4 5 12 16.....1000 00
Frank Navarro to Martin G Peterson lots 5 and 6 block 1 Jerome addition to Crookston.....1100 00
Ole Peter to Halvor Steenerson et al lot 10 block 7 Swaite of Kelliher.....183 00
Joseph Lariviere to Anne M Shelly lot 3 block 11 Fletcher's addition.....925 00
Abraham Newton to Ole Newton ne¼ sec 22-150-48.....800 00
St P M & M Ry Co to John Scott ne¼ sec 18-147-45.....1000 00
Silas H Cooley to Charles LaFavette Commins ne¼ of ne¼ sec 29-149-49.....1 00
Ole M Brown to Clelie Hulme sec 1 sec 18-149-43.....160 00
A Appel to Great Northern Power Co ne¼ sec 13-150-46.....700 00
Ole G Jorgenson to Andrew A Rolmundstad ne¼ sec 22-149-49.....1500 00
Andrew A Rolmundson to Malcolm McLeod ne¼ sec 14-148-46.....1200 00
Lester F Thurber assignee to Martin E Gerrard nw¼ sec 1-148-46.....1 00
Gilmut T Peyton to O T Berge sw¼ sec 9-149-49.....600 00
Joseph J Plante to Margaret J Webster lot 22 block 13 Village of Fisher.....450 00
J McGuire, et al to Edmund Regan lots 11 and 12 block 22 Jeromes addition to Crookston.....150 00
Crookston Gas Light & Heating Co to Louis P Gardner sec 4 sec 34-148-46.....300 00
Crookston Improvement Co to W H Smith lots 1 and 2 block 3 C M Loring's addition to Crookston.....1000 00
Great Northern Ry Co to John Nesser lot 8 sec 7-147-46.....82 50
Andrew Opheim to Paul Peterson ne¼ sec 3-149-49.....1000 00
Andrew A Rolmundson to Malcolm McLeod lots 3 and 4 block 1 and lot 3rd addition to Erskine.....1200 00

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Newton's Oration

A Fourth of July Dilemma.

LORIOUS day, Nordyke."

"It's terrible! I never drunk, but fireworks, anvils and nigger-chasers have been to me what gunpowder was to Samson."

Newton Nordyke and Sidney Clemens, late college classmates and graduation honor-winners, had met at a railway junction. Sidney was bound for his home in the next ward, while Newton was waiting for a train to carry him to Charlotte, 20 miles west, where he was booked to deliver a Fourth of July oration that afternoon.

"I'm almost crazy, Clemens," said the latter, after announcing his mission. "I expect to make a dandy effort, but I couldn't refuse the invitation, since I am an applicant for the position of principal of the Charlotte schools."

"You ought to have written out your speech."

"I did, for I can't extemporize, but I haven't committed it to memory," and Newton Nordyke produced a manuscript.

"Let me see it," said Clemens over my article on the Twelve Local Counts of Hereford. I hope to break into a magazine with it. Why, this is all right," Clemens continued a moment later. "The little scream of blood that begun to trickle down the nose of the future great and pursuant nation sold on until it became a regular think deluge would be better than blood. That's great stuff. It will carry them off their feet and win you the appointment. Brace up, old boy. Give the speech of your life, and you're a winner. There's your train. Good-by."

As the Charlotte depot Nordyke was met by an enthusiastic delegation headed by Squire Hawkins, presiding spirit of the school trustees, and, escorted by a band of yelling boys and barking dogs, was driven through fife and parade, to the fair grounds.

From his chair upon the improvised platform Nordyke, surrounded by the leading men of the county, looked proudly over the vast audience. His trepidation had passed away with the opening prayer, and as the declaration of independence was dewfully read and reverently listened to, when the band ceased playing "Hail Columbia" and all eyes were turned upon him.

"I have now the pleasure," announced Squire Hawkins, who acted as chairman, "to introduce the orator of the day, Mr. Newton Nordyke, a patriotic American and rising young scholar, who will address you."

He passed and looked at the manuscript that Newton was unfolding over the Twelve Lost Counts of Hereford."

"Horrors!" ejaculated the young man as he realized that he had exchanged papers with Clemens.

The preliminary applause was subsiding; what was to do? The trustful, inspiring face of his widowed mother seemed to rise before him and he formed a sudden resolve.

"Fellow citizens," he began, "you are all patriots; you all know the past history and promising future of our glorious nation. Pardon, then, the innovation if, to-day, I appeal from your splendid lives to the music of the spheres, from gunpowder and fireworks to the personal display set in the boundless firmament by the hand of nations and liberty."

He paused once and with fine elementary effects the late terrified, and still deeply impressed audience heard his friend's powerful paper. It was listened to with deepening interest and took his seat amid loud applause.

The greatest speech ever made in Terrens county," said Squire Hawkins as he grasped the orator's hand. "Knowledge combined with patriotism. Consider yourself engaged as principal at a salary of $1,200."

Newton Nordyke's mother must have thought he was a child when she received that evening the following telegram:

"Tell the boys and cow and lucin pack me at once. I'm engaged. Will write. Contents of Herschel did the business.—Newton."—R. L. BARCLAWYN.

Fourth of July Night.

Mr. Mulehey—Begob, an' thim Romans moulded hoy loved excitement aff they used to. Did ye iver witness a Roman candle?

Destructive Work.

Some miscreants, in the early morning of the Fourth, succeeded in demolishing with gunpowder the public waterjug trough. A giant cracker was placed in the hollow of a log and the jack screws put in the trough. The explosion shattered the jack screw and drove a huge whole in the trough. Chief Gouyea is hard after the vandals and they will be summarily punished when they are caught.

Literary Notes.

JULY FORUM.

The Forum has a number of interesting articles this month. Among them are: "The Trust Problem and Its Solution," by Ex-Senator W. A. Peffer; "Lord Roseberry and the Premiership," by M. Gennadius; Mrs. Cady Stanton contributes the weekly "Essence of Parliament" to Punch; "Was Columbus Ever Lost?" by Professor Frank W. Peet, C. Lombroso, the eminent criminologist; and "The Future of the Negro," by W. H. Council, the colored president of the Agricultural and Mechanical College for Negroes, at Normal, Alabama.

One of the most valuable papers on the subject of our late conflict with Spain is contributed to the July Forum by President Henry Wade Rogers, late Judge Advocate General in the Cuban Provisional Law in the Late War." President Rogers deals with the questions of intervention, contraband of war, cable-cutting, and transiency.

L. F. Menage, late president of the Guarantee Loan Company of Minneapolis, who for the past six years has been living in hiding in Central America, returned to Minneapolis last week, surrendered himself to the authorities, plead not guilty to three indictments and was let out on $10,000 bail.

Order for Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk.—ss.
In Probate Court, Special Term May 26, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of George Letters, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of George Letters, deceased, late of the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, being granted to Mary Letters.

It is ordered, that six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against said deceased are required to file the same in said Probate Court of said county, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is further ordered, That the first day of September, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. at a special term of said Probate Court, to be held at the Probate office in the City of Crookston, in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place when and where said Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, That notice of said hearing be given by publication of this order once a week for three successive weeks in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.

Dated Crookston, Minn. this 26th day of May A. D. 1899.

A. A. MILLER,
Attorney for Estate. Judge of Probate.
Crookston, Minn. (SEAL)
9-11

Mortgage Sale.

(First publication June 29, 1899.)
(Last publication August 10, 1899.)

Notice of mortgage foreclosure in advertising.

Default has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage with power of sale dated the fifth day of October, A. D. 1897, executed by Peter Lee and Ida Lee, his wife, of Polk county, Minnesota, on the 25th day of October, A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk county, Minnesota, on the 25th day of October, A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Polk county, Minnesota, on the 25th day of October, A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock a. m. and duly recorded in book 19 of mortgages on page 356, whereby the said Peter Lee and Ida Lee, his wife, conveyed to The American Freehold Land Mortgage Company of London, England, Limited, Kingdom, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the United Kingdom of Great Britain, the following described real estate, situated in the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit:

The east half of the northwest quarter (e½ of nw¼) and the west half of the northeast quarter (w½ of ne¼) of section one hundred and twenty-one (121) north of range forty-three (43) west of the fifth principal meridian, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, according to the United States survey, excepting so much of said premises as have been heretofore conveyed by said mortgagor or by whom he may lawfully convey the same.

And whereas default has been made in the conditions of said mortgage in this, that the interest due thereon on the first day of January, 1899, and the taxes and assessments levied against said premises for the year 1898 remain unpaid and said mortgage will be foreclosed and said premises sold to satisfy said mortgage debt, interest and taxes, and the statute in such case made and provided.

Now, Therefore, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and said statute said mortgage will be foreclosed and said premises sold to satisfy said debt and interest and taxes, and disbursements allowed by law.

Dated September 25th, 1899.

THE AMERICAN FREEHOLD LAND MORTGAGE COMPANY OF LONDON, (Limited) of London England.

REDINGTON & REDINGTON,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.
11-17

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota County of Polk.—ss.
In the District Court, Ninth Judicial District.
Defendants.

The State of Minnesota to the said defendant:

You are hereby summoned to appear before the subscribed one of the Judges of the District Court of the Ninth Judicial District, in the county of Polk, State of Minnesota, being the county in which the plaintiff has commenced this action, and to file your answer to the complaint of the plaintiff in said action in the office of the Clerk of said District Court, at the Court House in the City of Crookston, in said county and State, and to serve a copy thereof upon the subscribers thereof at their office in the City of Crookston, in said county and State, within twenty days after the service of this summons upon you, exclusive of the day of such service; and if you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be taken against you by default and the relief demanded in said complaint will be granted.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, this 9th day of June, A. D. 1899.

(SEAL) GEO. H. HOLT,
Judge of the District Court.

9-12

Order For Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk.—ss.
In the District Court, Special Term, June 26, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of Neil Mons Letter.

Letters testamentary on the estate of Neil Mons Letter, late of the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, having granted to Ole Letter.

It is ordered that six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to file the same in said Probate Court of said county, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is further ordered, that the 5th day of September, 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m. at a special term of said Probate Court, to be held at the Probate office in the City of Crookston, in said county be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place when and where said Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, That notice of said hearing be given by publication of this order once a week for three successive weeks in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.

Dated at Crookston this 26th day of June, A. D. 1899.

OLE E. HAVEN,
Judge of Probate.

12-15

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk.—ss.
In District Court, Ninth Judicial District.

You are hereby summoned to be and appear before the undersigned, one of the Judges of the District Court of said County, on the 15th day of July 1899 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon at my office in the City of Crookston in said County and State, to show cause why the petition of Jerome B. Stephens praying for the sale of the real estate described in said petition should not be granted, and why the said petitioner should not be authorized to sell the real estate described in said petition for the purpose of paying the debts of said deceased, a copy of which petition is hereto annexed.

And you are hereby notified to file your answer to said petition on or before the time above mentioned, and in default thereof said petition will be granted.

Dated at Crookston this 26th day of June, A. D. 1899.

JOHN McLEAN,
Judge of the District Court.

Attorney for Estate. Office at Crookston.

Order to Examine Accounts, Etc.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk.—ss.
In District Court, special term June 15, 1899.
In the matter of the estate of Henry M. Wheeler, deceased.

On reading and considering the petition of Jerome W. Wheeler representing that Henry M. Wheeler, late of Crookston, died intestate, and among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining and allowing the account of the administration, and for the allowance of the residue of said estate.

It is ordered, that said accounts be examined, and petition be heard before the Court at Crookston,

Friday the 7th day of July A. D. 1899 at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the Probate Office in Crookston in said county.

And it is further ordered that notice thereof be given to all persons interested, by publication of this order for three successive weeks prior to said time of hearing in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said County.

Dated at Crookston Minn. the 15th day of June A. D. 1899 By the Court.

(SEAL) OLE E. HAUGEN,
Attorney for Estate. Judge of Probate.

Don't Miss the Chance.

To go west this summer via Northern Pacific Shasta route at small expense. N. E. A. low rates enable you to go to Washington, Oregon and California for very little money. You can go via one route and return over another-have stopovers-go to N. E. A. or not, as you please. Ask Northern Pacific agents about details.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

Polk County Journal,

By N. S. GORDON.

☞Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

Ilosseun Times:—That man Gordon, of the Polk County Journal, gets out the slickest newspaper, whatever. It is a model in make up and print and it would not be surprising if the Journal forced the other Crookston papers to compete with his style.

For the weekly history of Polk county read the JOURNAL. We have a corps of news gatherers that can't be beat in this section.

THE First ward of Crookston is well represented in the city council,—there is Alderman Anderson. Alderman O'Brien and Mr. President. This ward has two votes while all the other wards have but two votes.

FOR the first time in the history of Polk county the people are, through the columns of the Journal, being furnished with the news from all parts of the county. No paper hitherto has attempted anything of the kind and we feel sure that our readers will appreciate the efforts which we have and are making to let them know about what is going on in the farthermost corners of the county.

THE Akeley News is the last exchange that reached our exchange table. Kendall Clark, who formerly edited the Cass Lake Independent, is the editor and business manager of the newspaper. We have already called attention to Mr. Clark's ability as a writer and congratulate the people of Akeley upon their good fortune in having him go among them. Success to the Akeley News!

"I am most emphatically for his [McKinley's] renomination of course." These are the words of Governor Roosevelt of New York and disposes of the question as to whether or not he would himself be a candidate for the presidency, for when Roosevelt says anything everybody knows that he means what he says. President McKinley's administration has been so able that there will be little if any opposition to his renomination.

As the members of Col. Cobham Post No. 80 G. A. R. passed the JOURNAL office last Friday on their way back to their hall from the graveyard, where they assisted at the funeral obsequies of the late Joseph Netzer, we were reminded by the thinned ranks, the bowed heares and the gray hairs that the veterans of the Civil war are getting fewer and fewer as the years roll by. These were noble men who sacrificed much for their country and a grateful nation will ever hold them in highest honor.

THERE seems to be more reason than ever why Algoe should leave the cabinet. He is certainly the weak man in that otherwise strong combination, and is not acceptable either to the republican party or to the people at large. But he has openly stated that he is a candidate for the United States Senatorship from Michigan and with a view to gaining that coveted place he has formed a league with Pingree. No man who is capable of filling successfully the office of Secretary of War could endure to occupy the position in which Mr. Algoe now finds himself. Had he any sensitiveness whatever he would resign.

CAPTAIN DREYFUS has reached France after his long years of imprisonment on a lone island off the north coast of South America. There is little question but that at his new trial he will be acquitted, and thus with a great wrong be righted. Emile Zola, the French novelist, deserves more credit than anyone else for this change in the attitude of France toward Dreyfus. Zola risked his life in defense of the unjustly condemned man and was exiled from his native land to which he has but recently returned. Zola will be remembered because of this act of humanity in the half of a fallen man more than because of what he has written. He has undoubtedly risen in the eyes of the world.

HON. CORNELIUS N. BLISS, ex-secretary of the interior department, in an interview published in the New York Mail and Express, ably defends the recent action of the President exempting several thousand offices from the classified civil service list. The matter of these changes has been under consideration for over a year. They were made solely in the interests of the government service, and with a few exceptions met with the approval of the civil service commission, which body of men was consulted before the order was issued. The action of the President is in no sense a pandering to the spoilsmen and against the interests of civil service reform. The officers taken from the classified service are those whose duties are of an executive and confidential character and the mistake was made, not in taking them out of the classified list, but in ever putting them in there.

SOME three years ago the W. C. T. U. of the city, who have in charge the old public library, let the high school have the books and these books are now in the library room in the high school building. An effort is now being made by the Y. M. C. A. of the city to secure this library that they may put it in the Y. M. C. A. room in the McGinnon block. The question then for the ladies of the Union to decide is: In which place will these books do the more good? A careful consideration of this question will certainly lead them to the conclusion that the books would better remain at the high school. The library, which the ladies have now for several years kindly allowed the pupils in the high school to use, is a scholar's library and in no sense a circulating library. It is made up of reference books on historical and literary subjects, critical essays, some of the standard novels and several volumes of magazines, an excellent library for a school, but not fitted for a public reading room. Even those volumes which could be used by the Y. M. C. A. would do more good where they now are than if they were taken away. Beneficial to the community as the Y. M. C. A. may be and the JOURNAL has always taken pains to commend the organization to the public, the public schools are of much more importance, and to change this library from the schools to the Y. M. C. A. room is to do more, very much indeed, its sphere of influence.

ALREADY there is considerable said in the newspapers of the state as to who will be Minnesota's next congressmen and several have announced themselves as candidates, notably Adam Bede in the Sixth district. This is a peculiar state of affairs is as much as the congress to which men were elected last November has not opened yet and will not open till next December. Permanence in any business or walk in life is necessary to success and in nothing more so than in political affairs. Therefore, if we wish Minnesota to attain the prominence in national affairs which she ought to, we must keep the same men in congress for a long term of years, that is, if these men are really competent and have statesmanlike qualities. If they are looking out for their own interests more than for those of the state and the nation they by all means remove them. As far as the Seventh district is concerned it seems to be taken for granted that Hon. M. Eddy will be re-elected. No one wants to question his right to another term. McCleary, Morris and Tawney are the doubtful ones. With regard to Congressman McCleary we should regret to see him retired. He has attained a national reputation upon the money question. No man in the United States today is considered as great an authority on this momentous question as is Mr. McCleary. Then why leave him at home? The only excuse that can be given is that others want his place and if that reason has weight with the people, then good bye to any power that our congressmen may ever gain at Washington.

SHOOTING TOURNAMENT.

Was a Great Success—40 Shooters—Leading Cities Represented.

The big shooting tournament planned by the Crookston Gun Club was a grand success, not merely in the number of those taking part, but in the entertainment furnished to the visitors by the Queen City sportsmen. Those from abroad, many of whom attend almost all the tournaments in this and surrounding states, said that they never had a better time than they did here at Crookston. Mrs. Shattuck of Minneapolis sustained her reputation of being one of the best trap shooters in the country. She shot 190 straight though handicapped twice by several yards. The following is the total score of the twelve highest: Trent, 228; Morrison, 225; Robbins, 225; Sprague, 219; Mrs. Shattuck, 216; Taber, 211; Shattuck, 210; McKay, 206; Larson, 198; Vannet, 198; Dale, 197; Nelson, 196.

DAILY SERVICE TO FARGO.

St. Vincent Train Runs to Fargo—Witbey and Murray in Charge.

The Great Northern railway has granted the request of the towns along the Halstad line and last Monday a daily train was put on. The daily passenger which has run between Crookston and St. Vincent will complete the daily service to Fargo. The train will leave Fargo at 5:30 A. M.; reach Crookston at 8:15 A. M., remain here till Duluth train from Grand Forks arrives, leaving at 9:15 A. M. Going south the train will reach Crookston at 7:15 P. M. and depart at 7:45 P. M, reaching Fargo at 10:40 P. M. At present engineers Chapin and Siebens and conductors H. Murray and S. Witbey have charge of the train.

GRAIN GROWERS MEET.

Wish to Operate Their Own Elevators —Trouble Between Two Factions.

A convention of the Grain Growers Co-operative Association has been called for St. Paul on July 7, at which issues of moment are expected to develop. Those who profess themselves in sympathy with the grangers say that a struggle is inevitable between two factions, one representing the farmer pure tillers of the soil and the other the handlers of the crop after it has been made ready for the primary market.

Recently the Grain Dealers' Association was given existence. Among its chief promoters were ex-Congressman Bowen and Erick Olson, both of them grain buyers. It is from this quarter that complications are expected, for it is explained that the Grain Dealers include in their membership many of the parent society and that they are prepared for a vigorous effort to control the destines of the movement.

The ambition of the Grain Growers' organization has been to operate a line of elevators in competition with the present companies in the field. It is now announced that the Grain Dealers hope to be able to accomplish the same end and here the clash occurs. As the case is put by some of the farming interests: they would as soon continue business with the present occupants of the field as to entrust their wheat to a new and untried association of buyers. They would have more confidence in the established elevator companies and would more willingly sell through them. And further, they question the right of a purchaser of grain to identify himself with an association admission to which is supposed to be extended only to producers.

A very liberal interpretation would probably have been given the rules on this latter point had it not been the policy of the buyers to organize within the association, and endeavor to advance their own interests in this manner. At least this is the statement which emanates from those connected with the faction urging the farmers to protect themselves against an invasion of their rights.

SCHOOL FUNDS SHORT.

Half Graded Schools Want Get Appropriations—Examinations a Bore.

Half the graded schools and high schools that are eligible for state bounties will probably have to wait till the next legislature votes them the money before they get their awards. The state high school board recently decided that was the best that could be done. Gov. Lind, President Northrop and Supt. Lewis constitute the board, and had with them Inspector Rankin, of the grade schools and Inspector Aiton of the high schools.

Strictly read, the law leaves a year without any appropriation whatever for the bounties, but Auditor Dunn says no count would ignore the plain intention of the legislature to make the appropriation consecutive, and he isn't the man to deprive the schools of their rights.

But the legislature overlooked a matter of $10,000 for each of these two classes that Mr. Dunn can't find any way of correcting. In 1897 the legislature added for two years $60,000 to each of these grants. They were specific appropriations, and no stretch of the imagination or the legislative intent can make them available another year.

For grade schools there is $11,000 available. There are 110 grades schools eligible for $200 each. Half of them will have to wait.

Gov. Lind brought forth the question of examinations in the high schools. The university has recently adopted a rule that pupils from state high schools may be admitted only upon examination, instead of upon diploma from the school. The objection is raised to that that the pupils study to pass the examination and not to get what good they can from the subject. Gov. Lind said there were complaints that it put the pupils and teachers to an unnecessary strain and diverted attention and energy from the real objects of the courses.

He hoped arrangements could be made to avoid that. President Northrop and Supt. Lewis are to report at the August meeting how the burden may be lightened.

Cass Lake Times:—"So full of artless jealousy is guilt, It spills itself in fearing to be spilt"—Hamlet Act IV, Scene 5.

But for the jealousy and envy of our neighbors, the order for the removal of the settlers at Cass Lake would never have been made. We suspected that the whole difficulty was fomented with use of something tangible to induce the Cass Lake tribe to complain, and Sunday the secret machinations of the rival towns about us leaked out through the holes our enemies were not able to stop.

—WANTED —By the editor of the JOURNAL, a load of hay and a load of oats. These will be received on subscription.

Notes From Exchanges.

Le Sueur News: Gov. Lind is now a democrat by adoption, a populist by absorption, a silverite by contraction, a republican by desertion and general utility man by induction.

St. Vincent Era: The prospects for a large crop this year are flattering. The fields are very heavy, and with the ground water-soaked and with all the sloughs full, it can hardly fail to mature a bountiful harvest.

Stephen Leader—Richard Russell has invented a mustard pulling machine that pulls worse than a mustard plaster. A trial of the apparatus Tuesday afternoon proved that with very little alteration, the mustard pulling question would be solved.

St. Peter Tribune: The constitutional grumblers opine to know more about how to carry on the war in the Philippines than does the government. The grumblers do their fighting at a safe distance from the enemy's lines; they never were known to be at the front.

Northfield News: There is talk of the farmers forming a gigantic trust to control the price of their products. This is the only trust that will settle the hash of all other trusts and The News hopes to see the farmers bound together tighter than a milk can to a spring wagon.

Warren Register: We learn from a source that should be reliable that the mails between Stephen and Roseau are to be carried in a horseless carriage after July 1 next. The carrier will make the entire round trip every day, and his outfit will cost him about $3,000. The world do move. It is about time for a bicycle propelled by gas or electricity instead of foot power to make its advent in this section of the country.

Bede's Budget: The schools of Minnesota are the keystone in her arch of triumph, and no imperialism of half so grand as that which rules the empire of the mind. Nor could a process more inspiring pass before the President of the republic on his welcome to Minnesota as onecomposed of the teachers of the state with banners for the four score counties of our great commonwealth. But aside from the education our youth receive, there are also the associations and companionships of school which make up the richest treasury of life.

St. Cloud Sun News.—It isn't always easy to get into the political swim, but once in it is about as hard to get out as to get in. It is difficult to convince the public that a man can possibly tire of political life and voluntarily wish to get out, and as soon as he makes that kind of a play, pap shrinks a lot of ringers and he has lost his grip, and voluntarily retires to save himself from getting fired. Quite frequently the individual becomes indignant and begins in just to show that he can when he may have good reasons for getting out.

Roseau Times: Jim Hill, who is the peer of any business man in the world will probably die in the harness, although he is reserving retirement and therefore we move that after he builds a railroad from Thief River Falls to Roseau as any other old route, that he be permitted to ride down it on a pass he does not build said road "right away quick, all ready yet" as St. Paul is wont to say, then that he be cartooned along side of Bowman's dog as a person who has "fought a good fight" and is a fit subject to be placed on the retired list.

Heard's Dairyman:—The average cow with a beef tendency is going to put her surplus food on her ribs and back, rather than in the milk pail, and no method of feed or handling is going to prevent it. The small amount of fat which overflows into the milk pail, is accidental rather than intentional: it being easier to make tallow than butter, she follows the easier path. The dairyman has the pleasure of feeding such an animal for from four to ten years and gets as his return a small amount of five cent beef and three cent fat—losing at both ends.

Ada Herald: Quite an excitement was caused at Hendrum last week when a portion of the population tried to prevent the construction of a culvert across the road leading east from the village. Will Semple brought a halt into the controversy and was arrested and $10 and costs assessing to about $70 in all. Attorneys Bradland and Calkins went down to the mire, Attorney Winchester of Moorhead defending. A writ of injunction restraining interference with the road work has been asked for and there is some talk of further arrest.

St. Peter Tribune:—John Lind vetoed no bills except those which he thought were of no advantage to him politically. For instance he could have held up the bill giving Duluth a normal school building, an institution not needed, there being already four normal school buildings in the state. The great state of Iowa seems to get along pretty well with one normal school building in that state. But Mr. Lind thought he could see votes in the enterprise at Duluth, and therefore cared nothing for the additional tax on the people of the state for an institution of which the state had already sufficient for all purposes.

Pioneer Press: A comparison is duly made between the recent action of Gen. Leonard Wood, in refusing the presidency of a Washington corporation—with a salary of $30,000 a year and little to do—and a similar act on the part of Prof. Agassiz, who declared that he had "no time to waste in making money." The general cannot think of his personal pecuniary needs so long as his country needs his peculiar administrative abilties in Cuba or elsewhere. To his conceptions there are vastly nobler things to be done than the accumulation of a fortune. It makes the American pulse beat high to hear such declarations from men whose fitness to serve their fellows has been so conclusively demonstrated as in the case of Gen. Wood.

Elsewhere.

Grass hoppers in large numbers are reported out in the town of Chester.

The 33rd national reunion of the G. A. R. will occur in Philadelphia Sept. 4-9.

Bert Paul, living within four miles of Bemidji, was drowned in the lake out there last week.

The Elks in convention at St. Louis voted $500 for the relief of the New Richmond sufferers.

A bear and two cubs are reported to have made their appearance in Ada one day last week.

The Red Lake Falls Lumber Co. are putting a new, complete electric light plant in the saw mill at that town.

Chas. L. Murphy at New York last week, rode a mile on a bicycle, paced by a locomotive, in 57 and four-fifths seconds.

Out at Bagley G. W. Smith slashed with a razor one John Nolan, a section hand on the railway. He claimed he did it in self-defense.

The Thirteen Towns Old Settlers' Association was recently formed at Milaca, Mille Lacs county. The territory included is the eastern half of Polk county.

The brick yard at Fertile has just completed a kiln of 125,000 brick. The new gasoline engine and another brick machine have arrived and been put in place.

The Canadian Pacific railway has definitely announced its intention to build an immense hotel and a new station on land adjoining the present station at Winnipeg.

The Great Northern has already paid $2,750 to the heirs of Maurice Sullivan. This damage suit was settled a few days ago in the district court at Crookston.

At the meeting of the board of trustees of state insane hospitals at St. Paul, the contracts for the building of cottage hospitals at Anoka and Hastings were let to a party in Minneapolis, the former at $25,000 and the latter $26,000.

The heirs of Harry Goveniock, in their suit against the Great Northern for damages, received from a jury in Moorhead a verdict of $5,000. Mr. Goveniock was a Great Northern engineer and was killed near Mallory two years ago.

The Yacht Columbia, the new cup defender, made her first trial trip last week and easily outsailed her famous and successful predecessor. The race for the America's cup will take place the last fall between the Columbia and a British yacht.

George J. Ferguson, convicted of murdering, for his money, a fellow workman, Frank Noggle, in Itasca county, has been sentenced to be hanged. This sentence will be executed in Itasca county on a date to be named by the governor.

The state board of audit has just made its report, showing Minnesota's present indebtedness to be $1,125,000. The cash on hand is $1,274,753.73 and bonds held by the state bring its total assets up to $7,000,000. The debt could be cancelled several times over were the bonds against the state payable at the present time.

By the opening of the Soulanges canal (cost $20,000,000) by the Canadian government the cost of transporting wheat via the lakes and the Erie canal will be reduced one-half. As the saving on wheat will be three cents a bushel the added returns of the farmers of the northwest for the single item of wheat would in one year amount to six millions.

WANTED—Teachers to attend Crookston College Summer School. It is cheap, thoroughly practical. Term opens June 12, and continues eight weeks. Address, Crookston college, Crookson Minn. 4-30

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Makes the food more delicious and wholesome

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Teacher's Summer School.

Crookston, Minn., June 19, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the Sixth Annual Session of the State Training School for teachers will be held in Crookston, beginning July 10th. Teachers State examinations, under the new law, will be held at the close of the Training School, Aug. 7 and 8. All intending to teach the coming year, whose certificates expire this fall, must take this examination. This will be the only teachers' examination held in the county this fall.

I. I. KAASA,
County Superintendent of Schools.
11-30

For Sale.

Tamarack fence posts, 6 and 8 cents. YANCY & STONE.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.
HOMEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Office in McGinnon Block. Crookston, Minn

Jules Gendron.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Rooms 2, 3, 4 and 5 over Fontaine & Andrus's Office hours—9 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m. 7 to 9 p.m.

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Office in Opera Block Crookston, Minn

Miller & Foote,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
Offices—corner Broadway and Robert streets
Crookston, Minn.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Services every Sunday. Morning 11:00 o'clock. 8AM. Holy Communion the first Sunday of every Month. Sunday 10:00 am. Services
REV. H. B. GWYN, D. D.
Rector

Agents Wanted.

The oldest and largest nursery in the west. Everything for the grove and orchard. Three plots of work and the year round. Pay weekly. Write for terms. THE JEWEL NURSERY CO., Lake City, Minn. 9-14

TIME CARD OF TRAINS.

Crookston

SOUTH BOUND.

No.	Name	Arr.	Dep't
8	Fargo, Minneapolis, Duluth and East	8:25 pm	8:35 pm

NORTH BOUND.

No.	Name	Arr.	Dep't
7	Grand Forks, Gretna and Winnipeg.	6:05 a m	6:30 a m

C. A. SHARKEY, Act. Crookston, Minn.

CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A. St. Paul, Minn

THE GREAT NORTHERN

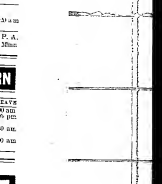
ARRIVE	DEPART
6:35 am	Grand Forks, North and West
9:00 pm	Mpls., St. Paul and points east
6:00 pm	St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls
4:35 pm	Wpeg., Brandt, Duluth and Superior
.....	9:00 am

BINDER TWINE

Our Famous BLUE LABEL BRAND. Pure Manila. Best in the world. Prices will surprise you. Write for delivered prices from Minneapolis, Duluth or St. Paul. Mention this paper.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO

HIGH-GRADE HAWTHORNE $22.50 NET.



SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne. Crank hanger, inch diamond shape. Chain—3/32 inch, nickeled. Sprocket—Inch, nickeled. Pedals—Rubber, corrugated, reversible. Handle bar—Inch, nickeled, drop. Stem—Inch, nickeled. Saddle—Leather, spring. Fork—Inch, nickeled. Rims—Inch, wood, nickeled. Spokes—Inch, nickeled. Tires—Inch, detachable. Wheels—Inch. Weight, crated, about pounds.

15000 Sold in 1898

It's as good many other wheels. All modern improvements. Guaranteed for one year. If not as represented, return at our expense and we refund you money. Send us 25 cents for our 1899 bicycle catalog. It lists everything used and sundries.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

CITY AND VICINITY.

—D. Scoby, of Fisher, was here last Friday.

—Mrs. Dawes Howe is visiting at Sauk Centre.

An Episcopalian church is being built at Roseau.

—Miss Emma Woodall is visiting on the Lockhart farm.

—R. E. White of Fisher was at the county seat on Monday.

—D. McMillan from Beltrami was in the city on the Fourth.

—A. F. Cronquist, of Erskine, spent Thursday night in the city.

—Miss Edith Miller is home from the Winona Normal school.

—The old coal shed of the Great Northern is being torn down.

—Mrs. L. K. Anker, of Alexandria, is visiting friends in the city.

—J. S. Nichols of Fertile was at the county seat last Thursday.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Merrill, of Fisher, were in the city Friday.

—Fred S. Syverson is the new postmaster at Lindsay, Polk county.

—Good rooms to rent. For particulars call at the JOURNAL office.

—The pony and dog show attracted a large crowd last Monday.

—Bear in mind that A. G. Andersen deals only in pure and reliable goods.

—Sam Rosenthal and his son D have been out at Maple lake fishing.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Purvis and family spent the Fourth at Williston, N. D.

—Attorney G. E Carr and his wife were down from Stephen last Thursday.

—Mrs. O. K. Berget has been at the home of her parents in Thief River Falls.

—Scantor J. J. Ryder was the orator of the day at McIntosh on the Fourth.

—Miss Hattie Stearns has gone to Hallock, where she will start a kindergarten school.

—Miss Agnes Purvis, who was recently at Frontenac, has returned to her home in this city.

—A full line of Furniture Hard Oil Coach and Varnishes at A. G Andersen and prices to suit.

—Mcintosh has voted to issue $4,000 bonds. The money will be used to erect a new city hall.

—Miss Nellie McGuire returned to Crookston after a month's visit with her parents near Fertile.

—The Great Northern land office at Crookston during the month of June sold over 4,000 acres of land.

—The question of putting in a waterworks system in Ada will be submitted to a vote of the people.

—Assistant Supt. Cooley was in the eastern part of the county, the latter part of last week inspecting schools.

—Tom Morris has returned from an extended trip to Chicago, St. Louis, and his old home in Ontario, Canada.

—Mr. and Mrs Robert Miller, of Grafton N. D., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Miller the latter part of last week.

—A. G. Andersen sells the Heath & Milligan best Paint, the purest and best House Paint on the market. Call and get a color card.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hancock took the train yesterday morning going north and spent the 4th at Euclid.

—Dr. Adams delivered a very entertaining and instructive lecture upon Porto Rico in the Presbyterian church last Monday evening.

—Miss Lizzie Cuthbert and Miss Kittie Melton from the cities at the head of the lakes are visiting at the home of John R. McKinnon.

—J. Fleming is getting the necessary material on hand for the erection of a fine large house on his farm a few miles out of Crookston.

—E. A. Webster, of the firm of Marin and Webster, has been husting insurance among the farmers in the southwestern part of the state.

—Miss Addie Marin will be married at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Marin, in this city on July 11 to Dr. H. H. Hodgson of Fisher.

—The fixtures in Fontaine & Anglin's grocery department are among the most modern and complete in the northwest. Call and see them.

—The Northwestern Telephone Company is rapidly putting in the telephone line between Crookston and Winnipeg Junction, Red Lake Falls and St. Hilaire by way of Tilden.

—Miss Viola Klayon of Owntonna, Minn., formerly with Finch-Smith of this city, has purchased the typewriting business of Miss Jennie Milne of Grand Forks and will take full possession July 1.

—It is within the realm of probabilities that Capt. Decker will secure the captainey of a company in one of the regiments which the government expects to fit out for service in the Philippines.

—J. J. Carey, of Edna, spent Saturday last in the city.

—Will Casemey, of Euclid, was at the county seat last Saturday.

—Fred Warneke was in from the town of Fairfax last Saturday.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hayes have been enjoying an outing at Maple lake.

—Caspar Tiedteman, of Euclid, transacted business in the city last Friday.

—A telephone line will be extended from Crookston to Halstad and probably thence to Ada.

Mrs. M. McGuire returned to Fertile Saturday evening, after a week's visit with relatives.

—Mrs. Fred Chaplu and Mrs. Thos. Hunt are attending Chautauqua at Devil's Lake, N. D.

—Now that a daily train is to be run on the Halstad line several stations will have to be built.

—A. F. George and wife and daughter, Irma returned home after a brief visit at Ashland, Wis.

—Miss Flora Carpenter left Saturday morning to visit at the home of her brother Paul in McIntosh.

—James E. Morrisey has been at Bemidji looking after the repairing of a steamboat on the lake there.

—The Cecolli Floor Paint sold by Andersen the Druggist is a genuine paint and dries in eight to ten hours.

The assessed valuation of the personal property in the town of Fisher is $25,000, as against $30,914 in the village.

—Will Bloom was in from the lakes out east to see that the shooting tournament was properly conducted.

—Dr. and Mrs. Denniston were at home to a number of their friends last Thursday evening. Whist was the entertainment.

—A. P. Hanson, of the Crookston Scandia bank, had charge of business in the bank at Erskine a couple of days last week.

—Wm. Bantu, late of the Crookston Lumber Company, has gone to Brainerd, where he will be superintendent of the car shops.

—Miss Valida Darkow was not at her accustomed place in the JOURNAL office last Thursday as she joined the excursionists to Detroit.

St. Vincent was visited by a very severe storm last Friday. Several buildings were destroyed and one large barn was moved about 25 feet.

—The band gave one of their entertaining open air concerts last Friday night. A large crowd as usual was out to hear the delightful music.

—W. W. McCurdy, who has charge of the construction of the telephone lines of the Northwestern Telephone Company, was in Crookston last Saturday.

The National banks of this city have received word from the treasury department at Washington to forward statements of their standing on June 30.

—Rev. F. L. Fraser, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church of Crookston, but now stationed at Marshall, Minn., is visiting friends in this city and in Red Lake Falls.

—C. M. Scott, formerly a Crookston newspaper man and more recently of St. Cloud, has gone to Fargo, where he will assume the duties of city editor of the Argus.

—There are still at the JOURNAL office premium lists for the Fortieth Annual Fair of the Minnesota State Agricultural society which will take place Sep. 4 to 9. Call and get one.

—B. Amundsen, editor of the Decorah Post, a paper published at Decorah, Iowa, in the Scandinavian language, has been spending a few days in this city the guest of J. C. Sather.

—During the month of June there were in the United States land office at Crookston 138 homestead entries, 37 final proofs, 22 cash entries, 2 final timber culture and the total receipts were $6,000.

—John F. Giles, for years superintendent of the Moorhead public schools, has left educational work and is now with the New York Life Insurance Company, with headquarters at St. Paul.

—Editor C. C. Knuppen, of the People's Press, has evidently been enjoying life out by the pine woods near Turtle River lake. This I inferred from the entertaining letter from his pen in the last issue of his paper.

—S. C. Bagley has gone west to Montana in which state he is engaged in building an extension of the Great Northern. He was unable to take with him as many men as he had hoped, though he offered quite high wages and a free ride.

—One day last week Ole Mattoon, boldly sprang in front of and grasped the bridles of Whitfields team as they came dashing on to Jerome's bridge at a rapid rate. Mr. Mattson tenaciously clung to the speeders and after being dragged almost the entire length of the bridge brought the wild animals to a standstill.

—Charley Hitchcock spent the Fourth at Warren.

—G. W. Webb, of Euclid, was here over Monday night.

—James Scott of Beltrami was in the city last Monday.

—Dr. Olson, of Erskine, spent Sunday night in Crookston.

—George F. Stone is spending a few days at his old home in Iowa.

—O. L. Ramey's family went to Erskine to celebrate the Fourth.

—Mrs. Fillatrault will visit during the next two months at Duluth.

—Editor Dey Straw brings come in from Cass Lake the first of the week.

—Attorney A. C. Wilkinson spent Monday at Bemidji on legal business.

—J. L. Stetten and F. E. LePage, of Mentor were in the city Sunday night.

—Dr. Warnhuger, of Fosston, was at the county seat over Sunday night.

—Fred Harris has been looking after the repairing of telephone wires at Argyle.

—Miss L. Davies left Monday night for a visit with friends in Canada. She will go by the way of the Great Lakes.

—Mrs. Dr. Quinn, of St. Paul, a sister of the late J. B. Bunnell, was present at the funeral here last Monday.

—A barn belonging to S. Crookshanks, of Buffington, was somewhat demolished during the storm of last Friday.

—Quite a large number from Crookston joined the conductors excursion to Cass Lake and Bemidji last Sunday.

—Chief Gonyea says that the city at the present time has not fifteen per cent of the hoboes that there were here at this time last year.

—Attorney Will Maghn left for Minneapolis Saturday night and before he returns to Crookston he will be married to Miss Poehler of Minneapolis.

—City Editor Hayford, of the Tribune, left for St. Paul Saturday night. On his way back he stopped at his home in Litchfield arriving here yesterday morning.

—At the Congregational church next Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Fisher will give an exposition of the 53rd Chapter of Isaiah, and in the evening his subject will be, "Pitching toward Sodom."

—Word has been received from Prof. Moore and Mrs. Moore, who are visiting at their old home in Petoboungh county, Ontario, Canada. Mr. Moore will return sometime during July, while Mrs. Moore will remain for a longer visit.

—Miss Ida K. Hancock, who has been teaching and studying in Boston during the past year is spending a few days visiting friends and relatives in and around Crookston, before going to Fergus Falls, where she is one of the instructors in the Summer School.

—On July 14 the Northern Pacific will run one of their popular excursions to Winnipeg, Manitoba. A magnificent exhibition will be held in that city at that time. For particulars rent the announcement published elsewhere in the JOURNAL and call on the local agent.

—Last Thursday evening Herman P. Fisher went to Fargo, and on Friday attended a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Fargo College. Plans were made for securing funds to pay the floating indebtedness which has been very greatly decreased during the past year.

Two Removals.

Judge Hagen, who for years has held probate court in the opera house block has moved his office to the Fournet block and is now located on the second floor of that building in the southwest corner. The judge's office may be reached by a stairway on Robert street in the rear of the New York store.

Hook & Vanstrum, proprietors of the popular Wabasha Cafe, have moved their elegant fixtures from the Opera House block to the rooms just west of the postoffice, where these up-to-date caterers may in future be found. Their billiard rooms will be in the basement of the building in which their restaurant is. They now have one of the best business locations in the city.

The Crookston "Y".

Both the Northern Pacific and Great Northern have replied to the request of the people of Crookston for a Y between the track of the two companies at this point.

The Great Northern does not see any advantage which it would afford, except to the Northern Pacific, and the officials are unwilling to put it in.

The Northern Pacific replied that they were willing to connect by a Y with the Great Northern, at this point.

The state railroad commission has set July 13 as the date for a hearing on the question at Crookston.

THE STREET FAIR.

It Is Decided to Hold One and Arrangements Will Begin Soon.

An adjourned meeting to consider the question of holding a street fair in Crookston this fall was held at the City Hall last Friday night. A general discussion took place as to the best way of managing the fair and as to what new features should be introduced. It was finally decided to give the mayor, who was chairman of the meeting, power to appoint an executive committee in whose hands all arrangements would be.

New Town Out East.

A new town is now being laid out and platted on the south shore of Turtle river lake at the terminus of the extension of the Brainerd & Northern railroad, northeast from Bemidji. The railroad company have a contract for hauling 200,000 feet of timber to be cut and banked on Turtle River lake for the Burlington Lumber company, of Burlington, Iowa. Prominent St. Paul and Minneapolis parties are interested in this new movement, which will open to development the finest section of agricultural country in Northern Minnesota. A great many claims have been taken in this vicinity by parties from the cities, among them being C. L. Smith, of the Northwestern Agriculturist, who, together with his sons and daughters, has acquired 800 acres on the west shore of the lake. Mr. Smith says that the Turtle river country is the best he has seen for agricultural and stockraising purposes. Good roads to this new country lead from Farris only about eighteen miles, or Bemidji a distance of sixteen miles.

Weddings.

During the latter half of June permits to wed were issued by Clerk of Court Lamunt to Charles O. Kaukel, of Terrebonne, and Olga Foss, of Fertile; Andrew J. Olson and Clara Hnselund, of Lengby; Henry O. Maxter and Sophie L. Winson, of Fosston; Patrick J. McGlynn and Harriet E. Arnold, of Crookston; Israel Jeffrey Jr. and Emma Levoie, of Huntsville, Elroy N. Taney, of Duluth, and Melissa King of McIntosh; James J. Hutter, of Buxton, N. D. and Elizabeth Zurmeher, of Crookston, and John Staudell and Kotrina Anderson of Lengby.

RASMUSSEN-HOFF.

In the Episcopal church, Tuesday morning, July 4, Rudy Rasmussen to Miss Emma Hoff.

HALEY-STADDEN.

On Tuesday, June 27, at the home of the bride in Minneapolis, Rev. C. P. Daley and Miss Carrie B. Sandden. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a number of friends, among whom was T. A. Hoversad of Crookston. Mr. Haley was formerly pastor of the Baptist church of Crookston and has charge of a church in the suburbs of Chicago and is at the same time taking special studies in the Chicago University.

BETLER-ZARBACHER

On Wednesday afternoon June 28, a very pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mrs. Rose on Second street in this city. Professor James Franklin Betler, principal of the Buxton, N. D. Schools, and Miss Elizabeth Zarracher, who has been a successful and popular teacher at McIntosh, were married by Rev. Herman P. Fisher. The service was held in the presence of a few immediate friends of the families represented, among them being some of the old residents of the city. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a bountiful repast served by Mrs. Rose's large dining hall. The wedded pair took the Northern Pacific train for Detroit City, where they will spend a few weeks after which they will make their home at Buxton, N. D.

Deaths.

BUNNELL.

At his home in this city on Saturday, July 1, J. B. Bunnell, aged 81 years. Deceased had been troubled with kidney disease for some time and during a few days immediately preceding his death had been confined to the house. Funeral services in charge of Rev. H. M. Green were held at the Episcopal church on Monday afternoon. In the evening the remains were taken to the railway station by the members of the United Workmen, to which society Mr. Bunnell belonged, and sent thence to Winona where they were buried.

Mr. Bunnell was born in Tempelean, Wis., in 1818. For the past score of years he has been a trusted engineer on the Great Northern railway. He leaves a wife and one daughter. Col. Bunnell had many friends who sympathize with his family in their great sorrow.

Take Northern Pacific-Shasta.

Route to the Coast and N. E. A. rates are very low and the finest scenery in the west is thrown in. Inquire of any Northern Pacific ticket agent for the various rates and information in general.

Moved...

We are now in our new quarters on Broadway, where we have lots of room to accommodate our rushing trade. We have the largest stock of everything that goes to make up a first-class Grocery to be found in the Northwest. You must give us a chance to figure on your Harvest and Threshing Orders. No one can do better by you than we can.

..Slocum's Grocery..

CHASE BLOCK, BROADWAY.

A Thresher Feeder

that has every advantage of efficiency, convenience and economy over all other feeders is the Nichols-Shepard Self-feeder. It feeds either bound or loose grain evenly and steadily, without waste or litter, and completely regulates itself to the speed of the separator. The feeding apron stops and starts automatically and the feeder can be stopped while the separator is in full motion. It is held rigidly in place when attached to the separator frame and its adjustable supports keep it always perfectly level. This Self-feeder is designed for the

NICHOLS-SHEPARD SEPARATOR

Large illustrated catalogue that tells all about the Nichols-Shepard Separator and its important attachments, and the Nichols-Shepard STRAW BURNING ENGINE mailed free.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. ERSKINE, President. WM. ANGLIN, Vice-President
J. W. WHEELER, Cashier. H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits.
Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

George B. Erskine, A. A. Miller, Wm. Anglin, J. B. Erskine, E. M. Webb, L. Fontaine, J. P. Foote, W. H. Crosby, J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers

SCANDIA-AMRERICAN BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON.....President. H. STEENERSON.....Vice-President.
N. S. GERVAIS.....2d Vice-President. I. ELLINGTON.....Cashier
A. P. HANSON, Asst. Cashier.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes flies right past your door, delivering twice each day. Call on our driver, or through telephone No. 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riverside at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

THE CAPTAIN'S FOURTH

A STORY OF 1899.

APT. CHEVERS, of the gallant —th, invalided home from Manila, sat on the porch of the old home with a newspaper about to fall from his hands. His hand some face, tanned by service under a tropical sun, revealed traces of physical suffering, and, as he looked across the stretch of lovely country visible beyond the stately elms which had stood so long before the old-fashioned home, his thoughts went back to the days when, as a boy, he played there and life was full of careless glee.

The paper, blown by a little shift of wind, tipped from its thin hands and fell at his feet. He did not stoop to pick it up, but let it be where it had fluttered. Presently from the village past beyond the bend came the echoes of a cannon's boom and his face for a moment lighted up as he remembered that it was the nation's holiday, and the height of the Fourth-of-July stars had carried out to sea.

The door behind him opened so softly that he did not hear it, nor the footsteps which came, treading like, to his chair. When he looked up it was to gaze into the face of a fair girl whose hand had fallen lightly upon her cheek.

"You remember you asked about Tracy yesterday?" said the young woman.

"Oh, yes—Tracy Wentworth," said the captain. "I had forgotten—almost."

Did the young girl believe the captain? She seemed to smile and for a moment her gaze wandered from him.

"I have just found one of her letters—one she wrote me last winter."

"Oh!"

"The last one I got from her, I believe. She mentions you in it."

The captain grew interested.

"I went to Manila last summer, you know, Harriet. Tracy? Ah, yes I knew her when I came back from school, but the family moved away shortly after that and—"

The captain's companion was opening a letter with her dainty fingers—red, strange to say, for she was a society girl.

"Tracy is quite sure you'll remember this one," continued the girl, "She had heard somehow that you were away and wished you a safe return."

"That's clever. I thought she had forgotten me."

"No—quite, as it seems. She never quite forgets her friends, her—"

The captain waited for the completion of the sentence, but it was not finished.

"You are not going over to Hampton today, I believe?" suddenly asked Harriet.

"I believe I will. It is the Fourth, you know, and a patriotic Jackson that I would hate him celebrate it in solitude."

"I'll run keep out of the sun—you will go alone? I'm shorter now, you see," and the girl laughed lightly. "I was only out the carriage while you make your relief. And the fair face vanished and the captain was alone again.

"That was queer," he said to himself, as he picked the newspaper away from his feet. "I was thinking about Tracy myself—and here Harriet reads her in her cheerful, commonplace way. It's not the first time I've thought of her lately, but patient that's all."

He rose and entered the house, to reappear on the porch a few minutes later in mufti, ready for the ride over the hills. Tracy came out just as the carriage was brought round and the two cousins said themselves in a while Jackson took up the reins.

The noise of the celebrants now came over the house with more distinctness, and the captain laughingly said that it reminded him just a trifle of military life. There was pleasant chatting both were chary, and practically the carriage picked out the long main street of the western village. The "liberty pole," soon to be raised with appropriate ceremonies, lay on the ground receiving the finishing touches, and the captain was warmly greeted by old friends the moment he was seen.

We expect a short address from one of the heroes of Manila," playfully said Jackson. "Uncle Sam wants to prove by a counterfeit an affirmative response for you, and—"

"What! never made a speech in my life" broke in Capt. Chevers. "Look here, Jackson, this will never do."

"But, hang it all! you can't well decline. See what a mess it would get me into. I stood pat for you and had not time to let you know."

"I'M DOCTOR NOW, YOU SEE."

"They're all acquaintances, Harold," said Cousin Harriet. "You won't be embarrassed, besides, they want to hear from one of the heroes of Manila."

"Heroes, fiddlesticks! In every man's born because he does his duty."

"And they've got an interesting programme, captain," said Jackson at this juncture. "Judge Somers is to do the opening oratorical part of it, and you know what he can do. The West Manitou band is present, and they've promised a patriotic song from a young lady who brags—I don't know just where—she came here on a visit last night. So walk up to the rear, captain. I'll stand by you through thick and thin."

Capt. Chevers appealed to Harriet, but that young lady, who had a great deal of confidence in her soldier cousin, urged him to accept the invitation extended through Jackson, and at last in sheer desperation he agreed to do so.

Presently the programme committee waited on him officially, and he permitted himself to be escorted to the speakers' stand. This was an elaborately decorated affair and overlooked the pretty little public square for which Hampton was famous.

The young captain was given an ovation as he walked to the seat assigned him, and he cast a look toward Harriet, who was watching the proceedings from the carriage.

"There's no danger of Harold's disgracing the family name; that's something he never did, and he used to be good at impromptu speeches, too," she remarked to Jackson, who had taken his station alongside the carriage for the purpose of conversing with her.

Judge Somers made a rambling, but intensely patriotic, address to which the larger audience listened with manifest impatience, for all knew that Capt. Chevers, just home from Manila, would have something to say and the throng here is better than a dead lion at any time.

By and by the mayor of the village rose and said, as he waved his hand toward the captain:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: We have with us to-day one of the heroes of the late war with Spain, a gallant citizen whom you all know, a soldier who fought under the banners of Dewey and who was the first to plant Old Glory upon the ramparts of the enemy. We love to honor our heroes, and this one, whom Hampton is proud to call her own because his boyhood days were spent in this vicinity, we greet with a double welcome upon this auspicious occasion. Ladies and gentlemen; Capt. Harold Chevers, the hero of Manila!"

The applause that roared skyward would have called leaders to the cheek in an old world, and the captain's face crimsoned as he arose, which was a signal for more cheering.

He never knew how he started; for a moment he was at a loss for words, then, as if suddenly inspired, he began to tell the story of Manila, modestly omitting an account of his own bravery. It was a story that thrilled every one, and when he closed with a spontaneous ovation which was, in fact, an apotheosis to the American tar, the enthusiasm of the crowd was unbounded.

"THANK YOU, CAPT. CHEVERS"

As he seated back in the chair he heard the master of ceremonies announce that "Miss Wentworth from the west" would sing the "Star-Spangled Banner."

The sound seemed to stand spellbound. Such singing was a revelation to every one who listened; never before had the words of Key's immortal anthem thrilled them so under the spell of that young girl's voice. The very birds which had been twittering in the shade-trees paid tribute to her with silence, and she was encored until the last wood bird did its or her lips.

Then a tumultuous cheer burst forth and as she turned away, blushing beneath the wonderful triumph, Capt. Chevers started to his feet.

"Tracy—Miss Wentworth!" he exclaimed. "What a fool I am, anyhow," he continued, sotto voce. "Two another Tracy—"

But the tall girl had turned, and she and the hero of Manila stood face to face.

"I want to thank you for your singing, Tracy—pardon me, Miss Wentworth," said the quiet-mannering captain. "It was superb, matchless. You used to sing so well at Lostbrook school, you know, when we—I mean you, Capt. Chevers," interrupted the girl. She held out her hand. "You don't imagine that I have forgotten them, to-day, I hope?"

"Not at all; but you see I did not remain long at the school and, while I have thought often of those happy times, I had quite lost sight of you."

The occupants of the platform were now quitting it, as the song was the last feature of the programme, and Capt. Chevers escorted Miss Wentworth to the carriage.

"I see you've captured another prisoner, captain," laughed Jackson, revelerily. "You'll have to look after him, Tracy, or he'll be off again."

Both the captain and Tracy blushed and Harriet diplomatically came to the rescue of both by welcoming her friend, Tracy, in the warmest terms.

"I guess you're glad I added you to the programme, eh, captain?" the irrepressible Jackson broke in. "It's a great Fourth for you, I imagine. Glad you came, eh? Well, good day and good luck!"

In the excitement attendant on the pole raising Capt. Chevers did not participate; as Jackson remarked to a friend, he had embarked upon "another campaign," and "Cousin Harriet" seemed to be furnishing a good deal of the ammunition.

When the events of the day were over and the star-spangled banner floated from the top of the tallest liberty pole in Miami county, Capt. Chevers drove home, with Miss Wentworth as Cousin Harriet's guest.

Everything is pleasant at Orchard Knob, and the reader will not be surprised when he hears that Tracy Wentworth has decided to prolong her stay among friends in the east, nor that Capt. Chevers is looking forward to a happy future when he dates from the last "glorious Fourth of July."

ADOPTS AMERICAN WAYS.

Corean Official at Washington Takes Up the Quiet Life of a Suburbanite.

Suburban residents who take an afternoon car ride out of Washington are apt to meet a small oriental man wearing a cream suit and straw hat, reading an evening paper, and conducting himself generally in the manner of the satisfied suburbanite. When the car reaches the Cleveland station the oriental jumps lightly from the car and seizes a small oriental looking boy. His wife is there, too, and the trio trudge up the path to their suburban home. This family is that of M. Yung Kwai, interpreter of the Corean legation. Mr. Kwai was educated at Yale college and married an American woman. He is American by preference and an enthusiast in the adoption of western civilization.

A FIRST EXPERIENCE.

EVELYN CARPENTER was a girl of decided opinions. She was also possessed of a will of her own, and a very determined way of enforcing it. A rather tall, handsome girl, with dark, pensive eyes and smooch, thoughtful face, in rather comical contrast with the proud bearing and independent appearance of their owner. She wended her way homeward with the quick, irregular step of one who chafes inwardly at the world, and knows none on whom to lay the blame. She sought a mission, a new sphere of action for the benefit of her fellow creatures.

Suddenly, before she had sufficiently awakened from her reverie to notice where it came, a flood of sweet song seemed to soothe her ruffled feelings. A lark, unprisoned in a narrow cage, poured forth to the heedless world outside its soul of melody through hard bars of wire.

The sense of relief which had stolen over the girl gave place to one of anger, consumed with some odd satisfaction. Here at last was an opportunity to do good, even if it were but obtaining the freedom of one poor, homeless bird. And who more suited to the task than she, the president, self-constituted only three days since, of the Society for the Promotion of Christian Charity Toward Animals? The song that had soothed her unawares now made her soul burn within her. Crossing the road with decided step, she entered a little shop over the door of which the bird sang on. It was a cobbler's workshop, she found, scattered in such pieces as with implements of the trade, and perfumed with the pleasant smell of leather. A little, bent old man, with huge spectacles on his wrinkled nose, and deft brown fingers that moved nimbly over the rough leather, put aside his work and respectfully bowed to the counter. He moved warily and with diffidence, for his old limbs were getting past their work pleasantly, but rather ominously, he knew, "Good day," swore hoping for work in his poor shop from so smart and stylishly dressed a lady. Evelyn felt somewhat uneasy at the old man's harmless aspect.

"This bird," she began, rather timidly; "is it yours?"

The cobbler looked at the cage with visible pride.

"Yes, yes, mine, my bird sure enough; and a fine bird, too; not a better bird in all Kentucky." He rubbed his hands and smiled proudly. Evelyn saw that she must be continued, half to himself, as old men do:

"For years it is I've had him; four years, and scarce a day off his song. It was my boy's, my Dick's youngest that's gone for a sailor; it seems only yesterday he came in just as it might have been you, miss, to day, with the bird in his hand, and away—"

"But beggin' your pardon; you was saying—"

"What will you take for the bird?" she asked, not feeling quite so sure of her cause, now she had actually plunged into the battle.

"Wouldn't sell him, miss; wouldn't take a sovereign for him, not if I was starving."

Evelyn took out her purse and counted its contents—two and sevenpence halfpenny. She drew out two shillings, saying in firm and supreme tones: "Two shillings; not a penny more."

The old man looked at her kindly, and explained gently, as if to a child to whom words very irritating:

"No, miss; I don't want to sell him. I was cruel, you see, it was my fad never to see the little bird before he went to sea. So, I'm not likely to part with him for silver, miss," indicating the cone with smiling contempt. "Ay, and I'm all the afraid of child's cry if he left since Dick died. Sounds me o' my lad when I hear him sing so lively; often when I'm feeling lonesome and low-spirited he'll chime in so cheery, and set me thinkin' how my boy's comin' home—back, don't ye hear! No, you can't have him; but never mind, never mind." He nodded kindly, as if to comfort her in her disappointment.

Evelyn's poisoned sword stood at no longer. "Do you suppose I want to keep the poor bird?" she spoke forth. "I want to have it to give it back its liberty, to let it fly over the Redland the blue sky. Surely you know how very, very cruel it is to confine a creature made to soar and sing at the very gates of Heaven in a narrow cage with scarce room to turn!"

This was delivered fluently, being a verbatim quotation from her speech at the opening meeting of the before-mentioned society.

"Poor, miserable bird," she concluded, apostrophizing the unconscious lark.

The cobbler, simple soul, was a good deal taken aback at this concerning tirade. He was startled a delicious, however.

"Nay, he's not miserable—hear to him sing. Would he sing like that if he weren't happy?"

"Yes, cried Evelyn, "he sings because he longs to be free. That is the song of despair, and not of joy."

The old fellow's face fell. Her eloquence half convinced him. Evelyn felt rather heated, and wanted, she didn't know why, to get out of the shop.

"Come," she said, again proffering a coin, "two and six, and far more than the wretched bird is worth."

"Nay," he said, sadly, "I'm not going to sell him. He's like an old friend to me, and he loves me too, that he does."

"Keep your bird, then," cried the angry reformer. "Keep it, and let it die in its miserable prison. Some day you will perhaps repent your wanton cruelty!" With which grandiloquent threat she departed, with rather more haste than dignity.

That night, getting into bed, Evelyn came to the conclusion that she had made rather a poor show.

She had also a lurking idea that her motive had not been quite so much the cause of righteousness as the pleasure of exposing progress to her new society. Her passionate words kept recurring to her mind as she lay sleepless half through the night. She wondered if little birds had their duty to do, as she had; whether, perhaps, in giving pleasure to a lonely old man's declining days, the lark might not be fulfilling necessity in the great Maker's bidding in the place for which He intended it. She was, she decided, overyoung to judge so hastily. And, being a thoughtful and conscientious girl, she bravely resolved to go the next morning humbly her pride to the dust, and own herself in the wrong.

About nine o'clock the next morning, walking with rather a red face up the narrow street, she perceived the old fellow standing at his door with the empty cage in his hand; he was gazing toward the sky, and she saw a tear trickle down his wrinkled cheek. He turned as she approached, and smiled mournfully in answer to her inquiring glance.

"Maybe you was right, miss," he said; "maybe—" He passed into his shop as a sob checked his utterance.

Evelyn turned away abruptly. Never in her life had she been so much ashamed of herself.—Westminster.

Advertised Letters.

List of letters remaining unclaimed at the Crookston, Minn., postoffice for the week ending July 1, 1899:

Barnes Samuel
Craddock Peter
Gawrets Peter
McKeenan John
Rhendeen Zenphine
Rose William N 2
Rose Wm
Rovlan Lake Mrs.
Chesbrand Grace
Connelson Emma
Rousson Starrin Mrs.
Martin Hattie Mrs.
Clark T Rev
Emma Godfrey
Marshall W N
Mills J
Robertson P Alex
Soderberg P O
Tucker Jay
Danielson Cassie Miss
Collins H Mrs
Grow Mrs.
Hanson Bessie Mrs.
Hewson Dora

Persons calling for the above advertised. ANDREW EIKEN, Postmaster

Chautauqua Lake And Return.

On July 28 the Nickel Plate Road will run an excursion to Chautauqua Lake at one fare for the round trip. Write to General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago, for particulars.

United States Map.

15c. A copy of our handsome map, size 18 inches, printed in four colors and mounted on a roller, will be sent to any address on receipt of 15 cents in coin, postal or express money order. We cannot use stamps. GEO. P. LYMAN, General Passenger Agent C. B. & N. R. R. St. Paul, Minn.

Preserves

—fruits, jellies, pickles or catsup are more tasty, done quickly, more healthfully sealed with Rolled Paraffine Wax than any other method. Send 2 cents and we will send free sample of this wax.

Refined Paraffine Wax

is every household. It is clean, odorless and odorless—tasteless and acid proof. Use a pound cake of it with a list of its many uses from your druggist or grocer. If not obtainable send 15 cents.

STANDARD OIL CO.

Burlington Route

Finest Train on Earth from

ST. PAUL

-AND-

Minneapolis

-TO-

CHICAGO

Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

Deere Vehicles are All Right

We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of back wood season must sell them close to unload.

They show up a little the nicest of any thing we have ever seen.

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., LARSEN & CARPENTER, Fosston or McIntosh. Crookston.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS, DESIGNS, COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain, free, whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents in America. We have a Washington office. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the beautifully illustrated, largest circulation of any scientific journal, weekly, terms $3 a year; $1.50 six months. Specimen copies and HAND BOOK ON PATENTS sent free.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN,

MUNN & CO.,
361 Broadway, New York.

SUCCESSFUL SHOOTERS SHOOT

WINCHESTER

Rifles, Repeating Shotguns, Ammunition and Loaded Shotgun Shells. Winchester guns and ammunition are the standard of the world, but they do not cost any more than poorer makes. All reliable dealers sell Winchester goods.

FREE: Send name on a postal for 156 page illustrated Catalogue describing all the guns and ammunition made by the

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO.,
NEW HAVEN, CONN.

American Day Excursion TO WINNIPEG

THE DAY IS JULY 14th

SPECIAL TRAIN and Cheap Rates on the Northern Pacific.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

Will tell you all about it. Go to Winnipeg and see a fine Exhibition and

HAVE A GOOD TIME!

CHAS. S. FEE,
G. P. A., St. Paul, Minn.

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF

THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER.

BY

JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNER'S TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1898, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER XVI.

DALY RANDS IN HIS CHECKS.

The usual time for savages to make a sortie upon an enemy is just before dawn—in that still hour when, it would seem, tired nature is sunk in her deepest slumber. But no attack had been made upon us. The blacks must have decided upon another line of action. That it was to starve and weaken us by keeping us in the cave until we made a last feeble effort to break through them I had no doubt.

All that we had now in the cave to maintain life were some tea and sugar and half a loaf of yeast bread, which was kept for the sick man. The black boys had smoked out and dug up a few yams at the foot of the terrace, with which they doubtless kept their hunger in check. As yet I had not experienced any particular discomfort from the want of food. Jack and Savile declared that all they wanted was a drink of tea. They were altogether too cheerful, and made so many jokes about their want of appetite, that any unenlightened person might have supposed they had some connection with a picnic party. Only Daly was strangely silent. He seemed to be thinking, thinking, thinking; he was a question of skeleton at the feast, but none of us minded him much. I noticed that Elsie Gordon looked at him curiously once or twice, then turned away her head with an expression almost akin to terror in her eyes. Likewise he had plenty of tobacco, so that when we men had lit our pipes we were not so badly off. It was necessary, however, to determine upon some line of procedure, it being suicidal policy to remain in a state of inaction, because the longer it continued the less able we would be to cope with the savages. If the squatter did not put in an appearance that day or the next, or some of the hands come up from the station, we must break through the blacks at any risk.

The sun was now high above the horizon line, and the day had fairly begun. The blacks were flitting about under the trees in what appeared to be greater numbers than on the previous day. We could see on the little ironstone ridge already referred to about a hundred of them watching us. They kept coming and going, seeming much interested in our movements.

As for some little time beside Gordon, but as he had lost a good deal of blood and was weak and listless I thought it would be greater kindness to leave him to himself. I knew the proud, stubborn spirit of this man. It was only sheer physical debility that could have caused him this.

I had a long talk with Jack and Savile. We discussed the situation and tried to arrive at some definite line of action. So far as we ourselves were concerned, we could have fought our way through the blacks, but there were the women and the sick man, and we could not leave them behind. I went to the narrow fissure which led to the spring and looked upward. It was just barely possible that a man might by staying himself against either wall of rock and by climbing like a goat eventually scale that cliff.

We rolled great boulders of rock on to the

If nothing turned up in the course of the next few hours to release us from our unfortunate position, I would have to make the attempt and endeavor to carrying out my plan. Of course I would not leave without letting some one know—one of the black boys, for instance, who could keep the matter a secret until I had got clear away.

We rolled great bowlders of rock on to the terrace soon to form a breastwork that would stand us in fine stead against the savages. Toward noon we broke our fast by eating some spinach which Savile had found growing near the spring. It was a native plant called "bat hen." It was pleasant and palatable, but a man could not keep himself in fighting condition on that alone.

It was noon now, and Jack and I were sitting on the terrace keeping a lookout when Savile came to the mouth of the cavern. He looked about him and seemed surprised.

"I wonder where Daly can be?" he remarked. "I thought he was here."

"He be not in the cave, sir," said Jacko.

"He must have gone out, then," said Savile.

"I'll be back as I make sure," he said as he

Jack and I looked significantly at each other. I myself felt certain Daly had given us the slip. It had surprised me that he should have left us in the lurch even in the presence of danger, but I could see his motive in that. He knew that we would not abandon Gordon to his fate, and he had no further use for us.

Savile went into the cave and looked everywhere and then question of the black boys, but they, poor fellows, merely shook their heads. They certainly were in the cave when we came up, Snowhill sprang to his feet and went to the entrance. He stepped, and "Daly, where is he?" he cried. "He couldn't have climbed up to try and pick up a scent, could he?"

"Trick sit down here h'longside to Daly. That fellow got 'im little fellow—eel 'im!"—here he tapped his throat—"on this one foot." By this he meant Daly's left foot was minus the little toe. I followed the native's example, but failed to find a little tortuous that ran upward and along the cliff and which winded with a dense undergrowth.

"That fellow kin go that a-way," he said.

A pebble turned wrong side up or a blade of grass that had been disturbed was to Snowhill what an open book would be to a civilized man. It was no use going farther. We returned to the cave. Gordon was asleep. His sister was sitting beside him, and Savile was standing hard by.

Now, some people might suppose that Savile would hail with satisfaction rather than otherwise this practical illustration of his rival's cowardice and perfidy, that they would be mistaking their man. He only thought of how he could lessen the cruel blow that must fall upon the woman he loved.

"Elsie," I heard him say.

She looked up, but did not speak. There was a hopeless, wearied expression on her face. That bright, merry careless light had gone out of her eyes.

"Daly has gone for help," Savile continued. "He didn't tell us he was going, but of course he had his reasons for it. You'll see he'll either go no or meet Mr. Macfennie coming back from the table lands or go down to the station and fetch up the others to help us."

She looked at him steadily and earnestly for a minute or two. It was a thought the true nature of this man were beginning to dawn upon her. She seemed to feel strangely uncomfortable and rather ashamed of herself when she thought of the contrast between his kindly, manly, unselfish conduct toward her and her former thoughtless and self ish treatment of him.

The sick man muttered to himself in his feverish sleep and clutched his hands spasmodically as they lay by his side. The sound of voices came broken ly from the mouth of the cave. The an seen splash, that divers toned lullaby of the sea as it fell from the roof above upon the stones put one in mind of a fountain in some sleepy old world garden. But none of these things was so full of meaning as the silence of this woman.

Suddenly the voices at the mouth of the cave became more distinct, and I heard Sefton Mackenzie ask:

"How much ammunition have you Mr. Tyndall?"

A sense of some impending catastrophe took possession of me. There was a pause, and I heard Jack exclaim:

"By Jove! I believe Daly must have taken the lot! Oh, what a black piece of villainy!"

Savile was indeed the case.

And now the woman who had thus been cast off and left in an almost defenseless position to her fate by the man who had told her that he loved her and whom she had loved uttered never a word, but buried her face in her hands.

"Elsie, Elsie,"—I heard Savile say, "don't believe it! There's some mistake. There must be a mistake. Daly didn't take them; they don't think of the firearms we've done. I remember taking the last box myself and emptying it into my leather pouch. Don't take on, like a good girl! I'll go and tell them this."

I do not think when Savile comes to answer for his misdeeds on the day of judgment that this—call it what you may—will be found written against his name in the big book.

The sick man stirred, opened his eyes, gazed strangely about him; then, as if by some magic, fell asleep again. But still the girl had not seemed to notice him. Only, suddenly, she raised her head, wound up from the ground, and, looking Savile full in the face, cried almost fiercely:

"Why don't you tell me that I've been a fool at once, Savile?"

What Savile said in reply I do not know, but this I do—another man, less of a gentleman, would have followed up his advantage there and then. Fortunately it is not necessary to be born with a silver spoon in one's mouth to be a gentleman. The attributes pertaining to one are sublimely indifferent to such details as broadcloth or fustian.

Noon, and now there was a hush in the great forest. We sat in the shadow of the cave and—no one spoke. The situation was becoming critical. Suddenly we heard an excited chattering among the blacks and, looking toward the [illegible] bend to the right, we saw a tall, [illegible] figure, apparently a solitary [illegible] small number of the blacks seemed aware of this incident and took part in it. And now I could see that Daly was aware of his danger, for he ran along the terrace. It was impossible to go back by the way he came, for the blacks had either himself together and spring into the air. A bush broke his fall. Another hundred yards between Daly and safety. He selves had to be covered before we could meet. I could see his face as he ran toward us. On it was a look of mortal terror. He turned once and dropped a savage who was close upon him, but here he could reach us a great barbed spear thrown near at hand pierced his back, and he fell forward on his face. Jack checked the onward course of a savage or two. I stooped over Daly, whipped out my sharp jackknife and cut off the spear within six inches of the body, so that I could carry him, for he was only a light man.

Could see his face as he ran toward a fresh ambush.

In another minute he was across my shoulders, and we were making toward the cave. Jack kept off the savages who were gradually converging toward this point. It was a critical and exciting little skirmish. Another two yards and we would be safe. And then my foot caught something. I tripped and fell with my human burden. In another second the blacks were all around us. I could see their long shaggy mops of hair tremble on their shoulders, the rolling whites of their eyes, their lips lifted spears and could hear their hoarse, fierce cries. In another second it would all be up with us. The next thing I knew was that some one shout ed, "Get up, Parker, and run for your life." There was a long, long, long pause, and I saw the huge bulk of Savile as with unimaginable rapidity, he commenced a fusillade upon the blacks around him. In a few seconds more there was a clear space. Then Savile picked up Daly and made toward the cave.

"Don't run," he cried. "Walk and stand them off."

By this time the entire camp of blacks had been alarmed and came to the assistance of their comrades, but they had come too late, luckily for us, for in another minute we had reached the cave and crawled over the barricade. Several telling shots fired at the closing mob of blacks stopped the rush, they made upon us to try and force our position.

And now the truth of the old saying: "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," was exemplified in a remarkable fashion.

Savile carried Daly into the cave and placed him on the ground. I noticed that when the rest of us were otherwise occupied he took two or three handfuls of cartridges from the wounded man's pockets and transferred them to his own. I understood the spirit that prompted him to do this. Then Daly came to himself and opened his eyes. I saw Elsie Gordon go toward him. What she saw that confuses, awakened look on his face and that flickering light in his eyes—there was no mistaking it—she forgot all this man's treachery and double dealing. Remembering only that he had loved him, she knelt by his side and, taking his hand in hers, cried over it bitterly.

But the dying man drew it away.

We found that the spear had entered a little below the left shoulder, and could not be withdrawn.

When Daly realized that the worst had happened to him, the cheeks sank and he looked around upon us with such a fearful light in his eyes that I realized what a hell a man's overthrowing can be. I noticed that Gordon had risen from the spot where he had lain and had come feebly toward us. The black boys kept a lookout at the mouth of the cave. We could see that the dark valley was already casting its shadow upon us, but a mortal struggle was going on within him.

"If you've aught to say, Daly," said the Scotsman—somewhat simplifying his Doric to suit the man he addressed —"that would ease your mind, say't—as long's the lamp holds on to burn. you know. Remember there was one who died for sinners such as you and me."

Then Daly spoke. His voice was now [illegible] firm, though there was that curse. Some 10 or 15 feet above a portion of a terrace stood a white man. It was Daly, and he had been detected by the blacks in the act of signaling past. Now the blacks were running toward him, and he had stood upon the defensive.

"Daryll and all that be in," cried Jack; "we can't let him be killed before our eyes! Savile, you wait here Snowhill and Yarry, you your revolvers You can defend the cave from behind the breastwork. Come on, Dick!"

We seized our rifles, ran down the terrace, then toward Daly, beckoning to him to jump from the ledge and make toward us. So suddenly had all this happened—as yet not a shot had been fired—that only a comparatively

Writing [illegible] with the point of his knife was about ten inches, and that the mechanism of the mortal frame must soon come to a standstill. He said:

"That's so, Gordon. I've been smarting with the devil, but he holds the trump card now." He paused a minute as if to draw breath and listen, then went on again. "And this is what I used to call kingdom come at last, is it? Yes, it's coming and no mistake. Open my shirt, Savile, and look inside. Take off the flannel belt and see what you find there.

Savile did as he was told. We all stood round with wondering and expectant faces. I knew instinctively that now a great secret was to be cleared up, that the inscrutable Nemesis which has a shadow follows close upon erring lives was about to settle down upon one of its victims. Inside the shirt was a flannel belt. Sewed up in it were a small bunch of papers, receipts for horses and several £5 Queensland bank notes. Daly stirred feebly at the sight of the cash as he spoke again—as if he were unable to meet our looks.

"These are mine, sir," he said, "that were taken from the body of Sefton Mackenzie, who was murdered on the Cloncurry.

One or two of us gave utterance to incoherent exclamations of surprise, and I think that nearly all of us cast a look in horror; for surely here was the murderer of Sefton!

"Judge not that ye be not judged," said Gordon, significantly looking at us and bending over the dying man. "That's right, Daly. While you have time unburden your soul and get the devil the slip. Remember who it was that accompanied Christ into paradise when he died on the cross."

Then Daly seemed to gain fresh courage, for he looked at us now and spoke with comparative ease. "Although you would make the handling in of my checks a bit pleasanter if cleared my conscience matters [illegible] a little. I say that I did not murder Sefton. I know that some of you have always said that I did, and these notes, which you'll find by their numbers are them that Sefton had on him. Remember who it was you to believe that I did, but it's not so. I've nothing to gain by giving with a lie in my throat. I'm now on the truth now—I'd say 'o help me God' if I dared. The chap as did it was the very one who, in his turn, was murdered by the blacks and whom you found on Scrubby creek in the valley."

Jack and I stared blankly at one another, and I could see that even Norah Gordon's credulous brother was aware of what he said was true, and how much was false! Was he going to die with another sin on his conscience—a "false witness"? Then he continued:

"I cleared out from the Cloncurry two days before Sexton did, but I guessed how as you," looking at Jack, "weren't going with him. I'd no coin, and so the devil botched a scheme in my head. I hung round that quarter for a bit, but dared not show myself to Sefton. I s'pose it was my game to bail him up; but, as for murder, I meant to keep the line there. I dare say, however, I might have done it if I'd been driven to it. Then I came upon him on the night of the 'seventh. I found he'd picked up a mate. I s'pose Sexton must have been finishing some business or the other chap killed him for it. The I rode up, and the upshot of it was that we worked on the dead man's stuff and after a bit cleared out, each on his own hook.

"At first the chap as did it had tried to get the drop on me, but I'd the advantage and held him up. The beggar knew me. It's a mighty queer thing one of us didn't pot t'other. After set Sefton dead as I was, those notes I've got, I don't know, sold me a sorrel horse, and I paid him with some of that same blood money; you remember the notes were found on his body." Here Gordon insisted on Daly resting for a few minutes. He did so and then went on again. "One thing I can't see through at all is how you came to find out I'd bought a horse from him and paid him with Queensland bank notes, for I own up it was your knowing this that set the Macarthur racket on me take back what I'd said. It was a facer. How did you get wind of it?"

It was strange to see him exhibit such curiosity on the very threshold of death. He looked hard at me, and I looked at Norah Mackenzie. It was a remarkable sequence of events. I saw the face of the girl flush slightly as she turned to Jack and spoke; as it were, to him. Though it was very evident she was extremely moved by the tragic and solemn nature of the scene, what she had to say was spoken simply and clear ly enough. It was to the following effect:

"When she had witnessed the sequel of the tragedy on Scrubby creek, she knew there was something wrong, but still she knew there was nothing criminal in Jack's conduct. When we were filling in the grave, she had found a small book in some of the pockets, buried in the long grass, and, picking it up, took it with her, unthinkingly, to her father's camp fire. It was the same book we had found written on the fly leaf, "Sold this day to T. Daly one sorrel mare, branded K to the near side, for £20 in Queensland bank notes." She kept the book for certain reasons of her own, unconnected with the matter, and [illegible] Daly said.

"Daly, don't you think we might make hands to [illegible] said these words, bloodying them as he said I believe, you. For God's sake let apart this talk. I can see now it is all true as much to blame as you were, perhaps more, and I made a mistake about you. Shall we call it square between us, Daly?"

Daly nodded his head in assent, and later accounts were signed forever.

But it was now around us Gordon who was Daly's best friend just then. He [illegible] to us to say no more, and the [illegible] Daly's hand in his own kept over him, whispering something in his ear.

There came a lull on Daly's face that I hope I never shall see again on the face of any one. It spoke of fear and [illegible] but it passed in another second as he looked intensely at Gordon [illegible]

"It's you—and yours since I tried to cheat on, but if you will"—

The Scotsman motioned to us again and then knelt down on the ground beside him. And his face [illegible] and Gordon began that sublimest of prayers, the one that has stood the test of time and shall live when all else perishes. The sick man repeated it in fever weakening words, and so did we. Then a shudder ran through the dying frame and with something upon his lips that sounded like the cry of the pulicua in the jungle he was gone.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Literary Notes.

ATLANTIC MONTHLY.

Prof. William Cunningham, of Cambridge, England, opens the July Atlantic with a valuable paper on "British Imperialism, in which he shows the gradual development of English colony from the nationals-n of a hundred years ago—which meant the exploiting of all colonies and possessions for the benefit of the mother country, to the cosmopolitanism of the present day, which seeks the greatest good of all through fair play and equal treatment to all men and nations.

Charles Johnson dise sses the True American Spirit in Literature, analyzes and examines the work of Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Cable, Miss Wilkins, and others, and comes to the conclusion that the atmosphere and mystery of old-world history and traditions have no place with us, and the effect of our surroundings upon our literature is to give it power and [illegible] in contemporary literature.

Also, valuable and timely papers are contributed by the following well-known writers: Rollingsworth Whatton's first of two articles on "The Saloon in Old Philadelphia;" Sara T. Stephenson on "What are Women Saving For?" Henry William Thomas on "The Building of a Trust;" Charles S. Clerk on "A Practical Submarine Vessel" "The New Navy Bill;" George L. Varney on "Self-Propelled Street Vehicles," and Ernest Ingersoll on "Small Deer," while Charles M. Skinner contributes a significant Spanish legend called "The Cited."

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

The Ladies' Home Journal has secured Julia Magruder's new novelette, which she has named "The Voice in the Choir." The story concerns a young southern girl who serves as a nurse in a hospital during the Spanish American War. In the discharge of her mission it falls to her lot to care for the man whom she might have married six months before. Injuries to the eyes necessitated his having them [illegible] bandaged, so he is lovingly cared for by the girl of his heart without her identity being revealed to him. With such a plot it may be readily seen that Miss Magruder has written a strong story, one full of stirring incidents.

AMERICAN MONTHLY.

Of all men in the United States at the present moment, probably John Barrett, formerly United States minister to Siam, is the one best qualified by personal knowledge to discuss the Philippine situation. Mr. Barrett has spent the past five years in the Far East, and before the Spanish war he had traveled over a large portion of Luzon and had visited the islands of other Philippine groups. In May, 1898, after Dewey had annihilated Spain's fleet in Manilla Bay, Mr. Barrett resumed and remained in the vicinity of Manila for seven months. Finally, after the fighting with the Filipinos began in February he came back to the scene of hostilities, but only left to set sail for America in the middle of March. Mr. Barrett contributes to the Review of Reviews for July a summary of his impressions after all these months of experience and observation. The article is highly opportune and significant.

Wm. Goebel was, on the 26th ballot, selected as the democratic candidate for governor of Kentucky.

What a Firecracker Did

MORROW, being the Fourth of July, and Carrol Graham's liked man, "of course it's a holiday."

As soon, added his young employer, "as you've finished a minute cooling over to celebrate."

"Very well—only, Jim, keep most of your nose so far away from the farm as possible."

"What's up, I wonder?" marveled Honest Jem, starting. "Crops coming right, partner as big as Chester pool at his, and him blue as indigo!"

"Don't you tell!"

Jem turned to face one of his fellow celebrators of the morrow.

"Can you?" challenged Jem.

"Yes. They say Graham has bet the farm—luck in the purcedin's—a mossing price."

"Shut!" gogled Jem.

"They say that purty Nellie Weem's feth Luther has stumped down that he does of his, and no pauper shall send his cast if Graham can't produce a written document the farm passes to that miserly half-uncle of his."

"The world's coming to an end!" gasped startled Jem.

It was true: like a bolt from the blue there had come to the ambitious young farmer a shock that [illegible] then prostrated.

In a flash one of life's brightest pictures seemed blotted out.

The accredited owner of Spring farm was informed that a large claim had been set up by his half-uncle, supported by at least four years since—Graham had vainly searched for written proof of his settlement.

"That's why he won't celebrate no Fourth of July," Jem says, observed with interest, departing. "He's got to vacate, and start life all over again on nothin'."

"Poor lad!" sighed Jem. "Dear the stuff. I've no heart left in me!" and he drew from his pocket a two-pound package of "celebrating" powder. "Where shall I stow it? It's rocky stuff to have about the premises."

Jem moved a ladder to an old unused toolhouse, ascended, and placed the package of gunpowder up under the eaves. Through gaping cracks in the shingles he saw a nest on a board directly under.

"Safe till morning," he remarked. "Hand I'd sell it cheap! Feel like sticking to the churchyard, instead of celebrating, thinking over my misfortune! Poor old bird-uncle's, also! Personal opinion—he's a scheming fox, and Graham's being cheated out of home, gal and happiness!"

Boom!

Then a distant cannon—Fourth of July had come!

Bang!

That was nearer—Fourth of July seemed to be at the door of Spring farm.

The house shook. At the resounding explosion, Jem hurried outside, to join Carrol Graham. An amazing scene greeted them.

GRAHAM PULLED UP THE COVER.

Farm's fellow celebrants had arrived—one had thrown a package of firecrackers afield.

It had fallen on the toolhouse roof, sparks had dropped, Jem's gunpowder had ignited.

Three affrighted runners were dodging a shower of splinters.

A fourth lay flat. He got up with a yell, grabbing a bleeding chin.

"Something hit me!" he shouted. "Shot!" with a posture, "it was that!"

"My father's old tin box!" cried Graham, recognizing a familiar object.

"It was hidden in the toolhouse," guessed Jem.

Graham pulled up the cover. Papers—the papers! A cry of joy came out.

"Found something?" shouted Jem.

"Yes," murmured Graham, in deep emotion—"I have found happiness!"

That was what the recovered document meant: the farm. Nellie, life at its fullest, forever!

"Here," said Graham, and a bill slipped into Jem's hand—"celebrate!"

"I'll bet!" whispered Jem's gossip chum, "that pays for a wedding charivari also!"

"I hope!" murmured Jem, fervently, "the discovery everything that's good. And she, too, the angel-blest her! Hurrah! The explosion seems to have shattered the clouds, and everything is golden, glorious Fourth of July sunshine!"

WELDON J. COBB.

Pioneer Ait.

The Fourth has come and gone
To the firecracker maker:
It tickles the heart of the little boy,
The doctor and undertaker.
—N. Y. Sun.

A Hero.

Step, traveler! Near, do not laugh:
Here lies poor Jabez North.
He needs no other epitaph—
He died upon the Fourth.
—Chicago Tribune.

The Unexpected.

He bought a bottle of Ayer's pills as a rail
To be used at poor Tabby's expense.
The doctor's bill was charged to the rat,
While Willis flew over the fence.
—Judge.

That's Different.

It takes a shower of thumps and kicks
To rouse a boy at half-past six,
But when the glorious Fourth's begun
He's up and dressed at half-past 4.
—L. A. W. Bulletin.

An Epitaph.

Stop, traveler, and weep for him
Who's lying here below,
He filled his cannon to the brim—
That's all you'll ever know.
—N. Y. World

The Bobtail Car.

He sits and smiles upon the lad
With crackers in a pail—
Well has he cause to be so glad,
For soon one docked his tail.
—Judge.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

PEACE IS DESIRED

RESIDENTS OF SOUTHERN PHILIPPINE ISLANDS FRIENDLY.

Professor Schurman Visits the Principal Towns and Is Well Received—Are Awaiting the Result—Defeat of Aguinaldo Desired Before Announcing Allegiance to Us—Public Schools of Manila Reopened Under Favorable Circumstances.

MANILA, July 3.—Professor J. G. Schurman of the United States advisory commission for the Philippines has returned to Manila from a three weeks' tour of the Southern islands. He takes an entirely hopeful view of the general conditions there. The intelligent and substantial citizens desire an American protectorate. The masses are awaiting the settlement of the war in the island of Luzon before declaring themselves. They are chiefly anxious to be undisturbed. The president of the town of Santo Nicolas, in the island of Cebu, said to Mr. Schurman:

"We want peace, food and prosperity. We do not wish to fight. We would be neutral."

Fear to Endorse American Rule.

The president of the commission thinks this declaration fairly expresses the sentiments of the people in the southern islands of the archipelago. Many of the towns there are in the hands of small bands of Tagalos and the people fear to endorse the American rule until they are certain that Aguinaldo will be beaten. Let them once be convinced of this and the allegiance of the Southern islands, Mr. Schurman thinks, can be secured by diplomacy.

The United States gunboat Bennington took Mr. Schurman to Mindanao and the islands of the Sulu and Visayan groups. He traveled through the island of Negros with Colonel Smith and a party of natives. In several of the principal towns he was tendered banquets and had an hour's conference with the young sultan of Sulu.

He Earnestly Desires Peace.

Mr. Schurman told the sultan that the United States had secured the sovereignty of the islands from Spain, but had no wish to subjugate the population or interfere with their customs or religion. The sultan replied that he earnestly desired peace and was anxious to continue the existing treaties.

Saturday General Lawton and Mr. Worcester of the commission visited the principal towns of the province of Cavite, out of which the natives were recently driven. Before acting General Lawton and Mr. Worcester consulted with leading men of each town and selected candidates whose allegiance and loyalty to American interests was beyond doubt. Wherever they went the Americans were heartily cheered by the people.

Manila Schools to Reopen.

The public schools in Manila will open this week and it is expected there will be 5,000 children in attendance. The teachers include Americans, Spaniards and Filipinos. One of the instructors is the widow of the Filipino patriot, Dr. Rizal, who was shot by the Spaniards Dec. 29, 1896. After her husband's execution Mrs. Rizal, who is the stepdaughter of a retired Hong Kong gentleman, went to Imus and was chosen chaplain of a company of insurgents. English will be taught in the schools one hour each day. The prescribed holidays include the 20 church days observed in Manila, Washington's birthday and the Fourth of July.

The rain has fallen almost continuously for nine days. It has been a tremendous downpour and the whole country is flooded.

LITTLE BRUSH AT NIGHT.

Filipino Rebels at San Fernando Make a Demonstration.

MANILA, July 3.—7:55 p. m.—The rebels have made a demonstration at San Fernando. They took advantage of the darkness and rain to make a sally against the north line, seemingly only for the purpose of annoying the Americans, as they failed to push their attack. The American loss was a private of the Seventeenth regiment killed and four men wounded.

The firing began at 10 and the rebels expended quantities of ammunition. All the troops hastened to the trenches in expectation of a general attack. The Seventeenth regiment, the Twelfth regiment and the Iowa regiment participated in the engagement, but did not advance beyond the outposts. After an hour the Filipinos fired rockets, apparently as a signal to cease firing, but there were scattering shots all night long, which kept the Americans under arms.

The enemy's loss was not discoverable, but was probably small.

The Americans were guided in their shooting only by the flashes of the rebels' rifles.

THE TREATY COMPLETED.

Reciprocity Agreement With Jamaica About Ready For Signatures.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A reciprocity agreement with Jamaica has been concluded at the state department at a conference between Commissioner Kasson on behalf of the United States, and Mr. Tower, the British charge d'affaires. The Jamaican treaty is now to be forwarded to Kingston for the approval of the colonial authorities, and when this is given the formal signing of the instrument will occur.

Wants the Nebraska Senatorship.

CHICAGO, July 5.—First Assistant Secretary of War George D. Meiklejohn is a candidate for United States senator from Nebraska to succeed John M. Thurston, whose term expires on March 5, 1901. Mr. Meiklejohn said that he would be guided by events.

Miles a Guest of Sherman.

MANSFIELD, O., July 4.—Major General Nelson A. Miles arrived in the city and is a guest of ex-Senator John Sherman.

PUBLIC PACIFIED.

Belgian Government Submits a Plan Satisfactory to the Opposition.

BRUSSELS, July 5.—In the chamber of deputies M Vandenpereboom, at the opening of the session, reiterated the government's strong desire to affect a conciliation and pacify the public mind. He continued:

"The government considers there is ground for entertaining the counter electoral proposals suggested by various members and submitting them to a committee on which all parties will be represented. The government, in the meanwhile, is prepared to consider the necessary steps to accomplish the desired understanding."

M. Vander Velde, Socialist, on behalf of the two parties of Leftists, supported the ministerial proposal, which he declared was equivalent to the withdrawal of the government scheme. The country, he continued, has thus achieved a signal victory and is convinced that the only solution of the existing party differences is an appeal to the country, either through an early election, a dissolution or a referendum.

At a large meeting held in the Fallomond the speakers exhorted the populace to continue the fight for universal suffrage. A number of civic guards entered with arms reversed. One of them said:

"We have ten cartridges; too many for seven ministers."

NO VOLUNTEER COLONELS.

Only Regular Army Officers Will Command New Regiments.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The proposed organization of nine volunteer regiments will place a number of important military commissions at the disposal of the president. Although there will be three new brigades Adjutant General Corbin says it is not likely that more than one additional brigadier general will be needed, the other two being provided for by officers of that grade now in the army whose terms of enlistment are about to expire. Probably the most important point in connection with the proposed volunteer organization is the president's declared intention to appoint none but officers of the regular army to the command of the nine new regiments.

It is not unlikely, however, that some of the most efficient volunteer officers may be selected for subordinate commands in the different regiments, inasmuch as the decision to appoint only regular army officers does not apply to positions below the grade of colonel.

SITUATION VERY GRAVE.

Belgian Monarchy in Danger of Overthrow Whatever Is Done.

BRUSSELS, July 4.—The excitement among politicians continues, though further outbreaks are improbable until the government's proposals are submitted to the chamber Tuesday, when, if satisfactory, a permanent compromise may be effected, otherwise the Socialists threaten excitement, even revolution. The bills satisfy only the Clericals, and there is a strong feeling, in which the Socialists join, that new elections ought to be held before any change is effected in the way of redistribution of votes or seats. If the government does not then introduce a bill providing for universal suffrage, the working classes promise to precipitate matters by a general strike throughout the country. The government is between the devil and the deep sea. If they oppose universal suffrage they are threatened with a revolution which may sweep away the monarchy. On the other hand, universal suffrage is liable to result in the return of such a large Socialist and Republican majority in the chamber that the monarchy will be equally threatened.

OUTBREAK AT NEGROS.

Bolomen Attack the California Troops on Their Departure for Home.

MANILA, July 4.—6:05 p. m.—Reports have been received here of an outbreak in the island of Negros, incident upon the departure of the California regiment for home. Some hostile natives, seeing a company of soldiers, at one of the small posts, preparing to depart, thought the Americans were evacuating the island, and a party of 250 rebels, mostly bolomen, attacked the troops and killed one man and wounded another belonging to E company.

The Filipinos were easily driven off.

The transport Sherman will bring the California troops to Manila before starting for San Francisco.

The transport Grant will soon embark the Colorado regiment.

ARBITRATION IS OPTIONAL.

Question of Making It Compulsory Opposed by Germany.

THE HAGUE, July 5.—At a meeting of the arbitration committee the question whether arbitration should be optional or compulsory was raised and drew a categorical declaration from the German delegate to the effect that he had received instructions not to [illegible] compulsory arbitration. In [illegible] this objection Rule 1 of the [illegible] plan [illegible] tion was struck out and [illegible] provision declaring [illegible] should be optional except [illegible] agreement between the [illegible] the delegates agreed to [illegible] geoise, head of the French delegation, stating he accepted it only as a compromise.

Prominent Divine Dead.

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 5.—[illegible] I. Brownson, the venerable pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Washington and one of the most prominent educators in the United States, is dead, aged 82 years.

Fourth of July in the Transvaal.

PRETORIA, July 5.—The Fourth of July was celebrated here on a large scale. Rear Admiral [illegible] and Captain Cooper, with the other officers of the United States cruiser Chicago participated.

STRAINED AGAIN

ALASKA BOUNDARY QUESTION REFUSES TO YIELD

To Diplomatic Treatment as Readily as Had Been Hoped—New Proposition Substituted for the Last One Outlined by Uncle Sam—Choate at the End of Authorized Concessions.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The negotiations in London looking to the arrangement of a modus vivendi, fixing the Alaskan boundary have again nearly reached a crisis. The several conferences that have taken place recently between Lord Salisbury and Ambassador Choate have been signally disappointing in results. At moments it appeared that a basis of understanding having, as it was thought, been reached, the details could be easily arranged, but it now turns out that these very details cannot be agreed upon without the sacrifice of the interests of many American miners, mainly those who were driven out of the Atlin district by the severe and discriminating laws enacted by the legislature of British Columbia, and this, the state department is determined not to sanction. The United States ambassador has come to the end of the concessions he is authorized to offer, and therefore the prospect of a successful outcome of the negotiations is rather depressing. Meanwhile, nothing is said on either side of a reconvention of the present high joint commission at Quebec, although the date set for the meeting at the last adjournment is rapidly approaching.

NO CALL WILL BE MADE.

Volunteers to Be Enlisted Through Efforts of Recruiting Officers.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The war department has nearly perfected the details of the project for the enlistment of volunteers under the terms of the act of the last congress. There is to be nothing in the nature of a call, but, as heretofore stated, the soldiers will be obtained in the regular method through the efforts of the United States recruiting officers stationed in the various large cities. To this end, the war department has already sent out to these officers full instructions for their guidance, as well as blanks for enlistment and everything is now in shape to begin recruiting at the word from Washington. It was stated by the adjutant general that the department contemplates raising nine regiments in all, and the instructions to the recruiting officers are based on this figure: Each regiment will have a strength of 1,326 men, making a total force of 11,934 men. This will be almost twice the number of men which General Otis reports will be necessary to give him the force of 30,000 effectives which he requires.

FIFTY THOUSAND NEEDED.

View of General H. G. Otis of the Situation in the Philippines.

CHICAGO, July 3.—General Harrison Gray Otis of Los Angeles, Cal., who was with the Eighth army corps at Manila, and who saw nearly a year's fighting around that city, has arrived in Chicago en route for Washington. He stopped at the Palmer House and will remain in the city until evening, before proceeding eastward. His visit to Washington will mark his muster out of the volunteer service.

General Otis discussed the situation in the Philippines at considerable length and took the hopeful view that with the additional troops to be furnished the war would be terminated before the next rainy season sets in.

"With 50,000 troops all told—say 30,000 for the fighting columns and 20,000 for garrison duty," he said. "Major General Otis can suppress the revolt before the next rainy season, restore peace, establish order, protect all well meaning natives of Luzon in their rights of person and property, and establish and maintain a simple, economical, just and effective government over the islands."

MORE VOLUNTEERS SAIL.

Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Utah Troops on the Way Home.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Utah troops which have been on duty in the Philippines have started on their homeward journey. The following dispatch from General Otis on the subject was received by the war department:

"Transports Hancock and Senator, with Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Utah troops, have left for San Francisco. Nebraska, 42 officers, 812 enlisted: Pennsylvania, 34 officers, 712 enlisted: Utah, 9 officers, 258 enlisted. Nebraska left in Manila 1 sick, 30 discharged: Pennsylvania, 7 discharged: Utah, 29 discharged.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The war department has received the following message from General Otis:

"California infantry and artillery, numbering 1,[illegible] discharged men, [illegible] ading at Negros [illegible] 1,10[illegible] now prepers: difficult [illegible] now prevailing; in four [illegible] North Dakota [illegible] 1,500 men [illegible]"

[illegible] YIELDS.

[illegible] Be Largely Reduced [illegible] Army.

[illegible] the minister of [illegible] after a pro[illegible] the premier, [illegible] to reduce the strength of the [illegible] 80,000 men [illegible]

Norway and [illegible] Crisis.

CHRISTIANIA, July [illegible]—A ministerial [illegible] government owing [illegible] een King Oscar and the [illegible] the appointment [illegible] commander-in-chief, [illegible] the cabinet [illegible] appoint General [illegible] wanting General Lorange to be appointed.

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, June 29.

Harvard won all three races with Yale at New London.

Employes of the Pingree shoe factories at Detroit are on strike for an adjustment of wages.

An Italian has invented a system of wireless telephony which promises to be of use in preventing collisions at sea.

Governor Roosevelt announces that he is not a candidate for president in 1900, but favors McKinley's renomination.

Five men were drowned in the Missisipi river a mile above Clarksville, Mo., by the overturning of a skiff. They were government laborers engaged in river improvement work.

Friday, June 30.

The president has appointed Charles O. Dewstoe postmaster at Cleveland.

The reported combination of the coal companies of the Pittsburg field is confirmed.

The mayor of Muskegon, Mich., was murdered by a disappointed office seeker.

The wages of all employes of the Ohio River railroad have been increased 10 per cent.

A negro rapist named Ollie Williams was shot and killed by a mob near Wakon, Tex.

Negotiations looking to the consolidation of all the street transportation lines of Manhattan, Brooklyn and Bronx boroughs are in progress.

A special from Ottawa says that the meeting of the international commission which was to have taken place on Aug. 2 at Quebec has been postponed until October. The exact date has not been fixed.

Saturday, July 1.

Daniel F. Tiemann, mayor of New York from 1855 to 1858, is dead, aged 94 years.

The pope is again confined to his bed, probably in consequence of the exertion caused by recent ceremonies.

Miss Jennie O'Neill Potter, the well known elocutionist, has decided to desert the lyceum platform for the legitimate stage.

Herr Christopher Ravn, vice cousul of Sweden and Norway at New York, has been promoted to the rank of consul general there.

The receivership of the Baltimore and Ohio railway terminated at midnight Friday and the property was turned over to the stockholders without formality.

Two Japanese, who were drowned while trying to escape from the quarantine steamer, Nipon Maru, at San Francisco, are found to have been suffering from the bubonic plague. Their bodies have been cremated.

Monday, July 3.

Omaha's exposition opened Saturday.

The government deficit for the fiscal year is $88,875,989.

The Howe sawmill at Tower, Minn., burned Saturday. Loss, $75,000.

Bishop John P. Newman of the Methodist Episcopal church is critically ill.

William Cody, a lineman living in Hinsdale, Ills, shot his wife and committed suicide.

Mrs. McKinley is reported to be better. The pleasant weather is having a beneficial effect upon her.

Charles Victor Cherbuliez, novelist, literary and art critic and member of the French academy, is dead.

Mrs. David B. Peck, mother of Former Governor George W. Peck of Wisconsin, is dead, aged 90 years.

The Standard Oil company, it is said, has designs on the street railway lines in the larger cities of the West.

The government has decided to absolutely prohibit the French from obtaining bait at ports along the Newfoundland coast.

Tuesday, July 4.

Fire at Dawson City destroyed 60 miners' cabins.

Public schools under American auspices opened in Manila.

Continued improvement is noticed in Mrs. McKinley's condition.

The supply ship Glacier has sailed from Colombo for Singapore.

The rival Samoan chiefs have clasped hands and peace has been declared.

All the volunteers in the Philippines will have sailed for home by Sept. 1, it is said.

Frank Erne of Buffalo, defeated George Lavigne of Michigan, in a lightweight championship fight.

The receipts of the United States patent office for the fiscal year were $1,209,654—$70,000 over expenditures.

All talk of an immediate general strike at the Chicago stock yards is over, the leaders having decided to spend the entire summer in organizing their forces.

Wednesday, July 5

The yellow fever situation seems somewhat improved.

J. Fred Powers of Worcester, Mass., won the amateur all around athletic championship of America.

Edwin B. Jacoby, president and incorporator of the Toledo and Bowling Green railroad, is dead at Toledo, O.

Mr. Meiklejohn, assistant secretary of war, will be a candidate for senator from Nebraska to succeed Thurston.

An Irish member of the British parliament predicts that the entire West Indies will soon belong to the United States.

At New York Harry Elkes won the motor paced 25-mile bicycle race from Arthur Gardner by one mile in 47 mins. 82 3-5 secs.

Dr. Patten of Hyde Park Methodist Episcopal church has been chosen professor of the new chair of Biblical instruction at Northwestern university. Dr. Patten has accepted.

Farmers, Attention!

I have the Champion Draw Cut Mower (something new) also the ever ready Jones Mower. Thomas and Plano Rakes, Disc and Acme Harrows, Newton and Stoughton Wagons.

CALL AND SEE THEM.....

S. L. COLLINS

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven but has long horizontal wires, which classes it as

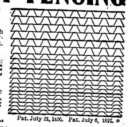
A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

Like a fence, it can be properly stretched and erected with few posts and without top and bottom rails. Has cable selvage and a cable running through the fence every foot. Each roll contains the famous M. M. S. trade mark. None other genuine.

We are manufacturers also of the following famous fences:

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE with or without lower cable barbed. All horizontal lines are cables.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE ideal fence for lawns, parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel gates, posts, etc. Everything the best of its kind.



Pat. July 21, 1896. Pat. July 6, 1897.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.

FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings

When laying out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.

Call us up before letting your Contract.

We shall be pleased to give ou the benefit of our experience in laing out wiring plans.

It Will Cost You Nothing

to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.

Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring

We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.

Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.

Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

YOU CAN USE IT 20 DAYS FREE

Up-to-date in every detail.

Ask us to ship you one of our High Arm Sewing Machines with Ball Bearings and all Modern improvements. This we will do by express to any station within 500 miles of Chicago. Upon arrival deposit our price, $15.50, and express charges, with the express agent of your town, then

TAKE THE MACHINE HOME AND TRY IT FOR 20 DAYS

If you are perfectly satisfied with the machine, keep it, otherwise return it to the express agent, and he will give you all your money back. If you prefer, we will ship by freight and draw on you through your nearest bank, draft attached to Bill of Lading. When machine comes pay draft, and take machine from station. If you don't like it, return it by freight, and we will refund. We guarantee the machine for ten years. Remember you take no risk. It don't cost you one cent unless you take the machine. We have sold over 100,000, and they are all giving perfect satisfaction. ITS SPECIAL FEATURES are Ball Bearing, Light Running, Durable, Easily Operated, Noiseless, Double Positive Feed, Self Threading Shuttle, Self-Setting Needle, Tension Liberator, Automatic Spooler, High Arm, Nickle-plated working parts, Steel bearings, Improved steel Attachments, Superior Finish, Highly Polished Bent Woodwork, Oak or Walnut. Send 15 cents for our 1000-page catalogue. It lists everything used by mankind.

Originators of The Catalogue Business.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., Michigan Ave., & Madison St., Chicago.

Historical Society

Polk County Journal

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY JULY 13, 1899 NO 14

POULTRY ON THE FARM

Ida E. Tilson an Authority on Poultry Culture, Writes Entertainly For the Journal.

RAISING CHICKENS PROFITABLE

Warm and Ventilated Houses in the Winter—Have Hens Laying During Cold Weather.

The following article on Poultry on the Farm was written expressly for the JOURNAL by Mrs. Ida E. Tilson. of West Salem, Wis. Mrs. Tilson will be remembered as one of the entertaining instructors, who was present at the last Farmers' Institute held in Crookston.

No doubt most of those who read this paper have heard of that wonderful Tuskegee (Ala.) Industrial School which has done so much to promote diversified farming, practical education, and such instead of credit systems. The secretary saw, admired and requested a set of Minnesota Institute Annuals for that school. Aside from shelter questions, poultry in-structions fit all climates, whereas held tillage on one soil may be directly opposite to that on a different soil.

Thanks to her excellent agricultural papers and other influences, Minnesota certainly has improved in poultry products, if we may judge by the fact that last winter our cooking instructor got fresh eggs at every town, whereas three or four years ago, our domestic science teacher was many times unable to do so. There is still chance enough for profit, since, for instance, eggs reached 45 cents a dozen in Pine City, at one time last winter, and have been likewise a dozen all summer, at many points. When a man like Chas. Kenning, of Renville county, with a fine farm of 800 acres, and well known as a successful stock-grower, tells us he aims to raise 300 chickens a year, and to winter a goodly number of laying hens, and finds as much profit in these, according to money and time spent, as in any other branch of his farming, such a statement is entitled to attention and confidence, because Mr. Kenning is in a situation to make comparisons.

With four thicknesses of boards and two of paper, he builds henhouses which never show frost nor dampness inside. He prefers the addition of more paper and lath and plaster. The trouble is, most walls are so thin that the moisture from breaths and ground is frozen before it can possibly pass out, no matter what system of ventilation is used, with Leghorns. I would air their house every pleasant winter day reaching 30° above. I know successful raisers of Plymouth Rocks who air their poultry quarters every such day 10° above.

Poultry houses are expensive of such style as Mr. Kenning lays out, therefore put the chief outlay on a smaller sung room for lodging and laying, then have a cheap, thin-walled addition room for days. The latter, in situations not exposed to wind, may even be an open shed. In short, the outlay and excellence are needed for a night room, while the exercise of the day permits a use of cheaper quarters at that time.

Although overhead ventilators and open windows take off some bad air, they also take off most of our heat, a loss we cannot afford in Northern Minn. The breath of any animal, the waste of its system, the smoke of the fire within it, rises when first cast out and warm. Soon this cools and falls. We shall get more bad air withdrawn by working from the bottom of a room. A stove pipe or any tube, reaching from 10 inches of floor, to three feet or so above roof, will usually have a good upward draught if on south side, in a partition wall or in middle of room, anywhere it is not too chilled.

Where returns are large, people are content to have their processes slow. In poultry culture, only quick methods suit-fly. Let perches and nest-boxes be movable, then cleaning can be speedily and regularly managed. Egg gatherers can wash their hands easier than they can frail eggs. Since eggs are more often soiled by hens themselves than by a person's hands, I find nest-boxes closed at night, avail most of all. One long board in front of nest-boxes, hinged, or placed there in the afternoon, subsequent to gathering eggs, and taken away next morning, prevents the common roosting in and fouling of nests.

In conclusion, I am much interested in a young lady of the southern part of the Red River Valley, who with her good mother's aid, hopes to visit the Paris Exposition on her "bee anyone."

HONOR FOR CITY BAND.

They Will Give a Concert at the Exhibition at Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Evidence has been piling up for months that goes to prove that the Crookston city band is one of the most excellent musical aggregations within a radius of many miles of this city. No celebration of any kind, not merely here in our midst, but elsewhere, seems to be complete without the band boys. The last city to need the services of Prof. Riggs and his musicians is Winnipeg. At least twenty-two of the sharpers have been chosen for the capital city of Manitoba. They go by way of the Great Northern railway, which company so highly appreciates the artistic work of the band that they consider the road is honored by having the boys go that way, so they furnish them with transportation. In Winnipeg the band is booked to give a concert as part of the entertainment furnished at the provincial exhibition. As only players of the first rank would have such an invitation extended to them it is evident that the fame of the Queen city band is widespread.

PARTISAN JOHN LIND

Attempts to Stir up Factions—Dan Lawler Supports Administration.

Dan Lawler, one of the prominent democrats of Minnesota, in a Fourth of July oration at Rochester, Minn., said: "So long as a single American soldier is in the field striving to uphold the honor of his country's flag, I recognize one, and only one duty, and that is the duty of every American citizen, democrat, republican or populist, to hold up the hands of the President of this republic, commander-in-chief of the American army. On this issue parties cannot and will not divide. And he little knows the temper of the people of this land who, for partisan gain, attempts to manufacture an issue out of condition caused by a war for justice and humanity, approved by the enlightened sense of civilization and originating in the purest and holiest motives."

Governor Lind, in an address delivered at Vasa, Minn., on the same day said, in referring to the Philippine question, "I tell you in all sincerity that it is bad business we are engaged in today. Can you as Americans sustain the country in its present cause? Is it best for us and our children? Is it better to have an empire? Who pays the taxes to support the army? Who pays for those who profit by these colonies are the rich."

Comment on these two citations is hardly necessary. Mr. Lawler's is a manly, patriotic, truly American utterance; the words of the other man are partisan, tend to stir up one class against another, and are supremely disrepugnant the situation. Governor Lind perfectly illustrates the man "who, for partisan gain, attempts to manufacture an issue out of a condition caused by a war for justice and humanity."

OUT OF THE ASYLUM.

A Fisher Farmer Rescues an Aunt From an Asylum in California.

Fred Worden, a prosperous farmer living in the town of Bygland returned from California a little over a week ago, bringing with him his aunt, Mrs. Katharine Gullekson, who will hereafter make her home with Mr. Worden and his sister. Mrs. Gullekson has just been released from an insane asylum at Stockton, California where she was unjustly imprisoned and the story of her incarceration is one of heartless cruelty on the part of her son, Henry F. Gullekson, who lives in California. This son, though well-to-do, conceived the design of putting his mother in the hospital for the insane and thus securing her personal property. By bribing the physician who was appointed by the probate court to examine into the case, he carried into effect his plan and his mother 70 years old, was committed to the asylum and he got possession of her property. One day the aged lady wrote a letter to her daughter who lives in the East telling the daughter of her troubles. The letter was dropped from the mail box by a passer-by picked it up and mailed it. The daughter at once went to California and took steps to secure the release of her mother which was accomplished after several months. Mr. Worden then went west and returned with his aunt, as stated above. Mrs. Gullekson, seems to have borne well her year's imprisonment though she is indeed overjoyed at being free once again.

—A. G. Andersen sells the Heath & Milligan best Paint, the purest and best House Paint on the market. Call and get a color card.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

City Engineer Hamery Estimates Cost of Paving and Curbing as More Than $30,000

MANY BILLS WERE ALLOWED.

Interesting Discussion on Parliamentary Procedure—Adjourns Till Friday Night.

Proceedings of a regular meeting of the city council of the city of Crookston held in city hall July 11, 1899.

Meeting called to order by President O'Brien.

Roll-call, Aldermen present: Davis, McKinnon, Harris, Childs, O'Brien, Anderson, Thompson, Chesterman.

Alderman absent: Ellington, Brown, McGregor.

On motion the rules were suspended to take up the paving question.

At request of council City Engineer Hamery read his estimates of number of yards to be paved within a certain district and the cost thereof, with cedar blocks as the material, not including curbing. Mr. Hamery's report is published in full elsewhere in the JOURNAL.

Mr. Louis Schrath of Fargo being present was asked to give his idea gained from his experience as a paving contractor, which he did, and claimed the cedar block paving the most practical paving for this country especially as to cost.

On the recommendation of finance committee following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

5624 A G Harris, fitting on hot street	$ 1 50
6566 Crookston Lumber Co, lumber	45 20
6766 Crookston Lumber Co, lumber	6 70
6772 Thomas Lawrence, sheriff, fees in case of Wilkinson vs City of Crookston	4 10
6769 Ed Monson, due meat	1 00
6770 Wm Lamers, attorney per diem	21 00
6742 Merchants National bank interest on order	27 65
6740 O. Vice, repairs on A B wood sawing machine	31 15
6561 Wm Cheyney, dray	1 00
6695 A. G. Anderson, 1 quart Davis tool et	8 50
6646 S. W. Comb, police of car Dec	12 00
6754 Geo. A. Hibbs, drilling sump and attending same Dec 1 & 2 and 20 to 24	20 00
6681 Bert Hall, police fees last quarter	17 50
6780 Crookston Lumber Co, lumber	2 20
6695 John Dickson, police fees last quarter	30 00
6624 Louis Rolicort, assistant engineer	21 75
6691 Frank Dubois, scraper and dozer in ditch	18 75
6643 J. S. Simmons, dray	1 00
6767 E. A. Lawrence & Co, 2 record books for comptroller	10 45
6641 Con Sexton Times, record book for city clerk and stationery for street com	4 95
6677 Chas. Hall, assistant city engineer	60 00
6688 Jacob Stymiest, assistant milkman	8 00

Bill No. 6685 Crookston Lumber Co, $25 10 was returned to them for correction. It appearing that there is an error in the amount charged as compared to order given by purchasing agent.

Bills Nos. 6701 Andrew Olson $60.50 for work done on German street and 6695 H. E. Cooke estate printing briefs in case of Wilkinson against the city, in excess of amount allowed by justice court, were on motion disallowed.

From report of street commissioner it appeared that work was done by the city to complete contractual work on sewers and grading as follows:

Houston ave. and Ash street sewers, Walsh & Kennedy contractors to the amount of $57.64.

On Fifth Ward sewer. Andrew Olson contractor $20.14.

On Broadway grading, Castle Bros. contractors, $90.00

On motion the amount of $57.64 was ordered charged to Walsh & Kennedy the amount of $20.14 to Andrew Olson and the item of $90.00 against Castle Bros. was referred to the city engineer and the chairman of the street and bridge committee.

On motion Koeppe Bros. were granted the privilege to use the street during the erection of a new building opposite their property on Main street by complying with the ordinances relating thereto.

It was moved and seconded that when council adjourns, it adjourns to meet again on Friday the 14th inst. Motion carried.

On motion the reading of the minutes of the last regular meeting was deferred till next session of council.

Martin O'Brien appeared before council on behalf of J. W. O'Brien in the matter of tax assessed against the latter's property on corner of Ash and Loving streets for filling on said Loring street, and represented to council that Mr. O'Brien was no party to the proposed so-called improvement, had had no notice of the same and was not benefited by it in any way and asked to have said tax refunded to him. On motion the matter was referred to the city attorney with full power to act.

Pay-roll for last June amounting to $241.24 was allowed and ordered paid in the usual manner.

Bill for $80 of A. G. Harris for repairing the Munn building on Broadway was per contract, was on motion allowed and ordered paid.

Bill No. 6700 of George H. Pitts for $61.75 assisting city engineer, was allowed and ordered paid.

Alderman Childs suggested that as the report of the city engineer regarding the remaining of the street near the saw mill had been accepted at the last meeting it was highly important that the work should be done at once. Pres. O'Brien held, however, that the accepting of the engineer's report did not imply that the council had voted to expend the amount that the engineer estimated would be necessary to do the work.

Mr. O'Brien admitted that according to parliamentary usage the accepting of a report meant its adoption and he had so ruled at a previous meeting of the council, but since that time he had learned that it was the custom of the Crookston city council not to consider the acceptance of a report as involving its adoption and he had decided that he would in his ruling on this point conform to the usage of the city council in the past.

A motion was then made that hereafter this council conform to the rules as embodied in Robert's Rules of Order which says that an acceptance of a report means its adoption. The motion was carried.

TWO FORGERS.

Al Wond and A. H. Kane Arrested —Kane Breaks Jail.

A. H. Kane alias John A. Casey, who has been working for several weeks past for Schmidt & Hoven was detected last Saturday night trying to pass a fifteen dollar check on which he had forged the signature of his employer. He was promptly arrested and upon examination of his effects it was discovered that he had stolen a grip and considerable clothing and other valuables from the house of J. D. Stephens, where had been painting.

Monday night, before any preliminary examination had taken place Kane, by means of a tools fork which he had secreted about himself after one of his meals, picked the lock to the cell in which he was imprisoned and escaped. Up to the present time he has not been found.

The other man who tried to shove his expert penmanship was one Al. Wond. On account of his check for $25 made it payable to himself and signed his own name to it. This he got Otto Burkhardt to cash. Mr. Burkhardt discovered that the check was no good just in time to catch Wood as he was starting west on the Great Northern. Almost the money was secured and he was let go Monday morning, as soon as released he procured a blank check and filled it out making it payable to D. Laumers, of Solway, signing Mr. Laumers' name and putting his own name on the back. The fraud was discovered when he presented the check for payment at the Merchants National bank. Wood has relatives of means in Stillwater. He is undoubtedly somewhat unbalanced mentally.

J. J. Hill's Beneficence.

The doing of good unobtrusively with James J. Hill is characteristic. One of his numerous kindly acts became known but recently and is well worth relating, though we shall probably not receive thanks from Mr. Hill for so doing. A short time before Christmas Mr. Hill wrote to the State Agricultural Farm asking for the names of forty deserving farmers, to whom he might make a donation. On Christmas morning these forty farmers were very delightfully surprised at receiving a full-blooded Berkshire boar. This generous act is so in keeping with many others on the part of Mr. Hill that it will occasion very little surprise and perhaps less comment from those who have been informed of what he has done in the past. But such munificence is certainly deserving of public mention. No man has done more towards the improvement of the live stock of the northwest than Mr. Hill, and the farmers of this state owe him no small measure of gratitude for his efforts in this direction.

Coulees at Angus Overflow.

L. J. Lobe, of Angus informs the JOURNAL that the coulees in that vicinity are overflowing their banks and the water is consequently spreading out over the low lands and has already destroyed considerable grain. The overflow began last Sunday and is due to the fact that the ditches and coulees are not large enough to carry off the excess of water that is coming down from the north. East of Mr. Lobe's place the conditions are much worse.

CARRY THE LETTERS

Applications Must be Made Before July 31—Examinations Will be Held Here Aug. 5.

CROOKSTON STREET FAIR.

The Mayor Appoints a Committee of Fifteen to Have Charge.—Immediate Action Necessary.

Matters in connection with the establishment of free delivery in Crookston are progressing. Postmaster Elliott has received the blanks from Washington which have to be filled in and submitted before July 31 by those who wish to become applicants for the position of letter carrier in this city and these blanks may be secured at the Crookston postoffice. Three carriers and one substitute will be appointed. The examinations will be held in Crookston Aug. 5 under the supervision of an official sent out by the department at Washington, who will appoint two others to assist him. Postmaster Elliott, however, not being eligible to a place on the board of examiners. This examination will include a physical examination and a test in the applicant's knowledge of what are usually called the common branches.

The Street Fair.

At a meeting of citizens held at the city hall about two weeks ago, Mayor A. D. Stephens, who was chairman of the meeting, was empowered to appoint a street fair committee which was to consist, as largely as possible, of the executive committee which acted in the same capacity in 1898. Some members of the 1898 committee are out of the city for the summer and others refuse to act this year, chiefly from lack of time to give it proper attention. The mayor therefore has appointed the following men to act as the executive committee of the street fair for 1899: John H. McKinnon, Lewis Ellington, E. Rapin, J. B. McCall, Charles Woserberg, W. S. Logan, S. W. Vance, J. E. Griffeth, Louis Fontaine, A. Chabot, L. L. Benoit, Louis Morin, H. L. Falk, A. Holmboe and A. M. Stevenson. The mayor makes the suggestion that the committee meet at the earliest possible moment to elect officers and determine the line of action and answers the committee that he will give the many assistance which he can. There are only ten weeks until fair time and the sooner the committee gets to work the better.

Guard Against Grasshoppers.

Professor Otto Lugger, entomologist of the Minnesota State Agricultural school, who has just returned from the Park mountains in North Dakota, warns an invasion of grasshoppers this summer. The ground is infested with eggs and can be plainly seen. The season has been a favorable one with them, he says. They are now hatching and will shortly be on the move. It is probable they will spread through Manitoba and North Dakota and there is a chance that they will swoop down in the northwest. Professor Lugger advises farmers to get in readiness to meet the enemy, by constructing "hoppercloyers." The plans for which he will furnish on application. Where hoppers have reached a community he also advises farmers to plow a furrow around their farms and saturate it with crude kerosene oil.

OFFICER IN REGULAR ARMY.

Captain Decker Appointed 1st Lieutenant in the Regular Army.

Captain Stewart M. Decker, formerly captain of Co. L in the Fourteenth Minnesota Volunteers, has been appointed a first lieutenant in the Philippine volunteers and has telegraphed his acceptance. This news is gratify ing to the captain's many friends in this city as it was known that he wished to see service in the regular army in the Philippines. It was hoped, however, that he would secure a captaincy to which his success in that position in the 14th regiment would entitle him. Still Minnesota is receiving comparatively few appointments in the new regiments. If other officers now being appointed prove themselves as capable and efficient as is our Captain Decker, the Philippines will be magnificently commanded. It is likely that the captain will persuade some of the members of the 14th regiment to enlist in the regular army. If the war in the Philippines is not ended before the new forces reach the Islands, the JOURNAL confidently expects to hear in a short time of Captain Decker being promoted, for gallant conduct in battle, to the rank which he held in the 14th regiment.

GRASSES CAN BE GROWN

In Valley—C. A. Tullar Does so on His Farm in Bristet.

C. A. Tullar showed us the other day, says the Warren Register, a sample of clover he raised on his farm in Bristet this year. It was as fine looking clover as one would see almost anywhere. Mr. Tullar says that the opinion held by many farmers that clover cannot be profitably grown in the Red river valley is erroneous, that he has twenty acres of clover this year and all of it is doing well, and that he has for years raised as good clover on his Polk county farm as he ever saw raised in any part of the country and the yield has been sufficiently larger to amply repay him for appropriating a portion of his land to this use. He also has fifteen acres in clover and timothy mixed. The knowledge that timothy can be successfully grown in this section is of inestimable value to the farmers, as it is only a question of time when all of the available land will be in cultivation and will grass will become a very scarce article, when that day arrives. Timothy and clover and other tame grasses will have become as important and as necessary as any other products of the farm.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Opens in Crookston—Five Instructors —Over 100 Teachers.

The summer school, which will be held in Crookston during the next four weeks opened last Monday at the High school with an attendance of about 90 teachers, which number will undoubtedly be increased to 125 before the week is over. The corps of instructors includes P. M. Magnuson, conductor, of St. Cloud Normal school, Supt. Schultz of Arvilla, Supt. Carson, of Lake City, Miss Abbie Mather, of Minneapolis, and Miss Gertrude Barr, who is the critic teacher in charge of the model school at the St. Cloud Normal.

Among the subjects that will be taught are Civics, Arithmetic, Grammar, History, Pedagogy, Literature, Writing, Physiology, Algebra and Geography. One interesting model feature of the school is the model class, composed of seventeen children who have never been to school before. This class is in charge of Miss Mather and Miss Barbier.

County Superintendent Kassa has been instrumental in securing for the Crookston school an unusually able corps of educators, and the teachers in the county who can possibly come ought to fail to attend.

INDORSES MR. McKISSICK.

Collect Stock Slowly—Management Learned by Practical Experience.

Those who read the address by Mr. McKissick published in the JOURNAL of June 29 were doubtless impressed with the practical suggestions offered. Mr. McKissick, who is manager of one of the largest farms of the Red River Valley, has had ample opportunities to learn the true state of farming in the northwest. Those opportunities have not been wasted. His statement of the situation and the suggestions as to the remedies are certainly worthy of careful study by farmers.

If there is one place where the "one crop-system" is necessary it is on the large bonanza farm but here the bonanza farmer advocates diversified farming in connection with live stock. This certainly is the keynote to successful agriculture in the northwest.

The history of the development of new territory is the same in nearly all new countries. The pioneer farmer raises the crops he cannot possibly turn in to cash, and these are usually grain. This is certainly excusable and wise. The next step is continuing grain raising exclusively too long. At an early date the farmer should commence to build up his herds and flocks. Adding only a few head each year will soon stock a farm to its full capacity. When the stock is on the farm the possession of crops and economical feeding by the introduction of livestock on a farm one does not need to abandon grain raising. The two industries go hand in hand, and the development of the one is aided by the other. The products of the one furnish support for the other. His suggestion to begin in a small way is good. One learns the management of livestock largely by practical experience. Buying only a few head to begin with, and then adding more when experience suggests it wise, is the method persued by many of our best farmers.

A FARMER.

—The Creolin Floor Paint sold by Anderson the Druggist is a genuine paint and dries in eight to ten hours.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

AROUND THE COUNTRY

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

NEILSVILLE.

Rye Bros have painted and fixed up their store in very neat shape.

Benson Bros. are laying the foundation of their new furniture store.

Sup't. Trimble, of the Valley Lumber Co., was in town yesterday stirring up business matters.

Since we got the daily passenger all past grievances are forgotten and Ada is regarded as a first rate fellow.

A. Hortle has the contract of putting up the lumber shed for the Farmers' Lumber Co. Work on it was begun a couple of days ago.

Rev. and Mrs. Burnett came from Crookston by team Monday to be present at the song festival Tuesday where they sang some beautiful solos and Rev. Burnett delivered an address.

Both the morning and evening trains on the day of the circus were packed as full with people as they possibly could be. In Climax a box car had to be added in order to get all the people along that wanted to go. The officials of the road would better bear in mind that whenever they run an excursion through this prosperous country to any place worth going to there is going to be a large turn out, and ought to provide coaches accordingly.

The song festival held Tuesday in the park-like place by the river was a success in every respect. The day was perfect and it is estimated that more than a thousand people were present. An excellent program was rendered consisting of songs, declamations and addresses by several prominent speakers notably Eld. E. Lobeck, one of the best Scandinavian speakers of the day. Every body went home satisfied that a profitable day had been spent.

CLIMAX.

R. F. Leick, was with us on Tuesday.

Rudy Rasmussen's smiling face was seen here on Monday.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. John Clements, on Friday last, a boy.

Gilbert Kittelson, has been visiting relatives at Hatten N. D. this week.

S. A. Lochen, took the flyer for Halstad Monday evening, returning Tuesday.

Quite a number took in the picnic at G. Spokhie's grove, on Tuesday. All report a good time.

John McDonald, sent twenty-five teams to A. Caspers town, on Tuesday to work on the new railroad.

K. O. Steele has been taking the place of P. J. Ede in the store this week, while the latter was at Shelly.

Bennie Elling is assisting in the postoffice store, while Mr. Kittelson is visiting friends at Hatten, North Dakota.

Several young couples went to Fargo on Wednesday last to take in the Ringling circus, and all report having a good time.

E. A. Moe of Grand Forks, has put in a first-class stock of jewelry, in E. J. Eide's drug store, and will be pleased to meet all those who need anything in the line of jewelery or repairing ware.

LENGBY.

Miss Agusta Carlson left Tuesday for Johnson, N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Stenburg went to Fosston Tuesday.

The wood market is good now. Our merchants are shipping daily.

Henry Welte came up from Crookston and spent the Fourth with us.

Louis Lohn, the Fosston banker, was in town between trains last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Nelson have been visiting with friends and relatives near Fosston.

Ole Frederickson has purchased a plat of land in town and is building upon it a dwelling house.

Misses Julie and Evelina Lilly paid a visit home and spent the Fourth with us and returned to Crookston again.

W. L. Hilliard was up to Pine lake this week and says it is the last place on earth that he would think of going for a pleasure ride.

Our Fourth of July celebration. At sunrise salutes were heard and about 9 o'clock people began to gather. The weather was fine and everything went on nicely. At 10 o'clock the grand parade marched through the streets. At 11 o'clock speaking commenced. The speakers' stand was erected in a nice popular grove. The speaker was introduced by W. Hilliard. There was a large number present to listen to Rev. H. L. Vonhoim, who gave an interesting and patriotic speech. A baseball game commenced at 3 o'clock, between Hanaville and Lengby teams, when two innings were played it began to rain, so the game was stopped. The score was 1 to 4 in favor of Lengby. The Fosston band gave music during the day and added much to make our celebration a delightful one. The fire works in the evening were booming. Dancing commenced early in the evening and was kept up till daylight the 5th.

HALLORY.

D. G. Ferguson is building a very solo-tantial barn.

James Gilmore went on business to Crookston Monday.

W. H. Dickson left Monday night for his home at Sturbot Lake, Ont.

D. Bain and H. F. McVeety went to Crookston Tuesday on important business.

The M. W. of A. picnic and dance was a great success, both socially and financially.

Miss McIntyre of Crookston is in town today giving instructions in music to her class of pupils.

Crop prospects are good and farmers are making necessary arrangements to take care of an abundant harvest.

The Great Northern civil engineers are surveying for a passing track at this point, which will greatly facilitate the meeting of trains.

S. S. Davidson's store, which was blown down at McDonald by a storm, is being rapidly rebuilt under the supervision of W. Storms.

D. J. Morrow of Morris is down with typhoid fever. Dr. Hodgson of Fisher is attending him. It is hoped Mr. Morrow will soon recover.

Representative Cumming is wearing an exceedingly longer smile the past few days. When asked the cause of so much joy he says "it is a boy."

J. M. Grosbeng is passing round the customary cigars, especially to the M. W. of A. members on account of the advent of a boy born Monday.

W. S. Stewart has sold his farm in Marais and purchased a farm at Gatesburg, N. D. He is busy loading his stock and machinery for shipment.

FOSSTON.

Attorney D. H. Fisk has been ill for a few days.

R. S. Bennett returned from St. Paul Saturday.

Rolla Whitney went to Finley, N. D., on Wednesday to visit relatives.

The Fosston Woolen Mills were compelled to increase their force last week owing to increased business.

The village council have appointed the gentlemanly and well known A. drummer. A. W. Smith, chief of police.

A fire was noticed in a barn on Friday last and the fire company was out. The flames were soon extinguished.

A striking machine has "hit" the town. The boys have all tried it but give up the laurels to Alanson Conley, who is an expert at the game.

M. Patterson, ex-register of deeds of Polk county, was in the city Wednesday selling tomb stones for Sandell & Co., of Crookston.

The Fosston Telephone Co. are making preparations for business. They expect to extend their lines of telephone to neighboring towns and farm houses. This is a good enterprise and should be encouraged. The members of the company are Dr. M. McKinnon, P. Johnson, G. D. Dunlevy and John Lohn.

O. C. Olson and S. Hanson were united in marriage on Thursday, July 13. Mr. Olson has been engaged in business here for several years. He is an honorable, upright citizen and always ready to assist in any public enterprise. Miss Hanson is a highly respected young lady and has many friends in Fosston and vicinity. Their friends wish them a happy and prosperous life.

RUSSIA.

F. H. Mineaux has been selling quite a few head of late beef to some Crookston butchers the last few days.

Th. Nephew and part of his family were about four days at Grand Forks, N. D., visiting some of his relatives.

Mr. Will Lefevre, of Mayfield, North Dakota, has been visiting about a week, over the Fourth of July, with Mr. F. H. Mineaux.

Most of the young folks in this township enjoyed a meeting last Sunday at Peter Norseu's residence, till late in the evening.

Th. Nephew and his family pleased this part of the country with the greatest picnic ever given in this vicinity on the Fourth of July.

Felix Rousmaniere has sent in the petition of all postoffice patrons who are in favor of having this postoffice moved over half a mile further north, close to the station.

ANOUS.

Artie Evans attended the show on Wednesday.

F. Stroble and son J. A. spent Tuesday in Warren.

G. C. Winchester and wife spent Sunday in town.

G. Evans and family were in Warren on the Fourth.

R. King and family spent the Fourth in Warren.

A. and Wm. Stroble were in Grand Forks on Tuesday.

Mrs. J. F. Montgomery went to Crookston on Tuesday.

The rain on Wednesday night was the heaviest that ever fell here.

Miss Annie Polinski came up from Crookston to visit her brother John.

John Gundwin, Ole Tanum and C. D. McLennen drove to Crookston on Wednesday.

Mr. Palmer one of the Jorussi force was in town on Monday booking for subscribers.

H. C. Clark and wife went to Crookston on Wednesday evening to attend the show.

J. F. Montgomery and A. T. Campion drove to Crookston on Sunday. They say that the conlees are all full.

Robert Shannon, D. Ostrumler, George Arneson, Ame Tangsan and Harry Miller went to Crookston on Wednesday evening to attend the show.

FERTILE.

Haying will commence here this week.

Lumber trade is heavy at both yards this year.

Ben. Irons is away to Wisconsin for a month's vacation.

Many from here are planning to go to Winnipeg Friday.

J. A. Erikson returned from Wisconsin Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Erickson and Mrs. A. L. Shardy are visiting relatives at Watson Minn.

Rev. Stuart of Illinois, delivered a temperance lecture in the town hall Friday evening which was very well attended.

SHELLY.

A. O. Anderson spent the Fourth in Hillsboro.

O. M. Johnson went to Hillsboro to see the dentist.

S. S. Moen and P. J. Ede drove to Halstad Monday.

C. A. Hawkins and Ole Beckedahl went to Hillsboro last Sunday.

Leick, representing Park, Grant and Morris called on merchants Tuesday.

J. J. Fikkie must be a busy man as he is seldom seen in Shelly now-a-days.

During the week, Aarestad Bros. received a carload of Champion binders and mowers.

Joe Anderson, L. E. Olson, Cornelius Thompson and E. J. Pauhsond spent Sunday in Halstad.

The Misses Roguile and their brother Adolph went to Nelsville to attend the picnic on the 11th.

Miss Mary Johnstad of Dunne, N. D. was in town today looking for a girl to take the place of Miss Burley.

Thos. Myers wears a two foot smile now, for, so he says, the time is not far away when he will pull in double harness.

E. J. Paulsond spent the Fourth in Climax also talking in the circus at Crookston. He reports a splendid time at both places.

The Shelly correspondent commenced celebrating a little too early last week to get in his locals. He must be over it now.

Something over one hundred people went to Crookston on the fifth to take in the circus and fortunately none of them report a scratch.

J. C. Johnson went to Fargo last week to attend the circus. Sorry to say that he was dissapointed because they had no show that day.

N. J. N. Olson the Halstad photographeneruses in town last week. We have seen quite a lot of his work and it beats anything in the Northwest.

Jacob Axthon has completed the purchase of A. C. Lawson's stock of hardware and is now in a fine position for doing business and he is doing it too.

The station agent invested in an alarm clock the other day to call him for the morning train at 7:22. It will be nearly missed the train the first morning he had it.

Joe Anderson was found to ride his wheel through the mud to get to Halstad last Sunday. Evidently there must have been something in sight for he had company back.

On arriving at Shelly from the circus in Crookston, the boys who had their hosses with them, had to pick them up and carry 'em to the Hotel as the hand car house (our depot) would not hold very many and the ditches contained about five feet of water. They got wet, poor boys, on account of the rain still pouring down but that makes no forebid us long as they saved 'em from getting wet.

Hon. E. E. Lobeck the noted temperance speaker, lectured to a large and attentive audience here on the 11th.

The Shelly tinner is kept on the pump now-a-days and he is growing thin. The rest of the boys seem to be growing fat on. They have to learn against something in order to keep from following the force of gravity. What'camp?

ERSKINE.

Sheriff Lawrence was in town Friday.

Olaf Messelt visited McIntosh Wednesday.

Charley Ostby and family left for St. Cloud Sunday.

Improvements are still continuing. Hurrah for Erskine!

Even Johnson is building an addition to his restaurant.

Miss Hanson, the milliner, left here for Fosston Wednesday.

Mr. Frich of Fertile spent Saturday and Sunday in our burgh.

N. O. Narveson was at Crookston Friday and returned Sunday.

Theodore Engemann and family left for Gratton, N. D., Friday.

Miss Hanson visited at Fosston during the fourth and fifth of July.

Dr. Olson and daughter Carrie did business at Fosston between trains on Monday.

Mrs. Chet Smith arrived on Monday and will make her home on Mr. Green's place.

Annual school meeting is called for Saturday evening and a hot time is expected here.

Dr. McKinnon of Fosston was here to help Dr. Olson in an operation on A. N. Collins Saturday.

Oscar Malmoe, who has been visiting at Crookston for the last few days, returned on Monday.

Those that went to Crookston to attend the circus from here, came back and reported that they had a narrow escape.

The Woodmen had a victim last Thursday evening and they have another one all ready for next Wednesday evening.

A heavy rain and wind storm did a good deal of damage in the neighborhood Tuesday morning. Wheat and oats are lying flat on the ground.

Hank Gunnon of Fertile has been here for a few days with a drove of horses which he has been selling and trading and left for McIntosh Tuesday.

Mr. Le Puge of Mentor was in town Monday and was looking over our school house for the purpose of having a better idea of plans for the new school building to be built in Mentor in the near future.

FISHER.

Will Lee made a flying trip to Key West Saturday.

James Hanson wheeled to Crookston Sunday afternoon.

O. Osmunson of Mallory visited friends here on Sunday.

J. H. Johnson of St. Hilaire is visiting friends here this week.

Mrs. Geo. Hanson left for Gratton Sunday, to visit her sister for a few days.

Ole Omdahle is building a new addition to his house, which improves it very much.

Nels Peterson is building a fine residence on Oak Ave. It will be a beauty when completed.

A crowd of Fisherites are going to Winnipeg the 14th to attend the Industrial Exposition.

Merrill Tofte & Co. are having an addition built to their store, which will give them lots of room to display their goods.

The picnic given by the German Lutheran church Sunday afternoon was well attended, and they all report a good time.

J. M. Bain's branches took a lively spin around town Saturday afternoon but they were stopped before much damage was done.

Mrs. Gust Lewin, accompanied by her two sisters Misses Amy and Laura Thygerson went to Crookston Saturday to visit a few days.

GRAND FORKS.

Carnival is the talk.

Plenty of warm weather.

The council met Tuesday night.

The storm did very little damage here.

Chas. Ekens came in from Bismark Sunday.

F. A. Kelly, of Lakota, spent Sunday in the city.

The July term of district court began Tuesday.

E. C. Cooper arrived home from his eastern trip Saturday.

Eastman Burrows returned last week from Cornell college.

Miss Virginia Anderson is visiting friends in Crookston.

Mrs. Geo. A. Bangs who has been quite sick is much improved.

Mrs. W. J. McFetridge of Merrimon Park, St Paul, is a guest of Mrs. H. A. Stone.

Frank Kent will occupy the rear of H. Bendtsen's office with his jewelry repair shop.

The K. P. band will escort the excursion crowd to Winnipeg on American day on N. P.

Ten members of the Gun Club will probably go to Winnipeg to take part in the tournament.

Miss Ella Wellness and her niece, Miss Marguerite Funk, of Crookston, are here for a week's visit.

J. H. Lombe will plan and execute the decorative work on the new addition to the Central school.

Sheriff Collins was called to Reynolds Monday to take charge of Mrs. Solberg who is supposed to be insane.

The Grand Forks "Kids" played ball with the Thompson nine Sunday defeating the latter by a score of 10 to 6.

On Monday Contractor McIlrath started the repairs on the Red Lake river bridge which makes that structure impassable.

Austin Olson, a well known character around the city, died Tuesday afternoon. Funeral took place on Saturday.

W. C. Shapleigh, of Lockport, N. Y. is in the city looking over the ground with the view of putting in a steam bottling plant.

While opening a window in the Central school Tuesday, Scott Cuttis broke a window light, cutting an ugly gash in his fingers.

Lam Gee, the Chinese merchant, is out hustling for twelve boys to take the part of Pilipinos on his float during the parade.

Miss Althea Cook, one of the Grand Forks popular school teachers left Monday morning for Chicago via Duluth and Lake route.

Clarence Hole returned from his Western trip Tuesday morning and left Wednesday morning for the North on another hunt.

Geo. F. W. Longfellow, of Eau Claire, Wis., will supply the Baptist pulpit during the absence of Pastor Mills, beginning next Sunday.

Manager Grillo, of the telephone company has completed the purchase of the Dennis Dargan property to be used for their new building.

The Grand Forks ball team will have their hands full this week. They play at Barron Wednesday and Thursday and Ardock Friday.

So far 120 boats have been secured for the carnival parade. The business men from both sides of the river are joining together and they intend to make this affair a grand success.

The most attractive production during the carnival will be the flower parade under the supervision of the ladies of this city. They have chosen as their flower queen Mrs. John Birkholz.

A number of Golf enthusiasts met at the residence of Burke Corbet Monday night and organized a golf club. Arrangements for links are being made and it is hoped they will be able to play in a short time.

Walter DuMolin, son of Rt. Rev. John DuMolin, bishop of Niagara, Canada, was the guest of Rev. Mr. Gesner at St. Paul rectory last week. Mr. DuMolin is on his way to Walhalla where he will have charge of St. Peters Episcopal mission.

The Boy choir of St. Paul's Episcopal church will have their picnic at Detroit Lake on the 24th. The N. P. will run a special train for their benefit. Tickets will be good until the 26th.

The remains of J. M. McMahon, arrived from Mayre, B. C. Monday, and after the services at St. Michael's church conducted by Rev. Father Conroy and assisted by Father Garrety and Connors, the remains were entered in the family lot at the cemetery.

In serving Platty's store from a load fire, Chief Ryan burned his mustache to such an extent that it was ruined. To show their appreciation of the same Mr. and Mrs. Platty presented Mr. Ryan with $200 to patch up the garment. Mrs. Platty giving $25 in behalf of the millinery department, and Mr. Platty the balance. By Chief Ryan's quick work the city was saved from a very bad fire.

Going Out of Business

The Fair Store

Will offer their entire Stock at cost, consisting of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Working and Dress Shirts, Pants and Overalls, Trunks and Valises, Ladies' Underwear, Corsets, Hosiery, Laces and Ribbons, Etc. Silverware, Pictures and Picture Frames, Albums, Dolls, Crockery, Tinware, Light Hardware, Notions, Etc.

This is a genuine closing out sale and those looking for bargains will do well to call early while the lines are complete. Everything at cost.

THE FAIR STORE,

Robert Street, Next to Anderson's Drug Store.

CROOKSTON, MINN.

ARE YOU A RENTER

A farmer's home on which you are able to borrow on long time, low rate, borrow's own time, easy repayment, no second look and future of crops

IF SO

the location in your localities is offered by the Canadian Government—every 160 acres of good farming land of 160 acres of the best land on the continent for grain raising and stock farming. No. 1 Hard Wheat is raised in Western Canada from 25 to 45 bushels to the acre. Settlers' rates, circulars, &c., concerning climate in the localities where the best, for information apply for to said, homestead, Ottawa, Canada, or to

FREE HOMESTEAD

BENJAMIN DAVIES,
Canadian Government agent,
Box 3 3rd St. St. Paul, Minn.

N. Campbell, Crookston Minn.
P. Johnson, Fosston, Minn.
W. V. Nugent, Villano, Minn., local agents.

Northern Pacific-Shasta.

Route gives you a chance to visit Yellowstone Park en route to the N. E. A. or the Pacific coast on the low rate tickets now on sale. Don't forget it. Visit your Northern Pacific ticket office and talk it over with the agent.

Education and Fine Scenery.

Go well together. Those going to the N. E. A. at Los Angeles will be better prepared for it by going via the Northern Pacific, Shasta route. Tickets good for stopovers. Ask on Northern Pacific ticket agents for information in detail.

Take Advantage.

Of low rates to N. E. A. at Los Angeles California via Northern Pacific, Shasta route, and make a trip to the coast. You can go pretty nearly anywhere you want to—don't have to go to Los Angeles. Ask any Northern Pacific agent to explain the combination.

The N. E. A. Low Rates.

Give you the opportunity of going through Montana, Idaho and Washington to North Pacific Coast and California via the Northern Pacific-Shasta route and returning via Colorado or Texas, or vice versa. Stopovers allowed—time limits reasonable. Go ask your Northern Pacific agent to explain the different combination rates and routes in effect.

Burn the Weeds.

A great many people pick weeds out of their fields and throw them into the roads. Is this a wise plan?

H. C. S.

If the weed seeds are old enough so the power of germination is developed it certainly is unwise. While there may not be a great many weeds scattered that way, there is certainly a danger that some seeds, may be carried by the wheels or the feet of the horse. The only safe way is to put the weeds into piles and burn them when they are dry.

What it will Cost to Pave the City's Streets.

To the Honorable City Council of the City of Crookston:

Gentlemen:—I herewith submit for your consideration the following which is my estimate of the cost of cedar block pavement, also wood and granite curbing:

LOCATION	Area in sq. Feet	Sq. Yards	Cost per Yard	Cost
Proportion Abutting upon Property.
Third st. from Main to Broadway	20636	1,747.22	$1.10	$1,921.44
Second st. from G.N.R. to Ash st	73650	8,182.22	1.10	8,999.44
Robert st. from "	73650	2,576.78		2,833.56
Main st. from Main "	73650	2,576.78		2,833.56
Main st. from Third to Fletcher	84850	8,500.11		6,000.00
Broadway from "	84850	8,500.11		6,000.00	$23,590.41
		23,083.10
Intersections of Streets and Alleys
Main and Third sts		647.11		$ 711.82
Main and Second sts		647.11		711.82
Alley e. side Main st. bet. Robt. and M.		48.89		54.76
Wells and Bolkcom sts		160.00		176.00
Alley e. side Main bet. Robt. and Fletch		49.75		54.76
Main and Fletcher		463.00		509.30	$ 2,593.30
		2,203.78
Broadway and Third		647.11		$ 711.82
Broadway and Second		647.11		711.82
Alley w. side Bridge y. bet 3d and Robt.		49.75		54.76
Broadway and Robert		160.00		176.00
Alley w. side Bridge y. bt. Robt. and Fl't		49.75		54.76
Broadway and Fletcher		463.00		509.30	$ 2,593.30
		2,203.78
Alley each side of 3rd st		124.44		$ 136.88
Alley n. side of 1st. Main and Broadway		90.22		99.24
Alley s. side Robt. east of railway		88.89		97.78
Alley each side of Fletcher		50.67		55.73	$ 389.63
		354.21			$30,948.01

The approximate number of lineal feet of curbing required is about 8432 feet of which the city proportion is about 4216 lineal feet.

ESTIMATED COST

8432 lineal ft of 10th inch pine curbing at 30c per ft	$ 2531 60
" " " 8436 " " " 35c " "	2950 75
" " " 8436 " granite " 31 51 03 " "	8695 09
All of the above curbing to be dressed on top and front face and to be laid in place with 3 inch tile drain
Total cost of paving and pine curbing complete is	93,400 32
" " " " " granite " "	93,744 28
" " " " granite " "	93,944 22
THE CITY PROPORTION IS
Total cost of paving and pine curbing complete is	7,374 31
" " " " "	7,408 41
" " " granite " "	10,906 36
Cost per foot of 21 ft front on 60 ft st	93 74 84
Paving with pine curbing 8th st	70 05
" " " 9th st	99 30
" " granite " st	101 80

Yours Respectfully,
O. L. HAVERY

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

—Fred Hall is at home for a few days.

—D. McMillan, of Beltrami, was in Crookston Tuesday.

—Miss T. F. Harris from Southern California, is visiting with Mrs. A. C. Wilkinson.

—The Thief River Falls Lumber Co. have recently bought $3,000 worth of pine land.

—The tennis grounds are so far completed that it is expected play will begin next week.

—Mrs. G. W. Lewis and granddaughter Miss Julia, are visiting relatives at St. Paul.

—Little Oliver Christianson fell out of a rig Monday and broke his left arm in two places.

—Boyd Monroe will have charge of all matters pertaining to the applications for positions as letter carriers.

—The two prisoners, Wood and Reeves, who were in the city jail yesterday, have been committed to Fergus Falls.

—Mrs. A. R. Fuller, and her mother, Mrs. Fenton, Miss Nora Fuller and her cousin Clyde Fenton left for Mapleluke yesterday morning.

—Frank A. Weld, president of the Moorhead Normal School, will lecture tonight at the Baptist church on this city upon Aaron Burr. The lecture will be free.

—The mayor of the city has decided that hereafter patent medicine men and fakirs must, before vending their wares on the streets, procure a license from the city council.

—The receipts at the Crookston postoffice for the fiscal year which closed June 30 were $4,000 more than for the fiscal year previous. Verily Crookston business is prosperous.

—Edward Miller, of Thief River Falls, was lodged in the county jail on Monday, where he will remain for thirty days. His offense was the purloining of some clothing.

—Chief Gonyea's jail at the City Hall appeared more like a lunatic asylum yesterday than anything else. A man by the name of Reeves who was in delirium tremens was imprisoned and Al Wood from Solway, the man who did the forging was there too. Night and day were made hideous by their loud howlings.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Clerk of Court Lommen Assists to Make Happy Eleven Couples.

During the last twelve days permits to wed have been granted to Rudolph T. Rasmusson and Marie A. Huff, of Crookston, J. O. Johnson and Tillie Johnson, of Garden, Henry Henderson, of Halstad, and Mrs. M. E. Phillips, of San Francisco, Anton Kvistad and Ida Carolina Olson, of Fosston. Ole C. Olson and Sina Caroline Hanson of Fosston. Emil Bakken of Tilden and Carrie Nelson, of Mentor, Frank P. Bender and Rosey Wichtman of Polk county, I. C. Foshee and Sarah Lessor, of East Grand Forks. Herbert H. Hodgson, of Fisher, and Adelaide Marin, of Crookston. Wm. Rogers of Ada and Minnie Potter of St. Joseph, Missouri, Olaf P. Brunsberg and Knelne Rolen, of Fertile, and Dr. Adolph A. Just and Evelyn L. Hall.

Weddings.

TYTTLE-SHUE

At Grand Forks on Thursday, July 6, Miss Jennie Milne, a sister of Mrs. Harry Finch, of Crookston, was married to Mr. Harry Tuttle, the secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The bridal couple have gone to the Pacific coast on a wedding trip.

BAKKEN—NELSON

In Crookston on July 6, Emile Bakken and Carrie Nelson of Tilden were married by Judge McLean.

HODGES—POTTER.

On Tuesday afternoon at his office in the city hall Judge McLean married Wm. Rogers, of Ada, Norman county, to Miss Minnie Potter, of St. Joseph, Mo.

HODGSON—MARIN.

On Tuesday afternoon, July 11, at five o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents in this city, Miss Adelle Marin was married to Dr. H. H. Hodgson, of Fisher, Rev. H. M. Green performing the ceremony. The bridal couple left the same evening for Minneapolis to attend the marriage of Will Marin and Miss Poehler which took place yesterday. Dr. and Mrs. Hodgson will be at home in Fisher within a few days.

JUST-HALL

At the residence of the bride's mother in this city at 7 o'clock yesterday morning Miss Evelyn Hall was married to Dr. Adolph A. Just, Rev. H. F. Fisher performing the ceremony. Miss Huldah Olsen, of Fargo, was bridesmaid and Mr. S. A. Walker groomsman. After the ceremony which took place in the presence of a very few relatives and intimate friends, a most delicious wedding feast was spread before the guests. The bridal couple left on the nine o'clock train for Duluth. The couple will be extended to the Twin Cities and River Falls. Mrs. Dr. and Mrs. Just will be at home in Crookston after August 1.

Deaths.

STEVENS

A telegram was received yesterday morning in Crookston announcing the death of Mrs. Howard Stevens in Washington state. The cause of death was consumption. Mrs. Stevens, nee Mamie Ingram, was a daughter of M. G. Legueux of this city. She was 23 years old at the time of death. Four years ago she was married to Howard Stevens then a brakeman of the Great Northern. More recently they went west where Mr. Stevens was engaged in the mercantile business. The remains will be brought to Crookston for burial.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following are the real estate transfers for Polk county as furnished by Christianson & Strauber, abstractors, for the week ending July 11, 1899:

John Wilkey to J R Nisewall nd ½ sec 1-150-47 ..... $1000 00

James Ellington to James Cox lots 14 and 16 block 14 Tuttles addition to East Grand Forks 150 00

J A Hendricks and wife to R E Bailie part of block 7 Sunderold & Lohn's addition to Fosston 250 00

Clara A Gray to Oliver A Larriviere lot 14 block 2 Hurlbuts addition to Crookston 700 00

Robert Jarvis and Emma Jarvis to Thomas White lots 17, 18, 21, and 22 block 21 Tuttles addition to East Grand Forks lots 1 and 2 block 34 ..... 10000 00

C M Juvinadio O H Johnson et ux to sec 34-148-49 ..... 1500 00

Chas. G. Stark and wife to Jos Sateson et ux sec 3-148-51 ..... 1000 00

Ole Dalager and Dina Dalager and Andrew Bebeheim, agent, to Kristofer O. Dahmer w½ sw¼ (47), and e sec 28-147-47. 160 acres $1,400 00

Henry Simon to Bee Brothers, lot 12 block 2, Simon's original townsite of Nelsonville 75 00

Henry Simon to Chas T. Bee and Ole F Bye lot 10 blk 2 townsite of Nelsonville 85 00

Central Trust Co by G Sherman vice president and Geo Berrine Asst. Secy to Henry E Nyberg s½ nw¼, sw¼, of nw¼, sec 34-154-49 ..... 480 00

William H Bradley and wife to Nils R Engeland e½ of nw¼, lots 1 and 2 sec 30-154-47 ..... 3,400 00

Anne Sessonske and Ida Sessonske to Manasser Metcalf lot 10 blk 4 Bodines 1st Add H G. P 200 00

Central Trust Co of N Y by George Sherman V Pres. T L Grant Asst Secy to Addie L Marsh, Louisa M Gaylord, Harry J Marsh and Samuel A Marsh ne¼ of se¼, sec 13-151-49 ..... 280 00

Malcolm McKinnon to Albert Kaiser Tax ½ of ne¼, sec 25-149-49 ..... 100 00

N D Sillers Assn by Chas M Harrington V Pres and Hiram H Lamon Secy to Kenneth Clark in trustee lots 10, 11 and 12 block 5 Fishers Landing 5,000 00

Chas O Bowlus and Ella Bowlus to J. E Nash w½ of ne¼, nw¼, sd¼ sec 3-150-46 ..... 8,500 00

Grace H Wilmot and Ruth to William A. Robertson w½ sw¼ and e½ sec 9 and sec 4-150-46 ..... 7,000 00

J H Manette to Charles S Vine w½ of sec 28-150-46 ..... 160 00

John Peterson to Torbjara Olson e½ ne¼, and ne¼ of e½ sec 34 and ne¼ of sw¼, sec 35-150-47 ..... 200 00

E H Rollin and son to John Peterson same as above 400 00

James N Paine and wife to Stephen Galbraith lots 5 and 6 block 19 original Fertile 100 00

Thomas J and Margaret White to Robert Jarvis lots 14 and 5 block 33 Tuttls addition to East Grand Forks 1000 00

Ines and C T Lamman to Kristian S Nores lot 8 block 3 Mehrlohn 300 00

M E and Elizabeth Kibsch to Horace G Lo-ey lot 5 block 2 Lockhart and Barbaunis's original plat of Euclid 300 00

Anna and George Zengel to Robt Jarvis and Patrick V Murray lot 8 block 2 Prebbles addition to East Grand Forks 2,000 00

Barnard and Ella Nolden to George Nolden sw¼ of sw¼ and s½ of se¼, s½ sec 24-152-50 ..... 2200 00

Katie B Losey administratrix of Horace G Losey deceased to H C Misner lot 8 block 2 Euclid 65 00

John Risch and Emma Risch to Ole Cobkan Pos. sec 3, A R sec 3 and 4 block 7 Fletcher & Houston addition to Crookston 500 00

Ida Seesonske and Isaac Seesonske to Manasser Metcalf lot 5 block 4 Bodines 1st addition East Grand Forks. 700 00

Advertised Letters.

List of letters remaining unclaimed at the Crookston, Minn., postoffice for the week ending July 10, 1899:

Abell T W
Bolms Samuel
Burnard A E Prof
Carlson John
Gray Alex
Hess Joe
Larsen Frank
Matthews H W
Heiboldson Ole
Schuler Anton
Adams Minnie Miss
Bateman Carrie
Christenson Lauritz
Kelly Katie
Lourbow, O Bert
Miner Bert
Palmer Anna 2

Persons calling for the above are advertised.

ANDREW ERKEN,
Postmaster.

Notice of First Meeting of Creditors.

In the District Court of the United States for the district of Minnesota.

SIXTH DIVISION.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

In the matter of George H. Walker, bankrupt.

To the creditors of George H. Walker, of the city of Crookston, in the county of Polk and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 11th day of July, A. D. 1899, the said George H. Walker was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of his creditors will be held at the office of the Referee in Bankruptcy in the City of Crookston, in Polk County, Minnesota, on the 31st day of July, 1899, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

Dated at Crookston, Minn., July 11, 1899.

OLE J. VAULE,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

The Nickel Plate Road.

Will sell excursion tickets to Chautauqua Lake and return on July 28, at one fare for the round trip, with return limit of August 29, 1899, by depositing ticket at Chautauqua not later than July 31. Tickets good on any of our three daily trains. Cheap rates to other Eastern points. Van Buren St. Passenger Station, on the Loop. For further information, address the General Agent, 111 Adams St. Chicago.

Mortgage Sale.

(First publication June 29, 1899
Last publication, August 26, 1899.)

Notice of mortgage foreclosure by advertisement.

Default has been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage made and executed by Rodolph Hall of Crookston, Minn., on the 12th day of July, 1897, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. and recorded in Book 21 of mortgages, on page 32, whereby the said Rodolph Hall mortgaged and conveyed to The American Freehold Land Mortgage Company of London (Limited), of London, England, mortgagee, the certain tracts or parcels of real estate, situated in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:

The south half of the northeast quarter (se¼ of the ne¼) and the east half of the southeast quarter (e½ of the se¼), of section thirteen (13), township one hundred forty-one (141), range forty-three (43), containing one hundred sixty (160) acres, more or less, according to the United States Government Survey thereof, which said default has continued for more than sixty days next preceding the date hereof, and by reason of which default said power of sale has become operative.

And no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured thereby, or any part of the same, and there is now due and claimed to be due on said mortgage and the note secured thereby, at the date of this notice, the following sums, to-wit:

Now, Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale and the statute, said mortgage will be foreclosed and said premises sold at public sale to the highest bidder for cash, by the sheriff of said Polk County, or his deputy, on Saturday, the 12th day of August 1899, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston, Minnesota, to pay the debt secured by said mortgage, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and the costs and disbursements allowed by law.

Dated, St. Cloud, Minn., June 28th, 1899.

THE AMERICAN FREEHOLD LAND MORTGAGE COMPANY OF LONDON (Limited) of London, England.

Mortgagee.

GEO. ILBEY SOLOMS,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
St. Cloud, Minn.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO. Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Farm For Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—north west quarter of section 29, town 150, range 45, in the village of Gentilly, about 100 yards from cheese factory. No. 1 buildings, including good house, well finished, large barn for stock, granary holding 6,000 bushels, good well; creek that never goes dry, close to town; about four miles of fence on the farm. For further particulars, inquire of N. Brosseau, at Ottawa House, Crookston, Minn.

$-20

Order to Examine Accounts, Etc.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk.—ss.

In Probate Court, Special Term June 29, 1899.

In the matter of the estate of Neil Munn, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of Neil Munn, deceased, late of the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, having been granted to Daniel Hue and John Peterson.

It is ordered, that six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to file the same in the Probate Court of said County, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is further ordered, that the 30th day of December 1899

at 10 o'clock a. m. at a special term of said Probate Court, to be held at the Probate Office, in the City of Crookston in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place for hearing when the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, that notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by forthwith publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said County.

Dated at Crookston this 29th day of June, A. D. 1899.

By the Court,
A. G. HALLEN,
Judge of Probate.

JUNE A. B. DOD
Attorney for Estate.

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk.—ss.

The State of Minnesota, to C. F. Ellis, defendant:

You are hereby summoned to be a and appear before the undersigned, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for said County, in the township of Ada in the county of Norman and said State, in the City of Crookston, in said county, on the 25th day of July A. D. 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston in said county, then and there to answer unto Andrew Nelson in a certain action wherein the plaintiff claims the sum of fifty dollars and interest and one hundredth (50.01) Should you fail to appear at the time and place aforesaid, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced in said J. P. Court, for the amount of fifteen and sixty-one cents, (15.61) and costs.

Given under my hand this 10th day of June 1899.

JOHN McLEAN,
Justice of the Peace

Order For Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk.—ss.

In Probate Court, Special Term June 29, 1899

In the matter of the estate of Neil Munn, deceased.

It is ordered, that six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order, in which all persons having claims or demands against the said deceased are required to file the same in the Probate Court of said County, for examination and allowance, or be forever barred.

It is further ordered, that the 30th day of December 1899

at 10 o'clock a. m. at a special term of said Probate Court, to be held at the Probate Office, in the City of Crookston in said county, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place for hearing when the said Probate Court will examine and adjust said claims and demands.

And it is further ordered, that notice of such hearing be given to all creditors and persons interested in said estate by forthwith publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said County.

Dated at Crookston this 29th day of June, A. D. 1899.

By the Court,
A. G. HALLEN
Judge of Probate.

JUNE A. B. DOD
Attorney for Estate.

Boys' Linen Suits and Pants. Gent's, Ladies' and Children's Shoes at Reduced Prices.

ASK TO SEE THE REMNANTS.

.....NEW YORK STORE.....

A. CHABOT, Prop., Cor. Robert and Broadway.

New York Store

CORNER ROBERT and BROADWAY.

MID-SUMMER CLEARING SALE

has begun and will continue through next week. All Summer Goods and Novelties must be closed out to make room for our Fall Goods soon to arrive. So cut are the prices that in order to secure the best values it is essential that you should come early. Nothing reserved. Summer Goods must go. Following are a few of the many Bargains we offer:

Handsome Percales, Dimities, French and English Lawns, Organdies, in fact all Summer Goods have been placed on the center counter and will be sold at 25 per cent. off on every yard.

Percales in a hundred different patterns, Ginghams in as large an assortment. Scotch Fancies, Light and Dark Prints.

15 per cent. off on every yard.

Straw Hats in all leading shapes and colors. Ladies Hats in the Dewey and Olympia shapes. Children's Sailors, Crash Hats, Caps and Straws.

25 per cent. off.

Fancy parasols. In this assortment are a few slightly soiled ones which we will offer at 75 per cent less than the real value. The balance of the line will be sold for 25 and 50 per cent. less.

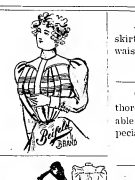
Special on all fancy colored and moreen linings and skirtings. 36-in fancy taffeta linings. Regular value 20c. Special price 10c per yard.



All ready-made garments such as wrappers, skirts, in crash or duck, fancy and plain waists, in light or dark.

25 per cent. off.

Our gent's furnishing department is thoroughly complete with up-to-date and desirable goods. One thing we call attention to especially, is the display of fancy shirts at 25 per cent. off.

Special prices on all leather, silk and metal belts. About 25 dozen to select from, all sizes.

The recent sales in our muslin underwear have certainly been more than expected, and to give the ladies who could not take advantage of the special prices, we continue to offer the same goods at still lower prices.

REMNANTS

Our special feature of the Mid Summer Clearing Sale is the great values offered in remnants. We must close out all short lengths of everything irrespective of the real value, so now is your opportunity for big bargains. In this line we list will be found Linings, Trimmings, Laces, Ribbons, Prints, Ginghams, Wool and Cotton Dress Goods, etc., etc.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

Polk County Journal,

BY N. S. GORDON.

Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

It is rumored that the time of the daily train which was put on between Crookston and Moorhead may be changed. Why this change should be made we do not see, except that Moorhead and Fargo ask want the train so arranged that the people in the towns along this line may do their buying at those two cities. Crookston is interested in this matter and steps ought to be taken so as to guard against anything being done which would be prejudicial to this city.

When Col. Henderson, who will be the next speaker of the National House of Representatives, was recently at Washington, he was besieged by politicians by the score, who wished to secure from him committee assignments and house patronage. It is an unfortunate state of affairs, but nevertheless a fact, that much of public merit-time is spent in scrambling for office. How much better it would be were the energy thus wasted expended in considering what was best for the National welfare!

The gigantic McIntyre milling trust has now in its capacious grasp many of the flour mills in Minneapolis. This state has an antitrust law and the legality of the milling combination will be tested in the courts. According to the Northwestern Miller the trust has in some way secured the support of some of the Twin City papers and these journals are now making favorable comment upon the action of the flour combine. Trusts kill competition and hence raise prices and, therefore, we say, down with them.

Cass Lake is to-day about the best advertised town in the state. This is due to the fact that notice was served by the government a short time ago that the residents of this burg, which is on the Indian reservation, would have to move within thirty days. Though locally these settlers have no right where they are, it seems evident that the towns near by, rivals of Cass Lake, are jealous of the latter's prosperity and have on this account, been instrumental in securing the order, which, if carried out will wipe Cass Lake off the map.

The appointment of the officers of the ten new regiments that are being enlisted for service in the Philippines is being severely attacked by the president himself. Positively no political appointments will be made, Mr. McKinley has seen the error of the ways of Secretary Alger in the Cuban campaign and will not permit such a state of affairs to exist again. In this matter the advice of Governor Roosevelt of New York has been sought by the President and this act on the part of McKinley will be approved by the people.

So far the indications are very clear that the democrats are doomed to much greater disappointment next year than they had four years ago. The Kentucky state democratic platform, framed two weeks ago, stood for Bryan and free silver and now comes Tammany cheering to the echo all references that were made to William Jennings and the Chicago platform by Ex-governor Hogg, of Texas, in an after-dinner speech that he made in New York at a Tammany Fourth of July celebration. Nothing would salt the republican party better than to have Bryan run on a free-silver plank.

We publish elsewhere an answer to a question with reference to how best to dispose of weeds and also a letter from an agriculturist in this section in which comment is made upon an article recently published in this paper. In this connection we desire to say that we shall be pleased to answer through the columns of the JOURNAL any question which may be propounded by our agricultural friends. We do not mean by this, to lay claim to omniscience in all matters pertaining to the farm, but questions sent to us will be forwarded to farm specialists and their answers will be published in the JOURNAL thus insuring a wide circulation to those answers.

Just what Mr. Alger of war department fame, thinks he is accomplishing nowadays it is hard to tell. He and Pingree of Michigan formed an alliance that they might land the United States senatorship for the former, but one day Pingree adversely criticises the administration, and the next day he says he is misquoted, and Alger, it now appears, has repudiated Pingree, and is sure of nothing, save that he won't resign his cabinet portfolio. He says he went put any money into the senatorial fight which makes it evident, if he does not change his mind, that he will probably withdraw from that contest. McKinley, we think, is making a serious mistake in retaining Alger in the cabinet.

JERRY J. writing from Washington to the Minneapolis Journal says that Judge Morris was not influenced by the rivalry of the towns out near Cass Lake, but was putting in his best licks for Cass Lake regardless of possible political consequences. This is the kind of a man to have at Washington, one who will work for what he considers is the interests of his constituents and for justice "regardless of possible political consequences." The people of the sixth district will do well to bear this in mind when they decide as to who will be their next congressman. J. Adam Bede who aspires to fill Judge Morris' place, is also a man of independent mind. It was he who resigned a well-paying federal office that he might be free to say what he wished. Verily the republican party has numberless able men from whom to select candidates for important offices.

USED A KNIFE.

Herman Lang Wounds Ole Anderson —Case Adjourned for a Week.

Monday afternoon in a senille which took place at the Germania hotel between Herman Lang and Ole Anderson, the former drew a knife and cut the latter just above the hip, the gash being more than two inches long.

It appears that Lang was lying out in the sun and the bartender at the Germania persuaded him to go into a shed in the rear of the hotel, which shed had been used by Anderson. When the latter came along and found Lang there, he at once tried to put him out and as Lang was somewhat under the influence of liquor, kicking and beating him, indeed Lang bears the marks of ill-usage. Having got Lang out Anderson again attacked him and it was then that Lang used the knife as he says, in self-defence. Lang was brought before Judge Holt on Tuesday, but as Anderson was unable to be present the case was adjourned for one week. Lang in the meantime will remain behind the bars.

MACCABEES MEET.

About 30 Stephenites Will be Made Members--Good time Expected.

Next Monday night, June 17, the Knights of Maccabees expect to have a big time in the lodge rooms here in Crookston. Quite a number of Queen City residents will be initiated, but the feature of the evening will be the fact that a class of about thirty will be flown from Stephen to learn the mysteries of this society and partake of their fellowship. A special car will be attached to the St. Vincent train for the accommodation of the Stephenites.

Get Ready to Laugh.

The Flints are coming. Who are the Flints? They are the world's seventeenth and the busiest physicians. The people who possess the blabest vocal powers, who carry their suggestions out in the most forms, and who manage to extract out of every situation more fun than will bust an average mamma week of steady laughter. They are the only ones on the stage who can begin with mirth and never relax the facial muscles of the audience for two solid hours. It simply ripples from one point to another during the entire evening. Their work is marvelous. Dr. Herbert L. Flint is assisted by the charming and only lady hypnotist, Gonee Marion Flint.

They are at Grand Opera House all week, commencing Monday, July 17. Prices 15-25-35 and 50 cents. Ladies free tickets will be issued for the opening night.

Is it Malaria or Alum?

Languor, loss of appetite, indigestion and often feverishness are the common symptoms of a physiological condition termed "malaria." All these symptoms may be and frequently are the effect of the use of alum baking powders in food making. There is no question about it a poisonous effect of alum upon the system. It obstructs digestion, prostrates the nerves, congulates and devitalizes the blood. All this has been made clear, thanks to physicians, boards of health and food commissions. So "highly injurious to the health of the community" does the eminent head of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Borker, consider the alum baking powders, that he says "their sale should be prohibited by law."

Under these circumstances it is worth the while of every housewife to consider the very little care that is necessary to keep so dangerous an element from the food of her family.

A pure cream of tartar baking powder, which is the only kind that should be used, ought to cost about forty-five to fifty cents a pound. Therefore, if you are paying much less, something is wrong; if you are paying twenty-five cents or less per pound, the powder is certainly made from alum.

Always bear these simple facts in mind when purchasing baking powder.—Popular Science Monthly.

Elsewhere.

The 13th regiment of Minnesota volunteers will be the next to sail from Manila for home.

Grand Forks is talking of having at their Summer Carnival the Cass Lake Indian base ball team.

Brigadier General, Joseph Wheeler has been ordered to report to General Otis for service in the Philippines.

Robt. Bonner, publisher of the New York Ledger and owner of the famous horses, died at New York last week.

There will be a tennis tournament of two days duration at the Summer Carnival in Grand Forks July 18 to 20.

Ten new regiments of volunteer infantry for service in the Philippines will be raised. The order has already been issued.

Bishop Newman of the Methodist Episcopal church is dead. He will be remembered as the pastor who remained many weeks with General Grant during the latter last illness.

The contract for the building of the new court house at Warren has been let to Anderson and Hunter of Grand Forks. The bids for the erecting of the jail will be received later.

The assessed value of the personal property in the town of King is $16,998. The horses 320, of which 272 are working horses, and the cattle including 348 cows, number 628 head.

Dr. Geo. E. LeLeau, formerly professor of Literature at the state University of Minnesota, has just resigned the chancellorship of the Nebraska University to accept the presidency of the state university of Iowa.

The Peace Conference at the Hague has decided that the matter of private property at sea in time of war will be dealt with at a special conference to be held hereafter. This was a distinct victory for the American delegate.

The state reformatory board have given it out that Supt. Houlton of the St. Cloud Reformatory is a capable efficient officer and that as long as he continues to attend to his duties in a capable efficient manner he will be retained.

The total amount of personal property of the town of Garden according to the assessment roll figures up to $25,579. The total number of horses over three years old 308; cows, 434; sheep 219; dogs 68; swine, 149; pianos, 2; organs, 8.

Lum Hing, a full fledged chinaman from Barnesville, Minn. was recently married at Milbanker Wis. to Miss Mary Jordahl a German girl from Des Moines Iowa. Now it he had only had a minister from Alaska perform the ceremony and witnesses from Manilla and Honolulu sign the marriage certificate he would have been all right.

The National party in Cuba have decided to oppose even the temporary withdrawal of General Maximo Gomez from the island. A commission has been appointed to visit all parts of Cuba and collect subscriptions for building Gomez a home and furnish him money enough for the rest of his life.

There was a hot time at Bemidji last Friday when warrants were sworn out for the arrest of men and firemen engaged in the work of laying watermains for the Waterous Engine Company of St. Paul. The town-site company objected to the laying of mains across their property but the workingmen force stole a march and worked at night.

The wedding of Philip Lavergne, of Duluth, and Mrs. Jessie Grainger, nee Miss Anna Cyr, took place Wednesday at St. Joseph's church in Red Lake Falls the Rev. Father Fayolle officiating. This was scene of love at first sight, as the contracting parties met for the first time Monday, although they had been known to each other several months through mutual friends and correspondence.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox says: "Cultivate unselfishness in a young girl's character, and teach her the meaning of these two great words, noblesse oblige. The girl who has lived only to please herself is not likely to develop into a wife to please her husband. The young woman who has ruled her home and her parents, as so many American girls do, with an imperious will, is very likely to make a mess of married life."

Freezing Weather in July.

Would cause great discomfort and loss, but fortunately it is seldom known. A vast amount of misery is caused at this season, however, by impoverished blood, poor appetite and general debility. These conditions may be remedied by enriching the blood and toning the stomach with Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine seems to put new life into the whole physical system, simply because of its wonderful power to purify, enrich and vitalize the blood, create an appetite and invigorate the digestive functions. We advise you to get a bottle and try it if you are not feeling just right. It will do you more good than a six weeks vacation. It is the best medicine money can buy.

Notes From Exchanges.

Farm Student's Review: If you have more skimmilk than the calves need, you can make no better use of it than to feed it to the young chicks. Nothing is better for them, provided it is fed sweet and the drinking vessels kept clean and sweet.

Alexandria Post News: The Minneapolis Journal's kid edition of Jerry J. says that Congressman Eddy is "jealous" of Tawney. Ye gods and small fishes! to think of a man even presuming to be jealous of Tawney. Why, Mr. Tawney is taking the Algebraic place during the summer and jealousy is out of the question.

Warren Register: Geo. A. Ralph was up from Crookston on Monday to survey and lay out an addition to the city just south of the site of the new court house. The land to be platted belongs to D. A. Whitney and is a portion of the nw1/ of the ne1/ of section 20, town 154, range 48. Only three blocks will be platted at present.

Warren Sheaf: W. H. Bradley has sold his farm in town of Brisbet to Nels Engelstad, who has recently come from Fertile. Some time ago Mr. Engelstad bought a quarter section of the Hardy farm, hence will have half a section to farm. Mr. Bradley, who is one of our pioneer settlers, will remove from here. His intention being to buy a stock farm near to the Twin cities. He and Mrs. Bradley left the evening of the Fourth to look at a farm near Anoka.

Le Sueur News: J. Adam Bedewants to go to congress as the official drawer of the congressman's salary from his district. Why not? He would ornament any seat in the house, with his mouth, and the demand for congressional records with Bede's witticisms would tax the eight hour limit placed on labor in the government print shop. The News favors Judam for congress. He would wake up some of the sleepy fossils representing the Agwinaldo sentiment.

St. Paul Dispatch: The chief game warden has at least "struck his gait." For a good while it was supposed he was suffering from a mild attack of locomotor ataxia, but when they began to jail his deputies for violation of the game and fish law, he came out of his trance in royal style and hurried off to Southern Minnesota to see that the deputy of his administration should not be imprisoned. The lawless may kill all the setting game birds in the state, but the authorities must keep their hands off the sacred persons of the game wardens.

Market Record: An opinion has been handed down by Chief Justice Start, of the supreme court, in the case of the State of Minnesota vs. Alfred J. Harry, of Litchfield, which means that Mr. Barry will have to serve a term of five years in the penitentiary at Stillwater for shipping what is known to the trade as "stored" wheat, or wheat which has been deposited by farmers in his elevator, and for which they had not been paid. The decision is a sweeping one and will do much to discourage this particular form of traffic in the property of other people.

Pioneer Press: The current treasury statement in regard to the cash holdings and the amount of money in circulation makes a showing that is worthy of special notice. Although there are many millions in the cash of the treasury and the people now aggregates more than $23 per capita of the population, and there is nearly $800,000,000 more money among the people at this time than a year ago. The gold movement the past few days is something phenomenal, showing a steady movement of the yellow metal to the treasury.

Bendrum News: During an altercation near the elevators in Perley on the Fourth between Ole Saabe, Harry Oseth and W. O. Garrison, Saabe was cut in the arms, and Oseth was stabbed in the left hip near the abdomen, inflicting a deep wound. Oseth was trying to get Saabe away from Garrison and says the first thing he knew he was cut. The affray happened about 7 o'clock in the evening. A little later on Saabe and Oseth were brought to Hendrum to have their wounds dressed. Oseth was taken to the Moffatt House, where Dr. Hansen attended to him. He bled profusely. After the doctor dressed Saabe's cuts, his relatives took him home.

Grand Forks Courier: Early this morning as Conductor Percy Baker was making his way to his train, a small boy came tearing down the street yelling "Morning paper! All about the big storm at Crookston! Several lives lost! The elephant cage turned over! Dueen McMillan's brave work in rescuing victims," etc, etc. Hurriedly digging up a nickle to obtain the last paper the boy had before the fellow who was calling from across the street could get it, Percy backed up against a neighboring lamp post and began to search for an account of of the catastrophe—but all in vain. After turning to the title page he saw in big letters, June 10, 1893.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Makes the food more delicious and wholesome

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Brainerd Dispatch: Judge Collins of the supreme court, is the strongest man yet mentioned for the republican gubernatorial nomination. The personal popularity of the gentleman is indicated by the fact that he has carried the state by the largest majority ever given to any candidate. It is sometime yet before the convention, but none too early to consider the fitness and strength of candidates. If Judge Collins decides to make the run he will have a large following.

Detroit Record: The speaker of the day E. O. Hagen, of Crookston, made a decided hit. Mr. Hagen is a young orator with more than ordinary ability. His address was eloquent, convincing and instructive. It was up to date in every particular and was enjoyed equally well by people of the different parties, it being non-partisan but patriotic. All those who had a chance to listen to Mr. Hagen' address would be pleased to have an opportunity to hear him again on some future occasion.

Norman County Index: One of the most interesting duties of the next Republican State convention will be the nomination of two railroad commissioners. The farmers are greatly interested in who shall fill these positions and next to Governor, these places are of most importance to the grain grower. Already we have two candidates in the field, presumably in addition to those now serving. The new candidates are Speaker Dare and Representative Jacobson, with several more to hear from.

Hallock News: At a special town meeting of the town of Hampden on Friday, that town voted to organize as a township graded school district. Under the law recently passed providing such organization that town can now secure a graded school for a part of the year whereby all the districts in the township can enjoy the benefit of a first class graded school. The citizens of Hampden are to be congratulated on their progressiveness along educational lines especially since the opposition to the movement only cast three votes out of 27.

Northfield News: "The Republicans will elect their candidate for governor next year by a rousing majority, assuming of course that they will not nominate a man who is tainted with Populism. Gov. Lind got every vote that was possible for him to get and had the stay-at-home Republicans performed as they should at the last election. All that is necessary is to get out the vote and there will be no question as to the result."

Preston Thirteen Towns: A petition for "right of way" in Preston to place telephone poles and wires upon the streets was presented at the meeting of the council last Monday evening and was granted. The company is composed of a quartette of Preston citizens, G. D. Dunlevy, Dr. M. McKinnon, John Lohn and P. Johnson, and they intend to organize a local telephone system here at an early date. A telephone exchange has of late years become a necessity in all towns and cities and Preston has reached the stage when a system of telephones is much needed.

Laverne Herald: The Herald believes that Gov. Lind did wrong in taking the action he did without submitting the law questions involved to to the attorney general and without consulting the members of the railroad commission who drafted the bill and were thoroughly familiar with its provisions, its purpose and its legal effect. At least, under the circumstances, the experience and advice of the railroad commission should not have been ignored. In view of all the facts there can be no possible doubt that the governor's failure to sign the bill was a serious mistake.

Le Sueur News: The attorney general of Minnesota is after the milling trust. Recently this gigantic corporation secured the consolidated mills of Minneapolis for $1,900,000. The antitrust law of the state will be tested in the courts and opportunity gives our people to see how the great northwest handles people's rights. It is a well known fact many of the small millers of the state wish the trust to prosper and its staunchest friends are found in the democratic ranks. This only proves men regardless of political affiliations, favor that which promotes their own interests, whether it be trusts, expansion or other obnoxious(?) things. It is well for all that business interests are diversified and from childhood up each is taught to think and act independently.

Teacher's Summer School.

Crookston, Minn., June 19, 1899.

Notice is hereby given that the Sixth Annual Session of the State Training School for teachers will be held in Crookston, beginning July 10th. Teachers' State examinations, under the new law, will be held at the close of the Training School, Aug. 7 and 8. All intending to teach the coming year, whose certificates expire this fall, must take this examination. This will be the only teachers' examination held in the county this fall.

I. I. KASN,
County Superintendent of Schools.
11-3t

For Sale.

Tamarack fence posts, 6 and 8 cents. VANCE & STONE.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.
HOMEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Office in McKinnon Block. Crookston, Minn

Jules Gendron.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Rooms 2-3-4 and 5 over Fontaine & Auclair's Office hours—8 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Office in Opera Block Crookston, Minn

Miller & Foote,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
Offices corner Broadway and Robert streets Crookston, Minn.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Services every morning at 10:30 o'clock. Evening service 7:30 o'clock. Holy Communion on the first Sunday of every month. Rev. Jas. Lloyd Breck, Rector.
HUGH M. COMES, Jr.

Agents Wanted.

The oldest and largest nurseries in the west. Every thing but the grape and orchard. Three lines of work and the year round. Pay weekly. Write for terms. THE NORTHERN NURSERY CO., Lake City, Minn. 9-14

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME CARD
OF TRAINS.
Crookston

SOUTH BOUND
No. 5 to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and Superior ..... Ar. 8:30 a.m. Dep'r 8:45 a.m.

NORTH BOUND
No. 1 to Grand Forks, Gr'd Forks, Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points ..... 6:30 a.m. 6:45 a.m.
No. 3 to Grand Forks, Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points ..... 2:30 p.m. 2:45 p.m.
C. A. SHURRAY, Agt. CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A. Crookston, Minn. St. Paul, Minn.

GREAT NORTHERN

ARRIVE DAILY—Except Sunday. LEAVE
6:30 a.m. from Grand Forks, North Dakota points, Winnipeg and Pacific coast points.
9:00 a.m. from Minneapolis, St. Paul and points East.
4:00 p.m. from Minneapolis, St. Paul and points East.
4:30 p.m. from Grand Forks, Winnipeg and Pacific coast points.
2:45 p.m. from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Superior.

BINDER TWINE
STANDARD, BLUE LABEL BRANDS
Guaranteed 500 feet to the pound. Prices will interest you. We sell Cheaper than Others. Order direct from this ad. and save money.
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

HIGH-GRADE
HAWTHORNE
$22.50 NET.

SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne. Cranks 6½ inches, drop forged, nickeled. Frame 21 inches, tangent center and lined sides. Fenders, full length, crown center and lined sides. Sprockets, 22 teeth. Chain, 1/2 inch pitch, 3/32 inch thick. Rear axle, 3/8 inch, ball bearings. Hubs, 36 holes, rear and front—coaster and brake, rear, forged in 3. Handle bars, 1 inch diameter, turned down ends. Saddle, Arnold, Schwinn & Wright double tube. Tool Bag and Tools. Pedals, rubber. Tires, 28 inches, Dunlop. Tread—Corrugated. Tubing—Seamless steel, extra heavy. Wheel Base—63½ inches. Wheels—28 inches. Weight—About 30 pounds.

15000 Sold in 1898

It is as good as any standard wheels. All modern improvements are introduced for one year. If not found as represented, return at our expense both ways, and you can have your money back on demand.

ASK US TO SEND YOU OUR FREE BICYCLE CATALOG

Send 15 cents for our 1,000 page catalogue. It lists everything used by mankind.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

CITY AND VICINIYT.

"If you toot your little toomer
And then by o-dde your horn
There's not a soul in ten short days
Will know that you were born.
The man who advertises
With a short and sudden jerk.
Is the man who blames the printer
Because it didn't work."

—Miss Oan Clements has been visiting friends at Argyle.

—Miss Lizzie Miller is visiting with friends in Grand Forks.

—C. K. Semling, of Halstad, was in the city last Saturday.

—Frank Sutter, of Buffington was at the county seat last Friday.

—L. C. Simms, of Red Lake Falls, spent last Thursday in the city.

—P. L. Tofte, of Fisher, was in Crookston last Thursday night.

—Mrs. Duntley has been entertaining Mrs. J. R. Walters, of Stephen.

—R. G. Woodham returned Saturday from a business trip to Chicago.

—Attorney A. C. Wilkinson went out to McIntosh to try a case last Monday.

—A. H. Williams, of Fosston, transacted business in Crookston Saturday.

—City Editor F. L. Durand, of the Times, spent Saturday and Sunday at Maple Lake.

—Miss Rai Wilkinson entertained a number of her friends at her home last Friday night.

—Rev. S. Currie, of Euclid, was in the City Sunday, returning home Monday morning.

—Mid-summer clearing sale is on at the New York store and will continue all next week.

—R. White, of Fisher, bought a valuable piece of horse flesh when he was in the city last Friday.

—Mrs. J. B. Morin, of Montreal, Canada, is visiting in this city with her sister Mrs. Fred Brosseau.

—Mrs. Malcolm McAskill and children left last Friday morning for a visit with friends in Manitoba.

—Geo. A. Ralph was called to Ada the first of the week to give some expert testimony in a case up before the court there.

—Dr. Spence left Monday night for Chicago. John Crouch Jr. will have charge of the dental rooms during Dr. Spence's absence.

—John Button, stenographer in Stenerson & Rowe's office was called to Grafton, N. D. Monday on account of the illness of his wife.

—The divorce case of Mary Cump vs Herman Cump was up before Judge Watts last Saturday. The suit on the plaintiff was granted.

—Dr. O. A. Williams, district secretary of the Minneapolis Baptist Home Mission, occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church last Sunday.

—Miss Bell, who was severely injured when the circus tent blew down last week, has so far recovered as to be able to be down at the story again.

—Mrs. A. L. Pickett and her son Harry from Devils Lake, N. D. are visiting with Mrs. George Winney and Miss Dravantz. Mrs. Pickett's sisters.

—George Young's team took a whirl around the streets last Saturday but their mad career was brought to an end by Captain Decker.

—Mrs. Fred Liebert, who lives west of the city fell backwards out of the carriage as she was driving home last week and was severely injured.

—Court opened at Ada on Monday. Judge Watts, Court Reporter Charley Lohn, Bailiff Stenerson and Judge Montague left for that town Sunday night.

—The last will and testament of H. J. Ephraim, of Chicago, was admitted to probate in this city last Saturday. Mr. Ephraim has relatives in this vicinity.

—A motion for a new trial in the Bates murder case was made before Judge Watts at Hallock last week. The motion was denied and the case will be appealed to the supreme court.

—Mrs. Max Eriesson and son, Lloyd, and Mrs. N. Hjulu and Misses. Adrienne and Bertha went to Maple Lake Saturday. They will remain there during most of the hot weather —The report of the United States final office in this city for the quarter ending June 30 shows 320 homestead entries, 82 final proofs, 4 final timber cultures, 49 cash entries. Total receipts 14,553.20

—A grip filled with all kinds of clothing was found Monday morning by the city police in a shed back of Fontaine & Anglin's. It is supposed that it was left here by some one who was at the circus.

—A farmers' meeting to discuss the matter of grass growing and stock raising was held at Halstad last Tuesday. Supt. T. A. Hovestad, of Crookston Experiment station, was present and gave an address.

—A. E. Brush and Percy P. Brush were in Crookston last Monday.

—A. A. Miller transacted legal business at McIntosh on Monday.

WANTED—A good horse at a reasonable price. Carman Big Store.

—See the ad of the New York store. Great clearing sale, this week and next.

—A. Bergh and D. McKinnon, of Fosston, spent Monday night at Crookston.

—Ringling' circus had to cut Fargo owing to the dunnage they sustained at this city.

T. C. Shapleigh, father of Mrs. C. F. Mix, celebrated his seventy fifth birthday last Friday.

—Mrs. J. Riggs and Miss Daisy Riggs, mother and sister of Prof. Riggs, are here from Illinois for an extended visit.

—A picnic to be given by the Presbyterian church of Key West, was scheduled for the grove of Jas. Lee Jr., yesterday.

—Mrs. F. L. Durand, Miss Lois and Dr. A. H. Barber, Mrs. Durand's brother, have been spending several days at Maple Lake.

—Miss Gertie Gleason has returned from Boston, were she has spent the past school year in attending the Conservatory of music.

—Officer Ernest Hauson has resigned his position on the police force and Aaron Eck, a former policeman, will take his place.

—Miss Flora Carpenter, who spent the past winter in Duluth, is with her sister Laura at McIntosh, visiting with Paul Carpenter.

—J. P. Johnson, of McIntosh, who had a leg broken in the circus accident last Wednesday, was taken home on Friday morning.

—Mrs. John Murphy and Mrs. Henry Ermit, of Thief River Falls, came up from below Tuesday morning and proceeded at once to their homes.

—Editor George, of Fertile, twirled the ball for the Fertile base ball players at St. Hilaire on the Fourth. The score stood 9 to 12 in favor of St. Hilaire.

—Hawkins & Olds rented a Cleveland bike last Saturday to a man who gave his name as Thompson. The renter was to take an hour's ride but he is not back yet.

—Mrs. G. S. Chesterman left last Friday morning for an extended visit at her father's home in Manitoba, where two of her boys have already been for several weeks.

—N. E. Simunson, Prof. of the Norwegian and Danish languages at the Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois, has been spending a few days in this city with the Rev. Mr. Hanson.

—Sam Rosenthal and his son D have gone to Mt. Clements, Mich., where the latter will take treatment for rheumatism from which he has been suffering for some time. They expect to be gone about a month.

—J. Low, who has just completed his second year in the dental department at the Ann Arbor University, Mich., is spending his vacation with his sister Miss Sue Low. A fellow student, Adam Bridge, came with him.

—V. C. Borton and wife and Alfred Wade, of Mentor, and Miss Clara Tompan and Joe Morris, of Grove Park were in the city Saturday as witnesses in the Camp divorce suit that was up before Judge Watts.

—Monday night at the gun club practice C. C. Hoch made 20 straight, one of the best records yet made by a Crookston shooter. James Montague of his present rate of improvement bids fair in a short time to rival Trent of Wadena.

—Mrs. W. G. Starkey, of Duluth, daughter of A. M. Childs, who has been visiting at her old home in this city for several weeks leaves for Duluth this week. She will be accompanied by her sister, Miss Ruby Childs, who will make an extended visit at the head of the lakes.

—Ed. Koenuel, who for several months past has kept a barber shop in the Palace Hotel, closed up his business here last Thursday evening and has entered into partnership with Ed. Deschenaux, of Ada. The two Eds. will open up tonsorial parlors in Hotel Ada at Ada.

—The members of the railroad and warehouse commission meet in Crookston today to consider the question of a "Y" being put in here so as to connect the two railroads and thus facilitate the transfer of goods at this point. The local shippers and business men generally desire the "Y."

—The name of Fred Shaw, agent for the New York Life insurance company, is inscribed on the roll of honor of that company as being one of the 300 agents who have done the most business during the month of June. When it is considered that this includes the work done in all parts of the United States and Canada, it will be seen that Mr. Shaw has done some tall hustling.

—S. C. Lytle was in from Eldred last Saturday.

—J. P. Foote went to Warren Tuesday morning.

—Robert Casaway, of Euclid, spent last Sunday in Crookston.

—C. A. Meyers is erecting a new store building in south Crookston.

—Wm. Lemmn, the timber cruiser, returned to the city Monday night.

—A. T. Campbon and J. F. Montgomery of Augus were in the city Monday.

—Miss Fillatrault has gone to Duluth for a visit with friends and relatives.

—P. D. Stewart and Jas. Cannings of Mallory were here last Monday night.

—C. C. Knappen and wife have gone back to their claim in the pine woods near Bemidji.

—Mrs. Fenton, of Austin, Minn., mother of Mrs. A. R. Fuller, is visiting with the latter.

—Dr. H. W. Smith was in the Twin Cities the first part of the week on professional business.

—Lewis Ellington has been at St. Paul where a State Bankers' Association has been formed.

—A full line of Furniture Hard Oil Coach and Varnishes at A. G Anderson and prices to suit.

—Attorney F. C. Masoer, of East Grand Forks, had legal business at the county seat last Monday.

—Bargains at the New York store. Summer goods to be sold at greatly reduced prices this week and next. See the ad.

—The county commissioners are in session. A full report of their proceedings will be published in the JOURNAL next week.

—The German Lutherans of this vicinity held a reunion and picnic last Sunday at the farm of Mike Klema west of this city.

—Misses. Annie McGuire, Sarah Ludbue and Ella Scott came up from Fertile last Monday to attend the Teachers Training school.

—Summer goods to be sold at greatly reduced prices at the New York store this week and next. See the advertisement in this paper.

—Attorney George Finlayson, of Crookston was last man at the marriage of Will Marin and Miss Poehler in Minneapolis yesterday.

—The city board of equalization, Aldermen McKinnon, Ellington and Childs, has been in session at the city for several days, going over the report of the city assessor.

—T. F. Poulet, who has been attending the Curtiss Business College in Minneapolis passed through Crookston yesterday morning en route to his home at Red Lake Falls.

—Tomorrow July 14, will be American Day at the Winnipeg exposition. An excursion train will be run from Crookston and many will avail themselves of this opportunity to take a cheap trip.

—A. K. Austin is laying the brick foundation for a two story frame residence which he will build on south Ash street just below the Norwegian Methodist church. The work on this new house will be pushed very rapidly.

—Deputy Sheriff Losey was elected Monday night as a delegate to represent the local lodge of Foresters at the high court which will be held in Duluth July 25. L. E. Goesmun, who is a member of the high court, will accompany Mr. Losey to Duluth.

—Miss Winifred Griffin, who for the past five years has taught in the central building, the first and second grades of the Crookston public schools, has resigned her position to accept a similar one in Great Falls, Montana. Miss Griffin's many friends among the pupils of the schools and the citizens of the city will regret that she will not be here next year.

—Capt. Decker, who about a year ago held the lucky ticket which secured for him the large building offered for sale by W. B. Chambers, who did considerable work in that line here, now offers to sell the paint ing in the same way as it was sold last year. Tickets costing from one cent to a dollar may be bought from the Captain. The money from collected will be sent to Mr. Chambers' stager, who it has been learned, lost everything in the New Richmond cyclone.

—Attorney Geo. A. Finlayson has secured rooms in the Peake block and hereafter may be consulted there on all matters pertaining to law. Mr. Finlayson was a student at the State University of Minnesota attending the academic and law departments. During the past year he has been in the law office of Steenerson & Rowe of this city, and a few weeks ago he was entered at the bar after passing a very creditable examination. Mr. Finlayson is well known hereabouts and will undoubtedly soon work up a good law practice. The JOURNAL wishes him all kinds of success.

—Wm. Rodgers, of Ada was in the city Tuesday.

—F. J. West of McIntosh spent Tuesday night in the city.

—Everett Southmayd of McIntosh was in the city yesterday.

—Surveyor Geo. A Ralph was at Mentor Tuesday on business.

—S. L. Collinsis arranging to build a handsome new brick livery.

—C. L. Dobner, of Thief River Falls, spent Monday in Crookston.

—Bear in mind that A. G. Andersen deals only in pure and reliable goods.

—Messrs. Hoch, Vannet and Vanetown have gone to the shoot at Whipkey.

—Anderson brothers are remodeling their butcher shop on Robert street.

—Dr. Dampier and wife returned yesterday morning from an extended wedding trip.

—Attorney H. W. Lee of Thief River Falls went to the Twin cities Tuesday night.

—Koeppe Bros. will erect a three story brick building upon their main street property.

—Mid-summer clearing sale at the New York store this week and next. Goods marked away down.

—The ladies of the Presbyterian church will hold an ice cream social at Mrs. Calnon's tomorrow night.

—Frank Howard, the Angus pedagogue, will spend the rest of the summer at his home in Crozet, Iowa.

—C. E. Misner returned yesterday morning from a six weeks vacation which he spent at the old home in Wisconsin.

—On Tuesday Judge Hagen appointed J. G. Patton as administrator in the estate of Louis Hewitt, of Louisville, Red Lake county.

—Mrs. John Warpfeld, of Warren, who has been visiting in this city with her sister Mrs. Frank Hamel returned home Monday morning.

—G. H. Walker, proprietor of the Fair store, has been adjudged bankrupt. The creditors will meet at Ole. J. Vaule's office, July 22 at 10 o'clock in the morning.

—There are still at the JOURNAL office previous lists for the Fortieth Annual Fair of the Minnesota State Agricultural society which will take place Sept. 4 to 9. Call and get one.

—Chas. Hunt and Thos. Jones of East Grand Forks, began last Sunday to serve out in the county jail a sentence of 15 days. They assaulted a man on the streets of East Grand Forks.

—Capt. Decker, who has received a first lieutenancy in the regular army, has been ordered to Tampa, Florida, where his regiment now is. He will leave tonight or tomorrow night.

—Passengers coming from Cass Lake report that soldiers from Detroit have been ordered to the former place, where they will remain until the question of treatment of white settlers is finally determined.

—C. A. Sharkey, the popular Northern Pacific agent in this city has gone east on a vacation of a month. Among other cities which he will visit before returning home will be New York, Boston and Chicago.

—On July 14 the Northern Pacific will run one of their popular excursions to Winnipeg, Manitoba. A magnificent exhibition will be held in that city at that time. For particulars read the announcement published elsewhere in the JOURNAL, and call on the local agent.

—The county board adjourned Tuesday night till next week Wednesday when they will meet to receive the report of Mr. Snow, the expert accountant, who has been examining the books of the county treasury as they were kept when Mr. Bromley was treasurer.

—F. R. Stevens, one of the prominent and prosperous farmers near Angus, is one of those who believes in keeping right up to date in matters agricultural. This fall he proposes to increase the number of stock on his farm with a view to making his farming more diversified. A good idea.

—Cheaper rates on the long distance phone went into effect yesterday. The rates to the Twin Cities now are 1 minute 60c, 2 minutes 85c, 3 minutes $1.10, to Grand Forks 3 minutes 15c, 5 minutes 25c and 5 cents for each additional minute, to Fargo, 1 minute 15c, 3 minutes 40 cents and 10 cents for each additional minute.

—An agent of one of the Insurance companies that Geo. C. Wilde of this city represents was here last week and was settling up accounts. Mr. Wilde insisted that the company should live up to the contract made with him which the agent refused to do. The latter then attempted to force Mr. Wilde to settle on a basis not comfortable with the contract but Judge Holt decided that there was no case against Mr. Wilde and accordingly dismissed the case.

Moved...

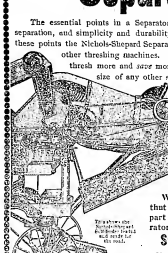
We are now in our new quarters on Broadway, where we have lots of room to accommodate our rushing trade. We have the largest stock of everything that goes to make up a first-class Grocery to be found in the Northwest. You must give us a chance to figure on your Harvest and Threshing Orders. No one can do better by you than we can.

..Slocum's Grocery..

CHASE BLOCK, BROADWAY.

The Nichols-Shepard Separator

The essential points in a Separator are capacity, thoroughness of separation, and simplicity and durability of construction. On each of these points the Nichols-Shepard Separator has great advantage over all other threshing machines. Any one of the nine sizes will thresh more and save more grain than the corresponding size of any other separator. The Nichols-Shepard Separator is as strongly, simply, yet perfectly made as a separator can be. The work of separation is done without the aid of pickers, raddles, forks, or other complicated parts that in other machines cause continual bother and expense by breaking or wearing out.



Write for large free catalogue that pictures and explains every part of the Nichols-Shepard Separator and the Nichols-Shepard

Straw-Burning Engine.

NICHOLS & SHEPARD CO., Battle Creek, Mich.

Branch House at Minneapolis, Minn., with full stock of machines and extras.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

CHESTER Q. ELLINGTON, President. WM. ANGLIN, Vice-President
J. H. WHEELER, Cashier. H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier.

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits.
Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

George B. Erdlee. A. J. Miller. Wm. Anglin. J. H. McKinnon. E. M. Webb. L. Fontaine
F. P. Foote. W. H. Cassle. J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers

SCANDIA-AMRERICAN BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON.....PRESIDENT. H. STENERSON.....VICE-PRESIDENT.
N. S. GERVAIS.....2d VICE-PRESIDENT. L. ELLINGTON.....CASHIER
A. P. HANSON, Asst. Cashier.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes lies right past your door, delivering twice each day. Call on our driver, or through telephone No. 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riverside at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

"DIAMOND HANDLEBARS."

BY PERCIE W. HART.

[Copyright, 1899, by the Author.]

It takes something more than mere reckless courage to bring a runaway team of horses to a full stop without calling in the assistance of surgeon and hospital ambulance to complete the incident, and when the before mentioned feat is performed by an individual mounted upon a bicycle the thing is only a mere trifle short of miraculous.

Riverside drive, New York city, was in its usual crowded afternoon condition. Broughams and hansoms, cycles and grocery wagons, livery stable buggies and children's velocipedes and all the rest of it were actively to see how close they could pack to one another without knocking any of the glitter off. Now and then they were more or less unsuccessful, but the quick traveling procession never halted appreciably in its course. Suddenly a hansom cab in the distance developed into a full fledged human roar of dismay, and the four wheeled vehicles drew well over to the curbs, hustling the cyclists unceremoniously upon the sidewalks. A somewhat narrow lane was thus formed in the center of the roadway and along it with the noisy accompaniment of four points of wildly galloping hoofs and the jangle of disheveled harness came a pair of maddened horses and what can only be compared to a flying streak of light. Just opposite to where I stood they all went into a wild, chaotic mass, with a rasping scrunch that bode ill for the asphalt. I closed my eyes momentarily. I always was overfond of horses. When I looked again, I beheld the two runaways standing meekly side by side, with the streak of light (now materialized into a bicycle policeman standing alongside of his wheel) holding their heads and tenderly smoothing their silky manes.

"IT WAS SCORCHING OF THE VERY SCORCHIEST SORT."

I made up my mind to know that man. I also determined to lose no time about beginning the acquaintance. I reckoned that it was absolutely impossible for him to repeat such a performance again and come out of it lively enough to stand any reasonable show of being placed upon the department's pension list. And yet, strange to say, he has accomplished the identical thing so many times since that I have long given over keeping any track of the number.

As our acquaintance developed through the various stages of short conversations and mild cigars up to long confidences and strong drinks I was the delighted listener to any number of little romances and tragedies in wheeling circles which had come under the keen eyed "bike cop's" personal observation. Among them was the one in which Miss Diamond Handlebars played the part of heroine.

It should be understood that upon Broadway or any other of the leading pedestrian thoroughfares of our city the faces and people are almost kaleidoscopic in their changes and individualism is rarely becomes prominent. But upon the cycling roads, such as Riverside drive or the Boulevard, a different order of things provides.

"We get to know all of them by sight at least," explained my friend the bike cop. "You see, they ride up and down regularly every fine day in the year and what with some peculiarities about their costume, faces or machines we soon have a nickname for each one. You ask any of the men in your squad if they can point out 'Mixed Pickles' nor 'Mad Gnarls' or 'Rosie Bloomers' and I'll wager they'll know who you are talking about.

"One day a summer or two ago I was standing on the curb waiting for the roundsman to come along when a most demure young lady stepped up to me and asked the way to a certain bicycle riding school. Now, of course, that was not any unusual event to be strongly impressed upon my memory, but for some reason or other the sound of her voice kept ringing in my ears and I was very nearly caught off post by my sergeant through following along after her in order to see that she found the school all right.

"About the same hour upon the two following days she came along the sidewalk of my beat and gave me a most charming little nod of recognition upon each occasion. The fourth time I met her she was riding a wheel just as easily and gracefully as if she had been an old hand at the game. It was an ordinary enough looking machine, a good one, of course, though, for her people were well fixed, and her riding suit was not anything very much calculated to burst a chappie's cardrum. But it all came in the next few months—first a silver plated bike and divided skirts, and then a gold mounted one, with fancy bloomers to match. That is about as far as most of them go, but it was only the beginning of the stretch for her. She must have laid awake nights thinking up new ideas in bicycle decoration, for scarcely a week went by but she would come out with some new and brilliant short fad or other. The third fellow was a regular learned chap, a professor in some college or other, so they said. He wore a pair of golf stockings that contained one more color than the rainbow, and we called him the 'Colored Supplement.' At first the race was pretty even for the lunch. You see, the 'Living Toothpick' rode with 'Diamond Handlebars' in the early mornings before he went to work. 'Ball Bearings' only came around in the afternoon and consequently did not know what was going on. The 'Colored Supplement' was the evening rider of the three and must certainly have thought he was the winning man. It used to beat all how that girl would ride out each of the units three in turn, not to speak of a couple of dozen extra ones that didn't count as regulars, and then turn up as fresh and smiling as ever for the next day's routine.

"Somehow or other it got about that they had all three proposed to her and that she had put them off and told them they were to have a definite answer upon the following Sunday morning. The party that told me about it had heard it from a girl chum of 'Diamond Handlebars,' and there was something or other said about a 'high old time.' Now, 'Diamond Handlebars' was so cheerful of bicycling that I made up my mind she would bring her favorite sport into the game in some fashion and the event proved that I was not mistaken in my wild guess. Just as I came on to my post at 6 o'clock in the morning of the Sunday in question who should I see but 'Diamond Handlebars,' the 'Living Toothpick,' 'Ball Bearings' and the 'Colored Supplement' spinning down the drive, all abreast and pedaling as if they were trying to break a world's record. It was scorching of the very scorchiest sort, and I started right in to have my share of the fun, for, although the drive is practically clear at that hour in the morning, I had my orders and felt bound to arrest the whole push. But, bless you, it was no common chase. The men never paid the slightest attention to me or my yells, and 'Diamond Handlebars' only kissed her hand as she turned in her saddle without slacking up the least mite and watched me pegging away after them. Something in her manner told me what was afoot—or perhaps in this case awheel would be better English. She was undoubtedly racing with them for a purpose. We all knew it positively a little later, but I felt certain about the matter even then. The one that could best her down the drive was to be her chosen husband.

"I laughed to myself at her little scheme. It was so romantic and all that sort of thing, and yet what a lead pipe cinch for her. There was not one of the bunch who could really beat her if she did not want him to. I made up my mind to be in the finish at any rate, and so when 'Ball Bearings' chain snapped in two and he stood on his head under one of the shade trees I kept right on the trail. A little farther on the 'Colored Supplement' stopped. He did it rather suddenly, too, for an ash can was in his way. To my surprise the 'Human Toothpick' kept well up with the girl. He had never been what you might call a fast rider, and the symmetry of his limbs gave poor promise of muscular development, but the length of reach perhaps made up for lack of power. At any rate, it was a close race, and I began to think that he might possibly march down the aisle with her. By this time I had got close up to them. I suppose that if I had made an extra effort I might have blocked the game, but the finish was so near that I hadn't the heart to interrupt. I saw 'Diamond Handlebars' face for an instant, and if ever a girl looked frightened she most certainly did. I suppose she thought that she could enjoy all the romance and fun of the thing and then beat them all three and so keep her promise and yet get out of marrying any one of them. But there was the 'Human Toothpick' keeping exactly even with her and a smile of anticipatory victory commencing to illumine his face.

"Within a few hundred feet of the finish I could see 'Diamond Handlebars' pull herself together for a great effort. She bent nearly double over the wheel and started in to pedaling even faster than she had been doing. The 'Human Toothpick' answered her spurt in great style. She could not beat him. An inch, a foot, a whole yard, he led her. Not more than 20 feet at most intervened between them and the finish line when a sidebar buggy turned sharp into the drive from a cross street. They both ran plump and fair into it, and their wheels were knocked into fragments. Strange to say, neither one of them was badly injured, but the mean thing about it was that she married the chap who was driving that buggy inside of three months, and in spite of her talk the only wheeling I have ever seen her do since that morning two years ago has been to push a baby carriage."

Annuities.

The annuity companies require no medical examinations and do not hesitate to say that it is unmaterial to them how soon the annuitant passes away. In Europe annuities are provided for younger ones, incontents and as marriage portions, but little has been done in that direction in this country.

"As to the revenue derived from money placed with annuity concerns," said an actuary, "that depends on the age of the annuitant. There are some well established rates based on 3½ per cent interest. They differ as to age, sex and the frequency of payments. Thus those who receive their proceeds annually receive more than the annuitants who draw their interest quarterly or half yearly.

"Money deposited for an annuitant 45 years old will yield 6 per cent. The rate increases to 8 per cent when the beneficiary buys at 55 years. At 65 the rate is equal to 12 per cent; at 75 years, 17 per cent, and at 85 years, 22 per cent."—New York Tribune.

GENERAL WOOD NOW THERE

Finds the Situation at Santiago More Serious Than Anticipated.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, July 11.—General Leonard Wood, the military governor, returned during the morning from the United States and immediately began vigorous action to stamp out the yellow fever. He finds the situation more serious than he had anticipated. The paymaster has been ordered to suspend all payments to the Cuban troops until the fever has been stamped out, the special object of the order being to prevent the soldiers from drinking during the epidemic.

NOW UNDER OUR FLAG.

Shipping of Porto Rico and the Philippines Given Its Protection.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The war department announced that the customs receipts at the port of Havana for June were $1,102,899. The total receipts for six months of 1899 are, to be exact, $6,146,839. The monthly average for six months is $987,806.

Burlington Route

Finest Train on Earth from

ST. PAUL

-AND-

Minneapolis

-TO-

CHICAGO

Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

Havana Customs for June.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The war department announced that the customs receipts at the port of Havana for June were $1,102,899. The total receipts for six months of 1899 are, to be exact, $6,146,839. The monthly average for six months is $987,806.

Chautauqua Lake And Return.

On July 28 the Nickel Plate Road will run an excursion to Chautauqua Lake at one fare for the round trip. Write to General Agent 111 Adams St., Chicago, for particulars.

United States Map. 15c.

A copy of our handsomemap, 48x36 inches, printed in four colors and showing latest changes, will be sent to any address on receipt of 15c. Stamps or coin, postal or express money order. We cannot use one-postage stamps. GEO. P. LYMAN, General Passenger Agent C., B. & N. R. R. St. Paul, Minn.

Preserves

—fruits, jellies, pickles or catsup are more easily, more quickly, more healthfully sealed with Refined Paraffine Wax than by any other method. Wax of proper grade will be found for sale by in every household. It is clean, odorless and spotless—just white and acid proof. Get a pound cake of it with a list of its many uses from your druggist or grocer.

Refined Paraffine Wax

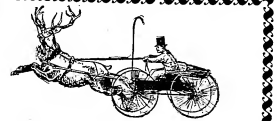
Refined Paraffine Wax 5c.

STANDARD OIL CO.



Deere Vehicles are All Right!

We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to unload.

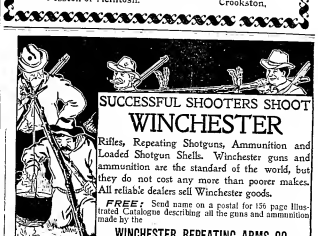
They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen.

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., LARSEN & CARPENTER.

Fosston or McIntosn. Crookston.



SUCCESSFUL SHOOTERS SHOOT

WINCHESTER

Rifles, Repeating Shotguns, Ammunition and Loaded Shotgun Shells. Winchester guns and ammunition are the standard of the world, but they do not cost any more than poorer makes.

All reliable dealers sell Winchester goods.

FREE: Send name on a postal for 156 page Illustrated Catalogue describing all the guns and ammunition made by the

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

American Day Excursion

TO WINNIPEG

THE DAY IS JULY 14th

SPECIAL TRAIN and Cheap Rates on the Northern Pacific.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

Will tell you all about it. Go to Winnipeg and see a fine Exhibition and

HAVE A GOOD TIME!

CHAS. S. FEE,

G. P. A., St. Paul, Minn.

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY

JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNER'S TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER XVII.

THIS IS A TERRIBLE TEN MINUTES.

Midnight in the cove and two weary men peering over the barricade into the gloom, so as to guard against surprise. Twenty-four hours ago Daly kept watch with me, sitting where Snowball to-night strove with sleep; now his body was lying within a few yards of me under the shiny sand. Still he was richer in knowledge than all the centuries had made any living philosopher, for he knew what lay beyond life's bourn. What was to become of me before 24 hours? I would either, like Daly, have solved the great mystery, or I might be—and it was my cherished hope—on my way to bring help and deliverance to the little camp.

It is indeed a merciful Providence that denies a man prescience in regard to his future.

Jack and Gordon slept in the cove. I had begged them to let me watch alone with one of the boys, and they had grunted my request. My idea was to have a "good square think." It might be my last night on earth, and I wanted to make the most of my time.

Half past 12, and the haze of the Southern Cross had described a half circle.

"It must be 2 o'clock, Dick. Why on earth didn't you call us at the right time?" It was Jack who spoke.

"Well, I didn't feel like sleeping and thought that I might just as well watch a little longer. Snowball's sound asleep there. I saw him nodding and told him he might drop off. I say, Jack, do you see that steel lightning away to the south? It's been pretty hot these last few minutes. We may expect a lively thunderstorm at any time. Good night, old man!" And I left the fireplace.

Sleep, like the angel of death, was asserting its sway over the suffering mortals in the cave and bringing a brief respite of relief to the suffering and weary at heart. The little fire flickered spasmodically, casting grim, misshapen, furtive shadows upon the roof and sides of the cavern. The wounded man stirred and muttered uneasily in his sleep. I entered noiselessly, lay down near the fire and slept.

* * * * * * *

I sprang to my feet to see a woman putting a fresh log on the fire until the yellow dawn light struggling into the cave. I could hear an organ maggie outside among the horses singing his beautiful song. And now I saw it was Norah Mackenzie who was attending to the fire.

"Good morning! I hope you've slept well?" she inquired of me cheerily.

I looked at her face. It seemed to have grown thinner and paler within the last 24 hours, and it was no wonder. I could see she had not slept, and remarked as much.

I had looked at her eyes secretly for the last time, but could not trust myself to speak, being afraid that they might guess my purpose, and hinder me carrying it out. I wanted all my nerve. I penciled a note and gave it to Snowball, having taken that child of the forest into my confidence, and told him that half an hour or so after my departure he must give that note to Jack. It was a very brief one, merely saying that I had gone for help. In case of my not returning within 24 hours they would understand something had happened.

Jack and Savile were still watching at the breastwork, and the others were in the cave seemingly asleep. I stepped into the crevasse, and Snowball followed. It was week or nothing now. There was no such thing as drawing back. I took off my boots, tied them round my neck and tightened up my belt round my waist. I looked up at the little strip of blue sky which showed between the great rugged walls of rock. They must have been at least 200 feet in height, and I confess for a minute experiencing something akin to terror, thinking of what the slightest mistake would mean in my ascent. It would mean a quick, but horrible death. I experienced an almost overmastering desire to look once more upon the woman who had been the cause of my staying in this gulf country and who was now lost to me forever, but the knowledge that it would only serve to unman me overcame the wish. Then, selecting what seemed a suitable place to begin the ascent, I inwardly breathed a short prayer.

"Sail on, go, Mista Parker," pleaded poor Snowball. "You tumble down cure. Black fellow no can climb um that one!"

But I had braced my hands behind me on the rocks, and with the toes of my feet planted against the opposite wall was already ascending the crevasse. For 30 or 40 feet I raised myself in this fashion, and then came to a little ledge. Snowball was lost sight of now, and the real dangers of the ascent had begun. I crawled up and along the narrow ledge, on which there was no room for turning, until it stopped abruptly, and the walls of the crevasse came together again. I stood up on the ledge, leaned over and my hands rested against the opposite wall, rested a foot on either wall, and drew my body up. In another instant I was stretched in midair above a horrible yawning abyss. Just for a second or two the strip of yellow sand far beneath gleamed and quivered, and the noise of the falling water inspired me with a sudden terror. Luckily, my body is proportionate—how they stood me in stead now—but given me a tarry and sailor back, so that the amateur experience of dizziness soon passed. I looked upward, and raised myself inch by inch and foot by foot. Were these rocks going to rise up on either side of me for ever and ever? My nerve was beginning to ebb by reason of the continuous strain upon them. If some sort of resting place did not soon present itself, it could not be possible for human endurance to hold out much longer. Then, horror of horrors, the walls of rock began to bear away from one another, and the strain upon me was more than mortal man could endure. It was just a toss up with me then. I must begin to contemplate my making some supreme effort or else drop to swift destruction, for I realized the impossibility of descending again—it would take more muscular effort to stay myself for even the time it had done to raise me so far height, and I was utterly exhausted.

"God help me!" I cried, and it was the sincerest prayer I ever breathed. Then I remember noticing such trivial things as the weight of the rust across the knee of my left trousers leg, that there was a small flower of a pale blue color a short distance ahead of me, and that there were a good many quartz pebbles studded through the rock. I also began to think that the world was very beautiful and life very sweet. I thought of home in the cove and of those who were dear to me on the other side of the world. Truly there is nothing selfish than thought. In that critical moment I lived a lifetime of normal existence. Moreover, my brain was a sensitized plate that received and recorded the most trivial details around me.

I looked upward and set my teeth, telling myself there must be some rest place within a foot or two, and there was—about a foot higher also—and my body was stretched as on a rack. Truly Providence helps those who help themselves. The blessed ledge was reached. I did not hesitate one single instant, but lurched myself on to it with what little strength I had left. I clung to and rolled on to it, then lay on my back for a few moments to rest and regain the use of my limbs. It was as if some one had suddenly snatched me from the jaws of death. But was the danger over yet? Apprehensively I looked around. The face of the cliff was ragged but retreating, and was covered with dense, creeping plants. Compared to that which had just been accomplished, what remained to be done seemed mere child's play. I rose from my recumbent position on the ledge and began to ascend again. It was now comparatively easy work. In places I scrambled up without any trouble or raised myself by the tryliks vines that grew against the rocks. And then at last I stood on the summit, where one of the most wonderful panoramas that ever the eye of man looked upon was stretched out before me.

I had breezed my hands behind me on the rocks.

I took the rocket handkerchief from off my neck, and putting a stone in it sent it flying down in the direction of the crevasse. It was to be a signal to Snowball that I had made the ascent safely and the coast was clear.

The sun had come out strong and the heat was oppressive. I took a southeasterly course. It was comparatively easy traveling, so that my progress was considerable. Still, I noticed that the sky looked threatening away to the south and feared a thunderstorm, as it must necessarily mean delay. I felt as if a new lease of life had been granted me. My spirits rose, and I went almost merrily along. I must have traveled for at least a couple of hours when suddenly there came a check. I had come to a little ironstone ridge, and necessitating to have a look around I saw something that almost ran straw back to terror and instinctively took for a hiding place.

It was a little above where the river entered the amphitheatre-like valley, overlooking a narrow gorge, and there, all along the brink, were a great number of savages. There might have been a hundred or more, and they appeared as if waiting patiently for something that was to pass through it underneath them. The situation flashed upon me in a second. The squatter's party had been seen coming, and they were lying in wait to effect a surprise. But the savages had reckoned without their host.

There was an ominous blackness now away to the south and at intervals a subdued rumbling in the air. The first of the great thunderstorms had been due in that part of the country.

My pace was quickened still as but it broke into run. I knew that the blacks must have been told by some signal fire that the squatter was coming, which doubtless had caused them to take up their present position.

It was midday. The heat was intense. The air was stiffling, but I hurried on. One of my boots had given way and I was vaguely conscious of the fact that the foot was chafed and bleeding. But still, after all, that was a minor consideration. I was hungry and had fiend with anxiety and fatigue, but there was still some work left in the human machine.

Away to the south the heavens had become inky black. At last I stood on the edge of a gully which led right down to the valley through which flowed the creek, and there I saw on the opposite bank a sight that made my heart throb wildly. It was that of several horsemen with a mob of pack horses. I shouted aloud in my joy, for it meant deliverance to those in the cove.

There was an ominous murmur in the air, and dust grim, all enveloping, inky cloud traveled up swiftly from the north. There was something sinister and portentous in a suggestion of suppressed force and fury in the way it came rushing on that made one think of some horrible nameless thing conserving its strength with evil intent. Though all around was peaceful and the sun shone fiercely down on the opposite bank a sight that made my heart throb wildly. It was that of several horsemen with a mob of pack horses. I shouted aloud in my joy, for it meant deliverance to those in the cove.

There was an ominous murmur in the air, and dust grim, all enveloping, inky cloud traveled up swiftly from the north. There was something sinister and portentous in a suggestion of suppressed force and fury in the way it came rushing on that made one think of some horrible nameless thing conserving its strength with evil intent. Though all around was peaceful and the sun shone fiercely down on the valley with appalling swiftness crashed and plowed its way through the forest, catching up debris and dust, shooting them high into the heavens in tortured spouts, sending the limbs of trees asunder and prostrating those giants themselves with a noise that rivaled the peals of the thunderstorm. That cloud was instinct with a will, unholy, lurid light. It glowed with blood red flashes of fire of every conceivable shape and size from the long, ragged, jagged rent to the startling snowflake flash. It breathed of unspeakable horrors. It was the living embodiment of the pent up fury of long encampments. It was the panoply of Jupiter's triumphal car. It was the realization of death, destruction and desolation. Only those who have seen a tropical thunderstorm can form any idea of what this one was like. Behind the whole party of horsemen stop, "round up" and seize their horses, tie them together and make for the shelter of the cliff. All was hurry and confusion.

Was I to miss them now that they were so near me—to let them drive past unseen in the darkness and fury of that storm and perhaps on to their fate, for they would have to pass through that narrow gorge, where they would be an easy prey to the savages on the rocks above?

I gathered myself together and dashed down the side of the ravine, faster, faster, faster than black cloud, like some angry monster, seemed to have swallowed me up and destroyed me utterly. I was conscious of having lost my hat, that my right boot had completely gone to pieces and that my foot was covered with blood. I shouted with all the strength of my lungs, and I might as well have shouted to the mythical man in the moon. A cold wind beat upon my face. I trigged on, and on long, but picked myself up again, hardly knowing how, and ran for dear life. There was a singing in my ears. The black cloud swallowed me up. The demon that lived in the whirlwind had me!

I suppose it was because there was no time to think that I came to make such a fatal mistake as trying to cross that little ironstone ridge behind which were the horsemen. For I was all too late. A prescience of some dread catastrophe flashed through my brain and a pang of agony through my heart. Then, with a noise as if the angry elements had combined with one grand effort to shake heaven and earth, a thunderbolt which the ironstone ridge had attracted broke over my head. There were one wild, brilliant flash that turned the darkness of night into the brightness of day, and then came the blackness. For a few moments I was conscious of the fact that some one was bending over me, and then I relapsed into 40 yards from where I stood, looking toward me, their features even recognizable in that awful brightness. The light dazzled—the horror of death was in my heart—something struck me, threw up my hands, and then I remember nothing more.

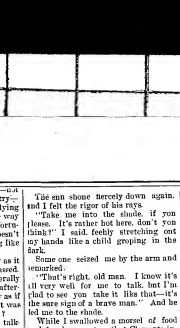
CHAPTER XVIII.

A LAND OF DARKNESS.

The first thing I remember on coming to myself again was listening to the swish of the rain—that sound which follows a tropical thunderstorm. On moving my limbs there was a vague consciousness of the fact that some one had wrapped me in heavy folds of canvas, probably a tent, and that there were several men standing around talking. But the darkness had not passed off, for they were not to be seen. I could not remember ever having experienced such darkness after a thunderstorm. A voice which sounded strange by familiar addressed me. It was that of Mackenzie, the squatter, and seemed somewhat unsteady as he spoke.

"Parker," he said, "you are better now, I think. What is it you have come to tell me? For mercy's sake try and recollect."

Then I told him as briefly and coherently as possible what had brought me there, adding:



I threw up my hands, and that dreadful hole burned into my brain.

travel yet. We must marry on it as not too late, and we'll come back for you. Don't you think you'd better stop till you can see? You'll miss the way and go over the cliff if you don't."

It is clear to me now that my brain must have been dulled after the shock I had been subjected to; otherwise I should have realized the true state of affairs sooner. What struck me as strange was that those around me were whispering in low, hurried, excited tones, as if they did not want me to hear. It was unsuspecting, incomprehensible—the whole thing was like some horrible nightmare.

"What's the matter with you?" I cried again. "Why doesn't some one speak? You can see by me, but you can't see to go now. What are you all whispering about?"

I had had an experience to live in one's memory forever.

The squatter took both my hands in his and the voices ceased. There was a silence that was more terrible than the awful darkness.

Some one stammered out:

"Great heavens, he must be"—

Then there was a pause, and then came a voice that shook: "Have courage, my boy. God never inflicted a man yet when he was in trouble."

I felt a warm glow steal all over me. I heard a cock crick, crick' of a grasshopper, that fanatical sun worshipper, and I knew that the sun was back in the heavens again—aye, high and bright in the blue heavens, but not for me—not for me.

"O God, have mercy upon me!" I cried in my agony, falling upon my knees.

For I knew now that he had laid his hand upon me—that I had been struck stone blind.

I could hear the "crick, crick, crick" of the grasshopper as it glorified in its existence, basking in the sun's hot rays. I could hear a million living things that had been for months parched and dead, like the grains of wheat in an Egyptian tomb, spring into a full and glorious resurrection under the influence of that reviving rain. Some light heart-ed bird broke into a glorious rhapsody of song. There was a whir and a murmur in the balmy air as nature awoke refreshed from her long winter's sleep and coaxed down the sides of the valley to make a freshet in the sadly parched creek. I knew that in obedience to God's immutable laws thousands of fairylike and beautiful tokens of his presence were springing into life to play their parts in the grand scheme of creation. There were a freshness and a purity pleasant smell in the air. There was a general rejoicing and thanksgiving of all living things in which I alone seemed to be left out. Blind! Blind! Blind!"

I lay on the ground where I had sunk down when the consciousness of my lost sight had flashed upon me and for awhile remained buried in my own thoughts. I was conscious that some one had placed a hat on my uncovered head and held one of my hands. That person, whoever he was, extended to me what then was the sincerest form of sympathy—an uninterrupted period of silence. Then somehow, as if some good spirit had come to my aid, I seemed to hear the notes and words of one of Handel's sublimest songs. "I know that my Redeemer liveth." "It is the will of God." I told myself. "I will be true to my better self now!"

Yile nim shone fiercely down again, and I felt the vigor of his rays.

"Take me into the shade, if you please. It's rather hot here. Don't you think?" I said, feebly stretching out my hands like a child groping in the dark.

Some one seized me by the arm and remarked:

"That's right, old man. I know it's ill very well for me to talk, but I'm glad to see you take it like that—it's the sure sign of a brave man." And he led me to the shade.

While I swallowed a morsel of food and drank some tea that Clements insisted on my taking, I learned that it was the survey party which accompanied the squatter. They had ran out of rations when defining the 138 degrees of east longitude, and had taken the opportunity of the squatter's pilotage to take their pack horses into the Macarthur fer fresh supplies. It was a fortuitous circumstance, as, perhaps, it may be was well to show at this stage of the story.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

SCHEME OUTLINED.

Plan for a Board of Arbitration Agreed Upon by the Peace Conference.

THE HAGUE, July 8.—American delegates to the peace conference are well pleased with the result of their labors in behalf of the formation of a permanent board of arbitration to pass upon disputes between nations without recourse to the arbitrament of arms. A plan for such a body has finally been agreed upon. The scheme is very exhaustive, containing over 50 clauses. The main provisions are as follows:

"With the object of preventing as far as possible recourse to force in international relations the signatory powers agree to use all endeavors to effect by pacific means a settlement of the differences which may arise among them.

"The signatory powers decide that in cases of serious difference or conflict they will, before appealing to arms, have recourse, so far as circumstances permit, to the good offices of mediation of one or several friendly powers.

May Serve as a Mediator.

"Independently of this, the signatory powers deem it useful that several of the powers not connected to the arbitration scheme shall on their own initiative offer, as far as circumstances permit, their good offices for mediation to the contending states. The right of offering their good offices belongs to powers not connected with the conflict.

"The part of mediator consists in reconciling conflicting claims and appeasing resentment which may have arisen between contending states.

"With the object of facilitating an immediate recourse to arbitration for international differences not settled by diplomatic means, the signatory powers undertake to organize a permanent court of arbitration accessible at all times.

"Good offices and mediation have the exclusive character of counsel and are devoid of obligatory force."

LATE MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Minn., July 12.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard 72c; No. 1 Northern, 71½c; No. 2 Northern, 69½c; No. 3, 65½c. To Arrive—No 1 hard, 72½c; No. 1 Northern, 72¼c, July, 72½c; September, 73½c.

Minneapolis Wheat.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 12.

WHEAT—In Store No. 1 Northern, 70¾c September, 69¾c; December, 70¾c. On Track—No. 1 hard, 72c; No. 1 Northern, 70¾c; No. 2 Northern, 69¾c.

Sioux City Live Stock.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 12.

HOGS—Market 5@10c higher. Range of prices, $3.87½@4.00.

CATTLE—Market steady to strong.

Sales ranged at $4.35@4.40 for beeves; $2.00@4.00 for cows; $3.00@4.00 for stockers and feeders; $3.50@4.50 for calves and yearlings.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, July 12.

HOGS—Market is active and 5@10c higher; quality fair to medium. Range of prices $3.95@4.00.

CATTLE—Butcher cattle steady and 10@15c higher. Stockers in good demand.

Sales ranged at $3.30@3.55 for cows; $3.50@4.00 for steers; $3.10@4.75 for bulls; $4.00@4.25 for calves; $4.00@4.30 for stockers and feeders; $3.25@3.80 for heifers.

SHEEP—Market very dull. Nothing doing in sheep and lambs wanted; prices 75c lower than a week ago.

Sales ranged at $4.00@4.25 for sheep, $5.10 for lambs.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, July 12.

HOGS—Market fairly active 5@10c higher. All selling.

Sales ranged at $4.10@4.25 for mixed and butchers, $4.22½@4.27½ for good heavy, $4.05@4.15 for rough heavy, $4.05@4.20 for light.

CATTLE—Market weak.

Sales ranged at $4.00@5.25 for beeves; $2.00@4.60 for cows and heifers, $4.00@5.10 for Texas steers, $3.10@4.85 for stockers and feeders.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Sales ranged at $4.50@5.40 for sheep, $4.25@5.70 for lambs.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, July 12.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT July, 71½c; September 72c, December, 74¾@74½c. May 77½c.

CORN—July, 40½@40¾c September 38¾c December, 32½@32¾c. May, 34½c.

OATS—July, 24½c; September, 24¼c; cash 24½c; December, 26½c.

PORK—July, $9.75. September, $9.97½. LARD—July, $5.07½. September, $5.22½.

RIBS—July, $4.90. September, $5.05.

BUTTER—Creameries, 13½@18c, dairies 11@15½c.

EGGS—Fresh, 12½c.

Crookston Market.

The following is the price of wheat quoted in the local market this morning:

No. 1 hard	68c
No. 1 northern	62c
No. 2 northern	58c

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, July 6

The International Council of Women has adjourned.

The Yale-Harvard athletic team has started for England.

The proposed strike at Homestead has been abandoned for the present.

Perry W. Palmer of Evanston, Ills., a real estate dealer and member of the Union League club, has committed suicide.

Adjutant General Corbin says the Thirteenth Minnesota will sail for home this month, probably about the 25th.

At Tip Top, W. Va., an engine exploded, killing Engineer J. D. McColgan, Fireman E. W. Albert and Brakeman Oscar J. Owens.

Pleas Wynn and Catlett Tipton, whitecappers, were hung at Sevierville, Tenn., for the murder of old man Whaley and his wife over a year ago.

Friday, July 7.

Robert Bonner, the New York publisher, is dead.

General Joseph Wheeler has been assigned to duty in the Philippines.

An attempt was made to assassinate ex-King Milan of Servia, who was arrested.

Chicago packers have received an order for 125,000 pounds of canned roast beef for the army.

The Evangelical Lutheran college of the Middle West has been finally located at Le Mars, Ia.

Philadelphia doctors have discovered that excessive bicycle riding causes Bright's disease.

The secretary of the interior has decided not to suspend or modify his order that all whites must vacate the Leech Lake Indian reservation in 30 days.

Saturday, July 8.

Mrs. May Wright Sewall has been elected president of the Women's international congress.

In an attempt to save her child from death Mrs. Frank Lansman was fatally injured by an Illinois Central train at Chicago.

The Canadian eight was defeated by the London Rowing club crew in the second heat for the Grand Challenge cup at Henley.

The civil service commission in a letter to the secretary of the treasury, claims that deputy United States marshals have been appointed illegally.

The war department has been advised of the death at Santiago de Cuba of Lieutenant McLaughlin, volunteer signal corps. Lieutenant McLaughlin was a victim of yellow fever.

It is stated that Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay will form an alliance for protection against any foreign intervention in that part of South America.

Monday, July 10.

Herbert M. Harriman won the amateur golf championship.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Mormon President Cannon on a charge of polygamy.

P. D. Boxhan, a philanthropist and millionaire, is dead at Orange, N. J. He accumulated most of his wealth in mining in Montana.

The sale of the Wisconsin Central railway has been completed and new officers elected. General Manager Whitcomb becoming president.

The insular commission has decided that the islands acquired as a result of the war with Spain are not a part of the territory of the United States.

Colonel A. T. Britton, first vice president of the American Security and Trust company and widely known in financial circles all over the country, is dead.

The senate finance committee is reported to have agreed upon legislation to convert greenback and treasury notes into gold certificates and get rid of the "endless chain."

Tuesday, July 11.

A valuable copper strike is reported on property in the Parry sound district of Canada owned by St. Paul men.

An unsuccessful attempt was made at the St. Cloud land office to file on the Cass Lake townsite under modern scrip.

The property of the New Orleans Cypress company, owned principally by the Giles estate, Wisconsin, has been sold.

The French government will prosecute the cabinet ministers under whose orders Dreyfus was tortured at Devil's island.

The Atlantic coast steamer Portia was wrecked off the Nova Scotia coast. All on board, numbering over 100, were landed safely.

The government crop report shows the conditions of all grains to be lower, except spring wheat, which is higher than last month.

A special train carrying teachers to the National Educational association convention was wrecked in California and two ladies were killed and thirteen other passengers injured.

Wednesday, July 12

Jules Phillipe Grevy, life senator and former governor general of Algeria, is dead at Paris.

The sixth triennial convention of the National Association of the Deaf is in session at St. Paul.

The resignation of First Lieutenant Edward E. Hartwick, Ninth cavalry, has been accepted by the president.

The insular government will prose cute the cabinet minister under whose orders Dreyfus was tortured at Devils island.

John Sherman's condition is improved. He takes a ride daily. Since the illness of three weeks ago he has rapidly improved.

The cruiser Raleigh, which was with Admiral Dewey's fleet in the battle of Manilla bay, is to undergo extensive alterations involving an outlay of about $345,000.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

NO DEFINITE RESULT

NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN PROMINENT FILIPINO OFFICIALS

And Americans Stopped Short of Definite Conclusion—Successful Outcome Would Have Great Moral Effect—Soldiers Are Suffering Great Discomforts From the Weather—Compelled to Sleep With Several Feet of Water Under Their Bunks.

MANILA, July 3, via Hong Kong, July 10.—Friendly Filipinos in Manila have been the medium of communication between the American authorities and the military leaders of the insurrection in Cavite province which for some time promised to result in bringing over a prominent general and several hundred of his followers with their arms. If the negotiations had succeeded the outcome would have had a great moral effect, for other defections doubtless would have followed. Were the general's name given it might lead in his case to a fate similar to that which has befallen other Filipinos suspected of friendliness toward the Americans. He had foreseen the failure of the insurrection and advised Aguinaldo to make terms, but it is understood that he has sent word to the Americans that, having sworn to support the insurrection, he must remain loyal to the end.

Similar negotiations are said to have been conducted with a member of the cabinet of the so-called Filipino government, who, himself, took the initiative. Some time ago money consideration figured in the discussions.

RAINING CONTINUALLY.

Troops Around Manila Suffering Great Discomfort.

MANILA, July 10.—It has been raining and storming almost constantly for two days and the country along the American south and bay lines is literally flooded. The soldiers are suffering great discomfort. The Thirteenth infantry regiment at Pasay is in the worst position, being practically surrounded by water. The bridges that were used for getting supplies have been washed away and some of the companies are now separated by streams six feet deep. In many cases the men are sleeping with three feet of water beneath their bunks, which are elevated on cracker boxes. The company cooks when preparing meals stand knee deep in water. Some of the roads leading to Pasay are simply impassable and the Rice Fields Are One Great Lake.

A high wind blew over several tents of the second reserve hospital. Manila bay is impossible of navigation by launches or canoes and no vessels are leaving the harbor.

The United States transport Centennial is ready to sail for San Francisco with discharged soldiers, but the latter have to stand around the water front all day drenched to the skin, waiting for a launch to take them to the steamer.

The Pasig river and all other streams are swollen and the city at low points is covered with water.

APPOINTED BY OTIS.

Northwestern Volunteers Who Will Stay in the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The president has confirmed and commissioned the officers recommended by General Otis for the Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh volunteer regiments now being organized in the Philippines. Among the appointees are the following Northwestern boys:

To be colonel, Lieutenant Colonel Robert B. Wallace, First Montana.

To be major, Lieutenant John Q. A. Braden, First South Dakota.

To be captains, Lieutenant Charles W. Monde, First Montana; Lieutenant Charles French, First Montana; Captain Harry A. Hegeman, First South Dakota; Captain Warren Ickes, Fifty-first Iowa; Second Lieutenant Carl L. Stone, Thirteenth Minnesota; Second Lieutenant James F. Croft, First Montana; Lieutenant William B. Hanna, First Montana.

To be first lieutenants, Lieutenant Will B. Pratt, Fifty-first Iowa; Second Lieutenant Fred S. Smith, First North Dakota; Second Lieutenant Ernest Morphy, First Montana.

TWO VETERAN REGIMENTS.

Otis Cables He Can Enlist About a Thousand Men.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—General Otis cables the following: "Two veteran regiments assented. Will enlist about 1,000. You can appoint 11 second lieutenants for first and nine for second regiment to recruit in the United States all other officers filled.

GENERAL LUNA'S SLAYERS.

Self-Defense the Grounds on Which They Are Acquitted.

MANILA, July 10.—The trial at Calumpan of the slayers of General Luna, the Filipino leader who was assassinated by the guard of Aguinaldo's residence, is ended. The accused were acquitted on the ground of self defense. The testimony showed there was a conspiracy upon the part of Luna and other officers to kill Aguinaldo, and make Luna dictator.

Luna's death seems to have strengthened Aguinaldo's leadership for the time. Luna's supporters are now outwardly loyal to Aguinaldo.

Dum Dum Bullets for South Africa.

LONDON, July 11.—The under secretary of state for the war office, George Wyndham, replying to a question of Mr. Michael Davitt, Irish Nationalist, in the house of commons, acknowledged that bullets similar to the dum dum bullets which were condemned at The Hague peace conference were being supplied to the British troops in South Africa. The statement was greeted with loud Irish cries of "Shame."

SEVEN NEW COLONELS.

President Names Commanding Officers of Volunteer Regiments.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The president has appointed the following colonels of the volunteer regiments:

Major James M. Bell, First cavalry; Captain James S. Pettit, First infantry; better known as colonel of the Fourth immunes; Captain Edward E. Harding, who was colonel of the Second New York volunteers in the war with Spain; Captain L. A. Craig, Sixth cavalry; Captain Luther R. Hare, Seventh cavalry; Major William A. Kobbe, Captain Cornelius Gardner, Nineteenth infantry.

The assignment of the volunteer colonels to regiments will be as follows: Twenty-sixth, Rice; Twenty-seventh, Bell; Twenty-eighth, Pettit; Twenty-ninth, Harding; Thirtieth, Gardner; Thirty-second, Craig; Thirty-third, Hare; Thirty-fifth, Kobbe.

The man designated for lieutenant colonel of the Thirty-fifth regiment will be chosen and rise to it in the Philippines when Colonel Kobbe will assume command.

Organization of Regiments.

The regiments will be organized according to the provisions of the act of March 2, 1899, and will consist of 80 officers and 1,399 men each. Among the districts for recruiting designated, regiments are the following:

Thirtieth regiment, Fort Sheridan, Ill.—Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Thirty-first regiment, Fort Thomas, Ky.—Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Thirty-second regiment, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.—Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory.

Thirty-third regiment, Fort Sam Houston, Tex.—State of Texas.

Thirty-fourth regiment, Fort Logan, Colo.—Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Arizona and New Mexico.

Thirty-fifth regiment, Vancouver Barracks, Wash.—California, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Alaska.

The term of service will be for the period ending June 30, 1901, and the enlistments may be made without restriction as to citizenship or educational qualifications.

AMID IMPRESSIVE SCENES.

St. Joseph Christian Endeavor Convention Brought to a Close.

DETROIT, Mich., July 11.—The 18th international convention of Christian Endeavorers closed amid scenes of impressive solemnity attending the utterances of "the last word" by the president and secretary in each of the great tents, respectively, following responses from each state and country represented, and last exhortations from Methodist Episcopal Bishop Vincent of Kansas and Evangelist Chapman of New York. According to Secretary Baer the attendance at this convention far exceeded that of any previous meeting of the society.

In response to the collegium sent by President Clarke after the Christian Endeavor peace conference on Sunday the following was received from Andrew D. White, president of the American peace commission:

"Clarke, President Christian Endeavor Meeting, Detroit: American commission to the peace conference send sincere thanks for message and congratulate you and all friends of peace for the great success achieved providing for a permanent tribunal of arbitration."

The introduction of missionaries by President Clarke was one of the features of the convention. Thirty of the workers in heathen fields spoke a sentence or two in the languages spoken in the scenes of their labors and retired.

WILL NOT DOWN.

Municipal Ownership of Detroit Street Railways Gets a New Start.

DETROIT, Mich., July 12.—Municipal ownership of Detroit street railways took a great fresh start last night in spite of the recent adverse decision of the Michigan supreme court annulling the appointment of the street railway commissioners and in spite of various other kinds of opposition. After about five hours of fervent argument and desperate filibustering the common council, by a vote of 10 to 14, passed the so-called security franchise ordinance. The ordinance prescribes the terms under which the street railways are to be operated by their present owners in the event of their reversion through the municipal corporation, organized by the late commissioners in behalf of the city, failing to meet the payments according to terms of purchase.

Governor Pingree Hopeful.

Mayor Maybury will veto the ordinance, but Governor Pingree and the other promoters of the municipal ownership plan appear to be fairly confident of securing the four more votes necessary to pass the ordinance over the mayor's veto. The veto will be presented next Tuesday night.

If the security ordinance finally passes a working ordinance under which the Detroit Municipal railway co. will operate will operate the roads will also be passed. In the event of passage of both ordinances the Municipal company will doubtless have to pass through litigation proceedings before it can have the city through corporation counsel Ira M. accomplished.

CO-OPERATIVE COLONY.

An Eight Thousand-Acre Tract Secured Near Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., July 10.—Plans have been formulated for a co-operative colony to be situated on Lake Erie about here and 3,000 acres of land are to be secured to be devoted to agricultural and manufacturing interests. The promoter of the scheme is Joseph A. Johnson of the state of Washington and is in has with him a number of local people who have ample means. Mr. Johnson has announced that it is the intention to build a city which will engage in a commercial trade, the profits of which are to be divided equally among the members of the colony.

AFTER GALLINGER

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION INVESTIGATE CHARGES.

Violation of the Federal Law During the Last Election Is Alleged — Chandler Gives Warning—Will Tell What He Knows Unless Interested Parties Testify—Accusations Made by a Former Governor of New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., July 12.—A big political sensation is promised here. Representatives of the United States civil service bureau began a sitting during the day for the purpose of investigating charges preferred against Senator Jacob H. Gallinger of Concord by Former Republican Governor Charles L. Busiel of Laconia, alleging violation of the civil service laws during the last campaign in this state. The specific charge is that Senator Gallinger, as chairman of the Republican state committee, distributed circulars appealing to Republican officeholders for contributions to the campaign funds.

Civil Service Commissioner J. V. Narlow and Mark S. Brewer are in charge of the investigation. Senator William E. Chandler was among those present, as a party interested, though whether as a prosecutor or defendant is somewhat uncertain in view of the charges and counter-charges made.

Few Witnesses on Hand.

As the commissioners have not authority to summon witnesses they could do no more than request the presence of those whom they desired to testify. The only witnesses at hand when the session opened were Postmaster Knox of Manchester, National Bank Examiner Carroll of Warner and T. Gilliford, who was assistant secretary of the Republican state committee during the campaign.

This investigation is held to allow the commissioners to examine the evidence and to decide whether it warrants the further prosecution of the case. If they decide it does the United States authorities of the department of justice will be called in.

The principal feature of the session was a long statement made by Senator Chandler, in which he gives the history of his connection with the case and announces that unless federal officials who were called upon to contribute come forward and tell their story he will do the talking.

THOUSANDS ARE PRESENT

Teachers' Convention Begins at Los Angeles, Cal.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—The first session of the National Educational association convention was called to order at 3 o'clock by Hon. T. J. Kirke, chairman of the local executive committee. The pavilion seats 5,000, but the audience numbered far in excess of that. Short addresses were made by Governor Henry T. Gage, State Superintendent of Public Instruction T. J. Kirke, Mayor Eaton and Superintendent of City Schools J. A. Foshay, and responses were made by N. C. Dougherty, superintendent of schools, Peoria, Ills.; Dr. Emerson E. White, Columbus, O., and J. H. Phillips, superintendent of schools, Birmingham, Ala.

The evening session was at first largely attended as had been the one in the afternoon. Dr. W. T. Harris, United States commissioner of education, delivered a most appropriate and delightfully interesting address on "An Educational Policy for Our New Possessions." Henry S. Townsend, inspector general of schools of Hawaii made a thoughtfully conceived address on the subject "The Educational Problem in Hawaii."

National Council Elects Officers.

At the closing session of the national council of education, Professor Nicholas Sullian of St. Louis was elected president for the following year; Professor Elmer Brown of California, vice president, and Miss Belle A. Dutton of Cleveland, O., was re-elected secretary.

The report of the relations of public libraries to public schools that has been prepared by a committee composed of J. C. Dana, A. Hutchins, C. A. McMurry, Sherman Williams and Miss M. Louise Jones, was presented and read.

The annual meeting of the board of directors of the National Educational association was called to order by President Lyle at noon, the following officers being present: First Vice President J. G. Greenwood, Kansas City; Treasurer I. C. Mc Neill, West Superior, Wis.; Chairman of the Board of Trustees A. M. Lune, Chicago.

THE JAMAICA TREATY.

Joseph Chamberlain Explains It to the House of Commons.

LONDON, July 11.—In the house of commons the secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, answering a question on the subject of the Jamaican situation, said a provisional treaty of reciprocity had been signed with the United States in behalf of Jamaica and certain others, he added, had not yet been received, but it was understood the general effect of the convention would be to admit to the United States being reduced on sugar, and certain rums and the Jamaican duties being reduced or established on various articles imported from the United States.

The convention, however gives no privileges or preferences to American products over British goods.

ORDERED TO SOUTH AFRICA

Five Batteries of Foot Artillery to Leave England.

LONDON, July 12.—The Seventy-third battery of artillery has been ordered to South Africa, making the fifth battery of field artillery now under orders for the Cape. All the gun carriages of these batteries are being painted to match the local colors.

Thirty machine guns were shipped to the Transvaal during the day.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

Minneapolis has a kidnapping sensation.

The postmaster at Baekus committed suicide after shooting and wounding his wife.

Deaf mutes are holding their annual national convention at St. Paul this week.

John Dowlan, for 40 years prominent in St. Paul businees circles, is dead, aged 70.

The state capitol commission has disposed of $150,000 of its 3 per cent certificates at home.

The St. Paul Rod and Gun club will hold its annual tournament July 14 and 15 at Rittsondale.

Judge Searle of St. Cloud denied the motion for a new trial for the Great Northern train robbers.

Charles R. Zechan, who robbed the German-American National bank of St. Paul, has asked for a pardon.

The Bell block at Hastings has been sold to Hastings lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W. and will be fitted up for a hall.

An order has been issued establishing a postoffice at Healy, Fillmore county, with Stephen Workman postmaster.

A national park or forestry reserve association will be formed in Chicago this month, the object being to preserve the 7,000,000 acres of Minnesota timber.

James McBrath, centurion of the Century Road club for Minnesota, has reduced the double century record by 4 minutes. He rode 203 miles over the St. Paul-Minnetonka course in 15 hours 12 minutes.

Franklin H. Griggs, second assistant corporation attorney of St. Paul, has been appointed judge advocate of the Fourth regiment, M. S. N. G., with the rank of first lieutenant, by Governor Lind.

A representative of A. A. White tendered scrip and money of the United States land office at St. Cloud for filing on entry of scrip on the Cass Lake townsite. Both were declined. The papers will be sent to Washington.

Jerry Sullivan of Winona disappeared from his home on July 4, leaving a wife and four children, and has not since been seen. Sullivan's family relations had always been pleasant and the people who know him cannot believe he has run away.

Secretary Hitchcock has announced finally that there will be neither suspension nor modification of the order of June 22, directing the removal of all trespassers or intruders on the lands of the Leech Lake Indian reservation in Minnesota, within 30 days therefrom.

During the third week in September St. Paul will be in the possession of the German Catholics. From Sept. 17 to 21 the German Catholic Central Society of America will hold its annual convention in that city. It is estimated that 10,000 to 15,000 visitors will be present.

Seven Minneapolitans who have taken a precautionary course of treatment at the Pasteur institute in Chicago have returned home. These people were bitten just a month ago. There was no certainty that the course was mad, but as a matter of common precaution it was decided to take the treatment.

The receivers of the Bank of Minnesota at St. Paul filed a report to the district court covering the period from May 2 to July 2, 90, asking for permission to declare another 3 per cent dividend. The dividend, if granted will make a total of 30 per cent that has been paid the creditors of the institution.

John McGrath, a paroled inmate of the St. Cloud reformatory, is being held for trial by the police on suspicion of being the man who sand-bagged and robbed a man by the name of Tom Moore at St. Cloud. The reformatory officials say that McGrath, whose time had nearly expired, has been missing for two days.

The amount of insurance written during the last year in Minnesota shows a gratifying increase over the preceding annual period. Insurance Commissioner O'Shaughnessy has assembled some figures which indicate that a great deal of building is going on and the volume of merchandise business in Minnesota has proportionately increased.

Mrs. William H. Jaird has presented to the Winona free public library a handsome statue, a copy in Carrara marble, of Canova's Hebe. It was purchased in Florence. William Lobbe, the noted art critic, ranks this statue "among the purest creations of female grace." The statue is of pure white marble, 10 feet high, including the pedestal, and weighs 1,800 pounds.

The state board of pardons has granted a pardon to James Long, sentenced for life from Traverse county, June 17, 1896, on a charge of murder. The pardon was granted subject to the approval of Attorney General Douglas, who is still at Buffalo, Minn., trying the case of the state against James Lawrence Smith, accused of murdering his father and stepmother. Long is dying of consumption.

Public Examiner E. M. Pope has taken charge of the Savings Bank of St. Paul, Sixth and Cedar streets, and has applied for a receiver. In a statement to the public General Pope states that careful examination of all the other banks in the city has been made and that and every one of them has been found to be in a perfectly solvent condition. The cause of the failure is stated to have been too large a load of real estate.

Big Blast Furnace for Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, July 12.—Work has been begun on a new blast furnace for the Cleveland rolling mills, which belong to the American Steel and Wire company. The furnace will have a capacity of 500 tons a day.

Farmers, Attention!

I have the Champion Dra v Cut Mower (something new) also the ever ready Jones Mower. Thomas and Plano Rakes, Disc and Acme Harrows, Newton and Stoughton Wagons.

CALL AND SEE THEM.....

S. L. COLLINS

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven but has long horizontal wires, which cause it to stand

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

Either a fence, it can be properly stretched and erected with few posts and without top and bottom rails. Has cable selvage and a cable running through the fence every foot. Each roll contains the famous M. M. S. trade mark.

We are manufacturers of a complete line of fences and with or without lower cable barbed. All horizontal lines are cables.

GABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE ideal fence for lawns, parks, etc. Everything the best of basket.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.

Pat. July 23, 1895. Pat. July 4, 1899.

FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings

When laying out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.

Call us up before letting your Contract.

We shall be pleased to give on the benefit of our experience in laying out wiring plans.

It Will Cost You Nothing

to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.

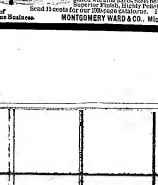
Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring

We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.

Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.

Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

YOU CAN USE IT 20 DAYS FREE



Ask us to ship you one of our High Arm Sewing Machines with Ball Bearings and all Modern Improvements. The world is by science, which is the reason why we can make you this wonderful offer. Use the machine 20 days in your own home, with the privilege of return at our expense if not entirely satisfactory. If you keep it, pay us $1 per week. We make no charge for this liberal trial. We have no agents. We sell direct to the family at one small profit. We ship for examination. We refund freight charges if not as represented. We have no C.O.D. orders. We have no space to quote prices here. Write for our free catalogue. It gives every thing in sewing machines. Tells how we do business. Explains our system of selling. Shows all the different styles. Describes the various attachments. Illustrates and describes our new Drop Head Machine. Tells how to order. Gives our guarantee. Explains our liberal terms. Quotes prices. Tells how to save money. Tells how to make money. Tells how to get a machine free. Tells how to get a machine at wholesale. Tells how to get a machine at your own price. If you want a machine, write us a postal card and we will send you our catalogue free by return mail. Address

TAKE OUR MACHINE HOME AND TRY IT FOR 20 DAYS

If you are not well satisfied with the machine, ship it back to us at our expense and we will refund you all you have paid us. We will not draw on you through your bank or in any other way. We will not ask you for a note. There are no strings to this offer. We mean exactly what we say. We have no space to explain our liberal terms here. Write for our free catalogue. We have sold over 600,000 of these machines. We have been in business for 20 years. We are reliable. We refer to any bank in Chicago. Capital, $1,000,000. Reference, Chicago Trust Savings Bank. Capital, $1,000,000. Reference, Prudence Bank. Self Threading Shuttle. Automatic Tension Liberator. Automatic Bobbin Winder. Improved Stitch Regulator. Improved Vibrating Shuttle. Improved Self-Setting Needle. Superior Finish. Highly Polished. Handsomely Ornamented. Adjustments of The Catalogue Business. MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. Michigan Ave. & Madison St., Chicago.

Polk County Journal.

Historical Society

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY JULY 20, 1899 NO 15

LIVE STOCK AND GRAIN

Prof. Shaw of State Agricultural School Writes on Diversified Farming.

BENEFITS FROM STOCK GROWING

Labor all Year, Less Acreage but Same Amount Grain, Less Hazard, Introduction of Rotation.

The following article is from the pen of Prof. Shaw of the State Agricultural School, of Minnesota, than whom there is no man in this section of the country more competent to speak on matters pertaining to the farm:

LIVE STOCK AND GRAIN PRODUCTION.

Since the beginning of the world the most successful farmers have been those who combined stock raising and grain growing where the conditions are suitable for such a combination. There may be conditions that are not suitable, as on the range, for instance, where the rainfall is sufficient to grow grass to maintain live stock through all the year, and it is not sufficient to produce grain that will pay for the labor expended in growing it. And there may be a time when settlement first begins in a country eminently adapted to grain growing, when better returns will be realized from growing grain than could be secured by combining stock raising with grain growing. But this holds true only for a few years. Though the lands devoted to continuous grain production should not become too low in fertility to produce maximum crops, they soon become too foul with weeds and so reduced in humus, that such results are unattainable without a change in the system of farming. The Red River Valley with its amazing fertility is no exception. The farmers of that region are being forced to consider the propriety of some modification in the system of handling their lands. The same also will be found true of the lands in the region of Devils Lake, notwithstanding the high measure of the fertility that characterized them in former years, and that so characterizes them in a marked degree even at the present time. The remedy for these evils will be found in combining the growing of live stock with the growing of grain, as will now be shown.

BENEFITS FROM STOCK GROWING.

The benefits from growing stock as well as grain are many. Chief among them are the following: 1. It provided a way of turning many cheap fodders into money that would otherwise be wasted. 2. It provides labor that is profitable during the year. 3. It enables the farmer to grow as much grain as formerly on a less acreage. 4. It is attended with less hazard. 5. It necessitated the introduction of a rotation that is greatly beneficial to the soil.

TURNING CHEAP FODDERS INTO MONEY

The greater portion of the straw grown in North Dakota goes up in smoke sometime between the reaping of one crop and the sowing of the next. The food value of such straw is very considerable, as it is usually excellent in quality. Dry harvests such as usually characterize this country produce a quality of straw that cannot be equalled in rainy climates. With a sufficient supply of live stock much of this straw would be consumed as food, and what was not eaten would be used as bedding. In addition to the wheat straw considerable oat straw is burned, much of which is very valuable as food, and the same is true though not in the same degree of barley straw. And if live stock were numerously kept much of the grain that is now threshed, particularly oats, could be cut a shade green and fed so that the stock would consume the entire product. The labor and cost of threshing would thus be avoided, and the crop would be marketed in a much cheaper form, that is to say, in the form of meat.

If cattle and sheep were generally kept there would also be a demand for another crop that will yet be extensively grown around Devils Lake. I refer to a crop of corn. More will be said later about the growing of corn but it may be mentioned here there would be no incentive to the production of this crop which prepares the land so perfectly for growing wheat if there is no live stock to feed it to when grown.

PROVIDES PROFITABLE LABOR THROUGH ALL THE YEAR.

The one crop system provides labor to the farmer for only half the year. Such a system though it were highly remunerative is not a healthy one for any community. It deranges the whole plan of organized labor on the farm. There is too much ploughing and too much reaping while the season of hard labor lasts, and there is too little labor during six months of the year. Men and horses are overworked in the summer and underworked in the winter. If good men are to be retained in the country they must be paid the wages of one year for six months labor. There is too much work for the railroads through half the year and too little work through the other half. Such a system puts things out of balance in the labor arena, and it is not favorable to morality. Any system that provides labor for a community but half the year and allows it to go idle the other half is a vicious system, and cannot but react most seriously against the best interests of that community.

With the plentiful introduction of live stock upon the farms, labor is provided all the year and labor that when well directed is highly profitable. The live stock will glean much that would otherwise be lost in the autumn in the fields. In the winter they would grow into money in the summer. Work would be provided to some extent at least for horses. It would not be necessary to board so many of them throughout the year as there would be a less acreage to plough and reap, and the influence upon the farm as well as the farmers would be simply beneficent.

WOULD NOT LESSEN THE GRAIN PRODUCTION.

That growing live stock somewhat extensively would not lessen the grain production in a community may appear strange to those who have not studied the question but it is just what might be looked for. That has been the experience wherever live stock have been introduced numerously. Not long since the writer was in Freeborn County, the banner dairy county in Minnesota, if not indeed west of the Mississippi river. I was told by those who knew that more grain was now grown in Freeborn county than was grown there many years ago, but it was produced on a far less acreage. The reasons are apparent. Much of the land must be kept in pasture. When broken up again and cropped it is comparatively clean. For a limited term of years, therefore, it grows much better crops than if it had not been pastured. It does so partly because of the humus put into the soil, by making it more mulsh, and partly because it has been enriched by more or less of top dressing with manure.

Every farmer knows that it is not the large acreage that chiefly brings profit, but the large yield. Whatever is conductive therefore to large yields of grain is likely to have an important bearing on profits. A certain yield per acre is necessary to make a crop pay for the labor involved. The excess of production beyond this is profit. The shortage in production is less. Hence it is that one man with an enormous acreage and a short crop may be almost ruined in one year, whereas another man in the same locality with a small acreage and a large yield may have a nice little sum to put into the bank. Thus it is that live stock reacts so favorably on profits in growing grain since it somewhat tends to raise the average return in grain. And when an enormous crop of course grain is grown in a favorable year so that the price goes away down, the man with live stock has a good market for it right in his own sheds.

ATTENDED WITH LESS HAZARD.

The man who grows but one crop is playing at a hazardous game. Let the crop produce bountifully for one year and the profits be high, he makes a handsome profit. If two or three crops follow he is accounted rich, and so probably he would be if he should stop there. But who that has succeeded thus did stop there? He goes on. The years of crop failure and of low prices come, and may be he is left worse off than when he started. It would be interesting to know just how many of the bonanza wheat growers in Dakota have become rich and how many have failed. I cannot help but think such narrative would be profitable.

But it is asked, have not the farmers of North Dakota paid for their farms through growing this one crop, wheat? Are not many of them well-to-do in consequence? In a sense it is true and in another it is not. Did not a majority of the farmers get their farms for nothing or for a nominal sum? They made money, first, because they settled upon a virgin soil rich and free from pestiferous weeds.

[Continued next week]

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Transacts Considerable Business—Steinbrook Enters Upon his Duties in 5th Ward.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Reports—Street Improvements Considered—Warm Discussion on Parliamentary Procedure.

The city council met last Friday night, Aldermen Davis, Ellington, Childs, O'Brien, Anderson, McKinnon, Harris and Chesterman present.

Frank Steinbrook was commissioned to begin his duties as patrolman in the 5th ward on July 15, and he was also empowered to keep the streets over there clear of tethered cows.

The board of equalization of this city made its report and the report was accepted. A detailed account of this report is given elsewhere in the JOURNAL.

The poor committee recommended that Chief Gonyea be given $10 a month as poor commissioner, they having found his services valuable o them. The recommendation was accepted.

An order was made upon the city treasurer for $25 to be given A. C. Wilkinson. This was the amount Mr. Wilkinson had paid for judgment fees in a case against the city and the latter had agreed to pay the same.

The question of improving South Main street, just this side of the saw mill, was taken up and after considerable discussion the matter was referred to the city engineer and committee on streets and bridges with instructions to prepare plans and specification of the proposed improvements and learn the cost of the same and report at the next meeting. The city engineer once before made an estimate of the cost of this work and reported to the council that he thought $500 would cover the cost. Having the plans and specifications, however, the council can advertise for bids.

The old city safe was sold for $50 to J. F. Creamer.

The petition of J. W. O'Brien to have abated that part of his tax which was assessed for grading the street in front of his place, which grading, he claimed, damaged rather than improved his property, was granted. This petition was before the council twice before and on both occasions was rejected.

The council reversed its decision of June 23 at which meeting it sustained President O'Brien in his famous ruling when the ordinance question was up. Aldermen Childs then moved to instruct the city clerk to have printed the ordinance prohibiting the issuing of peddlers with certain limits, as the ordinance had passed at previous meeting. The motion was seconded. President O'Brien ruled the motion out of order as he said the ordinance had not passed. An appeal from the chair's ruling being taken the chair was not sustained. The council, however, by this vote did not acknowledge that the ordinance had passed, but merely that Alderman Childs had the right to make the motion he did.

OUR CRACK SHOTS.

At Winnipeg—C. C. Hoch is First and our Team Captures Badges.

C. C. Hoch, W. L. Vunnet, A. E. Vunstrum and L. A. Larson were the shooters who represented the Crookston Gun Club at the shooting tournament in Winnipeg last week. They showed the Canadians, too, a thing or two about how to handle a gun, for C. C. Hoch won the first average and in the team work also our sportsmen came out ahead, in this last contest making a record of 91 out of a possible 100. As a reward for this excellent marksmanship each of these men was given a handsome gold badge. In the international contest, the prizes in which were two flags, the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack, the United States team —about fifteen of them—was considerably handicapped, so both flags remained on the other side of the line. Our shooters speak in terms of high praise of the treatment accorded to them by Winnipegers, many of whom have promised to come to Crookston next year to the shooting tournament.

Concert in Swedish Lutheran Church.

The Bellini Concert Company composed of Misses Selma E. Carlson soprano and Hannah K. Sandell, piano soloist, D. T. Sandell, trombone and violinist and Gunner Berggren violinist, will give a concert at the Swedish Lutheran church Friday evening July 21. These musicians come highly recommended and it will be a treat to listen to them. Admission 25 and 15 cents.

ALGER IS OUT.

The Secretary of War has Resigned President Will Accept.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Secretary of War Alger has tendered his resignation, to take effect at the pleasure of the president. The resignation will be accepted and the secretary will retire at an early day.

REMAIN AT CASS LAKE.

Settlers Will Have Till Aug. 22—Probably Wont go at All.

Secretary Hitchcock yesterday afternoon telegraphed instructions to Captain Mercer, in charge of Leech Lake Indian Agency, suspending until Aug. 22 the removal of the white settlers. The order of suspension is to allow time for consideration of general information that has been filed at the interior department.

GENUINE SMALL POX.

Several Cases of the Dread Disease at East Grand Forks.

"Five cases of genuine small pox existed in East Grand Forks up to last night," says Dr. Dunlop of this city, "and two new cases developed this morning. There are also many suspected cases. Those who actually have the disease and the suspected ones are isolated, wherever possible, but where this can not be done, watchmen guard the houses where the sick are. Strict quarantine is now established and all possible precautions are now being taken to prevent the spread of the disease. I know that this is the condition in East Grand Forks and I am satisfied that there is a similar state of affairs in Grand Forks."

As it was rumored that small pox existed in East Grand Forks, Dr. Dunlop, as president of the Crookston board of health, went over to that town and personally investigated the matter, and learned that the condition was as above stated. Though everything is now being done that can be done such has not been the case in the past. When the disease first made its appearance, it fought in. It is said, through a railroad employee, word was sent to Secretary Brackett of the State Board of Health. Mr. Brackett came up and examined the case and pronounced it small pox, but local physicians differing from him in the diagnosis of the case, nothing definite was done. After Dr. Dunlop made his investigation he wired Secretary Brackett that unless quarantine were at once established at East Grand Forks he would appeal to Governor Lind to isolate the town completely, and this message had the desired effect.

If the disease does not stop spreading a strict quarantine of East Grand Forks will be established. The result of such an order would be that no trains touching at East Grand Forks would be permitted to stop at Crookston, but would pass through that town for a day or two.

LAWN TENNIS CLUB.

The Best Grounds in the Northwest Are Now Ready for Play.

The tennis grounds on north Ash street are now completed and the crack racket handlers may now be seen every afternoon and evening playing their favorite game. Tennis is one of the finest outdoor sports there is and the members of the tennis club expect to make this game take precedence of all other games. The grounds are hard and level, there will be two courts, one alongside the other, wire back-stops, new nets etc etc. Any one wishing to join this popular organization may call upon Fred Barclay or Maurice Malone for particulars. If you can't play now you can learn. All of the present members have never had a racket in their hands.

MID-SUMMER CARNIVAL

At Grand Forks—Chariot Races—Magnificent Flower Parade.

Yesterday and the day before Grand Forks held its summer carnival. The city was gaily decorated and the citizens were out in holiday attire. The stores closed at 6:30 to give the clerks a chance to take part in the parades. The music of the several bands was continually heard. Vaudeville performances were given. A Roman chariot race occurred on the principal street, trick bicycle riders performed, a lady aeronaut went up in a balloon and came down in a parachute, base ball and tennis games were played, bicycle riders raced, a most magnificent and gorgeous flower parade took place and brilliant fireworks brought the carnival to a close.

THE SCHOOL ELECTION.

Three Trustees Elected—Much Interest was Shown—Very Large Vote was Cast.

COUNTY DRAINAGE IS STOPPED.

A New Law Changes Preliminary Steps—Construction of Four Ditches Delayed.

Last Saturday evening occurred the the annual school election in the assembly room of the high school building. Long before the doors were opened, at 7 o'clock, the crowds began to gather and from that time till half past eight the people kept coming and going in large numbers. So much interest has been manifested in the election of school trustees in the history of Crookston since the summer of 1894, and the verdict pronounced last Saturday night was very emphatic.

The meeting was called to order by John Cromb, the secretary of the board, and as Mr. Anglim the chairman of the board, was absent the assembled citizens chose N. S. Gordon as chairman. There were three trustees to elect, two to take the place of Wm. Anglim and N. S. Gervais, whose terms of office were completed, and one to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Judge Watts. The voting lasted an hour, the total number of votes cast being 482. There were two sets of candidates, A. A. Miller, A. P. Hansen and John B. McKinnon, and Wm. Anglim, De Forest Bucklen and W. E. McKenzie. The vote, at the close of the polls, stood A. A. Miller 315, A. P. Hansen 314, J. B. McKinnon 308, De Forest Bucklen 158, W. E. McKenzie, 136, Wm. Anglim 132, scattering 22, thrown out 11.

New County Drainage Law.

At the meeting of the county commissioners last week, in considering the matter of county drainage the point was brought up by County Auditor Gleason that a new law, which went into effect on April 20, considerably changed the preliminary steps which had to be gone through before the county board could authorize the construction of county ditches. As the provisions of the new law were not complied with in connection the Grove Park, Euclid-Keystone, Kerrsonville-Gentilly and King ditches, all work upon these ditches had to be stopped. The enforcement of this law is likely to work great hardships as thousands of acres would, by the construction of these ditches, have been drained and thus greatly improved.

According to the provisions of the new law, when one or more land owners wish to have a ditch constructed, in the petition which they present to the county board, they must "file proof satisfactory to the board of commissioners that at least thirty day's notice thereof has been given before the session of said board, at which such petition is to be heard, to all owners of and persons occupying any lands adjacent to, or through which said ditch is proposed to be constructed, or which may be affected thereby, or is sought to be assessed in carrying out the purposes of this act, by the service upon each of said persons of the notice of the time and place of hearing of such petition in the same manner as is provided by law for the service of summons in a civil section in the district courts of the state." Who is to order the sheriff to serve the summons is not stipulated, nor is any provision made for paying the sheriff for this work. This would appear to make the law invalid. But, in addition, just who will be affected by a proposed ditch is not known for certain until viewers have been appointed and have decided as to which route is best, hence the serving of summons on land owners whose lands would be affected by the ditch would be a difficult task, in as much as the viewers are not appointed till after all this preliminary work has been gone through.

Formerly, notices were posted, thirty days before the hearing upon the petition, in several public places within the district it was proposed to drain. Then if viewers were appointed, when they made their report, the county auditor was instructed by law to publish notice of same in the newspapers of the county for three successive weeks, and post notices of the same at the county court house and in public places in the district affected by said ditch. This would certainly seem to give everyone full knowledge of what was being done, while in accordance with the new law it is difficult to see just how the county now is going, legally, to set about the construction of ditches that are so much needed.

UNWARLIKE LIND.

Lost a Recruiting Station to Minnesota—Officers Very Indignant.

At the headquarters of the department of Dakota in St. Paul the officers are not slow to express themselves over the way this department was slighted in the assignment of recruiting stations for the 10 new regiments in the regular army.

They attribute the neglect of Minnesota and Fort Snelling to what they term the "baby act" of Gov. Lind in regard to the 13th. One of the staff officers said:

"If any other man in the state had been governor, one of those regiments would certainly have been recruited at Fort Snelling. The administration did not intend to organize any of the new regiments where they would likely be met by strong local opposition. Gov. Lind's message about the Minnesota boys wanting to get home cost the state at least $40,000 that would have been spent here had the regiment been recruited at Fort Snelling, as every officer in this department had expected it would be.

"You can't wonder that some of the army officers are disgusted with Minnesota's governor when they are so certain as it is possible to be without official advice, that the reason Snelling is lying idle, while the other posts are being favored, is due to the presence here of the unwarlike governor.

AMERICANS' DAY

At Winnipeg—Canadians Cheer Uncle Sam—Americans Cheer the Queen.

A dispatch from Winnipeg sent out at the time of the industrial exposition was being held there says: "Today at the Winnipeg summer exhibition was "American's day," one of the great features that has developed in the last three years in connection with the fair. It was estimated that 5,000 or 6,000 citizens of the Red River Valley in Minnesota and Dakota are taking in the show. The excursionists arrived in 1400 crowded cars.

A pleasing incident was the massing of the Grand Forks, Crookston and Grafton bands, which marched together to the city hall square, where a program was rendered.

"God Save the Queen," the opening number, was acknowledged by the lifting of hats while "Yankee Doodle" received a hearty burst of applause.

Between the selections a leading citizen of Grafton made a pleasant speech, referring in the most complimentary terms to Canada and speaking of the good relations existing between the two countries.

At the conclusion of his remarks he called upon the Americans to give three cheers for the queen, which they did with a hearty good will, the Canadians returning the compliment with three cheers and a tiger for the United States. The program at the fair grounds was made especially attractive for the day.

Winnipeg Excursion.

Crookston furnished about 300 of the thousands of pleasure seekers who took advantage of the cheap excursion rates on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways to visit the Industrial exposition at Winnipeg last week. Hundreds came from all the towns in Northwestern Minnesota. The start was made at Crookston at 5 a. m. Friday morning the city band was on early morning concert. The run on both roads was full but not crowded coaches, was made without any mishaps. After spending the most of Friday and Saturday in the capital city of Manitoba the excursionists reached Crookston late Saturday night. The exhibits at Winnipeg were of the finest and the illuminations and fireworks on a magnificent scale. All from Crookston who visited the Winnipeg Fair say it was first class in every particular.

COLLINS NEW LIVERY.

Two Story Brick Building to be Completed by Oct. 1.

Stanley Collins the livery man, has contracted with Frank Mugean for the erection of a large handsome two story brick livery barn, 80x120, on the corner of North Main and Fourth streets, where his present place of business is. The new building will cost about $4,000, and will be modern in every respect. The brick work will be done by Charles Jefferson, a local brick layer. The work of tearing down the old livery barn has already begun and the contract calls for the completion of the new building by Oct. 1. During the next two months Mr. Collins will occupy the large barn of M. R. Brown, which is located a short distance north of where the livery is.

AROUND THE COUNTRY

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

MENTOR.

H. Folvig is building a fine house, on his farm, near town.

Rev. Oppegaard held services in the Norwegian church Sunday.

Rev. Chase held services in the congregational church Sunday.

J. L. Sletten has sold almost a carload of Deering machinery.

Crops look fine around here now, and prospects are good for a large yield.

Nels Nelson Jr. is having an artesian well drilled on his farm north of town.

Frank Whiting and wife are off for a few weeks visit at Fergus Falls and vicinity.

J. K. Mewell is building a cottage down at the lake. It will be completed in a few days.

Joseph Tagley received a large assortment of shoes and a choice lot of fresh groceries, Tuesday.

E. Olson wife and daughter and S. Torrson and wife of Fisher have been visiting at Joseph Tagleys.

Joe Martell has almost got his new house completed. He gave a dance last week, and all report a good time.

The most of those who have contages at the lake have arrived now and more are coming with every train.

There will be a grand ball down at the lake Saturday night. The Brenslinger Orchestra is going to furnish the music.

E. L. Odegard is here selling machinery for the Deering Co. with J. L. Sletten. He sold three mowers and two rakes Tuesday.

J. L. Sletten recieved a carload of lumber last week, and in less than two days it was all gone. Lumber goes like hot cakes in Mentor.

FERTILE.

About 75 went from here to Winnipeg last Friday.

Charles Knutzel and Eva Cook, of Ulen, were in town Tuesday.

Sam Scott, of Edna, has been seen on our streets frequently of late.

Crops are looking fine and are well advanced in this vicinity.

The hail storm of Saturday night did much damage to crops in this vicinity.

W. F Peterson, Martin Peterson and Will Vannet, of Crookston Sundayed at Fertile.

Mrs. C. R. Snyder and children have returned from a two month's visit to New Ulm.

At the annual school election Saturday evening Norman Hanson was re-elected treasurer and Dr. E. C. Anderson, clerk.

NEILSVILLE.

D. Payne, the railroad agent, has moved out of the Valley Lumber Co's office with his apparatus into the shack by the platform.

The Neilsville Elevator Association will close up its elevator July 20 till the next crop comes in. The meeting for the yearly settlement will be held Aug. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Nils Muus are at present with their old folks at Kenyon, Minn., for a week's stay, the occasion being the visit to this country by Mr. Muus' sister and her husband from Norway.

Andrew Monson went up to Crookston Saturday morning to meet his wife who was on her way home from Park River, where she has been receiving medical treatment. Her condition is reported to be about the same now as before she went away.

At the annual school meeting of Dist. 21, held in the school house in Neilsville it was decided to have two terms of school the next school year. One of six months with two teachers, to begin the first Monday in September, and one of two months with one teacher to begin the first of May. H. N. Dahl was chosen director for the next three years.

L. C. Hanson with his family left Thursday of last week for St Paul having sold his farm recently. He has made a fortune farming rich Red River Valley land. We have no idea that he will think this was a pretty good country after he has tried other localities for a while.

The board of directors of the Neilsville Elevator Association under whose management the lumber yard has been so far, had a meeting last Saturday and decided to incorporate the Farmer's Lumber Co., and elected the following board of directors: J. C. Hayes, Andrew Thompson, J. J. Bjornstad, K. O. Rensland, E. C. Oastad, Nils Muus, Paul Simon, John G. Olson and O. Hauge.

The hail storm which last Saturday passed through this neighborhood about three miles northeast of Neilsville coming across from Dakota west of Climax and passing on the south of that town, and going in an east southeast direction towards Beltrami, did considerable damage to the crops although its swath which here was about a mile wide was narrow compared to what it was in Dakota and further east where it is reported to have laid waste a strip of land several miles in width. Those who lost most heavily in this vicinity are K. S. Aker who lost most of his grain except one quarter; A. Haugan, Kittel Haugan, John Ellingson and O. Troonas who lost about all of theirs; and Stevenson Bros., M. Gjermundson, J. Jorgenson, O. G. Dale, Frank Hanson, E. J. Ellingson, L. Rosbeth whose crops were partially destroyed. Hayes Bros. lost about 250 acres.

SHELLY.

George Aitrit is on the sick list.

Sam Little of Caledonia was in town Monday.

Andrew Tronnes was in from Climax Tuesday.

O. M. Johnson drove to Hillsboro Monday to see the dentist.

Oberson and Flikkie have been counting at Ada during the week.

O. A. Pambrad of Neilsville was in town Tuesday transacting business.

Mrs. A. O. Nelund of Halstad was visiting with her sisters during the week.

Ed. Pambrad hiked to Neilsville Sunday afternoon, returning same evening.

Chris Larson's building is being remodeled and will be used for a drug store.

Andrew Lavahl returned from Montana Saturday, where he has been since last fall.

H. A. Olson, representing Hart & Murphy Cigar Co., was in town calling on patrons Tuesday.

C. A. Hawkins and L. E. Olson went to Caledonia Sunday evening. How did you strike it, boys?

Nils Muus and family of Neilsville passed through on the train Saturday, bound for their old home in Goodhue county.

N. J. N. Olson, the Halstad photographer, and Bernard Marthinson of the same place, were in town Monday. Nick still claims that the platino leads.

Dr. Wilson returned from Blanchard, N. D., last Friday where he was visiting with relatives. He took Tuesday's train for Toronto, Canada, where he will resume his studies.

Last Monday, while Pete Herbrandson was hauling lumber from the Shelly Lumber Company's yards a piece of timber slid forward, striking one of the horses. The horse became frightened and started off on the run. Mr. Herbrandson tried to hold them in check but was unable. The team ran in the alley back of P. J. Zue & Co.'s store, through a wire fence, and up against a telephone pole, breaking the neckyoke and a single-tree. None of the horses was by this breakage left free of all bondage, so taking advatage of his freedom sold good-bye and went to his home in Caledonia. During the whole per formance Pete hung on and had a two by four broken across his back for the trouble. However neither he nor the horses received any injury, though the harness was considerably damaged.

FOSSTON.

Dr. Pantaine basstrack town with his show.

D. H. Pask went to Bemidji on legal business Monday.

No weddings this week on account of the extremely warm weather.

Messrs. Foss and Sutor and families are camping at Lake Bemidji.

E. A. Engelestrom of the Citizens' Bank left on Monday on a real estate trip through Norman county.

John Vig, ex-clerk of district court, appointed in a case before Justice Arrowhid. As Attorney, John is all right.

Fosston and McIntosh played a friendly game of base ball on Monday. Score, 16 to 3, in favor of Fosston.

The weather was so sultry on Wednesday that Street Sprinkler Anderson was compelled to use Minneapolis beer to keep the water from scalding the swan on the end of the water tank.

Messrs. Albert and George Lammers and their wives of Stillwater visited at Robert Sutors on Tuesday evening. Lammers Brothers and O'Brien are doing an extensive business in Beltrami county.

Fosston citizens had the pleasure of seeing a midnight horse race on Monday night. Hank Gohlen and Fred Carver were the owners of the horses. Carver won the money owing to the fact that he made the race and the other fellow's horse stayed in the barn.

ERSKINE.

Miss Susie Hoaire is visiting at Fertile.

Charley Birch is reported on the sick list.

Even Taft returned from Minneapolis Friday.

Ole Bjorge is here hustling up the Piano business.

W. J. Durgon left for Crookston Saturday and returned Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Christ Hough returned from Minneapolis Tuesday.

Charley Dillon and son visited at Fertile Sunday, returning Monday.

Mr. Sampson of Crookston was doing business between trains Tuesday.

Mr. Ellington of Crookston was here recently checking up Bunker Cowpanies.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Odegaard left for Crookston Saturday and returned Sunday.

Mrs. L. K. Anker and two daughters of Alexandria, Douglas county, came to make Mrs. Anker's brother, Nels Anker, a visit.

Mrs. Pete Rolsaas and children returned from Nesstrand, Rice county, where they have been visiting with friends and relatives for a month.

Charley Black and his daughter, Mrs. G. H. Zinn, took in the excursion to Winnipeg and returned Saturday. They reported a good time.

At the annual school meeting in District No. 171, K. H. Rollags was elected clerk. Five months school will be held, commencing on the 30th of October. Seven voters were present.

School district No. 230 at their annual meeting elected Thos. Torgerson as clerk and Torger Nelson as treasurer. It was voted also to have eight months' school, with two teachers.

FISHER.

Doc Fry of Climax is here trading horses.

The O. W. C. Club will go camping this week.

Chris Whichaefer made a flying trip to Crookston Tuesday.

Anna Martin and Lizzie Quick of Wig were in town Saturday.

Ed Olson wheeled down from the Forks Sunday to visit his parents here.

A gang of men have been at work on our bridge here this week, repairing same.

Mr. Torrison and family and Even Olsen and family went to Maple Lake to fish for a week.

A car load of bronchos arrived here Saturday and the horses are being sold at Brandvik's livery barn.

There was a game of base ball here Saturday—Fisher vs. Climax. The game was a close and exciting one all through. The Fisher boys won out, the score being 11 to 15 in our favor. They played for $25 a side. Fisher team will play a return game at Climax July 25.

EDNA.

C. E. Ford is hustling business for the Deering Co.

Geo. McIntosh had his dwelling house enlarged and remodeled.

A crew of G. N. carpenters are tearing down the old water tank.

John Wedstrom is busy planting out, the score being 11 to 15 in our favor. They played for $25 a side. Fisher team will play a return game at Climax July 25.

EDNA.

C. E. Ford is hustling business for the Deering Co.

Geo. McIntosh had his dwelling house enlarged and remodeled.

A crew of G. N. carpenters are tearing down the old water tank.

John Wedstrom is busy planting out J. N. Kingsland's new hotel building.

The Young Men's Ice Cream Club met around the society freezer the other night.

Lluas Johnson is having an artesian well sunk on one of his farms south west of town.

Tom Wilson last week put a coat of paint over his hair, face, hands, pants and A. P. Hill's new machine hall.

Andrew A. Mjelde had his blacksmith shop re-shingled last week. Regeirol & McIntosh had the job on contract.

Picket, ball-strong, horse-high with fancy iron gates is the kind of fence that K. O. Flaine is building around his premises.

F. R. Holbeck sunk an artesian well for J. I Elwood in a day and a half with the result of a 360 barrel flow of the purest water.

A disastrous storm visited this region last Saturday evening. The strip which was struck by the hail extended from Reynolds N. D. to the town of Spring Creek in Norman county and was from two to three miles wide. Those in this vicinity who sustained losses were: Sam Scott 260 acres of wheat, D. McMillan 100 acres, Gittle Stromstad 300, Andrew N. Myelde 100, Tom Sandom 340, Niels Vahl 100, Oscar Swanson 160, John Stromstad 200, J. I. Elwood 200. Peter Stene 160, O. Anderson 160, John Clementson 480, Gust Christenson 160.

LOCKHART.

Deal Ford is here visiting relatives.

Mrs. Dykeman went to Crookston Sunday.

Mr. A. Manss was in Red Lake Falls the 5th.

Percy Stuetevant is here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Legeare.

Jim Dimpee was in Ada last week attending a trial.

Mrs. R. W. Legeare has returned from her visit at Detroit.

Mr. Winslow Rourke, of Red Lake Falls is here visiting relatives.

Mr. S. B. Palmer and daughter drove to Ada on business Friday.

Mr. Peterson the sheriff was out from Ada Wednesday on business.

Mrs. Hall of Dakota has been visiting her sister Mrs. McDougall.

The Lockhart Sunday school and church will have a picnic next Wednesday.

Mrs. Ross and her children went to Crookston Sunday and from there to her home in St. Paul.

Hail struck the country north of Rolette Saturday evening completely destroying a large amount of grain.

Among those who took in the excursion the 5th were: William Hornberger, Miss Beck, Henry Crum Master Casselina, Mr. and Mrs. B. Palmer, Inez and Lee Palmer. They all report an all around good time.

HALSTAD.

Warm nowadays.

P. Mudland is moving into the Stensland building.

A. Cowen dropped off here this morning for a short visit.

Mrs. Trumble of Brandon, Minn., is visiting with the Iversons.

H. M. Brosseth visited at Fosston and Beltrami last week.

J. J. Rue is going to write a book entitled "Halstad as seen by himself."

Supt. Craig of the Northwestern Elevator Company stopped off here Wednesday.

Mr. A. Kasser and family left for Fosston Wednesday morning; where they will live.

C. E. Nordby and family arrived from Norwegian Grove yesterday morning where they have been visiting for the last three weeks.

Married last week at Minneapolis our genial barber, S. G. Dawry to Miss Bertha Austin of that place. We wish the newly married couple a happy life.

The new post office is now ready, and postmaster Iverson started to move things Saturday evening into the new building. Miss Hilder Olson who for the past two years has been assistant postmaster is quite at home in the new place.

HALLORY.

Wm. Stead is building a grain elevator at Mcdonald.

Commodore transacted business in Grand Forks yesterday.

Is especially favored this season with very favorable weather.

All kinds of grain are growing rapidly. This section of the valley.

Mr. D. J. Morrow who has for the past four weeks been very sick is recovering slowly.

Mr. Arthur Robinson made a flying trip to Glouston, N. D., this week. He reports crops looking fair.

E. Simmons agent for Minneapolis and Northern Elevator company is receiving considerable wheat these days.

Miss Lillian Coulter, Miss Pearl Coulter, Miss Clara Hunt and Mr. Jarvis took in the Street Carnival at Grand Forks.

Mrs. Wm. Flemming returned home Sunday night over the Great Northern after a three months visit with her son at Stockton California.

The school board decided on putting in a full set of new seats in the hilary school house which will make a great improvement and be a great convenience to the pupils.

McINTOSH.

Farmers have commenced haying.

A new proprietor takes charge of the West this week.

K. Brekke has commenced erecting his new house on Jackson St.

Knut Reisma left Tuesday for Lowry, to stay for the summer.

O. H. Johnson, the Thief River Falls merchant is in the city visiting with his brother J. P.

Hans S. Hanson, Jr. who was dangerously ill from appendicitis a week ago is nearly well again.

Miss Julia Brevig is back from Stand Hill where she has been teaching a term of parochial school.

M. A. McEachran is home again after his vacation, and his many friends are glad to see him again.

Cornelius Hanson has accepted a position in a hardware store at Bagley. Our corner band loses thereby a valuable member.

A party, composed of J. S. Roskoit and family, Miss Stenerson of Crookston, and a few others, left for Bemidji Monday for a camping-out. They will be gone two or three weeks.

Mrs. P. O. Mandt sold her farm last week to Lars Brekke for a consideration of $6000. The farm is located four miles north of McIntosh and contains half a section. Mr. Brekke also bought the West farm last week.

Going Out of Business

The Fair Store

Will offer their entire Stock at cost, consisting of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Working and Dress Shirts, Pants and Overalls, Trunks and Valises, Ladies' Underwear, Corsets, Hosiery, Laces and Ribbons, Etc. Silverware, Pictures and Picture Frames, Albums, Dolls, Crockery, Tinware, Light Hardware, Notions, Etc.

This is a genuine closing out sale and those looking for bargains will do well to call early while the lines are complete. Everything at cost.

THE FAIR STORE,

Robert Street, Next to Anderson's Drug Store,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

The McIntosh people must be gormandizers. Yet another restaurant started.

Rev. A. A. Oppegaard has accepted a call from the Norwegian Lutheran church at Sheyin and will locate there as soon as his residence is completed.

Rev. Rolshus left Tuesday for Grand Forks where he is interested in the contemplated re-starting of the Grand Forks College. The college building was bought this spring by a few ministers of the Norwegian Lutheran Synod church.

The fifth in the series of ball-games arranged between McIntosh and Fosston was played at the latter place last Sunday. The game was won by the wood millers. Score, 15 to 3. The four previous games were won by McIntosh, so our boys do not lay any means feel sore over last Sundays game. Another game with Fosston has already been arranged, to be played on our grounds next Sunday, the 23rd.

CLIMAX.

Street grading is in full blast. So is haying.

Mrs. S. F. Bomime spent Monday in Crookston.

Miss Julia Anderson is visiting her mother at Andover.

Judging from all the freight coming in our merchants must be doing well.

Tuesday was the hottest day this season. The thermometer reaching 100 in the shade.

Those who have had jewelry and watch repairing done by Mr. Moe highly pleased with his work.

Mr. C. M. Brown, representing Wyman, Partridge & Co. of Minneapolis, did business here this week.

Miss Lizzie Sheyers, who has been visiting her brother here, returned on Saturday to her home in Alexandria.

Traveling salesmen are very numerous here. During the week, not less than 15 have called on our merchants.

The Fisher nine will cross bats with the Climax boys on Sunday. The game will be fast and the game will be a "hot" one.

Our boys drove to Fisher last Saturday to play ball for a purse of $25, and came home in the evening angry and defeated.

The hail storm of Saturday did considerable damage, south and east of here. Quite a number of the farmers lost nearly all of their grain.

An exciting runaway took place Tuesday afternoon. Ole Westad's horse became frightened by the smart act of cracking a whip which caused a dog to run under the buggy for protection. The horse jerked loose, ran into another team, and the Main street was all excitement for a while. Several other runaways were narrowly averted, and luckily no one was hurt, only some damage done to rigs and harnesses.

ANGUS.

Mrs. S. J. Lake's mother, Mrs. Courson arrived on Tuesday from the northern part of the state, on a visit.

Mrs. Wm. Campion and son, A. F. and Jesse went to Winnipeg on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Montgomery, G. Evans and wife and McLennen went to Winnipeg last Friday.

Ed. Henry, of Mallory, spent Sunday in town.

W. Lemen spent Friday night in Crookston.

Revs Atwood and Harvey held service at the church on Sunday.

Joe Belvair and Ame Tausan went to Crookston on Sunday.

F. Strobie was in Warren on Monday.

Sol. Glover spent Monday in Warren.

John McLeunen was in Grand Forks on Saturday.

C. R. Perkins and wife went to Warren on Monday.

EAST GRAND FORKS.

A few more trips and the steamer Grand Forks will be up.

Joseph Chlasky of Mantel spent a few days in town last week.

Sullivan Bros. are doing an immense machine business this summer.

Abd. Rob Jarvis has his teams and g. gates at work on the roads south of here.

A. B. Christy, who was recently appointed appraiser of Indian land, has returned from the Indian Territory.

At the school meeting held here Saturday night John O'Leary and T. H. Grahm were chosen trustees, for three years and Dane. McNicol for one year.

M. Graham has moved into his new building. He has refitted the building and put in a solid plate glass front. Old timers would hardly realize that it was the same house Grocer Madson did business in.

Mr. Simaire received a big grist of twine the first of the week from the state penitentiary. There is no doubt but what his twine is superior to any other and Mike is going to prove it.

The N. P. switch engine had the misfortune to become derailed the other night and ran into the tail bench on the ground. They and her back up in short order and put in place, causing very little delay.

Millwright Filley is fast closing the course of completion on the new saw mill. The mill is all machined and painted. The upright engine and pole driver are on the barges ready to drive the river piling. They expect to begin operation about Sept. 1.

On Monday afternoon a team of colts, attached to a wagon, started down DeMers avenue at a lively pace. They managed to keep out of the way of any one who had a notion to stop them. They kept the same pace across the bridge and after entering a little distance in Grand Forks they were stopp d. Nothing broken. Nobody hurt.

At 7:30 Wednesday evening death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Johnson and terminated the sufferings of Howard, their eldest son, aged 6. The accident which led to the child's death will be remembered by people of this community. On July 2 he obtained a gun unknown to his mother. He lit it on the sidewalk in front of the house. The blaze caught fire to his clothes waist. But in spite of the efforts of his mother, he was badly burned about the face and chest. The best medical aid was in attendance to the little sufferer, but the blood he drew he failed very fast and at last succumbed to the grim reaper. Words of sympathy at such a time have little weight, but nevertheless the sincere sympathy of the community is with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson at this time and all who knew the child feel a sense of personal loss in his death. The funeral was held Friday afternoon at 2:30, Rev. Atchinson officiating.

What might have been a catastrophy and big sunshine was only averted by the quick wits and cool head of an engineer Friday morning. The house that was being used as an office for the saw mill was being moved across the track in front of St. Joseph's Hospital. As the last end was just clearing the track an extra freight from the west came down the track at about 50 miles per hour. The engineer evidently thought he could clear the last part, but as he passed the depot he quickly saw his mistake and reversed his engine and applied the air. He stopped his train within five car lengths from the spot where he reversed the engine and when the train came to a dead stand still he was about ten feet from the building. There were quite a few men on top of the building and had the train struck them at such a rate of speed they would in all probability never have known what had happened.

GRAND FORKS.

The U. S. court rooms will be used by the editors.

Tracy Bangs spent a day in Hillsboro last week.

The Arbuck ball players were registered at the Ingalls.

Buxton won the last game of ball from the home team. Score 3 to 2.

Miss Edith Miller, of Crookston, is the guest of Grand Forks friends.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kenworty a son. Congratulations.

The county board spent Thursday and Friday in equalizing assessments.

Max Bass, emigrating agent for the G. N., passed through the city Friday.

Geo. Bennett, of the Telephone Co., is down with a small touch of diabetes.

The lovers of billiards are wondering who has become of Daley's tournament.

The "Sloth and Flume" played to a fair audience in the opera house last Tuesday night.

Sam Walsh will leave this week for New York and Boston in the interest of his store.

Dr. Quarry went to Devils Lake Tuesday on business connected with the board of health.

Two Indians were locked up Thursday by reason of the liberties met in the Great Northern depot.

Simon Lyons returned home last week from St. Paul, where he went to attend the funeral of his brother.

The "Picketts" will play the Thompson nine for $25 a side. The boys are out hustling for a turnout.

The ladies have decided that the carnival colors will be white, brown, red and pink. Small room for contrast.

No. 13 from Duluth was 4 hours late on Wednesday. Two engines broke down on the road, which caused the delay.

On Friday Ardock and Grand Forks come together on the diamond. When the game ended Grand Forks registered 27 and Ardock 5.

Active preparations are being made for the meeting of the Presbyterian State Sunday School Institute, which is to be held in Park River, July 26-27-28.

From what Col. Bean says, the greatest railway path finder was Grand Forks will soon have the Black Diamond road switching cars here.

Albert Ashbaw, who has been in Schlanger for the past two years is taking a vacation preparing to go to New York to study for the Episcopal ministry.

While in Toronto, O. C. Gowran met Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McKessy. Mr. McKessy was formerly N. P. agent of this place, but now represents the company in Toronto.

A. J. Smith, G. N. Agent at Winnipeg arrived in the city Wednesday night. He came here to take charge of the excursion to Winnipeg Friday morning. A. J. was once time a Grand Forks agent.

A bicycle club has been organized in this city with a large membership. Big ground is covered every night, and after the exercise is worked up they partake of lunch from some of the members.

Mrs. Pritzgerald, who died in Fargo recently at the advanced age of 100 years, was a pupil of the late McLaughlin's father in Ireland 95 years ago. The judge said when he visited her a year ago her memory was remarkably clear regarding the events of her childhood days.

On Monday morning a painter by the name of John Mack, died in the Central Hotel here of consumption. On Sunday afternoon he passed the barn on the way to the hospital house. He stopped to talk with some men. He got weak and was unable to go further. He went up in the loft to lie down but was found that night unconscious. He was too weak to be moved and died without regaining consciousness.

Every one who knows Dr. Wheeler, knows he is an art lover from the word go and recently he ordered a crayon portrait picture with which to surprise Mrs. Wheeler. The picture, which is a very handsome one, arrived Thursday, during Dr. Wheeler's absence at Chautauqua, and Doc. had it hung in a suitable place awaiting her arrival the same night. But unfortunately Doc. was called to Fargo before he could witness the surprise with which the picture was received.

On last Wednesday night Sheriff Collins with a force of four deputies rounded up several gambling dens in this city. The raid was the result of the Enforcement League whose detective Geo. Wheeler has been at work for two weeks. Warrants were sworn out for six men, each warrant accompanied by a search warrant. At 9 o'clock Sheriff Collins with his deputies raided four places scenting the six men as well as several dens of lesser crap, poker, roulette, faro, card tables, etc. They will probably plead guilty to the charge when brought into court. The furniture will probably be destroyed by the court.

LENGBY.

Miss Ida and Joe Weltz came back from a visit to Elbo Sunday.

Rev. C. Erickson of Mcintosh held services at Lengby last Sunday.

The dance they were to have had at Elbo last Saturday night failed on account of the rain we had early that evening.

Mrs. W. R. Cartwright, who has been quite sick the past week, is well again.

Mrs. A. Johnson was taken suddenly sick one day last week. She is recovering under the care of Dr. Tufts.

Carl Frederickson and T. Duving went to Elbo to take in the dance last Saturday night, but when they got there they found the floory locked. The Ebroites had retired to rest.

There is to be a basket socialist at the Argall hall Saturday night, July 22. All are invited to come. Good music and good time assured.

A. J. Stelter of the Towify Mercantile Company of West Superior was here last Thursday.

Albert H. Lillo made a trip to Solway and returned last Saturday.

Assistant General Hicks organized Robert Aitkin Post No. 173 here on the 4th. The following officers were elected: W. L. Hilliard, commander; Roger Aitkin, Sr., Vice-Com.; D. S. Wheeler, chaplain; M. Haley, quartermaster; H. H. Beaulieu, officer of the day; John Burke, officer of the guard; O. L. Wheeler, adjutant. The next regular meeting was held last Monday. At Beaulieu the Post will meet the third Monday of each month at 11 o'clock.

RUSSIA.

Everything is quiet because the farmers are busy making hay.

The last wind storms in this vicinity were things of no consideration. Three wheels of a buggy were smashed, and a hay wagon belonging to William David was upset and the hay scattered. Owen Simons was moved six feet from its foundation.

Wm. David's oldest son has been working for some time from a badly swollen foot, but better. For several days he had to submit to a milk diet.

A family by the name of Nelson from Crookston have moved into their new residence seven and a half miles from this station.

Peter Wormiger and Felix Ranenbarger have been to Crookston to get a deed of the land on to which the homestiller will be moved in a short time.

LATE MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Wheat.

DULUTH, July 19.

WHEAT—Cash, No. 1 hard, 72½c; No. 1 Northern, 70½c; No. 2 Northern, 69c; No. 3, 65½c. On track—No 1 hard, 72½c; July, 70½c; September, 70½c; December, 71½c.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 19.

WHEAT—In Store—No. 1 Northern, July, 68¾@69c; September, 69¾@70½c; December, 69¾c. On Track—No 1 hard, 70½c; No. 1 Northern, 69½c; No. 2 Northern, 67½c.

Sioux City Live Stock.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 19.

HOGS—Market the higher. Range of prices, $3.90@4.20.

CATTLE—Market steady.

Sales ranged at $4.15@5.50 for beeves $2.60@4.00 for cows, bulls and mixed. $3.00@3.20 for stockers and feeders. $3.40 @3.85 for yearlings on ons.

Receipts: Hogs, 2,000; cattle, 400.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, July 19.

HOGS—Market 10@15c higher. Range of sales, $3.90@4.25.

CATTLE—Market for butcher cattle; firm. Good demand and cattle scarce

Sales ranged at $4.40@5.15 for steers; $3.00@4.20 for cows, $2.75@4.75 for heifers; 13.25 for bulls; $3.00@3.30 for calves; $4.40 for calves.

SHEEP—Market firm; better demand than last week

Sales ranged at $3.00@4.10 for sheep; $4.25@5.60 for lambs.

Receipts: Hogs, 5500; cattle, 300; sheep, 550, calves, 200.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, July 19.

HOGS—Market fully 5c higher.

Sales ranged at $4.30@4.50 for mixed and butchers, $4.20@4.50 for good heavy; $4.30@4.35 for rough heavy; $4.30@4.40 for light.

CATTLE—Market steady.

Sales ranged at $4.65@5.60 for beeves, $2.60@4.90 for cows and heifers, $3.40@ 4.00 for Texas steers; $3.90@4.65 for stockers and feeders.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Sales ranged at $3.00@3.90 for sheep; $3.25@5.60 for lambs.

Receipts: Hogs, 30,000; cattle, 1,200, sheep, 11,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CLOSING PRICES.

CHICAGO, July 19.

WHEAT—July, 70½c; September, 71¾; 71¼c; December, 73c; May, 75½c.

CORN—July, 32½c September, 32½c; December 31½c; May, 36½ 36¾c.

OATS—July, 24½c; September, 20¼@ 20½c; December, 19¾@20c; May, 22¾@ 23c.

PORK—July, $9.20; September, $9.30; October, $9.30½.

BUTTER—Creameries, 13½@17; dairies, 11@15½.

EGGS—Fresh, 12c.

POULTRY—Dressed chickens, 9@9½c; turkeys, 8c.

Crookston Market.

The following is the price of wheat quoted in the local market this morning:

No. 1 hard	.62c
No. 1 northern	.62c
No. 2 northern	.58c

NORTHWESTERN CROPS.

Late Official Reports Show a Higher Average Than Former Ones.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Reports from the department of agriculture, division of statistics, indicate an increase of 2,823,000 acres of corn planted this year. Wisconsin, Iowa and South Dakota show an increase of between 300,000 and 500,000 acres each. Other crops show a like increase in the number of acres planted, and the most favorable results are announced.

During last month the improvement in the condition of spring wheat was one point in Minnesota and North Dakota, six points in South Dakota and two points in Iowa. The condition of oats improved seven points in Minnesota, one point in Wisconsin and seven points in Iowa.

The present condition of barley is higher than it has been in 14 years, being 96 in Minnesota, 100 in Iowa, 98 in Wisconsin, 93 in South Dakota and 93 in North Dakota.

The Sandalwood Bracelet

MISS CONSIDINE was the rage that season; a tall, haughty-looking girl, with magnificent great dark eyes, and a torrent of dusky black hair, which she was always contriving to wear as nobody else did, tumbling over her shoulders clumsily or wreathed about her small, elegantly-shaped head.

She was a stranger in the town, but she brought letters of introduction from people of the highest respectability in the metropolis, and was accompanied by a staid-looking lady of middle age, who always wore pearl-colored silk and performed chaperon slightly in an altogether irreproachable manner.

Miss Considine's toilets were artistic perfection. Her locus were priceless, said judges; her jewelry dazzled the eyes of even accustomed upperteendom.

Miss Considine was a mystery, and the greater sensation, perhaps, for that very chill whisper which seemed to hint in the air about her, and which had its foundation in the mere shadow of the beauty's brilliant color, the thickness of her liquid glances at unexpected moments, and for no apparent reason.

She was a coquette of the first water. That was a discovery early made. She had a way of looking sidewise through those long silky lashes of hers that was positively scary during than a level glance would have been, and the effect which visited those ruby lips only now and then was doubly attractive from its infrequency.

A creature of dangerous graces, she was what people mean when they call a woman fatal. Men ianghed heaven in her glance, and counted that lost when her sable lashes drooped.

My Lady Dangerous met her match, however, toward the close of the season. A yellow-haired Germania, whose name glance had a softer dazzle than her own, and who called himself by the fascinating title of Count Ludwig Coronandorf, presented himself about that time to compete with the beautiful girl for her place as sensation of the day.

He was shy of Miss Considine at first, but gradually he was seemed to be drawn within the circle of her wiles, yielding with such a reluctant, passive grace as did his radiant face with a new charm. Even Miss Considine dropped her dangerous eyes with flickering blush under the tender brilliancy of the count's smile, and her fingers trembled in his clasp, instead of resenting the foul, faint pressure of his hand. Count Ludwig Vermandorf was an assured success. Never favorite knelt at the shrine of his patron saint with more rapt and untiring devotion than he at the feet of Miss Considine.

It was not new to the coquettish beauty to be sought humbly. But this man was her master, even at her own game.

He knew how to clothe his most impassioned moment with a reserve that continually mocked and tantalized; to say one thing and look another; to sting with a word and smile to touch. He never said too much, but always too little. His looks were eloquent of love; his tongue so silent on that fascinating theme, that the heart of the haughty beauty grew to fairly writhe within her with mingled pain and anger.

Count Ludwig was an artist of some talent, and he insisted that he must paint Miss Considine's portrait. She was not at all loath, though she feigned reluctance when it was first spoken of.

These sittings, from which she hoped much, and for which she always took a perfect shape with every artistic compliment her rare taste could devise, proved utter failures as far as her object was concerned.

Whether or not it was the same with Count Ludwig remains to be seen. He would permit no one, not even the beautiful subject, to look upon his picture while it remained incomplete.

Miss Considine, since her acquaintance with the fascinating count, had changed strangely. All that rich, radical bloom, peculiarly hers, had vanished. Instead was a dusky pallor varied by fitful crimson flashes, like the leap of a smoldering flame. Count Ludwig had changed also. The soft assurance of his handsome face had turned to the cold dazzle of snow peaks; his smile was like the ice beneath. His blue eyes were like steel magnets.

It was as though from this man emanated some deadly energy overpowering which Miss Considine cowered before, but could not resist. It was scarcely lover and loved one. It seemed rather the executioner and his victim.

One night Miss Considine invited a select few to witness the unveiling of the mysterious picture about which there had been such conjecture. A sensation was expected. The magnificent drawing-room was ablaze with light, a-flutter with expectant guests. The veiled portrait occupied a prominent position at the lower end of the long salon, and thither pressed the throng, the peerless belle conspicuous upon the arm of the artist, Count Ludwig.

Both were pale, but the count smiled right and left, dazzling. The beauty was grave and silent, watching the man upon whose arms she leaned tortirely; and with a half-foreboding look in her liquid dark eyes. From time to time she pressed one jeweled hand suddenly upon her side, as if to still the throbbing of the stormy sea beneath, while she continually questioned herself:

"Why do I fear? What is this terror that steals my very senses from me? He cannot know."

At last Count Ludwig loosened her jeweled fingers from his arm; and, stepping forward, drew the curtain with a sweep of the hand.

There was an instant's breathless silence. An affrighted amaze seemed to stop the beating of every heart. Then broke forth exclamations and outcry, and above all, like the death shriek of a soul in torment, a woman's voice:

I PUT LIKE A CHICKEN THIEF.

"Jew!" cried Lucille, "you worked so hard for that money."

"So has she." I said. "And I am young and strong, while she is old and can help less. Oh, Lucille, if you knew how I loathed myself lately."

Lucille looked in her arms, and then explained things to Bob, while I cried a little, though I couldn't help thinking what Dr. Diggleson would have said at my behavior.

We got Bob off at last, as happy as a lord, and then Lucille embraced me again.

"You were never out out for a capitalist. I knew it all the time," she cried, triumphantly.

"Thank you, dear," I said, meekly. "And say, Lucille, let's go to hear Maude Adams to-night."

"Why," she exclaimed, her eyes as big as saucers, "the prices are way up in G."

"Who cares?" I said. "I'm richer tonight than I've been for years."

And we went.—Chicago Times-Herald.

How His Head Was.

A passenger on a Cunard steamship had a very bad headache and kept her to believe that a seaman is not apt to wash many thoughtson his personal troubles. The sailor who brought her to this opinion had a fall, which resulted in a bad cut on the head, the second day out. She was solicitous in her inquiries as to his welfare when she saw the captain that night, and would undoubtedly have continued her sympathy had not a rough sea called to mind her own sufferings. Four days later, when she emerged, white and weak from her stateroom, she suddenly remembered the poor sailor. In the course of the day she saw him, with a strip of plaster on his forehead. "How is your head?" she asked, kindly, as he passed by her bent on some duty; "that is south, ma'am," was the reply, delivered with respectful but hasty clearness, and he was gone.—Golden Days.

BURIED IN DEBRIS.

Twenty-five Milwaukee Firemen Carried Down With a Burning Building.

MILWAUKEE, July 18.—Fire destroyed the Grand hotel, a 4-story brick structure at the corner of Park and Reed streets on the South Side. About twenty-five firemen were injured of whom five may die. It was the most serious fire of the kind since the Davidson theater was destroyed at which time about a dozen firemen lost their lives. Most of the injured were taken to the Emergency hospital. The pecuniary loss will not reach over $20,000.

The dangerously injured are: Peter O'Connor, shockingly burned about the head and shoulders, recovery doubtful; Michael Quirk, back and head injured and internal injuries, recovery doubtful; Knute Evenson, reported fatally injured; Captain P. J. Linehan, recovery doubtful; John Wolf, recovery doubtful. Lodge the body of Edward Haley, pipeman of Engine Company No. 2, was found in the ruins.

Structure Concurrently Collapsed.

Two alarms were sent in owing to the dangerous locality. At a time when the fire seemed to be under control and while a dozen of the firemen were in the structure to subdue what little flames were left, and many others on the roof, the structure tumbled with a loud sound and nothing but a mass of debris was left.

The firemen on the roof and those on the ladders and within were thrown with the ruins. It was an unexpected catastrophe and the crowd worked as one man when they realized what had happened. The work of rescue then began and as fast as the fire fighters could be got out ambulances and conveyances hurried to the Emergency hospital, where the injured men received the necessary attention.

Births.

To Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bredwick, on Sunday, July 16, a daughter.

Deaths.

LOSSELLE.

On Sunday, July 17, at her home in Gentilly, Mrs. Octave Losselle, aged 41 years, of consumption. The funeral took place from the Gentilly church on Tuesday.

Wheelmen's Excursion.

to Boston and return via Nickel Plate Road, at $18.00 for the round trip, Tickets on sale October 11 and 12. Good returning for arrival at destination not later than August 31. Consulting tickets in Boston, with Agent Fitchburg R. R. Two through trains daily with vestibuled sleeping cars to Boston. Chicago depot, Van Buren Street and Pacific Ave., on the Loop.

Education and Fine Scenery.

Go well together. Those going to the N. E. A. at Los Angeles will be better prepared for it by going via the Northern Pacific. Shasta route. Tickets good for stopovers. Call on Northern Pacific agents for information in detail.

Farm For Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—north west quarter of section 23, town 150, range 45, in the village of Gentilly. About 100 acres under cheap cultivation. No. 1 buildings, including large barn, well finished, large barn for stock, granary and cribs. Plenty of water and well; creek that never goes dry, close to school house, about four miles of the farm. For further terms enquire of N. Brasseur, at Ottawa House, Crookston, Minn.

Report of Condition

OF THE

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON.

In the State of Minnesota, at the close of business on the 11th day of June, 1899.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts	$271,186.70
Overdrafts	1,000.00
Furniture and Fixtures	1,000.00
Due from banks and bankers	54,345.71
Cash on hand	21,196.87
Revenue Stamps	50.00
Total	7.33
LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock	$ 50,000.00
Surplus Fund	10,000.00
Undivided Profits less expenses and taxes paid	8,681.64
Dividends unpaid	1,000.00
Individual Deposits subject to check	185,750.91
Demand Certificates of Deposit	17,700.00
Time Certificates of Deposit	49,500.00
Total	$322,632.55

I, L. Ellington, cashier of the Scandia-American Bank of Crookston, Minnesota, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief. L. ELLINGTON, Cashier.

State of Minnesota } ss.
County of Polk }

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of July A. D. 1899.

L. C. HANSON, Notary Public.

(SEAL)

Correct Attest:
A. S. SIVERTSON
L. ELLINGTON } Directors.

Notice of First Meeting of Creditors.

In the District Court of the United States for the district of Minnesota.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

In the matter of George H. Walker, bankrupt.

To the creditors of George H. Walker, of Crookston, in the county of Polk, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 11th day of July, 1899, the said George H. Walker was duly adjudged bankrupt; that the first meeting of his creditors will be held at the office of the Referee in Bankruptcy, in the City of Crookston, in Polk County, Minnesota, on the 22nd day of July, 1899, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

Dated at Crookston, Minn., July 13, 1899.

OLE J. VAGLE,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

The Nickel Plate Road.

Will sell excursion tickets to Chautauqua Lake and return from Chicago, at one fare for the round trip, with return limit of August 26, 1899, by depositing ticket at Chautauqua not later than July 31. Tickets good on any of our three daily trains. Cheap rates to other Eastern points. Van Buren St. Passenger Station, on the Loop. For further information, address the General Agent, 111 Adams St. Chicago.

Summons

State of Minnesota, } ss. District Court
County of Polk, } 3rd Judicial District.

John McKenzie, Plaintiff, vs. Mary Ann Franklin, Hiram Franklin, Jr., Hiram Franklin, Sr., Nellie Franklin, Defendants.

The State of Minnesota to the above named defendants:

You are hereby required to answer the complaint of the plaintiff in the above entitled action, which was filed in the office of the clerk of the district court in and for said county and state, on the 17th day of July, 1899, and to serve a copy of your answer to said complaint on the subscribers at their office in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, within twenty days after the service of this summons upon you, exclusive of the day of such service; and if you fail to answer said complaint within the time aforesaid, the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated March 17, 1899.

A. J. MILLER,
Attorney for Plaintiff.
Office and post office address, Crookston, Minnesota.

Mortgage Sale.

(First publication July 20, 1899.)

Default having been made in the conditions of that certain power of sale contained in a mortgage dated the 8th day of March, 1898, executed by Peter Lund, of Polk county, Minnesota, on the 9th day of March, 1898, to the Northern Trust Company, a corporation of Minneapolis, Minnesota, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for Polk county, Minnesota, on the 9th day of March, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m., and was duly assigned by said mortgagee on June 1st, 1899, to Thomas Lowry, Thomas Wilson and Horace Thompson, trustees under the will of Martin Kennedy, deceased, by assignment duly recorded in said office of the register of deeds on the 1st day of June, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m., and there is now due and claimed to be due on said mortgage and the note thereby secured the sum of seventy hundred dollars, principal, and interest thereon from the 1st day of March, 1898, at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, and attorney's fee of $100 and the taxes on said premises for the year 1898, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and the whole of said debt being now due and payable, and the power of sale in said mortgage contained having become operative by reason of said default, I will, by virtue of said power of sale and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, sell at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash in the manner and form following, to wit:

At the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on Saturday, the 12th day of August 1899, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, the premises described in said mortgage, to-wit: All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Polk and state of Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit:

The west half of the northeast quarter (e½ of ne¼) and the east half of the southeast quarter (e½ of se¼) of section thirty-four (34), in township one hundred fifty (150), range forty-three (43) west of the fifth principal meridian, containing one hundred sixty acres more or less according to the United States Government Survey thereof, subject to a mortgage for seven hundred dollars, dated March 8, 1898, given by Peter Lund to Northern Trust Company, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for said county of Polk on the 9th day of March, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m., which said mortgage is now held by said Thomas Lowry, Thomas Wilson and Horace Thompson, trustees as aforesaid.

Said premises will be sold subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of such sale, as provided by law.

Dated at Crookston, Minn., July 20th, 1899.

THOMAS LOWRY,
THOMAS WILSON,
HORACE THOMPSON,
Trustees under the will of Martin Kennedy, deceased.

A. J. MILLER,
Attorney for Trustees.
Office and post office address, Crookston, Minnesota.

Mortgage Sale.

Notice is hereby given that default has been made in the conditions of that certain power of sale contained in a mortgage dated the 8th day of March, 1898, executed by Peter Lund, of Polk county, Minnesota, on the 9th day of March, 1898, to the Northern Trust Company, a corporation of Minneapolis, Minnesota, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for said Polk county, Minnesota, on the 9th day of March, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m., and was duly assigned by said mortgagee on June 1st, 1899, to Thomas Lowry, Thomas Wilson and Horace Thompson, trustees under the will of Martin Kennedy, deceased, by assignment duly recorded in said office of the register of deeds on the 1st day of June, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m., and there is now due and claimed to be due on said mortgage and the note thereby secured the sum of seventy hundred dollars, principal, and interest thereon from the 1st day of March, 1898, at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, and attorney's fee of $100 and the taxes on said premises for the year 1898, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and the whole of said debt being now due and payable, and the power of sale in said mortgage contained having become operative by reason of said default, I will, by virtue of said power of sale and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, sell at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash in the manner and form following, to wit:

At the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on Saturday, the 12th day of August 1899, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, the premises described in said mortgage, to-wit: All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Polk and state of Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit:

The west half of the northeast quarter (w½ of ne¼) and the east half of the southeast quarter (e½ of se¼) of section thirty-four (34), in township one hundred fifty (150), range forty-three (43) west of the fifth principal meridian, containing one hundred sixty acres more or less according to the United States Government Survey thereof, subject to a mortgage for seven hundred dollars, dated March 8, 1898, given by Peter Lund to Northern Trust Company, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for said county of Polk on the 9th day of March, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m., which said mortgage is now held by said Thomas Lowry, Thomas Wilson and Horace Thompson, trustees as aforesaid.

Said premises will be sold subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of such sale, as provided by law.

Dated at Crookston, Minn., July 20, 1899.

THOMAS LOWRY,
THOMAS WILSON,
HORACE THOMPSON,
Trustees under the will of Martin Kennedy, deceased.

A. J. MILLER,
Attorney for Trustees.
Office and post office address, Crookston, Minnesota.

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk.—ss.

In District Court, Third Judicial District.

Ole Anderson, Plaintiff, vs. Ole Olson, Defendant.

You are hereby summoned to be and appear in the district court of Polk county, Minnesota, on the 30th day of December 1899 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the city of Crookston, in said county, to answer the complaint of J. F. Matheus in a civil action brought against you in said court by the plaintiff to recover the sum of Fifteen Hundred Dollars, with interest thereon from the 1st day of January, 1899, and costs of suit, and unless you appear and answer the said complaint as required by law, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said plaintiff before the said court at my office in said city of Crookston, on the 30th day of December 1899.

JOHN McLEAN,
Clerk of the Court.

Order For Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk.—ss.

In Probate Court, Special Term, June 28, 1899

In the matter of the estate of Michael Quirk, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of Michael Quirk, deceased, late of the county of Polk, State of Minnesota, having been issued to Daniel Quirk and John Quirk.

It is ordered, that six months be and the same is hereby allowed from and after the date of this order in which all persons having claims against said deceased may present the same to this court for examination and allowance, and that such claims be heard before the Judge of this court, at the Probate Court office in Crookston in said county, on Friday the 8th day of December 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m.

And it is further ordered, that the said petitioner cause notice of the time and place of hearing of said claims to be given by publishing this order once each week for three successive weeks in the Polk County Journal, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.

Dated in Crookston Minn. the 15th day of July A. D. 1899.

By the Court.
OLE E. HAGEN,
Judge of Probate.

Order for Hearing Petition for Probate of Will.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk.—ss.

In Probate Court, special term June 23, 1899.

In the matter of the estate of Henry M. Schaeper, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Jerome Schaeper, praying that administration of the estate of Henry M. Schaeper, deceased, late of the county of Polk, State of Minnesota, be granted to Jerome Schaeper, and that said estate, and property be sold, and the proceeds thereof applied to the payment of the indebtedness of said deceased, and for such other and further relief as may be just and proper in the premises.

It is ordered that said account be examined, and said petition be heard by the Judge of this Court on Friday the 7th day of July A. D. 1899 at two o'clock p. m. at the Probate office in Crookston in said county.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing this order for three successive weeks in the Polk County Journal, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.

Dated in Crookston Minn. the 24th day of June A. D. 1899.

By the Court.
A. A. MILLER, OLE E. HAGEN,
Attorney for Petitioner. Judge of Probate.

Summons for Publication.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk.—ss.

In District Court, Third Judicial District.

Ole Olson, Plaintiff, vs. Ole Anderson, Defendant.

You are hereby summoned to be and appear in the district court of Polk county, Minnesota, on the 30th day of December 1899 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in the city of Crookston, in said county, to answer the complaint of J. F. Matheus in a civil action brought against you in said court by the plaintiff to recover the sum of Fifteen Hundred Dollars, with interest thereon from the 1st day of January, 1899, and costs of suit, and unless you appear and answer the said complaint as required by law, judgment will be rendered against you upon the evidence adduced by said plaintiff before the said court at my office in said city of Crookston, on the 30th day of December 1899.

JOHN McLEAN,
Clerk of the Court.

Order for Hearing on Petition for Probate of Will.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk.—ss.

In Probate Court, special term June 23, 1899.

In the matter of the estate of Henry M. Schaeper, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Jerome Schaeper, praying that administration of the estate of Henry M. Schaeper, deceased, late of the county of Polk, State of Minnesota, be granted to Jerome Schaeper, and that said estate, and property be sold, and the proceeds thereof applied to the payment of the indebtedness of said deceased, and for such other and further relief as may be just and proper in the premises.

It is ordered that said account be examined, and said petition be heard by the Judge of this Court on Friday the 7th day of July A. D. 1899 at two o'clock p. m. at the Probate office in Crookston in said county.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing this order for three successive weeks in the Polk County Journal, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.

Dated in Crookston Minn. the 24th day of June A. D. 1899.

By the Court.
A. A. MILLER, OLE E. HAGEN,
Attorney for Petitioner. Judge of Probate.

Order for Hearing Petition for Probate of Will.

State of Minnesota, county of Polk.—ss.

In Probate Court, special term June 23, 1899.

In the matter of the estate of Henry M. Schaeper, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Jerome Schaeper, praying that administration of the estate of Henry M. Schaeper, deceased, late of the county of Polk, State of Minnesota, be granted to Jerome Schaeper, and that said estate, and property be sold, and the proceeds thereof applied to the payment of the indebtedness of said deceased, and for such other and further relief as may be just and proper in the premises.

It is ordered that said account be examined, and said petition be heard by the Judge of this Court on Friday the 7th day of July A. D. 1899 at two o'clock p. m. at the Probate office in Crookston in said county.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing this order for three successive weeks in the Polk County Journal, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.

Dated in Crookston Minn. the 24th day of June A. D. 1899.

By the Court.
A. A. MILLER, OLE E. HAGEN,
Attorney for Petitioner. Judge of Probate.

Polk County Journal,

BY N. S. GORDON.

Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

AMONG the many exchanges there is perhaps, no other weekly so newsy and neatly gotten up as the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL. Papers like the JOURNAL are well worthy of all the praise the rest of the craft can give.—McIntosh Tribune.

THE Grain Growers' Co-operative Association, which was to have held a state meeting at St. Paul on July 7, postponed that meeting till next September. It was learned that an association of grain dealers headed by ex-Congressman Boen had arranged to get control of the grain growers' organization, hence the adjournment. The membership will be enlarged before September so that at that time the farmers will not be out-voted by grain dealers.

PUBLIC schools were opened at Manila on July 3, which start out with an enrollment of 3,000 pupils. It is the first time in the history of the Philippine islands that primary education is free to all children. The majority of the parents are delighted with this American practice and are anxious to have their children taught. Gen. Otis will make attendance compulsory of all children between six and twelve years of age.—Red Wing Argus. And yet it is said by political opponents of the government that the Americans are trying to enslave the Filipinos.

"AMERICANS' DAY" has become a feature at the Winnipeg Industrial Exposition. Last week thousands from the Red River Valley went to the capital of the province of Manitoba to see the agricultural exhibits, to take in the entertainment furnished, and to see and talk with our Canadian cousins, whom they found a large hearted, hospitable lot of people, though a trifle slower than the average Yankee. This cordiality and friendliness between the members of the Anglo Saxon race in this quarter of the globe is only another proof of the fact that the English speaking peoples are uniting more and more every day. It is hoped that the Alaskan boundary question will be amicably settled so that the present friendly relations between the United States and Canada will be continued.

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that the people of the city declared most distinctly last Saturday evening at the school election that the schools are not here to be used by politicians for their own personal advantage, one of the same men who took part in the defeat of a certain set of candidates to gain control of the school board is now trying to organize the new board. This man's advance in educational matters has been discredited by the people and yet, despite this fact, he is striving to retain his hold on the schools. The people by their vote at the school election expressed the desire that personal and political considerations be eliminated from school affairs, still this man is trying to have the new board elect the officers who suite wishes. We think, however, that the members of the board are fully competent to organize that body without any assistance from outside.

IT IS well with that community which takes a deep interest in its educational affairs, and the people of Crookston are to be congratulated upon the flrm and fearless stand which they took upon the school question at the election held last Saturday evening in the high school building. Their presence there in large numbers and their evident determination to see to it that no harm come to the schools manifests an intelligent sympathy with those forces which make for the development of the youth, in whom lies the strength of the nation. By the election of A. A. Miller, A. P. Hanson and J. H. McKinnon for as trustees, by an overwhelming majority, the people said clearly and emphatically that politicians must keep their hands off the educational system of the city, that the schools are here to train and inspire the boys and girls and not for the personal aggrandizement of any individual. The people were aroused to action by the recent mismanagement of school affairs on the part of the board of education, and the verdict pronounced by them on Saturday evening ought to be a warning to all would be controllers of educational matters, that the men and women of this city will not submit to have any political clique dictate in the least as to the policy to be pursued in the schools. Education, in the eyes of the citizens, is too sacred a matter to be tampered with by men who are seeking thereby merely to enlarge the sphere of their own influence. The schools of Crookston shall be managed for the well being of the community and no political boss shall control and hence injure them. Thus have the people spoken and their voice is law.

SECRETARY OF WAR ALGER has tendered his resignation and the president will accept it. Mr. Alger has at last bowed to the will of the people who for many months have been demanding that he retire. This demand was based upon the fact that Mr. Alger had clearly shown himself incompetent to manage the affairs of the war department. He has been a burden upon the administration ever since the war started and it would have been better for the administration and for himself had he withdrawn long ago.

TEN staff correspondents of American newspapers, who are stationed at Manila, have united in making a statement to the effect that General Otis has exercised a censorship over Press dispatches to the exclusion of the facts in the Philippine situation. They do not believe that "the situation is well in hand" but, far from it. These correspondents are known to be men of discernment and judgment and what they say must have great weight with the people. The administration ought to thoroughly investigate the matter and if General Otis is not succeeding then some other officer should be placed in command. Nothing would please the American people more than to see General Miles at the head of the army in the East.

THE harmony that prevailed at the Republican state convention of Kentucky, which was held last week, was in strong contrast with the confusion and pandemonium that broke loose when the democrats met a few weeks ago. William S. Taylor was chosen as candidate for governor. Before the convention convened there was some skirmishing around by other candidates, but after the meeting was called to order Taylor's name was presented by his leading opponent, and seconded by his other opponent. This state of affairs in Kentucky only adds to the weight of the evidence already accumulated that goes to show that harmony prevails in the Republican ranks. Next year will see William McKinley carry the election for presidency by a larger majority than before.

SECRETARY ALGER is reported to have said: "If my critics can point to one thing in my official career that I have done that I ought not to have done, or that I have not done that I should have done, I shall be very glad to surrender my present official duties." We doubt if there is another man prominent in government circles in Washington who would have the presumption to claim for himself such veritude, and we feel sure that Alger himself is the farthest from such a blameless record. Were we to make a statement with reference to his official acts we should say that he had done those things which he ought not to have done and left undone those things which he ought to have done. His contemptible treatment of General Miles ever since the war started is sufficient cause for his removal from the cabinet. His attempt to hold the American army in Cuba after Santiago had fallen, which attempt was frustrated by Colonel Roosevelt, was another of his egregious blunders. But time would fail us were we to try and enumerate Alger's errors. The American people are calling for his resignation and their judgment in the case has been framed from facts.

LIST OF TAX PAYERS.

These pay Personal Taxes on Assessment of More Than $4,000.

The city board of equalization after spending more than a week in going over the city's tax list, completed their work last Saturday. Given below is a list of all corporations and individual persons of the city who pay personal taxes on an assessment of $4,000 and over, also the valuation of the personal property.

C W W P & L Co.	$ 12 338
C. Lumber Co.	1 860
Deering Harvester Co.	1 860
Ellis & Smith	2 790
Ellis & Smith	2 790
Fontaine & Austin	16 740
W. E. Nobbs	1 860
J. E. O'Brien & Co.	1 860
Red River Roller Mill	9 765
Rood & Holmboe	1 860
Reed & Lyon	1 860
Thompson & Watercode	3 720
T. F. Walker	1 860
Merchants' National Bank	28 710
Austin & Locken	2 790
H F Hyer	1 860
A. G. Anderson	1 860
O. Austin	1 860
O. G. Bjella	1 860
O. G. Bjella & Co	1 860
L. I. Benson	1 860
Collins Bros	1 860
A. Clemens	1 860
S. L. Collins	1 860
A. Chaffee	1 860
H. D. Cilley & Co.	2 790
Crookston	1 860
Crookston	1 860
First National Bank	31 000
F. Bjornah	1 860
S. C. Johnson	1 860
Jorgenson	1 860
L. E. Jensen	2 480
Lee & Carpenter	1 860
John B. Lee	1 860
John B. Mellhonen	1 860
A. F. & A. McKinnon	1 860
Wm. Monch	1 860
North Dakota Miller Association	1 860
Ray Mercantile Co	10 695
O. Nesheim	1 860
Northern Alberta Elevator Co	1 550
Nash Bros	1 860
Standard Oil Co	1 860
H Steenerson	1 860
N P Stone	1 860
Scandia American Bank	27 900
Building & Loan Association	2 480

Personal property, city of Crookston.

Year	Valued by City Board	Valued by State Board
1896	...,000	...,000
1897	...,000,477	...,318,...0
1898	...,279,000	...,...,000
1899	...,...,136	...,...,...0
1899	...,...,200	...not valued yet

Elsewhere.

Hendrum will have fire protection.

Alexandria is arranging to erect a new $11,000 county jail.

Six gambling dens at Grand Forks were raided by the police last week.

Kittson county Agricultural Fair will be held at Hallock on Aug. 1 and 2.

The East Grand Forks saw mill will begin cutting about the middle of August.

Bob Dunn, the state auditor, says Judge Collins will receive his support for governor.

Bemidji may have a big shooting tournament some time during the latter part of August.

A large saw mill, equipped with the most modern machinery has been opened at Thief River Falls.

Several cases of black diphtheria have developed at St. Hilaire and two deaths have already occurred.

Two men attempted to cross a bog near Warroad. One was found half way in the mud, the other is still missing.

Grass hoppers have destroyed about forty acres of flax in Clay county. They attack only the young and tender flax.

The members of the Editorial Association of North Dakota will take an outing at Bemidji today and tomorrow.

A new law department with a two years course and a full faculty will be opened this fall in connection with the North Dakota University at Grand Forks.

Edward Groven, of Bagley, has obtained a valuable patent for improvements in straw stackers. He expects to have his new stacker on the market in a very short time.

Never was there a time in this state when there were less mortgages given or more released than now. Never before were real estate transfers being made or better prices being paid for land.

At Hendrum a short time ago while walking in her sleep Bessie Bangs walked out of an up-stairs window, falling to the ground, face downward. She sustained only very slight injuries.

Hon. James Cummings, of Mallory, says the Fisher Bulletin, is more than happy over the arrival of n member of the third house, who came last Saturday morning. The little fellow showed that he has a good voice and was at once elected speaker by acclamation.

Recently Miss Anna Anderson, for many years a clerk in Fargo, and Miss Enderle, also a clerk in a dry goods house there, have formed a partnership and will open a dry goods store at Ada, Minn. The young ladies are thoroughly equipped with capital and experience.

The preparations for the State Fair are progressing in most vigorous style. All arrangements for lighting the grounds in the evening are complete, and will be erected so that there can be no possible failure of light for the events which will bring out great crowds from the cities. The agricultural and live stock exhibits promise to be very fine.

A partial list compiled by the Chicago Tribune from only 350 cities and towns showed the following results of celebrating the Fourth of July: Dead, 36; injured, 1,851: fire losses, $422,570: injured by cannon crackers, 869; by powder explosions, 248; by toy cannon, 369; hit by stray bullets, 60. A complete list would probably swell these aggregates from five to tenfold.

Judge Watts has handed down his decision in the case of M. O. Sorteland vs the county commissioners, of Red Lake county. The commissioners last January appointed Swanson and Grady as official abstracters and Sorteland appealed. The judge dismisses the appeal but finds that the county commissioners had no authority to appoint official abstracters, and thus the appointment is of no legal effect.

Under the new law, passed last winter by the legislature, all questions for teachers examinations are furnished by the state superintendent. The certificates are double in form. The county superintendent will pass on the professional ability, of the applicant, his morals, executive ability, etc., and the state superintendent will pass on the questions that he has furnished, taking into consideration the markings of the county superintendent, which are merely recommendations.

A national park or forestry reserve association has been formed in Chicago for the purpose of promoting the governmental preservation of the forests in Northern Minnesota. The land in question covers an area of about 7,000,000 acres, including the larger part of the counties of Crow Wing, Cass, Aitkin, Wadena, Hubbard, Beltrami and Itasca. Within this area are the head waters of the Mississippi, over a thousand lakes, and the finest fishing and hunting country in the State.

Notes From Exchanges.

Marshall County Banner: Capt. Van Sant is nosing around again with an eye on the gubernatorial nomination at the hands of the Republicans. If someone should happen to forget himself and say "Eddy Van Sant wouldn't be worth "Von Sent."

Alexandria Post News: Everything is working toward the complete absorbing of the populist organization by the Democracy. Mr. Lind through his numerous private secretary, is perfecting a new and far reaching party organization and it will not know the name of Populism. He evidently has decided to abandon the role of "political orphan" and adopt himself into the democracy.

St. Peter Herald: Capt. S. R. Van Sant, the Winona man has again decided to launch his gubernatorial balloon. The State papers which are presumed to be in a position to make authentic statements have announced that he would be in the race next year in earnest. There is no use disguising the fact that Van Sant is closer to the common people than any other Republican candidate, and a race between Lind and Van Sant would be interesting.

Poultry Herald: Don't neglect to give the poultry house a thorough cleaning out and white washing. After changing the roosts and nests give them a thorough drenching with kerosene oil before putting in clean nest material and replacing them. Four or five inches of the dirt floor should be removed and then replaced with clean sharp gravel, sand or earth that is as dry as you can find. This work done in hot weather will insure dry floors next winter, and a flock of healthy, hardy fowls.

Princeton Union: One or two of the Twin City papers still insist that Senator Nelson should correct his social habits and become a "sassiety" man to the extent of attending the social functions gotten up by the city people. Senator Nelson is not a statesman of the white-tailed coat variety, but is one of the working kind: if the cities must have a society man they will have to go somewhere else to get him. Meanwhile the state at large will continue more than ever satisfied with the work of the junior senator.

Red Wing Republican: In the interest of good roads the farmer should be laboring everywhere; and, in the next campaign he should see to it not only that the state legislators will vote for the senator of his choice, and do other things which he may desire, but that they are pledged to hasten along the improvement of the common roads of the state. For the common welfare and the prosperity of our people this means more than all the political issues, that are likely to be raised, put together.

Journal of River Falls Press: Daniel Johnson, a farmer living about two miles south of this city, was the unfortunate victim of misplaced confidence last Saturday. He, with his team, was working on the road; his team was hitched to a scraper, and in turning around the horses became tangled in the harness. He stepped in back of them to fix matters when one of them kicked, striking him in the face just below his eye. A physician was called when it was found that the cheek bones were broken. His face will be slightly disfigured.

Beltrami County News: Last week the town of Bemidji assembly held an election and voted unanimously to separate from the village of Bemidji for assessment and other purposes. The returns were duly filed. Then along came the brilliant county attorney, examined the returns and promptly declared the election null and void, one of the reasons cited being that the village of Bemidji had not been legally incorporated. Street prepared the articles of incorporation and was paid an exhorbitant fee for the work. What do you think of it?

St. Cloud Journal-Press: It is evident that Governor Lind and Public Examiner Pope "slopped over" badly when they closed the Savings bank of St. Paul. The institution had over a million dollars deposits. At a meeting every demand upon it, and there was every reason to believe that it could continue to be solvent. It had safely weathered the panic of '93, and the real estate which had come into its hands through foreclosure was steadily advancing in value. But notwithstanding this and in the most arbitrary and unjustifiable manner, Governor Lind ordered the bank to be closed and appointed the appointment of a receiver. Whatever the court may decide as to this, the bank has been wrecked and the stockholders are the sufferers. Not a single creditor asked the governor or public examiner to interfere; there was no justification for their action, and the only regret is that they will escape while the innocent must suffer.

$19.00 to Boston and Return.

via Nickel Plate Road, August 11 and 12. Good returning for arrival at initial starting point not later than August 31. Write General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago, for particulars and sleeping car accommodations.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Makes the food more delicious and wholesome

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

CROOKSTON SUMMER SCHOOL.

Over 100 Teachers Present--Excellent Work is Being Done.

The summer school now in session at the high school building is now well organized and in full working trim. "Rise early in the Morning" is the motto of instructors and students. No one seems to be afraid of hard work and this spirit of industry speaks much for the success of the work of this school, both on the part of instructors and students.

While the attendance this season is not present writing only about one half of the usual number, it is no way impairs the benefit to those who have come here to heartily devote themselves to improvement along the lines of their profession. There may be some good reasons for the absence of a hundred teachers of this county. About seventy-five of the schools closed their summer term Friday last and the teachers of these schools could not, therefore, be present at the opening day, but their presence is expected soon. The enrollment on Monday was 100. There are something over 200 districts in Polk county. The county superintendent is doing all in his power to induce his teachers to attend and to make the school a success, having recently sent a personal letter to each absentee, stating the high grade of work being done, and urging all to avail themselves of the pressing opportunities. This is a matter in which the county superintendent should have the co-operation of state authority. The certificates of state country teachers are henceforth to be state certificates; those summer teachers are chiefly state schools, and therefore the attendance of the teachers at the summer schools should be compulsory. No doubt this defect will be remedied in the future and thus assistance will be rendered in raising the standard of the teaching force. The daily program begins at 7:30 a. m., with one half hour's chorus singing, conducted by Supt. Selleck of Austin. Much interest is being developed in this line. There is also a good sized class in beginning music. Supt. Selleck has two classes in geography and two classes in literature, in one of which the study of Hamlet is taken up, in the other Merchant of Venice. Dr. P. M. Magnusson teaches the classes in U. S. history, grammar and pedagogy, in all of which the students are deeply interested. Supt. Craves of Lake City teaches the classes in arithmetic and algebra. The model school is in charge of Miss Earlnert of St. Cloud Normal and Miss Mather of Minneapolis. Illustrative model lessons are here presented to classes of children, and the teachers make daily observations on the work. They are also instructed in methods by the two instructors in charge. The last hour of the session is devoted to talks on practical school management and methods and has thus far been conducted by Dr. Magnusson and Supt. Selleck. The students speak in high terms of all the instructors and seem to be satisfied with the opportunities offered them.

McKINNON APPOINTED.

Alex. McKinnon of Crookston Given a Place on Board of Appeals.

Gov. Lind last Saturday appointed the two boards of appeal on the grading of grain. They are to enter into office August 1 and continue two years. The six members constitute a board that is to have one stated meeting annually at the beginning of September to fix the grade of standards, and those standards are not to be changed during the crop year. Otherwise the board consists of two courts of three members each, one for Duluth and the other for Minneapolis.

The members of the Minneapolis board are Alex. McKinnon of Polk, Charles Malmquist of Sibley and Frank L. Greenleaf of Hennepin.

The members of the Duluth board are A. R. Moore of Chippewa, Hans Bjorge of Otter Tail and A. H. Smith of St. Louis.

The salary is fixed by the railroad and warehouse commission, and it is understood the pay roll will be in the neighborhood of $2,000.

Any shipper of grain has the right to appeal to the board from the grading of the inspection bureau, paying a fee of $1. The decision of the board is to be final. The board is charged to report to the railroad commission if any employe of the grain department is incompetent, indifferent or intemperate. It is not as yet known whether or not Mr. McKinnon will accept the proffered position.

Advertised Letters.

List of letters remaining unclaimed at the Crookston, Minn., postoffice for the week ending July 17, 1899.

Benjamin, Pete
Lund, R P
Pinch & Sutton
Gour, Robert
Gill, R A
Johnson, Q
Stine, John (2)
Quon, Charlie
Peterson Bernhard
Porter, W
Rolfe, Asa
Wolfertz, Selina Mrs
Rue, David
Sampson, Hans
Shannon, W
Sunford, O A
Turner, H L
Woodward, J
Connery, Addis Mrs
Eide, H Mrs
Johnson, Lillian
Menard, Baurence
Chevalier Isaac
Davis, E Elmer
Gilmore Owell
Hazzell Co
Hovelund, J Tollef
Lawrence, Richard
Moberg, Martin
Peterson, Elmer
Peterson, Curtis
Reeves, John
Wantes, P J Mr.
Bonney, Wm
Rigwell, James
Selvord, L Co.
Sunelund, J Svend
Svenson, Sam
Were, Thomas
Anderson Carrie
Davis, Mary Mrs.
Hamal, Morley Mrs.
Lovlung, Carrie (2)
Seiler C Mr.

Persons calling for the above say advertised.

ANDREW KEARNEY, Postmaster.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.

HOMEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

Office in McKinnon Block. Crookston Minn

Jules Gendron.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

Rooms 2, 3 and 5 over Fontaine & Austin's Office hours—9 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m. 7 to 8 p. m.

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,

ATTORNEY AT LAW.

Office in Opera Block Crookston Minn

Miller & Foote,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

Offices, corner Broadway and Robert streets Crookston, Minn

Marin & Webster,

LAW, COLLECTIONS AND LOANS. AGENTS FOR THE ETNA, THE PHOENIX AND HOME INSURANCE.

Office next to Postoffice. CROOKSTON.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.

CROOKSTON, MINN

Services every Sunday. Morning 10:00 o'clock. Evening 7:30 o'clock. First Sunday of every Month. Brother you are welcome.

REV. H. B. GREEN, B. D. Rector

Agents Wanted.

The oldest and largest nursery in the west. Everything for the grove and orchard. Three plans of work and the year round. Pay weekly. Write for terms. THE JEWEL NURSERY CO., Lake City, Minn.

TIME CARD —OF— TRAINS. Crookston

NORTHERN PACIFIC

SOUTH BOUND.

No.	To S. St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and East	Arr.	Dep't
2		8:30 p.m.	8:35 p.m.

NORTH BOUND

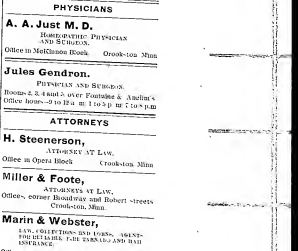
No.	To Grand Forks, Grafton and Winnipeg
1		6:20 a.m.	6:30 a.m.

C. A. SHAWKEY, Act. Crookston, Minn. CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. A. St. Paul, Minn

THE GREAT NORTHERN

ARRIVE *Daily. †Except Sunday. LEAVE
6:55 a.m. Grand Forks, North and West 7:00 a.m.
10:30 a.m. Thief River Falls, Fargo and West 9:05 p.m.
6:00 p.m. St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls 8:30 a.m.
4:35 p.m. Fisher, Bemidji, Duluth and Superior 9:00 a.m.

HIGH-GRADE HAWTHORNE $22.50 NET.



SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne. Crank—adj. left sidemount Diamond. Frame—Diamond, 22 inch. Fork—Diamond, 1 inch. Bearings—Ball, adjustable, inner cones and lined cups. Sprocket—Diamond, 22 tooth. Chain—Diamond, 1/2 inch pitch, 1/8 inch wide. Rims—Diamond, 28 inch, 32 hole. Spokes—No. 13 each way and radial. Hubs—Diamond, 32 hole, 3 inch flange. Tires—Diamond, 28 x 1 3/4 inch. Pedals—Diamond, rubber. Saddle—Diamond, leather. Handle bar—Diamond, drop. Finish—Diamond, enamel. Weight—about 35 pounds.

15000 Sold in 1898

Every one of them has all modern improvements. Guaranteed for one year. If not found as represented, return it at our expense both ways, and you can have your money back on demand.

ASK US TO SEND YOU OUR FREE BICYCLE CATALOG

Send 15 cents for our 1,000 page catalogue. A lists everything used by bicyclists.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

YOU WANT THE JOURNAL

CITY AND VICINITY.

—R. Bryson was over from Fisher last Friday.

—I. H. Harmon was up from Ada last saturday.

—Martin O'Brien attended court at Ada last Friday.

—The Stephen band went to Grand Forks for the carnival.

—Mr. and Mrs. Will Martin have been at Lake Minnetonka.

—Several new sidewalks are being laid in different parts of town.

—Mrs. W. E. Rowe is visiting friends and relatives in Argyle.

—Dr. Rosser of Thompson N. D. spent last Sunday in Crookston.

—M. R. Brown came in from the east and spent Sunday at home.

—Emil Hunnebusch is building a new granary on his farm near Marin.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Gussen of Euclid were in Crookston last Friday.

—Mrs. Will Peterson came down from St. Hilaire on a visit Monday night.

—Editor Novotny, of the Argyle Banner, spent last Friday night in Crookston.

—Miss Cora Mark of Fosston has been visiting in Crookston during the past week.

—Miss Mattie Brown entertained Miss Grace Morehouse of St. Paul last Thursday.

—Hugh Bay, of Belmont, N. D., has been visiting in this city with his brother, Robert Bay.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Genvel, Mrs. Rosenthal and Mrs. Falk went out to Maple Lake last Saturday.

—A number of the younger society people enjoyed a hay-rack ride into the country last Saturday night.

—Miss Helen Montague has finished her school duties at Key West and is home for the rest of the summer.

—The German Lutheran St. Paul's church is rapidly nearing completion. The plasterers have been at work all week.

—Fred McGregor on his way back from Winnipeg dropped off at Gilby for a visit with his uncle, J. E. Lawrence.

—Sylvester Peterson, the latter part of last week, entertained N. O. Henderson from the southern part of the state.

—Rev. F. W. Fraser and wife left last week for Manitoba, where they will spend a month in visiting friends and relatives.

—The Lund-Anderson stabling affair was postponed till next Monday, as Anderson was unable to appear in court Tuesday.

—Lieutenant-governor Smith was in Crookston the latter part of last week looking after some of his landed property in this vicinity.

—Rev. Frank Fraser, after spending two weeks of his vacation in and about Crookston, left last Thursday evening for his home at Marshall.

—The Scandia Bank last Thursday received a letter from Vice-president Hobart enquiring about some land near Stephan, which the bank has for sale.

—Divorce proceedings were instituted at Ada last week by Mrs. J. A. Quamme against J. A. Quamme, and the prayer of the plaintiff was granted.

—On the road from Fisher to Crookston Paul Goodere's team got the better of him, the result being that he was slightly hurt and the rig somewhat damaged.

—Earl Marcum closed his summer school, three miles northwest of town, last Friday. In the afternoon he held a picnic for his pupils on the lawn at his father's home.

—J. D. Morrison of St. Paul, who was among the crack shots at the Crookston tournament, won the state championship at St. Paul last week. His record was 338 birds out of a possible 350.

—In the annual report of the insurance premium receipts recently made by the state insurance commissioner, Crookston was one of only two towns which showed an increase. As these receipts are taxed and the tax goes to the fire department, our firemen will receive about $200.

—Carlton Bradley, of Crookston, formerly a member of Co. L, 14th regiment of Minnesota, is with a regiment in San Francisco. He is at present sergeant major and has been recommended for a commission in the provisional army. Crookston boys come to the front wherever they are.

—Stewart M. Decker, who has been appointed first lieutenant in the 34th infantry volunteers, left last Thursday evening for Fort Logan, Colorado, where his regiment is. Lieut. Decker, before his departure, was presented with a handsome gold watch and chain by admiring friends in the city. A large crowd assembled at the station to see him off, the city band being there and playing some farewell pieces.

—R. E. White was in from the Marsh last Monday.

—O. K. Berget is moving into his new house in Jerome's addition.

—Miss Fanny Crawford has returned from her outing at Detroit Lake.

—Miss Clara Steenerson is spending the week with friends at the lake at Bemidji.

—Mrs. W. Fuller is entertaining Misses Esther and Jennie Mayo of Minneapolis.

—The county commissioners are meeting this week as a board of equalization.

—Bert Moore, who is working on P. J. Carey's farm at Beltrami was in the city Monday.

—Mr. Perl I. Fox leaves today for Dubuque, Iowa, where she will visit several weeks with friends.

—Miss Ruby Childs left Monday morning for Duluth, where she will make a visit with her sister.

—Miss Kate Odder of Dugdale has been having her eyes specially treated by a Crookston eye specialist.

—Dr. McLendon and family who have been visiting in Cando returned to their home at McIntosh last Friday.

—Fred Lusina pitched for the Winnipeg team in the game of base ball between Grand Forks and Winnipeg and the latter team won by a score of 17 to 16.

—Judge Watts and court reporter Lohn came up from Ada where they are holding court and spent Sunday at Crookston returning to Ada Sunday evening.

—Robt. Bain's little girl at Fisher, one day last week, ate part of a package of paris green but prompt aid saved her life.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Shute of Minneapolis have been moving a short visit with the Iverson R. B. Shute, head bookkeeper for the Crookston Lumber Company.

—Frank Barky, a great Northern brakeman, had a foot badly injured in the South Crookston yards last Saturday afternoon. Dr. Dampier dressed the wound.

—Secretary of State Albert Berg was in Crookston last Friday. He was on his way back from Warroad, where he was looking after some of his landed property.

—Prof. C. A. Farnsworth of St. Paul was visiting with friends in the city last Friday. Mr. Farnsworth was formerly superintendent of the Crookston city schools.

—The number of people taking an outing at Maple Lake is increasing. Among the latest to join the happy throng out there were A. L. Melgaard and family of Argyle.

—Burton Hewitt, of Lake City, who has been acting as stenographer for Marin & Webster, has entered the employ of Will Bloom, in the the Northwestern collection agency.

—An association of state banks of Minnesota was organized in St. Paul last week. Cashier L. Ellington of the Scandia bank was elected a member of the executive committee.

—Pat Martin, the drum major of the Crookston band, entertained a large audience at the exposition building in Winnipeg with an exhibition of clever and rapid baton swinging. Pat was one of the star attractions.

—A burning hay scare near the barn of A. Lytle, in Jerome's addition called the fire department out late Saturday afternoon. Quite often to the hay no damage was done. Some small boys probably set the fire.

—The social of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Presbyterian church which was held at Mrs. Cahoon's last Thursday evening, was a great success. The grounds were illuminated with colored lights and delicious ice cream and cake were served.

—The marriage of Will Marin of this city and Miss Poehler of Minneapolis, at the home of the latter, last week, was one of the special social functions of the summer. Several of the young men of Crookston were present, George A. Finlayson acting as best man.

—Misses Woodall and Davidson left last Thursday evening for a trip to Milwaukee, Wis. where they will visit friends. The expenses of Miss Woodall on this trip are paid by the Minneapolis Journal as she was a prize winner in the teachers' voting contest held by that paper.

—The band boys had a big time at Whipper. They were veritably lords of the earth for a while, the freedom of the city and the exposition being tendered them. Prof. Riggs' cleverness as a band leader was at once detected and for a part of the time both the Crookston and Winnipeg bands were under his control.

—John Kirsch is the editor of the Solway Press, a new paper which is being started at Solway, the Solway Advocate having moved to Shevlin. Mr. Kirsch will spend every other week at Solway looking after the interests of his paper. The Press will undoubtedly prove a great success under the able management of Mr. Kirsch.

—Dr. Spence returned from Chicago yesterday.

— D. D. Horton of Dugdale was here Monday night.

—Gander Krostue, of Fisher, was in the city yesterday.

—M. Losey and wife took in the carnival at Grand Forks.

—Cashier L. Ellington was at Erskine on business Tuesday.

—J. D. McPhee of Lockhart was a Crookston visitor yesterday.

—Mrs. Sylvester Peterson is entertaining Mrs. F. L. Calkins of Ada.

—Dr. Hoel of McIntosh spent Tuesday night at the county seat.

—Miss Sue Low is one of the Crookston visitors at the carnival.

—Tom Hardy with a crew of men went up to Argyle yesterday morning.

—Charley Lohn, court reporter, returned from court at Ada this morning.

—Street Commissioner Jerome is getting the streets in fine shape these days.

—Dr. and Mrs. Dennison were Grand Forks visitors during the carnival.

—Henry Funk is the new bookkeeper for the Klewel Brewing company.

—J. M. Stafford of Fosston was transacting business in Crookston Tuesday.

—Van B. Brown of Red Lake Falls was in Crookston on legal business Tuesday.

—George Fantaine will leave for Maple lake for a short outing next Saturday.

—The Erskine brick company have just started to burn another lot of 400,000 brick.

—Dr. Robert Forbes, presiding elder of the Duluth district, was in the city Monday.

—John Morrison, of Euclid, was transacting business at the county seat on Monday.

—J. J. Sutton famed for his railroad law suits, was in the city a short time Tuesday.

—Miss Fontaine left Tuesday evening for Los Angeles Cal. where she will visit with friends.

—Misses Bessie Freeman and Elizabeth Davies have been visiting with Mrs. W. P. Davies of Grand Forks.

—Miss Flo Walter will dest out refreshing drinks these warm days from the soda water fountain of O. D. Dahl.

—Rev. H. M. Green has received from friends in Fostoria, Ohio, a handsome Knights Templar watch charm.

—A social and entertainment were held at the Baptist church last Tuesday evening. Everybody had a pleasant time.

—Chief Gonyea had his first crowd of hoboes in the city lock-up on Sunday and Monday Judge McLean set them at work for the city.

—Rev. H. M. Green spent last Friday and Saturday at Hallock with the Rev. Mr. Peabody, who is the Episcopal rector at that place.

—T. J. Lewes of Fosston who has been visiting with his sister at Walcott, N. D., spent yesterday in Crookston, returning home this morning.

—Fred W. Flanders and family, Miss Mattie Slee and E. L. Brown returned from an outing at Maple Lake Tuesday afternoon and went up home yesterday morning.

—Word has been received by the members of the local lodge of Elks of the recent death of C. M. Foote, of Minneapolis, who held the second highest office in the gift of that organization.

Mrs. H. C. Misner and son, Harvey were expected back this morning from Iowa where they have been visiting for several weeks. Mr. Misner came down from Euclid last night to meet them.

—Pana Bixby, one of the prominent republicans of Minnesota, and chairman of the Dawes Indiana Commission, was in the city a short time yesterday morning. He was on his way to Bemidji.

—Bert Hillett, who has for some time been employed by Jno. Morrissey in the Crookston Iron Works, is now working for Dr. Binkeslie. Part of his time is spent at Shevlin and Bagley and part in Crookston.

—Next Sunday morning at the Congregational church Rev. Mr. Fisher will give a short sermon on "The Perfect Man" and will administer the communion. In the evening the subject of the service will be,—"Music as an Art, a Science, and a Companion."

—A base ball tournament on a small scale took place at St. Hilaire last Sunday, special trains being run from Crookston, Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls. A team from the latter place played a Crookston nine and also the boys from St. Hilaire, winning both games. It is indeed unfortunate that Crookston has no baseball grounds else the story would be different when our boys play other teams.

—Mr. Fisher has announced that he expects President Simmons of Fargo college to speak in the Congregational church Sunday July 30.

—Mrs. Will Bagg was taken to the Riverside Hospital in this city Wednesday morning suffering from an attack of typhoid fever. She had been ailing for several days, during which the fever has at times been very high and she has become quite weak. The two little children will be cared for by Mrs. Bivins in the county.

Rev. C. D. Bainbridge Ellis, who is out from England only a few weeks and is stationed as the Methodist pastor at Park Rapids, has been making a short visit with the Rev. Mr. Rowson of this city. Yesterday morning he went up to Argyle to call upon Rev. J. T. Smith whom, as well as Mr. Rowson, he knew in the old country. These three ministers were at one time working in the vicinity of one another in England.

The Gun Club.

The members of the gun club continue to practice and make big scores. The last record, out of a possible 25 was C. C. Hoch 24, A. G. Anderson 22, L. A. Larson 22, Vanstrum 20, Rowe 19, Fuller 18, Campbell 17, W. W. Hoch 17, Espe 17, Dr. Smith 16, T. G. Thompson 13. J. E. Montague won the Alex. Thompson badge.

Marriage Licenses.

Within the week licenses to marry were granted to Olaf P. Brunsberg and Karina Holen of Fertile, Hans H. Ekeland and Mathelde Erickson of Fosston, Tomsunt Delarme, of St. Joseph, Manitoba, and Albertine Fountain, of Kertsonville, and Andrew K. Anderson and Mrs. Reguel Skandberg of Fosston.

Railroad Commisson.

Judge Ira B. Mills, P. M. Ringdal and Gen. G. L. Becker, the members of the state railroad and warehouse commission, were in Crookston last Thursday and took evidence with reference to the matter of building a "Y" within city which would facilitate the transfer of goods from one railroad in the city to the other. Mr. Ringdal and General Becker left here for Duluth; Judge Mills went to Fargo.

L. A. W. Excursion To Boston.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell excursion tickets from Chicago to Boston and return for trains of August 10 and 12, at rate of $40.00 for the round-trip. Tickets will be valid returning for arrival at initial starting point not later than August 31, inclusive, same with Agent Pitchburg R. R., in Boston. Sleeping car accommodations should be secured of Mr. Wm. Giess General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

Cass Lakeites Won't Go.

Ben Strawbridge, writing to the Minneapolis Times with regard to the Cass Lake extension says: "This much can be said with certainty, that the people of Cass Lake will not obey this unjust and infamous order without a struggle. They are firmly convinced and legally advised that the courts will uphold them in their action. This is not Indian land, and when it comes to the test Capt. Mercer will find that he has no legal authority to eject a citizen from Cass Lake village and confiscate his property; and he might as well be informed of our position now as any time. Will the liberty loving people of the great state of Minnesota who have entered the advance guard to carry civilization into the great forests and build up for themselves homes by honest industry and self-denial give up those homes and property without a murmur and a resort to the law? Assuredly they will not. They love liberty and justice and will defend these principles to the very last. Wilson's love for us will not suffice for the loss of our homes and property.

A Good Horse Changes Hands.

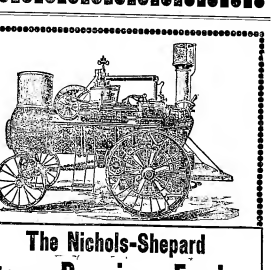
Mr. R. E. White, of Fisher, on Monday closed a deal with Mr. P. J. Carey, of Beltrami, whereby he becomes the owner of Mr. Carey's famous imported Clydesdale stallion, St. Simon, (8279) than which there is no better bred Clydesdale horse in America today, having for his sire the great show horse, Hiawatha, (3987) a son of the great breeding horse Prince of Wales, (673.) St. Simon's Dam, Jess of Slatebough is a well known brood mare in Scotland, she being a grand daughter of the famous Lord Lyon the greatest brood mare sire ever known in the Clydesdale breed. Mr. White and the farmers on the Marais and surrounding district are to be congratulated on securing the services of such a well bred horse as St. Simon, as his stock have shown themselves to be amongst the finest horses in the northwest. He has taken numerous prizes wherever shown with his colts. Mr. White purchased this horse at a long price which is another indication of the advance in horse flesh and undoubtedly he will have the hearty congratulations of his neighbors in securing for the Marais such an addition to their already first class horses.

Moved...

We are now in our new quarters on Broadway, where we have lots of room to accommodate our rushing trade. We have the largest stock of everything that goes to make up a first-class Grocery to be found in the Northwest. You must give us a chance to figure on your Harvest and Threshing Orders. No one can do better by you than we can.

..Slocum's Grocery..

CHASE BLOCK, BROADWAY.



The Nichols-Shepard Straw-Burning Engine

More practical, more efficient and more durable than any other engine ever designed for burning straw. It is the easiest to fire and the easiest to manage. The fire box, boiler and combustion chamber are so constructed that all the heat is saved and utilized. It is the only straw-burner having a water-protected crown sheet.

Every one who is interested in threshing should send for free catalogue, which contains full descriptions of the Nichols-Shepard Straw-Burner, the wonderful Nichols-Shepard Separator and other threshing machinery.

NICHOLS & SHEPARD CO., Battle Creek, Mich.
Branch Houses at Minneapolis, Minn., with full stock of machines and extras.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. EDGLINE, President. WM. ANGLIM, Vice-President
J. W. WHEELER, Cashier H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits.
Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
George B. Erskine, A. A. Miller, Wm. Anglim, J. E. Eckinson, E. M. Welsh, L. Fontaine J. F. Foote, W. H. Crosby, J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers

SCANDIA-AMRERICAN BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON.....PRESIDENT. H. STEENERSON.....VICE-PRESIDENT.
N. S. GERVAIS.....2d VICE-PRESIDENT. L. ELLINGTON.....CASHIER
A. P. HANSON, ASST. CASHIER.

The Riverside Dairy

Offers to the people of Crookston the purest milk, the richest cream, and the best butter to be had in all Minnesota at the lowest prices compatible with conservative business management. Our milk routes hes right past your door, delivering twice each day. Call on our driver, or through telephone No. 12 for anything in this line. Don't eat your bread without butter so long as you can get Riverside at present prices.

E. D. CHILDS CO., Crookston.

JUST WHEN IT'S HOT.

YES, IT'S hot.
I ain't one of dese boys what likes ter argue,
I reckernize a fact w'en it comes along
An' scorches me,
An' scorches de sweat a-runnin' off me eyebrows
An' wilts me collar till de colors blend
An' shrinks me shoes two sizes.
It's hot—
You're dead right it's hot.
Whoever tipped it off, youse got it straight.
I'm wit' youse on dat proposition.
W'en a seventy-story house falls on me
I tumble—see?
W'en me sandpaper climbs up me back
An' I takes four shows ter git a bowsh
An' six beats ter stop me t'irst ten minutes
I don't need no t'ermometer
Nor no block-headed
Gennius, a-explowdyd,
Scratch-a-head,
Purch-aded chump,
Ter tell me what's de matter.
It's hot.
It does a guy ter be clam-whiskered
Ol' bachelor
But makes a spiel be knows de time
It was better, I'm right here
Ter-day and now say limit
Of a hick he is.
Sweep,
Was I silverin' when you come up?
Was me nose in motion?
Was I wavin' me mantle ter get 'em warm
An' scorchin' me feet?
Youse better can that kind.
W'ere, stuck-spetchkit is makin' de pavement
Sizzle
An' de cash fountains an' 'loons
Is twin methods.
Youse see a goat scratchin' wit' wet patches
On his chest, frankly himself
Wit' his hat on wippin' his neck
Wit' his hand kerchief,
Dey vosse step up and say
It's hot,
Don't de pallor on Jerys's front
Rissed up in blisters,
Ain't de hull ob de lake
Sufferin' fer ice water?
What's de use buildin' between
De feder blocks fer?
Is dem horses wearin' sponges
For ornament?
It may be hotter in dem Philippeens
But de police won't stand for a half
A yard at nawsin worn deculty
An' a judicial temperament in Chicago
Dey won't. Den rashual customs
Dat den reconcentraydos
An' emergencies ob dese ur de dagoes
Is takin' solid comfort in 'ad raise
A free call on Clark street.
Hot!
But ain't so lie,
I know it's hot, bein' I heard another
Guy say so.
But tell him ter de county hospital.
De next one makes de crack
An' de one fer de morgue—understand?
Dis ain't no bluff—it goes.
Me head's on de rost all night
An' broke by none an' not a guy
Act if I got a mout' on me;
Nit.
But dey zaps up, like you, an' dey says
It's hot.
Stan-by, tell me dat again;
Let me hear dem words once more,
I don't know but what it's 42 below
Dere's snow piled up on bot' sides uv
De street, ain't dose?
Youse ain't sayin' de backbone
Of winter's broke,
An' signs is pointin' to an early spring
An' de openin' uv navigation?
Somebody's been tellin' you dat de ice
Is goin' outer de straits?
Youse ain't seen no blockhids restin' nor
Nothin uv dat sort?
Youse better change yourself
Up ter de Auditorium an' give De wolder man a tip. Tell him
It's hot
He don't know it. Dere's all kinds
Of money in it if we "some wall-
Posted gozers like you'd organize
Inter a lobbymation burow. Dere's
Men, women an' kids—"mounds ye "em—
Right here in Chicago dat's smokin'
Palm-leaf fans an' drinkin' red pop;
Dey don't have no idea what's
Goin' 'een grief. Dey don't know
It's hot—
Dese ain't nobody ter tell 'em.
I know it, doubt. Dere ain't no need
Fer youse ter tell me,
Dat's all right; youse don't need ter
Apologize. All youse got ter do
If youse don't want no mix-up
Is ter walk on.
Walkin's good exercise; it warms
A man up. See, if you ought
It was hot,
Youse ain't de kind uv block 'ud keep
Yer mout' shut, would yez? You'd Put a good friend next? I t'ought youse would
Dere's nuss 'ud keep it to demselves
Until dey'd placed deir bets.
I knowed you wasn't givin' me
No wrong steer w'en you come up.
Say what's droppin' off de ends of Me fingers
An' splashin
On de sidewalk? Youse might t'ink
From de appearance of dat moisture
I wasn't dry.
But's w'ere youse is off your base,
'P I'm de empire.
Me t'roat is warped and season-cracked all down,
If anyt'ing made me cough, it'ud split. It needs
Soakin'. Did you say anyt'ing?
No, I guess you didn't. You wouldn't say nut'in'
Not if you saw me tongue stickin' out, you wouldn't.
Dere ain't a nut'in in sight fer me unless it's work.
Work!
Work in dis weather? I t'ink I see myself
Wid de asphalt gang
Liftin' a 20-pound rammer and lettin' it drop
At de rate we 23 a minit
On de nice hot powder.
I might set a job in a smeltter
Or stokin' in a tugboat on de lake.
Say, me frien',
What do you want me fer say?
Don't you understand an' nut'in' exceptin'.
It's hot?
Ain't youse goin' to "loanyt'in' after makin'
Dat funny crack?
Don't care nuttin' what hot weather calls
fer?
It calls fer beer.
Two beers. An' de guy what says it's hot
Buys.
De barkeep holds dem long glasses under
De tap and jerks de lever an' de largest
An' coolest in de entire 'parel
An' don stops, foamin' at de mout',
Den you glue de rim to de chinee,
T'row back youse head an'—
No! It don't matter, not'in' at all,
I ain't dry.—Chicago Record.

COMMISSIONERS MEET

Petitions for Abatement of Taxes and Formation of School Districts.

Official proceedings of a regular meeting of the Board of Commissioners of Polk county, Minn.

In compliance with legal requirements the Board of Commissioners of Polk county met in regular session at the auditor's office in the city of Crookston, July 10, 1899 with members McCarty, Eastman and Bratvold present.

On motion Commissioner McCarty was chosen chairman pro. tem.

The recording of the record of the preveding meeting was on motion dispensed with.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Bratvold, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the taxes for the year 1898 against John N. Fogelstad, of the town of Queen, be and the same are hereby cancelled, it having been shown by affidavit that said John N. Fogelstad was assessed for a certain real estate mortgage which he did not own at the time of assessment.

The hearing upon the petition of Fred Welter, et al, for the formation of a school district, set for 10 o'clock a. m. today, was on motion postponed until 10 o'clock a. m. tomorrow.

Hearing upon the petition of O. A. Barnes, et al, for the formation of a school district was on motion postponed until 10 o'clock a. m. tomorrow.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Eastman, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the personal property assessment of Scott & Lycan, in the city of Crookston for the year 1898, be and the same is hereby ordered adjusted in accordance with the recommendation of the city council of the city of Crookston.

A petition was presented by John J. Mellner, asking to be detached with his land the s½ ne¼ se¼; nw¼ and n½ sw¼ section 17 and the s½ ne¼ section 18 T. 148, R. 48 from school District No. 98 and attached to District No. 238 and on motion a hearing was granted upon said petition for the next meeting of the County Board, July 28, 1899.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Eastman, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That all penalty and interest on taxes for the years 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1897 on lot 21, block 7, Sletten & Crombs subdivision of city of Crookston, be and the same is hereby abated in compliance with the recommendation of the city council of the city of Crookston, and the county auditor is instructed to accept payment of the taxes accordingly.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Eastman, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the taxes for the year 1898 extended against the s½ of lot 19, block 5, Fletcher and Hoos ton's addition to the city of Crookston, be and same are hereby abated in full, in compliance with the recommendation of the city council of the city of Crookston, it appearing that said property was owned by the said city at the time of assessment.

The application of John Birkholtz for correction of assessment and abatement of taxes for the years 1897 and 1898 on w½ ne¼ and w½ se¼ section 28, T. 150, R. 43 was on motion rejected.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Bratvold, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the following sums be and the same are hereby appropriated out of the county road and bridge fund to the towns hereinafter named, for the improvement of roads and bridges, viz:

Town of Tilden	$100
" " Chester	100
" " Sandsville	100
" " Godfrey	100
" " Huntsville	200

A petition was presented by Nils J. Moberg asking to be detached with his land the n½ se¼ section 15 n½ nw¼ and n½ ne¼ section 17, T. 148 R 48 and on motion a hearing was granted upon said petition for the next meeting of the County Board July 28, 1899.

The hearing upon the petition of Erick O. Stevtrom asking to be detached with his land from District No. 206 and attached to District No. 6, was on motion postponed until the next meeting of the County Board, July 28, 1899.

The petition of Ole Enzen, asking to be detached with his land the w½ se¼ and lots 4 and 5 nw¼ e½ sec. section 26, T. 148 R. 49 from School District No. 248 and attached to District No. 5 was on motion laid over until the next meeting of the County Board July 28, 1899, pending the filing of proof of posting notice of hearing.

On motion the county auditor was instructed to accept payment of the taxes for the year 1890 on sec. section 22, T. 151, R. 48 less the need grain lien included in said taxes, in compliance with the petition of W. R. Hosmer.

Hearing upon the petition of T. T. Draubey, et al, for the formation of a school district was on motion postponed until the next meeting of the County Board July 28 1899, pending the filing of proof of posting notice of hearing.

On motion Board adjourned until 10 o'clock a. m. July 11.

July 11, 1899, Board reconvened pursuant to adjournment, with all members present.

On motion the sum of $50 was appropriated to the town of Fairfax from the county road and bridge fund for the grading of a certain highway in said town, in compliance with a petition presented by A. O Daniels, et al.

A hearing was had upon the petition of O. A. Barnes, et al, asking for the formation of School District No. 304 so as to include within the bounds limits of said district the n½ of section 23 and the n½ of section 24, T. 147, R. 46 and on motion the prayer of the petitioners was granted and order made accordingly.

A hearing was had upon the petition of Fred Welter, et al, asking for the formation of a school district to be composed of sections 2, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 the s½ section 24, the se¼ of section 10, T. 149 R. 47 and the sw¼ section 7 and the w½ section 18, T. 149, R. 46 and on motion the prayer of the petitioners was granted, the district given the number 246, and order made accordingly. It was further ordered that a division of funds would be made between the districts effected at the next meeting of the County Board July 28, 1899.

A petition was presented by C. T. Lanaman, et al, asking for the construction of a county drainage ditch through the towns of King and Sletten and on motion action thereon was postponed until the next meeting of the County Board, July 28, 1899.

The application of Samuel Gibeau for correction of assessment and abatement of taxes on 145x16 feet out of n½ se¼ section 13, T. 149, R. 41, for the years 1882, 1883, 1884, 1885 and 1886 was on motion granted and the assessments for the years named were reduced fifty per cent, and the county auditor was instructed to accept payment of the taxes accordingly.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Eastman, was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the county auditor be and is hereby instructed to request the opinion of the attorney general in regard to the constitutionality of Chap. 247, of the Gen. Laws of 1899, being an act to amend section 1 and 2 of Chap. 97 of the Laws of Minnesota for the year 1887, Gen. Statutes of 1894, sections 7700 and 7701 relating to county drains and an explanation as to the proceedings.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner McCarty, was on motion adopted:

Resolved that the county auditor hereand he is hereby instructed to issue warrants on the county revenue fund in payment of interest on bonds sold for the construction of county drainage ditches Nos. 6, 7, 9, 10, 11 and 12, as said interest becomes due, provided the amount charged to any of said ditches is insufficient; the amount so applied in the payment of interest to be repaid to the county revenue fund as soon as the condition of the ditch funds so aided will permit.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner Fortier was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the viewers, chainmen and rodmen, and any others having rendered services on the proposed county drainage ditches Nos. 14 and 16 be paid from the county revenue fund and that the amounts so paid shall be repaid to the county revenue fund as soon as there is sufficient money in the funds of said ditches 14 and 16 for such repayment.

The petition of L. W. Larson et al, for change of county road was on motion laid over until next meeting of county board July 28, 1899, the petitioners having failed to comply with necessary legal requirements.

A petition was presented by Gunnar Turkelson et al, asking that the board of county commissioners to be surveyed, located and staked out, certain section and property lines in the town of Sletten, and on motion it was ordered that a hearing shall be had upon said petition at a meeting of the county board to be held commencing on the 21st day of September, 1899, and the county auditor was instructed to give the necessary notice by publication.

The application of L. F. Koons for correction of assessment and abatement of taxes sw¼ section 3, T. 149, R. 43, for the year 1898, was on motion rejected.

The following bills were audited and allowed:

Fontaine & Austin merchandise
Crookston Iron Co, blanks, 3 bks	$ 4 45
Times Star-Journal, printing	9 00
Crookston Lumber Co, lumber	5 10
Times Star-Journal, printing	24 00
W Ide,
Lund Sherbrand secretary town 401,
Lund Sherbrand secretary town 401,	20 00
Dr C F Dacon, autopsy and expert witness,	25 00
Dr C F Dacon autopsy and expert witness,
C F Lindsay, county physician,	15 00
Times Star, notice on ditch No 11,	7 20
Times Star, notice on ditch No 12,	7 20
C F Lindsay, repairs on county jail,	15 00
Times Star, notice on ditch No 14,	7 20
B A Lawrence & Co, blank books,	15 00
Geo Cochran, chairman on ditch No 11	15 75
Sub-Surveyors, pro rata notices for ditch No 11,	5 00
Crookston Lumber Co, lumber for	184 62
A C Bonnett, county printing and other supplies,	192 00
Times Star, notice on ditch No 14,	32 60
W B Lawrence, boarding prisoners,
W B Lawrence, boarding prisoners,	122 00
Times Star, printing,	153 00
J A Miller, postage,	5 00
J A Miller, commissioner, expenses and services on ditch No 11,	15 00
Sievers Lumber, services on the warden
Louis Boisvert, chairman of ditch No	6 00
A C Bonnett, county printing and other supplies,	49 50
A C Bonnett, county printing and other supplies,	102 00
H Kanne, postage,	12 00
T Lanaman, services, expenses, mileage and postage,	17 00
Peter Johnson, viewer and rodman on ditch No 11,	18 00
Arthur Tripp, chairman on ditch No 11	7 20
S H Dixon, notice on ditch No 11,	4 80
S H Dixon, justice fees,	2 35
S A Tenney, justice fees,	11 90
S A Tenney, justice fees,	3 00
Kanne & Lanaime justice fees,	1 75
Kanne & Lanaime, constable fees,	10 95
Harold Anderson, viewer on ditch No 16,	10 80
Hans Hanson, viewer on ditch No 16,	43 20
Adam Thompson, viewer on ditch No 16	43 20
Hans Hanson viewer on ditch No 14,	45 00
Hans Gudmalh viewer on ditch No 14,	45 00
J O Johnson, viewer on ditch No 14,	45 00
Chas McCarty services as county commissioner,	70 00
Chas McCarty services as county commissioner,	70 00
Hans Thompson services as county commissioner,	13 30
Hans Fortier services as county commissioner,	14 00
Hans Hanson,	8 20

The following bills were disallowed:
W. R. Cartwright, Ole R. Rispstad and People's Press.

The motion board adjourned until Monday, July 17, 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

—P. J. Carey was in from Edna last Monday.

—Miss Lonise Vermuenen has been visiting with friends in Grand Forks.

—Tom Dougherty has gone to Winston to work for the Great Northern there.

—County Treasurer M. G. Peterson and Deputy Treasurer W. L. Vannet spent last Sunday at Fertile.

—J. E. Bergeson of the New York Store and his wife have gone to Detroit and Park Lake on an outing.

WANTED—A girl for general house work. Inquire at JOURNAL office or 118 Broadway South.

Ladies circle No. 5 of the Congregational church will hold a cake sale at Slocum's Grocery next Saturday.

Strayed

From my place in the town of McCrea, Marshall county, on Sunday, July 15, one gray mare with web halter. Finder return to me or to John E. Ostrom, Warren, Minn.

F. J. LULL.

KNIGHTS OF THE MACCABEES

Initiate 20 From Stephen—35 Given Oriental Degree—Banquet.

When the St Vincent train reached Crookston Monday evening a crowd of Stephenites got off and headed by the Argyle band started to march through several of the principal streets of the city. In addition to the band there were forty in the company, twenty of whom were Knights of the Maccabees and the other score were of that persuasion before the start ended. They brought with them their own band, which was in charge of Jack Stein, and this animal made things pretty promiscuous for the boys while they were on the streets, knocking, several feet through the air, some of them when undertook to persuade his royal highness that a parting was the best for him. That band is all right and is certainly a lively addition to any organization.

The Knights marched until about eight giving the degree to twenty of those from the town up the line. At 12 o'clock a sumptuous banquet was spread before the assembled Maccabees and a most enjoyable time was spent around the festive board. After the feast the Oriental degree was given to thirty-five, some of whom were from Stephen and some from Crookston. At 3 a. m. the work was finished and an adjournment taken. Everyone was a most happy one. The local Maccabees were most hospitable and entertaining and the visitors proved themselves a band of jolly good fellows.

Crookston College

Will open its 14th term Sept. 14, 1899. The cheapest, best and most practical school in the northwest. Catalogue sent free. Address Crookston College, Crookston, Minn.

The N. E. A. Low Rates.

Give you the opportunity of going through Montana, Idaho and Washington to North Pacific Coast and California via the Northern Pacific. Shasta route and returning via Colorado or Texas, or vice versa. Stop-overs allowed—time limits reasonable. Go each your Northern Pacific agent to explain the different combination rates and routes in effect.

THISSEN'S Rheumatism and Kidney Cure. A sure cure for rheumatism, kidney troubles. These also drink wafers from northern arctic which is nearly always charged with rheumatism and all sorts of ice-inflicted ailments. Iron and kidney troubles. Are your neighbors all on the sick list? Ask them. Sold on all principles or sent in mail to C. E. THISSEN, Crookston, Minn.

Northern Pacific-Shasta.

Route gives you a chance to visit Yellowstone Park en route to the N. E. A. or the Pacific coast on the low rate tickets now on sale. Don't forget it. Visit your Northern Pacific ticket office and talk it over with the agent.

Preserves
Fruits, jellies, pickles or catsup are delicious when flavored with Parsons' Purelike. Sold with Refined Paraffine Wax, which keeps them in any climate. Insist on your grocer giving you the sealed package.
Refined Paraffine Wax
to every household. It is clean, odorless and odorless, easy to seal and keep sweet. Get a pound cake of it from your grocer. If he doesn't keep it, send 15 cents for a full pound by mail. Sold everywhere. Address
STANDARD OIL CO.

United States Map.
5c.
A copy of our handsome map, 19x25 inches, printed in colors, suitable for mounting on a roller, will be sent to any address on receipt of 5c. in postage or express money order. We cannot sell wrapping stamps. Address C. LUMAN, Gen'l Passenger Agent C. B. & N. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

BINDER TWINE
Our famous BLUE RIBBON BRAND. Sold direct to consumers at wholesale prices. We deliver free Chicago, Omaha or St. Paul, as desired. Write for prices and samples.
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO

Deere Vehicles are All Right!
We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to unload.
They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen.
If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.
MERIT ALWAYS WINS.
LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., Fosston or Richtson.
LARSEN & CARPENTER, Crookston.

IN SEARCH OF A BRIDE.

Montana Ranchman Visits New York City and Will Choose Himself a Wife for His Western Home.

With a white sombrero on his head and a colt's revolver in his hip pocket John Noerdlan, the Montana ranchman, came to New York to look for a bride. When he reached Hoboken he had traveled 2,500 miles from the Little Rebbed on his own romantic errand.

In Montana women are so few that there is only one eighth of a sweetheart to every citizen. In the east it is different. Owing to the preponderant number of the fair sex and the impurity of many young men to make a living, there are, it is estimated, ten thousand young women in Greater New York who are unmarried. For their benefit it may be said that the metropolitan bride who will go west with Mr. Noerdlan will live on a ranch in northern Montana comprising ten square miles.

Pending the selection of a bride, Mr. Noerdlan is staying at the Cafe Anstermann, 241 Hudson street, Hoboken. He put an advertisement in Da Tedesmal, a Dutch newspaper, printed at Paterson, where live 20,000 Holland people, most of whom have married in this country within the last ten years. He is very partial to any particular nationality, but will wed any woman of European descent, who is of good character. She need not have a dot or possess beauty. Good sense, a genial disposition, and a good character are the only qualities requisite.

The Oldest Athenian.

The oldest of modern Athenians, Majapoktolos Mavroyenis, has just celebrated his one hundredth birthday. He studied medicine in Italy, but returned during the time of Byron's death to fight in the war for Greek independence. When he settled in Athens in 1827 the Piraeus was but a collection of squalid hovels.

Chautauqua Lake And Return.

On July 26 the Nickel Plate Road will run an excursion to Chautauqua Lake at one fare for the round trip. Write to General Agent 111 Adams St., Chicago, for particulars.

Burlington Route
Finest Train on Earth from
ST. PAUL
-AND-
Minneapolis
-TO-
CHICAGO
Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF

THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY

JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVILS PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNERS TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER XIX

CAUGHT IN THEIR OWN TRAP.

When that morning I had left the camp, and reached the caravan, with the somewhat wild hope of falling in with the squatter's party, and bringing back help, it was Norah Macknezie who first missed me, and it was the conduct of Snowball that first made her suspect something wrong. This gentleman, after I climbed out of sight, had become extremely uneasy and apprehensive as to his own safety in the matter. They ultimate he had expected that my lifeless body would come hurtling down the rocks, and this caused him to gravitate in an aimless and undecided sort of fashion between the narrow passage and the cave for some little time. The ways of a white man to Snowball were mysterious. Doubtless it may have occurred to Snowball that I was following Daly's example, and going off on my own account. But Snowball was not to be left long to these speculations.

"Well, Snowball," asked his mistress, "what for you look out that one rock?"

Snowball tried to look as if he did not quite understand. The old fashioned way of grinning time is much the same all the world over.

"Where is Mr. Parker?" she persisted, beginning to have a suspicion that something was wrong and going into the narrow passage.

"That fellow him go up," grinned Snowball in a manner that was meant to be conciliatory, pointing to the strip of blue sky overhead.

Just then my handkerchief, with the stone in it, came sailing down the crevasse, striking from side to side in the course of its descent.

"Oh!" cried Snowball as he dodged against it, experiencing a rap on the side of his head that made him feel queer for a second or two. "That fellow plenty coobah. I t'ink it."

And now the murder was out, and there was not a little excitement in the cave. Norah Mackenzie said that I must be seen by the blacks and necessarily killed. She scolded poor Snowball for not having acquainted some of the party with my intentions.

"We must distract the attention of the blacks," she said, and, going on to the terrace, uttered a loud "coo-ee." In an instant a number of them came toward the cave, and the attention of the whole camp was attracted. Those in the cave were somewhat mystified. What was the strange girl going to do now? But they knew her too well to ask any questions. They only held themselves in readiness for whatever might occur.

"Place your rifles on the ground," she said, "but see that they're handy. We'll interview the blacks, keep them from ascending in the meantime and, if possible, find out their plans. We may learn something and gain time."

The blacks still stood some 300 yards off. Then she went down the terrace before any one could dissuade her and, breaking a small leafy bough from a tree, waved it over her head. In another minute a tall savage had taken another bough and waved it over his in a like manner.

The girl had evidently made herself sufficiently known to the blacks, because most of them retired to some little distance, and the chief advanced. Then, before Jack or any of the party could prevent her, the girl went forward on to a clear space on the rocks from the terrace. The black fellow also came toward her. Suddenly she stopped, stamped her foot significantly, and the savage dropped the spear he had been dragging along the ground by his toes. He looked ashamed, and so he was, but not because he had taken a spear with him to meet a woman, but that he had been detected by so doing.

The party gradually came down from the terrace, all save Gordon, who came and sat on the breastwork so as to keep a lookout. The chief, who was a white haired, white looking individual with beard and arms cicatrized in a grotesque and horrible fashion and who had several human skins hung on various parts of his body, looked with not a little surprise on the "White Mary" who stood within a few paces of him so cool and collected. She was probably the first white woman he had ever seen. He tugged in a curiously nervous fashion at his long grizzled upturned mustaches.

"Laka natcha coaramora takinya?" she asked.

"Wata cawanti carabinyi," he replied, shaking his head.

The girl tried another tack. The savage had not understood what she said.

She placed the palms of her hands together and then, turning the tips of her fingers downward, said. "Yola che an si?"

And now the chief understood and talked away at a rattling pace. One great faculty the Australian aboriginal has besides that of mimicry (there are no mimics in the world like them) is the linguistic faculty. He has an irresistible desire to learn the language of any tribe with which he comes in contact. This chief had doubtless in his wanderings picked up the one that Norah Mackenzie now spoke. After they had talked together for a few minutes, during which time the mob of blacks manifested not a little impatience, the girl turned to the party and interpreted what had been said, with not a little of the old spirit of ribaldry in her eyes

The first request is a modest one. Chief you have a chance of doing a noble deed and sacrificing yourself for others. This gentleman says" —and here she mimicked the high flown tones of the old reprobate—"if the lady with the hair like the yellow rocks and the chicks like the color of the setting sun will give herself up and enter into a state of connubial felicity with him he will withdraw his forces and let us all depart in peace. His people, he says, are here from very different motives, that of revenge being one and that of a check to our future movements being another. However, his wishes are paramount. He has also done me the honor to say that, although he does not person ally admire me, still, he has no doubt if I desired it, one of his numerous sons might be induced to marry me. I would then have the honor of belonging to the royal family. What do you say to it, Dixie? It's a tempting offer. Shall we go with this nice old gentleman?"

Then the blacks made a dash at the breastwork.

It was a grim joke, but despite the gravity of the situation the party could not refrain from smiling. Poor Dixie nearly became sick at the thought of the honor that probably awaited her if she were captured. But she did not know that there was one stanch soul in that crowd who would have a rifle bullet ready for her in the event of her capture. Poor Savile grew red at the affront put upon his Elsie by this consequential savage.

After the more talk the savages asked where the missing member of the company had gone. Then Norah Mackenzie tried to work on the superstition of the savage. She told him that I was a spirit, had taken the form of a pigeon and flown away to where there was a large camp of white men, and that, as such, they made my further attempts to molest her party, the pigeon would come back, and bring a large body of white men with them who would destroy them utterly. The black fellow looked thoughtful but incredulous. A child who was given up would say "Jack the Giant Killer" looks much in the same way when it is told that if it does not behave itself an old woman riding on a broomstick will come down the chimney and take it away. He, however, said that if the lady with "the yellow locks and the cheeks like the setting sun" did not give herself up within a certain time the blacks would come and fetch her. He then retired backward, and the party retreated to the cave. Some considerable time had been spent in this parley, and the mob of blacks had been kept from struggling off to the highlands in pursuit of game, where they might possibly have fallen in with me.

It was well on in the afternoon when the fierce thunderstorm broke. No soon er did the storm lifted than the blacks began a determined attack upon the cave, they then being to force it at any risk. Things began to look serious. It would be little less than providential if help could come now, so they must try and temporize.

Norah Mackenzie, at considerable personal danger, again harangued the old chief. She kept him at least half an hour talking. At last he began to see through the ruse and darted forward as if to seize her. He had begun to think that after all the dark eyed, sun kissed maiden was the better of the two women, but with a laugh the girl drew her revolver and leveled it full in his face. He ducked his head and promptly retired, not being prepared to die.

Then the blacks made a dash at the breastwork. For a good 20 minutes they kept discharging a flight of spears from their wirreens. The black fellows as well as bucks had climbed on to the terrace, where they began to tear down the loose stones, quite regardless of the fact that their comrades were falling dead around them.

It seemed as if Providence had altogether deserted the little band.

If in a few minutes aid did not come there would be another addition to the long list of bloody massacr es in the history of Australian colonization.

And now the determined savages were crawling over the barricade. It would soon be all up with the little party. Must Savile and Jack put into execution what they had agreed upon, or would one of the women relieve them of the work and do it herself? In another minute it would have been done—that which has been done by hes— women before rather than they should fall into the hands of fiends—had not an unexpected interruption occurred.

Just outside the outer circle of the blacks was heard a "bang, bang, bang," a wild "hurrah"—a right lusty, heart stirring British cheer, and a semicircle of horsemen swept up swiftly and pitilessly, surrounding the savages. In another second certain bullets that had been intended for very different billets found more satisfactory ones. Savile had the pleasure of exchanging compliments with the chivalrous old potentate who had made such modest advances in the morning. The latter left behind him a reputation for gallantry and enterprise that Henry VIII himself might have envied, but that was all he left. His many widows did not even come back to that spot to gather up and light how could she ever cling to a blind over their loss.

The blacks were caught in their own trap. The pigeon that Norah Mackenzie had threatened the old chief with had kept its word, in so far as, if it did not return in person, it sent a number of hawks and other birds of prey which swooped down on them as they might have done upon so much carrion.

The savages had no time to make a stand, though their numbers were a hundred to one. Their superstitions had been worked upon, and demoralization was the consequence. They backed off the terrace as quickly as they had charged on to it, but it was "out of the frying pan into the fire."

Then an indescribable scene took place, for the horsemen were in among them from all directions dealing out well merited punishment. The blacks only thoughts of saving themselves, and some of them had no time to think about that. They were saved the trouble of thinking. They ran first one way, then another, and scuttled over rocks and up trees like iguanas. Some of them even tried to scale the cliff by leaping the brook in the terrace, but they leaped short and resembled the unfortunate flock of sheep going over a precipice.

The arrival of the relief party had been opportune. Another two minutes, and it would have come too late. The squatter was soon learning from the lips of his daughter all that had occurred since he had left. Gordon, who had begun to recover, was put on horseback. Leaving the saddles and other gear belonging to the party were discovered and found to be comparatively uninjured, with the exception of a few small straps that had been taken from one or two of them. These were put on the surveyor's spare horses. Nothing loath, they left the shelter of the cave that had for so long befriended them and cut across the bush to the river.

CHAPTER XX.

"FOR NOW THAT I AM BLIND"—

The ten that Clements had made for me and the rest did me a world of good. At length Clements said.

"If you think you could travel now, there's a horse and saddle here for you. Do you think you could sit one, old chap?" he asked. "I warrant it will be buck. It's old Sir Henry, called after the jolly old premier of New South Wales, and as sure footed as the old gentleman himself. I'll attach a leading rein in case of accidents, though."

Sitting in the saddle again, I held myself erect and experienced the old feeling of exhilaration which always possessed me when mounted on a good horse. Who could tell but what I might enjoy many years of life yet? Then there we rode on steadily for about an hour, and as Sir Henry was as easy to sit upon as a rocking chair I never felt the slightest difficulty in keeping my seat. Once only I had to hold on to the cantle of the saddle and throw myself backward, but that was at Clements's suggestion, when we were descending a gully into the great valley again. Clements directed the black boys to drive the pack horses across the dry fame down the river. He then left me again for some little time while he helped to round them up and secure the packs. He then sent one of the boys off to acquaint the party regarding our movements.

I had dismounted, tied my horse to a tree, and sat down to wait till Clements came back, when I heard the clatter of a horse's hoofs as it came galloping up in another minute the horsemen all mounted, and something told me it was Jack. There could be no mistaking him. He never entered a word, but took both my hands in his and wrung them till I thought he would break every bone. I wondered why he did not speak, but then something told me I was the cooler of the two.

"All right in the cave, Jack?" I ventured at length.

"Yes, my dear old fellow, thanks to you. Dick, I can't tell you what I feel." His voice was somewhat shaky, but I saved him saying more.

"I know what you feel far better than if you told me, Jack. My life has been spared. I ought to be thankful for that, also that you are with me. You'll be able to help me a good deal now." And then to change the subject I asked for Gordon.

He told me that Gordon was wonderfully well, and that the rest of the party would soon arrive. The squatter and the surveyor's party had come upon the thick of time to save them. If I wanted to confer a favor on him I was to order him about incessantly—it would be impossible to ask him to do too much. Then, as if to prove his words, he went off to find a tent.

Then there arose the sound as of a great body of horsemen approaching, and I knew that the entire party had come back from the cave to camp. I was conscious of many hands shaking mine, and many honest, warm words of greeting. They, doubtless wisely enough, feared to indulge too much in sympathy. I was conscious of a pair of giant hands holding both of mine and knew, though the owner did not utter a word, that it was Savile. He tried to speak, great honest soul that he was, but the words stuck in his throat, and he simply wrung my hands again. A pair of soft woman's hands caught up mine, and kissed them. I knew that it was Elsie Gordon.

Then Jack led me away to a tent that had been pitched for me some little distance off and, saying he would be back in a few minutes, left.

I stood with one hand resting on the pack saddle for some time, wondering if the squatter and his daughter had come and speculating in my own mind as to how the news of my blindness would affect the latter. That she would be heartily sorry for me I had no doubt, but then, "out of sight out of mind," she would soon cease to remember me. I would become simply a shadowy memory, recalled only perhaps with a vague sense of regret. It was as well I thought bitterly, though with a heavy heart, that she had loved some one else, man who could never cling to a blind and helpless man?

For a minute or two the old original Adam waged war within me.

But there came the sound of a quick, light footstep just outside the tent and the rustle of a woman's dress. I drew myself together. I would show myself a man before her at least.

How I greeted her in the bitterness born of my affliction and sense of ship wrecked hopes I care not to remember now, but this I know—that a woman's arms were round my neck and she has kissed me once. And kissed me twice with my lips.

Despite my surprise, it needed no one to tell me who she was. Of such are the supreme moments in our lives, when earth seems akin to heaven and the commonest clay is spiritualized.

What if it were her first and last kiss? She had still kissed me, and the memory of that would linger with me "sweet as remembered kisses after death"—aye, and long after she had passed out of my life. But I had still some measure of reason left and would be true to myself and to her. I would not let this impulsive girl in a fit of pity act in a manner which might cause her after regret. So I disengaged her arm tenderly.

"You are very, very good to come to me like this," I said as steadily as I could, "but you must not forget there is some one else. He mightn't like it, you know."

She had caught and held both my hands as she spoke her fingers tightened on mine.

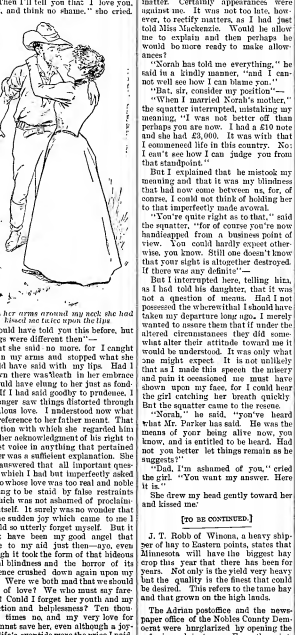
"Oh, Dick, I knew you had mistaken my words that morning in the cave. I was speaking of my father. You went out before I could explain myself. Will you not look at it now?"

Her face was so near mine that I could feel her warm breath upon my cheek. The hands that still mine remained, and I could tell, although I beheld it not, that with her bright eyes she was gazing into my sightless eyeballs.

Her vehemence frightened me, and I temporized, although it was like wrenching my very heart within me to speak as I did.

"Don't explain what you may be sorry for afterward," I ventured.

"What I'll tell you that I love you, Dick, and think no shame," she cried.



With her arms around my neck she had kissed me twice upon the lips.

"I could have told you this before, but things were different then."

"That they are no more, for I caught her in my arms and stopped what she would have said with my lips. Had I known there was death in her embrace I would have clung to her just as fondly.

If I had said goodbye to pretence, I no longer saw things distorted through a jealous love. I understood now what had been the cause of her former cold affection with which she regarded him and her acknowledgment of his right to a first claim to anything that pertained to her was a sufficient explanation. She had answered that all important question which I had but imperfectly stated —she whose love was too real and noble a thing to be staid by false restraints —which was not ashamed of proclaiming itself. It surely was no wonder that in the sudden joy which came to me I should so utterly forget myself. But it must have been my good angel that came to my aid just then—aye, even though it took the form of that hideous ghoul blindness and the horror of its presence crushed down again upon my soul. Were we both mad that we should for one brief hour forget our true relation to each other? We who must say farewell! Could I forget her youth and my affliction and helplessness? Ten thousand times no, and my very love for her must save her, even although a joyless life's eventide were the price I paid.

I kissed her once, and yet once again, and then released her, but she still held my hands. How I had the courage to say to her what I did is a mystery to me now.

"You have helped me to bear my loss, but of course we must forget all that for now that I am blind"—

"I have eyes for both of us," she cried.

"It is your woman's pity that speaks now," I rejoined. "You will live to thank me yet for speaking like this. If I loved you less, I might let you sacrifice yourself, but I want you always to think well of me. It was too bad of me to think it was Jack you meant when you referred to 'some one' in the cave. But you remember the part you played for him on the Macarthur? You think too much of others."

"Did you think that when I saw you both in trouble on the Macarthur I was going to withhold the little help it was so easy for me to give? And now perhaps you forget that it was in order to save you rushed your life, and—and met with this."

"Think of what blindness means," I hazarded. "Its helplessness and uselessness."

"If you were deaf and dumb as well as blind, it would make no difference," she rejoined.

And then to justify myself in her eyes—if any justification were needed —I told her only what she had a right to know after what she had said.

How I greeted her in the bitterness born of my affliction and sense of ship wrecked hopes I care not to remember now, but this I know—that a woman's arms were round my neck and she has kissed me once. And kissed me twice with my lips.

Despite my surprise, it needed no one to tell me who she was. Of such are the supreme moments in our lives, when earth seems akin to heaven and the commonest clay is spiritualized.

What if it were her first and last kiss? She had still kissed me, and the memory of that would linger with me "sweet as remembered kisses after death"—aye, and long after she had passed out of my life. But I had still some measure of reason left and would be true to myself and to her. I would not let this impulsive girl in a fit of pity act in a manner which might cause her after regret. So I disengaged her arm tenderly.

"You are very, very good to come to me like this," I said as steadily as I could, "but you must not forget there is some one else. He mightn't like it, you know."

She had caught and held both my hands as she spoke her fingers tightened on mine.

"Oh, Dick, I knew you had mistaken my words that morning in the cave. I was speaking of my father. You went out before I could explain myself. Will you not look at it now?"

Her face was so near mine that I could feel her warm breath upon my cheek. The hands that still mine remained, and I could tell, although I beheld it not, that with her bright eyes she was gazing into my sightless eyeballs.

Her vehemence frightened me, and I temporized, although it was like wrenching my very heart within me to speak as I did.

"Don't explain what you may be sorry for afterward," I ventured.

"What I'll tell you that I love you, Dick, and think no shame," she cried.

With her arms around my neck she had kissed me twice upon the lips.

"I could have told you this before, but things were different then."

"That they are no more, for I caught her in my arms and stopped what she would have said with my lips. Had I known there was death in her embrace I would have clung to her just as fondly.

If I had said goodbye to pretence, I no longer saw things distorted through a jealous love. I understood now what had been the cause of her former cold affection with which she regarded him and her acknowledgment of his right to a first claim to anything that pertained to her was a sufficient explanation. She had answered that all important question which I had but imperfectly stated —she whose love was too real and noble a thing to be staid by false restraints —which was not ashamed of proclaiming itself. It surely was no wonder that in the sudden joy which came to me I should so utterly forget myself. But it must have been my good angel that came to my aid just then—aye, even though it took the form of that hideous ghoul blindness and the horror of its presence crushed down again upon my soul. Were we both mad that we should for one brief hour forget our true relation to each other? We who must say farewell! Could I forget her youth and my affliction and helplessness? Ten thousand times no, and my very love for her must save her, even although a joyless life's eventide were the price I paid.

I kissed her once, and yet once again, and then released her, but she still held my hands. How I had the courage to say to her what I did is a mystery to me now.

"You have helped me to bear my loss,

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

Charles M. Foote of Minneapolis is dead.

The state race meet of the L. A. W. occurs at St. Paul Saturday.

The First Methodist church of St. Paul has been cleared of debt.

Presbyterians are building their summer assembly at Leroy this week.

Max Segelbaum, a prominent Le Sueur business man, has suicided.

St. Paul was the American Whist League trophy in the whist tournament.

St. Paul directory figures for 1899 indicate a population of 191,093, based on 99,190 names.

The Minneapolis council passed the interurban "flyer" ordinance over the mayor's veto.

Clarence Tove of Winona was shot through the hand by a "didn't-know-it-was-loaded" revolver.

Robert C. Harper of Minneapolis, has just celebrated his hundredth birthday. His health is still excellent.

Winona personal property is assessed at $3,295,311, and bank property at $344,986, a total of $3,639,900.

The receipts of the internal revenue office in Minnesota for the year ending June 30 aggregate $2,567,985.

James Schoonmaker of St. Paul has been elected supreme chief ranger of the United Order of Foresters.

It is estimated that one-third of the crop in the vicinity of Stewartville was destroyed by the recent storm.

The Washburn-Crosby company of Minneapolis has increased its capital stock from $500,000 to $1,200,000.

The trustees of the St. Paul Saviues bank, recently closed, wish to reorganize, and may be allowed to do so.

The Minnesota delegation to the International Epworth League convention will try to bring the next convention to Minneapolis.

George I. Becker, first lieutenant Fifteenth Minnesota, has been appointed a first lieutenant of volunteers under the call recently issued.

Joe Boxell, who has been on trial at Buffalo for several days for the murder of his father and stepmother, is very ill and may not recover.

The Northwestern amateur tournament for trap shooters was held under the auspices of the St. Paul Rod and Gun club Friday and Saturday.

It is stated that President McKinley, ex-President Cleveland and Governor Roosevelt will visit the proposed Minnesota forest reserve in October.

Judge Brill has appointed committees to make the assign of the Shirley Sands of St. Paul. Depositors of the bank are requested to wait for final action by the court.

The general land office has issued patents for swamp and overflowed lands amounting to the State of Minnesota in the Duluth land district embracing 11,959 acres.

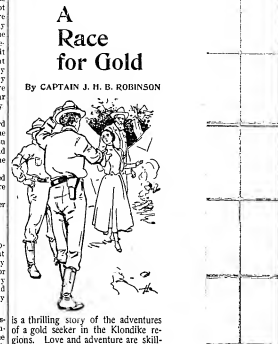
Captain Frederick J. Barrows, Fifteenth Minnesota volunteers, has been appointed first lieutenant under the act for volunteers. Clark H. Ellert, second lieutenant Fifteenth Minnesota, has been mained for a second lieutenancy.

Governor Lind has appointed the two commissioners to appear on the grainge of grain, as required to do not later than July 15. They are to enter into office Aug. 1 and continue two years. The members of the Minneapolis board are A. McKinnon of Polk, Charles Mahoney quist of Sibley and Frank L. Greenleaf of Hennepin. The members of the Duluth board are J. K. Stone of Chippewa, Hans Bjorge of Otter Tail and A. H. Smith of St. Louis. Any shipper of grain has the right to appeal to the board from an grading of the inspection bureau, paying a fee of $1. The decision of the board is to be final. The board is also charged to report to the railroad commission if any employe of the grain department is incompetent, indifferent or intemperate.

OUR NEW SERIAL,

A Race for Gold

By CAPTAIN J. H. B. ROBINSON



is a thrilling story of the adventures of a gold seeker in the Klondike regions. Love and adventure are skillfully blended, and in the end honesty triumphs and the villain gets his deserts. Just the kind of a story that will interest you.

Will begin soon in this paper.

J. T. Robb of Winona, a heavy shipper of hay to Eastern points, states that Minnesota will have the biggest hay crop this year that there has been for years. Not only is the yield very heavy but the quality is the finest that could be cured. This refers to timothy hay and that grown on the high lands.

The Adrian postoffice and the newspaper office of the Nobles County Democrat were burglarized by opening the safes in each instance. From the printing office the thieves obtained about $10 in cash, while from the postoffice they got $1,168, $600 of this being in stamps, and $140 private funds of Postmaster S. J. McKenzie, the rest being government money.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

TOO MUCH CENSOR

MANILA CORRESPONDENTS MAKE A STRONG KICK

And Are Promised More Leniency by General Otis—Claim Their News Was So Cut Up as to Be of No Value—Also That the People of the United States Are Grossly Deceived by the Optimistic Official Reports.

MANILA, July 11, via Hong Kong, July 18.—The constantly increasing strictness of the censorship of press dispatches from Manila, which has prevented the cabling to the United States of anything that did not reflect official views of important events and conditions, resulted in a united effort on the part of the correspondents here to secure an abatement of the rigor of the censorship. The initiative in this direction was taken a month ago, and has resolved in the framing of a statement which was presented on Sunday, July 9, to Major General Otis, commanding the military forces of the United States in the Philippine islands, with a request for permission to telegraph it to the United States. The correspondents also asked that they be allowed to cable to their respective papers all facts and the different phases of events as they transpired here. The correspondents had two long interviews with General Otis, in the course of which they complained that the evident purpose of the censorship was not to keep information from the enemy, but to keep from the public a knowledge of the real condition of affairs here. It was also asserted by the correspondents that newspapers printed in Manila, which reach to the enemy quickly, are permitted to publish statements similar to those which correspondents are forbidden to cable. It was made clear to General Otis that the objection was to the system and not to the censor.

General Otis finally promised greater liberality, agreeing to pass all matter that he might consider not detrimental to the interests of the United States.

Statement of the Correspondents.

The statement of the correspondents is as follows:

The undersigned, being all staff correspondents of American newspapers, stationed in Manila, unite in the following statement:

We believe that, owing to the official dispatches from Manila made public in Washington, the people of the United States have not received a correct impression of the situation in the Philippines, but that these dispatches have presented an altro-optimistic view that is not shared by the general officers in the field.

We believe that the dispatches incorrectly represent the existing conditions among the Philippines in respect to dissension and demoralization resulting from the American campaign and to the brigand character of their army.

We believe the dispatches err in the declaration that "the situation is well in hand" and the assumption that the insurrection can be speedily ended without a greatly increased force.

We think the tenacity of the Filipino purpose has been underestimated and that the statements are unfounded that volunteers are willing to engage in further service.

The censorship has compelled us to participate in these misrepresentations by exciising or altering uncontroverted statements on the plea, as General Otis stated, that "they would alarm the people at home" or "have the people of the United States by the ears."

Specifications: Prohibition of hospital reports; suppression of full reports of field operations in the event of failure; numbers of heat prostrations in the field; systematic minimization of naval operations and suppression of complete reports of the situation.

This was signed by John T. McCutcheon and Harry Armstrong, Chicago Record; Oscar K. Davis, F. G. McDonnell, New York Sun; Robert M. Collins, John L. Dunning, L. Jones, the Associated Press; John F. Dass, Will Dinwiddie, New York Herald; Ed B. Keene, Scripps-McRae association; Richard Little, Chicago Tribune.

PROTEST IGNORED.

Administration Pays No Attention to the "General Notion."

WASHINGTON, July 19.—It was stated at the war department that no attention whatever would be paid to the "round robin" of the Manila correspondents. The protest was not sent to General Otis and it is said will not be, and General Otis will not be called upon for an explanation. In addition to this it was intimated that very encouraging news had been received from the Philippines and that the situation was much better than has generally been believed.

SAY MILES IS THE MAN.

Press Comment in the East on a Successor to Otis.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Press comment in the East is largely in favor of sending some one to take General Otis' place in charge of the American campaign in the Philippines. A majority of the papers urge General Miles as the one man above all others who should have been sent in the first place and who should now be given an opportunity to exercise the responsibility attaching to his office of general commanding. Postmaster General Smith's paper, the Philadelphia Press, while doubting the justice of the protest of the American war correspondents admits that "there is increasing doubt in the public mind of the experience and finesse of General Otis."

Enlistment of Volunteers.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — Colonel Ward, chief of the recruiting division of the adjutant general's office, has prepared a statement showing that since recruiting began July 10 for the Philippine volunteer service the total enlistment to date has been 2,268 men.

STUDYING THE TRUSTS.

Questions Asked Those Interested by the Chicago Civic Federation.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The general committee of arrangements for the conference on combinations and trusts, called by the Civic Federation of Chicago, has mailed circular letters to 480 trusts and combinations throughout the country asking 26 questions, such as the number of organizations included in the consolidation, the number yet outside, total original capital of the various concerns now merged and the present capital employed by the combination and the effect on prices of products, the effect on labor as to displacement and rate of wages.

Of the labor unions in the various crafts employed in these combinations questions are asked as to the effect on wages, hours of work and the number thrown out of employment by the organization of the trusts. The questions addressed to the 900 national and local

Traveling Men's Organizations

throughout the country are as follows:

"First—How many traveling men in your immediate vicinity have fair positions owing to trust consolidations?

"Second—How many of these discharged belong to your local organizations?

"Third—What effect have these combinations had regarding the salaries of commercial travelers retained in their employ?

"Fourth—Estimate the number of commercial travelers residing in your locality?

"What is your opinion of trusts and industrial combinations, and what is the general sentiment expressed regarding them?"

The committee hopes the two sets of replies will act as an offset one on the other, so as to furnish accurate data on the trust problem—material which will provide basis for argument in the conference.

JAPAN ON EQUAL FOOTING

New Recognized by the Powers as One of Themselves.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—A new treaty between the United States and Japan went into effect today and at the same time new treaties between Japan and nearly all of the countries of Europe and some of the South American republics also went into effect. It is a event of far-reaching importance in the relations between Japan and the United States, as it does away with the treaty methods which have been in vogue for nearly 50 years and substitutes an entirely new method of procedure. The same is true in the relations of Japan with other countries.

Taken as a whole the new treaties place Japan on an entirely new footing with the world at large, as she is recognized for the first time as an equal in every respect. The treaty with this country was made Nov. 22, 1894, in Washington, between Secretary Gresham and Minister Kureno, who then represented Japan here. The changes it made were so far reaching that it was determined that the treaty should not go into operation until July 17, 1899.

KRUGER IS PACIFIC.

Transvaal President Makes an Address to the Volksraad.

PRETORIA, July 19.—The volksraad has resumed discussion of the franchise bill. The trend of debate favored seven years retrospective and progressive franchise.

Replying to a question, President Kruger reviewed the Bloemfontein conference and said that the proposals of Sir Alfred Milner, governor of Cape Colony and British high commissioner of South Africa, were too wide, but that subsequently the time to seven years was only a slight difference, and for reasons of honesty and righteousness he (President Kruger) recommended the attention, which would meet the English objections. The country, he added would not be endangered thereby, but would gain the applause of the world.

Later the volksraad adopted the seven years franchise proposition.

LONDON, July 19.—The Times says: The government attaches the highest importance to the volksraad's 7-year proposal, which is regarded as practically ending the crisis.

SAVE THEIR HOMES.

Cass Lake Settlers May Make Leases for Lands Occupied.

ST. PAUL, July 19.—Cass Lake special says:

Captain Mercer and Inspector Nessler have held a conference with citizens. Upon their recommendation some 150 applications for land leases were made, assurances being given that such lease would be approved for terms of one to five years. Many more will avail themselves of the opportunity.

Captain Mercer and Inspector Nessler, who came here unannounced, give the settlers to understand that the order of eviction would be suspended until the town is platted.

The people feel this is a great victory and gladly welcome the protection of the government wing till title to lands in question can be acquired.

Convention of Railway Agents.

MILWAUKEE, July 19.—Over 300 railway agents from all parts of the country arrived in Milwaukee at 11 a. m. to attend the convention of the National Association of Railway Agents, which will continue three days. The convention opened at 2:30 p. m. Mayor Rose welcomed the railway men to the city and ex-Governor Peck also spoke. It was late in the afternoon when the convention got down to actual business.

Report Must Be Recast.

THE HAGUE, July 18.—The first committee of the international peace conference met during the morning to discuss M. Von Karnebeck's report on the first four points of M. Mariavieff's circular. Such differences of opinion developed that it was ultimately decided that the report must be recast.

SHOWS NO CHANGE

BROOKLYN STREET CAR STRIKE STILL IN EFFECT,

And Both Sides Are Determined—Several Lines in Operation But a Majority of Cars Are Badly Crippled—Railway Magnate Resident Addresses a Big Meeting But His Remarks Are Hissed. Ivan uration of a Second Tieup at Cleveland Came as a Great Surprise.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The strike situation in Brooklyn remains unchanged. The striking employes are even more determined and the management of the the Rapid Transit lines is elaborate and unflinching. Cars were run on most of the lines governed by the traction company from early morning until 7 in the evening, but after sundown there was a considerable falling off in the service and by 9 o'clock not a car was running on any of the lines affected by the striking motormen or conductors. The roads comprising the Nassau system were most effectively crippled. None of the striking employes returned to work and most of these were busy during the day influencing union and non-union men on the other lines to quit work. In this respect the strikers were partly successful.

Lines Most Seriously Affected.

The Flatbush and the newly opened Brighton Beach routes were the most seriously affected lines during the day. The regular schedule on these roads calls for 94 cars, but only six of these were successfully operated. On the Nostrand avenue line, which runs from the Twenty-third street ferry landing in Williamsburg to Flatbush avenue and Bergen Beach, 75 cars are daily sent out. Only eight were manipulated and most of these did not cover the entire route. Tompkins avenue was very much neglected, only two cars passing over the entire line.

Very few cars were run over the old Nassau lines, and those which were run were in charge of road inspectors, electric light men and truck men belonging to the roads. Theso cars were totally inadequate.

President Rossiter Addresses Strikers.

President Rossiter, accompanied by Seth L. Keeney, visited the barn on the Flatbush avenue line near Vernon avenue during the afternoon. The strikers were there to a man and when the latter magnates drove up in a coupe the strikers adjourned to a nearby hall and held a meeting to which they invited Messrs. Rossiter and Keeney. Speeches were made on both sides. President Rossiter expressed himself as believing that the strikers had the grievances to back up their actions. "There is no strike nor cause for it," said Mr. Rossiter. "You in, you in," was the response from 200 throats in answer to this assertion, and it looked for a time as if serious trouble would ensue. Fortunately, wiser heads governed the more active strikers and no damage was done to either of the representatives of the company.

A Fifth avenue car was attacked in Bensonhurst by 150 strikers. The conductor was probably fatally injured.

CAME AS A SURPRISE.

Big Consolidated Employes at Cleveland Again on Strike.

CLEVELAND, July 18.—The inauguration of a second strike by the employes of the Big Consolidated Railroad company was a complete surprise to the public and nearly so to the company. Ever since the men returned to work three weeks ago under an agreement framed by a committee of the city council and signed by representatives of the strikers and of the company there had been frequent complaints on the part of the men that the company was not living up to the agreement. Several conferences were held, the latest about a week ago, and it was then announced that everything was satisfactory or would be as soon as the company had been given ample time to adjust its schedules and arrange the runs. The presence on cars of the non-union men who were retained after the settlement of the strike was still a bone of contention, however, and a Crisis Was Reached Sunday,

when, as is claimed, a number of union men were discharged for refusing to go out on cars with non-union men. A meeting followed and the decision to strike was reached. All the lines were tied up from 3 until after 5 p. m., when the operation of the Euclid avenue line with non-union men under police protection was undertaken. Cars were run at 5-minute intervals on that line until evening, but no attempt was made to move cars on other lines. Henry A. Everett, president of the company, has issued a statement in which he says the terms of the agreement with the strikers had been strictly adhered to, but that it was impossible to inaugurate all the reforms promised, because of the continued interference with the non-union crews and he holds the union men directly responsible for this.

STRIKERS BLAMED.

Attempt Made to Blow Up a Section of the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad.

NEW YORK, July 18.—An attempt was made to blow up the elevated structure at Fifth avenue and Thirty-fifth street in Brooklyn during the morning. The police say that it was the work of the strikers or sympathizers.

Some Manhattan Men Out.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A strike has begun in the Second Avenue line of the Metropolitan Street Railway company. Up to 9 a. m. about half the men on this line were out.

Still Fighting in Samoa.

APIA, July 11, via Auckland, N. Z., July 18.—In fighting around Aofat, in the Snatoles district, on July 4, one Malietoan chief was mortally wounded and two Mataafa chiefs and one Snatole were killed and three others wounded.

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, July 13.

A writing paper trust has been formed.

The Yale and Harvard athletes have reached England.

The National Hardwood Lumbermen's association has decided to admit Canadian members.

The National Educational association is in annual convention at Los Angeles. About 10,000 are in attendance.

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire is being investigated on the charge of having violated the civil service law.

Manufacturers of drill and seeder implements have decided to make an advance of 15 per cent on the price of seeders and drills.

The American liner Paris, which was wrecked near Falmouth several weeks ago, has been floated and towed to Falmouth, where she will be repaired.

Southbound passenger train No. 1, on the Colorado Southern railway, was robbed by four men five miles south of Folsom, N. M. They cracked the safe.

Friday, July 14.

Another cabinet crisis is promised in Spain.

G. T. Corson of Ohio has been elected president of the National Educational association.

In a street fight at New Boston, Tex., one man was killed and half a dozen seriously wounded.

The pension committee of the G. A. R., finds that the charges against the pension bureau are unfounded.

Sioux Indians wanted in Wyoming for killing game contrary to law resisted arrest and escaped to South Dakota.

Changes in the war revenue law will probably be recommended by the commissioner of internal revenue. Increases are desired.

The sick lists of the volunteer regiments in the Philippines since the middle of May are reported to have ranged from 20 to 25 per cent.

Saturday, July 15.

The situation in Cape Colony grows more warlike.

Detroit has 3-cent street railway fares for a time, at least.

General W. S. Taylor has been nominated for governor of Kentucky by the Republicans.

Arrangements are practically completed for the transfer of the Columbus Western league team to Grand Rapids.

The governor of Wisconsin has issued another appeal for the relief of the New Richmond cyclone sufferers, saying $35,000 more is needed.

Blaso Petrovics, a relative of Prince Nicholas of Montenegro, has been arrested on a charge of complicity in the recent attempt to assassinate former King Milan of Servia.

Secretary Hitchcock is represented as being determined upon the removal of the Cass Lake settlers on the 24th inst., the date specified in his order.

Monday, July 17.

The Detroit street railway deal is off. Tidal waves have caused great damage to crops in the Caroline islands.

A French squadron consisting of 26 ships has arrived at Barcelona, Spain.

William K. Vanderbilt denies that the railroad companies he controls are planning for a transcontinental line.

The International Longshoremen's convention at Buffalo has adjourned. Duluth was selected as the convention city of 1900.

Admiral Dewey, through his attorneys, has filed a claim for naval property growing out of the battle of Manila bay.

Hon. W. B. Ives of Ottawa, Ont., formerly president of the privy council, is dead from the effects of a paralytic stroke received several days ago while en route from Ottawa to Montreal.

Tuesday, July 18.

The Chicago Dupleine Whist club won the Minneapolis trophy.

The war department has chartered the steamer Siam to carry 300 cavalry horses to Manila.

Arthur R. Libby, founder of the big Chicago packing firm, Libby, McNeill & Libby, is dead.

The Columbus (O.) city council has impeached and removed from office Joseph W. Duxenberry, director of public safety.

Senator Nelson has arrived in Washington to work against the eviction of the Cass Lake settlers.

Senator Chandler has made a formal complaint to the president against Civil Service Commissioner Brewer.

The French cabinet has decided to hush up the Dreyfus scandal in the event of the acquittal of Dreyfus, which seems certain.

Twenty-seven business houses, the pumping station of the waterworks, the fire engine house and the city jail were destroyed by fire at Bainbridge, Ga.

Wednesday, July 19.

Chief Justice Chambers of Samoa has resigned and started for America.

A regularly organized body of would-be revolutionists is working in Cuba.

Ex-King Milan of Servia is now said to have planned the recent attempt upon his life.

The interstate commerce commission has decided that Iowa grain rates should be reduced.

Joseph Brozil, tried at Buffalo, Minn., on the charge of having murdered his father and stepmother, has been acquitted.

President Mohler of the Oregon railway and Navigation company has been offered the presidency of the Big Four, to succeed M. E. Ingalls.

Thomas B. Lynch, assistant general passenger agent of the Great Northern, has been appointed general passenger agent of the Cotton Belt.

Farmers, Attention!

I have the Champion Draw Cut Mower (something new) also the ever ready Jones Mower. Thomas and Plano Rakes, Disc and Acme Harrows, Newton and Stoughton Wagons.

CALL AND SEE THEM .....

S. L. COLLINS

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven but has long horizontal wires, which closes it up

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

Like a fence, does not property stretched and erected with few posts and without barbed wire, last a lifetime. Has cable selvage and a cable running through it. Stays every foot. Each roll contains the famous M. M. S. fence gauge.

None other genuine.

We are manufacturers also of the following famous fences:

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE with or without lower cable barbed. All horizontal. Stays every 2 rods.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE Ideal fence for lawns, parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel gates, posts, etc. Everything the best of its kind.

Pat. July 28, 1896. Pat. July 6, 1897, 0

DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.

FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings

When laing out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.

Call us up before letting your Contract.

We shall be pleased to give on the benefit of our experience in laing out wiring plans.

It Will Cost You Nothing

to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.

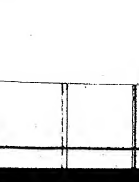
Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring

We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.

Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.

Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

YOU CAN USE IT 20 DAYS FREE



Up-to-date in Every Detail.

Ask us to ship you one of our High Arm Sewing Machines which closes it up and we will ship it to you for 20 days' free trial. If you do not like it return it at our expense and you will not be out a penny. If you like it, and wish to purchase, you may make us any reasonable terms of payment you please, and we will give you as low prices as you can get anywhere else. Remember you pay no money unless you prefer, we will ship for freight and you can examine it at your depot. Write for our free illustrated catalogue. When writing please mention this paper. If you don't like it return it at our expense and we will refund. We are responsible for our statements. Remember you take no risk. Before you buy a sewing machine, write us. We have sold over 100,000, and they are giving perfect satisfaction. IT'S SPECIAL FEATURES are Ball Bearing, Light Running, Self Threading Shuttle, Positive Double Feeder, Self Setting Needle, Automatic Tension, Capacious Drop Leaf, Handsome Stand, Elegant Finish, Superb Design, Improved Vertical Attachment. Shipped from Chicago or Kansas City, Mo. or Atlanta, Ga. Write for free illustrated catalogue. Mention this paper.

Send 15 cents for our 100-page catalogue.

Originators of The Catalogue Business.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., Michigan Ave., & Madison St., Chicago.

Pok County Journal

Historical Society

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY JULY 27, 1899 NO 16

LIVE STOCK AND GRAIN

Prof. Shaw of State Agricultural School Writes on Diversified Farming.

BENEFITS FROM STOCK GROWING

Labor all Year. Less Acreage but Same Amount Grain, Less Hazard, Introduction of Rotation.

[Continued from last week.]

The long centuries preceding had been manuring it for them. They did so, second, because many of them had families growing up who helped them to do the work without a heavy labor bill. And they did so, third, because years ago grain was much dearer than during recent years. Could they do the same thing again I ask, with the land in its present condition? Assuredly not, without the aid of live stock.

Stock growing leads to the production of a variety of foods, hence, though one kind of crop should fail, another kind will probably succeed.

The greater the variety of the crops that can be grown, the less is the hazard from growing the same.

MAKES A WIDER ROTATION POSSIBLE.

Ordinarily the grain grower must follow a narrow and imperfect rotation. Not so the keeper of live stock. The farmer can only change from one kind of grain to another, whereas the latter can change from grain to grass, and from grass to corn. Since he can feed the grass and corn to his live stock. He can therefore market these through the stock. This the other cannot do. The nature of this rotation will not be considered.

ROTATION FOR WESTERN NORTH DAKOTA.

The rotation best adapted to North Dakota is not complex. It would consist virtually of three crops, that is to say, corn, grain and grass. In wheat growing areas the grain crop would be essentially wheat, but it would be some other kind of grain, as oats or barley.

GROWING THE CORN.

It may seem strange to many farmers to speak of corn as a rotation crop for Dakota, and yet it is my conviction that this is just what is coming to be where corn is grown. It is pre-supposed that the grower keeps live stock. The corn could not otherwise be used, since the idea would be to grow the corn fodder. It would not therefore be husked. It would be so grown as to have ears on it, but they would be small.

The kinds of corn to be grown have yet to be ascertained. This can only be done by experimentation, but it must be some variety or varieties that mature within about ninety days from the time of planting. It will include varieties, that, when ensilaged, will furnish seed from Dakota grown corn. That variety known as squaw corn will not fill the bill, since it does not produce enough fodder. The time may come when dent varieties will mature in any part of North Dakota. Such varieties as the Mercer flint is scarcely bulky enough to meet the needs of the Dakota corn-grower.

The corn thus grown should follow grass. The grass sod turned under in the fall or spring according as it can best be done, meets exactly the needs of the corn. It helps to keep the ground moist. The shallow cultivation given to the ground also aids in conserving moisture for the grain crop that follows.

The corn should be sown with an ordinary grain drill, and in rows not more than thirty inches distant using from two to three pecks of seed per acre. It may be well in some instances to put it in double rows, that is to say, in rows six to seven inches apart, two in a place. Between these double rows would be a space of thirty inches. The object in growing the corn thus would be to get much bulk of winter food without so much regard to the growth of grain on the ear. In this way several tons of excellent fodder would be grown per acre. The corn should be cared for like corn grown elsewhere, that is to say, it should be harvested from one to three or four times according to the conditions and it should then be cultivated more or less. Where large areas are grown it would be reaped with the corn harvester, and dried in round shocks. From these it would be drawn and stacked in long and narrow stacks from which it could be conveniently fed in winter. It should be thus stacked before the closing in of winter.

GROWING THE GRAIN.

The corn crop would leave the land in excellent condition for growing a crop of grain. It would be moist and clean. But in preparing it for the grain it should not be ploughed. To plough would allow much of the ground moisture to escape by surface evaporation. It would also bury the clean surface and bring up from below a stratum of soil most probably foul with seed seeds. After corn, the land should simply be stirred or loosened on the surface. Whether more than one crop of wheat or other grain could be grown before the ground is sown with grass will depend to a considerable extent on the dryness of the climate. Where moisture is usually deficient one grain crop should be enough. Where it can be depended on, two or three crops of grain could be grown before the land would be laid down to grass. If the grain crop grown was oats, for instance, it could be cut a little short of the ripening period, and fed to stock in an unthreshed condition. In other words it would be fed as cut hay.

GROWING THE GRASS.

The grass grown should be that newly introduced variety, the Australian brome (Bromus inermis). This is a wonderful grass more especially for a dry country, although it will also grow well under wet conditions. No winter cold apparently nor summer heat are likely to kill it, after it has become well established. And it is not difficult to get a stand of Australian brome. It is leafy in its habit of growth. It will start two or three weeks earlier than the ordinary grass of the prairie, and it will also continue to grow late in the autumn where moisture is obtainable even in a limited degree. It is good for pasture and is relished as hay. It is as nutritious as timothy and is also as palatable. It is also a good producer of seed the year after it has been sown, and in some instances the next year also.

The seed may be sown any time during the spring, when it is sown alone, but it ought to be sown early. When sown along with grain, it should be sown as early as the grain. The seed is light and must therefore be sown by hand and on a still day. It should be covered with one stroke of a light harrow. About fifteen pounds of seed should suffice per acre, though some authorities recommend more than that. If sown with oats, the oats should not be thickly sown, lest they should shade the brome grass too much. Though the grass should not make much of a showing in the autumn, the conclusion should not be reached that a stand has not been obtained, since it has great power to thicken as it grows. In fact this power may yet prove one of its weaknesses, as it soon becomes so thick as to check its own growth.

When sod is taken, the best yields are obtained the first year after sowing. The seed can be gathered in small quantities by using the hand stripper, and in large quantities by setting the binder high and running it over the grass. If threshed with the machine the wind should be entirely shut off. The mower is sometimes used to cut the lower portion of the crop for hay, after the upper portion has been taken for seed. The yield of the entire crop of hay varies much with conditions. It runs all the way from one-half ton to four tons per acre, with about one and one-half tons probably as an average. The seed is dear. Good seed last spring cost about twenty cents per pound, but if one sows an acre or two, the next year he will have plenty of seed without buying.

The grass thickens in the soil by means of underground root-stalks. It soon fills the soil therefore with an immense mass of roots, but it is not a very deep feeder. When the brome grass sod is broken, the ground is therefore filled with grass roots, and this is just the conditions for growing an excellent crop of corn. Whether the grass should remain unbroken longer than two years should be determined by the extent of the growth that it makes for pasture or for hay. With this rotation, cropping could go on indefinitely, and food would be provided for live stock.

SYSTEM OF LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT.

The precise method or methods by which the live stock shall be managed are not so easily pointed out. In northwestern Dakota and indeed in all Dakota, the stockman is confronted with relatively high prices for building material. This makes the question of providing shelter costly. Much can be done, however, to meet this difficulty by making the most of such materials as the country furnishes. These include straw, marsh hay and sods that decay slowly. Buildings made of such materials may not be very handsome to look upon, but they may suffice to protect live stock from cold winds until buildings more durable can be erected. And if building sites are wisely chosen, as on the lee side of a bluff, for instance, or within a grove by a stream, the comfort of the animals is still further enhanced.

Live stock in Dakota, at least in northwestern Dakota, are not likely to be kept on the same lines as in the corn belt for instance, that is to say, it should rather be made the place for growing live stock than the place for finishing it for the market.

GROWING CATTLE.

The growing of cattle should always form a profitable industry in the area under consideration, and the farther west, the more profitable relatively should the industry become to those engaged in it, because of the greater areas of untillable land that furnish pasture in proportion to the areas that are tillable. Whether the cows kept shall be milked will depend upon conditions. In localities where all the land is tillable and settlement general, there are no reasons why creameries should not be sustained, but in much of the country the calves would be raised on the extensive plan, that is to say, they would suck their dams.

This class of stock should be grown to the age of eighteen to twenty-four months, and in some instances to a greater age, then sold to stockers to be East to be finished there before going to the block. The conditions are not the best for finishing in Dakota, hence it is not likely to become a great industry, at least west of the Red River Valley.

Young cattle should not be sold at one year to go to the ranges further west. To sell them thus would be a losing game. When the calves suck the dams and are sold at one year, two animals have thus to be kept for a year for the price that the one year old brings. The second year nearly as much advance would be made in the price of the calf at the cost only of its own feed.

GROWING SHEEP.

Sheep should be grown with even greater profit than cattle. The returns are quicker and the first outlay is less than for cattle. Many advantages result from keeping sheep on arable farms as everybody knows who has studied the question. They help to maintain fertility as no other kind of live stock can. They destroy weeds more cheaply than they can be destroyed in any other way. And they bring in returns at least twice a year.

In northwestern Dakota there is usually an opportunity to fatten sheep in large numbers on the fields which have produced grain. And if rape seed of the Dwarf Essex variety is sown at the rate of at least one pound per acre along with the grain, the bread for fattening sheep would be greatly increased without any injury to the grain. Immense quantities of pasture may thus be grown except in seasons extremely dry.

While sheep may thus be fattened in the fall, it is at least questionable if the work should be extended into the winter in western Dakota, for reasons that will not now be discussed. But they may be fattened in the fall as described and in large numbers.

By thus combining grain and live stock, the farmers would in the end make more money than can be made in any other way. It may take years to bring about the change to the extent desired, but it ought to commence at once. And on the whole it is perhaps fortunate that it will have to be a gradual change. While the farmer is increasing his herds and flocks from small beginnings, he will be gaining knowledge as to the best methods of handling them.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.

Peter Lefebre Drowned in the River Near Gentily.

Last Tuesday, while out with some companions picking rasberries Peter Lefebre met his death by drowning in the Red Lake River near Gentilly.

The party was on one side of the river and decided to cross to the other, but having no boat or other means at hand for crossing, young Lefebre started to swim across for a skiff that was moored to the opposite bank. His companions remonstrated but he made the attempt, and when about mid-stream he began to struggle and in a moment the treacherous current dragged him down to his death. The young man was about twenty years of age and was raised in this vicinity. His father died some years ago in Tacoma and his mother, now Mrs. Jos. Paage lives on Maple Lake road near Gentily.

THE STOCK GROWERS

Met in Their First Annual Session at Fargo, N. D., Thursday Evening, July 20.

A MOST PROFITABLE MEETING

Address by Mayor Johnson—Opportunity for Speculation—Co-operation Urged.

The first annual convention of the Northwestern Stock Growers was closed Thursday evening last by the rendering of a most delightful program given in their honor by the hospitable people of Fargo.

Taken all in all this meeting has been a success, though in point of attendance it was not what was anticipated.

The importance of the live stock industry and its direct personal value to the farmers, ranchmen and business men of the northwest has created a demand for such conventions as this, and had it been held a month or six weeks earlier, no doubt it would have been all that was expected in point of attendance.

The convention was organized on Tuesday by the election of Col. Powers of Powers, N. D., as president and J. E. Phelan of Fargo as secretary. Both of these gentlemen are practical stockmen and in their short talks impressed upon their hearers the importance of co-operation in their line of work. After an address of welcome by Mayor Johnson of Fargo, Senator J. S. Green of Mandan spoke on the "Breeding of Range Cattle." Mr. Green is one of the best posted cattlemen in the west and his address abounded in valuable pointers. Among other suggestions was the fact of the cheap feed in the Red River Valley; there was a magnificent opportunity for speculation, in buying steers in the western part of the state and Montana and shipping here for a finish, making this a great feeding point as a stoppage in transit as it were.

A short talk by H. N. Thomas of Bismarck, N. D., on "Home Markets" and the session was adjourned. The evening meeting was omitted for some reason.

The first number the following day at 2 o'clock p. m. was by Col. Powers upon the "Possibilities of the Live Stock Industry in North Dakota", and the results of experiments of feeding for a finish. He was followed by O. P. Kemp of Watertown, S. D. Subject, "Range Horse Industry."

John Hea of St. Paul then gave a most interesting talk on the subject of "Exportation of Sheep," and as no one understands this branch of the work better than Mr. Hea it was followed attentively. However Mr. Hea thinks cattle are not so apt to bring on foot failure as sheep.

The next was "Live Stock on the Small Farm" by Hon. H. N. Thomas. The commissioner is a "stickler" for the home upon the farm and thinks that the best and most profitable live stock any farmer can raise are his boys and girls.

Secretary Phelan then aroused considerable discussion in his talk on feeding, etc., during which the point was raised does it pay to feed stock on $30 and $35 land. Brown of Minneapolis put up a very convincing argument in the affirmative. Mr. Brown (I can't recall his initials) has a model farm and some very fine stock out from Minneapolis at Calhoun.

The stock exhibit was a very creditable one—not large, but good. The agricultural school had out some fine ones—Holsteins, Jerseys, Shorthorns and Herefords.

Col. Powers had some of his fine beef on exhibition and got a good price for what he sold. They were worth it.

Mr. Scott of the Clem Scott farm of Tower City, N. D., showed two fine Shorthorns and the fancy price he received for what he sold speaks volumes for the breeding of blooded stock. This convention was a practical affair. Every prominent representative of the live stock industry were here to shape matters for mutual benefit and for the upbuilding of our combined, and if good business tact and management can make a success look out for some rousing meetings in the future. ✦✦

The school board of Lynn, Mass., has stirred up a hornet's nest by ordering that hereafter no teacher, male or female, shall appear before a class in bicycle costume. The teachers will get up a memorial praying that during the hot months of the year short skirts and golf trousers may be permitted.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

John Cotte Shoots Himself with a Shotgun—Head Blown Off.

John Cotte, who worked on a farm in East Grand Forks township, and had been troubled with neuralgia for some time, ended his life by shooting himself last Sunday evening.

He left the house where he had been stopping with a double barreled shot gun, stating he was going down to Red Lake Riverto hunt. He was soon followed by two little boys who wished to accompany him on his hunting expedition. As soon as he saw them he pointed his formidable weapon at them and threatened to shoot them if they continued their journey. The boys thought it best not to follow further but remained where they could watch him. After arriving at the bank of the river he cocked the gun, placed the muzzle in his mouth, took a stick and touched the trigger, which resulted in not only killing him instantly but blowing the whole top of his head of. Coroner O. Miller was up Monday to view the body but decided it unnecessary to hold an inquest.

Mr. Cotte was a man about 35 years old and his self-destruction is indeed a sad ending of life. He was buried in East Grand Forks Monday at the expense of the county.

FUNNY FIGHTERS.

Filipinos Imitate the American War Cry and Then Show a Hasty Retreat.

A private letter from a bugler in Gen. MacArthur's command in the Philippines to his mother in Chicago relates a laughable incident about the Filipino method of warfare. The story of Col. Funston's several advances, and his wonderful command over men, seems as well known here as in this country, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

When, shortly after the fall of Calumpit, Gen. MacArthur sent a detachment against some insurgents who had thrown up breastworks on a shrub-covered hillock, the Americans crept forward just before dawn, and while a heavy rain was falling. With the first gleam of daylight they rose to their feet and ran forward silently until a cool, nervous discharge of musketry told them they were discovered. Then they yelled, and fired, and redoubled their pace.

Suddenly they heard the Filipino commander cry out, in fairly good English:

"Come on, boys—give it to 'em!" At the same time abandoning the position, and retreating at a dead run.

The bugler declares the "slogan" was as effective in a Filipino camp as in an American—only in quite a contrary manner; "for they no sooner heard those words—which our officers have always employ—than the last bugear of them hopped out of the intrenchment, and almost carried every man with him."

"This," concludes the soldier, "is in line with the general Asiatic habit of doing everything 'backward.'"

TROUSERS FOR GERMAN GIRLS

The Kaiser Did Not Object, But the Burgomaster of Neuhuisser Was Shocked.

A contribution towards the question of women's emancipation comes to the Berlin Lokalanzeiger from Pieschhausen, a small village in East Prussia, says the Chicago Tribune.

A 19-year-old girl there had been left in sore straits through the death of her father, who had been interested with the administration of an estate belonging to the community. But she did not despair.

Though only a frail creature she undertook the management of affairs with energy and resolved to earn her means of living by following the same occupation as her father. As step towards the purpose she addressed a letter to the German emperor, asking to be allowed to wear men's clothes, which would enable her to overcome all difficulties.

The emperor's answer was encouraging enough: "She would be granted the privilege of donning male attire conditionally upon the assent of the burgomaster of the village."

The girl's hopes were high when she went to see the village potentate to inform him of the emperor's reply. But they were doomed to failure, and the burgomaster did not see his way to grant her urgent request.

"He would not give his consent," he explained, "to such a shocking thing, which would be most dangerous to the morals of the community over which he had the honor to preside."

What's the Use of Bathing.

"Cleanliness is an excellent habit. It is not, however, an absolute essential, nor an essential at all to good health and mental activity," says Dr. Thomas J. Iffils in the Medical Record. "The healthiest man I ever saw is nice and well-to-day at 94, and he took a bath only occasionally—once in the Mersey at Liverpool in 1838 and again in the North river in 1878, both of which were accidental, the gentleman being slightly intoxicated when he fell. Almost all people who live to an extreme old age are found to be those who are not overfond of ablutions.

A DELSARTE THEORY.

Failing Without Getting there is an Easy Trick If You Only Know How.

"People wonder how an actress can fail on the stage without hurting herself," says a woman who, according to the New York Times, has tried all sorts of falls as they have come up, "but it is the easiest thing in the world. I tried the Delsarte exercises at one time, and for awhile, when my attack of the disease was at its height, my family had the pleasure of seeing me fall for their amusement and enlightenment all around the house. The great secret of falling is to relax. If you slip and fall some time when you do not wish to, if you can only remember to relax your muscles you will be saved perhaps from a serious injury. Children and drunken people fall relaxed. My mind at that time was filled with my desire to be always relaxed, whenever the Delsarte oracles said I must. So it happened that one day I slipped on the street and had a heavy fall. I pulled myself up in a sitting position a little dazed—I was not sure whether I had put my principles into practice or not. I was brought to myself by a man who came up, asking me, in a considerate tone:

"'Are you seriously hurt, madam?'

"'No; oh, no! thank you,' I said, still dazed. 'I'm not hurt.' And then I realized that I had been thinking so much of my principles that instead of getting up immediately I had been sitting there saying to myself, in a brown study: 'Did I relax or didn't I relax?' I am pretty sure that I didn't, for I found later a goodly number of big black and blue spots, which showed themselves on a true disciple of Delsarte."

DEEP SEA EXPLORATIONS.

The Albatross to Carry a Party of Scientists on a Most Interesting Expedition.

One of the most important scientific expeditions in recent years will be dispatched from San Francisco in August by the United States fish commission. President McKinley has heartily approved the plans of the fish commission scientists, and the Albatross has been thoroughly overhauled and prepared for the coming voyage. Prof. Alexander Agassiz of Harvard university, will be at the head of the party, which will return about May, 1900. It is to secure knowledge of the inhabitants of the ocean at greater depths than have hitherto been explored that the expedition has been organized.

The Albatross will proceed directly from San Francisco to Tahiti, one of the Society Islands, where the waters of the ocean are believed to reach their extreme depth. Soundings recently made show the depth of the water there to be 8½ miles. Deep sea dredges have been worked below the surface on the bed of the ocean where the water is three miles deep, and strange creatures, unlike anything ever before known to man, have been brought up. The purpose of the Agassiz expedition will be to secure specimens of the beasts that live in scientific world. Twenty thousand miles will be covered by the expedition, and owing to the superior equipment of the Albatross gratifying results are expected. In addition to the society islands, the waters of the Samoa archipelago, the Friendly, Fiji, Marshall, Gilbert and Gilbert islands will be explored. From the Gilbert islands the Albatross will turn back via the Hawaii islands for San Francisco.

GENTLENESS IN WAR.

A Singular Characteristic of the Samoans—An Illustrative Incident.

War is savage in its very nature, and one looks for war among savages to be peculiarly barbarous. That such is not always the case among the people of Samoa is attested by a letter sent from Samoa by an American gentleman who recently visited Apia, and who gives a description of Mataafa's army in camp after a battle between the rival claimants to the throne, says Youth's Companion.

"We went all about among the huts where the savages were resting after the battle and making preparations for the next fight. It was a most peaceful scene, for their arms were all concealed under the mats where the men sat, and many of the soldiers were accompanied by their wives and children. They were amusing themselves by smoking and bearing tom-toms.

"The Samoans are a most amiable race of savages, and white people are always perfectly safe among them. Everywhere we were greeted with smiles and friendly nods and the salutation, 'Talofa,' which means 'Love to you,' from men, women and children.

"One instance of their friendly feeling occurred during the big battle. A white man, who lived in the street where they were fighting, saw that two of his horses had strayed out between the hostile lines. He did not want to lose them, and he did not want to venture out in the line of fire. So he stuck a white flag out of his window. Upon seeing it, both rebels ordered their men to stop firing, and bostilities were suspended while the white man went out and drove his horses to a place of shelter. Then the combatants went at it again."

DEFECTIVE PAGE

WORK IS COMPLETED.

INTERNATIONAL PEACE CONFERENCE READY TO QUIT.

Text of the Final Act Embodying the Several Results Accomplished—Expressions of Optimism—Limitations on Present Military Charges Are Greatly to Be Desired. Wish Expressed That Another Conference Be Held at an Early Date.

THE HAGUE, July 25.—The final act embodying the results of the international peace conference, after enumerating the names and qualifications of all the delegates, reads:

"In a series of meetings in which the above delegates participated, inspired throughout by the desire to realize in the highest possible measure the generous views of its august initiator, the conference has drawn up for approval of the respective governments the series of conventions and declarations appended:

"Convention for the pacific settlement of international disputes.

"Convention concerning the laws and customs of war on land.

"Convention for the adoption of laws against the use of explosives or deleterious gases from balloon projectiles and for the prohibition of the use of bullets that easily expand in the human body."

The final act contains five expressions of opinion as follows:

Expressions of Opinion.

"The conference considers that limitations of the military charges which at present oppress the world are greatly to be desired and will tend to the increase of the material and ultimate welfare of mankind.

"The conference expresses the opinion that the question of the rights and duties of neutrals should be inscribed on the programme of a conference to be held at an early date.

"The conference expresses the opinion that questions relative to the type and calibre of rifles and naval artillery as examined by it, should be the subject of study by the different governments with a view to arriving at a uniform solution by a future conference.

"The conference expresses the wish that an early convention be called to revise the present conference.

"The conference has resolved that questions relating to the inviolability of private property in war on land and the bombardment of towns or villages in naval war be reserved for future conference."

ELIHU ROOT ACCEPTS.

Announces His Willingness to Take Charge of the War Department.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Elihu Root of New York has accepted the war portfolio in President McKinley's cabinet. The telegram of acceptance was received shortly after noon while Secretary Long was with the president. Secretary Alger had just left. The tender of the war portfolio was made to Mr.

ELIHU ROOT.

Root Friday night, after the conference at the White House. As the president will leave for the Adirondacks Wednesday or Thursday, it is thought to be hardly probable that Mr. Root will come to Washington to confer with him before that time. It is regarded as more likely that Mr. Root will meet the president at Lake Champlain the latter part of the week.

Alger Stays Till Aug. 1.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Secretary Alger has abandoned the intention he entertained of quitting as soon as Mr. Meiklejohn arrived and has concluded to discharge all of the duties as secretary of war until Aug. 1.

ENGLISH WON THE ODD.

Very Close Result in the International Athletic Contest.

LONDON, July 24.—England won the odd event in the contests between Harvard and Yale on the American side and Oxford and Cambridge for the English side. The weather conditions were perfect for fast work.

The long jump was won by G. C. Vassel (Oxford).

In the mile run, A. Bentor (Cambridge) won.

The hammer throwing contest was won by W. A. Beal (Harvard).

The 440-yard dash was won by Quinlan (Harvard).

The hurdles was won by F. Z. Fox (Harvard).

The half-mile was won by H. E. Graham (Cambridge).

The quarter-mile run was won by C. G. Dawson (Cambridge).

The high jump was won by A. N. Bacon (Harvard).

The three-mile run was won by H. W. Workman (Cambridge).

Japanese-Chinese Alliance.

SHANGHAI, July 25.—The reports regarding a Japanese-Chinese alliance, which have been persistently denied for some time, have now assumed definite form and are causing great excitement in Tientsin circles.

WILL SETTLE AMICABLY.

No Grave Trouble Expected Over the Alaskan Boundary.

NEW YORK, July 25.—A special to The Herald from Washington says:

There will be neither war nor arbitration over Alaskan boundary disputes. It will be settled by amicable agreement between the United States and Great Britain, one nation making concessions on this question in return for concessions by the other on some other question at issue between the two governments.

This is the view expressed by an official having much to do with the pending negotiations. Referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech in the Canadian house of commons, in which the Canadian premier declared there was only two ways by which the difficulty could be settled—arbitration or war, the official said significantly:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier is merely stating to the Canadian parliament the recognized methods by which international controversies are settled. There are three methods—first by mutual concessions, second by arbitration and third by war. Sir Wilfrid neglected to mention the first and most important of these methods.

"It is recognized by the administration the importance of the boundary question existing between Canada and the United States, but it is not considered as incapable of settlement satisfactorily to the American miners and the Canadian government. There are other more serious questions, and it was intimated to me that the settlement of the boundary question might grow out of the relation of these other questions. It is believed that while it may take time and patience to work out a final solution of all the pending questions, such a solution will ultimately be reached in a neighborly spirit and without any clash or serious stumbling of relations between the two nations."

DIED AS HE WISHED.

End of All Things Earthly Came Suddenly for Colonel Ingersoll.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The death of Robert G. Ingersoll, which occurred at his home, Walston-on-Hudson, near Dobbs Ferry, was sudden and unexpected and resulted from heart disease, from which he suffered since 1896. In that year, during the Republican national convention, he was taken ill and had to return home. He never fully recovered from the attack of heart disease and was under the care of physicians constantly.

For the last three days Mr. Ingersoll had not been feeling well, but nothing serious was anticipated. He spent the afternoon on the verandah at his home, and at 12:30 o'clock he went upstairs. On reaching the head of the stairs Colonel Ingersoll turned into his wife's room.

Death Came As He Desired It.

He seemed in good spirits then. After talking for a few minutes Colonel Ingersoll crossed the room and sat down in a rocking chair. He leaned his head upon his hand which rested on the back of the chair. Mrs. Ingersoll asked him how he was feeling and he replied:

"Oh, better."

These were his last words. A second after they were uttered he was dead. The only sign noted by Mrs. Ingersoll was that the whites of his eyes suddenly showed. There was not even a sigh or a groan as death came. Doctors were hastily called but their coming was that he had died instantly. Death came to him as he had recently expressed a desire it should.

SELL CASS LAKE LANDS.

Secretary Hitchcock Issues a Final Order in the Matter.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Secretary Hitchcock has finally disposed of the Cass Lake, Minn., controversy. He announced that the government would sell in parcels the north half of section 15, which comprises nearly the whole town of Cass Lake. The 200 or more intruders are located chiefly on this half section, and on the northeastern part of section 16. They will have to remove from section 16 as soon as possible.

The decision of Secretary Hitchcock closes the controversy over the proposed removal of the settlers from the Cass Lake Indian reservation lands. Senator Nelson was present when the announcement was made and expressed his satisfaction. This places the 320 acres of lands open to all for purchase. The half section will be advertised for 60 days and probably 15 days more after that before the sale when the intruders must take their chances in the purchase of the lands or remove from them. The disputed section is to be sold off, as it consists mainly of agricultural lands and is subject either to allotment or homestead requirement. The intruders there must buy land in the other section or remove entirely from the reservation.

NORTHWESTERN NAMES.

Several Wisconsin and Minnesota Men Given Commissions.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The following are among the additional appointments to the volunteer army just announced:

To be captains: Frank L. French, captain, Third Wisconsin; Charles A. Green, second lieutenant, Twelfth Minnesota; J. Rollis, captain, Fourth Wisconsin; Frank Bonham, first lieutenant, First Wisconsin.

To be first lieutenants: John W. [illegible], captain, Wisconsin; Charles J. Goldsbury, captain, Fourth Wisconsin; George E. Gibson, captain, Fifteenth Minnesota; Samuel S. Morgan, captain, Thirteenth Minnesota; Henry W. Newton, captain, Third Wisconsin; Cashman A. Rice, first lieutenant, Fifteenth Minnesota; Thaddeus Wild, lieutenant, First Wisconsin.

Transport Sheridan at Manila.

MANILA, July 23.—9 p. m.—The United States transport Sheridan, which sailed from San Francisco, June 23, with reinforcements for General Otis, has arrived here.

TO GOVERN NEGROS

GENERAL OTIS HAS ISSUED A PROCLAMATION

Establishing a Provisional Government for the Island—How It Will Be Officered—Military Operations Suspended. Sick Soldiers Lacked Attention on Arrival at San Francisco.

MANILA, July 26.—Pending congressional action concerning the constitution under which the inhabitants of the island of Negros shall be governed, which has been submitted to President McKinley, General Otis has proclaimed a provisional government, under the direction of a military governor to be named by the governor of the Philippines, with a civil governor and advisory council to be elected. The military governor will appoint secretaries of the treasury, interior, agriculture and public instruction, and an attorney general and an auditor. Bacolod will be the capital.

The military governor will exercise supreme executive power. The civil governor will advise the military governor concerning public questions of a civil character, and will preside over the advisory council. He will also grant commissions and attest the official acts of the military government concerning civil matters. There will be eight councilors, one for each of seven districts, and one councilor at large. All males of 21 years of age who are able to read and write English, Spanish or Visayan understandingly, or are the owners of $500 in realty, or are the renters of $1,000 in realty, or have resided in their respective districts one year are qualified voters.

Municipal governments will be organized as soon as possible under the supervision of military and civil governments and the advisory council.

MILITARY OPERATIONS END.

Unprecedented Rains Cause Floods Around Manila.

MANILA, July 24.—The unprecedented rains of the last week have convinced observers here that military operations on a large scale or advances covering many miles will be impossible for a long time. Many miles of the country are flooded to a depth of three or four feet. The Paranaque bridge, which was considered impregnable, has been washed away, cutting off temporarily the garrison of Imus and Bacoor from communication with Manila. In the circumstances it will be impossible to move supplies over the trails now become doubtful. Pack mules will be utilized if it should become possible for soldiers to make marches. The officials will have their hands full for some time in arranging for the departure of volunteers and in caring for the regulars who are replacing them.

BAD TREATMENT ALLEGED.

No Preparations Made to Care for Sick and Wounded Soldiers.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 25.—A special to The Journal from San Francisco says: When the hospital ship Morgan City, just arrived from Manila, unloaded 500 sick and wounded soldiers, no welcome awaited the veterans. Surrounded by the usual crowd of dock loafers, the men, including 98 Minnesotans, limped, slid or left their cots on the gangway. The Journal correspondent helped several helpless soldiers down the plank. The ship's hospital corps was totally inadequate. Absolutely no preparation was made by General Shatter to unload and transport the sick to the Presidio.

The San Francisco Examiner, commenting on the helpless condition of the men, says:

"The landing of the men was a sight never to be forgotten. There was a frequent step in the entire crowd; not a face which bore evidence of health. There were in that band more than a score of 32 organizations, men from nearly every regiment that left here for the Philippines during the last year. The contrast between their condition on departure and on arrival was heartrending."

ST. PAUL, July 26.—Governor Lind has telegraphed Colonel Ames, now at San Francisco, to see that the Minnesota boys who arrived on the Morgan City are properly looked after. They will be brought home if mustered out there in time to travel. Commissioner Stevens also wired Assistant Secretary of War Meiklejohn calling attention to the needs of the Minnesotans.

THREE DEATHS EN ROUTE.

Transport Morgan City Arrives at San Francisco From Manila.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—The United States transport Morgan City, which has been converted into a hospital ship, has arrived from Manila, having on board 176 sick and wounded soldiers. The vessel started with 220, but 3 died on the voyage—Private C. J. Robbs, Tenth Pennsylvania; Private Lewis Cook, Twenty-second regiment, and First Lieutenant Jackson, First South Dakota. These succumbed to dysentery, the disease with which most of the others were afflicted. All of those on board were ill when the steamer left Manila, but the removal from a tropical climate and the sea air so benefited the invalids that on their arrival here only 27 were unable to leave their berths. Every command and almost every regiment is represented among the returning soldiers.

THE OFFICIAL REPORT.

Otis Cables Particulars of the Encounter on Novaleta.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The war department has received the following cablegram from General Otis:

"Captain B. A. Byrne, Sixth infantry, with 70 men, surprised united rebber bands, Negros, numbering 450; killed 125, wounded many; captured two rifles and revolvers, many bolo weapons, large quantity stocks; fighting all close distance. Byrne's loss one killed, one wounded, names not given. This action very beneficial for quiet of Negros."

NEWS CONDENSATIONS.

Thursday, July 20.

It is announced that the Milwaukee road will build from St. Paul to Dubuque.

A. L. Mohler is understood to have accepted the presidency of the Ohio Fair.

Rev. Thomas Warner, D. D., past chaplain-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, is dead at Knoxville, Tenn.

The reciprocity arrangement concluded between the United States and Portugal under the Dingley tariff act, has been published in Lisbon.

The convention of iron molders has pledged support to the International Cigarmakers' union in their fight against the tenement house system of cigar making.

The republican committee of the United States industrial commission has closed its labors at Denver and left for Wallace, Ida., to investigate the Coeur d'Alene troubles.

Friday, July 21.

A $100,000,000 brewery combination is said to be on the tapis.

The Olympia has arrived at Trieste, where she will remain for two weeks.

The president has appointed General Alger's resignation, to take effect Aug. 1.

By an accident one of the bones of the lower portion of the leg of the Empress of Germany have been broken.

The Chicago platform Democrats had everything their own way at a meeting of the Democratic committee in Chicago.

An American gunsmith is to be sent against Filipino lufesong the coast and to break up illicit traffic among the islands.

Mary Ann Ansell, convicted of murdering her sister, an inmate of an insane asylum, by sending her poisoned cake, was hanged at St. Albans, Eng.

Saturday, July 22.

A large volcano is bringing destruction in Hawaii.

The international convention of the Epworth League has opened at Indianapolis.

President McKinley has sent a message praising the regulars and volunteers for their work in the Philippines.

The Democratic politician, genius, lecturer and agricultural editor, was gored to death by a bull at York, Pa.

Monday, July 24.

The peace congress will adjourn this week.

The Dreyfus courtmartial will open Aug. 7.

Gambling is to be stamped out in Havana, it is said.

The Third cavalry has been ordered ready for service in the Philippines.

A Toledo grain elevator was burned Sunday, the loss being nearly $1,000,000.

A reception to General Alger has been planned by Detroit citizens upon his return to Michigan.

The Manila correspondent of the London Daily Mail says: Macgunah's hymn in honor of Admiral Dewey was performed by the Royal Irish band for the first time before an audience of 2,000. It was greatly appreciated, and is considered one of the finest hymns Macgunai has written.

Tuesday, July 25.

The entire Union Pacific is to be double-tracked.

The remains of Colonel Ingersoll will be cremated.

An Arbuckle-trust sugar war is on and rates are being cut.

President Kruger of the Transvaal was erroneously reported to have resigned.

Indians in Idaho threaten to kill Northern Pacific graders crossing the Nez Perces reserve.

Peter Jackson, the pugilist, says he will issue a challenge to the victor in the Jeffries-Sharkey fight.

Secretary Gresham gave a decision over "Young Corbett" before the Colorado Athletic association, Denver, at the end of the eighth round.

General Otis cables the deaths of First Lieutenant John L. Moore, Company E, Fifty-first Iowa, suicide, and Michael Corrigan, Company K, First Montana, dysentery.

Wednesday, July 26.

Gil dean A. Tucker, associate justice of New York, is dead. He was 73 years old.

The amalgamation of 28 large plumbing material manufactories of the country has been perfected.

Bankruptcy experts and referees are holding a convention to discuss new exchanges in the new law.

The French cabinet has ordered the degradation of General de Sercier, because he advised insubordination.

The Republic iron and Steel company of East St. Louis has increased the wages of its 1,000 employes 16 per cent.

The battleship Suffern was launched at 10:45 Tuesday. She is the largest ship in the French navy, being of 12,500 tons displacement.

Major Count Ferdinand Walsin Esterhazy will receive a safe conduct to enable him to testify before the courtmartial at Rennes for the retrial of Captain Dreyfus.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

Winona has a lady druggist.

Douglas county is to have a new fair.

Senator Nelson is about to visit his home in Norway.

A pair of bronze lions has been placed in Como Park, St. Paul, the gift of Joseph Ehlinger.

The body of the late Major Diedler of the Thirteenth Minnesota has reached San Francisco.

John Beaupre, an Indian, has been appointed industrial teacher at the Red Lake Indian school.

The postoffice department has ordered the establishment of 10 additional substations in Minneapolis.

Lieutenant Colonel March has been elected colonel of the Fourth regiment, Minnesota national guard.

The sister of Colonel March fell down a bluff near Cloquet Lawrence and had a narrow escape from death.

A contract has been let for the erection within 60 days of a Congregational church at Akeley to cost $1,000.

Secretary Hitchcock has suspended the Cass Lake eviction order for 30 days to give him time to learn the situation.

Minnesota and Wisconsin brewers are charged with trying to defraud the government in the matter of revenue taxes.

An order has been issued establishing a postoffice at Cedar Bend, Rocsau county, with Mary C. Stolze as postmistress.

The St. Paul and Duluth railway will soon be turned over to a syndicate and a new line built to Hinckley, the present factor in shaping the road's policy.

Fire at L. D. Hubbard's big flour mill at Minneapolis caused damage to the extent of $8,000. The fire caught in the elevator shaft and $1,500 worth of wheat was destroyed.

The North Dakota Editorial association, accompanied by Senator Hansbrough and Congressman Marshall, visited Devil's Lake.

J. L. Washburn and A. Chisholm, Duluth, have sold to one of the large operating mining companies of this district an 80-acre tract close to the village of Hibbing for $75,000 cash.

Colonel John C. Shandrew, who was in command of the Fifteenth Minnesota at the time of its mustering in, but who was stricken with paralysis shortly after, is dead. The immediate cause of death was Bright's disease.

The trustees of the Germania bank, St. Paul, have voted to go into voluntary liquidation and appointed President Gustav Willius as manager at a salary of $5,000, with such clerk help as he might deem necessary. There are to be no other paid officials.

A compilation of the returns from state banks made under the call of June 1 has been completed by the financial examiner. Compared with those of previous calls, the figures show a gratifying state of affairs. The accounts of commercial deposits increased over 16 per cent.

The La Crosse and Winona poultry men have already begun arrangements for their shows, to be held next January. It is now understood that each city will assist the other by sending its choicest birds for exhibition as possible. Under this arrangement both shows promise to be unprecedented successes.

The assistant attorney general at Washington holds that the governor of Minnesota has the right to commission the third major to fill the vacancy existing in the Thirteenth Minnesota infantry, and that it is the duty of the war department to recognize the governor's appointee of that grade.

The amount of taxes on state deposits in banks has been fixed at 2 per cent for daily balances with 2½ on such part of the deposit as may remain unchanged for three months. The interest on monthly balances is to be credited monthly at 2 per cent. At the end of the quarter interest at the rate of 1½ per cent is to be added to the lowest amount on deposit within the period.

Royalties on state mineral leases amounting to $2,087.50 have been paid by the Lake Superior Consolidated company to the state. No ore has been mined on school lands this year, but there are seven leases that have been outstanding long enough to require the minimum royalty of 25 cents on 5,000 tons a year. The quarterly payment on these are for the Mountain Iron property $312.50, the two Oliver contracts $625 and the four Biwabik Mountain Iron leases $1,250. On five other unmatured leases the annual payment of $100 each was made.

Minnesota Editorial Association.

ST. PAUL, July 25.—At the meeting of the executive committee of the Minnesota Editorial association held at St. Paul plans were made for the association's annual excursion. The outing will be held the week of Sept. 16 and will consist of an excursion over the Omaha and Great Northern, Pacific and will include Omaha and Denver, with trips to Manitou Springs and Colorado Springs. The party will return on the following Saturday.

TEACH TURKS TO FARM.

Professor Kent of Iowa Accepts a Position Under the Sultan.

CHICAGO, July 26.—A special to The Times-Herald from Ames, Ia., says: Professor D. A. Kent, late of the Iowa state agricultural college, has been selected as an instructor in farming to the Turkish empire. The sultan needed a man versed in the cultivation of wheat, corn and fruit and requested the Turkish representative at Washington to procure such a person. The Turkish ambassador appealed to Secretary Wilson, who recommended Professor Kent and the Iowa City man has signified his willingness to accept the mission. Professor Kent leaves for his new duties in a few weeks.

FIRST LOSS OF LIFE.

Nineteen-Year-Old Boy Killed by a Non-Union Conductor.

CLEVELAND, July 26.—The day has failed to bring any relief to the street car situation, while it is regarded as serious. The state board of arbitration has practically abandoned its efforts to conciliate the strikers and the street car employers. Small rises occurred during the day, but with one exception they were without serious results. In the death of Henry Cornwell, slain by a bullet fired by Ralph F. Hawley, a conductor on the Broadway line, is recorded the first fatality of the strike.

Shortly after noon Hawley's car approached Orange street and was beset by a crowd of men and boys. Cornwell, a 19-year-old son of a butcher, was astride of a horse and rode to the side of the car, keeping pace with it for some distance. Various stories are told as to what passed between the conductor and the boy, but the result was by the sight of Hawley, who jumped to the street and started in pursuit of Cornwell. The latter, clearly followed by his pursuer, turned up Perry street. At Woodland avenue the latter pulled his revolver and fired. His victim fell, fatally shot, with a ghastly wound in the right temple, and, dead soon after being removed to the hospital. The crowd, which before the incident had been at least violent, was awed by the seriousness of the affair and permitted the conductor to walk back to his car. He was arrested and taken to the station where a charge of murder was entered against him. When the car returned in charge of another man and laden with police, thousands of people were crowded around the fatal spot. The track was blockaded and the stalled cars were bombarded with stones and bricks. The police managed, by using their clubs, to clear the way, after a delay of half an hour.

Suddenly Called to Its Senses

Rioting broke out afresh in the evening and a second attempt to wreck a car was made. A Payne Avenue car speeding south near Holenden avenue, carrying besides the motorman and conductor, a guard, successfully ran a gauntlet of missiles thrown from the roofs of houses only to run into a can of nitroglycerine which exploded with terrific force. The rear platform was torn off and the flooring somewhat torn by fastenings. The crew was not injured but emerged from the shattered ruins with their pistols drawn and began firing at what they thought was a couple of men crouching as if to hide themselves behind a small building. Proof A. hurrying on horseback to the scene, was bombarded with giant firecrackers.

Twenty-three Marriages in One Day.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., July 24.—Eight thousand eyes and ears were in the city hall to-day, 4,000 from Chicago, 1,000 from Racine, Wis., and over 3,000 on the different railways. The result at County Clerk Nordhaus's office to-day, Chicago matrimonial parties was the biggest of the season. In all 23 marriage licenses were issued.

Epworth League Adjourns.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 24.—The Epworth league has adjourned to meet in San Francisco in 1901. The final session was devoted to addresses on "Missions," followed by a reception to the delegates and visitors and it was estimated that the number of delegates had reached the 20,000 mark.

LATE MARKET REPORT.

Duluth Wheat.

DULUTH, July 26.

WHEAT—On. No. 1 hard 70c; No. 1 Northern, 70½c; No. 2 Northern 67½; No. 3 Spring, To Arrive—No. 1 hard, 71c; No. 1 Northern 70½c; No. 2 do, 69½c. September, 70½c; December, 71¼c.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 26.

WHEAT—In Store—No. 1 Northern, July, 70c; September, 67¼c; Dec. December, 68¾c. No. 1 hard, 70½c; No. 2 Northern, 68½c. No. 2 Northern, 67½c.

Sioux City Live Stock.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 26.

HOGS—Market 5c lower. Range of prices $4.30@4.40.

CATTLE—Market steady. Very few cattle here.

Sales ranged at $4.00@4.25 for steers; $3.40@3.50 for cows, bulls and stags; $3.00@3.25 for stockers and feeders. $3.75@4.40 for corn fed.

SHEEP—Market steady on best, slow on others.

Sales ranged at $4.30@4.75 for sheep; $4.75@5.00 for lambs.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

ST. PAUL, July 26.

HOGS—Market 5c lower. Range of prices $3.80@4.42½.

CATTLE—Market steady. Very few cattle here.

Sales ranged at $4.00@4.25 for steers; $3.40@3.50 for cows, bulls and stags; $3.00@3.25 for stockers and feeders. $3.75@4.40 for corn fed.

SHEEP—Market steady on best, slow on others.

Sales ranged at $4.00@4.25 for sheep; $4.75@5.00 for lambs.

RECEIPTS—Hogs, 4,000; cattle, 800; sheep, 600; calves, 600.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, July 27.

HOGS—Market slow.

Sales ranged at $4.00@4.60 for mixed and butchers; $4.40@4.60 for good heavy; $4.20@4.45 for light.

CATTLE—Market steady.

Sales ranged at $4.00@5.00 for beeves; $3.60@4.50 for cows and heifers, $3.00@4.00 for stockers; $3.25@4.10 for stockers and feeders.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Sales ranged at $3.00@4.75 for sheep; $4.00 @5.00 for lambs.

RECEIPTS—Hogs, 17,000; cattle, 2,000; sheep, 5,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, July 26.

WHEAT—July, 70½; September, 68¾; December, 71¼. May, 76@76¾.

CORN—July, 37½; September, 38c; December, 37@38½; May, 41@41½.

OATS—July, 26½; September, 19½@19½; December, 19½; May, 23½.

PORK—July, $8.97; September, $8.95; October, $8.85.

BUTTER—Creameries 13@17c; dairies, 14@15c.

POULTRY—Dressed, chickens, 7@8c; ducks, 6c.

THE STORY OF A GOOSE

BY JOSEPH A. ALTSHELER.

[Copyright, 1899, by J. A. Altsheler.]

We had been falling back for the enemy was in mighty strong force and was pressing us hard. I'd just come over with the re-enforcements from the western army, and things in Virginia were a little new to me, seeing that I'd never been there before. Those fellows in the eastern army were mighty fresh, too, and, thinking that we boys from the west were green, they were always playing jokes on us and stealing our grub and pestering us near about as bad as the Yankees did.

Now, I'm from Kentucky, I tell you, and having a mighty quick temper I got into some scrapes about it, but that didn't make any difference with me. I won't agree to be put upon. I won't there to be fighting the Yankees all day and then when I went back to camp to find that our own fellows had stolen all my grub. No, sirree, none of that sort of business for me. I'm half horse and half alligator. I reckon I was born in Adair county, Ky., where the hills rise as straight up as the side of a house, and I eat my eyeteeth mighty young, I tell you. So I just said to myself: "Now, none of you fellows are going to get the best of me. I'll just keep my eye open, and when you try any of your games on me I'll let you have it straight and hard. That's me!"

I wasn't feeling in the best of temper anyway, for I could see things were going bad, mighty bad. Gosh! A 10-year-old boy that had never been to town could have seen that, for the enemy kept pressing us and pressing us, and our army kept melting and melting away, because when a man got killed there was no new man to take his place. But the fighting wasn't half as bad as the grub. It was mighty scarce, I can tell you. I never expected to see any hog and hominy again until I got to heaven. It was a whole week sometimes when I had nothing to eat but green corn, which I pulled in the field myself, and I tell you green corn every day without something else with it as a kind of wreck is nothing of strength-ening diet. I know, I tell you, because I've been there. Why, I was so hungry I could have eaten an ammunition wagon, heels and all, if they'd been slicked and greased up a little.

"NOW, JUST DROP THAT GOOSE!"

Well, we kept up that sort of business, fighting and starving and falling back, and all the time I was cursing old Grant, who kept hammering and hammering away at us and never giving me time to go off and find something solid that would fill the great big hole in my stomach that kept aching and aching and wanting to know why I didn't do something for it. So one day, when we had been fighting with Lee Yankees until eight hot hours and so we were lying on the hills we knew there was no danger of an attack that night. I was so tuckered out with the marching and the fighting that I just flopped myself down on the grass and panted, same as I used to do when I'd been coon hunting all night in the hills of old Adair county and my mouth hadn't just petered out. I lay there for awhile. Then, jumping Jehoshaphat, but that stomach of mine began talking in the most complaining sort of way! "Nothing to eat! Nothing to eat!" it kept saying to me, and, sure, I didn't know what to do. I pulled a bunch of green grass and chewed just like King Nebuchadnezzar that the Bible tells of, but that didn't do any good, sure. My stomach kept aching and aching more than ever.

Then I began casting around for some way of getting something to eat. I'd noticed as we came into camp that we passed through some fields that had been cultivated once, and I guessed there must be a farmhouse somewhere near by. Says I to myself, "The soldiers have been so long camping they haven't had any time to hunt for farmhouses, and just as soon as there's a bit of dark I'll go and look about myself and see if I can't find something to eat." Then I says out loud to Tom Shaw, that big, long fellow that comes from the next county to me and who always stood by the side of me in the company:

"Tom, do you see that cornfield over there?" I ain't minded, and mence that there's a farmhouse not much farther on. Well, I've been starving to death long enough, and I'm going to see if I can't find something good to eat in it. It's near about dark now, and I guess I'll go right away."

"Better not, Bill Middleton," says Tom Shaw, who was always pesky alert and cantionslike. "You'll get into trouble soon."

"Trouble be darned!" says I, for I was getting mad. "What worse trouble can there be than starving to death? I'm going, I tell you, Tom Shaw. You can stay here, but if I get anything I'll divide with you fair and square."

Then I was casting around for some way of getting something to eat and I'd noticed as we came into camp that we passed through some fields that had been cultivated once, and I guessed there must be a farmhouse somewhere near by. Says I to myself, "The soldiers have been so long camping they haven't had any time to hunt for farmhouses, and just as soon as there's a bit of dark I'll go and look about myself and see if I can't find something to eat." Then I says out loud to Tom Shaw, that big, long fellow that comes from the next county to me and who always stood by the side of me in the company:

"Tom, do you see that cornfield over there? If I ain't mistook, and mence that there's a farmhouse not much farther on. Well, I've been starving to death long enough, and I'm going to see if I can't find something good to eat in it. It's near about dark now, and I guess I'll go right away."

"Better not, Bill Middleton," says Tom Shaw, who was always pesky alert and cantionslike. "You'll get into trouble soon."

"Trouble be darned!" says I, for I was getting mad. "What worse trouble can there be than starving to death! I'm going, I tell you, Tom Shaw. You can stay here, but if I get anything I'll divide with you fair and square."

With that I put my old rifle over my shoulder and slipped across the corn-field. They were mighty careful scouts in the woods, but I passed the field and then among the campfires without anybody noticing me. Mighty little the army was going to bother itself about one ragged and hungry soldier in gray strolling along. There were too many like me. The lights began to grow scarcer, and directly I came down a bit in the hill and saw a tree line twinkling at the bottom of it. There were two men by the fire and something else, and, Lord, how my mouth watered at the sight of that something else! It was a good big, white, fat goose! How my stomach jumped and cried out! That goose was so plump and so nice and so round! One of the men was picking the goose, and the other, a big, mild chaplain looking fellow, was looking on. I tell you, my appetite grew sharper than a razor, and I stood there with my eyes on that goose. Directly the man who was picking him put him down on the leaves and walked off toward the middle of the camp, on some errand, I guess. The other man picked up the goose. Then it came to me like a shot what to do.

I walked up to the chaplain looking man, stopped stock still, dropped my gun at my feet and said in a kind of threatening way:

"Where did you get that goose?"

"A friend of mine found him in a farmyard," says the man, a tall, preachy-eelike fellow, as soft and easy as if he didn't see that I was mighty mad and getting madder all the time, "and as the fortune who own the place had departed we thought we would appropriate him."

"Appropriate nothing!" says I, holler than ever. "Don't you know that's my goose and you're stealing him?"

"Why was I to know that?" says he, still as mild and pleasant as a summer morning.

"Well, don't you know," says I, "that no goose is wandering around these times without an owner? And that one there is mine, I tell you. I was right after him when that friend of yours came along and stole him from me right under my eyes, and I haven't had anything to eat for a month and I'm not going to give him up either. That's the long and short of it, so just drop him. I'm not going to give my victuals to chaplains, for I guess you are each—you're soft spoken enough. We do the fighting, and I guess we ought to do the eating too. Now, just drop that goose or I'll make you feel sorry. Drop him, I say!"

"And you say you have had nothing to eat for a month?" says the man, just as cool and calm as ever and still holding on to the goose.

"Well, that may be stretching the truth a little," says I, still mighty derceilke, "but it isn't much. I tell you, and I'm bound to have that goose anyway!"

I shook my gun more threateningly than ever. The man didn't appear to be scared, but he handed the goose to me, and he said in a sorrowful tone, not because he had to give up the goose, I reckon:

"Take him, my friend. Your hunger is greater than mine."

Then he turned and walked off.

"Well, parbner," I said to myself as I tucked that big fat slender under my arm, "you're not hard to bluff. That comes of praying all the time and never fighting. You haven't any business in armies. You won't get along very well."

Then I tucked the rags of my old coat over the goose and slipped back to the camp. It was worth a whole circus to see big Tom Shaw open his eyes when I showed the goose, so fat and so tempting.

"Well, you are a trump! You take the whole deck, Bill Middleton!" says he.

Then I told him how I'd bluffed the chaplain looking fellow, and old Tom laughed till he near cried. He agreed with me that that fellow wouldn't get along anyhow.

We roasted the goose, and Tom and I ate him clean up, right down to the bones, and I felt full and happy for the first time in six months.

The next morning we began to fall back again. I was tramping along with Tom and the rest of the company, calculating how I'd capture another fat goose the coming night. I was feeling pretty proud and stuck up, too, for I was the only one of the boys that could find a goose.

Directly a big, gray haired man, riding a gray horse, came up. I was thinking so much about goose that I didn't notice him till he was pretty near on me. He slowed his horse down and said to me as soft as a woman

"My friend, I hope you enjoyed your goose last night."

"Guess I did," said I in an offhand way, "and I tell you, pardner, you tried to beat me out of him, but I'm not going to let any of you run over me because I haven't been long with the eastern army and you think I'm green."

He laughed a little, ever so pleasant, and then he says, still as soft and gentle as a woman:

"My friend, I yielded him up very willingly. I only hope you fight as well as you forage."

"You bet I do!" says I as be rode off, still smiling to himself.

Then I looked around and saw big Tom Shaw staring at the chaplain looking fellow.

"What are you staring at that way! What's got into you?" says I, madder for I didn't like his look.

"Don't you know who that man is, Bill Middleton?" says he.

"I know he's the man I bluffed out of that goose that you helped me to eat last night," says I as carelessike and as offhand as you please. "But I don't know his name, and I don't know that it makes a bit of difference either."

Then Tom he looks at me and says:

"That's General Lee, the commander in chief!"

And that's the whole story of that goose that the boys who fought in the war with me are always pestering me about, but I can tell you I was mighty glad it stopped Stonewall Jackson's dial

A One Armed Man Town.

Those of you in the habit of visiting New York have probably noticed the unusually large number of one armed men in Jersey City. Being one of the largest railroad centers in the country, it turns out about 30 one armed men a year—that is, that many arms are cut off by railroad trains. There was much trouble for these one armed men once because of an alarm which was sent out by the police. The alarm was, "Look out for a one armed man, about 30 years old, shabbily dressed, having $190 in bills and a bank book in his possession." Inside of three hours over 200 one armed men had been arrested, and among the number was one who had found a lost pocketbook containing the amount above stated. It was returned to the owner, who rewarded the finder.—Pittsburg Dispatch

The Pastor's Justification.

The deacon did not try to conceal his displeasure. "You preached a mighty hell yesterday," he protested warmly. "although it was distinctly understood when you were called to our church that you did not believe in a material hell."

"I preached it faithfully, Yes, sir," he replied. "It was also distinctly understood that I was to be paid monthly. Have you received your salary in six months I consider myself absolved from the understanding and free to believe in anything whatsoever! Yes, sir!"—Detroit Journal.

The Colonel's Soft Snap.

They were seated on the swampy margin of a Georgia lake, fishing.

"Looky here, Bill," said the colonel. "I've got a nibble, an' I'm afraid to scare her discernin of him nil. I think it's a big catfish. But this here sent I'm on is mighty slippery—'pears to be sliding from under me!"

"Good gracious, hunnel!" exclaimed the terrified Bill. "You sit n-settin on a big water moccasin!"

And then the colonel jumped. But he jumped into the lake.—Atlanta Constitution

A STRANGE AFFECTION.

It Crops Out Amongst Society Ladies Who Have the Five O'Clock Tea Habit.

There is a nervous disease—the result at the five o'clock tea habit—which afflicts many women, says the New York Herald. Said one bright woman, lately:

"I never remember finishing a sentence which I have commenced at one of these functions. Before I have a chance to round it off I am interrupted, dragged away or confronted with a new face in whom I am introduced. I begin again, to have the experience duplicated again and again. I have the same trouble with my repartee. I get home down half emptied to greet some new arrival, to find them whisked away, and each one repeats the history of its predecessor.

"I leave those 'bun worries' with a trail of unfinished phrases and undrunk cups of tea behind me. I go home in a thoroughly unkempt frame of mind, with a tendency to leave off everything I undertake and start something else. This results in a chronic case of five-o'clock-tea paralysis. Just listen at any of these receptions and you will hear scores with one sentence in spasmodic, staccato gasps. You never get the point of a story or the telling remark of a repartee. Everyone has her eye on the door for the new arrival, who may prove more interesting or desirable than the one she is talking to.

"Pardon me," seems to be the excuse for every form of conventional rudeness. I believe this form of nervousness is one of the many symptoms of the national unrest, or lack of poise, of which foreigners so bitterly complain."

DONE BY MACHINERY.

Luxuries as Well as Necessities Have Been Multiplied by Invention.

By the aid of improved machinery, that which at the beginning of the century was the luxury of the rich is now the comfort of the poor, says the Engineering Magazine. Material and labor are no longer the sole factors of production. Assisted by machinery and tools, man's labor now converts the raw materials of nature into the useful, necessary, and, in some cases, even the artistic paraphernalia of civilization with one-third of the exertion formerly necessary. Even housing, the latest competitor in the industrial field, has, with the aid of machinery, more than doubled since 1801, the individual output of those employed in her manufactories. In the course of 20 years (1840-1860) the number of persons employed in the American manufactures has more than doubled, and the value of their product has nearly trebled. I mention these facts to show the important part that machinery performs in modern industrial warfare. Few realize or stop to think how much we are indebted to the inventor and machine designer for the comforts, luxuries and necessities of our daily life. We know which sewes our clothes, cottons and woolens; the harvesting machines which reap our corn; the machinery which forms our boots and shoes; the printing machine which makes the penny daily possible. Our food, clothing, furniture, literature, all are produced on machinery, and it is practicallv impossible to make or maintain without the modern machine tool.

CENTENARIANS IN SPAIN.

The Percentage Is Very Large in the Southern Provinces and Steadily Increasing.

Would you like to live to the age of Methuselah? Then according to the latest authority on the subject of longevity, you should spend the remainder of your days in the south of Spain.

According to statistics which have just been published in Madrid, Spain is wonderfully rich in centenarians. The compiler, indeed, estimates that there are 25 centenarians to every 1,000,000 inhabitants. Moreover, this proportion has been constantly increasing during the past few years, and in 1897 there were 12 centenarians to every 1,000,000; in 1887 there were 13.37, and in 1877 the number rose as high as 29.5. For a few years after 1877 the proportion was very much reduced, but since then it has recovered almost all of its lost ground.

Centenarians thrive better in some parts of the country than in others. In Andalusia there are more than anywhere else. In Malaga the proportion is something like 100 to every 1,000,000 of inhabitants. On the other hand, there is not a single centenarian in the provinces of Soria, Alava and Teruel. Broadly speaking, it may be said that centenarians flourish best in the country south of the Sierra Morena, the proportion being approximately four 50 to 60 to every 1,000,000 of inhabitants. In the north, on the contrary, they are very rare, almost impossible, to find a single centenarian.

A Queer Coincidence.

The Stillwater (Minn.) Prison Mirror tells of an Irishman at McCook, Neb., who went out to exhibition the other night and returned at three in the morning only to find that his family had also been away to the show in the meantime. He looked at the clock and then at the kids, and remarked: "It's a queer coincidence. However, I'm dom'd glad Oi didn't return at eight!"

Dodging the Custodian Box.

A boy accompanied his father to church and when the collection was taken up the youngster closely watched the performance. When the collectors made their rounds the boy said to his father: "Half of them got in for nothing."

Are You Interested in the Klondike?

If you are then you will surely want to read our new story,

A Race for Gold

Copyrighted and published in this paper by special arrangement. The title of the story and the more fast that the scene is laid in the Klondike gold regions are enough to suggest to all story-readers the treat in store for them.

Will begin in our next issue.

Russian Oil.

In the Russian district of Baku the average daily production of crude in 1898 was over 26,000 barrels (of 45 gallons) from 1,000 wells, and the average number of wells producing in the former year was 146 more than in the latter, the average increase per well per day was about 100 barrels.

Explosive Compounds.

Thirty years ago there were only two dozen explosive compounds known to chemists; now there are over 1,000.

Wheelmen's Excursion.

To Boston and return via Nickel Plate Road, at $10.00 for the round trip. Duates of sale August 11 and 12, good returning for arrival at initial starting point not later than August 31, by depositing tickets in Boston, with Agent Fitchburg R. R. Two through trains daily with reclining chair sleeping cars to Boston. Ohio-ago depot, Van Buren Street and Pacific Ave., on the Loop.

Education and Fine Scenery.

Go well together. Those going to the N. E. A. at Los Angeles will be better prepared for it by going via Northern Pacific. Shasta route. Tickets good for stopovers. Call on Northern Pacific ticket agents for information in detail.

Take Advantage.

Of low rates to N. E. A. at Los Angeles California via Northern Pacific. Shasta route, and make a trip to the Coast. You can go pretty nearly anywhere you want to—don't have to go to Los Angeles. Ask any Northern Pacific agent to explain the combination.

Farm For Sale.

For sale, a 160 acre farm—northwest quarter of section 29, town 150, range 6x, in the village of Bentily, about 100 yards from cheese factory. Nov 1 buildings, including good house, 2 wood sheds, large barn for stock and granary building 6,000 bushels, good well and cistern that never goes dry. Land is loam; about four miles of fence on the farm. For further particulars, inquire of N. Brossard, at Ottawa House, Crookston, Minn. 8-29

Report of Condition

OF THE

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON

In the State of Minnesota, at the close of business on the 20th day of June, 1899.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$77,170.76
Stocks and Bonds	1,500.00
Furniture and Fixtures	1,000.00
Due from Banks	18,626.91
Due from Approved Reserve Agents	15,591.93
Revenue Stamps	250.00
Total	114,139.60

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock	$ 50,000.00
Surplus Fund	10,000.00
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses, Interest and Taxes Paid	5,839.49
Individual Deposits subject to check	48,572.03
Demand Certificates of Deposit	1,727.55
Time Certificates of Deposit	12,000.52
Total	$126,139.59

I, L. Ellington, cashier of the Scandia American Bank of Crookston, Minnesota, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

L. ELLINGTON, Cashier.

State of Minnesota }
County of Polk } ss.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 8th day of July, A. D. 1899.

L. G. BANCOCK, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:
TH. ANDERSON,
A. P. RANSOM
Directors.

Notice of First Meeting of Creditors.

In the District Court of the United States for the District of Minnesota.

SIXTH DIVISION.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

In the matter of Gedney B. Walker, bankrupt.

To the creditors of Gedney B. Walker, of the city of Crookston, in the county of Polk, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 11th day of July, 1899, the said Gedney B. Walker was duly adjudged bankrupt; that the first meeting of his creditors will be held at the office of the Referee, in Bankruptcy, in the City of Crookston, in said District, on the 22nd day of July, 1899, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

Dated at Crookston, Minn., July 11, 1899.

OLE J. VALLE,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

The Nickel Plate Road.

Will sell excursion tickets to Chautauqua Lake and return on July 28, at one fare for the round trip, with return limit of August 20, 1899, by depositing ticket at Chautauqua not later than July 31. Tickets good on any of our three daily trains, cheap rates to other Eastern points. Van Buren St. Passenger Station, on the Loop. For further information, address the General Agent, 111 Adams St. Chicago.

Summons

State of Minnesota } ss. District Court
County of Polk } Fifth Judicial District

Chas. K. Berger, plaintiff, against Thomas Hughes, Jane Hughes, M. Barber, Dawes Brewer and Jane E. Brewer, his wife, Franklin Hughes and Jane E. Hughes, his wife, Mary A. McMahon, Cornelius and Julia Cornelius, his wife, Jacob Kramer and Sadie Kramer, his wife, defendants.

The State of Minnesota to the above named defendants:

You and each of you are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint in the plaintiff in the above entitled action, which is on file in the office of the Clerk of this Court, and to serve a copy of your answer to the said complaint on the subscriber at his office in Crookston, in said County, within thirty days after the service of this summons upon you, exclusive of the day of such service; and if you fail to answer the said complaint within the time aforesaid, judgment will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

Dated March 31, 1899. A. MILLER,
Plaintiff's Attorney.
Office corner of Robert and Broadway streets, Residence of Brenton Avenue, Crookston, Minnesota.

Mortgage Sale.

(First published June 8, 1899
Last publication August 10, 1899.)

Notice of mortgage sale. Default having been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage and sulphine power of sale dated the fifthday of April, 1897, filed in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk county, Minnesota, on the 15th day of April, 1897, at 10:00 o'clock a. m. and recorded at book 54 of mortgages on page 348, executed by Carl Lea a widower, to the undersigned American Freehold Land Mortgage Company of London, England and Edinburgh, Scotland, mortgagee, the certain tracts or parcels of real estate, lying and being in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota described as follows, to wit:

The east half of the northwest quarter and the west half of the east half of the southwest quarter of section No. Twenty-nine (29) containing one hundred forty-three (143) acres, more or less, according to the government survey thereof, and the undersigned mortgagee under the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the United States Conveyance Statutes in such case made and provided, will sell the premises hereinbefore described, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due upon said mortgage with interest and taxes and the disbursements allowed by law, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in the sheriff of said Polk county, in his office, on Saturday, the 12th day of August 1899, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston in said Polk County, Minnesota to pay said debt, with interest taken off from the date of this notice, and the costs, disbursements and charges allowed by law.

Dated, St. Paul, Minn. June 7th, 1899.

THE AMERICAN FREEHOLD LAND MORTGAGE COMPANY OF LONDON (Limited) of London England.

Mortgagee.

GORDON & DIXON,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.
14-7 St. Cloud Min.

There is no certain cure for ninety-nine out of every hundred diseases, but there is a certain cure for Piles. Dr. Agnew's Ointment is guaranteed to relieve a case in seven minutes, pronounced it a certain cure for every case and prescribed local remedies for Piles, failure to cure with local treatment and internal treatment by mouth. Dr. Agnew's Ointment to be a constitutional disease and prescribed constitutional treatment by mouth. Dr. Agnew's Pills, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Dr. Agnew's Ointment cures on the principle of "like cures like," is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful, and is a specific for all blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for a case they cannot cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall Family Pills are the best.

Order to Examine Accounts, Etc.

State of Minnesota } ss.
County of Polk }

In Probate Court, special term June 15, 1899.

In the matter of the estate of Henry M. Grannet, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Jerome B. Wheeler administrator of the estate of Henry M. Grannet, deceased, praying for an order authorizing and empowering him to sell and convey the following described real estate belonging to said deceased, to-wit: Lot number one (1) in block number one hundred (100) in the original plat of the village of Crookston, now City of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, according to the plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said county, but subject to the dower interest of said deceased's widow therein, and to the homestead rights of said widow and minor children, if any there are, and to all liens and encumbrances existing against said premises at the time of the death of said deceased, for the purpose of paying the debts of said deceased, the charges of administration and the taxes assessed against said premises, as in said petition more fully appears.

It is ordered that the 25th day of July, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. at special term of Probate Court to be held at the Probate Court Room in the City of Crookston, in said county, be and is hereby appointed as the time and place for hearing said petition and all persons interested are notified to appear at said time and place and show cause why the said petition should not be granted.

And it is further ordered that notice of said hearing be given to all creditors and other persons interested in said estate by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the Polk County Journal, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston in said county.

Dated at Crookston this 20th day of June, A. D. 1899.

By the Court,
OLE J. HAGEN
Judge of Probate.

1-13

Order For Hearing on Claims.

State of Minnesota } ss.
County of Polk }

In Probate Court, Special Term June 5, 1899

In the matter of the estate of John Mc-Leod, deceased.

Letters testamentary on the estate of said deceased having been granted to the undersigned, Executor of the County of Polk State of Minnesota, and it appearing that said deceased died John Feb. 1899.

It is ordered that six months from and the same is hereby appointed and allowed for the payment of all claims against said estate, and that all persons having claims against said deceased are required to present the same to the Probate Court of said County, at the Probate Court Room in the City of Crookston, in said County, on or before the 25th day of December 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day for examination, adjustment and allowance.

And it is further ordered that notice of said hearing be given by publishing this order in the Polk County Journal, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said County, for three successive weeks prior to said time of hearing.

Dated at Crookston this 5th day of June, 1899.

By the Court,
OLE J. HAGEN
Judge of Probate.

1-13

DEFECTIVE PAGE

Polk County Journal,

By N. S. GORDON.

$1.00 Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

Fisher Bulletin: The Crookston Journal is the neatest, newsiest and best made up paper published in Polk county.

Hon. Elliot Rood, of New York, succeeds Alger as secretary of the war department.

With favorable weather for a week or two this locality will have fully an average grain crop. The harvest will be ten days later than usual this year.

C. L. Clausen was re-elected chief grain inspector of the state yesterday. After all the noise that has been made over the conduct of this department it seems a little queer that Mr. Clausen should be allowed to succeed himself.

Southern manufactures are reported to have increased sixty per cent. faster than in the corresponding quarter of last year. Many southerners who voted for silver begin to see the error of the statement that the time of industry could come only with free coinage.

S. A. Langam, of the Preston Times, has announced himself as a candidate for the republican nomination for secretary of state next year. This makes two candidates from the First district for a place on the state ticket: Van Sant for governor and Langam for secretary of state. Be careful boys, and not ask too much and thus lose all.

Capt. S. E. Van Sant, of Winona, will be a candidate before the Republican convention again next year for governor, and if nominated we predict his triumphant election. The southern part of the state and the First district is justly entitled to the governorship for the next term, and Capt. VanSant is undoubtedly one of the most able and popular men now "mentioned" for the place. He is a clean man, and a true republican from principal.

The appointment of Hon. Alexander McKinnon as chairman of the Minneapolis board of appeals in the grain inspecting department is well received here, and we believe gives general satisfaction throughout the valley. Mr. McKinnon is one of the oldest settlers in the Red River Valley and is an able, fair minded man. The appointment is for two years. The new board will meet at Minneapolis next Saturday to fix grades that will be maintained during the coming year.

The Bryan men were successful at Chicago last week in their fight for the control of the democratic national committee. The victory was only achieved by the personal appearance of Mr. Bryan in the committee room. It is clear that Mr. Bryan is determined to be the democratic nominee for president against next year. Should he succeed in securing the nomination, and it looks as though he would, the close of the campaign will close his political career. He will never again be heard of in national politics.

In the death of Robert G. Ingersoll one of the most unique of America's prominent men leaves the stage of life and passes to the great beyond. For nearly forty years he has been before the public, in one capacity or another. He became most famous through his great ability as an orator, than whom no greater lived during the present century, and had it not been for his views on matters religious he would have been among the foremost of America's statesmen, and gone down to his last rest with a nation mourning. Those who were intimately acquainted with him speak of him as a model husband, father and friend, and while holding the views of an agnostic upon which subject he spoke and wrote more profusely than any other man since Voltaire, he led the life of a most exemplary citizen. He was charitable to a degree, and was never so happy as when adding to the pleasure and comfort of others.

Notes From Exchanges.

St. Peter Tribune: Fifty thousand tin plate workers had their wages increased. What has become of the "tin plate liars" who said that tin plate could not be manufactured in this country.

Mcintosh Times: The appointment of Alexander McKinnon as a member of the board of appeals for the grain department is one that will be well received throughout the valley, and the Times is most happy to be able to congratulate him on the appointment.

Alexandria Post News: The criticism of Gen'l Otis and his conduct of the Luzon campaign does not seem to have much of justice in it. At the same time the people in general would feel safer and better satisfied, we believe, if Gen'l Miles was in command. They have confidence in him and have reason to have. Like Lawton, he is a fighter and at the same time is one of the most skilled tacticians our army has ever had.

Northfield News: Strange isn't it that the men who go down into their seams every time while and die up from ten to five hundred dollars to help a public enterprise are the men who are not constantly kicking about taxes. The fellows who never give a cent are always making a great fuss. All small towns and cities are alike in this respect—the names of a few men in business may be found on every subscription list and many who are worth again as much slip away untouched.

Twin Valley Times: Capt. Decker, the former commander of Co. L, 14th Minn., (the Crookston company) has been given an appointment as a first lieutenant in the new volunteer organization and assigned to the 34th regiment. Decker was the best appearing as well as the most popular officer in the old 14th and his appointment, which is the only one from Minnesota for the new organization, up to date, was well deserved, and we venture the opinion that he will be heard from when he gets into active service in the Philippines.

Northfield News: The republicans will elect their candidate for Governor next year by a rousing majority, dissension of course that they will not nominate a man who is tainted with populism. Gov. Lind got every vote that was possible for him to get and had the stay-at-home republicans turned out he would not today be governor of Minnesota. It is estimated that at least forty to fifty thousand republicans failed to vote during the last election. All that is necessary is to get out the vote and there will be no question as to the result.

Bossean Times: Captain Sam Van Sant, of Winona, will again enter the lists as a candidate for governor on the republican ticket. No truer, more honest or better man ever stood before the people for public favor than Mr. Van Sant. He is a clean man, and not a disparaging word can be said against him. If Mr. Van Sant was governor of this state the politician would be out of employment and the people have an executive who would be as fearless in their behalf as his life-long reputation has been honorable.

McIntosh Tribune: Alex McKinnon, that whole-souled and good jolly Scot, down at Crookston was last week appointed by Gov. Lind to serve on the board of grain appeals for a term of two years beginning with Aug. 1st. The duties of this board will be to decide disputes arising in the inspection department, and their decision will be final. On Sept. 1st each year they will meet and fix the standard of grades for the following crop year. It is estimated that the pay roll will be in the neighborhood of $2,000 a year, which is not considered an unimportant factor.

Fosston Thirteen Towns: Sven Edson, an aged resident of the town of Garden, accompanied the excursionists to Winnipeg last Friday. On the return trip the old gentleman went out on the platform of one of the cars and in some manner fell off. The accident occurred near Drayton. He was soon missed but as no one witnessed the mishap his sudden disappearance was a mystery. On reaching here his friends sent telegrams to the different stations up the line and word was sent back from Drayton that the lost man was there. He was sent home on the evening train. Beyond being badly shaken up the old man was not injured in the least.

Farm Students Review: Where dairying is carried on with grain farming the autumn is the best season in which to have the cows freshen. It is the best season for the following reasons: First, it affords work for the winter months from which profit can be derived. Second, dairy products can be easily cared for in winter and generally bring a higher price than in summer. Third, grain that would necessarily have to be sold can be fed to the cows and if fed judiciously to good cows will bring in more cash through dairy products than if disposed of otherwise. Fourth, better calves can be raised in winter than in summer. And fifth, the cows will milk through a longer period and can be given their rest in mid-summer when the farmer is most busy in the harvest field.

The Jew and The Sweatshop.

For fifteen years the Jew has been in the public eye as the vehicle and and promoter of sweating, and much severe condemnation has been visited upon him with good cause, says, Jacob A. Riis in the August Atlantic. He had to do something, and he took to the sewing machine as that which was most quickly learned. The increasing crowds, the tenement, and the grinding poverty made the soil, wherein the evil thing grew rank. Yet the Jew as well as he is the manufacturer, not the workman. It is just a question of expense to the manufacturer. By letting out his work on contract, he can save the expense of running his factory and delay longer making his choice of styles. The Jew is the victim of the mischief quite as much as he has helped it on. Back of the manufacturer there is still another sweater—the public. Only by its sufferance of the bargain counter and of sweating-made goods is the nuisance existed as long as it has. I am glad to believe that its time is passing away. The law has driven the sweatshops out of the tenements already, and so deprived them of one of their chief props; there was no rent at all to pay there. Child labor, which only four years ago the Reinhart Committee characterized as "one of the most extensive evils now existing in the city of New York, a constant and grave menace to the welfare of its future," has been practically banished from the tailoring trade. What organization among the workers had failed to effect is apparently going to be accomplished by direct pressure of an outraged public opinion. Already manufacturers are returning to their own factories, and making capital of the fact among their customers. The new law, which greatly extends the factory inspector's power over sweatshops, is an expression of this enlightened sentiment. It will put up a long stride ahead, and quite up to Massachusetts. The tug, here as there, has proved, where the law was violated, an effective weapon. It suspends all operation of the shop and removal of the goods until the orders of the inspectors have been obeyed. But the tug which shall finally put an end to sweating and restore decent conditions, is not. I am persuaded, the factory inspector's but a trades union label, which small deserve public confidence, and receive it, as its best guarantee. We have much to learn yet, all of us, but I think I can see the end of this trouble, also, when the Italian's triumph in the sweatshop shall have proved but a barren victory, to his own gain.—Jacob A. Riis in the August Atlantic.

GOTHAM'S INFAMOUS CAFES.

A Glance at the Interior of a Notorious One That Was Raided by the Police.

Through one of the most infamous of the cafes a Leslie's Weekly writer went recently, just after the police had raided it with axes. The entire ground floor was a drinking hell of tawdry elegance. On the second floor was a gambling room reached by devious passages through heavily barred gates. The upper floors were lodging-rooms of almost unimaginable dinginess and squalor. Throughout the entire establishment was a series of signal bells, peep holes, falling bars and special locks, and ready exit was given by no less than four specially constructed and supposably secret passages. The rickety old tenement had been made into a veritable labyrinth of pseudo-mysterious precautions against the police. When the police did come the warning was given by a man stationed in the street for that purpose—called appropriately enough a "lightshouse" —the signal bells clanged, the bars fell, the special locks slid into place, eyes blinked at the peep holes and at the last moment the aroused inmates scurried through the secret passages into the arms of the officers who were waiting for them there. That cafe went out of existence, but others are still doing a cautious business.

EELS IN CAPTIVITY.

They Keep Their Appetite and Grow Fat and Appear to Get Along Very Well.

Eels appear to be pretty hardy in captivity. There are in a tank at the aquarium a number of eels that have thrived and grown fat there, although they must there content themselves with a gravel bottom instead of one of mud, which they would seek in nature, says the New York Sun. The eel in captivity is rather susceptible to fungus, but the disease responds readily to treatment, and the eel never loses its appetite. All the eels in this tank have increased materially in size and weight there. The eel that has been in the tank the longest time came from Cold Spring Harbor and has now been in the tank about three years. One of the eels was caught about a year and a half ago right in the aquarium; takes from the valve of a pump which had become choked up. The eel was got out substantially uninjured. It has about doubled its weight since then.

The eels are fed on chopped-up clams, with occasionally some live killies, which they are easily able to catch and which they like. Killies, in fact, make a good bait in fishing for eels, with the killie hooked through the back in such a way as not to kill or deprive it of the power of motion.

RICH MAN'S SON AS A STOKER.

Carlisle Norwood, Jr., of New York, Works His Passage to London as a Coal Passer.

Carlisle Norwood, Jr., son of a prominent New York lawyer, arrived in London the other day from Cape Town, having worked his way as stoker on a Castle liner during the 21 days' trip. Norwood said:

"I came through all right, but I don't want to try it again. The stoke hole is the hottest place I was ever in or ever expect to be in. Look at my hands, all covered with blisters and callosities.

"Many times during the voyage I had to shovel coal with my hands bleeding and my face blistered, but I got a tremendous muscle development. I never knew my back and arms were capable of such growth.

"I went broke in South Africa, and determined that I wouldn't wire home to my father for more money. I decided to work my way instead.

"Several boon companions of mine sailed on the same ship and tried to press money on me, but I would not take it.

"On the voyage my former companions from the cabin came down to the stoke hole to see me, and I had a reception in the coal bunkers. But I had to work like the other stokers, and submit to the same discipline.

"I never did a day's manual work before, and it nearly killed me the first few days. However, I got hardened later, and when we landed at Southampton the other day I was as black as any negro, with my clothes ragged and the dirt fairly ground into me. I have been scrubbing myself ever since."

Norwood is now living in luxury at the Hotel Cecil.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following are the real estate transfers for Polk county as furnished by Christianson & Strmsder, abstracters, for the week ending July 11, 1899:

James Mollen to Joseph Lubonik, n½ of sw¼ of ne¼, and ne¼ of nw¼, and lot 2, 7-149-50. ..... $3,500 00

Andrew Aanerson and wife to John O. Grue, e½ of se¼, 35-147-48, 80 acres. 700 00

William F. Powell and wife to Joseph Filpi, se¼ sec 10-150-48. 160 acres. 1,000 00

Norman Pearse to Mary Warner, se¼ of nw¼, and ne¼ of sw¼, 2-149-46, 80 acres. 320 00

Leviand Sizer Steamer on to H. Summerfield, lots 23 and 24 Block 5 Climax. 125 00

Pyeleo-on Bemis to Telegraph Addition, 2-148-46. Delinquent. 4,000 00

E. A. Grover and wife to Thomas White, south 70 feet of lot 8 and 1, block 36 Tidal's addition to East Grand Forks. 300 00

Wisconsin, Minnesota & Pacific R'y Co to Charles Nelson, se¼ of se¼, and ne¼ of se¼, 14-148-47, 160 acres. 640 00

Septima M Paine and husband to Charlie L. Conzer, se¼, 23-146-46. ..... 960 00

J. A. Durand et al to George Purvis, 2-149-47, 320 acres, except a portion occupied by St. P., M. & M. Ry as right of way. 2,200 00

Ole Bjorum and wife to J. H. Johnson, ne¼ of sw¼, 29-148-51. 40 acres. 200 00

Frank D. Elwood and wife to Henry Koerle, se¼, 30-145-46 and 25-145-47 and 31-145-46. ..... 10,000 00

William J. Flynn to Frederick J. Warren, ne¼ of se¼, 28-150-46. ..... 500 00

Ole Bjorum and wife to H. M. Helliesen, lots 1, 2, 3 and 4, block 3, South Helliesen's 200 00

William Flynn to Alonzo H. C. Warden, ne¼ of ne¼, 27-150-46. ..... 800 00

S. P. Johnson to Ole Bjorum lots 1, 2, 3 and 4, block 4, South Helliesen's 165 00

Michael Horan and wife to Vincent Horan, lot 4, block 31, and lot 22, 5th St. Tract's add to East Grand Forks. 500 00

Emma Mandt to Lucas E. Brekke, ne¼, sec 31, 8-47, sec 30-148-41. 320 acres. 5,500 00

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

PHYSICIANS

A. A. Just M. D.
Homeopathic Physician and Surgeon.
Office in McKinnon Block. Crookston, Minn

Jules Gendron.
Physician and Surgeon.
Rooms 2, 3, and 4, over Fortune & Anelin's Office hours—9 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m. 7 to 8 p. m.

ATTORNEYS

H. Steenerson,
Attorney at Law.
Office in Opera Block Crookston, Minn

Miller & Foote,
Attorneys at Law.
Offices, corner Broadway and Robert streets
Crookston, Minn

Marin & Webster,
Law, collections and loans. Agents for reliable fire, tornado and hail insurance.
Office next to Postoffice. Crookston, Minn.

Christ's Church, Episcopal.
Crookston, Minn.
Services every Sunday, 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Holy Communion the First Sunday of every Month. Reader you are welcome.
Rev. H. M. Gwee, B. D. Rector

Agents Wanted.

The oldest and largest nursery in the west. Everything for the grove and orchard. Three plans of work and the year round. Pay weekly. Write for terms. The Jewel Nursery Co., Lake City, Minn. 9-14

TIME CARD —OF— TRAINS. Crookston

Northern Pacific Railway

SOUTH BOUND.	Arr.	Dep't
No. 8 to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and East.	8:35 pm	8:37 pm
NORTH BOUND.
No. 7 to Grand Forks, Grafton and Winnipeg.	6:30 a m	6:20 a m

C. A. Sharkey, Act. Crookston, Minn. Chas. S. Fee, G. P. A. St. Paul, Minn

The Great Northern

TRAINS	*Daily	†Except Sunday.	LEAVE
6:55 am	Grand Forks, North and West		7:00 am
5:00 pm	St. Paul and points east		6:00 pm
8:00 pm	St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls, Red Lake and Lake Park		8:30 am
4:55 pm	Fisher, Bemidji, Duluth and Superior		9:00 am

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

Makes the food more delicious and wholesome

Royal Baking Powder Co., N.Y. York.

SHE IS GROWING RICH.

Chicago Woman's Hands Bring Her About $3,000 Yearly—She Is a Masseuse.

Half the world is as ignorant of how the other half makes its money as of how it lives. There is a Chicago woman, for instance, who earns with her hands yearly sums that would make the average brain worker envious. She does not print, nor write, nor design, nor make dresses, nor do any of the things that one usually picks out as woman's work. She earns all this money by giving massage to women.

She is not in any way an impressive woman. She is of medium size and middle age. She gives one the idea of being in perfect health and of being kindly and sympathetic. Otherwise there is nothing noticeable about her. But her patrons consider her a wonderful woman.

Most of her work is done at the homes of her patrons, though they may come to her establishment at about half the home rate. She rubs a woman an hour at each visit, and her patrons are positive that she imparts to them a tremendous amount of vitality.

Of course, there are many women engaged in massage. The only remarkable thing about this particular woman is the amount of money she earns. Her monthly receipts run from $200 to $300, every dollar of which she earns personally.

Whitefish in Lake Ontario.

One million five hundred thousand whitefish, from the hatchery at Caledonia, N. Y., were planted in Lake Ontario the other day.

Going Out of Business

The Fair Store

Will offer their entire Stock at cost, consisting of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Working and Dress Shirts, Pants and Overalls, Trunks and Valises, Ladies' Underwear, Corsets, Hosiery, Laces and Ribbons, Etc. Silverware, Pictures and Picture Frames, Albums, Dolls, Crockery, Tinware, Light Hardware, Notions, Etc.

This is a genuine closing out sale and those looking for bargains will do well to call early while the lines are complete. Everything at cost.

THE FAIR STORE,

Robert Street, Next to Anderson's Drug Store.

CROOKSTON, MINN.

To Prospective Investors in New Buildings

When laing out plans for New Buildings do not neglect to have our architect include electric wiring in his specifications.

Call us up before letting your Contract.

We shall be pleased to give on the benefit of our experience in laing out wiring plans.

It Will Cost You Nothing

to use us as consulting engineers in that respect.

Should you want Us to Figure on your Wiring

We are prepared to do so. We do nothing but first-class concealed work, using the very best material to be had in the market.

Don't wait to consult us until it is too late.

Crookston Water Works, Power & Light Co.

CITY AND VICINITY.

—D. Robertson, of Argyle, was in the city Saturday.

—Joseph Fortier is now employed at the New York store.

—M. P. DeVolf of East Grand Forks, was in the city Monday.

—E. J. Regan returned Friday from a short stay at Barnesville.

—Bear in mind that A. G. Andersen deals only in pure and reliable goods

—Alex. McKinnon is home from the hospital, arriving Monday morning.

—Miss Ral Wilkinson came home Monday from a pleasant outing at Maple Lake.

—The Y. M. C. A. has obtained the use of the library owned by the W. C. T. U.

—Rev. W. E. Rowson will go to Remidji today and will preach on that place next Sunday.

—Levi Rivlos, of Argyle, spent Sunday in Crookston and E. P. Crane came over Monday.

—Miss Fontaine came home from St. Paul Tuesday morning where she had been taking music lessons.

—Coroner Miller went to St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls Tuesday morning for a few days' outing.

—V. M. Watson, Mamus Johnson and C. C. Simons, of Red Lake Falls visited friends here last Sunday.

—Mrs. A. R. Fuller and Mrs. Fenton and grandson Harold are spending a few weeks at Maple Lake.

—E. G. Locken returned from the Twin Cities Saturday, where he visited relatives for a few days.

—Mrs. J. Frost, who recently had an operation performed by Dr. Holtte, is recovering at Bethesda Hospital.

—Mrs. Nick Funk, of East Grand Forks, came down Saturday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Walter.

—Mrs. Nels Anderson returned from the Grand Forks tournament last Friday, where she spent three days.

—Judge Watts will hold a special term of court at Stephen Aug. 2 for the purpose of issuing final citizen's papers.

—Miss Maria Jensen of McIntosh visited some of the teachers at the training school last week. She returned home Monday.

—John Ricketson, of Fern. N. Y., arrived in the city this morning to remain the guest of his son-in-law N. S. Gordon, for the summer.

—Mr. Stornaski came down from Red Lake Falls last Monday making the trip on his bicycle. He is conducting a bakery at the Falls.

—Miss Etta Scott of Fertile, who is attending the summer school here, went home Friday to spend Sunday with her parents, returning Monday.

—Dr. Robert Forbes will preach at the Methodist church on Sunday Aug. 11, and will also preach and hold quarterly meeting on Sunday Aug. 18.

—Rev. C. W. B. Ellis, just recently from England, was visiting his friend Rev. Rowson a day or two last week. He is now pastor of a church at Park Rapids.

—J. K. Gray, recently from Washington state, is visiting relatives in South Crookston. He will go from here to Northcote, Minn., where he will make his home in the future.

—There are still at the JOURNAL office premium lists for the Fortieth Annual Fair of the Minnesota State Agricultural society which will take place Sep. 4 to 9. Call and get one.

—Robt. Nesbit and O. Osmundson, of Mallory were in the city Saturday on business. Mr. Osmundson is the popular merchant of that village while Mr. Nesbit is a prominent farmer living in that vicinity.

—John Shannon, a former resident of Crookston, was booking over the many improvements made here during the seventeen years he has been away. He was an employe of the McKinnon Bros. His home is now in South Hamilton, Ontario.

—Fred McGregor is home again after a ten days' outing at Gilby. He came last Friday, riding his wheel from Grand Forks home. He reports that considerable damage was done to crops around Gilby by the recent heavy hail storms.

—A. Anderson, of the Robert street meat market, has been making extensive improvements of late. A new floor has been put into the building, a new front put in, and new paper and fresh paint added. A new safe in the office will protect his cash and books in future. Mr. Anderson now has a very inviting market.

—Frank E. Raymond, formerly an instructor in stenography in the Crookston Commercial College, but who has acted as stenographer for the Crookston Lumber Company this summer, left Tuesday evening for Iowa points, where he will visit before taking up his duties as instructor in stenography in the Commercial College at Evansville, Ind., where he has a lucrative position.

—H. E. Ives, of St. Hilaire was in the city Monday.

—J. P. Foote went to McIntosh Tuesday, returning yesterday.

—A. R. Holston made a business trip to Duluth last week.

—D. E. Cahill, of East Grand Forks, was in the city Monday.

—Robert Nevins left Tuesday for Blue Water Lake, where he resides.

—J. B. Stewart and John Schoeler, of Stephen, were Crookston visitors Monday.

—Mrs. Stockland and two children of Stephens are guests at the home of Nels Anderson.

—Rev. N. C. Hinson went to Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire Tuesday to hold meetings.

—Miss Beadle Freeman spent a few days at Grand Forks last week, returning Friday evening.

—Editor George H. Sheire of the Fisher Bulletin was a pleasant caller at the JOURNAL office Monday.

—The sale in Amble & Knudsers' meat market at Grand Forks was robbed of $500 Monday night last.

—A. Anderson purchased a team of horses of D. A. Darby the first of the week, owing to the increase of business.

—Mrs. Paul Carpenter of McIntosh and Mrs. L. S. Hancock of Euclid are visiting at the home of George Carpenter.

—Robert Stanton has gone to Palisades, Colaud asks the JOURNAL to say good bye to all his Polk county friends.

—George Darkow left Sunday night for an extended visit to points on the Pacific coast.

—Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Darby of South Crookston, accompanied by some of their friends, went to Maple Lake Tuesday to spend the week.

—Mrs. T. Lawrence and Mrs. Cutherwood and her two children went to Erskine to visit George Lawrence, who lives three miles south of there.

—J. D. Sheedy, of Austin, Minn., secretary of the Austin Hail and Cyclone Insurance company is in the city. He went up to Warren yesterday to adjust losses.

—Rev. J. A. Jacobson, presiding elder of the Red River Valley district will preach at Scandinavian church Sunday morning. Accompanied by Rev. N. C. Hinson he will go to Beltrami where he will preach in the evening.

—Deputy Sheriff M. Losey and L. E. Grossman went to Duluth Monday evening as delegates to the Forester's convention. Mr. Losey returns Friday while Mr. Grossman will take in the southern part of the state for a short time.

—Carl Woodstrom, living six miles west of the city had a cow that dropped twin calves recently. One of the calves was of ordinary size, while the other one was exceeding small, not much larger than a cat. The larger one died, but the small one is still alive and apparently healthy.

Mr. Fisher's Vacation Trip.

Last Monday morning Rev. Herman P. Fisher started for Massachusetts to spend his annual vacation expecting to be absent during the month of August. He went via Duluth and Montreal through Vermont and New Hampshere to Westboro, Mass. During his stay he will visit Andnot College and Hartford Theological Seminary for a few days' special study.

The regular services of the Congregational church will be held as usual excepting Sunday preaching services.

For next Sunday President H. C. Simmons of Fargo College will preach.

Protect Our Food.

The doctors inform us that alum is a poison, and that alum baking powders should be avoided because they make the food unwholesome. Prominent hygienists, who have given the matter most study, regard these powders as an evil that should be suppressed by state action. In Minnesota and Wisconsin alum powders are not permitted to be sold unless they are branded to warn consumers of their true character, while in the district of Columbia the authorities have under the direction of congress, adopted regulations to prohibit the use of alum in bread altogether.

Are not the people of other states, as well as those of Minnesota and Wisconsin, entitled to warning of a danger which apparently menacing them at close hand, and is not the whole country entitled to absolute protection as the people of the District of Columbia are protected, by legislation which is entirely prohibitive?

Until we can have protection in the form of a statute, how can our state boards of health, state analysts or food commissions better serve the public than by publishing in the newspapers from time to time the names of the baking powders which they find to be made from alum?

Meantime, it will aid the housewife in designating the alum powders to remember that all powders sold at twenty-five cents or less per pound are of this dangerous class. Pure cream of tartar powders are usually sold at from forty-five to fifty cents a pound.

—Good rooms to rent. For particulars call at the JOURNAL office.

WANTED—A good horse at a reasonable price. Carman Big Store.

WANTED—A girl for general house work. Inquire at JOURNAL office or at 318 Broadway South.

—A full line of Furniture Hard Oil Coach and Varnishes at A. G. Andersen and prices to suit.

—The Creolin Floor Paint sold by Andersen the Druggist is a genuine paint and dries in eight to ten hours.

—WANTED—By the editor of the JOURNAL, a load of hay and a load of oats. These will be received on subscription.

—A. G. Andersen sells the Heath & Milligan best Paint, the purest and best House Paint on the market. Call and get a color card.

For Sale.

Tamarack fence posts, 6 and 8 cents.

VANCE & SPOONE.

Crookston College

Will open its fifth term Sept. 14, 1899. The cheapest, best and most practical school in the northwest. Catalogue sent free. Address Crookston College, Crookston, Minn.

Strayed

From my place in the town of McCrea, Marshall county, Saturday, July 15, one gray mare with web halter. Finder return to me or to John E. Ostrom, Warren, Minn.

F. J. LULL.

$10.00 to Boston and Return.

Via Nickel Plate Road, August 11 and 12. Good returning for seven days. Final starting point not later than August 31. Write General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago, for particulars and sleeping car accommodations.

Don't Miss the Chance.

To go west this summer via North Pacific-Shasta route at small expense. N. E. A. low rates enable you to go to Washington, Oregon and California for very little money. You can go via one route and return by another—have stopovers—go to N. E. A. or not, as you please. Ask Northern Pacific agents about details.

L. A. W. Excursion To Boston.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell excursion tickets from Chicago to Boston and return for trains of August 11 and 12, at rate of $19.00 for the round-trip. Tickets will be valid returning for arrival at initial starting point not more than August 31. Depositing same with Agent Fitchburg R. R., in Boston. Sleeping car accommodations should be secured early. Address General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

Advertised Letters.

List of letters remaining unclaimed at the Crookston, Minn., postoffice for the week ending July 22, 1899:

Bailey Chriss Mr.
Eisman Gustus
Muthson Martin
McGlone Ed
Rostes Thomas
Roney George
Wiseman I W
Deluce Mary Miss
Kurth Lizzie 2
Bailey A O
Harned C Wm
McCarchey C 2
McLauchlin Wm
Horner I N
Vonderbrigen H J
Brewon O Mamus
Johnson Catherine
Rule Josephine

Persons calling for the above say advertised. ANDREW ERGEN, Postmaster.

WILL PAY THEIR WAY.

Secretary Wilson Says There Need Be No Anxiety About the Future of the Philippines.

"There need be no anxiety about the future of the Philippines," said Secretary Wilson the other day. "It will not be necessary to send one cent from this country to be used in their government, as the customs receipts will be sufficient to meet everything, including the expenses of the army. If there had been no delay in ratifying the treaty of peace hostilities would not have broken out, and by this time great strides would have been taken in developing the islands. Little can be done in this direction while hostilities are in progress, but the Filipinos are learning that we will be respected. Much in general has been said about the conditions here, but little specific information has been given to the public.

"According to the reports of agents of this department, the health and climatic conditions are about like those of Louisiana. The soil is like that of Illinois, and, while that state has only 30 inches of rainfall, the Philippines have 120. The mountains are filled with gold, iron and coal. Mahogany and other hard woods grow in profusion, and, as all of the island of Luzon has not been explored, no man can tell what riches are stored there. It is said there is more gold in the Philippines than in the Klondike.

"I see 4,000 of our soldiers want to be discharged and allowed to settle here. This is a good indication, as they will form a home guard. They should marry American wives and settle down at once to make their fortunes. When Yankee enterprise, pluck and ingenuity take hold of the Philippines the development will be rapid, and these islands will prove of great value to this country."

QUEER POSTAL SERVICE.

That of Havana When the United States Took Charge of Its System.

Under the Spanish system the letter carriers received their pay by charging from three to five cents, and sometimes more, for every letter they delivered. It took only a day or two to have that system abolished in Havana, much to the relief of the merchants. The carriers were put on salaries equivalent to that which they were supposed to earn by the assessment method they were permitted to use under the former regime. The carriers under the Spanish system not only charged for the delivery of mail matter, but they rifled letters freely, and made money by stealing stamps from mail matter and selling them. The letters and other grades of mail matter would be forwarded without stamps, and the carrier at the other end of the route would collect not only for delivery, but for the stamps that had been stolen. There was simply an unparalleled looseness in the conduct of post office business, and every man seemed to have license to steal wherever he could. Even newspapers would be stolen from handles and sold for whatever could be got for them.

Another form of extortion was evident when the salary lists were examined. There was no scale of salaries. In one city a postmaster would receive twice the salary that the postmaster of a larger city received. Salaries seemed to be arranged on the "pull" plan, with the possibilities of division with the appointing power afterward. Pieces that under the liberal payment of the United States would rate at $1,500 a year were worth frequently as much as $3,000 a year.—Harper's Weekly.

THE REPORTORIAL SCOOP.

How It Was Worked on a St. Louis Scribe by a Conscienceless Contemporary.

A reporter named Jones on a daily in St. Louis was detailed to interview the governor of another state, who had slipped into the city on a secret political mission, says the San Francisco Argonaut. He learned to his disgust that Jackson, the star reporter of a rival sheet, also proposed to call on the boss. Acting on inspiration, he sent up a card bearing Jackson's name and was promptly admitted. When he had learned all he wanted he asked, with gross intentional impudence, whether the information was really true.

The governor turned purple. "D'ye question my word?" he asked.

"Oh, don't get sore!" replied Jones airily; "common governors eat no ice in my office."

The old man foamed at the mouth. "You insolent scoundrel," he roared, "get out of my room!" That was exactly what Jones wanted and he went.

Presently Jackson showed up. "Here, boy," he said, pompously, "take my card to the governor." When the old man looked at the pasteboard he nearly expired. "The blankety-blanked infamous villain!" he spluttered. "I never heard of such blankety-blanked effrontery in my life! Tell that miscreant if he or anybody else from his blankety blanker comes here I'll kill 'em!" The word was carried to Jackson, who went away raving. Next day the paper intimated the governor was in town on a bender. Jones' paper had a capital interview and a big "scoop."

FIRE SERVICE IN ENGLAND.

The Force Employed in London Is Only Half as Large as That of Paris.

The British towns seem to have the smallest number of fire engines of any cities in Europe and America, says Municipal Affairs. The London fire brigade has about 820 men, almost the same number as Berlin, which has only a fourth of the population, and less than one-half the size of the Paris corps. Glasgow has but 100 men to 800,000 population; Leeds but 33 to 400,000 people, and Sheffield 22 men to a population of 350,000. Liverpool, Bristol, Cardiff, Norwich, Bromley and other towns have no separately organized fire department, the work of suppressing fires being performed by the regular police force. The expenditures for fire protection are on a similarly unimportant scale. Thus Leeds spends less than $5,000 a year, and Sheffield less than $10,000 a year; Preston, with a population of 113,000, reports only $1,200 spent for its fire brigade, and Norwich, with 100,000 population, only $750 a year. A few towns, however, show somewhat larger range of expenditures. Glasgow and Liverpool each annually expend in the neighborhood of $75,000—about ten cents per capita—and proportionate amounts are reported by Edinburgh, Dublin, Belfast and Salford. The London brigade costs about $950,000, or 20 cents per capita. But even these exceptional instances are below the per capita expenditures for fire protection in other European cities of the same size.

A Stylish Dog.

The Paris Figaro relates a touching souvenir of the poet de Musset, as mentioned by the poet's governess, Mme. Adele Colin Martellet, who has just published her memoirs. The poet had a small dog named Marie. After the poet died, the dog, supposing him absent, continued to await his return at the same hour every evening for a period of seven years, when it also died. Mme. Martellet's husband took the dog to Auteuil to be buried, and found some workmen engaged in digging out a new street. The faithful dog was buried by the men, and the street in which the animal's remains were laid is called the Rue de Musset.

Invention by the Marquis of Lorne.

The marquis of Lorne has taken out a patent for a brake to be applied to the back wheel of a bicycle.

Moved...

We are now in our new quarters on Broadway, where we have lots of room to accommodate our rushing trade. We have the largest stock of everything that goes to make up a first-class Grocery to be found in the Northwest. You must give us a chance to figure on your Harvest and Threshing Orders. No one can do better by you than we can.

..Slocum's Grocery..

CHASE BLOCK, BROADWAY.

D. M. ROBBINS E. C. WARNER

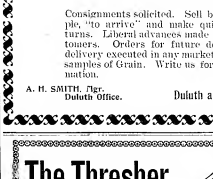
SHIP YOUR GRIAN TO

ROBBINS & WARNER

GRAIN COMMISSION

Consignments solicited. Sell by sample, "to arrive" and make quick returns. Liberal advances made to customers. Orders for future delivery delivery executed in any market. Send samples of Grain. Write us for information.

A. H. SMITH, Mgr. Duluth Office. Duluth and Minneapolis.



The Thresher You're After

is the one that will earn and save the most money—that will thresh the most grain and separate it most perfectly, at the lowest cost. Every part of the Nichols-Shepard Separator is designed to do the best work in the best way, in the shortest time—at the least expense for power, help and repairs. Every feature and attachment—from the self-feeder to the stacker—is of the most improved pattern; efficient, strong, durable. Purchasers of the have the choice of various styles of stackers. The Seburn Stacker is the newest form of wind stacker, and has many features that will instantly commend it to thresher buyers.

Nichols-Shepard SEPARATOR

Some of Its Advantages:—The chute starts from the top of the separator; is higher from the ground; swings in a complete circle; is can be loaded or unloaded by one man.

Write for free catalogue and learn all about the Nichols-Shepard Separator and its attachments, and the Nichols-Shepard Straw Burning Engine.

NICHOLS & SHEPARD CO., Battle Creek, Mich.

Branch House at Minneapolis, Minn., with full stock of machines and extras.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

GEORGE Q. ESSLING, President. WM. ANGLIN, Vice-President
J. W. WHEELER, Cashier H. ROBERTSON, Asst. Cashier

Capital Stock $75,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $25,000

Money to Loan on Farms. Interest paid on Time Deposits.
Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
George B. Essling, A. A. Miller, Wm. Anglin, J. B. Eckhoon, E. M. Walsh, L. Fontaine, J. P. Foote, W. H. Crosby, J. W. Wheeler.

Prompt and Intelligent Attention given to all the Interests of our Customers

SCANDIA-AMERICAN BANK,

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital Stock $50,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits $13,000.

TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS.

Special Attention to Collections. County, Town and School orders bought.

INTEREST PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS.

C. HENDRICKSON.....PRESIDENT. H. STEENERSON.....VICE-PRESIDENT.
N. S. GERVAIS.....VICE-PRESIDENT. L. ELLINGTON.....CASHIER
A. P. HANSON, ASST. CASHIER.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

STARS OF GLORY THERE.

With the Flag of Alva and of Weyler Trailing In the Dust.

GRAND FINALE OF THE WAR

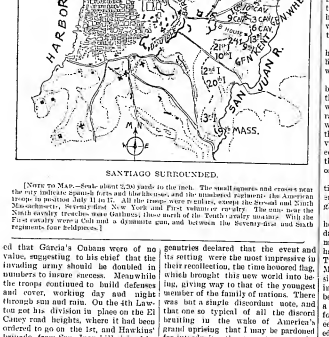
Shafter Tightened His Grip and Surrounded Santiago — Heroic Endurance of the Army—Hard Work and Short Rations—Victory at Last.

[Copyright, 1898, by the Author.]

XIV.

WITH a truce on, the shooting stopped and Cervera's fleet, the great objective of the campaign, destroyed, Shafter didn't halt in his preparations to smash things in case the Spaniards failed to give in. It is true that on July 4, after the Cubans had let Pando bunch his troops into Santiago, the battle losses had been summed up as over 1,500 and yellow fever was raging at Siboney, with 20,000 refugees were within the army lines, reduced to squalor and pleading for food, the general sent a dispatch to Washington, setting forth the true condition of the army and asking for re-enforcements.

That very day the navy had declined to enter the harbor, and Lawton report-



SANTIAGO SURROUNDED.

[NOTE TO MAP.—Scale about 3,200 yards to the inch. The small squares and crosses near the city indicate Spanish forts and blockhouses, and the numbered regiments the American troops in the position held July 11. All the troops were of the Fifth Army Corps. Massachusetts, Seventy-first New York and First volunteer cavalry. The one near the South coast is Wheeler's—was Gutiérrez's—then Garretson's—finally Hawkins'. With the First cavalry were a Colt and a dynamite gun, and between the Seventy-first and Sixth regiments four battalions.]

ed that Garcia's Cubans were of no value, suggesting to his chief that the invading army should be doubled in numbers to insure success. Meanwhile the troops continued to build defenses and cover, working day and night through rain and rain. On the 4th Lawton got his division in place on the El Caney road heights, where it had been ordered to go on the 1st, and Hawkins' brigade, from San Juan hill, joined it. The machine guns and field batteries were put in the front line.

All communication and with Toral ended with a reiteration on the part of Shafter of the demand for surrender. Every night Ludlow's brigade, holding the advance, pulled out of its trenches and moved to the right to threaten a new position. In this way the American line crept day by day around the northern and western sides of the city until on the 11th Ludlow closed the gap on the west, and with the help of a few Cubans extended the line to the margin of the bay. Then Santiago was surrounded.

On the 11th also Miles reached the field, retaining of course the chieftainship of the United States forces and leaving Shafter, as before, in command of the troops at Santiago. All talk to the contrary is idle, as the records show. That day, too, the last shot was fired, marking the end of the bombardment begun on the 10th. No serious damage was done by the bombardment. A heavy mist hung over the valley, and the smoke of the American guns made a veil so thick that the artillerists could not see their targets clearly. They fired when possible at the Spanish trenches and batteries. The Spanish answered and dropped some shots in the American lines. During this affair the opposing lattery's were about 1,500 yards apart and the Spanish infantry 800 yards from the Spanish guns. Shafter was in the front line of the Sixteenth infantry, locating with his own eyes the targets for Captain Capron's pieces. His leg was swollen double its normal size, and he leaned his support on the shoulders of Captain Crowell in order to get a view over the parapet.

Of course the Spaniards had utilized the truce to strengthen their position. All their works north and northwest of the town were built between the 3d and 11th. Shafter says that he was convinced from the start that Toral would surrender.

When Miles arrived, Shafter announced to Toral the presence of "the commander of the United States army," asking him to meet him. Toral consented, and negotiations were then commenced which ended in the surrender of Santiago, together with a large military district outside. Shafter's deference to Miles seemed so special emphasis. He [illegible] already declared in a dispatch to Washington that he was pleased over the proposed visit of Miles and the opportunity it would afford the general in chief to see for himself the difficulties encountered in approaching Santiago.

Toral's offer to surrender his entire corps, including outlying troops, astounded General Shafter. He was only aiming at Santiago, and that alone fell to his mind. The subject of a general surrender once broached, however, he clung to it, demanding all or none and getting all. Yet it is not a fact that the Americans held the guns entirely in their own hands, but the enemy showed an atom of aggressiveness. The soldiers were under a terrible strain. The least increase of tension would break them down, for they did collapse the instant the strain was taken off by Toral's surrender. Shafter's position on the heights was a most critical one. Just back of his lines were deep ravines, which, when fed by the copious rains, would produce floods that barred the roads to wagon transportation. The soldiers never had full rations, the refugees fared still worse, and the horses of the outfit lived—some died—on one-third to one-half rations of oats, with no hay. In all there were 45,000 human mouths to feed, besides 2,000 animals.

After two weeks of deliberation and parley Toral surrendered, and on July 17 the starry banner was hoisted over the governor's palace with ceremonies worthy an occasion so solemn and portentous. Participants ascensioned to paradise declared that the event and its setting were the most impressive in their recollection, the time honored flag, which brought into new world into being, giving way to that of the youngest member of the family of nations. There was but a single discordant note, and that one so typical of all the discordant beating in the wake of America's grand uprising that it may be pardoned for introducing the true story near the close of this narrative.

The official programme was that on the first stroke of the cathedral bell, at noon, the Spanish flag floating over the governor's palace should fall, and Lieutenant Miley, one of Shafter's bravest and most serviceable aids, who had faced Sioux warriors a hundred during the struggle, should run up the stars and stripes. A moment or two before 12 loud words were heard on the roof of the palace, where Miley and his assistants were stationed, and a man in shirt sleeves, afterward found to be a zealous newspaper correspondent, was seen by those within range struggling to reach the halyards and rob Miley of his part in the historic proceedings. A voice, said by some to have been Shafter's, called out from the plaza, where the American and Spanish dignitaries were assembled, "Throw him from the roof." After a brief commotion the first bell stroke of the hour brought a solemn silence over the scene, the Spanish flag was lowered, and the United States ensign arose to the top of the staff.

The flag ceremony closed, all eyes turned to Shafter, the central figure of the group on the plaza. One witness told me that the first glance showed him the commander of the victorious army exchanging fat bows and fine courtesies correspondent, a terribly humiliating spectacle after what had just taken place. Still another said that Shafter simply waved the insolent fellow, who was swelling, in abusive language, his drunken frenzy, to one side, a Brutonelike gesture, as much as to say, "Away, slight man!" the real effect being that of a lion brushing off a gnat. The correspondent struck back and was promptly hustled from the spot. This last is the unpromptred version of General Ludlow, who, like every one of the hundred and fifty odd regular officers whom I talked with at Camp Wikoff, appreciates his commander, yet never poses as his apologist nor as a thick and thin admirer of his methods.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

THE OLD BELL RINGER

From the church of a forest village the old belfry arose high and somber, with its steeple pointing toward the sky, and on this Easter night weary steps were heard ascending the winding stairs leading to the platform where the bells were hung. The old bell ringer Mikael was slowly mounting until at length his lantern appeared on high like the pale glimmering of a star. The ascent was painful. The old man's limbs almost refused support, and he scarcely saw his way before him. He was so worn out, old Mikael—so worn out! Ah, it is true it is sorely time, thought he, to depart to the land of rest, but God wills it not thus. How many times had he aroused the night from this belfry with the glad tidings, "Christ is risen!"—how many times! He could not exactly tell, and yet God willed that he was still to ring the bells.

The old man approached the balustrade and leaned pensively thereon. Below, surrounding the church, he vaguely perceived the cemetery of the village bristling with dingy crosses, which, with outstretched arms, had the appearance of mounting guard over the dead slumbering beneath them. Thickets of birch trees, still denuded of their foliage, inclined above the tombs, and as Mikael gazed on the melancholy scene a voice from below suddenly aroused him:

"Mikael! Mikael!"

The voice was feeble and trembling. The aged deacon of the village looked up. He tried to see the platform of the belfry, his hands curved over his wide ing eyes in order to have a better view. "I no here. What troubled thou have?" asked the bell ringer, half leaning over the balustrade. "Dost thou not see me?"

"No, I do not see thee. Dost thou not think it is time to ring the bells?"

Mikael looked at the stars. The three sand fires of heaven sparkled in the azure.

"No, not yet. Wait a little while," answered the bell ringer.

He had no need of a watch. The stars would tell him when the hour had come.

The heavens and the earth, the white clouds floating in the azure, the somber forest, and even the little murmuring river running in the shadows, spoke to him in language he understood, for there was a close communion between him and these things. It was not in vain that all his life had centered in this belfry.

Now all the distant past arose before him. He recalled the day when for the first time he mounted on this platform with his father.

And he saw himself a child, with bright eyes, red fair hair floating in the wind. But it seemed to him that wind was not the same as this which raised the blinding dust of the highways. Not it was a breath from on high that only swept the summits. In the vision of his childhood this forest receded to a distance without bounds, while the clearing which inclosed it spread out immeasurably.

"However, it is here before me all entire," said the old man with a smile, embracing the narrow space with a single glance.

And this truly was his life. As a child he saw no end, and yet from the first day until the last he was held in this narrow space, as in the hollow of the hand. However, the hour had come. Throwing a last look toward the stars, Mikael arose, took off his hat, made the sign of the cross and gathered the ropes in his hands. An instant after the bells began to ring. First one, then a second, a third, a fourth, until repeated strokes followed in quick succession. There succeeded a flight of sound whose prolonged vibrations filled the night.

Then the bells ceased ringing. Mikael seated himself on his bench, his ears filled with the dying vibrations and his mind absorbed in vague reflections.

The platform was feebly lighted by the vacillating gleams of the lantern. Above his head the bronze still prolonged its tremblings, from the church arose faint emanations, and the evening wind swept the bell ropes to and fro.

The silvery voices of children echoed around the altar, while Mikael, with bowed head, again lost himself in visions of the past.

"Mikael! Ho, Mikael! Art thou sleeping?"

"What?" exclaimed the old man, suddenly starting to his feet. "Is it possible I have been asleep? Never, never have I been so wrong."

And with his accustomed hand Mikael seized the cords. Below a crowd of peasants swarmed like bees in a hive, banners floated in all the splendor of their embroideries of gold, the procession was making the tour of the church, and joyous voices reached the old bell ringer:

"Christ is risen!"

And this acclamation echoed powerfully in the heart of the good man. It seemed to him that the candles burning in the shadows with brighter light, that the banners floated more freely, and that the wind, aroused, carried to the heights and depths in united harmony the chants of the faithful and the songs of the bells.

Never had the old man thus rung out the chimes before. His whole soul seemed to have passed into the bronze as the trembling bells threw to heaven their sounds, sometimes joyous, sometimes weeping.

And the stars seemed more brilliant, and the variations of the bell fell toward the earth in a long caress of love.

The mass ruled all singing in its voice sovereign and profound.

"Christ is risen!"

In clearer notes the two tenors repeated joyously with their metal lips:

"Christ is risen!"

And the two softly sounding bells, like children's voices lost in a concert of manly tones, took up the refrain, proclaiming:

"Christ is risen!"

The wind which swept the brow of the old bell ringer and which filled the belfry tottering to its base repeated in low, whispering sounds:

"Christ is risen!"

Then Mikael forgot his life of sorrow. He forgot that he was alone in the world, like an old tree shattered by the storms. He heard his bells ringing, weeping, and he believed he was surrounded by his wife and children. He thought the voice of the bells was that of his loved ones, thus forming a heavenly concert which sang of happiness and joy which he had never known. And with stiffened arms and bending form he drew, drew the cords, the old bell ringer. Tears blinded him and his heart throbbed wildly. The world below listened in wonder to this strange flight of sound, saying, "Never before —no, never, had old Mikael thus rung the bells!" Suddenly the great bell swung with an uncertain jerk and then stilled. The smaller ones threw out continued trills, then stopped, as if listening to the dying point of the others trembling in the air.

"Mikael! Ho, Mikael!" again called a voice from below.

But Mikael was sleeping the sleep of death. The old bell ringer will ring the bells no more.—Translated From the Russian by M. M. Hallowell.

A Duel by Post.

Dueling is passing out of France. Recently a Paris journalist offended an artist by a criticism, and in a letter received this: "You are below my level, so I simply send you a cuff on the ears by post." In response this was sent: "Thank you for the cuffs. In return I desire to shoot you by post with six bullets. Consider yourself dead!"

Northern Pacific-Shasta.

Rome gives you a chance to visit Yellowstone Park en route to the Coast. Any of the Pacific coast on the low rate tickets now on sale. Don't forget it. Visit your Northern Pacific ticket office and talk it over with the agent.

Chautauqua Lake And Return.

On July 28 the Nickel Plate Road will run an excursion to Chautauqua Lake at one fare for the round trip. Write to General Agent 111 Adams St., Chicago, for particulars.

The N. E. A. Low Rates.

Give you the opportunity of going through Montana, Idaho and Washington to North Pacific Coast and California on the Northern Pacific. Stopovers allowed—time limits reasonable. Go and see your Northern Pacific agent to explain the different combination rates and routes in effect.

BISNER'S Rheumatism and Kidney Cure. A sure cure for rheumatism and kidney trouble. Three days' treatment free. Sold by druggists. If druggists cannot supply you, send to BISNER, Crookston, Minn.

Burlington Route

Finest Train on Earth from

ST. PAUL

-AND-

Minneapolis

-TO-

CHICAGO

Electric Lighted and Steam Heated.

Preserves

—fruits, jellies, pickles or catsup are always safely, surely, quickly and healthfully sealed with Refined Paraffine Wax than by any other method. Insures of never spoiling. Sold everywhere. Full directions in each package.

Paraffine Wax

In every household. It is clean, unsalted and odorless—is Water proof, Acid proof, Germ proof. It is the best in the world. Prices 25 cents per pound and upwards. Sold by dealers generally throughout the United States. If your dealer does not keep it, send 25 cents to us and we will send you a full pound cake, postage paid. Write for booklet telling all about it. Refined Paraffine Wax Co., Chicago, Omaha or St. Paul, as desired. Mention this paper and address.

STANDARD OIL CO.

BINDER TWINE

Our famous BLUE LABEL BRAND. It's the best in the world. Price $7.50 per 100 pounds. Sold by dealers throughout the United States. If your dealer does not keep it, send $7.50 to us and we will send you a 100 pound sack, freight paid to any railroad station in Chicago, Omaha or St. Paul, as desired. Write for prices and samples.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO

Farmers, Attention!

I have the Champion Draw Cut Mower (something new) also the ever ready Jones Mower. Thomas and Plano Rakes, Disc and Acme Harrows, Newton and Stoughton Wagons.

CALL AND SEE THEM.....

S. L. COLLINS

HIGH-GRADE HAWTHORNE $22.50 NET.

SPECIFICATIONS. Name—Hawthorne. Crank—Ashtabula, 3-piece. Chain—3/4 inch best nickeled, concaved. Sprocket—Detroit. Bearings—Ball, cone center and hanger. Pedals—Rubber, corrugated. Saddle—Flexible. Frame—Diamond, 22 inch, weight, loaded, 35 pounds. Rims—Standard, 28 inch. Spokes—Steel, 72 in all. Tires—Dunlop, 28 inch, 1 1/2 inch. Handle Bars—Detachable. Pedals—Detachable. Finish—Black enamel, with gold stripe. Sprocket Wheels—Detachable. Handle Bar Grips—Detachable. Fenders—Detachable. Forks—Drop, Detachable. Bottom Bracket—Ball. Head—Ball. Extra Parts—Tool Bag, Wrench, Oil Can, Pump. Unequaled for ease of operation. Wheel Base—42 inches. Weight—Complete, 35 pounds. Wheels—Interchangeable. Weight—Boxed, 40 pounds.

15000 Sold in 1898

It's as good as any wheel made. All modern improvements. Guaranteed perfect. If not found as represented, return at our expense both ways and you can have your money back on demand.

ASK US TO SEND YOU OUR FREE BICYCLE CATALOG

Send 4 cents for our large catalogue. It has everything used by a wheel.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., CHICAGO.

FREE HOMESTEADS

in Western Canada.

Settlers, farmers' sons and farmers burdened with taxes, mortgages, impoverished soil and crop failures can secure free homesteads of 160 acres each, and other lands at the low rate of $3 per acre. Yields of from 20 to 45 bushels to the acre. Lowest railroad rates; special excursions to prospectors. The best grain and cattle country in the world. Good water, fuel and building material. The Minnesota editors, who recently made the Western Canada trip, speak of it as the finest they ever saw. Their official report says: "Canada offers a better home than the United States." Write for the new Dominion Western Canada offering and pamphlets. While it seems a long way north the Canadian Pacific Railway line is far south of Edmonton, the extreme point reached Northern Minnesota, and the land is of the same character and crop yields.

For rates and full information apply to any Canadian Government Agent in the United States, or to

BENJAMIN DAVIES,
Canadian Government Agent,
124 E. Fourth St., St. Paul, Minn.

N. Campbell, Crookston Minn.
P. Johnson, Fosston, Minn.
W. V. Nugent, Villano, Minn., local agents.

YOU WANT THE JOURNAL

United States Map.

15c. A copy of our handsome map, about 20x30 inches, printed in four colors and mounted on a roller, will be sent to any address on receipt of 15 cents in postal or express money order. We cannot sell map unless wanted. GEO. H. HEAFORD, Gen. Passenger Agent C., St. P., M. & O. Ry., St. Paul, Minn.

M. M. S. POULTRY FENCING

is thoroughly interwoven but has long horizontal wires, which causes it to

A FENCE, NOT A NETTING.

Like a fence, it can be properly stretched and erected with few posts and without top and bottom rails. The cable surface and a cable running through the bottom. Each roll contains the famous M. M. S. trade mark. None other genuine.

We are manufacturers also of the following famous fences:

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE

With or without barbed wire cable. All horizontal lines are cabled.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE Ideal fence for lawns, parks, cemeteries, etc. Steel guard posts, etc. Everything the best of its kind.

DE KALB FENCE CO., 100 High St., DE KALB, ILL.

Pat. July 14, 1896. Pat. July 6, 1897.

FOR SALE BY FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

Deere Vehicles are All Right!

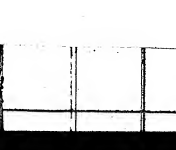
We have just received one car and have another on the way. We bought them early and on account of backward season must sell them close to mihad.

They show up a little the nicest of anything we have ever seen

If you have the slightest inclination to buy we can suit you both in quality and price.

MERIT ALWAYS WINS.

LARSEN, CARPENTER & CO., LARSEN & CARPENTER,
Fosston or McIntosh. Crookston.



SUCCESSFUL SHOOTERS SHOOT WINCHESTER

Rifles, Repeating Shotguns, Ammunition and Loaded Shotgun Shells. Winchester guns and ammunition are the standard of the world, but they do not cost any more than poorer makes. All reliable dealers sell Winchester goods.

FREE: Send name on a postal for 156 page Illustrated Catalogue describing all the guns and ammunition made by the

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

THEY THAT SIT IN DARKNESS

A STORY OF THE AUSTRALIAN NEVER-NEVER

BY JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVILS PLAYGROUND" AND "SINNERS TWAIN."

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY.

CHAPTER XXI.

"THE DARKEST HOUR IS NEAREST THE DAWN."

Next morning on awaking I could hear the go-go-burra shrieking and cackling in its happiest fashion and remember being somewhat mystified, for that bird—"the settler's clock"—never begins to assert itself and expostulate with drowsy humanity until there is some light in the sky, while as yet it was pitch dark.

Then the awful truth came crushing down upon me—I was blind! Oh, to think that I w[illegible] stars go out one by one [illegible] heavens at [illegible] of day [illegible] glow change to silver gray in [illegible] ern sky as the glor[illegible] away the ganzel[illegible] mists fr[illegible] girt and lily draped lagoons. I [illegible] never again go to the door of my tent and, spying to that go-go-burra, throw a billet of wood at it by way of playful response to its premature greeting and out of sheer light heartedness and good feeling. It had not been a passing dream. It was a stern, horrible fact.

But then came the thought of the love that I had won if I had lost my sight. That at least was mine which in this world seemed to me best worth having. My blindness mattered not to her, for she had told me that she had eyes for both of us. There was no dream about that. It was a glorious reality!

Jack took me down to the creek for a wash, and then I went over with him to the camp and sat down in the shade of a great overhanging fig tree until he was ready to come and take me to breakfast. Before many minutes I became aware of a woman approaching. I had always maintained, strange to say, that even a blind person could tell Norah Mackenzie's step, and now that sight was denied me the truth of what had been lightly said struck home. It was a light, buoyant, but firm step, indicative of her character. Instinctively I rose to my feet to show her that I was cheerful and not brooding over my misfortune—indeed that I rather rejoiced in the hope she had given me. I wished her "Good morning" and held out my hand. I could not see her in the flesh but could see her with wonderful distinctness in my mind's eye at that moment as with a shy gladness on her face she came toward me and caught up my two hands.

"Is this all you have for me?" she cried and kissed me on the cheek without more ado.

Considering how things had come about, was I altogether to be pitied? Actually my speculations that day shaped themselves into the question: Did I not owe something to my blindness, after all?

We made an early start so as to reach the station that night. The spare pack horses belonging to the surveyors and the squatter were called into use, and every one was mounted. Jack attached a checkrein to Sir Henry. So what with the former on one side and the company of the squatter and sometimes his daughter on the other the time somehow slipped so quickly away that when at noon we stopped to camp and have dinner I was taken by surprise. In the course of the afternoon we met Mooney and the other stockmen coming at a brisk pace up the creek. It seemed that some of the horses which stampeded from us when the blacks had attacked us in the cave made back toward the station. When they were seen, Mooney had taken alarm, and, leaving the station and everything in it to look after itself, started out at once with plenty of ammunition to find out what had gone wrong.

By continuous traveling we reached the station late in the evening, where we found everything as it had been left. It seemed like getting home again after the terrible experiences we had gone through in that fateful cave.

In a couple of days the surveyors, who were a capital set of fellows, left for the Macarthur amid many expressions of good will. It was arranged that after a few more days of rest and preparation we should start for Burketown in Queensland again. Chilcot was to be left in charge of the station, with four or five other good hands. By this time Gordon would be more able for the journey, as he, with his sister and Savile, was going back again overland to Tarragong. Jack, of course, would accompany me to Burketown.

At last the time came to say goodby to some of my old friends. There were Gordon—who was now fast recovering from his wounds—his sister and Savile. It was indeed a hard thing to part with them at the wharf. They had been so kind and attentive to me in my affliction, and so delicate with it all that at times I was almost inclined to forget my blindness. If the essence of true politeness is to conceal the fact that one is conferring a favor and to make the recipient lose sight of any indebtedness, then they were nature's own gentlefolk. They were starting overland the next day for Tarragong. Mackenzie and his daughter were going round to Bowen by one of Burns Philp's boats. I gave Gordon an envelope containing a £25 bank note to be given to Savile and Elsie when a certain happy event might be expected to take place. Savile, good soul, was unable to speak when he shook hands with me, but I understood him. There was no need to say anything.

Then the steamer Dugong blew its whistle. In a minute the score or so of bushmen and stockmen, with the entire population of Burketown, hurriedly recrossed the gangway and stood up [on] the wharf. Soon we were steaming down the tortuous river. In a couple of hours I was sitting upon a deck chair with Norah beside me. The cool salt sea air was blowing on my cheek, and I felt strangely well and happy. The sea had always exercised a powerful fascination for me, and it exercised some of its old wistful glamour for me now as I listened to the swish and splash of the waves breaking and coursing along the sides of the old Dagong. But at length the vain regret forced itself upon me that I could not now look upon old ocean's mystic face as it heaved in the moonlight, here with silvery flashes of phosphorescent fire and there with a yawning gulf of somber blackness. How often I had longed when in the sad voiced lonely bush to be once more within sound of its ever changing and mysterious whispers. And now my wish was granted. But, alas, I might listen to the sighing of winds and the soothing splash of waters, but it was written in the book that I was no more to look upon that dear familiar face.

Then I felt the gentle pressure of the hand that lay in mine, and I knew that some one was at her old tricks of mind reading.

"You should not think of such things," she insisted, "but when you do remember they are none the less real because you don't see them. I think to hear—to feel—them is ever so much grander. I often shut my eyes on purpose to do this."

"That's not the only thing which troubles me," I rejoined almost querulously; "it's the future—the horrible uselessness and hopelessness of the future."

"That's rather hard upon me, isn't it?" she commented.

"It would be ten times harder upon you," I answered, "if I allowed you to throw away your life on a blind man"—

"Listen to me, Dick," she interrupted, and the words came from her calmly and proudly, as if from a consciousness of her own strength, but not without the tenderness of her infinite love and trust. "I understand perfectly why you speak like this, but you don't quite know me yet. Whether you get back your sight or not won't make any difference—only perhaps I'd love you better as you are. Do you think a woman only marries a man for his eyes? Is there anything the world can give a woman in exchange for her love? There's nothing, Dick, and you know it. Didn't you tell me once that you loved me better than your own life?"

The girl had caught up one of my hands and now held it between her own. She had come so close to me that I could feel the silky touch of her hair upon my temples. She was very strong in that which makes a woman womanly. My resolutions wavered. I should not have been made of flesh and blood had I not experienced a secret sense of thankfulness in so far as I had done that which my sense of justice demanded and failed to shake the girl's constancy.

"I'll tell you what," I said, "in the meantime we'll leave things just as they are. In six months or so from now you'll be with your father in England. By that time I'll either be recovering my sight or be a hopelessly blind man. You'll have lots of time to think over matters before then, so that should you have come to see things in a different light you'll be at liberty to do just as you please, and no one will be to blame."

"Agreed," she cried gladly, with the confidence of one who has no fear of the results, and we sealed the compact in the simplest and best of ways.

And now I will hurry over the inevitable parting scene. At Thursday island the squatter and she who had become every day dearer to me transhipped into one of the A. U. S. N. boats and went southward. Jack and I caught the homeward bound mail, the Dacca, and went westward.

"In six months from now Norah and I'll be with you," said the squatter as he wrung my hands on parting. "You see, my affairs must be arranged down south first. Remember, if you have lost your sight, you've won that which is ten thousand times more precious—you know what. You've behaved like a square man in the past, and, whatever comes of it, I'm not going to interfere in the future. Norah is like what her mother was, and I'm proud of her. Keep your heart up, my boy."

As to my parting with her, I think it is one of those things that it is as well to say nothing about. What can one say? Suffice it that her last words to me as she held my hands were, "Whatever comes, have patience."

And the remembrance of these blessed words kept me patient in many of my dark hours of trial. In spite of what misogynists, pessimists, cynics, and all those belonging to that sickly and short sighted crew may say, I do not think it possible for any man to gauge to its fullness and depth the purity of motive in a true and noble minded woman.

The change came so gradually that at first it was hardly noted. Then I began to fancy myself the victim of some hallucination. It is often as difficult to convince oneself of good news as to realize some terrible misfortune, strange as it may seem. So, as at first I had been slow to realize the fact of my lost sight, I could now scarcely credit the fact that it was coming back. Then there was a trying, terrible time of doubt, when I thought that the feeble gleams of light vouchsafed me were but the flickerings of the dying power of sight ere it went out forever to leave me in a lifelong darkness. Truly, I wanted patience. No one could have been more in need of it. Looking back on those days I can see how my punishment was merited—for who was I to set myself up as suffering from a special dispensation of Providence?

At first it was as if the darkness were only a little less accentuated and complete. Then it was as if I looked from some marine depths through a great body of opaque but turgid waters and could distinguish the sickly, greenish light—the light of day—dimly through it. But that sickly greenish light, when I stood in the sunlight, became day by day clearer until, at last, turning my eyes to where the great orb of life was, I became conscious of a flood of glorious light. But the doctor of the ship put a stop to such dangerous experiments.

The thought that the power of vision was not altogether destroyed within me and that I might yet regain it roused such a wild, tumultuous hope in my heart that often it was as much as I could do to control my feelings. Had it not been for Jack and the remembrance of those dear words of hers, "Whatever comes, have patience," I think at times some of the passengers might have thought I was losing my reason in addition to having lost my sight.

CHAPTER XXII.

DAWN.

It is hard to say what I should have done without Jack on that homeward voyage. He was kindness personified, and he bore his new honors as he had done his days of obloquy—never referring to them.

One night Jack came into the smoking room where I was sitting with the doctor, a very nice fellow, like most ships' doctors, and told me, "Dick, the lights of the dear old sod are ahead of us." Next morning we were within a few miles of the coast.

Home again, and, unusual experience, snow in the channel!

Plymouth and my own people waiting for me! There were my mother and my sister Kate, the only living relatives I had. But what need to speak of such an occasion? Surely fate had mixed a strange draft for me! How much of it was bitter and how much sweet? I had lost so much and I had gained so much. Might it not be written in the book that there were yet brighter days in store?

"Hello, Kate! What brings you out here?"

For now I could "see men as trees walking."

* * * * * * * *

Home again! How strange everything was at first! At times some of the ways of civilization appeared to me absurd and superfluous. Perhaps I was a little inclined to chafe over my enforced inaction.

February was comparatively mild for that season of the year at St. Leonards-on-Sea, where my people had taken a house for the winter. I could now walk slowly about alone, and, though unable to recognize human features, could trace outlines with tolerable clearness. Oh, how sweet life was becoming again! My feelings at this period were of a nature that I do not care to write about. There are some things which, like delicate flowers, cannot be transplanted. My life was colored by the memory of one dear face, and all the current of my being set toward it. There were times when I looked upon my blindness as a blessing in disguise, for it was not hard to realize that but for it I might never have fully known the depths and purity of her great love, which had risen superior to the tragedy and wreck of my physical life. Still the prospect of recovering my sight was everything, for I told myself that had my blindness continued it would have been a crime to allow her to throw herself away on an imperfect and useless life. But now I could, with a glad heart and a clear conscience, accept the precious trust she had so nobly offered.

On my arrival in England I had gone to a great oculist. Contrary to expectations he did not give me much comfort. I almost resented it when he told me that, despite the temporary improvement in my sight, he could not hold out any definite hope of recovery. "If you get better, good and well," he said, "but you've had a hard time of it in the gulf, and the shock was a terrible one. It's as well, however, to tell you frankly that, once let there be a relapse, and it means that any vitality your eyes now possess is leaving them forever. You know the old saying about the 'flickering of the candle.'"

Oh, these were cruel words, although in all truth the great man meant them kindly enough. However, I only remembered the proverbial caution of physicians with reputations to lose and took his verdict for what I thought it was worth.

One morning I received my first letter from Norah, but am sure that no chivalrous reader would care to read it. Suffice it that its tone was cheerful, although she advised me to exercise patience. Could I not, she wrote, take up again my old predilection for story writing—reluctantly abandoned because editors were not sufficiently appreciative? I had now a unique experience to draw upon. She had heard there were typewriting machines for those whose sight was like my own, or better still I could employ an amanuensis for a few hours every day. There was nothing so conducive to happiness as a little work or having a hobby, no matter if it were only keeping rabbits.

Strange to say, what she suggested—the writing, not the keeping of rabbits—had been growing upon me for some time, until at length it had become almost irresistible. In the old days I did not realize that I was only writing about the same commonplace and hackneyed things that hundreds of others were reproducing from their colorless lives—colorless like my own—and which only a few, either by reason of the subtle spark of genius or the quickening touch of sorrow, were doing well. Now I felt that in all truth my apprenticeship had been served to the greatest of all masters—experience. I had seen what it falls to the lot of but few to see—I had heard the keynote of existence in the school of human suffering and the infinite tenderness and purity of a true woman's love—the pathos and the poetry of life. Ah, that were a song worth listening to—one that never grows old.

As soon as I resolved to take up my old pursuit again it seemed as if the workaday world was not so very far removed from me after all.

* * * * * * * *

The month of June, the town of Plymouth and the morning of the day when the great Australian liner will arrive with the squatter and his daughter on board.

Truly, I had been dealt mercifully with, for my sight had not only been partially restored, but now my bush sweetheart was coming to me not to a poor, blind, helpless man, but to one with health and strength, who did not want for his share of the good things of this life. Truly, out of evil good may come; for when sheer necessity drove me out into the wild Never-Never Land of tropical Australia I little thought that there, of all places, I should meet with her who, to me, was to prove so much.

* * * * * * * *

There is a gentle breeze rippling the waters of the channel, and the blue sky above is flecked with fleecy clouds. Stately ships, with all sails set, are gliding past to disappear again in the mysterious depths of the blue horizon. They remind one of beautiful sentient things. There is a salt sea smack, an exhilarating vitality in the atmosphere that seems to breathe new life into one.

Noon, and Jack, who is now my brother-in-law elect and has met us at the hotel to await the arrival of the boat, has strolled out with me to one of the old piers in order to kill time. It is a blazing hot day, and in two hours we go off together in the tender to meet the great mailship, and then—but my heart was too full to think of it.

We leaned against a low wall and looked out to sea. It was not much I could distinguish, but my imagination filled the void. In a minute or so we were joined by my sister Kate. I was of course glad to see her, and remarked mischievously:

"Hello, Kate! What brings you out here?"

"The same reason that brings you, sir—something in the air, I suppose," was the unblushing reply.

There was a pause for a minute, during which I rested my head in my hands, for a strange drowsiness stole over me just then. Still, seeing that the fever of expectancy for the past few nights had caused me to sleep badly, this did not strike me as odd. I became conscious of a mysterious voice in my head which sang in unison with a hand organ which kept grinding out "Autumn Leaves" in a neighboring street. The lazy lap of the water, the easy laughter of some seafaring men pushing off in a small boat sounded as if from the clouds, and the measured rasping of a saw in a carpenter's shop hard by seemed very unreal and far away. Some one grasped me by the arm. It was a second or two before I realized it was Kate.

"Dick, I've brought your green glasses. You mustn't leave them off just yet, you know. Let me put them on you, old boy, at once."

What had come over me that I should think we were some considerable distance apart instead of being close together? The voice in my head struck up another tune, and the hand organ accompanied as before. The rasping and hissing of the saw, the lapping of the water and the calls of the sailors became a confused jumble of sound. A sudden chill crept over me, my heart fluttered painfully, a horrible presence possessed me.

Was it "the flickering of the candle" the great oculist had spoken about? I found my voice and cried:

"Kate, isn't God's world very beautiful?"

"Yes, Dick," she answered, with a woman's unerring instinct. "But not so beautiful as humanity," and her arm went round my waist.

"Then, lass, I've looked my last on it and on you!"

For the candle had burned down in its socket!

As they led me back to the hotel between them the organ broke into a joyous dance, and I could hear the rhythmical patter of the children's feet tripping it right merrily on the paving stones. Oh, how full of the glory and the gladness of life were these children! And, oh, the irony of fate that should make that organ peal out, as like a prematurely old man, I passed it, "Sunshine Above," sunshine above!

Suddenly I stopped.

"Jack," I asked, "place me with my face to the sun."

Reluctantly, as it were, they turned me round until I could feel its warm rays kissing my cheeks, but there was nothing before my lifeless eyeballs but an unbroken twilight. I might in the future be able to tell night from day, but nothing more. How had I sinned that the cup of promise should have been held out to me and then dashed to pieces immediately it touched my lips? They took me into the private sitting room. There I threw myself face downward on a couch and gave way to the rebellion in my heart, just as I had done when my sight had first been taken from me. Resignation, forsooth! Let them preach it who have successfully triumphed over a living death like mine. At first those with me wisely refrained from those stereotyped words of so called comfort. They knew that a clasp of the hand and a period of significant silence could do more for a man at such a time. My mother, good soul, came and knelt by my side. "His will be done," she said, struggling to be brave.

"His will!" I cried. "When it means the ruin of my life?"

"Do you think it is not as hard for me to bear," she rejoined; "you, who are the only boy I have left?"

Oh, how ashamed I felt of myself at that moment! "Have mercy upon me, O Lord, for I am weak!" I cried.

Oh, how I hated that flickering of my dying sight! Why had it not passed from me forever so that I might have been spared the torments of disappointed hopes, the bitterness of soul? But those words of my mother made me think. If I had often regretted lacking the opportunity of proving my manhood and that better self which I believed was in every man, had I not now one chance in a thousand of asserting it? No sooner had this thought possessed me than I became like my old self.

Just then a messenger came to say that the Almora was signaled and the tender would start immediately.

I insisted on Jack and Kate going on to meet the ship. "Better tell them to go on to London," I said in my trouble. "Anyhow, it's several months since she spoke as she did about my blindness. One's mind can alter in that time. L[illegible] give her the chance of breaking with me if she wants to."

If I could not be altogether reconciled to my fate, at least I tried to thin[illegible]ber, though what it cost me to speak as I did no one can tell.

They left me alone in the room at my own request, and the minutes dragged on like eternities. I had settled things satisfactorily in my own mind and waited to know my fate. There was as I thought a murmur of voices on the stairs for the hundredth time, and again I was disappointed. Fool that I was to think that a fresh, beautiful young life could come to link itself with such a wreck of humanity! Women loved to be heroic. It was all very well and natural enough for her to come to me as she did at first, when the shock of horror on hearing of my lost sight had given way to a flood of pity. She was doubtless true to her better nature when she said that my blindness made no difference in her love. But was it to be expected that it could last forever under such conditions? She was young and time had been given her to realize calmly the folly of continuing our unfortunate attachment. Was she to be blamed if she drew back at the eleventh hour? No; it were wiser to do so. If she came, I myself would tell her so. But she would not come. Another age and then, just outside on the landing there was the sound of footsteps. One step there was no possibility of me at least mistaking; it was quick, free and buoyant. Some one knocked; my heart stood still for a moment, then throbbed on violently. I rose to my feet to show her that my manhood was not altogether dead. I found my voice, and the prosaic "Come in" became a tragedy in two words. The door opened and shut. Involuntarily both my hands went out to her, and I knew that, weakly enough, my eyes were filling with tears. Oh, what a magic there was in her presence! The conventional words of welcome stuck in my throat, but it did not matter, for in another moment her head was pillowed on my breast. "Oh Dick," she cried, "I am crying because I'm so glad! You will never, never let me go away again?"

My stern resolutions went to the winds as I held her head and kissed her on the lips.

Blindness forsooth! I was the happiest man in the three kingdoms!

* * * * * * * *

It is now some five years since my wife and I chose this quiet northwestern London suburb, where in the early spring one can throw open the windows and allow the sweet scent of flowers and the singing of birds to come in together. There are no such things as gloomy skies or fogs to the blind. My life at least is one of perpetual sunshine. Ask any one of the five and twenty Involuntarily both my hands went out to her.

blind men who sit down with me to dinner every Christmas day if he does not live in a world of his own making. For instance, my typist has just told me as I dictate these lines that there is a thick fog creeping up from the southeast. But what do I personally care for a fog? It has nothing to do with my world. In my mind's eye—that truer sight—I can see instead a great valley shaped like a horseshoe, hemmed in by magnificent terraced cliffs. There is a sky of turquoise blue over my head. There are picturesque groups of cycas and feather palms all around. The white sunlight streams down with pitiless intensity, the shadows are black as ink, hard, sharply defined, palpable things. But I could go on describing forever. A man if he has a love for nature and the beautiful can cultivate the power of observation until his brain is like a sensitized plate that will retain countless impressions. Yes, I am now in a sense quite independent of sight, and in the capacity for work—good, bad or indifferent, as the case may be—lies my greatest happiness, save one—the love that grows more precious with the years.

THE END

OPPOSES A MICROBE THEORY.

Dr. Hill, of Boston, Makes Experiments with Telephones and Claims There Is Little Danger from Them.

The popular notion that telephone transmitters are breeding places for microbes and consequently disseminators of disease is opposed in a report which Dr. Hibbert W. Hill, bacteriologist, makes to the Boston board of health.

Dr. Hill made an examination at the suggestion of the health commissioners. He reports that he found some bacilli, but not one that was harmful. He admits the possibility of infection from some telephone transmitters, and makes recommendations intended to reduce this possibility to a minimum, but his report as a whole is encouragingly negative, so far as the popular theory is concerned.

Desirous of operating on the telephones most in use, he selected two instruments from the Sears building, two from Young's hotel, three from the Exchange building, four from the Parker house, one from the Mason building, and one from the Equitable building. The transmitters were cleaned by sterilized swabs of absorbent cotton carefully prepared and guarded from outside bacilli and then rubbed on solidified serum. The serum was incubated at 37 degrees centigrade. The swabs were also shaken in distilled water and the water then injected into guinea pigs, both intra-abdominally and subcutaneously. At the end of three months the guinea pigs were chloroformed, killed, and subjected to a postmortem examination for lesions of tuberculosis and other symptoms of disease, but none appeared.

WANTS CHAMPION WHIPPED.

Jeffries' Father Said to Be Anxious to Have His Son Defeated in the Ring.

"I'm opposed to prize fighting. I don't believe in it, but Jim will keep it up until he gets thrashed, then he'll quit it. He'll keep it up long enough, but he'll get licked. But Jim's a good boy. He's no worse than the rest of you. He'll keep up his devilment till he gets licked, and then he'll quit."

These were the words of Rev. Mr. Jeffries, father of the world's new pugilistic champion as he sat in a dilapidated-looking wagon at Fourth street and Broadway the other afternoon and addressed a small crowd.

"Jim's no worse than the rest of you," reiterated the champion's father. "He'll keep up his devilment till he gets licked and then he'll come to salvation. I'd wish him to get licked if he was going to fight three minutes from now."

Laughter as a Cure.

Gelototherapeutists, says the New York Tribune, is the name given to physicians who treat patients suffering from various diseases ranging from bronchitis to anaemia by prescribing hearty laughter. A medical journal suggests that there is a great opening for physicians in studying various ways of exciting laughter, such as tickling, farcical comedies, puns, etc.

OUR NEW SERIAL,

A Race for Gold

By CAPTAIN J. H. B. ROBINSON

is a thrilling story of the adventures of a gold seeker in the Klondike regions. Love and adventure are skillfully blended, and in the end honesty triumphs and the villain gets his deserts. Just the kind of a story that will interest you.

Will begin soon in this paper.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

AROUND THE COUNTRY

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

FERTILE

Labor is very scarce and wages high here.

Gust Peterson has opened up a pool room.

County Surveyor Hamre was in town Monday.

W. W. Engle has bought out Louis Olson's barber shop.

W. F. Peterson is going to move his family to Crookston soon.

The cellar and foundation of Norman Hanson's new residence is now completed.

We are much in need of a good music teacher. This town offers a fine opening for any such.

Mr. McGuire is up from Minneapolis to have a final settlement for the system of water works here.

We have a new tailor in town, a Mr. Szwartz. He will undoubtedly do well as we were very much in need of one.

George Kronschnabel and Chas. Deicide made a business trip to Red Lake Falls in the interest of the brick yard and cigar factory.

The new machinery has all been placed in the brickyard and is in good running order. They are now turning out from 30,000 to 35,000 bricks per day.

Some unknown parties thought all hallow'een night came last week and as a result many pranks were played. Not even the mayor or marshall escaping.

The family of Brazen Duckstad have been again visited with affliction. Their 3 year old little girl died Sunday morning after a very brief illness. The funeral was held Tuesday at the Synod Lutheran church. This is the second death in the family in a little over a month.

FISHER.

Joe Jarvis returned Tuesday from his western trip.

Abe Newton, of Wig, was on our streets Tuesday.

Will Marin and family, of Crookston spent Sunday here.

Mabel Hanson, of Nash, N. D., is down visiting friends here.

E. A. Sweet is making a few improvements on his residence here.

Put gangs have started to come around so look out for your chicken coop.

Albert Tofte and N. E. Minkler went to Cass Lake Saturday to camp out for a week.

The picnic held by the Lutheran church Sunday in Williamson's grove was a success. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves.

During the storm Saturday night Mike Dziewske's barn was struck by lightning which caught fire and was completely destroyed. The loss is about $1,500, insurance was carried to the amount of $500.

The base ball team went from here over to Climax Sunday to play ball with the Climax team and when our boys arrived there, Climax had hired the Buxton team to play against us. Our boys did not put up any money, so they played a game for fun and the result was the Fisher team was defeated.

CLIMAX.

Mr. L. Stensoth Sundayed at Maple Bay.

Born on Friday last to Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hunter a baby girl.

J. M. Locken made a trip to Fargo on Monday returning Wednesday.

P. J. Ele purchased a team of broncbos from J. N. Bain on Tuesday.

Dawes How, representing Jenny Semple, Hill & Co., was here on Tuesday.

Ales. Thompson and H. F. Brown, of Crookston, were with us on Tuesday.

J. W. Bain had a car load of broncbos here on Saturday from Montana.

G. W. Schrump, our general landlord has trented the roof of Hotel Climax to a coat of paint.

A game of base ball afforded the attraction here on Sunday afternoon between Fisher and Climax. The lorner team was defeated by a score of 11 to 1.

SHELLY.

The crops in this vicinity are tip top.

Ed. Paulsrud and Theo. Neyers drove to Roleite last week.

Dr. Engstad, of Grand Forks, was in town Saturday.

Ed. and C. K. Semling passed through town last week.

Aarestad Bros. received a car load of twine last week.

Harry Little hiked over from Caledonia Tuesday evening.

Haying is now in full blast, and the weather is just fit for same.

Ole Farnseth was here in the interest of the Fosston Woolen mills.

Lewis Larson, of Hillsboro, transacted business in town last Monday.

Ed. Parshauer and Ludvig Olson took in a picnic near Halstad last Sunday.

Carpenters have been at work repainting the N. W. Elevator Co's elevator here.

C. A. Hawkins took Tuesday evening's train for Halstad, returning next morning.

Bernt Ostby and family drove up from Henderson Sunday to visit with K. J. Ostby.

A. Crowell, ex-depot agent of Halstad and R. A. Olson called on L. E. Olson Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hawkins, of Halstad, called on C. A. Hawkins, the druggist last week.

Albert and Julius Syakkeli, of Nelsville, passed through town Monday enroute to Climax.

C. A. Hawkins, A. Dusehy, K. J. and R. J. Ostby took in the ball game at Climax last Sunday.

It is rumored that Shelly will have a newspaper in the near future. Good thing push it along.

H. J. Nylus and Ole Leeland of Hillsboro talked Mutual Life Insurance in our little burgh last Tuesday.

T. E. Kilsund, of Hillsboro, was talking Deering Harvester and Buffalo Pitts threshing machinery Friday.

Wade Geo. Afflit is taking a layoff on account of illness. H. S. Trimbal is looking after the interests of the Valley Lumber Co.

O. A. and E. J. Paulsrud, of Nelsville, purchased the threshing rig of Lars Berland, deceased. This combined with the one they had before will undoubtedly increase their well known reputation for doing first class threshing.

EAST GRAND FORKS.

Jim Brown is home from Detroit.

Chas Hurst went to Crookston on Monday.

P. A. Byrnes is in Crookston on business.

Hermann Wolff went to Bemidji Tuesday morning.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. M. Brady, a girl. Congratulations.

The Klondike restaurant is being put up once more for John Trode.

N. Hingestad is having his new store fitted up in No. 1 shape.

W. C. Nash, left for Detroit Saturday night returning Tuesday morning.

N. V. Williams has put his assortment of palms in Graham's big window front.

Lundquist Barton is having an awful time with that left arm. Got vaccinated last week.

Holmes are beginning to come in from all directions. The fun for the police will soon begin.

Reports from different localities says the heat on Saturday afternoon registered 104° in the shade.

Harry Harm and Alex Peterson left Monday night for Duluth to attend the Foresters Grand Lodge.

Anderson & Hunter received the contract for building a $2,265 jail at Warren and started to work Monday.

A colored boy by the name of Kelley is in the lock-up. He is charged with assault and battery by Dave Fleming.

Cards have been received from Pomona, Cal. announcing the marriage of Miss Caroline Merriam, of this city.

Fred Nash went to Detroit with the St. Paul choir last Thursday, returning Tuesday. Fred says, when he landed in the lake, "business picked up."

EDNA.

Mike Hartnett is with us once more.

Iver Johnson is erecting a new store building.

Charles Dahlstrom is down with typhoid fever.

F. N. Hineau, of Russia, was in town Tuesday.

Dr. Sinnet, of Ada, was in Edna Sunday and Monday.

Julius Skaug is clerking in the store of E. W. Johnson.

Hans Mjelde took in the picnic in the town of Bygland last Sunday.

Dave Fulton, of Ada, was visiting with H. B. Budd Saturday and Sunday.

A. P. Hill received another car load of Deering binders and a car load of twine.

H. O. Tofsby, of Hammond, is hauling the lumber for his new dwelling house.

Mrs. Charles Welter and children and Mrs. Lizzie, of Crookston are visiting with Postmaster Welter.

Arrived last Sunday at the residence of J. B. Ball a little stranger. He's got good sound lungs says Mr. Ball.

The Union church at Edna and the church at Lockhart combined for a Sunday school picnic Wednesday. It was held in the pretty grove surrounding the home of Mr. John Scott. The finely situated picnic ground and a perfect day helped to make a most enjoyable occasion. Mr. Elwood furnished two big wagons to take the children down from Edna. The wagons were prettily decorated with branches, bunting, flags and streamers. A number of carriages brought the older ones. It was quite a respectable and pretty procession that moved out of town a little after ten. The journey both ways was made shorter by numerous songs. Quite a number came from Lockhart. Others from various directions joined in and the occasion became most enjoyable. A delightful dinner was served to which ample justice was done. Everybody ought to thank Mr. Welter for the suggestion of the picnic and the part he took in making it a success.

FOSSTON.

O. F. Carver returned from Crookston on Saturday.

The crops in this locality never looked better during this season of the year than at present.

O. L. Larson has secured a $4,000 bankrupt stock in an eastern city and is selling it at public auction.

S. C. Bagley went to Montana on Tuesday to look after his railroad contract running under the firm name of Foster & Close.

The case of Mrs. Z. Perron vs. Sorenson and Rawkiker was decided in favor of the plaintiff in justice court before K. Morold. D. H. Fisk appeared for the plaintiff and John Vig for defendant.

The long talked of base ball game between the Fosston and McIntosh twileries was played on the 23d inst. The McIntosh team consisted of a number of picked men from Fertile and other towns. The Fosston boys defeated them easily.

McINTOSH

Putting in new sidewalks is the order of the day.

Albert Bakken is down visiting us from Bagley.

Torger Landen has put up a new large barn on his farm.

Miss Julia Brevig is teaching a term of parochial school two miles west of town.

The Celeryone Medicine company is with us, with Dr. Fontaine as the head push.

Mrs. H. Koppendahl, of Fargo, visited in town with relatives during the first part of the week.

Rev. A. A. Oppegaard is present at the dedication of the new Lutheran church at Faith, Minn.

Mrs. O. C. Morken gave an ice cream party to some of her friends last Saturday evening.

Miss Ruth Steven entertained a number of girl friends on ice cream at her home on Thursday evening.

Mrs. K. Bakke departed last week for Aitkin county to be absent one month. She goes to visit friends and relatives.

Mrs. P. O. Mandt has decided to put up a commodious business structure between Everett Southmayd's and the Farmers store.

Mrs. Rev. Vander left for her home at Wild Rice last Monday after having visited in McIntosh a week with Rev. Reishus.

The base ball game last Sunday between the McIntosh boys and the wool millers, of Fosston, was a surprise to everybody—not the least to the Fostonites. Fosston astonished themselves and the "men who knew it all" by piling up five scores in the first inning, getting only one white wash during the nine innings, and ending with eighteen scores. Our boys succeeded in squeezing out fourteen, and they had to fight hard for them. Here were made in the morning, 2 3, 4, and even 5 to 1 on McIntosh.

ERSKINE.

Ole Eazen has put up an awning at his place of business.

John Kopseth visited at Crookston. John returned Monday.

Postmaster Odegaard and wife visited McIntosh Friday evening.

W. J. Dargon went to Crookston Saturday and returned Monday.

Casper Hanson's new building in South Erskine is nearly completed.

Narveson went to Crookston Friday on business and returned Sunday.

Tom Bjoseth visited at Crookston. John returned Monday.

Postmaster Odegaard and wife visited McIntosh Friday evening.

W. J. Dargon went to Crookston Saturday and returned Monday.

Casper Hanson's new building in South Erskine is nearly completed.

Narveson went to Crookston Friday on business and returned Sunday.

Tom Bjoseth visited at Crookston. John returned Monday.

John Tice and wife of Mentor spent Saturday in town doing some shopping.

Hotcer Christianson of Knute is passing around fine cigars on a brun new boy.

Daniel Anderson of the town of Knute started cutting barley Monday.

L. F. Benson is plastering his building on the east side, so it will be ready for rent soon. It will also be painted.

Mrs. Swissendahl of Crookston is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Olson.

A few of our sports took in the dance at Maple Lake Saturday evening and returned Sunday.

John Pail, the Milwaukee harvester agent, is here helping O. Narveson & Son in placing some sales.

Tom Castrich was here Saturday to fix up the scales on the St. & N. elevator, so they are in apple pie order.

Mrs. Thos. Lawrence and daughter Mrs. Catherwood arrived from Crookston Tuesday to make Mr. and Mrs. George Lawrence a visit.

Oliver Tagley came down from Rabbit Brook Friday and reports that horses are dying from some unknown disease. One party lost six.

Simon Torgerson, Mrs. Thos. Torgerson, Hilduh Wahlahl and Ars. M. H. Holte and children left for the home of Mrs. Holte's father, Mr. Jubson, in Norman county, for a visit. Mrs. Holte and children are to make a two weeks' visit.

ELDRED.

Prof. Fremstad was a visitor here again last week.

"What is it?" Who says our new coal is not all right?

A. Shouten transacted business at the county seat Monday.

Christ Lochen entertained a social gathering Sunday afternoon.

Boyer Brothers are erecting a warehouse back of their store.

Mrs. Thos. M. Boyer made a flying trip to Crookston Monday.

Mrs. Bahnsen visited at county headquarters Tuesday.

The dance at Nelsv was poorly attended on account of the storm coming up.

J. J. Nelson of Hutchinson came up last Thursday to look after business interests.

Fred Davis is having the depths of the earth's bowels explored for pure liquids.

Judging from the way farmers are hauling hay there must be a lot of it in the "swamps" yet.

Alof Arnes has about completed his barn. It makes quite an imposing sight in the neighborhood.

Charles Gilbert was visible here again Monday. He is now stationed at East Grand Forks for the Deering folks.

The North-western Elevator Company have been here for a few days raising the building, some parts of it having sunk several inches.

Machine agents from our neighboring town are thicker around here than wheat straws on the fields. Surely they must have good faith in Eldred's surroundings.

Nels Knudtson, working for O. Swanson, had the misfortune to lose three fingers on his right hand, they being caught in parts of the windmill and completely severed.

That might have terminated in a serious accident was the running away with a mower of H. O. Kappagn. Fortunately the driver was served not able to pick up the pieces scattered all over a forty acre lot.

GRAND FORKS.

Tracy Bangs is in Fargo.

Will Rund is visiting Minneapolis.

Carnival weather might have been cooler.

F. W. Wcego has gone west to sell threshers.

W. F. Griffin did some business in Neche Tuesday.

The Norg Band has changed its name to City Band.

Miss Dot. Sitzer returned Monday after home in Minto.

E. D. Allen is rustling New York life insurance out west.

George A. Bangs went to St. Paul on legal business Thursday.

Ed. Thomas has accepted a position with the Bismarck Tribune.

Fred Reileek went north Monday in search of hides and tallow.

Pat Cavannaugh is in St. Thomas, where he has a horse on the track.

Doc Wheeler has gone north with his short-gun. Look out for a record.

Fred Chamberlain of St. Paul was transacting business in the city last week.

Ray Padden was up before his "honor" Tuesday for disorderly conduct.

O. W. Barnes is erecting three new tenement houses on Selkirk avenue. They are rented.

Mrs. George A. Bangs is again able to be on the street after several weeks of sickness.

The golf sticks have arrived. Now for sport. Burke Corbet has had his cash granted.

Herbert L. and Grace Morton Flint hold the Metropolitan for this week in hypnotism.

Dr. Fiset and wife returned Sunday night from an extended trip to the east.

Bailes & Perkins have the contract for remodeling the Odd Fellows block in Crookston.

Caleb Shepherd took part in the Minto carnival. "Shep" made a hit during our carnival here.

Stillman Bushee is home from Detroit. From all appearances "Still" must have enjoyed himself.

Mrs. Sattlen, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. H. E. Mahoney, left for home in Duluth Friday.

The St. Perkins Show Company closed their engagement here Saturday night. They left for Devils Lake.

The big mastiff belonging to Al. Nugent was shipped to Towner last week. The dog swams soup to send off.

Another change on the G. N. time table is expected in regard to No. 1 and 2. It is hoped they will be put in service.

Jack Frost, who has been night clerk at the bagalls for several years, has accepted a position in New York City.

J. H. Bostrid received a letter from his daughter, Mrs. Farnsworth, which was written on a ship bound for Alaska.

The married men of the Ontario land little trouble in defeating the unmarried men in basket ball Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Clifford left Monday evening for Vermont and eastern Canada. They will go by the lake routes.

J. J. Sarsveged left for Brewster, Neb., to visit his parents. He will take in the exposition at Omaha before his return.

H. N. Wells, Clarence Hale, George Onis, Dr. Brekke and Frank Miller took in the shooting tournament at Carrollton and St. Thomas this week.

Charles Mayberg of the Golden Rule left for New York on a purchasing trip the first of the week. He expects to be gone about two weeks.

Architect Ross is completing the plans for a new Catholic church to be erected in the Polish settlement east of Minto. The structure will cost about $20,000.

Mrs. A. T. Grace is the author of an interesting article published in the Gethsemane Victor, the Episcopal church paper at Fargo, the Woman's Auxiliary.

R. J. Whipple, a wealthy lumberman of Solway, Minn., passed through the city Friday morning headed for Mountain, where he has a big contract. He brought with him a large force of men.

Miss Eva Elliott gave a farewell party Monday evening to Miss May Galvin. Miss Galvin left Tuesday morning for Winnipeg, where she will make her future home. She will be greatly missed by the young set of this city.

The carnival was the best thing that ever happened. The flower parade was magnificent in itself, and spoke very highly of the work done by the ladies. The trades parade went to show what the business "fraternity" was made of.

LENGBY.

Ole Fredrickson is getting his new house at Lengby painted.

Mrs. A. H. Johnson, who has been sick for a while, is well again.

Rev. Yarrow of Fosston preached at the Lengby pork Sunday last.

John Fredrickson bought a new Harrison wagon of O. M. Olson on Monday.

Ole Paulson left for Crookston on Sunday to attend the teachers' training school.

O. K. Ringstad is busy every day now taking orders for the Deering harvesting machinery.

O. Nelson, a Brandenvold farmer, came up Monday to visit with his brother, N. O. Nelson.

Louis Jenson left on Thursday for North Dakota to take in the harvest and threshing season.

The base ball playing at Lengby has ceased this year on account of the absence of so many of the players.

P. K. Olson of Grand Forks has been staying with Salverstrom, Olson & Co. this last week in the interest of the McCormick Harvester Co.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Satter arrived here last week from Raleigh, N. D. Mr. Satter will act as Great Northern agent while Mr. Johnson is away for a few weeks' rest.

IN THE MIDST OF ALARMS.

An Eastern Man Tells About the Difficulties of Poker Playing in the Gas Regions.

"In the west the unexpected is apt to happen," remarked an eastern man who had just returned from a business trip through the northwestern states, "and no one expresses or apparently feels any surprise at the most unlooked-for events. Now, this would seem an occurrence happen, for instance, as the following except in a country like ours:

"At the hotel where I was stopping in a town in Indiana a party of men were seated at cards. Drew poker was the game, and the betting was heavy. At the last drawing one of the party found to his satisfaction that he held a straight flush, but just at that moment there was a sharp report; a second one, much more violent than the first, tore open the door of the smoking-room, and the party of men dropped into the cellar.

"It was an explosion of natural gas, a little episode which frequently happens, I am told, in the gas regions. Although considerably bruised, not one of the party fortunately was seriously hurt, and each man held with characteristic western imperturbability his cards.

"'I call,' said the holder of the straight flush, as if the unpleasant little occurrence of being dropped suddenly into the cellar had never happened, whereupon the others showed their hands by the light of their fuses, and assisted the lucky winner to find the stakes, which were scattered all over the ground."

LAKE MICHIGAN'S DIRT WAVE.

Twice a Year a Long Line of Rubbish Appears Along the West Shore.

"Did you ever notice the dirt wave?" asked an old fisherman at the Sixty-ninth street dock the other day, as he pointed to a long black streak on the lake, which looked like the line of the horizon.

"A peculiar thing is that dirt wave," continued the old man, examining his hook, "and for many a year I've been puzzled about it."

Upon being asked to tell something about the dirt wave by the Chicago Democrat reporter, he said:

"Well, that wave comes about twice a year as regular as the season, and never fails to reach this side of the lake during the month of April. Where it comes from I can't exactly understand, and how the rubbish which it carries sticks together is a mystery to me.

"You will notice," he continued, "that as far as you can see is either direction the dirt wave reaches.

"The dirt doesn't travel as fast as common waves, another thing I don't understand, and it will be 24 hours before it reaches the shore."

"What is the dirt composed of?"

"Why, just common rubbish. Sticks, wooden boxes, old newspapers mixed up with a sort of mortar of dust and manure plants. I'll bet that wave is 100 miles long."

YOU WALK VERY FAST.

This Authority Has It That 85,000 Miles an Hour Is About Your Usual Gait.

Have you ever thought of the distance you travel while you are out for an hour's stroll?

Possibly you walk three miles in an hour, but that does not represent the distance you travel. The earth turns on its axis every 24 hours. In round figures call the earth's circumference 24,000 miles, and you must have traveled during your hour's stroll a thousand miles in the axial turn of the earth, says the New York World.

But this is not all. The earth makes a journey round the sun every year. Put the distance of our planet from the sun at 92,000,000 miles. The diameter is therefore 184,000,000 miles, and the circumference described by the earth 578,000,000 miles. In other words, the earth travels around the sun each day 1,584,000 miles, and every hour—for instance, the hour during which you took your walk—the earth moved through 66,000 miles.

So, adding your three miles of leg work to the hour's axial movement of the earth, this to the earth's orbital journey and that again to the earth's excursion with the sun, you will find you have traveled within the hour 85,930 miles.

CHANCE TO BE A KING.

It Is Only Necessary to Buy One of These Islands and Lord It Over the People.

Here was a great chance for people wishing to become independent landed proprietors. The French government offers for sale some of the little islands situated at the entrance of the bay of St. Malo, on the coast of Brittany.

Formerly, when the famous French pirates Jacques Cartier and Surcouf brought down the wrath of the English on their heads by their acts of daring, the victims tried to get near enough to St. Malo to throw firebrands and to discharge cannon into the town, but they were never able to succeed in passing the islands.

The French government has taken away the cannon from the fortified walls of Gouchee, La Pinta, La Bonfiersa and one or two other of these blocks. The state, which is always short of money, found it a needless expense to keep up this property and so offers it for sale.

The inhabitants of St. Malo are very uneasy and discontented at the proceeding. And not without cause, for, no restrictions having been put upon the sale, the highest bidder will become practically their king, be his nationality what it may.

Polk County Journal.

Historical Society

VOL. XXIII. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY AUGUST 3, 1899 NO 17

COUNTY PROCEEDINGS

Commissioners Hold an Adjourned Meeting For the Transaction of Business.

EXAMINER SNOW MAKES REPORT

Exhonerates County Commissioners From any Blame in the Matter Whatsoever.

Official proceedings of the board of commissioners of Polk county in adjourned regular session July 19, 1899.

The board of commissioners of Polk county pursuant to adjournment, met in regular session July 19, 1899, with members Fortier, McCarty, Eastman and Bratvold present.

The petition of Ole Eugen, asking to be detached from School District No. 245 and attached to District No. 3 was considered, and on motion it was ordered that a hearing shall be had upon said petition before the board of county commissioners on the 21st day of September, 1899 at 10 o'clock a. m.

The petition of T. T. Deanley, et al, for the alteration of the boundaries of School District No. 234 was considered and it was ordered that said petition shall be heard and determined by the board of county commissioners, at a meeting of said board to be held on the 21st day of September, 1899 at 2 o'clock p. m.

The offer of J. Andrist for the purchase of the w½ of lot 2, block 46, original townsite of the city of Crookston, under application for an absolute deed, was on motion rejected.

On motion the sum of $200 was appropriated to the town of Huls from the county road and bridge fund, said amount to be expended in the improvement of a certain highway in said town.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner McCarty was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the sum of $67,35, the amount of the cost and disbursement entered in the judgments against the county in the appeal cases of John Gleason, Remi Fortier, A. D. Stephens, Hugh Thompson, J. W. Wheeler, W. E. McKenzie and James Rossman, be and the same hereby is ordered paid to the attorneys of said parties upon their satisfying said judgments.

The following bills were audited and allowed:

P L Hume, meals to jurors	$ 3 85
Downer Pipe Co., blanks	1 50
R M Wade, fire-proofing vault	4 00
A Thorson, repairing furniture	57
O A Thorson, timber on ditch No. 16	2 50
Thos Young, hauling iron from bridge	2 00
G R Miller, service as coroner	12 85
G R Miller	38 76
Crookston Telephone Co, rent of telephones	4 00
Agnew Bell, clearance on ditch No. 16	10
C S Dusenbury, burial of indigent	25 00
C S Dusenbury, conducting S. Snow's examination of records	36 00
Chas. McCarty, services as commissioner	17 20

The bill of Mrs. C. M. Benson, for board of John N. McAmmet, was on motion referred to city council of city of Crookston.

The following resolution offered by Commissioner Eastman was on motion adopted:

Resolved, That the report of W. P. Snow, appointed by this board to examine the books and records ascertaining and locating the shortage occurring in said office during the official term of J. T. Beaudry as county treasurer, be and the same is hereby accepted, and the communication accompanying same is ordered published as a part of the official proceedings of this meeting.

Following is the communication referred to in foregoing resolution:

To the board of county commissioners of Polk county, Minn.

Gentlemen:—In accordance with your instructions, I have the honor to submit herewith a detailed report of my examination of the books and records of the county treasurer's office during the official term of J. T. Beaudry as county treasurer.

The work assigned me has been long and tedious, and perplexing in the extreme because of the number of years in which items of shortage appear, the varied and in many instances extremely clever methods resorted to in order to appropriate moneys of the county and escape the detection of those having access to the books and records of the treasurer's office.

I have made conscientious and painstaking effort to ascertain and locate all items constituting the total shortage, and am satisfied that the report as submitted can be relied upon as correct in all particulars.

The total shortage as charged against J. T. Beaudry as county treasurer upon the books of the county auditor amounts to $8,368.65, the items entering into same being distributed through a period of eight years as follows:

1891	$ 165 00
1892	384 03
1893	203 00
1894	545 00
1895	295 00
1896	396 00
1897	456 98
1898	5,912 36
Total	86,037 40

The records proper, specified by law to be kept between the county treasurer and county auditor, have in every instance been found correct, all fraudulent transactions appearing as the result of false and altered entries made in day books used as a memoranda of receipts and disbursements during each day for the purpose of proving cash on hand each evening at the close of the day's business.

It is by the clever manipulation of entries in this book that the person appropriating the county funds to his own use has been able to deceive the treasurer, and by changing the stubs of checks drawn to a less amount than the check itself called for, that he has been able to show the amount on deposit in banks greater than the true amount for the purpose of deceiving the public examiner and the board of audit at the times of their visitation.

All false entries and alterations with the evident purpose of concealment and deception, are made in the hand writing of one and the same person, evidently that of the person occupying the position of deputy treasurer. In my detailed report each fraudulent transaction is referred to with date of entry, number of books, page of entry and amount of shortage, rendering verification easy.

No blame attaches to your honorable body or any of its members for the condition existing in the accounts of the former county treasurer. If the manipulation of the cash and bank accounts by the deputy treasurer was sufficiently shrewd to deceive the public examiner, it could hardly be expected that others would be more penetrating.

Permit me at this time to extend to your honorable body, and to each of you, and through you, to the several county officials, my sincere thanks for the many courtesies during the process of this examination.

Respectfully yours,

W. P. SNOW.

July 19, 1899.

The following resolution, offered by Commissioner McCarty, was on motion adopted:

Resolved. That a levy be and the same is hereby made upon the taxable property of Polk county, for year 1899, as follows: County revenue fund, 3 mills; county road and bridge fund, 1 mill; county bonds and interest fund, 1 mill.

On motion board adjourned until Saturday, July 22, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m.

JOHN GLEASON,
Clerk of the Board.

OUR FUTURE POSITION

S. E. Moffett Gives Some Valuable Data in August Forum.

In an article entitled "Ultimate World-Politics" in the August Forum Samuel E. Moffett says: The ultimate limits of expansion are definitely fixed and very near. The question is not how far the national bubble can be blown in infinite space before it bursts, but what share each nation will secure in the final distribution of the earth's surface, which will be settled certainly within the next fifty years, perhaps within the next twenty-five. Some of the elements of this settlement can be clearly foreseen. There is room for only three world powers—Great Britain, Russia, and the United States. The French colonial empire is an artificial creation that cannot survive the stress of war with a great sea power. So is that of Germany. The most formidable nations of Continental Europe, outside of Russia, must sink to the rank of second or third-class powers. National power must have a solid basis of population and territorial extent; and compared to a few hundred thousand square miles each, the Continental states must inevitably be dwarfed by the powers that have had the forethought or the good fortune to spread over the globe.

And how will it be with us? The regions in Asia and Africa which Great Britain already has under mortgage will bring her empire up to not less than 16,000,000 square miles, or one-third of all the land of the earth. Russia has within easy reach, in Turkey, Persia, Central Asia and China, not to speak of Europe, enough territory to raise the total area of her dominions to fully 13,000,000 square miles. What, then, will be our position? Including Hawaii and Porto Rico, we have 3,613,120 square miles. If we annex the whole of the Philippines, we shall have 3,727,453. We may expect that, sooner or later, Cuba and the rest of the West Indies will gravitate to us. That will give the United States in all something over 3,800,000 square miles. As our national temper does not permit unprovoked aggressions upon our neighbors, there is no other important field of expansion open to us, unless Canada and Mexico should voluntarily cast in their lots with ours. If that should happen, we should have a splendidly compact domain of about 7,000,000 square miles, capable of holding its own under all conceivable conditions. But it would still rank only third in territorial extent among British Empire, even after Canada had been transferred to our side of the ledger, would still exceed it by fully 60 per cent, and so would Russia. As a nursery of white men, however, it would be at least equal to either of them.

Another alternative is a reunion of the members of the English speaking race. That would make us sharers in a dominion of 20,000,000 square miles, commanding all seas, and embracing half the population of the world. Whatever the rest of mankind might do, the people of such a domain would be secure. So far as international relations were concerned, they would have reached the ultimate stability, the planet would contain nothing outside their borders that would endanger them.

In default of these resources, if we neither acquire Canada and Mexico nor unite with our English speaking kinsmen, our position under the ever-growing definite world-settlement will be simple. We shall hold a respectable, and even secure, but modest position as the third of the three great powers. Our territory will be between a fourth and a third of that of Russia, and somewhat less than a fourth of that of the British Empire. All we can pick up in the way of stray islands here and there will be so utterly insignificant, in the presence of the carving of continents that is going on before our eyes, that to dignify it with the name of imperialism is trifling with words. If we have acquired a few hundred square miles in the Ladrones, a few thousand in Hawaii, or even a hundred thousand or so in the Philippines, we are far from becoming imperial, as that term will be understood in the world-settlement. We are merely reducing in a microscopic degree the inevitable preponderance with which that will exist when the world is permanently partitioned."

HOLDS GOOD IN EVERY TOWN.

Benefits to be Derived by Co-operation of Town and Country.

The following, from an unknown exchange, contains much good, solid sense, and the advice given in the school is rigidly observed by all who want to see our town grow and prosper:

The commercial spirit of a place is what makes and sustains it. If the farmers expect a good market for their produce, they must patronize their home merchants and not purchase their supplies of mail order houses in far-away cities. The quickest way of depressing property, either real estate or personal, in any town, in fact, of killing the town, is for farmers or villagers to do their trading elsewhere.

A town must have the patronage of the surrounding country in order to maintain its prestige and position as a commercial place.

Instead of spending their money at home, where it helps to build up their town and increase the value of their farms, many people send their money to Chicago or elsewhere under the delusion that they can buy the goods they need at wholesale prices or as cheaply as their dealer can, and thus save what they call the middleman's profit. Granted that they do obtain some things cheaper, we doubt if, upon the whole, they do any better by buying their stuff in Chicago than they would in securing it from their home or local merchants.

On the other hand, the same people who buy outside of their home stores expect their local merchants to take their butter, eggs, potatoes, wool and other farm products, and pay the highest market prices for them, but if they withhold their patronage from their local merchants they cannot reasonably expect that those home dealers will do as well by them as they otherwise would. The local merchants cannot live without local patronage. They cannot keep up their stocks and give credit to the farmers, and pay their running expenses, unless they have the trade of the people in the towns in which they live and do business.

Merchants and farmers should patronize each other, should help each other, should feel a common interest in the well of their town, if they expect to live in a prosperous community, have their sons grown, and their farm and village property increase in value.

STUDY THE CHILDREN

A Child Study Program Announced to Occupy the Time For Saturday Morning.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

An Important Meeting That Every Parent and Teacher Should Attend.

While we are willing to admit that there may be a "fad" side to this subject and that much useless speculation may be indulged in, yet there is also a plain, practical side to this matter, one which is of great moment to educators, both in school and home. By a glance at the topics to be discussed at the round table meeting on Saturday forenoon one may be convinced of this fact. Many good, loving and well intentioned parents, being engrossed in the daily cares and duties of life and trusting the momentous interests of their children to others, have scarcely stopped to think that their child needs to be studied and his tendencies, needs and his conditions met in a manner intelligent, and sympathetic manner. They have not yet comprehended the fact of the grand possibilities of that child both in a moral and intellectual direction. They do not know that there are well marked periods in his development which demand the most skillful treatment, which if neglected mean peril for the child. How often are children misunderstood by the thoughtless parent and teacher. His motive is not known and so his action is condemned, thus subjecting the sensitive nature to unjust treatment. Children's active imagination often gives them a reputation for falsehood. Defective sight and hearing are often the causes of inaccurate and apparently careless work in home and school.

In many communities efforts are being made to make the child an object of mutual study by parents and teacher. Frequent exchanges of observations are made much to the wonder and delight of both. The parent has most valuable information regarding his child's physical and mental habits and traits which he should be willing to give his teacher when he turns him over to the public school, and this the teacher should gladly receive.

On the same hand, the teacher learns much about that same child, that the parent never knew, which the parent must kindly take and consider, if he values the welfare of his child. Parents and teachers clubs are proving popular and valuable for just such interchange of experiences, and here is thus developed on the part of both a more intelligent and sympathetic effort in the training of this embryonic man and woman.

While this interest is aroused in a community, more interest will be shown in the work of the day school. More frequent visitations of parent at the school and more frequent and considerate conferences of teacher with parent, a better atmosphere will prevade the school and better sanitary, moral, and intellectual conditions will be supplied.

Then too, a community will demand that those who direct the affairs of the school be men and women of high character, who make the interest of the school paramount to any personal or other motive.

The matter of what the children read, street conduct, school attendance, companions, general training in good citizenship will then find a place in the plans of parents and teachers, and many other practical themes will arise. Parents will also find time to devote to the consideration of their children's welfare, and may even in time, give them as much attention as they do to rearing of their blooded stock.

The only conditions necessary to success in the work of local clubs is for a few interested people to begin the work and trust to practical good sense to direct the study.

If the command "Know Thyself" is important, that to know thy child is an hundred fold more important.

THE BOARD OF APPEALS.

Organization of a Board Created by the Last Legislature.

The board of appeals on the inspection of grain, consisting the joint boards at Minneapolis and Duluth, held a meeting in the office of the state railroad and warehouse commission Saturday. P. F. Greenleaf, of the Minneapolis board, was made chairman, and F. W. Eva, of Duluth, was chosen secretary. The other members of the board present were H. B. Bjorge, J. K. Stone, Alexander McKinnon and Charles Malmquist.

The meeting was called by the railroad and warehouse commission to consider matters that pertain to the work of the new year by the grain inspection department. Rules proposed for the requirements of work by the grain inspectors were discussed. The present rules are not quite comprehensive enough to cover all the duties, and some amendments and additions were suggested, but action was deferred until the next meeting of the board, which will be held on Aug. 10, at the office of the Minneapolis board of appeals for the purpose of formulating rules and standards to govern the grading of grain for the ensuing year.

All questions of inspection and standard of grain which have heretofore been under the jurisdiction of the railroad and warehouse commission will now involve upon the board of appeals for settlement.

The board of appeals was appointed by Gov. Lind, under an act of the last legislature. In all matters involving doubts on the part of any grain inspector as to the proper grade of any lot of grain under the standard or rules of inspection, or in case any owner or consignee or shipper of grain or any warehouse manager shall be dissatisfied with the decision of the chief inspector, or any of his deputies or other inspectors, an appeal may be made to the board of appeals in the district where the inspection was first made, and a decision of a majority of said board of appeals shall be final. The railroad and warehouse commission is authorized under the law to make all rules governing such appeals and to fix the fees for the same.

TEACHERS' TRAINING SCHOOL

Will Close Its Four Weeks' Session Saturday.

The closing days of the Polk county summer school are being occupied with vigorous efforts to keep the work moving at a high speed.
